Anti-Unionists Ignore Frankness and Truth

Historically, there is no difference between the English employer of four centuries ago and the present-day American employer who opposes trade unions.

The object of the two are identical, but their methods differ.

The English employer did not camouflage his opposition to trade unions. He openly declared that they were conspiracies. He denied individual liberty and thus enslaved the group.

The American anti-unionist would accomplish the same purpose by favoring individual liberty and then make group slavery possible by court decisions that the legal act of an individual is illegal when done by a collection of individuals.

The Montana state supreme court has termed this reasoning "legerdemain."

The American anti-unionist has also revived the centuries-old scheme of holding workers to their tasks by making strikes criminal.

One governor in a middle western state, who has harked back to the time of Queen Elizabeth, has been widely acclaimed and was actually seriously considered as a vice-presidential nominee last summer.

He and other advocates of "can't-strike" legislation are given first-page publicity by "molders of public opinion" who act as though they have not read history—or, rather, that no one else has.

These exhorters of liberty refuse to distinguish between the shadow and substance of liberty.

They fool no unionist by their professions of regard for trade unionism-while stripping trade unionism of its greatest reserve—the strike.

They fool no unionist with their essays on the evils of strike-

They fool no unionist with their essays on the evils of strike—the workers too well know the sacrifice and suffering to their little ones when they resist injustice.

They fool no unionist by their silence against wrong and their outcry when they are inconvenienced.

The history of every nation testifies that the voice of protest can not be stilled by force.

Workers will resist that policy, whether it be brutally frank or whether it be garbed in the sophistry of present-day Americans who mock every democratic ideal with their pleadings for and twistings of a Declaration that stands as an epoch in the lives of all men since 1776.

To these Americans "justice" is but a shibboleth. They respect nothing but power, and only through power will they surrender control of their employes' lives.

Trade unionism is that power! Agitate! Educate! Organize!

Open-Shop Drive Exposed

Striking out straight from the shoulder and registering a blow that would be a "knockout" in any fair fight, the National Catholic Welfare Council has laid bare the plot to Prussianize American industry and called the hands of the un-American plotters in a way that admits of no come-back. For this signal service to Americanism, the thanks of all good Americans, regardless of creed or race, should go out to the fearless men who make up the Catholic organization.

"The evidence shows," declared the statement of the Council, "that in its organized form, the present drive is not merely against the closed shop, but against unionism itself, and particularly against collective bargaining."

The Council tears the rotten mask of pretense of "Americanism" behind which the open-shop plotters are hiding, leaving them no leg to stand on. The contention—false though it be—of some "open shoppers" that they do not object to their employees belonging to unions is ripped wide open.

"Of what avail is it," the statement asks, "for workers to be permitted to become members of unions if the employers will not deal with the unions? The workers might as well join golf clubs as labor unions if this 'open-shop' campaign is successful."

Any Western Union employee can testify freely that the "open shop" in that concern's offices is in reality—as it is everywhere—a "CLOSED open shop." No union member employed by that Prussian concern dares let the fact become known.

"The open-shop drive," the statement concludes, "is a threat not only at welfare of the wage earners but the whole industrial structure of peace and order."

That statement is not only a clear statement of fact, but a warning as well.

The Russian Czar was unwilling to give his subjects the tiny bit of freedom they asked for. He was the original "open-shop" advocate of our day. The Russian people, maddened by unbearable conditions, struck out viciously and toppled over the whole social, political and industrial order.

The Russian people struck out blindly—achieving a measure of chaos at the same time they achieved freedom.

American workers—educated as they are, even to a greater extent than the men who rule American industry—will not strike out blindly and will not produce chaos. But, if their natural, constitutional American rights are much longer denied and their efforts at peaceable victory for right and justice frustrated by injunctions, military and political as well as industrial oppression, they may be expected to—and certainly will—strike out hard enough to effectively end once and for all time the despotic power of capital as at present wielded by ignorant brutes in high place in America.

The doom of anarchic, irresponsible and inhuman domination of American political, social and industrial order is sounding.

Labor and the Profiteer

A vast quantity of propaganda, disguised as "news," is filtering into so-called newspapers announcing enormous cuts in the cost of living. There have been some isolated drops of importance, mainly in articles classed as "luxuries." The real necessities of life have dropped only to an insignificant degree.

Labor was made the "goat" during the late war: wages rose slowly, painfully and almost imperceptibly, while living costs shot upward by leaps and bounds.

A family of five, according to authentic figures, cannot maintain itself in fair comfort and decency on less than $2,500 a year. This figure is not likely to change.

Since 1915, the price of clothing went up 177 per cent; rents from 40 to 200 per cent; food prices 102 per cent, with some articles rising more than 1,000 per cent. Wages, during the same period rose from 10 to 40 per cent. Labor has been vastly cheated during the past 5 years—outraged, slugged and robbed. Now that living costs drop five and ten per cent, labor is being asked to stand for 15, 20 and 25 per cent reductions in wages.

The war in Europe is over; international thievery has been greatly lessened; labor is now free to pay some attention to the flag-waving thieves of America and mete out to them some degree of justice.

Unemployment and Wage Reduction

Unemployment is spreading again and the prospects, for labor, include a bitter winter and much moaning over the forgotten promises of "a square deal after the war."

In Massachusetts, one out of four are unemployed; in Chicago, five men compete for every three jobs. The condition is rapidly becoming general.

No one should be deceived as to the impelling reasons for this wave of unemployment. Factories whose order books are filled with gilt-edge orders are closing, remaining so for short periods and re-opening with reduced forces at lower pay, continuing to add more workers at still lower pay. The idea is to break the union scales, demoralize the workers' organizations and vastly increase the unbelievable dividend rates—from 100 to 1,000 per cent—of our big basic industries and corporations.

Sowing such a whirlwind as this, industry and business may expect to reap tornado harvests. There is nothing strange about the overwhelming wave of "crime" throughout the country. Men are no longer willing to starve and see their babies die because of the whim of irresponsible industrial autocrats.

Meanwhile, the legitimate organizations of labor are preparing for the finish struggle that is coming. There will be no lowering of American standards, further than they have already been lowered as a result of labor's war-time sacrifices. Labor will fight; meet power with greater power; money with money; lies with truth; Prussianism with Americanism.

When the clouds have blown over, America will still be America and the population of Amerongen will perhaps be increased.

The Steel Octopus

American workers who looked on at the struggle of the steel workers last year as being a struggle separate and apart from their own struggles for freedom have been given a rude awakening.

Flushed with victory over the peons of the steel cities, crazed with insane lust for more and ever more power and determined once and for all to make America "safe for plutocracy," the steel czars are invading other fields of industry and demanding that other employers join in crushing labor or themselves go under.

Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, blithely admitted his company's part in this conspiracy before a meeting of the New York State housing commission. Structural materials are not being sold to contractors and erectors employing union labor.

Eugene Grace made this statement—or confession—and walks the streets as a free man. As yet there has been no movement to arrest and sentence him to the penitentiary for life for inciting to revolution; there has been no move to incarcerate him in an asylum for the insane.

And yet the actions of the steel barons in attacking the labor unions—recognized by thoughtful citizens of all classes as the sole remaining bulwark between the great powers, including America, and Bolshevism—are as dangerous, aye, far more dangerous, than any plan ever formulated by Communist or Bolshevik. His sin, in the opinion of men who know to what it will lead, is far more destructive of the existing order than any act or word of Bill Haywood ever came near being.

America is a democracy. Let us insist that wealthy men whose views are subversive of law and order and threatening to American institutions take their places in jail with the Haywoods and Rutherfords—or free the latter as harmless citizens.

"Our Union" Not "The Union"

To speak of a union as "the union," meaning something apart from ourselves, is a misnomer. "Our union" is more to the point. It is as we make it, and it cannot rise higher than its units. But yet we have fashioned it fairly well. Our union, like any other human agency, occasionally makes mistakes, but in comparison it will show advantageously with any institution of the kind, either benevolent, religious, or social. Its road has been a rocky one, but it has grown all the stronger and healthier for the knocks it has received. In its early days, derided by the press and pulpit, persecuted by monopoly, laughed at by politicians and buffeted now by panicky gales or bayoneted again by military, our union has marched serenely on, bringing down its tormentors, making supplicants of its enemies. In the past decades, thanks to the veterans who have gone on before unwritten and unsung, our union has seen a mighty change. The columns of the press thrown open, searching, competing for its doings; academicians, science, art, espousing its cause; the church rapping at the door for admission; popular magazines, dramatists, adopting its role, courting its favor.

Our union today is a determining factor in all social functions, a main artery of the pulse of trade, of commerce, of society. It raises wages, prevents reductions, checks strikes and lockouts from the mere fact that it is. It promotes fraternity, sociability; it fosters temperance and liberality. Above all, it is an educational force.

Our union knows no sectionalism. It is the embodiment of democracy; it knows no creed, rank or title. It scoffs at the cheap snobbery of wealth and rejects its charity; for the self-styled "sets" and "upper tens" it has a healthy contempt, and upon the tinsel and brass of their striped defenders it bestows its scorn.

Our union is of the people. We glory in its achievements, and we love its principles.—Samuel Gompers.

Tennessee and Teachers

There has been much opposition, in certain quarters, to the tendency in late years, on the part of civil service employees, teachers, firemen, policemen, etc., to organize and bargain collectively. Whatever the words used in the objection formula, the root motive is the same: Divide and conquer. Singly, these public service employees are heroes and heroines—the backbone of "American" institutions; but let them ORGANIZE and voice, through chosen representatives, their desire for decent shelter, comfortable clothing and real food—presto! they are become beastly Bolsheviki!

The people of Tennessee, according to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, pay its sheriffs for feeding inmates of jails the sum of 75 cents a day per prisoner, or $274 a year. The same grand old Southern state, with its traditions of "chivalry," etc., pays the noble, self-sacrificing women and men who teach the children of the rural sections an average of $258 a year—$16 a year less than is expended on the food of a prisoner.

It is needless to add the two obvious facts: Tennessee rural teachers work under "open-shop" conditions; the State of Tennessee shines brilliantly near the top of the list of states noted for high percentage of illiteracy.

The Lame Ducks in Our Ranks

By T. A. Pinson

In writing this article I am inspired by the workers side of the controversy, the good of the union, and writing as a member who has held a continuous union card "Since Organized," much of the time an annual.

I am writing in the hope of making it easier for the next committees who go to "the front" to negotiate new and better schedules for those they represent. I believe also it will obliterate some of the stock arguments in favor of "the printer," especially in press work.

When the committee goes to the management to negotiate a schedule they must carry on their backs the "lame ducks"—they are few, thank God, but they are always there—who habitually show up late to work; take "fifteen" when they are given the "ten" their contract calls for; manage to be five minutes or so late getting back from lunch; and some who occasionally let liquor get the better of them for two or three days, thereby entailing the expense of railroad fare and hotel bills sending some one to relieve them or placing of an operator who "does the best he can" to care for the client until the regular man "comes out of it." When the committee begins to talk of an honest day's pay for an honest day's work, these things are brought to their attention. What do they say? WHAT CAN THEY SAY? When they assert, which is the truth, that the overwhelming majority of the employees do not do these things, they are reminded that one or two "lame ducks" can hold up the entire circuit; that the chain is only as strong as its weakest link.

Follows on their heels, or too often comes before them; salesmen for printer systems with the argument that "machines start at the prescribed starting time; they don't overstay 'tens' or lunchtime; they don't get drunk and lay out two or three days; they don't get into arguments delaying report or messages."

What is the answer? Invective or railing against these things, "cussing out" somebody or keeping still about these things will NOT solve these problems and THEY MUST BE SOLVED if we are to gain the full fruits of our labor! It is true that the vast majority are conscientious workers and strive to render an honest day's work in the hope that they may receive an honest day's pay. These should do everything possible to weed out those who do not do an honest day's work and yet expect an honest day's pay. Do everything you can to make it a disgrace to do these erratic things; make those who do them feel that they are outcasts until they mend their ways. THEY ARE STUMBLING BLOCKS TO YOUR OWN SUCCESS; THEY ARE OBSTACLES TO THE WELL BEING AND PROGRESS OF THE UNION, and we have apologized for them too long. truth is they not only "short-change" their employers, but nearly always are behind in their union dues; their assessments are paid grudgingly, if at all. every circuit has one or two of them. They steal from the effectiveness of the Union movement; they dodge their share of support to the union; and they besmirch the record of the union, whose principles are working out the problems of how to make it possible for the workingman to rear and educate his children, to maintain an AMERICAN home, and to lay by something for a rainy day. When they tell you they don't have enough to pay their dues, and yet maintain an automobile, pay $12 to $15 a quart for whiskey and spend money on women which should go to their home, TELL THEM THEY LIE. Keep everlastingly after them until they are ashamed and turn over a new leaf.

I am very well aware that this article will bring down wrath; but it is something which should be discussed and remedied. And now, critics, GO TO IT.

Labor's Armageddon at Hand

By Art Rickes Graham

As the New Year opens and Labor takes stock and begins to lay plans for the greatest struggle of its history, it is well that we pause, take note of our resources and count the effectives of the enemy.

Labor's strength is the strength of Christianity.

Labor's cause is the cause of the great mass of toiling men, women and children of the world, of all time.

Labor's goal is the goal of Christ-the Brotherhood of Man.

With honest capital we have no quarrel. With constructive capital, we wish to—and are—rendering effective co-operation. Employers who try to adhere to the Golden Rule, join hands with us and prosper, as we prosper.

But with dishonest, anarchic capital—with those employers who seek to overthrow American institutions, destroy American ideals and rob the toilers of those liberties for which our fathers died in years gone by, and for which our sons and brothers died in France—with such employers we are at war eternally. With such employers we must remain at war in order to fulfill our historic mission: to establish and maintain democracy in industry, to further education, to provide better things for our children and to raise the general level of all humanity. Only when ALL employers of labor have disowned Prussianism and given renewed loyalty to American ideals, can we afford, in honor and decency, to rest on our oars.

America has been swept by a wave of reaction and every phase of American life has been engulfed. Un-American employers are in the saddle in industry; their "Open Shop" jabber is being heard on all sides. The reactionary employers, closely organized and with unlimited capital, are attempting to compel the more liberal employers to break with the unions. The czars of the great "basic" industries are mobilizing to drive out of business every employer who refuses to worship at the "Open Shop" shrine. Congress—controlled by these alien-minded "gentlemen"—is to be forced to pass anti-labor legislation. Already, unheralded and in a manner that electrified Washington, the Senate has passed a bill forbidding strikes against "interstate commerce." At the time this is written, an effort is under way to repeal the bill; but whether now repealed or not, it will again come up when the spirit of anti-Americanism again rears its slimy head in the new Congress this spring.

Labor cannot fight capital with all of the weapons that capital uses; we must examine the weapons we have and put them to the most effective use we can.

Corrupt employers may use gunmen and shoot down workers without the need of paying any penalty; they may corrupt legislatures and secure anti-labor laws; they may bribe the press into making vicious attacks against unionism, thereby convincing the unthinking that union members are rufflans, aliens, "reds," etc.; they may close their plants and be hailed as heroes, while labor, attempting to do the same, meets the injunction and skilfully drawn wails from "kept" newspapers about "the interests of the public"; they may bribe the judiciary, with gold or high place, into nullifying the law and what rights we already enjoy; they may call out troops and shoot us down—we and our wives and children—in the interest of "law and order."

Facing such Prussian tactics, labor can use only these weapons: Our money, freely given; the moral suasion inspired by the justice of our cause and the fact that our position is endorsed by the Constitution and law; a counteracting publicity of Truth against lying propaganda; our political strength, which is far in excess of that of our opponents. More potent than any other weapon—we can use our solidarity; our unity of purpose, our unity of thought, our unity of action. We are the majority and, through unity, are invincible.

Having examined the enemy and our own army as a whole, let us examine OUR OWN DIVISION—the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

We are firmly entrenched in every telegraph system in America and Canada, with the exception of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies and the Associated Press. Our present positions are practically impregnable, or have been so considered, because our employers enjoy greater prosperity and more efficient service by co-operation with the C. T. U. A. But if pressure is to be brought on those employers with whom we now deal——? We must prepare for any emergency and at the same time COUNTER-ATTACK and carry those positions still dominated or partly held by the enemy.

1921 is the year of flux. No organization or movement can stand still this year. Either they will go forward or go under. It is the will of the few thousand loyal and devoted men and women who make up the C. T. U. A. that their organization shall be one of those which go forward. It is not in the men and women of Canada and the United States to heed any call to retreat. We can thank God—and the last convention—that the commanding officers of the International are men who served in an army in France in which "there was no code for retreat." We can also be grateful that the present membership is composed of men and women who have consistently been the "backbone" of the union—men and women who would hold it a privilege as great to starve and die for their cause as did Terry MacSwiney for Erin's.

This is written by one of the "rank and file"—a buck private—who is weary of seeing the burden of the union carried by one or two men at Chicago and the loyal "baker's dozen" scattered throughout Canada and the U. S. It is written with a view to reminding other "buck privates" that ours is a DEMOCRATIC army and a VOLUNTEER army. It is ours to order the commanding officers to issue the "forward march" call. There are no conscripts among us; we enlisted to fight for freedom and humanity.

It is unnecessary here to tell YOU what the union has accomplished. Look at your schedules. And besides, Bobby Wise and Charlie Hill (God rest his soul) have told you time and again: "The hours have been greatly reduced; wages vastly increased; privileges established."

For these benefits WE HAVE NOT PAID. The "brass pounders" of years past paid for us—Charlie Hill, George Towne and others—many others. The dues we pay are insignificant—the printers pay a minimum of about $32 a year, while we pay from $8 to $12; and the Typos get no more than we. Our treasury is in no condition for either defense or offense. Funds are sorely needed to complete the organization and scheduling of the Associated Press and Postal Telegraph. This work can be completed THIS YEAR, if everyone of us puts a shoulder to the wheel.

To rehabilitate our treasury and establish this organization fund, a movement has been started, endorsed by several press circuits, to VOLUNTARILY pay into the International treasury 50 cents a week for the first three months of 1921. A total, for each, of $6.50. Many members have pledged themselves to pay more.

Each local, through its treasurer; each system division or circuit, through its chairman, should join in this movement. Let each member, either once a month—or by full payment at once—send his chairman the contribution, stating it's for the "defense and organization fund," the fund to be sent to International Secretary-Treasurer Paul Schnur, who would be able to set aside a page in the Journal to give credit to each contributor the amount he sends in.

And this is a good place for the unorganized telegraphers to do their bit. The movement is mainly in their interest. Western Union, Postal, Associated Press telegraphers should send in all they can; if their names can't be used, Secretary Schnur can credit it as they wish. But swell the fund and DO IT NOW.

Boys and girls: Let's give ONE YEAR of thought and concentrated effort for the C. T. U. A.—it has given us, God knows, enough to warrant that much.

Let's be unanimous in meeting this call for VOLUNTEER contributions of 50 cents a week; let's go after new members; let's boost the union to every telegrapher; let's write letters to non-union telegraphers we know, everywhere; let's go ahead and complete the organization of the A. P. and Postal and have them scheduled this year. Let's ALL OF US do these things this year and as sure as day follows night, by the beginning of 1922, the C. T. U. A. will stand linked up with every telegraph system from the North Pole to Panama and the dream of our generation will have come true.

If there are any who prefer not to join in this movement, there will be no criticism of their decision, by we who are willing to pay for what we get. We realize that it is not given to all of us to see things as we see them—nor to realize that we get out of life (honestly) only what we are glad to put in. But if anyone knows any better investment than a card in the C. T. U. A., with the dividends and benefits it brings, they should take it to Wall Street and take their places in "the seats of the mighty."

Readjustment Vs. Labor

By Guy H. Blakeley

"Labor faces a year of solemn portent," Samuel Gompers declared January 1st, discussing the outlook for the year.

"But," warned the veteran head of the American Federation of Labor, "let it be repeated on every occasion, to those who seek, by whatever means, to restore the weakening grip of autocracy in industry, there must be and there will be every possible legitimate opposition on the part of labor.

"The great forces of reaction, of greed, of organized plutocracy, have thrown their challenge into the arena. This challenge is backed by power. No meekness of spirit, no smiling countenance of moderation will serve to meet this challenge For this hour there is needed the stern spirit, the set features, the earnest will of fighting men."

At this hour of historic progress the relations between employers and employees throughout America are seriously affected by a campaign which is being waged for the open shop policy—the so-called "American plan" of employment.

These terms are being freely used to designate establishments that are purely anti-union. Obviously, a plant of this type is not an "open shop" but a "closed shop"—closed against workers who are affiliated with labor unions.

Many disinterested persons have become convinced that an attempt is being made to destroy the organized labor movement. Following a conference in New York, thirty-one Christian denominations, representing more than 19,000,000 church members, are on record as opposing the movement to destroy organized labor in America.

"Any such attempt," says a resolution adopted by the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America, "must be viewed with apprehension by fair-minded people.

"When an applicant for work is compelled to sign a contract pledging himself against affiliation with a union, or when a union man is refused employment or discharged on the ground of union membership, the employer is using coercive methods and is violating the fundamental principle of a real 'open shop.'

"Such action is unfair and inimical to economic freedom and to the interest of society. It therefore seems incumbent upon Christian employers to scrutinize carefully any movement, however plausible, which is likely to result in denying to the workers such affiliation as will in their judgment best safeguard their interests and promote their welfare, and to precipitate disastrous industrial conflicts at a time when the country needs good will and co-operation between employers and employees."

Many concerns are forcing the price of labor down by shutting down their plants or stores and "taking inventory." In Detroit this rather painful process of "readjustment" appears to have struck the hardest. Christmas Day found over 50,000 skilled workers seeking employment, when the great auto industries shut down; New Year's found considerably more than 30,000 additional workers idle, when Ford's great plant shut down indefinitely.

To the workers, the Nestor of the American labor movement issued this New Year's message of preparedness:

"In this hour give hope to humanity, give strength to the cause of freedom, Grit your teeth and organize! 'Labor organized is invincible. BE INVINCIBLE!' In defense of liberty and justice and freedom and democracy, be unbeatable."

Commercial Operators Need Organization By J. L. Rapp

Some one once remarked, "Things must get worse, in order to get better," and to a certain degree he was correct. This fact was clearly demonstrated in the latter part of October last, when conditions under which operators working for the Postal struggled, became such that the men simply refused to work.

The result of this unauthorized and unorganized walkout was a TEMPORARY BETTERMENT of the conditions which the management at that time proposed.

As the matter now stands, these conditions are slowly but surely assuming those then advocated by the management, and which was the direct cause of the walkout, and unless the commercial telegraphers of the country come to the realization (and that quickly) that in "union there is strength," history will repeat itself, and a few more good commercial operators (as in the case of Messrs. Heath and Lawson) will be driven to seek other employment, while the rank and file will again become the pawn in the struggle of Labor vs. Capital.

This process of elimination will continue until such a time when every commercial telegrapher not only holds a card in the C. T. U. A. himself, but can demand that his "neighbor" and the man "on the other end" also holds one.

For one or the other of the many reasons which can always be shown when adopting a "sliding scale policy," men are being discharged or laid off, with either no reason given at all, or the time-worn ones "for the benefit of the service," or "reduction of force," both reasons being merely subterfuges, and given as a sop to the discharged men.

These men, when seeking employment in other cities, then become victims of the "sliding scale," which is too well known to need further explanation.

What is the remedy?

There is only one: DO NOT BE SATISFIED WITH JUST HAVING A CARD YOURSELF—that's not enough. See to it that the fellow next to you also has one. The officials of the telegraph companies, and I may add most others employing telegraph operators, are lying awake nights devising ways and means to keep you in a position where you can't call your soul your own.

They will keep you from organizing by every means at their command.

It is a duty you owe to yourself and your fellow men—not to mention your duty to the loved ones dependent upon you—to protect yourself against this tyrannical injustice, this inhuman weapon—the sliding scale.

The railroad telegraphers are enjoying the benefits of their organization, and are reaping the reward of their long struggle to organize the railroad operators.

The telegraphers of the different press associations (with the exception of one) are also well aware that in order to cope with capital they must maintain and support their organization, and see to it that their fellow employes are also members. The one exception is also deriving the benefits of the other organizations, without contributing to the support of either organization.

The broker telegraphers have finally seen the light, and the strides they have made toward a 100 per cent organization in the past few months has electrified the hosts of labor.

All that is required for the commercial telegrapher (and by that I mean all telegraphers not included in those mentioned above) to place himself on a plane with others of his craft, is to show some interest in his organization and make use of every available opportunity to induce a non-member to join.

If each member of the C. T. U. A. would take it upon himself to secure one application between now and February 1st, they would never again be forced to face a situation such as confronted them on October 18th, 1920.

A little intelligence, pep, enthusiasm and manhood will do the work. Everybody get busy.

The Industrial Conflict

(Sidelights on the Lockwood committee's investigation of Garyism)
(By the New Republic)

Not the least useful of the many useful exposures which the investigation of the Lockwood Committee has uncovered is that of the underlying tendency and purpose of the "open shop" campaign. That campaign poses as an attempt to maintain the equal right to employment of all workers, no matter whether they do or do not belong to a union. Mr. Gary in his testimony before the Senate Committee so interpreted the policy of the Steel Corporation, and President Grace of the Bethlehem Steel Company in response to Mr. Untermyer's question repeated some words to the same effect. People who were familiar with the actual policy of Mr. Gary's and Mr. Grace's corporations knew the hypocritical falsity of this interpretation. They knew that these companies have refused, wherever possible, to employ union workers and that the object of the "open shop" campaign was to destroy the power and influence of the unions and to leave the individual worker isolated and unprotected in his negotiations with huge capitalist combinations.

The most powerful and wealthy group of private capitalists in America has declared a war of extermination on organized labor. * * * * *

Hitherto its influence has not extended, except by a contagion of example, beyond the confines of its own plants. But now in the case of one of the most important of its products, it refuses to do business with builders who handle that product by means of union labor. • • • • • •

This declared policy which is clearly the spearhead of the "open shop" campaign is a novel and portentous development in American business. The Steel Corporation has always been anti-union and has consistently contrived to reduce the number of union laborers employed in the steel industry, but it has never attempted to impose anti-unionism upon other industries. * * * * * * *

If they are successful in exterminating unionism they will, we believe, necessarily exterminate at the same time the independence and vitality of American public opinion and the liberties of the American people.

The outcome of that conflict and its merits is a matter about which no patriotic American can afford to be indifferent, ill-informed or neutral. * * * * * * *

The New Republic believes unionism to be right in much the same sense that Negro emancipation was right, and anti-unionism to be wrong in much the same sense that Negro slavery was wrong. Negro slavery like anti-unionism is not incompatible with a considerable amount of bodily comfort and individual happiness on the part of the slave or the non-union worker, and under American conditions many non-union workers have had the opportunity not only of being comfortable and happy but of leading lives of some independence and dignity. Yet it is true on the whole that the wages of non-union workers rarely rise above the subsistence level and that his employer usually has an interest in keeping him dependent, apprehensive about the security of his job and uneducated except in a dull routine of specific machine labor. Such is the effect and the purpose of the "union shop."

On the other hand, unionism like negro emancipation means a start in a better cause in an essentially liberating and educative direction. It places in the hands of the wage-earner some security in his job and some control over his fate as a worker. * * * * * *

Unionized Press Men Inaugurate Organization Clubs

Pledge 50 Cents a Week Each

Fund to be used in organizing A. P.

The Unionized press telegraphers of the United States and Canada are determined to have an A. P. committee accompany them when they go in for schedule revision next summer.

A movement has been launched by I. N. S. men which, if supported by United Press, Universal Service and Canadian Press brothers, will build up an A. P. organization fund which will ensure sending out a competent organizer, who will devote his entire time to organizing those Associated Press men who have not yet been convinced they are standing in their own light.

The extreme importance of this meritorious movement will readily be sensed when one takes into consideration the fact that there are at least 500 scheduled press telegraphers in the United States and Canada. These men, giving less than one-half hour's pay each week for a period of three months would pour into the A. P. organization fund approximately $3,000. This sum would enable us to organize the A.'P. solidly—800 operators—and 300 independent press men working for small associations, such as the Tribune News Service, Philadelphia Public Ledger, Consolidated News Service, etc. Thorough organization of this group of workmen would mould 1,200 men into an organization that would be able to bring about a compatible universal press scale.

The following letter gotten up by prominent I. N. S. men, has already been subscribed to with wonderful enthusiasm by three circuits in the splendid I. N. S. service:

We, the undersigned members of the voluntary circuit clubs, hereby subscribe ourselves to the movement to give 50 cents per week (almost a half hour's pay) to the C. T. U. A. to be set aside as an intensive organization fund in behalf of all union telegraphers for the purpose of supplying a paid full-time organizer to concentrate his efforts to solidify organization of all press telegraphers in the United States.

The C. T. U., A. through its untiring efforts, has given press operators in the last seven years something like from 4 to 7 hours per week, in subscribing to this movement we are giving our union but a small fraction in return.

The starters of this movement hope that United Press and Universal Service operators will follow by forming similar clubs. Approximately 500 union telegraphers are employed by the four unionized concerns, which means $250.00 per week to be derived by the 50 cents a week club idea—a sum sufficient to pay a skilled organizer $50.00 per week and defray all traveling expenses.

Come on form your clubs! Fifty cents a week is but a few pennies—all can afford it. Safeguard your own interests by solid organization—show your unionism by giving 50 cents a week towards putting a union card in every press operator's pocket.

Let the slogan be: "A. P. SOLID BY JUNE 1, 1921."

G. N. W.-G. T. P. Amalgamation

Becomes Canadian National Telegraphs

On January 1, 1921, the Great North Western Telegraph Company and the Grand Trunk Pacific, of Canada, were amalgamated and taken over by the Canadian government. The government combination is known as the Canadian National Telegraphs.

The old G. N. W. was organized in 1881, when it leased the lines of the Montreal Telegraph Company and the Dominion Telegraph Company and merged them into one system.

Mr. George D. Perry, who had been general manager of the G. N. W. since 1911 continues with the new system as general manager.

The jurisdiction of Mr. Perry has been extended over the telegraph lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad. The following appointments have been made: Charles E. Davis, general superintendent of traffic, Toronto, Ont.; E. Kenward, superintendent of railway service, Eastern Division, Toronto, Ont.; R. M. McMillan, superintendent of railway service, Western Division, Winnipeg, Man.; G. H. Walters, district commercial superintendent, Montreal, Que.; B. S. Round, district traffic superintendent, Winnipeg, Man.; H. K. Clarke, chief electrician, Toronto, Ont.; George T. Trowhill, supervisor of wire service, Toronto, Ont., and C. C. Stewart, supervisor of traffic, Toronto, Ont.

The executive staff of the company formally took possession of their new quarters in the World Building, 40 Richmond Street, Toronto, on December 6. The occasion was taken by his associates to present General Manager Perry with a handsomely engraved fountain pen, bearing his initials. Presentation was made by W. G. Barber, general commercial superintendent.

Destiny!

By Warren C. Wootten

The New Year brings its ray of sunshine and hope for all. 🔨

With US it seems just a trifle more.

Never in the history of our craft has the outlook become so promising as it is today.

We are taking on big business.

Beyond the question of a doubt we are fast coming into our own

Never before in the history of our organization has its officers been called upon to function in a common cause and with a great and powerful business institution.

With Johnson and Alcorn in Washington, the members of this organization are truly to be congratulated. While there is no intent to register a boastful attitude, nevertheless we can but admit that recent happenings undoubtedly place us in an enviable light. We beam forth a shining, finished product. With intelligent, reliable men in the lead, our organization towers a giant of useful perfection, and not a "sleeping giant." For within twenty-four hours after these dark clouds loomed on the horizon, our committee was well on its way to Washington

Johnson and Alcorn are going to convince our national law-makers that such a proposition as the Capper anti-future bill and the Tincher measure will, if enacted, take the bread from the mouths of thousands of telegraphers' families. This fact alone is OUR angle to the proposition.

It means that thousands of first-class telegraphers will be thrown out of employment, and this startling fact, too, requires no "Solomon" to surmise its meaning.

But let us take a hopeful view. Our leaders are in Washington for the purpose of defeating this menacing legislation. So far these leaders have been successful in their every undertaking. We are in a wonderful era of constructive work.

We are on our way. It is DESTINY!

THE CHAPEL CHAIRMAN

By Edward B. Whittlesey

Away back in ancient times, somewhere about the year one, some old and grizzled philosopher discovered the quickest way to get from one point to another was by a straight line.

You chapel chairmen are to be the straight line from Secretary Hickey's office to the membership in your own office; you are to be the medium through which will pass all communications to and from the Secretary's office.

Your task will not be an arduous one and will not consume a great deal of your time. Measured by the results to be attained, it is well worth your time. With all chapel chairmen working in union we will have the most efficient organization in our history. All authority, of course, will be centered in headquarters.

Your duties will be:

Solicit applications of non-members.

Solicit and collect dues from members.

Chart all circuits out of your office and forward to Secretary Hickey.

Advise headquarters of any change in the personnel of your office.

See that a brother is put in any vacancy in preference to a non-member.

Furnish suitable writeups each month for the Journal.

Our aim is to make the broker prefer to have our members work for them in preference to non-members. You chapel chairmen are a vital cog in the machine and with you working in conjunction with headquarters there can be no doubt of the result.

Let us make 1921 the daddy of 'em all!

Secretary-Treasurer.....John A. Hickey Recording Secretary....Frank A. Barrett Executive Committee

James F. Campbell, Chairman. Don V. Nelson. George L. Snodgrass. Bart J. Kearney. Frank A. O'Sullivan.

Frank A. O'Sulfivan.
As the meeting was about to adjourn, Brother Fred W. Towne took the floor and spoke in part as follows:
"Mr. Chairman, officers and brothers: Our next meeting falls on Christmas day and as you are already aware, there will be few if any of us assembled on that day. This will probably be the last opportunity to assemble together and we would be remiss in our duty unless we said a word of encouragement to the officers who have encouragement to the officers who have done so much to make the success of 1920 possible. Bro. Dunn, there has been a possible.

trial going on here for a year; the jury was out a month and rendered a verdict against you of success in the first degree. You are to be punished at one year of hard labor. The members appreciate your past performance and the only sympathy you may expect from them in 1921 is that you run your office in the same manner as you full your olines in the same manner as you did in 1920.

"Bro. Whittlesey, as 1st vice-chairman, you have been found equally guilty as an accessory to the crime and you also are to be punished at one year at hard labor. That you have succeeded goes without saying and a full measure of credit is due you.

"The recording secretary, Bro. Barrett, has been on the job long enough to know better and I have no sympathy for him. He likewise is sentenced for a year, at the expiration of which he probably will be sentenced for the balance of his life.

"As for the assistant secretary, our worthy Miss Whittlesey, it was my intention to suggest that she be remembered in a substantial way but you have already done that performed their duties well, worked in a spirit of harmony with the rest of the organization and helped to bring about the success.

"The Executive Committee, while having had only a few occasions to function,

"As I understand it, the administration of 1920 under the leadership of Bro. Dunn and assistant officers has been the most successful since the formation of the Division, and I know I voice the sentiments of the entire membership in extending our appreciation for the good work performed.

appreciation for the good work performed.

"I have tried to confine myself to the mention of names of officers. However, there are also quite a number of the craft who contributed to the success of 1920 but if I should try to enumerate them by name it would take too much time. There is one I must speak of. Bro. Talmadge devoted a great deal of his time to work of the organization and deserves a lot of credit for its success. To Bro. Donohue, the second vice-chairman a big portion or the success is also due. Bro. Donohue frequently offered his entire time to the union and the only reason a sentence is not imposed on him is because he wanted to retire, turning state's evidence as it were, so we had to let up on him.

"Mr. Chairman, I do not know of any-mu the only reason a sentence is not imposed on him is because he wanted to retire, turning state's evidence as it were, so we had to let up on him.

"Mr. Chairman, I do not know of anything further that I might say. By the way, I have very nearly overlooked our worthy secretary treasurer. Bro. Hinshaw, I would never forgive myself if I should have overlooked giving you a sentence along with the others. You have been guilty of success in 1920. You have been more than guilty, you have been more than guilty, you have been more than guilty, you have been most guilty for you have made many sacrifices for this Division and we appreciate it to the utmost. In appreciation of which the members of this organization desire that you accept this token and wear it with equal credit and honor to yourself and the organization."

With these remarks Bro. Towne handed Bro. Hinshaw a 14k. 19 jewelled Howard watch with his name and appropriate inscription engraved therein. Bro. Towne continued by saying:

"Before I stop I want to say a few more words. There is another who has made sacrifices. We have been told that Mrs. Hinshaw has been an invaluable assistant to you and has aided you materially. On a number of occasions Mrs. Hinshaw took the receipts to the bank when you were too busy, took a great deal of interest in the organization and has helped you in keeping the books up to the minute so that when your successor takes hold he will have as fine a system as could be wished for. In appreciation of Mrs. Hinshaw's kindness I take great pleasure in asking you to take this box of flowers to her with the compliments of the E. B. D. They will not last long but I hope their fragrance will leave a sweet secent of the high esteem in which she is held by the members of this Division."

Fro. Hinshaw, after regaining his appreciation for the tokens so unexpectedly bestowed on him and Mrs. Hinshaw. He reviewed the progress of the Division during 1920 giving credit to those who contributed towards its success, cautioning against over-confid double their efforts lest the ground gained may not be lost.

Bro. Towne's eloquent eulogy had the effect of stirring up the emotions of a good many of those present. In this connection the recording secretary must confess that the incident caused his emotional balance to go flooey to the extent of rendering him incapable of taking down everything that was said and regrets to state that only a brief synopsis could be written of what might have been a transcript of a masterplece of oratory.

Bro. Josephson's motion extending a rising vote of thanks to Bro. Towne was promptly given.

Motion to adjourn carried. 4 p. m.

"F. E. B."

CROW'S NEST.

Brother H. L. Hoffman wishes us to state that reference in last month's Journal to two men Wyllie and Hoffman making the rounds of the street for a job, was NOT our Brother Hoffman. We knew that, Old Top, and no one suspects it was you. Our article stated Hoffman to be a bonus man from one of the telegraph companies. That's enough to clear you, but glad we are able to satisfy you with the correction.

Friends of Charles A. Kayser will be pained to learn of his illness and confinement to his home where he is suffering with pneumonia. We are pulling for your with pneumonia. We are speedy recovery, Charlie.

Brother J. P. McCusker is filling in for Brother Kayser at Goodbody & Co., during his absence.

Hughes & Dier men deny published statement in last month's JOURNAL that six men had been let out on account of dull business. This misinformation came to us by one of the men directly affected and we had no reason to question the truth of the statement. It now develops that only two men were let out—both vacation relief men.

We are very glad indeed to make the correction.

Here's one instance where a chairman would have saved a lot chapel trouble. William H. Schott has been elected Chairman of the Baltimore sub-unit, succeeding Brother Powers, who asked to be permitted a rest after many years of faithful service. We feel that Brother Schott will "carry on" in the same grand manner that Brother Powers toiled.

Greetings and good wishes to our con-temporary "The Ticker", conducted by the recently established New England Broker Division. Anything you need that we've got, its yours, boys.

"Bill" Ryan, for 15 years with the I. N. S., is now with Thomson, McKinnon & Co. Glad to have you among us, Bill. Need the level heads of the old-timers. Headquarters is always open.

Louis J. Gordon was tried and found guilty of business conduct unbecoming a member of the C. T. U. A. and expelled by the Executive Board, December 12th. The evidence submitted to the board convinced them of the truth of the charges and Gordon's expulsion was immediately posted.

Entertainment Committee composed of Entertainment Committee composed of Hickey, Snodgrass and Palmer, appointed by the Chairman to arrange for our annual dance, announce they have obtained the grand ball room at the Pennsylvania Hotel for March 18.

All indications point to a bigger and better entertainment than any preceding the one now being arranged.

Get youf wives, sweethearts and friends and bring them along. Last year's big crowd will be eclipsed in point of numbers if not enthusiasm.

All you out-of-town boys make arrangements to be on hand. Let's have one hell-uva time!

To Members Eastern Broker Division: I wish to thank you for your generous Christmas remembrance and assure you that I am leaving Headquarters with many pleasant memories of my association with you. I feel confident even greater success will attend your efforts through Mr. Hickey, your paid secretary-treasurer, than could ever be possible under the old arrangement. However, if at any time in future I can serve you I hope you will feel that I am ready and willing to help.

I wish each of you a Prosperous and Happy New Year.

Sincerely,

ALINE WHITTLESEY.

Brother Hinshaw likes for people to ask him the time. It gives him a chance to flash his Howard watch, presented to him by members of the Eastern Broker Divi-sion.

One member writes us that he earned $1,405.12 in eight months on the extra list. The member further states that he was not available every day and only came down when he felt like it. He considers this such good insurance against unemployment that he wants the dues raised to $50 a year. Glad some people recognize the value of the Union.

Secretary Hickey is as busy as the proverbial cat on a concrete mountain these days. Everybody wants an annual. Jack don't mind the work and invites everybody in—if they want to pay dues.

Eastern Broker Division extends to Brother Walter Lynch our sincere sym-pathy in the loss of his wife. We are with you in spirit, Old Man, and offer our aid in any way it may be needed.

Brother Percy Thomas honored us with his presence at our December meeting and delivered a short talk for the good of the order. Welcome, Brother Thomas, come often.

Past President W. F. (Buck) Ewing attended the election of officers. When called on for a few remarks he said:
"What do you want me to say?"
"Well, I'll say I wish each of you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year; I'm going to have one because I've got a gallon of 'licker'."

Announcement is made that the "Listening Post" has moved into Headquarters for the winter months. Too much rain and wind on Broad Street for the boys to be comfortable.

NEW COTTON FIRM

It is with pleasure that we chronicle the formation of a new cotton firm with the personnel of Mr. Walter Cotter of Memphis and Hugh F. McElroy of New York, both gentlemen of sterling qualities.

The new firm will be known as Cotter and McElroy with offices at 16 Exchange Place, New York, and 10 North Front Street, Memphis, and will engage in a general cotton commission business, being eral cotton commission business, be members of the New York Cotton change.

Mr. McElroy has for the past ten years been cotton statistician for N. L. Carpenter & Co., now amalgamated with A. A. Housman & Co., and has always taken a personal interest in every telegrapher he came in contact with, and those whose good fortune it has been to be intimately associated with him will ever remember his eloquence, and his many little courtesies, and wish the new firm every success that it so justly deserves.

"Charlie" Crawley never leaves the house once he gets home. There are two ways of accounting for this. It takes him so long to get home on the Lackawanna that it is too late to come out again when he gets there. And with a cellar like "Charlie's" what has he got to come out for? And if we weren't afraid of giving him away to Mrs. C. we might remark that "Charlie's" furnace requires an awful ot of attention lately. lot of attention lately.

Effective January 1st, J. F. Cronin becomes manager of our downtown customers' department, relieving Mr. Burger.

Larry, the office boy, incidentally the pride of Northdale, N. J., took his first degree in the Fire Department, and now boasts of being a full-fiedged volunteer fireman. He wears his badge in such a conspicuous place that he was mistaken for a Pinkerton man the other day.

PITTSBURGH SUB UNIT NOTES

At the regular monthly meeting held December 20 the following officers were elected for the year, 1921:

Chairman—R. C. Patterson, re-elected; vice-chairman—M. J. Dougherty, also re-elected, and secretary-treasurer—C. P. Mc-Cutcheon, Brother Owens, the retiring secretary-treasurer, was elected chairman of the membership committee. The meeting was largely attended.

The report of the entertainment committee which so ably handled our annual reception and dance of November 19, proved conclusively that the affair was a complete success, both socially and finan-

Brother Aubrey of Winkleman & Co. was among the enthusiasts present.
Brother T. Edward Barrett is back in town and is taking things easy over the holidays.

It sure looks like old times to see Bro. McCutcheon back in harness again. "Mac" knows the game from every angle.

PHILADELPHIA SUB-UNIT NOTES
Brother Bert Matthews, formerly with Newburger, Henderson & Loeb, is now with West & Co., Reading.

Brother Merritt is now located with Hal-

Among our recent visitors were Brothers Farrell of Wilmington and Ludwig of Trenton, both with Koontz & Company. Come again soon, boys, and bring along some others with you. We are always glad some others with you. We are always glad to welcome you.

Brother Samuel Long, for many years with the A. P., is now with West & Co. Young in enthusiasm, energy and splendid ideas, we certainly are glad to have him in our midst.

Young in enthusiasm, energy and splendid ideas, we certainly are glad to have him in our midst.

Brother John Carroll, of Parrish & Company, purchased an auto some time ago, we understand, and since then he has not been seen in his reserved seat. We trust that no accident has overtaken him and that we shall soon see him again.

Hughes & Dier present a wonderful line-up with such staunch old veterans as Brothers Murphy, Goshorn, Price, Potter, Kelly, Barry and Bell. All good workers, congenial, constructive and cheerful.

Brother Morris Goodis, some time with Halle & Steiglitz at Atlantic City, is now with that firm at their Philadelphia office. Welcome home, Morris.

Brother English, our former secretary, is now with Boreau & Evans and displays the same amount of "pep" as usual.

Applications are coming in rapidly and the prospect for new members for 1921 is certainly promising and pleasing. Everyone is cheerfully lending a hand in the work and with such co-operation success is sure to crown our efforts.

We regret very much to announce the recent death of Brother A. C. Chatman, for many years prominent in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Always loyal and dependable, he leaves a host of friends in the fraternity who will long remember his genial character and personality. His place, indeed, will be difficult to fill. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to his family and relatives.

HUMAN NATURE.

Human nature is pretty much the same the world over. Sometimes we can learn something about ourselves by standing off at a safe distance and taking a look at the other fellow and his problems.

The compiler of the following paper read at a recent convention of National Secre-taries at Lenox, Mass., indicates that the writer knows human nature from first hand experience:

- 1. Don't come to the meeting.
- But if you do come, come late.
- If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and other members.
- Never accept an office, as it is easier to criticise than to do things.
- Nevertheless, get sore if you are not appointed on a committee, but if you are, do not attend committee meetings.
- 6. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion regarding some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting tell everyone how things ought to be done.
- 7. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary; but when other members roll up their sleeves and willingly, unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, howl that the organization is run by a clique.
- 8. Hold back your dues as long as possible or don't pay at all.
- Don't bother about getting new mem-ers. Let the secretary do it. bers.
- 10. When a banquet is given, tell every-body money is being wasted on blowouts which make a big noise and accomplish nothing.
- 11. Don't ask for a banquet ticket until all are sold.
- 12. Then swear you've been cheated out of yours.
- 13. If you do get a ticket, don't pay for
- 14. If asked to sit at the speaker's table, modestly refuse.

C. T. U. A.

Headquarters and Employment Bureau, $13 Imperial Bidg., $12 S. Clark St., Chicago, Ill. Phone Wabash 1426

Regular meeting dates, First and Third Saturdays in each month in headquarters. Dues payable annually, January 1st, or semi-annually, January 1st and July 1st.

Delinquent dates September 1 and March 1

Delinquents are subject to a fine of $5, in addition to the regular dues.

President Alcorn in Washington

President Alcorn left Wednesday night, January 8, in company with International President Johnson, for Washington, where they will do everything in their power to defeat the Capper and Tincher bills, realizing that the Western Broker Division has much at stake, should such bills become law.

Two bills have been introduced in Congress which, if passed, means the closing up of practically all wire houses and incidentally putting YOU out of a job.

These bills are known as H. R. 14657 and S. B. 4561, "Providing for the levying, collection, and payment of taxes upon contracts for the future delivery of grain, grain products, and cotton, and options for such contracts."

The bills have been referred to the Committee on Agriculture and are scheduled to be reported out within a very few days.

Although these bills are designed to assist the farmers, no consideration has been given to the thousands of broker telegraphers and thousands of other broker employees who will be automatically thrown out of employment.

These bills affect you vitally and you are urged to co-operate with your officers by sending in your dues for an annual or semi-annual 1921 card as quickly as possible. It takes money to wage a battle of this kind and you must realize that it is your battle.

BE PROMPT. SEND IN YOUR DUES.

WARREN C. WOOTTEN, Acting President.

Announcement Extraordinary

On January 22nd at the Cameo Room, Morrison Hotel, 8 p. m., the Entertainment Committee of the W. B. D. will offer to the members and their friends one of the most brilliant dances and entertainments it has been their good fortune to attend.

Several high-classed vaudeville acts have already been secured and a splendid orchestra is booked.

Last year the Eastern Broker Division presented to its membership a similar entertainment and it proved a wonderful success, both from a social and financial standpoint. They collected $2.00 a ticket. We are selling ours for $1.00. We should be able to do half as well as the E. B. D.

It will take the combined effort of our entire membership to make this affair a success and we earnestly hope that every member in Chicago will take at least 2 tickets and sell a number of others among their friends, especially among the clerks in the various offices. Remember these clerks will be your brother members soon. Invite them out to get acquainted socially with us. They will find us not a bad aggregation to mingle with.

This affair will cost about $700.00 to put on. Help the committee in their work by subscribing NOW for your tickets. We MUST make a success of it. Will you do your part? The tickets are $1.00 per person. Remit $2.00 today for your tickets and for as many more as you can sell. If you don't sell them you can send them back.

J. B. ALCORN, President.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Order clerks, clerks, telephone operators and ticker board markers, employed in brokerage firms, are now eligible to mem-bership in the Western Broker Division.

An amendment to the By-Laws provid-ing for the admission of these allied work-ers into the W. B. D. under an auxiliary division PLAN carried by a large majority.

The newly elected Executive Board will meet this week to formulate the details of this plan and immediately a circular letter will be sent each member outlining the plan, so that we may get busy and organize these men, or at least begin their organization so that they can do their ewn

There are approximately as many of these allied workers in our territory as there are telegraphers. It is sincerely hoped that each and every one of you will see the importance of doing your part in inviting these men to join with us. You can readily see what a splendid organization of broker employees we would have and all controlled by the W. B. D.

Until you receive the full particulars, you can be guided by these salient features of the plan and you may take in members accordingly.

- (1) The above named workers will be admitted to membership in the W. B. D. under an AUXILIARY DIVISION ARRANGEMENT, that is, all these workers will be formed into an auxiliary division; they will be subject to the By-laws of the W. B. D. and will be under the control of the W. B. D. in every sense of the word.
- (2) The auxiliary will elect a set of officers and may pass such rules as they deem advisable, but they must be approved by the Executive Board of the W. B. D. The officers of the auxiliary shall act as subordinate officers under the W. B. D. officers.
- (3) The initiation fee for these workers shall be $2.00 until April 1st, 1921, then $5.00. The dues shall be $18.00 a year, payable annually or semi-annually in ad-
- (4) Auxiliary division members shall be auxiliary members of sub-divisions, wherever one is organized and auxiliary members of chapels where they exist.
- (5) Auxiliary division members shall share in the benefits (sick benefits, etc.) the same as W. B. D. members.
- (6) The auxiliary division shall retain $1.00 out of each member's yearly dues to be used in defraying the auxiliary's incidental expenses. Any expense their treasury will not stand must be first approved by the Executive Board of the W. B. D.

There will no doubt be other features worked out by the Executive Board, but the paramount idea is that these workers are not being offered an autocratic form of organization, but of necessity must be under the control of the Western Broker Division for the good of all concerned. The allied workers will receive the benefit of our combined strength and the Western Broker Division will control the combined strength. strength.

We are anxious to see who brings in the first member to the AUXILIARY.

SANTA-CLAUS IN OUR MIDST

It is said that all great men's minds flow in the same channel.

A few days prior to Santa Claus' coming, LaSalle St. Channel and all its tributaries, from Pittsburgh to the Pacific Coast, carried a ceaseless flow of—hopefulness. Santa Claus had come on previous anniversaries; he would come again.

anniversaries; he would come again.

Two days before Christmas rumors began to fall. An excited brother overrunning with ecstacy, gave ye editor the news that So and So had crammed $500 down the stockings of the boys so fortunate as to have cast their lot with this firm. Would I please try and confirm it? I did. At lunch time I met one of the newly enriched brothers. "They tell me Santa Claus left you $500?" I enquired. "Like he did; $75.00 was the most any one got."

did; $75.00 was the most any one got."

After tracing down several rumors, which resulted in finding the supposedly fortunate children of St. Nick in a rather morose and tongue-tied condition, a careful canvass of Santa Claus' generosity shows that in one firm a 10% bonus was declared. In another 5% and in a number of others a whole week's salary was graciously distributed. One firm unselfishly passed out a crisp ten dollar bill. Three of the largest firms in the business discommoded themselves to the extent of ruthlessly deviating from an iron clad rule, by allowing the boys, as an acknowledgement of their appreciation of a year's diligent effort, to draw their week's pay on Friday—Christmas Eve—instead of on Saturday. But we must not overlook men-Friday—Christmas Eve—instead of on Saturday. But we must not overlook mentioning the firms who were so imbued with the Christmas spirit, as to cause the chief operator to present to each and every employee, even if he had only been there a short while, a neatly embossed card, conveying the season's greetings, etc., etc.

Thus did we in the W. B. D. welcome our old friend from the North Pole. The venerable old man failed to thaw out on his long trip.

There is a certain religious organization that strongly believes in "Everything happens for the best." Let us hope they are right. Oh! when, Oh! when?

Notice Members:

1921 dues are now payable. Make your remittance early and assist your officers in making their plans for the coming year. We have a great program mapped out and there is nothing but success ahead. There is only one thing necessary-YOUR CO-OPERATION.

So far the results have been gratifying. A number of members have sent in their annual dues and a large number their semi-nuual. Don't hang back and expect a handful of members to carry the hod. Let's all pull together. Send in your own dues; get the fellow next to you up-to-date; send in new members and new members to the auxiliary.

The dues are as follows: Initiation for new members.....$10.00 Annual dues, Chicago members..... 24.00 Annual dues, members employed outside of Chicago..... 20.00

ELECTION RESULTS

All the amendments to the By-Laws were adopted almost unanimously. The three most important of these amendments are the one raising the dues; raising the initiation and the one providing for the admission of our allied workers, the clerks, order clerks, pit 'phone operators and ticker board markers.

The 1921 officers are as follows:

J. B. Alcorn, President.

Warren C. Wootten, 1st Vice-President.

W. J. McMahon, 2nd Vice-President.

George A. Smith, 3rd Vice-President. Floyd R. Smith, 4th Vice-President.

E. C. Campbell, 5th Vice-President. R. H. McDaniel, General Secretary-Trea-Surer.

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES By J. L. Rapp

Were it not for the fact that I am thoroughly familiar with conditions as they existed prior to Dec. 11th last, I would feel that I owed an apology to the membership of the W. B. D. for my article in the bulletin of that date entitled "Enthusiasm".

But, having been familiar with those conditions, and, as I wrote at the time, the "let George do it" attitude which existed. I do not feel that the aforementioned apology is due.

By what miracle, then, has that indifference, apathy and lack of interest heretofore displayed, been suddenly changed to one of such profound interest and enthusiasm?

Are we to have a repetition of the early months of 1907, when conditions of servitude became such that "even the worm turned"?

When it was as hard to find a telegrapher without a card as it would be to find oranges on apple trees?

The persistent efforts on the part of the officers and members of the W. B. D., who have taken such a deep interest in the welfare of the organization, is at last bearing fruit.

The "broker telegrapher" is awakening to the realization that he belongs to a real organization, of which he is an integral part, and upon the success of which depends the individual efforts of each one of

MILWAUKEE SUBDIVISION

Our annual election of officers was held on Thursday evening, Dec. 30th, with a most gratifying attendance and a keen interest taken in the affairs brought up for discussion. It was by far the best meeting held since our organization, less than a year ago, there being 11 members present and 3 proxies out of a total of 17—and every man pledged himself to stay right on the job until we come through with that 100%.

The result of the election was as follows: President-Wm. J. McMahon, of R. H. MacMasters & Co.

Vice-President — John D. Bussey, of Paine Webber Co.

Secretary-Treasurer-Bert J. Callen, of E. W. Wagner & Co.

(Vice Arthur Tofte, declined).

Both Vice-President Bussey and President McMahon made an unsuccessful at-tempt to pass on the honors of office to younger blood, but they were swept in again by unanimous vote, and no doubt they will continue to give the best service they can to the cause.

This Sub-Division deplores the loss of Brother Tofte as Secretary-Treasurer very much, as he was a most efficient and careful Secretary and an earnest worker. Af-fairs outside of the Broker business will take up his time, and we surely wish him

Bro. Callen, however, is a worthy successor. He is a young man with plenty of experience in the telegraph business; with an abundance of sound, practical ideas, and better still, he has that FIGHTING SPIRIT that wins, and is willing to make a sacrifice for a principle, because he believes it is right. That's the kind of material that builds successfully in any organization.

The Benefit performance at the Shubert Theatre, Dec. 9th and 10th, was quite a success, although the Theatre people were not compelled to hang out the S. R. O. sign on either night. Conducted by The New England Brokers' Division, Headquarters and Employment Bureau, No. 7 State Street, Boston, Mass.

By Wm. T. Yetman

The regular meeting was held on Monday, January 3. As the first meeting in January is usually an "off" session, the attendance was a big and pleasing surprise. So was the report of Secretary Sullivan, showing well over fifty per cent of the brothers already paid up for 1921.

The meeting reflected the constantly growing spirit of progress and business organization which has attracted the attention of Boston telegraphers of all shades of opinion, and plans were outlined for the coming year, which if followed diligently and consistently, should make New England pretty near to being 100 per cent Union on leased wires.

Among the very important things discussed—and not merely discussed by a few, but discussed generally and enthusiastically-were organization, employment, unemployment benefit, and indoor and outdoor recreation.

Committees were appointed to work on all these problems this month, and report to the February meeting.

Another important subject under discussion was a system of co-operation between the Brokerage divisions in regard to information on positions which may open up in the various districts. It appeared from the report of the Employment Committee, which was questioned on the subject, that we had already made known to New York three positions, all of which were secured by the E. B. D., but that so far as a return was concerned, we were "out of luck."

Among the social events already planned by the division are a candle pin bowling tournament, a card tournament, and baseball team. A committee is investigating the possibility of obtaining a summer home for the division either in the country or on the South Shore.

EMPLOYMENT

This committee reported two positions filled since the last meeting, two brothers out of work, and one sick. One of these unemployed had only been let out the day of the meeting. All positions becoming vacant since last meeting had either been filled by the Committee or were in process of negotiation.

HOW ABOUT IT!

There are certain operators outside the ranks who, when they are faced fairly and squarely with the proposition of joining the organization which represents the best there is in their profession, immediately open the "weep room," and tell us THEY DON'T KNOW how their firm would like it.

The following incident may serve to enlighten them:

One of the brothers was on the carpet for hiring a Union man (whose ability he happened to know) at a higher figure than he would have had to pay a non-Union man of whom he knew nothing. He was questioned as to his object in boosting the Union.

HE TOLD HIS EMPLOYER HE WANTED TO USE IT AS A DEPENDABLE SOURCE OF OBTAINING RELICITED ONE CASE WHERE HIS UNION FACILITIES IN OBTAINING A MAN TO FILL AN EMERGENCY VACANCY ON A MILLION SHARE DAY HAD SAVED THE FIRM THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS.

We are going to refrain from any knocking in the "TICKER," but we being proven, an organization of employes supervised and controlled by the employer is too comical for the news items, but not funny enough for the supplement.

we hear a lot these days about the friends we have at Hornblower & Weeks. We are glad to hear it. Most of these fellows have been pretty good members at some time or other, but frankly, we would feel better about the kind of Friendship that bears the signature of "Johnson & Schnur." Still if these chaps will just show us any good reason why they must be our "friends" instead of our "brothers" we will sit up and take notice.

Harry Barrett, of Bright, Sears & Co., seems to take great pride in a card, dated around 1883. "Give the devil his due," but as the writer wasn't born till a good many years after that, he presumes it expired years after that, he product in 1884.

Right or wrong, this correspondent has more respect for the man who never belonged, but joins now IN GOOD FAITH, than the man who was once in the ranks but now gives us the "Hell-Goodby."

One was wrong and is right, the other was right and is wrong.

Figger it out for yourself.

G. W. MORSE & CO., NOTES By C. A. Martell

By C. A. Martell

Brother Niement of South Boston, does the honors at Haverhill, to which town he commutes daily. The schedule gets A.
J. at the office by 9:55 A. M., and a train leaves the station for Boston around 3:10.
So far his duties have averaged five hours and seven minutes per day and he has not put in any bid for overtime for the seven minutes. seven minutes.

seven minutes.

Harry Hehire, at New Bedford, is modest and unassuming as "Neme," but we never hear from him on a busy wire. Harry is also known as a walking pocket manual. Brother Gore is telegrapher and business manager at Lowell, and is doing very well.

M. J. Kelley is located at Warrester.

ness manager at Lowell, and is doing very well.

M. J. Kelley is located at Worcester. Mike is an old timer and has only recently returned to the key, but one would never imagine that this was the case, his sending being as snappy and quick as if he was a youngster. For 15 years he has been a farmer in Westboro, and "Kel" says that is the life for him. He has not yet taken out a card, but will be in line as soon as the application reaches him.

W. J. O'Connor, formerly of New York, but for the last five years in Springfield, is manager and operator of the office there. Bill likes it in the "Home City," where he is acquainted with everybody, from the mayor down to the newsboys, and acquires much increment from his circle of friends.

Clarence McCall has a nice homelike of fice and does a comfortable, quiet and lucrative little business in Pittsfield. While Mac allows it is cold in that section of the state, he claims he is able to stand it, as he became acclimated to real winter weather in Dover, N. H., 15 years ago. Charley Williams is the present incumbent of the New Haven office. Charley's specialty is swimming, and in the summer with his mother and sisters occupies a cottage in the most select shore section of Long Island Sound.

Last, but not least, Joe Brennan, erstwhile resident and native of St. Albans, Vt., but for almost twenty-five years working broker wires out of New York City holds down the terminal end of the wire. Joe lives down near Rockaway somewhere and the fish aver he is a holy terror. They hole up on Saturdays and Sundays, the days that Joe reserves for his aquatic hunting.

CONVENTION

"By all means, Toronto."

"Sure, they're entitled to it."

"I agree with Johnson, we ought to give the Canadians a show."

"I'm for whatever is best for the organi-tion. That looks like TORONTO.

The above is a sample of the opinions expressed to your correspondent when he endeavored to sound out sentiment in this city as to where the next convention should be held. All the officers have signed a petition to this effect, and TWO OF THE BEST OF THESE SAME OFFICERS COME FROM SUNNY GEORGIA.

If there were no other reason than that the International officers believe it best for the organization that the convention should go to Toronto. if we have confidence in them, that should be enough. If we have not confidence in them, that's a horse of another color, but our guess is that There are, however, other reasons, why we should render this courtesy to our Canadian brothers.

It is a fact that we are not as closely united with our Canadian cousins—inside or outside this organization—as we should be. The geographic, climatic, agricultural, commercial, financial and industrial interests of America and Canada—not to mention the ancestral ties of an enormous number of good Americans and equally Good Canadians—demand a closer friend-phin and working understanding Good Canadians—demand a closer friendship and working understanding.

Ninety per cent of the reason for the lack of this friendship and better relations is misunderstanding of us on the part of our Northern cousin. Whether or not this condition is the result of deep-rooted propaganda on the part of special interests, or not, the writer shall not presume to say. But he will say that misunderstanding does exist, and exists only on one side of the border, and one way we could do our patriotic bit would be to eliminate any reason for them thinking we want to hog it on conventions.

The brothers whom the Canadians have sent to the conventions of the past have been of the type which are an asset and credit to any organization, and if holding the convention in Canada would help out their representation more than it will weaken ours, the Union will benefit by it.

The following reasons for preferring Toronto are given proper credit:

O. B. Kinney, Division Financier

Our expenses would be reduced about 15 per cent, owing to the rate of exchange. $100 in Boston would only cost about $85 in Toronto.

Freddy Heron, Division Tactician

We could elect me an alternate and I could go to see Niagara Falls when the convention was in session.

Frederick Felix Feltus, Division Reformer

Hooch.

GREAT LAKES DISTRICT

Our congratulations are extended to Bro. and Mrs. Carl Newberg of Point Ed-ward station on the birth of a son. Here's wishing the boy "Good Luck," pop.

We regret to chronicle and extend our deepest sympathy to Bro. and Mrs. Roy Booth of Port Burwell station, in the loss of their young son, Arthur, who died on Christmas Day.

Christmas Day.

The resignation of Bro. Harry Lightbown who left the Marconi Service some time ago, is sincerely regretted by the membership. Bro. Lightbown, as is well known, was a pioneer and an indefatigable worker in the cause. He resigned the service with the object of bettering himself, and of developing and perfecting his natural vocal talent. Harry now holds the position of Chief Instructor in Shaw's Wireless School, Toronto, and his location affords him opportunity of prosecuting his vocal studies, and of securing the training which is assuredly developing his gift of a fine tenor voice, into one of remarkable strength and sweetness.

gift of a fine tenor voice, into one of remarkable strength and sweetness. If you live or are in Toronto, do not fail to hear Bro. Lightbown at St. Paul's. A "Greenback" on the plate will cause you to feel that it was worth it. I've heard, so I know.

The unfortunate and unavoidable conditions which exist in the Radio Service, due tions which exist in the Radio Service, due to the closed season, are being keenly feit by all, and especially so by those directly affected. The situation could easily be much worse for second operators and for O. I. C.'s now on winter schedule.

In bemoaning one's present lot, the fact should not be lost sight of, that all Great Lakes' stations at present on inter-schedule could be closed entirely for the season and such stations could be left in charge of a "Watchman."

While some may not fully appreciate the and such stations could be left in charge of a "Watchman."

While some may not fully appreciate the situation in its true light, it is believed that the generality of those now in employment on the Great Lakes appreciate the decision of the company in giving second operators at affected stations the option of going to sea at existing wage scale, with free residence for family, or of remaining ashore and on duty, but at the minimum wage with maintenance.

Our sympathies go out to those of our membership who have been laid off for the season, and it is hoped that those from the Great Lakes District who may be in Toronto will endeavor to attend the monthly meetings, and thereby keep in touch with the organization and the membership.

membership.

The presence at the meetings of all available brothers and a heart-to-heart talk will help in no small way in lightening the burden of the present situation.

The secretary is eagerly awaiting the return of list sent out on behalf of the late Bro. Hill. Several subscriptions have been received, and when the list is completed full acknowledgment will be made in the columns of the Journal.

The general secretary-treasurer and the

The general secretary-treasurer and the general chairman would appreciate information from Secretary-Treasurer Bro. Ross of the Eastern District as to how the Hill subscription is progressing down there there.

The printing of by-laws and award in combined booklet form is well under way, and it is expected that same will shortly be available for distribution. Each brother, on securing his card for 1921, will be furnished with a copy.

Congratulations to "Billy," son of Bro. F. Cuthbert Allen, on passing government examination. Though but 16 years old. Billy walked away with his Second Class "Cert" for ½ KW and Emergency P. A., securing the highest marks of all candidates then sitting. At the next exam. he secured 1½ KW. He is a De La Salle collegiate boy, and says he intends to tackle the 2KW and 5.5 KW Coast Station sets next, so that when he is old enough to hold a First Class license, his certificate will make that held by his "Pop" look like ten cents. like ten cents.

EASTERN DISTRICT NOTES

A Happy New Year to all. May all brothers have that "Grand and Glorious Feeling." as Briggs would say, that can only be attained by possessing an "Annual," and thus being able to greet any fellow member on terms of equality, fraternity and good will.

What do you think of the nice card of greeting brothers, which our employers sent to each of us? We will say that it was a neat and artistic piece of work, and the designer should be congratulated on his handwork. We will also say that the sentiment expressed thereon is cordially reciprocated.

In anticipation that our plea in the last Journal for more notes from different localities will be productive of results, we will boil down our own contribution this month and leave a little space for some will boil down our own contribution this month and leave a little space for some other correspondents.

In common with all other branches of the C. T. U. A., in Canada, we were very sorry to read of the untimely demise of the late C. E. Hill. We trust that our General Chairman will draft a resolution of sympathy from our division and forward to those he left behind. We would turther suggest that a contribution from our funds or an assessment of the membership for, say one or two dollars permember, would meet with a ready response from all those of us who realize what we in common with other branches of the C. T. U. A. owe to the activities of the deceased. He gave his all for us, we owe it to those left behind that they should not be left unaided to battle for existence. We would ask all brother members who read the tribute paid the late Bro. Hill by a past president of the C. T. U. A.. Brother S. J. Konenkamp a question. Are there any amongst us whose unionism would stand the test that Bro. Hill's did? He threw his whole savings into the breach when funds were vitally necessary for the organization in their fight for a schedule. Yet there are those amongst us who will not pay their small yearly dues. There is a lesson and an example for all of us in the life of Bro. Hill.

Well the bombshell dropped amongst us at last. Many of our brothers have been laid off because they did not possess the

Well the bombshell dropped amongst us at last. Many of our brothers have been laid off because they did not possess the certificate necessary for the pursuance of their profession. Some of the brothers have been expecting it for so many years that they had grown to treat the threat with indifference. Others were only with us for a short time and did not have the same chance to qualify. The moral Amongst those laid off was Bro. C. Whitford, late of VCC. We were very sorry to see him go and if he does not return the service loses a very promising man. For a new man at the work we will say he did as well as anyone we can remember. We wish him the best of luck wheresoever fortune should land Bro. Bouin, late of VFX has entered upon a life on the rolling main. He is now O. I. C. of the C. S. L. "Manoa." We wish him luck and trust his meals will obey the law of gravitation.

Bro. Clegg took a well earned vacation. We hope he had a good time. Note—He did.

Bro. S. Hirschfield, late of VCA, has been on relief duty at VCC. Bro. E. Beauchemin has been transferred from VCB to VCC. Bro. B had to leave a sick wife behind him. We trust she will have a speedy recovery.

Bro. Walter Moore, late C.O at Fame Point, is enjoying a well earned vacation at his home in Levis after a strenuous season. We haven't seen him yet, at his in great demand whenever he hits uous season. We haven't seen him yet, at he is in great demand whenever he hits his home town.

Bro. Lahey, late of VCK, was amongst those laid off and has returned to the family estate in Newfoundland. We hope to see him with us again in the near The River's froze, the snow is here, The bars are dispensing hot beer. Oh. it's going to a grand New Year. In Ol' Kebeck. G. E. C. Cert. 128. "NAP" BOOTH PASSES ON

The hundreds of friends of "Nap" Booth, throughout this country and Canada will be grieved to learn of his death, which occurred at Madison, Wis, on the morning of January 10. He was employed by the United Press at the time.

"Nap" underwent an operation for ulcers of the stomach about a month ago, and while the operation was a success, the shock to his nervous system, caused a recurrence of a lung affection he suffered some years ago.

The immediate cause of his death was hemorrhage of the lungs.

"Nap" Booth was born at Logansport, Ind., 61 years ago, and like thousands of others in the profession, began his telegraphic career as a messenger in his home town. His first job as an operator was with the Western Union at Indianapolis, where he made good and where he became a charter member of the Brotherhood of Telegraphers, which organization, in 1883, engaged in a strike against the Western Union. "Nap" was an ardent striker, both in '83 and '07.

Booth was a member of the old school, where existed a feeling among the fraternity, which does not seem to prevail today. While "Nap" laid no claims to infallibility, no one can say that he ever did his fellow man an intentional injury. He was liberal to a fault and was never known to turn down a needy brother.

"Nap" was a Thirty Second degree Mason, under whose auspices the funeral will be held, likely at Logansport.

Requiescat in Pace.

ORITHARY

Capt. D. C. McCaleb, an ex-telegrapher and well known Texas newspaper man about forty-eight years old, died in Wichita Falls, Texas, January 3rd. Capt. McCaleb was a member of the American expeditionary force. While serving his country in France he received a shell shock from which he never fully recovered. This was one of the prime causes of his death. Burial was at Austin, Texas January 5, by Travis Post of the American Lexion. ican Legion.

Capt. McCaleb retired from the railroad telegraph service about twenty-five years ago and took up newspaper work. He was formerly on the reportorial staff of the Galveston Tribune. Later, he was connected with the Fort Worth Record and Fort Worth Star in an editorial capacity. He was also connected with various other Texas papers. Capt. McCaleb was a brother of Hunt McCaleb, another well known Texas newspaper man.

Capt. McCaleb was widely known among press operators. He was a man of many fine qualities, and highly esteemed by all who knew him. Those who knew him, deeply mourn his passing away.

Gone to eternal rest and peace.

NEW I. N. S. BUREAU MANAGER

NEW I. N. S. BUREAU MANAGER

Kent Watson, a newspaper man of Beaumont, Texas, was appointed bureau manager for the I. N. S., at Fort Worth.

Texas, January 1st. Prior to Watson's appointment the Fort Worth bureau had been in charge of George C. Towne, who died in Fort Worth last November 9th.

Towne held the position as bureau manager in connection with his position as I. N. S. operator. After Towne's death Charles H. Oudkirk had charge of the Bureau until Watson's appointment. Watson will devote himself exclusively to the management of the bureau.

"THE POSTAL"

P is for the poor way of doing business, O is for the over-time they make us work, S is for the slow thinkers in their employ, T is for the typewriters? OH! BOY.

A is for the all day steady grind,

L is for the low salaries we receive.

Put them all together and they spell postal, a word that made a wreck out of me.

The idea of scheduling the postal is great, and a needy one. Let's get busy, boys, don't say let John do it. That's too stale. You're merely cutting your own throat when you lag behind. Business is slacking and slacking fast, you should realize the value of organization. A card these days is worth its weight in Diamonds. Let's make old 1921 a year for the history. Stick together, boys, for in unity there is strength.

POSTAL SYSTEM NO. 55

It would be very encouraging to the present membership of the C. T. U. A., if Postal Division No. 55 would put some more "pep" into its affairs. It is estimated that 5,000 operators are employed by the Postal. Of course, all of them are not union men at heart, but the majority of them are. So why doesn't this majority join the union. They might as well join in a body, instead of straggling in and thereby show their mettle. The Postal doesn't care if its operators belong to the C. T. U. A. Chief Operator Powers of the Chicago office says the Postal is not antagonistic to our organization. This fact was made plain in a statement made by Mr. Powers to Federal Conciliator Hawley during the recent walkout at Chicago, which was published in November Journal. Mr. Powers said in substance:

"The discharge of Heath and Lawson was due solely to their disinclination to work bonus under the new system ordered by New York officials of the company. Their affiliation with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America had absolutely no bearing on their dismissal. I have known for some time that a large number of telegraphers employed in the Chicago office held cards in the union. The Postal has no objection to this. Postal telegraphers are free to affiliate themselves with the union if they desire and will not be discriminated against for so doing." doing."

This statement is plain enough.

We are making a drive for 10,000 new members. Will the Postal operators help us out on this drive? I estimated that at least 4,999 Postal operators ought to join the C. T. U. A., in a body before 1921 is well on its way.

HARRY L. JOHNSON RESIGNS

I have heard from a reliable source that Harry L. Johnson resigned as chief operator for the Mackay Postal at Dallas, Texas, some weeks ago and went to work for a broker in that city at a better salary than the Postal was paying him. But no correspondent in Dallas had the energy to announce this fact in the Journal. Johnson was a good striker in 1907, being secretary-treasurer of Dallas local when the strike took place. He remained on strike until it was officially called off. Hearty congratulations to Johnson on getting a better job. TEXAS MEMBER. I have heard from a reliable source that Ben Campbell, one of the best known and popular telegraphers in Texas, has made good as manager of the Austin, Postal. He has been manager for over three years now. He resigned as night chief of the W. U., in Austin to accept the Mackay managership. As soon as he took charge as manager business began to increase in volume, and it has steadily increased ever since. Campbell is noted for his ability as a topnotch telegrapher. He is one ity as a topnotch telegrapher. He is one of the most beautiful Morse hand senders in America and he is a genial, whole-souled man. Congratulations. A TEXAN.

HELLO, ED BOOLE

It was very gratifying as well as edifying to read the broadside contribution of ex-Vice President Edward Lincoln Boole entitled, "Our Keynote: Responsibility," in December Journal. This contribution was one of the blazing ornaments of this issue of the Journal. Boole wields a trenchant pen, and his style is vigorous, picturesque and convincing. Everything he says has the flavor of truth to it Boole's photograph, accompanied by a sketch of that remarkable man's career which reads like a romance was, indeed an added flavor to his notable literary effort.

POSTAL BENEFICENT MEASURES
The Postal Telegraph Company in its what interesting. Among other things, i says:

"The 10 per cent increase, effective De "The 10 per cent increase, effective December 1, will consume the prospective revenue from the increase in rates effective as of the same date, so that it is absolutely necessary that every employe co-operate with the management in maintaining a service that will attract additional business and increase earnings thereby enabling the company to further extend its lines and—

The Postal talks like it has changed it policy towards its employes. We hope so anyway. In the meantime, organize and organize thoroughly.

LABOR NOT GOING BACK.—Tom Moon Labor is not going back, declared Ton Moore, president of the Trades and Labo Congress of Canada, in an interview.

"I would remind those employers who talk of labor accepting lower standards, said the unionist, "that 300,000 from the world war with terrifying ideals, ideal for which they fought and were prepare to die. Depend upon it, labor is not, no should it be expected to, going to bea the brunt of falling prices. The ideal of these 300,000 men have permeated the ranks of Canadian labor. Those captain of industry who think labor should be the first to suffer are making a seriou mistake."

WARREN WOOTTEN A GOOD SCRIBE
That was a good contribution Warren

WE HAVE SIX EX-PRESIDENTS
The C. T. U. A. has six ex-presidents—
Will C. Long, Sylvester J. Small, W. W.
Beatty, Isaac J. McDonald, Percy Thomas and S. J. Kenenkamp. Uncle Sam at this writing has only one living ex-president, William Howard Taft. When Woodrow Wilson retires on March 4, he will have two. Judge Taft breaks into print every now and then, and Woodrow Wilson announces that he is going to devote himself to literary work after retirement.
Contributions to the Journal by the expresidents of the C. T. U. A., every now and then would be appreciated, and read with a lively interest. A SCRIBE.

J. E. KILDAY AT EB PASO

James E. Kilday, one of the operators for the I. & G. N. raliroad, in the dispatchers' office at San Antonio and an excommercial operator, is temporarily employed at the union depot in El Paso by the Southern Pacific. He went to El Paso on account of his wife's health. Latest reports say that Mrs. Kilday is greatly improved. Kilday is on a three-months leave and expects to return to San Antonio soon. Kilday has always been a staunch union man. While in the commercial service he was a member of the C. T. U. A. On entering railroad service he immediately became a member of the O. R. T.

BOB WISE BUSY

Bobbie Wise, I. N. S., secretary-treasurer of St. Louis, was probably one of the busiest men during 1920 gaining recruits to our ranks. He is one of the best organizers C. T. U. A. has. Small in stature, Wise is big in deeds. He always has been a staunch C. T. U. A. man and was a good striker in 1907. Give Bob half a chance and he will get a new member. He has been a most valuable member of the I. N. S. General Committee. His good work is highly appreciated. A happy new year to him. LONG STANDING MEMBER.

DAVID J. DUEY
The new year of 1921 found David J.
Duey still doing business at Universal Service, Chicago. Dave can still "go some," either with his hand or the "bug." Dave was chief operator for the A. P., a long long time at Cincinnati and Chicago, respectively. He was a good striker in 1883 and 1907. He still carries a card of course.

The nons should awaken and help the C. T. U. A. do a rushing business this year. It doesn't cost much to become a member—only six dollars—$2 for initiation and $4 dues for six months.

Jan. 4th. 1921. To the Editor, Journal.

Adverting to the "Toronto, joint meeting" of Oct. 17, 1920, the resolution passed thereat, and the subsequent comment, as contained in November and December issue of the JOURNAL, I would like to point out that, just such a measure, or something along similar lines, as that proposed by Bro. Mitchell, has been a subject of keen discussion in this District for some considerable time, and the general concensus of opinion is, that no time should be lost in bringing about the necessary means, by which Canadian Commercial Telegraphers can form a "UNITED Telegraphers FRONT".

That a "UNITED FRONT" is absolutely necessary, and with least possible delay, is borne home to us more clearly, by the criticisms of our C. P. R. friends, on certain points contained in our recent G. N. W. schedule, where lesser salaries were agreed to, than the salaries paid for similar clerical positions in the C. P. R., such a mistake is invariably due to the fact that the one Company has the habit of waiting to see what the other gives (or puts over).

While I agree with International Head-quarters that in order to bring about a convention, certain Constitutional rules should be observed, never-the-less, I strongly disagree with, and in fact, resent the decidedly arbitrary tenor of their notes, as contained on Page 463 of Novem-ber issue of JOURNAL.

I have no doubt that when Bro. Mitchell I have no doubt that when Bro. Mitchell put this motion on record, he had in mind, the necessary reference to Constitutional regulations, and that he had every intention of observing the Constitution to the letter, at least, as far as practicable, in the best interests of our organization, under present day conditions, therefore, until such time as a move is really made towards violation of Constitutional laws, in wards violation of Constitutional laws, in wards violation of Constitutional laws, in my opinion, it behooves our International "BIG" Brothers to adopt a somewhat different attitude, and if they cannot bend to and lend a helping hand, together with a word of encouragement, they should at least refrain from any attempt at placing a stumbling block in the way of such a "BIG STEP FORWARD", as that proposed by their Canadian Brothers.

Whether Canadian Commercial Telegraphers get together under the heading of "CONVENTION", or just a plain "GATH-ERING OF THE CLANS", is immaterial, but one thing is certain, now that they are agreed that such a step is necessary, leave it to "CANADA" to "GET THERE".

Yours Fraternally, ROBERT F. SHIELDS.

To Editor Journal. January 5, 1921.

As the Journal columns are open to members for the expression of their views, permit me to say a few words in connec-tion with the proposed Federation of Canadian Telegraphers.

permit me to say a lew words in connection with the proposed Federation of Canadian Telegraphers.

This movement is a wise and proper one, and I have often wondered, why such a scheme was not put in force years ago, as it is a well known fact that all corporations, in the matter of labor, are in consort with one another, then, why do not the telegraphers become one body, in order to properly compete with these corporations. It must be remembered we are one craft, but, regret to say, are split up into different divisions, often times, one working detrimental to the other, and will continue to do so, as long as the Division System is in vogue.

Up to the present time, it has been a case of "Follow the leader," in the fact, that the C. P. R. has always placed their schedule before their company first, the others sitting back waiting result of same, and basing their schedule accordingly, feeling that, well, the CPR boys have got theirs, we should have no trouble getting ours, making one side bear the brunt all the time. GET AWAY FROM THIS and GET TOGETHER, always remembering that we are one craft, and therefore must be one body, all working together for the same cause, and placing schedules before the companies at the same time in this way there will be STRENGTH, if trannot be done by Rederation, then it cannot be done by anything else, and the sooner this Federation is placed on a working basis, the sooner we will know whether the work will be effective or not, and not wait until next October, when it may be too late.

Even headquarters is realizing the importance of the Canadian telegrapher, in the fact, that they are now sending out a referendum. to see whether it meets

Even neadquarters is realizing the importance of the Canadian telegrapher, in the fact, that they are now sending out a referendum, to see whether it meets with the approval of the majority of members to hold the convention in Toronto or not. Headquarters is to be commended or not. Headquarters is to be commended for putting out the referendum. That act in itself makes for progress—and plainly shows, that whilst there has been so much harping about living up to the constitutions, yet it is a simple matter to overcome them, and now that H Q has gone this far let them, insert in this Referendum, "Convention to be held in Toronto some time in April, instead of October."

We are well aware of what we must expect to confront us in the near future, and that the time to prepare is now, and not wait till October, so let everybody come forth with an insistent demand, that the coming convention be held in Toronto the coming convention be held in Toronto April next.

April next.

Always remember, we are ONE CRAFT, working for the good of all, and not just for the division we are located in.

Further to the resolution of Toronto, joint meeting of October 17th, 1920, and the comment thereon in November and December Journals.

comber Journals.

A man who has contributed much to clearing the way for correct organization of labor in the United States once wrote making a pure-and-simple Pro-Unionist say:—"As sure as a man will raise his arm by mere instinct to shield himself from a blow, so surely will workingmen, instinctively, periodically gather into unions. The Union is the arm that labor instinctively throws up to screen its head."

That the proponents of that Toronto resolution and the supporters of it there and elsewhere are actuated largely if not altogether by the instinct of self-defence there is a blow coming—all signs point to it—and that it is more likely to be the blow of a crowbar than one of a slapstick. Hence we are groping for a way to make that instinctive motion of self-defence effective.

With things as they are a federation of that instinctive motion of self-defence effective.

With things as they are, a federation of Canadian Divisions appears to be the best we can hope for at this time; but whether even that will be effective, of course, is another question. Certainly, however, it is logical. Let us take a little C. T. U. A. history to show that it is.

Back in 1902, the C. T. U. A. started with local units at different centers, each local units being composed of telegraphers in its locality, regardless of the concern these telegraphers might be employed by, and each local was independent of the others. (On the C. P. R., for example, there were at one time or another a dozen or so such local "unions"). Six or seven years of trying to do anything with these locals proved them to be quite ineffective.

Then as now, some international officers maintained that these locals, on a given telegraph system, could be made effective by their acting through a joint committee representing them all. This may have been all right in theory, but in practice it would not work.

Then as now, a few active workers saw representing them all. This may have been all right in theory, but in practice it would not work.

Then as now, a few active workers saw that these locals must "federate." that is, they must be amalgamated into one System Division for each system of telegraphers if we were to meet our employers with any kind of a front at all.

The fight at that point was a strenuous one. The international constitution had been amended at a recent convention so as to provide for System Divisions, therefore those working for the institution of them were "within the law." The then international president refused to issue a charter for the first System Division. An appeal was taken to the General Executive Board (Brother Mitchell in the December Journal to the contrary, here's one to the credit of one G. E. B.) The G. E. B. sustained the appeal and ordered a charter issued. The international president still bucked and demanded that the G. E. B. reconsider its decision. It refused. A charter was then issued. (May, 1909), by headquarters, but without the sign manuel of the president. (Note. The writer was informed at the time that the charter of C. P. R. System Division No. 1 bore only an impression of S. J. Konenkamp's rubber stamp for the international president's signature).

As the composite locals up to 1908 were found to be ineffective and would not function through joint committees, just so now the System Divisions have been found to be ineffective. As the whole system of one line of telegraphs was against each composite local in 1908, just so now the whole system of all the lines of telegraph in Canada is against each System Division. Logically, then, the next step for the Union

sion to the Federation of Divisions.

The constitution needs amending again, this time to provide for the Federation. The regular international convention at Atlanta in October this year will be too late. The blow will have fallen by that time. An international convention in April this year at Toronto is the thing. Whether it be a special convention or made the tegular blennial in April instead of October is a minor detail.

Let us pause to consider who are AMER-ICANS. Was not our Republic founded on the principle of religious, political and social freedom? Does the "open shop" adhere to that principle?

The Associated Press maintains an "open shop." Yes it must be an "open shop" for Milton Garges says it is. Milton also says: "Whenever an employe of the A. Editor The Journal-

Editor The Journal—
Here's a little game I "invented" some years ago which may help to while away the time of some press operators working a lonesome job. It might be called "typewriter baseball." The operator, of course will have to play all nine positions on both teams, as well as umpire the "game." I invented this game while working a lonesome night job. In those days we all had old No. 6 Remingtons, which made the play a little easier, but it can be played on a visible "mill" also. Don't know whether I can express the "rules" of the game in a letter or not, but here goes:

When the first five words of a line sende

When the first five words of a line sends your typewriter scale to 35, its a base on balls. If it goes to 36 its a one-base hit; 40 is a two bagger; 45 a triple and 50 a home run.

Anything less than $5 the "batter" is out.

When men are on bases they can be "sacrificed" forward anywhere from 29 to 34, except when the man is on third when it takes a "hit" to 31 or better to "score" him. In case the scale goes to 34 with a man on third the pitcher has the option of making an additional space, thus giving the "batter" an intentional pass.

With men on bases a "hit" that goes more than half way between a single and a double will advance the base runner two bases. For instance, with a man on first the next batter hits to 38, or 39, the base runner will be sent clear to third, and if the batter hits to 43 or 44 it will score him score him.

If the batter hits to 28 when there is a man or men on base its a double play. A hit less than 28 the batter is simply "out."

First line of a new item or first line of a paragraph is not counted. When a paragraph is finished with less than five words on a line its a foul ball except when, for instance, three words send it to 31, or 32, then the batter is entitled to two spaces for each remaining word, which would give him 35 or a base on balls; or if four words send it to 33 or 34 he is entitled to two spaces for the remaining word which would give him a base on balls or a base hit. W. U., press rate rules to govern in counting figures. It is surprising how near to real baseball this "game" comes. Sometimes in a great while you will run into a "game" that will go for 14 or 15 innings without a score, but they are the exceptions to the rule. The usual scores will be very close, and not any larger than the usual big league games.

I thought this might be of interest to

I thought this might be of interest to I thought this might be of interest to press operators who are baseball "bugs," and if you think the same, you have my permission to use this any way you care in the Journal. I'd just as soon you didn't mention my name.

Page 526, December Journal, "Union Press Operator, Cincinnati, Ohio," writes on "Some History Making," and credits the U. P. Associations with having been the first press or any other concern in the United States to sign a contract with the C. T. U. A. Where does he get that stuff? Wrong, brother, wrong!

William Randolph Hearst was the first one in these United States to sign a contract with the C. T. U. A. Almost three years later, the U. P. A. became second. S. J. Small sent me a telegram from New York, June 16, 1905, reporting he had just signed a contract with S. S. Carvahlo, representing Mr. Hearst's Hearst News Service. I was then President of Chicago Local No. 1, and worked nights on the Chicago end of the H. N. S. wire.

The signing of said contract was the result of much dickering and bick ming. Hearst's private telegrapher," stationed in New York, representing the Hearst interests, had visited Chicago six months previously and consulted many times with Jim Maddox, myself and other members of Local No. 1 anent a contract. There was a divergence of opinion as to $30 a week for day operators and $35 per week for night work. Mr. Thomas returned to New York and the agreement hung fire for six months before consummation. Meantime Maddox was succeeded at his request to retire by Elmer E. Durdick as president and John G. McCloskey became vice president of Local No. 1. Later on Eurdick Joined Tracy & Co., in New York and I became president. I kept "after" Small to get the H. N. S. scale. Small visited New York and, finally succeeded in putting the contract in force on June 16, 1905.

Re the U. P. A. President Clarke prevalled upon his operators to stick to the U. P. A. during the "unpleasantness" of 1907 with the promise of a contract. It was contracted about 2½ years after the Hearst pact. Also, at less wages than the Alles of the C. T. U. A. Journal around dates

Hearst pact. Also, at less wages than the H. N. S. scale. All this can be verified by scanning the files of the C. T. U. A. Journal around dates

"Union Press Operator" is easily enthused. Any time the U. P. A. signs up with the C. T. U. A., it always is after a hard fought battle on the part of the committees selected by their fellow work.

Ike Schwadron was one of the lucky boys to draw a ticket for the year of 1921 as vice president. Good luck Ike and let's see you often.

The meeting of the District Council. December 12 was a grand success, the hall being filled and not one chair vacant. Brothers Hinshaw, J. F. Campbell and many other old timers were present.

Ex-President Jack Hickey of the District Council, who is now General Secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Broker Division. worked hard for the organization during 1920 and succeeded in lining up the Democratic and Republican headquarters, barring all non-union men from working there. Jack's hard work and many long hours put in on other cases too numerous to mention, is highly appreciated by the officers and the membership.

The Postal will be lined up this year as the boys are now coming in gradually. We will surprise the Postal before long and they sure will sit up and take notice before the summer is over.

Total distursements .....$2,843.26

In addition to the above the division owes the international $300 account of monies advanced the general committee while in session in Toronto; $32.13 for printing of 1920 schedule and $52.00 balance of salary due General Chairman F. A. Coyle.

You will see by the above election returns that I am dropping out of the general secretary-treasurership for a term at least. The increasing accumulation of other duties has made it necessary for me to do this. I will nevertheless take a keen interest in the doings of the division and the C. T. U. A. generally. And to start the New Year properly probably a few local notes for the Journal would be in order, seeing I haven't written any, nor has any appeared from this section, since I wrote a few the beginning of last year. Owing to the heavy amount of work in connection with the division, collecting dues, assessments, etc.. I found it impossible to write up local notes. So here goes:

Prairie District: Two new positions are to be opened up in this district the beginning of the year, namely Port Arthur, day and night. For several years, the two afternoon papers at Fort William and Port Arthur, have been taking the full leased wire night report copied in the Forth William office, supplemented by an overhead service during the day. Recently a morning paper began publishing in Port Arthur, and this necessitated the afternoon papers at the Head of the Lakes reverting to a day leased wire service, with the morning paper taking the full night leased wire report. Bro. W. L. Tebo, who for many years has held down the night position at Fort William, takes the day shift in that town, and C. L. Everetts, lately from Windsor, but formerly at Saskatoon, nights, takes care of the Port Arthur end during the day, while F. H. Johnston, C. P. R., Winnipeg, takes the night position at Porth Arthur.

W. J. O'Callaghan pounds them out in copper-plate style from the Ottawa end during the day, with J. H. Evoy doing the night stunt. "Red" reports many mishaps over the Christmas holidays. Rumorhas it that Santa Claus left Red a bottle of the very finest on Christmas eve, and in his hurried leave-taking the following morning he left his key on the inside. An expert locksmith was necessary to enable Red to get back to his joy-water. After enjoying the week-end at Cornwall, Red returned to find Jack Frost had been busy in his absence. It took a plumber several hours to get Red and the pipes thawed out.

P. W. Kenefick and J. Clark alternate in the day Winnipeg bureau with Sid McLean taking care of the Tribune loop. "Gold Pan" Martin has been holding down a broker job since the amalgamation of the Telegram with the Tribune. Bob Wirlck and Bert Honey alternate in the night bureau.

"Gold Pan" Martin has been holding down a broker job since the amalgamation of the Telegram with the Tribune. Bob Wirlck and Bert Honey alternate in the night bureau.

At Saskatoon, Louie Vogel takes everything for the Star, and W. E. Asson catches for the Phoenix.

Between berry-picking and skating, Doc Wolever finds time to give the Prince Albert Herald enough to keep them going. Doc says, he always finds the first berry and Tom Wayling the first mosquito.

Bill Kennedy holds down the Regina Post position, with Gene Barry, farmertelegrapher, on the Leader nights.

Our district chairman, Tom Murray, recently returned to duty on the Moose Jaw Times, after a six week's illness with scarlet fever. Bro. Gibson of the C. P. R. did the stunt during his absence.

Oscar Gill, Gus Williams and Mickey McCandlish take care of the wants of the Journal and Bulletin at Edmonton, while Bob McWhinnle and Roy Houston alternate at the Calgary bureau, with Roy Fulton on the Lethbridge end.

Owing to the high cost of everything several changes have taken place in the line-up of western newspapers, resulting in the amalgamation of the Moose Jaw News with the Times of that city; the Regina Post closing out its plant and publishing a paper from the Leader offices, and the Saskatoon Phoenix using the plant of the Saskatoon Star to get out its morning edition. Fraternally, J. CLARK.

Now that the annual elections are over and we know "who is who." I hope that all members of Division 52 will give their new officers the proper support. Let's all pull together this year, carry an annual and meet our obligations promptly.

Some of the changes in this district are: O. R. Thompson, who has been subbing at Halifax this summer, appointed Montreal Bureau nights on Supplementary wire, in place of Brother LaChance, who has gone back to the brokerage game.

Brother Norgeot has been assigned to Le Canada nights. Norgeot says it seems good to be doing something other than "OS."

Below will be found the correspondence with the minister of labor regarding the general committee's expense account for this year's schedule negotiations, and is self-explanatory. The committee has been advised from different quarters that all traveling expenses would be paid by the department of labor. Among those to advise us to this effect was David Campbell, our representative on the board, who has had wide experience along these lines. One of our expenses the corresponding the self-expenses of our expenses the corresponding the self-expenses of the corresponding the c One of our ex-general chairmen also was of the same opinion. Apparently this information, given in all sincerity, was all formation, given in all sincerity, was all wrong.

It is now up to the membership to decide whether or not future disputes shall be settled by a board. Taking the experience of the 1920 committee as a criterion, it would seem to be decidedly bad business. No great good was accomplished by the board in 1920. It was not the award of the board that levelled off the Maritime salaries with the rest of the Dominion. nor was it the award of the board that adjusted other grievances. It was a 95-per-cent strike vote of the membership.

The committee was held up about 18 days awaiting the sitting of the board, attending the board meetings and the report of that board's findings. All this could have been accomplished in three days without a board.

A resolution will be put to the membership in the near future and the decision complied with by the 1921 committee.

Let it be understood that the 1920 general committee has no excuses to make, nor any allhies to offer. Coming into office at the first of the year, the committee with many members in eastern Canada in arrears, and the Maritime provinces so badly disorganized that local officers could not be elected, much less collect back dues and assessments. paid to that district in past years and the men were tired and disguested with conditions.

New by-laws were necessary to enlarge the committee to four members in order to give the Maritimers a representative. Back dues and assessments had to be collected and the Maritimers given some encouragement. Mr. Livesay had been appointed general manager and after a vigorous protest from the Maritime men granted an increase of $4 a week. A "monkey wrench" was thrown into the machinery about this time by one of the Maritime men, Bro. P. E. Hiltz being discharged for alleged tardiness. R. L. Greenfield, who had been elected chairman for the east, refused to, or neglected to handle the case and resigned from office with the statement that he was "about to get out of the business." Bro. Hiltz was out of the service several weeks before anything was known of his case. After considerable correspondence with Mr. Livesay, Hiltz was reinstated with all his former rights and the Maritime men took on new life.

Various questionnaires were sent out during the year in an endeavor to find the sentiment of the membership. A schedule was drawn up and approved by all circuits. The committee was given encouragement from all quarters.

About the time the committee was to convene in Toronto "inside information" became the general topic and the committee was expected to do the impossible. However, as it developed, the peddler of the "inside information" was among the first to vote "yes." Others did not vote at all.

first to vote 'yes. Others and local at all.

The committee's actions were open and above board. A true statement of its case, presented to the board of concilitation, was given each member. The committee went just as far as the membership would allow. If there are any disgruntled members, let them place the blame were it belongs.

gruntled members, let them place the blame were it belongs.

Two of last year's committee—Bros. Tobin and Gillis—have refused to serve this year. Others have been elected in their place. If telegraphers employed by Canadian Press wish to maintain their present wage scale, or improve it and the working conditions, they will look matters straight in the face and support the committee. If they will not do this, but prefer listening to a disgruntled few, all the committees and all the boards of conciliations in Canada cannot help them. The year 1921 will be for the telegraphers just what they make it.

The amendment to the by-laws to increase the yearly dues was defeated. This will necessitate another assessment to carry on negotiations this fall. It will be levied so as to cause as little inconvenience as possible.

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 17, 1920. Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, Ottawa, Ont. Dear Sir:

Dear Sir:

I would like to draw your attention to the manner in which the Canadian Press telegraphers' committee has been treated by your department.

In conformity with the working agreement in effect September 1, between Canadian Press. Ltd., and its telegraph operators, who are members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. 30 days' notice was handed the general manager on August 1, requesting certain changes in working conditions, and increases in wages.

ager on August 1, requesting certain changes in working conditions, and increases in wages.

Near the end of August the committee was advised by the general manager that a board of conciliation had been applied for. Shortly after this word was received from your department stating that while the industry affected did not come under the act, the department would be glad if we would concur in a board. This concurrence was readily accred to. Arriving in Toronto on August 24, the committee was advised the hoard had been appointed and would sit September 6. Later this date was postponed to September 10, The committee was willing to accept the invitation of your department since it understood all expenses would be taken care of by the department. as Clause 54 of the Lemieux act provides. After the board had finished its sittings, the committee was asked to turn in expense vouchers

Reaching home we were advised by E. A. Thomas, accountant, that "This does not apear to be an account for which the department is liable." I took the matter up with Mr. Thomas and later received a cheque for $31.50, actual expenses for myself while attending the board, and witness fees.

committee, Frank Gillis, 87 Bonnacord Street, Moncton, W. G. Tobin, 187 St. Claren's Avenue, Toronto, and T. B. Murray, 1165 Alder Avenue, Moose Jaw, have received nothing, nor has any explanation been forthcoming.

It seems to me that since the Lemieux act provides "All expenses of the board, including expenses for transportation by the members thereof, or by persons under its order, in making investigations under the act, xxx and fees and mileage to witnesses, shall be allowed and paid upon presentation of itemized vouchers thereof, approved by the chairman of the board," there should be no delay in the payment of these expenses.

presentation of the board,"
there should be no delay in the payment of these expenses.

Arriving in Toronto on August 24, the committee was held up until September 10 for the board, and several days thereafter awaiting the board's report. The minimum daily expense of the committee was $50. The expense, therefore, caused by complying with your department's request was approximately $1,000. For this we are handed $31.50.

Telegraphers employed by Canadian Press believe the Lemieux act is a very good instrument for the settling of disputes. They have every reason to believe the general manager of that association has similar views, but if the telegraphers are not to be given the full benefits of that act, then there is no good reason why they should be asked to concurrence in a board, but they are not willing to haggle several months over expense money which they believe honestly due them.

Vancouver, B. C.

Dear Sir:
Your letter of December 17 is received this morning and I note your complaints to the effect that the expense rendered by the members of your committee to the department of labor have not been paid in full.

My information is that your committee had to go to Toronto to negotiate with the officials representing the employers and that the expenses incurred in traveling would have been incurred had no board been applied for. I cannot, therefore, under such circumstances agree to the department being assessed with the traveling expenses of your committee which would have been incurred whether a board was established or not. The members of the committee are entitled to compensation from this department to the extent of their reasonable hotel expenses and witness fees while the hotel expenses and witness fees while the board was in session, and I will undertake to see that the accounts are fairly settled on this basis.

Yours sincerely,
G. D. ROBERTSON,

I. N. S. NOTES

Kansas City-South

Frank M. Darby, who has been chief operator at Kansas City since the "Kansas City South" circuit was inaugurated on November 24, 1919, taking in Texas and Oklahoma points, has been appointed chief operator for the I. N. S., at Chicago, effective January 1, and has assumed his new duties.

tive January 1, and has assumed his new duties.

Park P. Jones, an old timer in the press and broker game, recently of Chicago, succeeded Brother Darby at Kansas City.

As much as we all hate to lose "Darb," we are glad to see him receive a well earned promotion and he leaves with the good will and best wishes for further success of all the boys on the circuit. We congratulate the boys on the circuit. We congratulate the boys on their good fortune.

As a chief and a fair and square man to all, enough praise cannot be given Brother Darby. We are all certain he will stand the test and hope he will get the same co-operation from the men that will come under his jurisdiction at Chicago as he received from the men on this circuit—100 percent at all times. As a sender he ranks with the best. He is one of the few good senders that uses his head as well as his hand and has the patience of an angel. Complete harmony has been enjoyed on this circuit ever since "Darb" became chief, something that can't be boasted of by many circuits.

something that can't be boasted of by many circuits.

The boys on this circuit stand ready to give Brother Jones the same support they gave "Darb," and we hope the same good feelings and harmony will carry us through the new year.

OHIO STATE I. N. S.

The boys on this circuit appear unanimous in support of the plan to voluntarily assess themselves 50 cents a week for three months in order to complete the task of organizing the press telegraphers of the United States and put into effect universal schedules and working agreements. The papers on this wire are served by real union men.

by real union men.

Wild Bill Phillips, Cleveland bureau, announced, following publication on nominations, that he is assigned to another circuit, despite the two hours daily served on the Ohio branch. This clears Bill of the dark suspicion of "repeating" in the nominations in which he received TWO votes for the circuit chairmanship. He voted on the trunk line.

With the settling down of winter, no additional changes in personnel on this circuit may be expected until spring.

The serenity of events has been steadily maintained, with the exception of a week's vacation given Art Graham, Marietta, where the papers were combined during the holidays because of a strike of typos, who asked a 33 1-3 per cent increase. With the union label restored to the mastheads, things are back to normaley and Art has given up his attempts to write poetry.

CHICAGO-PORTLAND I. N. S.

CHICAGO-PORTLAND I. N. S.

Several changes of considerable important to the talent on the west have taken place in the past month.

Frank Darby, sender extraordinary, lately of KX, has been transferred to Chicago and is now busily engaged in making the boys between AM and JN hit the ball. In addition to this he is also employed as chief operator—west and south.

P. P. Jones, lately of Chicago, relieved Darby at KX and is now singing solos for the matadors along the Rio Grande.

Once in a while now the boys excuse themselves to say "talk."

I used to spring that one myself until Bro. Frank Powers inserted an article in the Journal dealing with the stunts pulled in the "stone age."

In that age, says Frank, they beat the daylight savings law, by consuming myriads of minutes to "talk."

Anytime a man mentions stone or ivory, I know who he's talking shout.

Anytime a man mentions stone or ivory, I know who he's talking about.

Anyhow Bro. Powers explained that stone and ivory are very valuable articles in their proper places—but can't be used with any degree of success on a press circuit.

Frank may have been referring to a Sinn Fein demonstration—but I'm taking no chances. I've invented a lot of new ones—to be used in cases of extreme emergency—a la life belt.

The "Gold Dust Twins" at JN are happy now. D. Christopher doesn't have to "cuss" the sender anymore, and they say "Louie" has better copy to send from.

Bro. Mike Dacey at Denver has pulled a clever bit of Irish strategy.

"Mike" was our circuit chairman and would be right now if he hadn't counted himself out.

CHICAGO I. N. S. NOTES

Several important changes in this office are to be recorded, the principal one being the departure of Ed. J. Williams to Detroit I N. S. office. J. C. Godfrey will replace "Ed" on the Chicago-Atlanta circuit. Bro. Godfrey comes from the A. P., Chicago. Frank Darby, from Kansas City, replaces Pat Donovan on the Chicago-Portland circuit and assumes title of chief operator. Mr. W. S. Brons, however, retains supervision of the telegraph department in the western district.

P. P. Jones. late with Chicago brokers, suceeds Frank Darby as chief at Kansas City and operates the Texas circuit.

For sometime it has been the desire of Ed Williams to make the Detroit tranfer and the consummation of the deal was sanctioned during the recent visit of Superintendent of Telegraphs McElreath to Chicago.

The departure of "Ed" from "Am." office marks the passing of one of the last and best of the old-time so-called "hand" senders from relay offices of press associations.

Many operators, in and out of the business, will recall with admiration the excellent and, on many occasions, brilliant work rendered by "Ed" during his many years at the key, and his record of efficiency, loyalty and continuous service should prove an enviable mark for the younger generation to shoot at. "Ed" leaves with the best wishes of his numerous friends for success and prosperity in his new location. his new location.

Our new Superintendent of Telegraphs "Con" McElreath is exercising the rare judgment acquired by his many years of service as operator and his vast acquaintance among all classes of the fraternity, in the selection of men to fill vacancies occasioned by transfers and new positions, made possible by the ever-growing demands of this rapidly-expanding organization, and in the acquisition of Bros. Darby, Godfrey and Jones, assures for the I. N. S. a continuance of the high type of efficiency that has in the past characterized the service rendered at these important relay points. Rumors of further contemplated changes hold promise of the building up of a telegraph personnel that will not only reflect credit on the efforts of the new superintendent, but will arouse the envy of competing press associations.

During his recent visit Superintendent of the Celreath expressed a sincere desire to further the interests and welfare of the men under his jurisdiction, to the full extent of the power embodied in his position, asking in return nothing more than the full measure of co-operation and good will to which fair dealing is entitled.

Notice how "Bones" Ewell has improved on the bug. F. Y. I., Bones used to be a star with the little insect when he worked for Swift & Co., some years ago. He'll be bidding in on "HX" when he gets all the old swing back.

We now have a full fiedged captain on the circuit. Captain J. E. Holmes at FB. Captain Holmes was a member of the Fifth signal battalion of the old Third division and did his bit in turning the Kaiser back at Chateau Therry when things looked very, very black for the allies. His announcement that house rent in FB is $16 a month, and butter sells for 40 cents has created quite a bit of jealousy.

Brother Gorder at Sloux City was pleasantly surprised Christmas when the Tribune there handed him $50 in gold for a Christmas present. The Tribune evidently appreciates "service."

With 8-cent street car fare and a boost in gas and electric light rates, Earl Welgel at NW is threatening to live in a tent on the roof of the News building next summer. Cheer up, Earl, "normaicy" will be here before summer.

Dick Foster, former Chicago Tribune star, is grinding it out for the Kearney, Neb., Hub.

Brother Morio at Salt Lake City sold "Murf" at SX some shares in his new fish hatchery recently. We thought Morio was playing Murf for a sucker till he

"tipped his mitt." He calls it a fish hatchery on the supposition that all fish drink more or less.

The financial depression almost caused Ray McCaffrie's paper at "DQ" to suspend. At last reports they are straightened out and we won't lose Mack.

Al Harrison is signing up so many new leased wire points on this circuit that the wire probably will be cut into two "strings" before long. Waterloo and Cedar Rapids are the two latest, and there are one or two more hanging fire.

Oscar Tracy at K dumbfounded Art Lyons the other day by informing the Chicagoan that his girl at K is going to marry a better looking gentleman. Ought to break news like that a trifle gentler, Oscar.

A generous old sport named Huck, brove out to shoot him a duck, Returning much peeved and full out of luck, Waged a vigorous campaign for Buck.

Note: If any of you fellers go "home" before I do, please don't show the above to Tennyson or Longfellow, for I fear they'll be a layin' for me.

From the looks of things the author of the above "whatever you call it" is to be circuit chairman of this important circuit. If I wait till the final ballots are in, it may be too late for a write-up of this circuit this month. So presuming so and so, I will tender you my speech of acceptance in advance.

Not that the post of circuit chairman is so exalted, notwithstanding the responsibilities it might incur in the future, my great appreciation can not be withheld for the near unanimous vote as shown in the primary bailot. Being practically a youngster in the U. P. service, the vote of confidence fills my heart with thankful gratitude. I earnestly assure you that no matter what the issue may be wherein the circuit chairman is called upon to the circuit chairman is called upon participate, you shall see nothing participate, you shall see square-dealing on my part.

I have witnessed two cases lately where it took the A. P. a month to six weeks to relieve men who had resigned. I have witnessed and experienced other cases where it took them about one day to relieve men for union activities. I know of a specific case where one with half a year seniority over another is being denied a coveted transfer, the T. D. R.'s having their own little pet for the job. Yet some idiots claim the A. P. is fair. Bosh! Bosh!

Am glad to observe that Brother Baugh of San Antonio is back on the job after a forced vacation of several weeks' ill-

Our good Brother Pete at Wichita Falls was also incapacitated for several days but is back again and we are glad of it. Brother W. R. Young is a new arrival at Blackwell, relieving Brother Safley, transferred to Port Arthur, a new client. You're sure welcome to our city Bill. Brother Ensign has been en-signed to Houston, another new agency and Brother C. E. Sopher is the new janitor at Amarillo, relieving Ensign.

Brother Horman at "K. Z." returned from a visit to Sioux City where Mrs. Herman had been for some time. Herm is the proud father of another boy. Congratulations Herm and here's hoping the fine little fellows will bring you worlds of joy.

Darn if F can notice "Big" Ed's old Digitized by right wing deteriorating any and I've been listening to it now for several months. Us fellows ought to feel mighty proud of our opportunity to copy such fine senders as Ed and Red. They sure are a fine team. Who could object seriously to a raise in dues? Why its worth it just to copy on here, let alone the necessity of the project.

I agree with a good many other brothers who are advocating a raise in dues, but I believe there is one alternative, and that is more members. I believe that unless each of us obtains at least one new member apiece on the average between now and July 1 the dues should be raised.

With kind wishes for this happy New Year, I hereby adjourn the meetin' til next month... Yours fraternally,

BUCK.

Atlanta-Southern Circuit

We're still represented in Anniston. Some grew dizzy at the rapidity of changes made there in operating personnel and reports would lead one to believe that Charles Joyner has been placed there only temporarily. Maybe some one from the frigid zone would like it there; they say Anniston has at least a climate. It was first too "wet" and then too warm. or something else, for Ben Anderson, who was relieved by Young Haygood while Hippy was looking up Charley to stick around till the job is filled. We're glad to have Joyner, from the swampy country in with us, and hope he will find a regular seat with us soon.

"Santa" Claus came around Christmas night, instead of Christmas Eve on our circuit. He was the joker "Klaus" in the U. P. contract. He put eight golden hours in the stocking of various newspapers and left the operator to pay the bill. Well, who knew last July that Christmas would come on Saturday? Certainly not, the committee.

Chicago—South

We have two senders on this circuit now—Brother Lyons and Risner.

Brother Frayne at "MS" is acting bureau manager for two weeks. Brother Merrill taking his place.

Brother Knappen at "PR" says "Some one is 'gonna' be murdered if they don't stop using my sign."

We think we know the guilty party!
We have a new client on this string—The American Daily Standard, located in Chicago. Brother Eidermann is doing the stunt, formerly with the Drover's Journal which went into the printers. "Spide" says he misses "St. Pol."

Now that we have new officers elected. "let's back them to the limit and give them all the support they need."

We are 100 per cent buttoned now.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE Chicago-South Circuit

Chicago-South Circuit

L. R. Small, formerly with the I. N. S., at Muskogee, Okla., has been appointed regular operator for Universal Service at Oklahoma City, vice Samuel W. Bare, transferred to Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Chicago-South wire was kept pretty hot the latter part of December, on account of the search and final location of Clara Smith Hamon. After an intensive scouting campaign on this big piece of news, Sam Blair, staff man for the Chicago Herald and Examiner and Universal Service "scooped" the world by locating Mrs. Hamon in Chihuahua City, Mexico, and getting an exclusive interview from her. Blair's audacious journalistic feat is now newspaper history and Universal Service operators are familiar with his performance. We were very glad to see an enterprising newspaper miliar with his performance. We were very glad to see an enterprising newsgathering organization like Universal Service accomplish a broadside "scoop" to the utter amazement and confusion of its competitors.

A competing news-gathering agency made desperate efforts to discredit Blair's story but failed utterly.

Hargreaves' Greeting

George T. Hargreaves, general manager of Universal Service, sent the following holiday greeting to all Universal Service employes:

lowing holiday greeting to all Universal Service employes:

"Please accept my most sincere wish for a joyous Christmas and new year season. This wish is enhanced by my keen appreciation of your efficient and sustained efforts in behalf of the organization during the year now closing."

We thank Mr. Hargreaves for his good wishes and heartily reciprocate them. We wish him a happy new year.

It is regrettable that Universal Service division was not better represented in the Christmas number of the Journal in the way of news notes from the various circuits. Chicago, New York, the West and other sections ought to be able to send in a few notes now and then.

Don't forget to figure on your spare change for an annual card this time. Annuals are going to be very popular this year. Roscoe Johnson and Paul Schnur have done yeoman service for the C. T. U. A., since they have been in charge. Let's help them all we can. News is scarce on this circuit just now, so this correspondent will depend on other circuits to fill up the deficiency in January Journal.

PITTSBURGH DISTRICT COUNCIL

The dance which was held at the Maccabee Hall on South Highland Avenue, East End Pittsburgh, on Friday evening, November 19th, was a great success. This is another good example of the "Spirit of work together and co-operation slogan" which was adopted by us some time

The Chairman of the entertainment committee feels that he made a splendid move when he appointed the little snappy committee, which was so instrumental in helping to formulate the plans for the aboye-mentioned affair, and through the splendid co-operation of the committee and all the other members of District Council No. 6, who so liberally gave their support to the project. The Postal local and I. N. S. bunch also rallied to our support in numbers which made a very good showing. The committee wishes to express their many thanks for the splendid support given to this affair. The committee treasury has a fairly good balance left after paying for all the expenses of

We understand the A. W. E. had a dance about the same time ours was given. It We understand the A. W. E. had a dance about the same time ours was given. I it appears they only have affairs of this kind when they find out the C. T. U. A. is going to hold a dance. Wonder if they are afraid some of the C. T. U. A. bunch might come to their affairs if they held them on dates at variance with ours? Presume they think if they have them on the same date or near the date of ours the C. T. U. A. bunch would not be able to attend them. Wonder how much anybody cares how many dances they have or when they have them? The thing that worries us mostly is: Possibly some of the A. W. E. bunch would like to attend our affairs and can't on account of their free dances conflicting with the date of ours, or possibly some of the W. U. officials seeing them. It must be an awful dilemna to be afraid to go where one pleases! It's great to belong to a Union which is domineered and controlled by the Boss Employer, ain't it? Yes, by gum, that's right, and ain't it fine when the boss keeps your dues to such a Union out of your pay?

CENTRAL NEWS NOTES

The Central News of America is one of the smallest 100 per cent C. T. U. A. services in the country, the force consisting of Bill Holland, at the Evening Ledger, Philadelphia, a member of the Philadelphia Broker Unit; Louis B. Kaufman, at New York, who sends on the Westwire and Joe Milgram who delivers on the Ledger wire to Bill Holland. Being unscheduled press men, Kaufman and Milgram hold cards in the National Press Division.

gram hold cards in the National Press Division.

Taking the Central News service on the West wire are the New York News Bureau, Pittsburgh; Mike Madden, operator; New York News Bureau Association, Cincinnati; Bill Glebel operator; Financial News Bureau, Detroit; R. E. Washburn, operator, and Chicago News Bureau, Chicago, Bill Meents, operator. Bill Meents has been a member of the W. B. D. for a long time. The writer does not know whether the other men named hold cards. If they do not, the sub-divisions should get after them It may be possible, despite the fact that these subscribers are independent of one another, to line this service up some day and standardize the salaries and conditions.

In the city of New York there are no doubt many unscheduled press men who belong to the E. B. D., hold a card in the National Press, or are not members at all. If any of them are interested enough to attempt to form a National Press unit in New York City, they should communicate with the writer. Only 15 are required under the constitution to obtain a charter, and there are at least four times that many unattached press men in town.

JOSEPH B. MILGRAM, Central News, New York.

DES MOINES, IOWA

As the old year disappears this correspondent is authorized to say on behalf of the fraternity here that President Roscoe Johnson and Secretary-Treasurer Schnur did a 100 percent job for the commercial telegraphers in 1920. That they did not do more is not their fault. Officials of a labor union have to gauge their administration according to its numerical and financial strength. Now that we are so well on our way every member ought to put a 100 percent energy in his activity in behalf of the organization. Let's do it.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, NOTES

The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America is a progressive, constructive and battle-scarred organization. It has had two strikes—1907 and 1919—and survived both of them. This is comething that cannot be said of any preceding commercial telegraphers' union. All preceding unions have disintegrated immediately after a strike was declared off.

The new year of 1921 has already dawned and along with it came a new age—the age of concentration, co-operation and organization. Science and capital demand that every ounce or atom of energy be made to count in the onward march of progress and civilization Labor demands that it he properly and fittingly rewarded progress and civilization Labor demands that it be properly and fittingly rewarded for every ounce or atom of energy that it puts forth in producing the wealth of the nation. The only way to obtain this proper and fitting reward is through concentration, co-operation and organization.

The C. T. U. A. is now eighteen years old. Organized in 1902, it has gained such a strong foothold as a labor union that no arrogant and crooked telegraph company has ever been able to destroy it, hard as they have tried.

The strike of 1907 nearly wrecked the union, but the strike of 1919 strengthened it, ill-advised as it was. Ever since the 1919 strike the union has been forging ahead and it is gaining ground every day.

Two hundred new members were added to the rolls in October. This new addition to our ranks is of signal importance and it gives us ground for renewed hope and it ought to encourage our multitude of organizers in their endeavor to increase our membership. Let us hope that the impetus that was given to our organization activity in October will be doubled, trebled and quadrupled in the remaining months to come in 1921 and that before the new year is very far on its journey of time that we will have attained the high water mark in membership that we enjoyed in 1907.

The Journal published a large number

The Journal published a large number of interesting views and opinions on subjects germane to the welfare of our organization in its December issue. They were all well written, deeply interesting and the various writers discussed their subjects in a manner both commendable and praiseworthy. All members would do well to read every one of these valuable contributions, ponder over them and gain wisdom thereby.

We do not want any more strikes if it is possible to honorably avoid them. Ask any experienced union labor man in any line of labor if he favors using the strike weapon and he will tell you that he does not unless as an extreme last resort, when all honorable negotiations have failed, and slavish conditions have been arbitrarily forced upon the workers.

Writers in recent issues of the Journal have advised that we put the idea of striking behind us and substitute diplomacy, common sense and persistency. The Order of Railroad Telegraphers has already adopted these methods and it is a matter of current history that they have been successful. All other successful labor unions have adopted the same policy. We should do likewise.

We ought to make 1921 a banner year from a standpoint of organization and negotiations with employers. Remember that we are eighteen years old now, and we ought to make strenuous efforts to become thoroughly organized and schedule at least one telegraph company, preferably the Postal, before another year dawns.

Personal

Alfred M. Howard, former president of San Antonio local, now located at Houston, Texas, as representative of the Detroit Auto Scale Company, made a trip to San Antonio the latter part of November on business and was given a cordial welcome by the telegraph and newspaper fraternity. Howard formerly worked the state leased wire for the Express for four or five years.

R. R. Brown, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has been assigned as regular operator to the Chicago Tribune leased wire. He is lo-cated on the Express. We welcome him.

M. U. Caul, of Dallas, relieved Wade E. Baugh, United Press operator on the Evening News for a week the early part of December, while Baugh was on leave on account of a slight indisposition.

The United Press

The United Press

The United Press bureau, which was established in San Antonio about five months ago, was transferred to Houston, Texas, on Nov. 22nd. Lawson May, a splendid young newspaper man, who was in charge of the bureau here, is now located in the Houston Press building; where he files a pony report for the Texas papers that he filed out of San Antonio. The Houston Press installed the United Press leased wire service about six weeks ago. Mr. May endeared himself to the newspaper and telegraph fraternity while in San Antonio and it was with regret that they witnessed his departure.

AUGUSTA, GA.

AUGUSTA, GA.

The suggestions that members keep their Journals in circulation among the nons, which have been made in recent issues of the Journal, are very valuable and important organization hints. The Journal is one of our best organizers and nothing advertises or spreads a gospel of any kind like printers' ink. The writer hopes that ALL members will pass their Journals along to nons, accompanied by gentlemanly and convincing personal arguments. The Augusta fraternity is anxious to see our membership take on a new, steady and rapid growth. We ought to break the record in this respect in 1921.

CANADIAN NATIONAL NOTES Toronto District

Now that the election of officers for Central District has been completed, and we have settled back for another year, cannot pass unnoticed the most bitter attack upon our Chairman and Vice Chairman man.

Whoever was the author of this most infamous epistle of illiteracy, it is to be hoped that it will stand as a monument to his everlasting disgrace.

If this man, or more properly called "type of man" had any cause for attacking either our Chairman or Vice Chairman, he certainly could have done so at any meeting, but for him to do so behind an anonymous circular, and to resort to the undermining methods of disruption such as he did, can only be of one consequence, namely, to put you on your guard against him or anything which he may be connected with.

All your strength is in your Union, all your danger is your discord. In our case it seems our danger is our indifference. Those of you who went to bed with Rip Van Winkle should soon wake up, we are calling loud enough.

Guard yourselves against such type of men who would for their own personal gain sell you body and soul.

gain sell you body and soul.

Possibly "SK" might tell us why he notified the Superintendent that the present committee did not represent the empioyees. His action was a direct challenge, and one which should not be overlooked. He should bear in mind, "Sic transit Gloria mundi."

C. P. R. MANITOBA NOTES By the "Onlooker"

Well, it couldn't be helped. New Year's resolutions and all, we "busted out" again. Like the Scotchman we met on the street car New Year's eve. He was wiping his eyes, lamenting "It canna' be did, it canna' be did." What's the trouble?" somebody asked him; "what can't be did, my good man?" "Have a merry Xmas and a happy New Year," said he.

"Happy New Year, James; what you get for Xmas?"

"Happy New Year, James; what you get for Xmas?"

"Uggh, U-g-g-h, 'nother ton of coal; who wants to know?"

Greetings to "Nominee" Pete. We all got our cards. Also greetings to all those who used to work in "WN", and to the gentleman who frose his ears a few winters ago with a quart in his overcoat pocket. Things are very quiet in "Red-town" just now, except that "Red"Russellis out and addressed five thousand people in the industrial bureau a few weeks ago. It is too bad that every time a legitimate list, such as the one for Mrs. Hill, is started in this office that a half dozenmore get started at the same time. Some of them are more or less deserving, but let it bear the smack of favor by any official of the company and see how they crowd in on it. Just like shaking a tree of ripe peaches on a warm summer's evening. You poor suckers.

There was a time here in Canada that there would have been no C. T. U. A. if it had not been for Charlie Hill. Mrs. C. E. Hill will never want for anything as long as there is a C. T. U. A. in Canada. There are still enough "square shooters" in this country to see to that.

"Have you paid your dues? and are you ever going to come through with that assessment. There are a bunch of "ingrates" around here who ought to be working for about $50.00 a month."

The C. P. R. and the C. G. R. donated their respective depots to the public to celebrate New Year's eve. No one was admitted without an up-to-date card or an O. B. U. button. A buffet luncheon was served with fish and chips and the buffet was decorated with "40XI, Spts Frumenti." All were pleased. A pleasant time was had.

When are you going to pay up the assessment?

had. When are you going to pay up the people."

Have you paid your assessment?
We are told that there was so much "California weather" in Montreal this winter that the trees started to bud and break out into leaf. Fears are expressed that there will be no leaves on the trees there this summer on account of buds getting fooled that way, but, in a city like Montreal where the vintage is so profuse it will hardly be missed. How about it, Decelles?

It is with prime regret that we learn

Decelles?

It is with prime regret that we learn that Alex McLaren is not going to function for Sask. District this year. His perception and dash of humor and good-fellowship will be missed. Who do you like in the next race?

We got to send a Jewish committee next year to Montreal. Nearly all of the opposition last year were Scotch. What little we had personally was stolen from behind our bathtub at a time when it was most needed. This will not be tolerated any more, absolutely.

Six or eight men laid off in Vancouver this winter. Too bad to let some of their best men go that way. It's music to hear them coding up the night letters all night. Go to it, multiplex yourself and when you get clear I'll get you some more.

Have you paid your assessment?

Cost of living is coming down on everything except what you go out and try to buy. Electrical workers in this city are going after another increase.

Wanted—Secretary-treasurer for this local. Can have all the money he can collect. Don't push. lect.

Will buy, sell or exchange—Jack-knife, piece of string, cottage at the beach. "Personals" issued at all hours. See that hollow just back of the thumb? That holds just twenty-five cents worth. See yuh tumorr'.

Some of you around this local want to get busy and get this town on the map again. Get some of that stuff from "Gid." He'll sell you anything, whether he's got it

Anyone who has gotten this far has our sympathy. If you see something you don't like why just cut loose and we will let Mr. Johnson be the referee.

A moving picture broke all records for the "Lyceum Theatre" as far as receipts were concerned for the first day of the week. It was advertised on every bill-board in town, but a good many who saw it were disappointed. The picture was called "While New York Sleeps." Those who were disappointed should see Carl.

who were disappointed should see Carl.

We would like to see interested operators throughout the United States collect all the comparative figures they can as regards performance on wires, working conditions in each office they work in of W. U. and Postal. We need this data on every schedule we go after. Anything that you run up against no matter how small or insignificant it may seem to you may be of great help to us in Canada. The company always have this compiled and complete to the last lota. Send it in to your worthy president and he can forward it to us to be put in shape. Take this seriously and get to work.

Most of the broker men in Canada carry

Most of the broker men in Canada carry cards, but in most of the commercial companies locals or the O. R. T. from which they derive no protection. How about a few suggestions along these lines? For instance an eastern and a western broker division in Canada.

Greetings to Bro. E. S. Parker who has paid his dues five years in advance and has been a member of the C. T. U. A. since its inception. He does not need any protection from the C. T. U. A., being richly endowed with worldy goods to which his status as a man of integrity and fair dealing on the grain exchange entitle him. Our hat is off.

Our hat is off.

Those who withhold their assessments are standing in their own light. There is a very large percentage of the world's population who never achieve all their ambitions or get as much money as they expect. No matter what they have got in this business, it was the C. T. U. A. that got it for them and their condition would have been far worse without it. If you expected a forty-dollar increase, and although every effort was expended to get it. and you only got twenty is no reason why the first month's increase, no matter how small, should not be donated to the C. T. U. A. Without any organization whatever if the C. P. A. had said to you, "We will give you a twenty dollar a month increase providing you pay us back the first month's increase of twenty dollars before you get it" you would have paid the twenty dollars if you had to borrow it, wouldn't you? You bet you would.

It just recurred to us that Mr. A. L.

It just recurred to us that Mr. A. L. Taylor, who came to work with us here about three or four months before the increase went into effect, benefited by the increase and also received a nice little sum in back time. This man refused to pay an assessment or even take out a card, but quit and went to the U.S.A.

A man who is dishonest in his union principles or uses sharp practices to beat the union out of a few dollars will be found dishonest in other things.

Let us hope we get as conscientious a man as Charlie Hill was for our new secretary-treasurer.

Have you paid your assessment?

If Mr. Connolly sees this we desire to notify him that there is a cheque for some back time coming to him from the last schedule we negotiated. He left before the increase came through. If any of you roamers know where he is, tell him to communicate with this local, Box 844.

Some of these deadbeats who get out of town owing tailors and room rent, etc., are going to get themselves in bad. We are going to locate these birds and see that honest tradespeople are not film-flammed by these petty larceny crooks, if we can help it. It's for the good of the craft as well as for the public at large.

Have you paid your assessment?

CANADIAN NATIONAL MANITOBA DIS-TRICT NOTES

TRICT NOTES

The most outstanding feature of this month was an event to be long remembered, which was marked by a presentation of a gorgeous standard lamp, solid brass, with pearled glass, weighing 28 pounds, by the admirers to our esteemed co-telegrapher, Mr. A. Robinson. Not only because he dared to venture the narrow pass of matrimony, but also in recognition as one of the most energetic workers of the C. T. U. A. in Canada, and of the organization's most able leader. His organization, zeal and enthusiasm were combined with great practical efficiency and organizing talent. His work, especially for the welfare of all members, both east and west, will go down into history.

Now that the elections are over, and the west, will go down into history.

Now that the elections are over, and the membership have selected their men, we regret to say that everything was not according to "Hoyle." In spite of the petty jealousy, which was very manifest, the record of the General Committee of 1920 certainly was the best ever. They certainly accomplished more than any committee in a comparative time against a party, hostile and would-be wreckers. The Western and Central Districts returned their respective members of the General Committee with a large majority. However, we trust and hope the new General Chairman will take his General Committee into consultation before signing anything; in fact, at all times, and perhaps it would be in order to suggest that he should declare his policy to the membership at large. large.

All ye puck chasers and world beaters better be advised in good time afore we practice up or you may well take to the woods right now, for you will anyhow. You don't need to take our word for it; just you take a squint at the following lining up: Bro. O'Neill (Sinn-Feiner), of celebrated eastern produce, has a natural defense on his frame, tips any old scales, measures the limit and former hookey enthusiast from Dublin. Bro. Thomas (Cutey) or perfect 36, and this here old hoy sure knows how to talk to that little rubber, and when he gets started, well—better look out. Pfiefer (Gussey), that boy can tell them all; he talks the best game I ever did see. And our genial C. O. Milne (birdman), boy, boy, if he doesn't knock them high spots off, well—I miss my guess. Bro. Jones (former "pro"), all that boy does is lay down, and he has that puck in your net 'fore you can count ten. Bro. Leslie Bodley. (Speed). clerk at "G.X." gauged with a thermometer. Goldovsky (Buck, or Little Actor). Mikton Strachan, they sure are a "real find." Then there is Bro. Phillips, who has just returned from a trip down east, where they scoop the big ones up. The above aggregation will be led by no less than our most distinguished old timers like (Chimmey) Grace and Frego. and Frego.

Jim Runnells, the pessimist, wishes me to announce that he is also organizing a rival team and will let us in on it next month, if these fellows fail to take the Wonder why Bro. Gislason has that "far away" look every morning. Won't she let you go home, Dick?

A word of praise will, I believe, be in proper order for some of the work that was done by the election committee, although everything was not according to Hoyle. However, we must lend our full co-operation to the new officers. The contrast was found to be presented with truly eager vividness.

Bro. Williams, who has just returned from a brief visit to Detroit and Windsor, looking as fresh as a yearling, gave us all the once over and wonders "What's the attraction in this cold north." Wonder what it is, George? But still we would like to know why George had to move at 2.a. m

Miss Inez Carlow (better known as Cleopatra), one of our many popular vamps, has left for a brief holiday to her parents, "so she says." But we have our doubts. Hurry back, Ina.

"A handsome reward will be offered to anyone who can tell us why Bro. Glo-bensky is always humming that old ditty, 'I Wonder Who Is Kissing Her Now'."

Bro. Goldovsky, who is relieving Mr. Saunders at Clark and Martin's, is doing real yeoman work. Hurry back, Buck, and liven up them crap games.

Welcome home, Bro. Phillips. That's alright, but why not let us in on that too, eh?

Among the latest arrivals are Tom Smith. Kirpatrick, Fisher, Breen, Welch and Bud Fenton. Welcome to our city, gang. Hope you are with us everlasting. The members of Division 43 express their sympathy to Mr. Saults in his recent bereavement, the loss of his wife.

Correspondent.

CINCINNATI NOTES

December Journal fine. Snap and pep to correspondence. This should be a banner year for organization work. Every member try to bring in at least six new applications for 1921, one every two months.

Members should keep in touch with outside offices, especially the branches. We need them as much as they need us.

Some press and broker members cast journals aside after reading. Suggest sending journals to nearest local, if they cannot pass them to the "nons."

Operators, especially those employed by postal in small towns, are now more than ever interested in unionism. This is a very encouraging sign. Now is the time to get their applications. The C. T. U. A. is not organizing only first-class operators. The little office men want to get in, and they can be assured of the glad hand.

Brother Willie Williams has left the "Happy Family." Now working for Westheimer. Good luck, Willie.

Brother Herb Geibel could not stand the racket of 4 hours a day and decided to rest up until business shows some signs of improvement.

Regular monthly meeting showed all regulars in line and prospects good for the 100 per cent we are shooting at for all 1921.

We have the "extra list" with us again. But the correspondent does not think it will last long. No reason why things should not boom soon.

Bro, Chamlin resigned. Gone home to Springfield, Ill. Out of the game for good, he says. Can't say that we blame him. Good luck in the new field, Cham Ole Boy. Mr. Woods resigned. Homeward bound for the west coast.

Bro. Copher, still in town, fills all the "gilt edge" wire jobs in town. The press boys like to have "CI" around. They can "bank" on his filling the bill.

Bro. Bill Cruise, still at Middletown for United Press. Bill could not stay long after the "Reds" failed south, last fall.

ALBERTA DISTRICT C. P. R.

Once again the members of this district have shown their wisdom in electing the following to fill the three chief offices for the year 1921. Chairman Bro. D. J. Mc-Kay has proved his mettle during the past year, and the experience gained during that period will serve him greatly throughout the coming year. Vice-Chairman Bro. George Campbell is also elected to a second term, and we hope that, should the occasion arise, he will serve us as well as he did during Bro. Mc-Kay's absence last year. We also have a very able member for secretary-treasurer in the person of Bro. Fred Williams, and although we have not seen him in an executive position before, it is felt that Fred will acquit himself very admirably. Altogether, it is a very strong executive, and we can look for some good work during the coming year.

Let all of us pull together with a strong resolve to help our officers to the best of our ability. There are several ways of doing this. The first is by attending the meetings, and taking an active part in the disposal of business. At the last few meetings there have only been a handful present, and it is very discouraging for the chairman when he has important business to bring up, to see there is practically no one present to take an interest in what is going on. Of course, the chief way of making the secretary-treasurer's office lighter is by paying dues and assessments promptly, not making it necessary for him to ask any member. All members that possibly can, should also make it a point to take out an annual card. This is a great help to your secretary-treasurer, and it is also very satisfying to yourself to know that your dues are paid up for the whole year.

This district has been following with interest the work of Bro. C. W. Mitchell and the joint meeting of all telegraphers in Toronto in endeavoring to bring about a Canadian convention and also the federating of all Canadian Units. We firmly believe that a convention is necessary for the closer co-operation of all Canadian units, which would in turn prove its value in future negotiations.

Business depression is making itself felt here, as usual about this time of the year. We have already lost a member of our staff in the person of Bro. Guinness. Miss Beck has also been transferred to this office from Medicine Hat, on account of reduction of staff at that point CORRESPONDENT.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Runaway strikes have been the cause of the downfall of a great many unions. Our runaway strike of 1907 set us back to such an extent that we are now making a drive for more members, when in reality every telegraph company in the United States ought to be scheduled and a non-member ought to be a curiosity. Having seen the error of our way in 1907 the only thing for the commercial telegraphers as a mass to do is to now become affiliated with the C. T. U. A., and have better sense than to pull off a raw stunt like they did in 1907, when they get thoroughly organized.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.

Ten thousand new members by July! Why not make it more than that? We have had more than 10,000 members before, so why can't we get them again? It simply remains for the present membership of the C. T. U. A. to redouble their efforts during 1921 and make it a point to induce non-members to join our ranks. There's plenty of nons who will join if we will only talk to them.

"Get a new member" should be the motto of every red-blooded member from now on.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Americans have always taken great pride in asserting that nobody could outdo them at anything, yet the Canadians have outstripped us in the work of organization and negotiating schedules. They are about solid in Canada. We are after more members on this side of the line.

We might as well start out now and increase our membership. If every member will do his part we will have a dazzling story to tell the world when the year 1921 expires. All members here are active.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

We have got to brush up on our membership. Talk is cheap. Action and deeds are what count. Messrs. Johnson and Schnur have steered the good old ship clear of the breakers. They have conducted our organization in a most admirable and commendable way.

The membership at large ought to get right in behind these two efficient officials and show them that we mean business and apswer their call for more members by spreading our doctrine among the nons and bring them into our fold.

Every member should get another member member.

AUSTIN, TEXAS

AUSTIN, TEXAS

1921 can be made a record-breaking year for the commercial telegraphers—and it's time they were making another record—if we as a body of workers will make strenuous endeavor to gratify the wishes of our international officials by increasing our numerical and financial strength. We must do this by all means. What's the use of delaying the matter? We all know that unorganized labor is that portion of American workingmen that have to accept what crumbs capital We all know that unorganized labor to that portion of American workingmen that have to accept what crumbs capital is willing to scatter among them. We should profit by the example of those crafts that are thoroughly organized. They never accept a reduction in wages.

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

Organization means protection. We are organized to protect ourselves. But we are not thoroughly organized. Organize thoroughly and then you are protected thoroughly and then you are protected thoroughly.

Organise thoroughly should be the slogan of every member, beginning with the new year. W. U., Postal, and A. P. operators should give the C. T. U. A. their undivided support. All of them have been benefited by the union.

SAN FRANCISCO

Active and persistent organization work should characterize every member during 1921 until we have completed the job of thoroughly organizing. The Postal men ought to be at least 95 percent strong, to say the least. There was a time when the A. P. men were about 98 percent strong and the same percentage of strength existed in the W. U. and Postal. What's the matter with regaining our old time strength during 1921?

Thanks to Johnson and Schnur for their good work in 1920.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The National Key Has Arrived

This little wonder has been enthusiastically received in every city it has reached, and the consensus of opinion is that we have evolved a new principle the transmitting devices that will revolutionize the art of machine-made Mores. This new idea not only provides for the ease and comfort of senders, but it also eliminates half the worry to receivers, because the characters are clear cut and of uniform size. The safety of the nerves are protected by a rubber-cushioned stop, and the tiresome weight of the vibrator is not felt in the arm, a feature not possible in any other type of machine so far invented. You must see and try it in order to realize the many benefits it offers.

TRY National Key Free

Our booklet tells how you can try the new wonder before buying. It also shows you full size picture of triple-spring vibrator and rubber cushion shock absorbers that prevent jolts or jars to your nerves.

WESTERN UNION SLASHES WAGES

Petty Reductions in Living Costs Are Magnified Twenty Per Cent by Low Wage Employers—Lake District Cuts Twenty-one Per Cent; Cincinnati on Five-Day Week Basis

WESTERN UNION ASKS HIGHER STATE RATES

By Roscoe H. Johnson

The Western Union Telegraph Company has announced a wage reduction of over twenty-one per cent, affecting employes in the Lake Division of that corporation. From reliable sources it is learned that reductions of thirty per cent and more will shortly be made throughout the entire Western Union system, affecting over twenty-five thousand workers.

The "rapidly declining cost of living" is the reason given in the Lake division.

"The high cost of living is rapidly coming down," asserts A. R. McGrath, superintendent of the Lake Division, Western Union Telegraph Company, in a letter under date of December 15, 1920, to managers of the Third District. "The slowing up of business has added to the ranks of the unemployed. In our line we find the 'help' situation very favorable, as there is a surplus of operators, clerks, etc., available. We should now be able to secure new employes at lower ratings than now prevail."

As might be expected from Western Union officials, Superintendent McGrath's statements regarding the cost of living utterly evades the truth. The United States Bureau of labor statistics, in a report recently issued states that from June, 1920, to December, 1920, the cost of living was reduced 6.7 per cent in thirty-two leading cities. The June, 1920, cost of living was the highest during the war, being 116.5 per cent over December, 1913.

This 6.7 per cent reduction in the cost of living is being used by the Western Union, in common with other cheap-wage employers to justify a wage decrease of 20 to 36 per cent among the unorganized, despite the fact that at no time during or after the war have wages permitted Western Union workers to maintain living standards of 1913.

The United States Bureau of labor statistics give out a report showing decreases during the past six months ending December 31, averaging 6.7 per cent as follows:

Baltimore, 8.2 per cent; Boston, 6.2 per cent; Buffalo, 8.9 per cent; Chicago, 9.9 per cent; Cleveland and Norfolk, 5.9 per cent each; Detroit, 7.4 per cent; Houston, 3.9 per cent; Jacksonville and Memphis, 4.8 per cent each; Los Angeles, 2.5 per cent; Mobile and Pittsburgh, 6.6 per cent each; New York, 8.1 per cent; Philadelphia, 6 per cent; Portland, Me., 7 per cent; Portland, Ore., 10 per cent; San Francisco and Atlanta, 5.6 per cent each; Savannah, 5.1 per cent; Scattle, 7.8 per cent; Washington, 6.7 per cent; Birmingham, 6.1 per cent; Cincinnati, 8.4 per cent; Denver, 7.7 per cent; Indianapolis, 8.4 per cent; Kansas City, 7.6 per cent; Minneapolis, 5.4 per cent; New Orleans, 3.7 per cent; Richmond, 7.3 per cent; St. Louis, 9.1 per cent; Scranton, 8.2 per cent.

It is a significant fact that landed interests and the Western Union Company took no part in these small reductions. Instead, we find that substantial increases were made during the six months in the cost of housing, fuel and light.

The bureau of labor statistics shows that the cost of living in December, 1920. was 100.4 per cent over 1913. This means that if wages are not twice those of pre-war times the conditions of workers are not equal to 1913, and instead of securing better conditions as a result of the war for democracy, the workers' standards are lower than before the war.

Statistics and comparisons make dry reading. Let's put the Western Union reduction this way: The cost of living has been reduced 6.7 per cent, therefore wages must come down twenty-one per cent! On top of this, the Western Union must increase its newspaper rates!

Herewith is reproduced a photographic copy of Superintendent McGrath's r. Read it carefully, Mr. Western Union worker. Possibly the companyowned and controlled Association of Western Union Employes will take a hand—or possibly A. W. U. E. officials will be able to show you how a family may be fed and clothed on $60 per month. It's beyond us.

Apparently President Newcomb Carlton has simply passed the word down the line to his superintendents to "cut wages from twenty to thirty per cent." Each individual superintendent to use his own plan to bring about the desired result.

L. R. Scholl, superintendent of the Cincinnati district, Western Union, likes the five-day week idea. In announcing that four hundred employes in the operating and commercial department of the Cincinnati office would immediately be reduced to a five-day working basis and twenty-five messenger boys cut from the payroll, Superintendent Scholl makes it known that this policy is part of a national financial "program of conservation."

Two hundred of the employes affected are in the operating department, the majority being telegraphers. The other two hundred are clerks, telephone operators and desk attendants in the main and branch offices.

"The five-day week policy was decided on," Mr. Scholl told newspaper reporters, "as an alternative to cutting the present wage scale of all employes in this district. The messengers were laid off because they were employed on a weekly wage basis and no reduction of working hours could have been devised. The Western Union company has been contemplating the adoption of a retrenchment policy for some time and the order issued by headquarters to cut payrolls in all local offices was no surprise to those in close touch with the situation. It is a reflection of the general retrenchment policies in all industry today.

Superintendent Scholl told newspaper men that the action to place the employes on a five-day working basis was decided upon after a committee of the employes had met with Western Union officials and accepted the plan in preference to a wage cut or partial lay-off.

According to The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, Walter Flynn, chairman of the grievance committee, Association of Western Union Employes, denies that the employes were consulted through the A. W. U. E., regarding the proposed five-day plan or any other plan that Western Union officials had in mind to reduce wages.

The Tribune quotes as follows:

"Walter Flynn, chairman of the grievance committee of the A. W. U. E., Local 51, proposed at a recent union meeting that all married women employed by the company be laid off. This proposal was killed by a vote of the members. No substitute for it was adopted.'

Several employes said that they had not been consulted in the matter and that they had no knowledge of the contemplated action until they were informed that the new policy would be enforced. Other employes said that they were unaware of the existence of an employes' committee, which, officials said, had a voice in the adoption of the new policy. Again we find the truth being evaded.

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY

CHICAGO, Dec. 15, 1920.

CIRCULAR LETTER NO.1194-20

ALL MANAGERS, THIRD DISTRICT, LAKE DIVISION.

The slowing up of business has added to the ranks of the unemployed. In our own line we find the "help" situation very favorable as there is a surplus of operators, clerks, etc., available. We should now be able to secure new employes at lower ratings than now prevail.

I notice a tendency on the part of some of our managers to engage new employes at the same rating as is paid old employes who are leaving the service. As you are aware, these ratings were made because of the length of service of the employe involved, together with the high cost of living, which by the way, is rapidly coming down. In many cases new employes are receiving $76.25 instead of being hired at $60.00 or $65.00. These irregular ratings should be eliminated as fast as employes leave the service and new ones are employed. Please acknowledge receipt.

A. R. McGrath,

Superintendent.

It is interesting to note that while the Western Union is reducing the wages of its employes indiscriminately, the corporation is seeking higher rates for handling newspaper and market reports in the state of Missouri, application having been made to the Missouri state public service commission for authority to increase Western Union newspaper rates one-third over existing rates and to also increase its rates on market reports and money orders twenty-five per cent. The application specifies that the increase sought is to be based on the number of words charged for at present rates on commercial telegrams.

The public is being worked both ways to the middle. The end of the rope may be close at hand. Possibly in the not distant future government ownership of this monumental telegraphic disgrace will bring a measure of justice to a long suffering people.

TRADE RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA WOULD BRING PROSPERITY TO UNITED STATES

"If hundreds of thousands of workers go hungry and jobless this winter, if there is a business panic, and paralysis of the country's life, it may be laid directly at the doors of the little group in Washington who have their own reasons for not restoring trade relations with Russia. Russia is willing to buy enough from us to keep every man in the United States busy for the next three years."

Ramming home thus the responsibility for the present industrial crisis in this country, Washington B. Vanderlip, San Francisco engineer, has returned to this country from Russia, determined to see the wheels of trade relations between the two countries going again.

Vanderlip is armed with a double-barreled commission from Russia. One is the exploitation by a group of Pacific coast capitalists of 400,000 square miles in eastern Siberia. The other is a long list of things Russia wants. The order extends over three years, and means $3,000,000,000 to American business, he declares.

"As far as this big order goes, the Vanderlip syndicate will act merely as fiscal agents of the soviet government," he said. "The various soviet commercial bureaus which would be set up in this country will place the contracts and assume responsibility for the goods.

"Every factory in the country could open immediately if the state department would make the following trade facilities between Russia and America:

"Postal, telegraph, cable, wireless, mail and express rights.

"Banking facilities, including admission of Russian gold into the country.

"Free issuance of commercial passports.

"Freedom of sea communication.

"I am glad to see that labor in America has waked up and started an alliance for trade with Russia. If the business men were only as well organized as the workers, they could bring more pressure to bear on our government. The only thing the workers can do to solve their own problem and Russia's is to demand freedom of trade with her.

"Who will get the big contracts if our government keeps its head buried in the sand? England, Sweden, Germany.

"We don't need an ambassador in Moscow, and we don't need to 'recognize' the soviet government. We simply need to do business with it, and that is very simple. The Soviet officials are business-like, courteous and unsentimental

"Russia has $700,000,000 in gold. She doesn't want it; all we need to do is to remit it here. On the Black Sea wharves are 300,000 tons of manganese. Russia is keeping $50,000,000 worth of furs in cold storage. In the Baku and Batoun regions production is already up to 80 per cent of normal; they're storing the oil in lakes waiting for us to buy it. Russia has flax, timber; Russia has pulpwood enough to solve our paper shortage forever."

"Here's $3,000,000,000 worth of export business right in my hand," said the Pacific coast engineer, chanting a long list of things Russia wants—"50,000 tons of leather, 2,000 river steamers, 10,000 airplanes, 270,000 tens of cotton 60,000 tons of dyes 50,000 typewriters 2,000,000 tons of rails and rail fixtures, 6,000,000 tons of coal, 25,000,000 pairs of shoes."

Editor's Note:-

The new government schedule for Division 53 (B. C. and Yukon) will be carried in full in the March issue. Watch for it.

INDIVIDUAL BARGAINING "WEIGHED AND FOUND WANTING"

Individual bargaining has "been weighed and found wanting."

For centuries employers dealt with workers as individuals, while organizations of laborers were declared conspiracies and treated as such by the state.

During all this period, down to but a comparatively few years ago, the power of these employers to apply their individual bargaining theory was unchallenged.

Who is responsible for the change? Why have 5,000,000 wage earners rejected the "free and independent" status favored by employers?

At one time these employers had individual bargaining in their plants.

They alone set wages and hours. They dictated working conditions by the state and every other power at the command of the master? They were as complete masters of their employes as is Garyism in the steel trust's mills.

They always set wages and hours. They dictated working conditions.

If this was an ideal condition, what changed it?

Could a few "agitators" or labor "leaders" overthrow a system supported by the state and every other power at the command of the master?

Or did the system collapse because it rested on greed?

The history of production and distribution in every country convicts the individual-bargaining employer. He had a free hand in dealing with "free and independent" workers and these employes were driven into unions like wild horses on the prairies, who are forced to form a circle, with heads in and heels out, to protect themselves from the wolves.

When wage earners had no voice in working conditions they were ground down as are the steel trust's 11 and 13-hour serfs in 1921.

If individual bargaining means justice to the workers, why must it be protected by spies, gunmen and the injunction judge?

Why does it succumb to trade unionism when workers are permitted free choice?

Workers unite because of necessity.

They unite when they find that fairy tales, broken promises, injustices and deceit are poor substitutes for economic need.

The employer who talks of individual bargaining has had his day in court. He had individual bargaining and his employes were compelled to organize.

He feudalized his employes once, now he wants to feudalize them again.

Does he imagine that workers forget when he talks of the "glories" of individual bargaining?

"A burnt child dreads the fire." Agitate! Educate! Organize!

TELEGRAPH SLAVERY

By E. B. Hiner

"The New Republic believes unionism to be right in much the same sense that Negro emancipation was right, and anti-unionism to be wrong in much the same sense that Negro slavery was wrong. Negro slavery like anti-unionism is not incompatible with a considerable amount of bodily comfort and individual happiness on the part of the slave or the non-union worker, and under American conditions many non-union workers have had the opportunity not only of being comfortable and happy, but of leading lives of some independence and dignity."—THE NEW REPUBLIC.

Many Negroes during slavery were happy and contented, well fed and enjoyed some independence and even dignity. Many were the trusted overseers of their master's vast estates. Others were the well-dressed, sleek and fat liverymen and butlers, enjoying more comforts than most white workers. In those days when a white man could only obtain about fifty cents a day for hard farm labor, beginning before sunrise and ending at dark, is it any wonder many Negro slaves frowned upon the idea of freedom? They, in a great measure, were seemingly much better off as slaves. When freed they were helpless wanderers having to rely upon their own initiative and ability to exist.

My father, who was born and raised in Old Virginia has oft' times described the conditions as they were in those days before the war. He saw and was well acquainted with many of the Negro slaves. He has often told of a certain rich master possessing many slaves, who was a kind hearted man, a staunch member of the old shoutin' Methodists and was as generous to his slaves as Henry Ford is reported to be to his. Those old fat coons, all dolled up in Broadcloth, driving their master's swell horses were the envy of many of the poor white folks. I can almost see the glitter of those big pearly white teeth, ever visible through the smile that would never come off, whenever a trip aboard a Pullman recalls the story to mind. Yet after all, those well-kept Negroes were slaves. They were not free to go and come at will. They were not permitted to take part in any controversy whether for the glory of God and the elevation of man. They did not own their own souls. Only their own bodily comfort kept them contented. Beyond those material benefits they had no interest. Blind as they were to their plight their only concern was for the next dinner horn a tootin' or the old screech owl a hootin'.

Many industries today pay their unorganized employes well. In some cases as well as the organized. Occasionally the unorganized receive better wage than the organized in competing industries where their old contracts are still in force. But such cases are only temporary, the unorganized taking advantage of the time intervening between the lapse of contracts of the organized workers. One notable demonstration occurred about a year ago, when the A. P. handed their employes a "raise" in the form of a $5.00 bonus, which put their scale, temporarily and for the first time in history, above that of competing organized employes. The A. P. men, however, got an awful joit later on, when through collective bargaining the organized operators went around them.

Let us not forget operators, that higher wages, while at all times desirous and acceptable, is not the fundamental principle of our organization. Freedom is our goal and freedom we must have. Money can not substitute for freedom. Sick benefits are convenient; life insurance is desirable and pensions are not loathsome, except when obtained through sacrifice of freedom or principle. A. P. employes have advantage of these three items of comfort, but——.

Let a human A. P. employe reach down in the mire to save a poor lost brother from the darkened depths of the Western Union or Postal environments, when his hand will be stayed by the powers that be.—Sir Milton Garges.

"Cease your activities, you serf, or sever your connections with us."

Look at that wonderful sick benefit we grant you; think of the $1,000 your wife and babies will receive after we work you to death; think of the pension we grant you in case you miraculously survive the acid test of years and years. All that is yours, but we want your soul. We can not allow you to be propagandists for God or for your brothers.

Back to the old darkies of Virginny. What if those happy, contented old coons would have awakened to the plight of the less fortunate of their race? How easy it would be to picture that old shoutin' Methodist master arise in wrath, his normally divinely demeanor and his generally untroubled brow contorted into the unrecognizable features of a powerful lord suddenly outraged by his worshippers. "In the name of John Wesley or Peter Cartwright; for the love of John Bunyan or 'Gott Mitt Uns'! What's come over you black niggers? Go take off your Broadcloth; don't you dare lay your black hands on my hosses. The whippin' post for you all."

Boys, the New Republic speaks the truth. Unionism is right; slavery is wrong. Non-unionism is not wrong unless it tends to slavery, but there you are.

If you can not be free, join the Union.

The telegraph profession rightly belongs to the telegraphers. It should not belong to the A. P., the Western Union or the Postal. In the face of excessive agitation against unions and for the "open shop" let us agitate all the more to build up our own organization as well as co-operate with all union organizations. We must hold what we have gained, not only in wage, but organization. Let us have the telegraphers' organization solid. Send in your 50 cents a week. It's a mere trifle and telegraphers must be free. Thousands of men made much greater sacrifice to free the Negroes. Are the telegraphers as worthy as the Negroes? Your action in the next few months will answer.

The C. T. U. A. lost $1,294.41 in Canadian exchange during the past year, This sum represents 12 per cent of the yearly per capita tax to the International from Canada.

Members who do not pay their current half dues by March 1, are delinquent and will be dropped from the rolls and taken from the Journal mailing list.

ORGANIZED PRESS MEN, TAKE HEED

You have elected, this year, to take a great step forward—one of the greatest in the history of your organization—the organization and scheduling of all unorganized press services in the United States, particularly, the Associated Press.

The necessity for scheduling the Associated Press has already been sufficiently stressed. The desirability of stabilizing wages, hours and working conditions in the press service is plainly evident. The absolute necessity of this should require no explanation as to why the 800 A. P. men must be brought into the C. T. U. A. It is plain that, while the unionized press men have been able, in the past, to "set the pace" for the A. P., it has been only at the cost of tremendous sacrifices and strenuous exertion. The time has come when the A. P. men must—and the best of them earnestly desire to—assume their due share of responsibility for maintenance of American standards in the press telegraph service.

The greater portion of the organized press men and the A. P. men themselves have decided that THIS SPRING is the time for completion of this work. Perhaps a minority believe that some other time—a long time off—would be better; or that the A. P. shouldn't be organized at all except by the unaided efforts of A. P. men. But that is not unionism. With the majority moving NOW in a certain direction, it is imperative that every individual take part in the procession. If the campaign ever is to be successful, it will be by UNITED ACTION and by united action

ALONE.

Loyalty to union principles is a fine thing, because it is the right and honest thing. Membership in the C. T. U. A., as in other unions, is taken only after the making of a solemn compact, sealed with a solemn oath. The whole existence of the union and its future depend on UNITY of action at a given time. Ten men who fail to "act well their part" in this campaign may cause it to fail and thus delay for a long time the betterment of their own condition. DON'T BE ONE OF THOSE TEN.

The ZERO hour has struck!

With every man affiliated with the C. T. U. A. doing his part in this movement, the A. P. will be solidly organized by June 1, 1921, and a schedule committee prepared to go to headquarters and negotiate a working agreement and wage scale. The international officers of the union, working day and night, expending every energy, can not accomplish what the whole of the union, devoting a few minutes daily to the movement, can so easily accomplish. The union asks—and it speaks not to the dozen or so super-active members, but to every single member of the organization—the union asks of you now these things:

1. That you contribute the sum of 50 cents weekly to the "PRESS ORGAN-IZATION FUND—sending the money in installments or in a lump sum covering the 13 weeks period ($6.50)—through your local chairman who will transmit it, with your names for official credit, to International Secretary-Treasurer, Paul F.

Schnur, 113 So. Ashland Blvd., Chicago.

2. That you ask each A. P. man in your town to join the union, give him copies of the Journal and that you write to A. P. men whom you know in other towns, explaining the purposes of the campaign and urging them to join. That you keep after these men until they are all in the union. Use judgment.

3. That you send to Paul F. Schnur, 113 So. Ashland Blvd., Chicago, the names and addresses of every A. P. man in the United States that you can obtain, as well as other unorganized press men, stating for whom they work.,

4. That you remind fellow members of this movement and urge them to do their part to make it successful, co-operating with them in securing applications of new members.

5. That you ask the local secretary of the Typographical Union to assist you by sending a committee to the publishers of A. P. newspapers, urging them to request the A. P. to standardize its service by recognizing and dealing with the union; and ask the typos to interview A. P. operators who at first decline to affiliate with the union.

6. That you stand by the International officers of the union WITHOUT WAVERING until the A. P. is organized and scheduled—that you continue your efforts until the fight has been won.

These are the things your officers believe it necessary that every member should do and in this belief the majority of the membership is in accord.

This appeal is not being made to you in a perfunctory manner; but because a vital necessity for the action asked is emphatically existant.

Unless the A. P. and minor unorganized press associations are scheduled this year, we may later have to feel bitter regret for our indifference. The A. P. men see their danger and realize there is but one way to meet it—through complete organization. Organized press telegraphers must also realize that there can be little effective, permanent and general progress made by the craft without unanimous action. Future schedules must be of uniform character. The power to arbitrarily lower wages and extend hours must be abolished once and for all time. Wages and hours affecting the entire craft, must be adjusted in conference between committees of the telegraphers and the association management.

America has cast its decision, both against Bolshevism from below and Bolshevism from above. Dictatorships now existing must be abolished. The C. T. U. A. does not seek control of the telegraph for the workers; it seeks joint and amicable agreements covering wages, hours and working conditions, arrived at through discussion, between representatives from among the telegraphers and of the managements. The members of the union do not seek to dictate. They seek to abolish dictatorship and substitute CO-OPERATION between worker and employer.

There is to be no strike against the A. P., or any other press association at the instance of the C. T. U. A. or its membership. Let that be understood.

To the A. P. man, we say: we need you—the craft needs you—but you need our organization and experience more. We are offering you freely the use of the machinery for which many hundreds of thousands of dollars have been sacrificed and many heart-breaking sacrifices sustained in the making. You come into this organization SELF-GOVERNING and free of dictation from the other units of the union. It is YOUR division and you can make it what you will—and you may safely depend upon the loyal and fraternal co-operation of the other organized divisions in whatever legitimate undertaking you may decide to embark.

Let's go! NOW!!

ASSOCIATED PRESS ORGANIZATION FUND PROGRESSES All Press Divisions Favor Plan

By PAUL F. SCHNUR

The Associated Press Organization Campaign Fund, inaugurated last month by prominent press men, is in full swing.

The idea of every Union press telegrapher in the United States and Canada contributing fifty cents a week (less than one half hour's pay) for thirteen consecutive weeks, to build up an organization fund which would enable your officers to send out competent organizers to bring into the organization all Associated Press and independent press association telegraphers, has spread like a contagious disease.

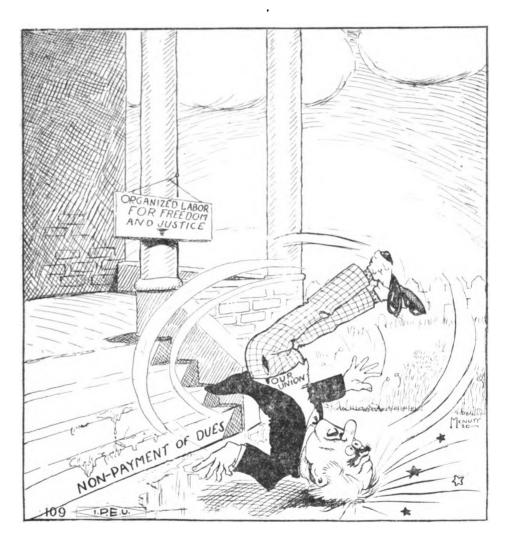

As stated in last month's Journal, this fund can be run up to $3,000 in the stipulated time of thirteen weeks if all Union press men get behind the move, and success will be assured.

The Associated Press men who are already members of the Union have answered this clarion call like real men. Many letters have been received at International Headquarters from these men, and Union press telegraphers working for small independent news associations, pledging their support. Contributions will begin pouring in within the next week or two.

Contributions can be paid in installments of four weeks ($2.00) or the entire thirteen weeks in advance ($6.50) and should be made payable to Paul F. Schnur, International Secretary-Treasurer, C. T. U. A., 113 S. Ashland Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Members who do not pay their current half dues by March 1, are delinquent and will be dropped from the rolls and taken from the Journal mailing list.

GENERAL LABOR NEWS

Chicago—The reason employers favor company "unions" is shown in the recent attempt of the Pullman company to reduce wages. Wide circulation was given the announcement that employes had requested a wage reduction. Many of the Pullman employees are affiliated with bona fide trade unions and at a mass meeting they registered vigorous protest against this statement. The company then announced that its "industrial relations committee" had made the request.

The first story was printed in the pub-c press-of course. But no mention was lic pressmade of the mass meeting or the protest.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—In his message to the legislature Governor Robertson gave notice that a "can't-strike" law in this state will have to be passed over his veto. Governor Allen of Kansas recently told Oklahoma citizens of the glories of his handcuff legislation, but the story has not impressed Governor Robertson, who says:

"Considerable sentiment has been engendered in certain parts of the state for the enactment of a law similar to the industrial court law of Kansas. I do not believe such a law is wise or sound and hope there will be no unnecessary agitation of the subject."

$2,632 a Living Wage

A living wage should not be less than $2,632 a year, or $50.61 a week, declared officers of Printing Press Assistants' and Feeders Union, No. 23 in a wage hearing before an arbitration board. The estimates are based on official figures. The union supported its claim by a mass of price quotations which are summarized by the following necessary yearly expenditures for a family:

Food, $871.80; clothing, $529.96; rent, $437.35; light and heat, $68.59; household equipment, $69.23; miscellaneous, $655.75. Total $2,632.68.

Despite the high cost of wool, there is just as much being pulled over the people's eyes as ever. If you don't believe it, read some of the dope sent broadcast by the open shoppers under the misleading term of "American plan," and be convinced.

Washington—More than 100 members of organized labor were elected to national and state lawmaking bodies and to state offices, so far reported to the A. F. of L. non-partisan political campaign committee. Of these, 15 are congressmen, and 63 are members of state legislatures.

Edmonton, Canada—Coal miners in this section are congratulating themselves that they withstood the blandishments of one big union advocate, who made a drive on these workers last year to break into this industry. The miners have a strong organization and are prepared to resist wage cuts that are the rule among unorganizad workers.

wage cuts that are the rule among unor-ganized workers.

"It is not very pleasant to contemplate what would be the situation in district No. 18 at the present time were it not for the solidarity of the miners organization," says the Alberta Labor News.

Detroit, Mich.—By a vote of 326 to 3 Electrical Workers' union No. 58 refused to cut their wage rate from $1.25 an hour to $1.

Indianapolis—The United Mine Workers of America had on January 31, according to figures made public by William Green, international secretary-treasurer, 552,905 dues-paying members in good standing

In addition, 50,000 members on strike and out of work are exempt from paying dues, making the total membership in excess of 600,000.

Toronto, Ontario—Officials of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada have revoked the charter of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, following a failure of that organization to come to an agreement with the bona fide International Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks. Negotiations have been carried on for two years. Officers of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada have refused to recognize this dual organization, which is supported by a narrow national idea.

Mexico City—Samuel Gompers, president of the A. F. of L. was re-elected president of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, at the convention of that organization held in this city. The next convention will be held in Guatemala City.

Newark, N. J.—More than 1,000 organized painters in this city and vicinity suspended work because of an attempt by contractors to reduce wages.

Washington—Officers of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders report recent gains in nearly a score of cities where wages have been advanced and working conditions improved. Charters have been issued for new locals in Alexandria, La., and Charlotte, N. C.

New York—The International Ladies' Garment Workers' union has joined the list of international organizations that own their own homes. The garment workers have purchased a four-story building in this city for $55,000 and will expend $50,000 in fitting it for the various activities of this organization.

Toronto, Ontario — An agreement has been signed by Bricklayers' union and the Mason Contractors association. Rates will be $1 an hour for the year 1921. A work week of 44 hours is agreed to, as is double time for legal holidays and Saturady afternoons and time and one-half for overtime.

Toledo, Ohio — The Ladies' Garment Workers' union has signed a contract with the Conde Manufacturing company and the Alexander Black Cloak company. The 44-hour week is agreed to and the minimum rate will be $44 a week.

Cincinnati—The Plaut-Butler company has signed an agreement with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union. This concern is one of the largest manufacturers of women's shoes in the country.

Tacoma, Wash.—Commerical shop printers have raised wages $3 a week. The old scale was $7 a day.

San Bernardino, Cal.—After a five-hours' strike organized printers won their demand for higher wages. The new rates are $45 a week for day linotype operators and $48 a week for night work.

INSURANCE

Insurance against the dread day of unemployment is the very best insurance any man can carry. That's what we are organized for—mutual help. The working members are looking around for vacanies to place some unemployed brother.

We find in looking through the records for the past year, very gratifying figures on the subject of unemployment—or rather, employment. These figures are not comforting to the calamity-howlers, pessimists, chronic critics and bellyachers who never lend a helping hand to anything constructive.

Delving through the "Dope" at Headquarters we find our unemployed brothers collected through the medium of your Union $16,477.00, exclusive of regular jobs and doubtless a great many continuous fill-ins not reported to the young lady at Headquarters.

THERE WERE 1,076 CALLS FOR DAY, OR EMERGENCY WORK AND NINETY FIVE WEEKS OF VACATION RELIEFS. We will do much better this year with our present system.

We offer you this insurance at a nominal rate—$18 per annum, payable semi-annually and prorated for any part of the period. You fellows who are delaying action soon will find yourselves in the predicament of the bee the cow swallowed—when he awoke the cow was gone.

Here are the figures:

The General Committee audited the books of the retiring secretary, Brother Hinshaw, as of December 31, and reports the E. B. D. in the best physical and financial condition in its history.

Chairman Campbell of the General Committee congratulates Brother Hinshaw on the excellent condition and the method of keeping the records.

BROKER DIVISIONS OPPOSE TAX ON COTTON AND GRAIN

A bill introduced in Congress by Representative Tincher, Kansas, providing a tax of ten percent on all transactions in cotton, grain, grain products, etc., which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture, is meeting with strong and determined opposition from the Broker Divisions, C. T. U. A., and the various exchanges affected by the proposed tax.

Hearing on the bill was held by the Agriculture Committee the week of January 8.

Passage of the bill in its present form would practically force many firms out of business and cause many of our members as well as non-members to lose their positions. It is to the mutual welfare of Broker and Telegrapher that the bill be defeated and we are co-operating with our employers with this end in view.

International President Roscoe H. Johnson, accompanied by President John B. Alcorn of the Western Broker Division, visited us early in January and after an executive session with our General Committee, went before the regular session of the Eastern Broker Division where both President Johnson and President Alcorn made talks regarding the bill. International President Johnson outlined the attitude of the C. T. U. A. in opposing the measure.

After adoption of a resolution introduced by Brother James F. Campbell. copies of which were mailed to all members of congress, Presidents Johnson and Alcorn left for Washington to work against the bill in committee. The resolution follows:

WHEREAS: Representative Tincher, member of the Sixty-sixth Congress, introduced in the House of Representatives a bill, known as H. R. No. 14657, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture, providing for the levying, collection and payment of a ten percentum tax upon contracts for the future delivery of grain, grain products, and cotton, and options for such contracts, and

WHEREAS: The passage of such a bill would immediately cause the discontinuance of the present stable method of handling grain, grain products and cotton, thereby automatically throwing out of employment thousands of employees engaged directly in this work, who are members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, and

WHEREAS: The Eastern Broker Division of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, in special meeting assembled, Saturday, January 8th, 1921, voted unanimously that the Division do everything within its power to preserve to its members their honorable means of earning a livlihood; therefore be it

RESOLVED: That the Eastern Broker Division, a subordinate unit of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, hereby voices its protest and opposes the passage of H. R. No. 14657, and this meeting instructs that a copy of this resolution be mailed to members of the Committee on Agriculture and all members of the House of Representatives.

Editor's Note: Following article is contributed by a well known Wall Street Broker who desires that his name be not made public. The Key extends thanks and appreciation to the author, and looks forward with much pleasure to next month's article—Editor.

INCONSISTENCY BY BROKERAGE HOUSE MANAGERS

In engaging the services of office help no more glaring inconsistency is evidenced than when employing Telegraphers. When the hiring of an office boy, a bookkeeper, or cashier is contemplated, the references must be of the best; their former employers are consulted as to the capabilities of the applicant, and records gone over with a fine tooth comb. What is the usual procedure when a firm wishes to engage the services of a Telegrapher? Word is sent out that an Operator is wanted, and usually the first man who applies secures the position. Members of the firm or executives, not being telegraphers, are not able to judge of ability in this line, and if errors are not numerous the applicant is considered satisfactory. A first-class Wall Street Telegrapher must be a composite of many accomplishments. Primarily his experience in acquiring the mechanical ability must be diversified and cover a period of several years; secondly, he must be thoroughly conversant with Wall Street methods and keep posted on everything pertaining to the various stocks traded in and current quotations; thirdly, he has to possess keen appreciation of the value of not minutes, but seconds, in the handling of orders, and in the transmission of news of importance.

THE TELEGRAPHER, MR. MANAGER, IS ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT COGS IN THE WHEELS OF YOUR BUSINESS. Accuracy and rapidity are necessary for the maintenance and increase of your wire business.

You have often lost a customer because of the incompetency of a telegrapher-probably one working for $5 or $10 less per week than would be the cost of a capable man. Slowness in reporting an execution retards business. Give a client quick service and his orders will be numerous. The question therefore arises, how can a wire department be built up to the highest point of efficiency. For this Before a very purpose the Commercial Telegraphers Union came into being. telegrapher is eligible for membership he must pass an expert test; his standing in the Street must be of the best; his habits must be exemplary. We do require that our members receive a salary commensurate with the qualifications insisted upon, slightly higher than that asked by the shiftless, incompetent type of telegrapher, but the cost to a firm is less in the long run. The loss of commission on a 100 shares per week will more than cover the difference, and it may mean thousands of dollars over the year in the Error account. Please keep this in mind whenever you may need a telegrapher.

Your floor broker prides himself upon the expeditious manner in which he executes an order, the effect of which is often lost through the tardiness or incompetency of the telegrapher who transmits the report of execution. Our approval of a Telegrapher insures 100% efficiency in your Wire department.

Choosing Employees for Promotion

For some unexplainable reason, brokerage firms when contemplating promotion of employees, in very rare instances consider members of their telegraphic force in this respect. This despite the fact that their experience qualifies them for higher positions. Capabilities that qualify them to serve as telegraphers in Wall Street, such as discipline of mind; knowledge of the various stocks listed on the Exchanges; their earnings, dividends, etc., being conversant with the various commodity markets and their modus operandi, endows them with a composite of achievements that should make their services in a higher sphere invaluable to their employers. In the exceptional instances where firms have shown an appreciation of this, the Telegrapher has always made good, as witnessed by the fact that many members of New York Stock Exchange firms are former Telegraphers.

"The Market Review" a weekly financial paper, published by Hughes & Dier, one of the most prominent and well-thought-of firms in the Street, carries in its issue of January 13, an article of some length, entitled "Equalizing Men and Dollars."

After pointing out the enormous wastage of life and golden treasure caused by the World War, the article warns of sordid selfishness of capital in its relation to labor—the creator of the wealth of tomorrow. "Market Review" believes there is upon us the "Dawn of a New Understanding" and that there will come "a better and a broader understanding of those relations which should exist between socalled capital and so-called labor than has ever heretofore been recognized;" and continues:

What Are Capital and Labor?

Capital, so-called, representing as it does accumulation of money, and Capital, so-called, representing as it does accumulation of money, and money, in its inception, representing merely a token of exchange for human effort, is of itself no more than an accumulation of the frugality practiced by others who have preceded us. The capital of tomorrow is being created by the human endeavor of today. Labor is not necessarily of a manual character, but comprehends all human endeavor, whether of brain or muscle, which is calculated to improve and better the condition of mankind. Therefore, with capital being merely a product of labor which has gone before and labor being a producer of the capital which is to come, there should be the most cordial and free-working fellowship between the two in order that the one may improve the condition of the other.

As we view it, and recognising the progress which is being made on every side toward a better relation and a better understanding between so-called capital and so-called labor, it is quite probable that the time is not far distant when the terms employer and employee will be as obsolete as the former terms of master and slave.

We believe that the time will surely come—and is not far distant—when the creator of the dollars of tomorrow will stand on an equality with the dollars created yesterday.

It is quite likely that the time is drawing near when the man, no matter whether he be head of one of our great corporations, member of a firm or simply in his individual capacity, who in his sordid selfishness forgets the loyal associates who have helped create the success in which he revels, will come to realise that he is only creating a Frankenstein for his own destruc-

Mr. Arthur Brisbane, one of the leading editorial writers of America, can say more in less words than probably any living journalist. What he has to say to advocates of the "open shop" is to the point and conveys one phase of the industrial situation in a nutshell. Here's what he says to the "open shop" agitators:

Some patriot says "the open shop is American." Perhaps it is. Black slavery also was once "American. But it didn't last.

But it didn't last.

The open shop means a condition under which workmen without unions compete with each other on a basis of "the devil take the hindmost."

If that is "American," it is not a good thing for America. Disorganized instruments of the mechanics, no guarantee of employment with decent wages, following apprenticeship—all that means industrial anarchy and that is NOT "American."

In certain quarters is the desire to keep labor down, to make it "humble" and take with gratitude what it can get. Do those who prosper realize what they owe to unions! If they don't, let them ask the extreme radical agitators. They hate unions and the closed shop more than any capitalist hates them. Strong unions and good wages, bringing peace of mind, are the most dangerous enemies of extreme radicalism.

If gentlemen succeed in establishing their "open shop" they will find that they have also multiplied by ten or twenty the strength of extreme radicalism in this country.

Take gentle Mr. Gompers with good grace and gratitude. That is the way to postpone Mr. Trotzky.

THE CONNING TOWER

Brother Charlie Josephson has gone to Baltimore to engage in a partnership business with his brother-in-law. Best wishes, Charlie. We hope you're a better business man than you are checker player.

Genial Dan Sullivan, General Secretary-Treasurer of the newly created New Eng-land Broker Division, was a welcome visi-tor at Headquarters, January 20 and 21. Brother Sullivan reports great progress in organizing the new division. ٠

The Executive Committee was in session when Brother Sullivan called and he was invited to attend. He discussed with officers and members of the board matters pertaining to closer co-operation between all broker divisions. Amen! Come again, Sully.

Percentage of paid up members for January, 1921, under the increased rate, is greater than that of 1920 under the old rate of $12. Just goes to show that a Telegraph Operator knows a business proposition when he sees it.

Tickets have been mailed each member of the E, B. D. for our annual dance and entertainment to be held in the Grand Ball Room of the Pennsylvania Hotel, March 18. Please remit promptly and don't think each member is limited to two tickets. The supply is unlimited.

Lincoln's Birthday falling on the second Saturday of the month—our regular meet-ing day—makes it necessary to cancel the regular meeting. The next meeting day is February 26th.

Several applicants for membership will be on hand at the next meeting, February 26th., to take the obligation and be wel-comed into the Union as brother members. All members are urged to be present.

A survey of the Street shows, without exception, that 100 percent houses are receiving top salaries while the luke-warm and unorganized houses are still trying to plug along on $40 to $50 per week. Think this over, boys, and remember this:

OUR HEADQUARTERS ARE OPEN TO EMPLOYES OF ANY HOUSE, WHETHER MEMBERS OF THE UNION OR NOT, TO HOLD THEIR "HOUSE MEETINGS".

Notify Secretary Hickey and he will arrange for you to have a room to discuss your business affairs.

Brother Matt Fowler of Kingston, N. Y. was recently married. Congratulations, Matt, from your brother members of the E. B. D. Bring the Missus to the Grand Ball with you, and introduce us.

Lee Butterfield, wearing his usual "Sunny Jim" smile, and "Salvation Army" Murphy, carrying his famous bug, recently appeared at Hq. to sit in again on the extra list.

Lee says he regrets that he could not accompany Worzel, upon the latter's yearly sojourn to the White Mountains, after hearing Worzel's three months' tale of how the fish were biting up on the Boston & Maine.

"Salvation Army", after a short period of "lunk" relief work at Pynchon & Co., decided, after reading the record made by one of our extra list brothers in 1920, that he would try to raise the figure. Go to it, the pleasure is all your'n.

Mr. S. J. Deery, after closing up his business relations with the firm of Schmidt & Deery, sailed on the Imperator, January 21, on an extended European tour.

Men at Logan & Bryan say Joe Rosenberg has no business there. They claim he belongs at the Grand Central Station yelling 'em out:

"All aboard — Yonkers, Poughkeepste, Hastings, Albany and 'der vest'."

Brother Harry A. Sloop has accepted a position with W. J. Wollman & Co.

Brother A. E. McNaughton landed with Potter Brothers.

٠ Brother Grunewald filled in a few days at Kardos & Co.

Brother Wasserman of Ruffer, McDowell & Co., has been off a few days because of the death of his father. EBD extends sympathy to Brother Wasserman and his people in their bereavement. Brother T. S. Murphy filled in for Brother Wasserman.

Brother Andrew Jackson Johnson Worzel is now with W. J. Wollman & Co.

and is reputed to be quite a yachtsman, or would be if he had a yacht.

At last we have a "regular" head-quarters with a real system. Results are showing daily and compliments are common from the different broker firms who have been complaining of the talent sent out in the past. To get out on a job from there requires something more than a furlined overcoat and a silk shirt since our new sec. stepped in. The only thing wrong about him—he will not work union hours himself, preferring to remain there until all hours in the night, getting out all kinds of literature and giving the place a general overhauling. Fine work, John.

SCHMIDT & DEERY DISSOLVE

SCHMIDT & DEERN DISSOLVE
Schmidt & Deery, members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, for many years one of the largest of its kind in the East, dissolved partnership January 1st.
The firm employed four men. Of the four, Brother Howatt is retained.
Brothers E. R. Henderson, J. Allen Trudo and Clyde Bradish, let out because of the liquidation, have landed with other firms and strange to say, all are "chief" operators.

Bradish is with Howell & Wales, a new firm, at 30 Broad St.

Brother Trudo is with Raynor, Nicholas and Truesdel, 42 Broadway.

mer & Co., 32 Broadway.

As a result of dissolution of the Schmidt & Deery firm, Mr. W. J. Schmidt and Mr. E. R. Scrimshaw, both of the old firm, have entered business under the firm name of W. J. Schmidt & Co., with elaborately furnished offices at 30 Broad St. Mr. Thomas D. Schmidt, also a member of the new firm, represents them on the Con. Board.

Best wishes to all concerned in the new arrangements.

On to Toronto is the sentiment of the Eastern Broker Division, New York District. By a unanimous vote the Division has gone on record as favoring the Canadian city with the next convention.

"Al" Weiman, late of the Carpenter office "Al" Weiman, late of the Carpenter office and more recently with Housman & Co. has left us to take a better position with the firm of Ware and Tranter. We often wondered how it was he ran around uncaptured so long, because "Sef" Tranter and "Harry" Musser have scouts out all the time for good men and we thought they'd "nail" him long ago. "Al" is not an operator, but we'll lay a wager that he is the most popular non-operator among the operators in Wall Street. In his capacity of cashier at Carpenter's he was always one of the boys. We take this opportunity of wishing him every success and we hope that this latest big advancement will be only the beginning of a wonderfully successful career. You have the goods, "Al," and in the words of the original and inimitable "Bill" Fisher, "Long may you wave."

Clarence Avery wants us to go for another ride in the Pierce Arrow. Last time Clarence had us out, we had visions of us becoming famous in the morning's papers through one of those "X indicates where body was found" pictures.

Jack Dunn says he knew the Indian runner that guided the American balloonists back to civilization. Jack says he never really intended to be a runner, but dropped in at the C. P. R. one time to inquire what he would have to know and how long it would take him to become an operator. When he found out what he would get after he graduated, he lit out, and never stopped until he hit Moose Factory.

Billy Mitchell says he knew the balloon.

"Rogie" Rogero just returned after a short but severe illness. "Rogie" was threatened with pneumonia. Glad to see you back, "Rogie," and to note that you are fast regaining your old form.

"Herb" Long bought one of those soft hats with the flag in the back. Yagotta hand it to him, the boy has courage.

Overheard Ralph Thompson discussing all the latest Broadway productions the other day. Ralph is getting to be a regular man-about-town.

"Charlie" Crawley doesn't mind the trip home on the D. L. & W., so much any more. He got acquainted with the fellows that play galloping dominoes in the smoker. Charlie has made the price of his commutation up to the first of July—if they only let him keep it!

"Dick" Walsh says he can open a bottle without pulling the cork. Sure, "Dick," so can we. Just take the cap off.

'Joe" Mead says unless its a milk bottle, then you dig the cardboard top out with an ice-pick. Yeah, Joe, that was a barten-der's trick years ago, when America was a free country.

And then "Charlie" Bianco suggested that if it were a nursing bottle, the course of procedure would be still different again.

The new arrivals at "RD" are Messrs Cook, Weir and Rubenstein.

Mr. Halley is back on Chicago Dux. after a brief illness.

Miss Anna Reilly is still balling the jack on our Boston wire.

Jack Cronin, general manager of our customers' room, has been hitting the nail on the head in his brilliant market letters.

Jim Kennedy the manipulator on our Washington circuit is a frequent visitor at headquarters. With Jim's earnest efforts it will not be long before we announce a hundred per cent membership at this office.

Tom Yarrington and Bert Townsend, the stars on the Chicago end of our Dux, are putting them over the plate in masterful fashion.

Bill Greenlee returned safely, after paying a visit to his Sweetle in Philly. Here is an excerpt from a card she sent Billy: "A moon full of kisses, and a kiss for every time the moon is full." . .

PHILADELPHIA SUB-UNIT NOTES

The first meeting of the Philadelphia District for 1921, proved to be very gratifying and the officers want to thank the members for the turn-out and hearty support.

Eight new applications and two transfers—that speaks louder than words for the efforts to gather unto the fold the worthy ones. It shows a unity of purpose and a willingness to work so that ormembers shall multiply and be an influence that shall draw recognition.

Chairman (Doc) Wright and the good old reliable Eddie Oeser as secretary-treasurer are a good team, and through their leadership our District expects to increase its position as an uplifting agency among the telegraphers. Their moderacy and liberality make for unity and create a pleasant feeling that tends to bring out the best that is in the membership, and we predict a steadily growing attendance.

Ex-Chairman Elmer E. Bone, was on hand early and in evidence all through the meeting, and his sparkling wit and good humor was appreciated by all present.

Joseph Camp, who has an all-year home in Vineland, N. J., where the fragrant blossoms grow continuously, made himself known only by his presence. We shall expect an outburst from him at the next meeting.

Brother Goodis wanted Cornelius Kelly elected a member of the General Committee, because he looks and speaks like a real senator. We'll say he does. Anyway, Goodis ought to know, for he spent sometime in Washington. However, Cornelius couldn't see it quite that way and declined, our genial vice-chairman, Lewis Ruberg, being named in his place. He will do his best to please as usual.

Philip Murphy, with his genial countenance and smooth tongue showed his hand several times, and, together with Sam Long, Harry Kelly, Chauncey Bryant, Marshall, Delaney, Lieberman, English, and a host of others, made things lively and interesting. It is really a pleasure to be among such good fellows. ٠ .

It was unanimously agreed to recommend that the next convention be held in Toronto. We hope the referendum will likewise agree to the proposed change. •

Harry Isaacs, formerly with Schmidt & Deery, is now located with Daniels & Company, production department. Good luck, Harry.

J. C. Delaney, recently with Milton Heim & Company, has made a very desirable move, and is now with Anderson, Brown & Company.

Among our recent members, we are glad to welcome Bryther Donald Bechtel, Hughes & Dier, Reading, Pa. We are especially gratified with the response of out-of-town men to our appeal for new members and we extend them a hearty welcome at our meetings, whenever they can find it convenient to attend.

R. A. English is now located with Moore, Leonard & Lynch, joining with Brother Bone, in making up a good team for that fortunate firm. Brother Simms relieved English at Boreau & Evans.

"Farmer" Merritt, is "carrying on" with Roberts & Company, successors to Halpert & Company. He expects to be able to serve us all with fresh eggs, milk, cream and other farm delicacies next summer.

PITTSBURGH SUB-UNIT NOTES

The regular monthly meeting held January 20, was largely attended, as usual, and great enthusiasm was shown by all those present.

Chairman Owens, of the Membership committee, and his aides are hard at work in an effort to reach the goal for which they are striving, and from present indica-tions there can be but one result.

Brother A. L. Parker, formerly of the Brother A. L. Parker, formerly of the U. P., is the latest graduate into the ranks of the broker division of the profession. He is with Hughes and Dier at Butler. Penna, and this firm is to be congratulated on the addition of such a valuable acquisition to their already unexcelled force of telegraphers.

Brother Barrett has been subbing at Childs, Kay and Woods for the past several weeks

Among the missing at our last meeting was one D. K. Stevenson. "Steve" has been such a regular attendant, that his absence is easily noticed. The old boy was com-pelled to leave town owing to the installa-tion of machines in the "Tele" where he had held forth for such a long time. Here's hoping that his enforced "exile" will be short-lived and that he will be with us soon again.

Brother "Doc" Shade, is no longer a "commuter on the 5:15." He has removed from Oakmont to Pittsburgh, and is now a full-fledged "city feller." "Red" says these suburban homes look good only in pictures, especially in the winter time.

Chairman Patterson requests that the chapel chairmen of this unit communicate any news of importance to the local correspondent, so that it will find its way into the columns of "The Key."

The writer of this page reads all the labor papers he can, white, pink and red. He reads the daily press between the lines. He has a few very decided opinions that he did not inherit or acquire during infancy.

He remembers that Emerson said, "A foolish consistency and a fear of plagiarism, is the hobgoblin of little minds." He changes his mind every decade and he is a shameless plagiarist.

Should any member think he is getting too far ahead of the procession or exceeding the speed limit, they should write their objections for publication, instead of complaining to the Editor. They may be Nothing like open discussion to dispel the fog. Personalities should be avoided strictly. Every proposition should be discussed on it's merits no matter where it originates.

Labor the world over is drawing together and closing up their ranks to meet the fight looming before them. In Great Britain one amalgamation after another has taken place. The latest is that of the Various Transport Workers Unions. this amalgamation, they have retained all their T. U. benefits.

A call has been issued for a joint meeting of the C. P. R., and the Canadian National (G. N. W.) committees to meet in Toronto March 1st. This is the first step toward united action by these two divisions. It is to be hoped that the members of this joint committee will forget that they represent the C. P. R., or the G. N. W., and remember only that they represent the C. T. U. A. Our interests are identical and we can only advance as a whole. Past mistakes should be forgotten.

District councils so far as the C. T. U. A. is concerned, with the possible exception of Ottawa, have been a failure in Canada. The reason is plain. Such councils are a success only in real live unions where members are interested all the time. We are dead ones.

Something must be done to keep up the interest. Members pay their dues and then forget all about the union except perhaps during election time, or when the schedule committee meets. They meet in the spring and sign a schedule in the fall and hole up for the winter.

Would it not be a good idea to hold regular monthly joint meetings where possible, for the discussion of matters affecting our union? In this way we would have an opportunity to exchange ideas. Make it an open forum. I believe these meetings could be made so interesting that members would be anxious to attend. We must get up to date; we have been living in the dark. Will someone please make a motion to this effect.

United and presenting a solid front, the C. T. U. A., in proportion to their numbers, would be one of the strongest unions in Canada. No matter how strong our arguments may be in proving the justice of our cause, it is the power behind our demands that counts. This is the strongest factor in influencing the decisions of Conciliation Boards. They award us just what they believe we have the power to take and no more. The stronger we are the more liberal the award. "Unity is Strength.'

Arbitration at best is but an armistice during which the opposing forces of labor and capital come together to discuss the terms upon which labor surrenders to capital. The weaker we are, the more abject our surrender.

The generosity of corporation officials in granting free transportation to officers of our union is a poor criterion by which to judge our strength. Anything we get from a corporation except through the power of our organization is more a loss than a gain.

Would it not be a good idea for each district to send copies of the minutes of their meetings to every other district to be read at the meetings. In this way could keep in touch with each other all the

I regret to say there are those among us who see something sinister in every new proposal. They are the unthinking and the unread. They never come out in the light and like the night birds flutter in alarm, when a ray of light crosses the darkness which is their proper element. Only healthy things thrive in the sunlight and only disease can thrive in the dark.

Let us get together. Let us lambaste each other if necessary, but above all let us understand each other. This is where the monthly joint meeting would help. It would effectually eliminate hole in the corner propaganda.

BROKER EMPLOYER'S VINDICATOR DISAPPOINTED

Apropos to an article in the January issue of The Commercial Telegraphers' Journal (page 11) by J. L. Rapp, in which he intimates that the "sliding scale" is again being used for wage reductions among employers of telegraph operators; it was with no little interest and with a feeling that Brother Rapp was rather malignant in his assertion that "Employers of Telegraph Operators," (by which I understand it to mean he included the different branches of such service) would stoop to such tactics as the "sliding scale."

It was impossible, for instance, to conceive that brokerage houses would for one instant tolerate such action on the part of the heads of their "wire reom."

That branch being my special forte, for the purpose of refuting at least one part of that article, and placing the members of the Stock Exchange and Chicago Board of Trade above such a level, it was with a sincere conviction that Brother Rapp was wrong, that caused me to investigate conditions on the "street" in this respect. The outcome of this limited investigation speaks for itself.

The first case that came to my attention was that of E. Lowitz and Co. Without the slightest notice of any kind, these men were told there would be no more lunch relief, and when they protested in a body three men were discharged on Saturday, January 24th, without even being given the customary two weeks' notice (an unwritten law of long standing among brokers.) Fortunately for both parties concerned, this matter was amicably adjusted the following Monday, of which undoubtedly there is more in The Bulletin.

It is generally conceded that the minimum salary at E. W. Wagner and Co. is $55.00, yet when one of the stock board markers was taken off the board, the man employed to replace him was given the munificent sum of $47.50, and he forthwith found other employment.

Then our old friend, "Solly" Schrier, after nine years' service at Shearson-Hammil decided to look for other fields to conquer. When leaving Shearson's "Solly" admitted to a salary of $60.00. I am advised on the best of authority that the position now will not pay OVER $55.00. The OVER speaks for itself. The same authority says that at Christmas, 1919, the bonus was in the neighborhood of $600.00, while in 1920 it was closer to $200.00 than $300.00. Stripped of all its diplomatic camouflage, did the boys work last year under false impressions?

Further investigation disclosed the fact that J. S. Bache & Co. are now paying $45.00 on a job that formerly paid $50.00.

Just as I am about to submit this article to ye editor, I learn that a house that has always been considered liberal with their operators—G. B. Vanness & Co.—have concluded that their men in the country can exist on $35.00 a week, while the Chicago performers can meet the increased rents with $50.00 a week.

This is another illusion dispelled; my sincere desire to uphold the dignity of the "street" has vanished.

Are the real brains of any and all brokerage houses with wire rooms going to stand for—THE SLIDING SCALE.

E. F. LELAND CHAPEL

Last month's issue of the Relay was almost entirely without notes from the various houses along the street. Let's all try and make this department of the Relay interesting. I'm sure the boys enjoy reading a little dope about their co-workers and neighbors occasionally, no matter how rotten, so here goes:

About the same force on hand here doing the necessary, except Capt. Bedford For-rest, A. E. F., who resigned and is now with Harris Winthrop. "78" Bed, watch out for the dark alleys and your nemesis, Michael J. Scully, Sioux City's favorite son, was off for about a week during which the dentist separated Mike from 27 perfectly good teeth. No store teeth as yet. However, being toothless has its compensations—Mike is on liquid diet. Oh!

David L. Twitchell, our esteemed fellow worker, who calmly makes things interesting for the boys down Louisville way, was off a couple of days, undergoing a slight operation. Understand Dave is in the market for an air cushion or some contrivance to soften the chair upon which he sits. It's a hard life.

Early Jackson Brown, the boy who does things to the Omaha bunch, seems to be full of surplus energy lately, especially in the moraing—must be Paulson's coffee.

Harry Bender, who makes those funny hieroglyphics on the grain board, (who said that?) went home the other morning during the session very sick. Continental Motors very shaky and weak that particular A. M. Don't weaken young feller, the worst is yet to come.

Art Maloney and Claude Reese serving John Weinand's opinion to Kansas City, et al., every day. Art, draw us a cartoon of "What happened to Rosa!"

Dave Ellington, ex-champion 7½ player of Oak Street, relieved "Bed" on the New York Duplex and from latest reports, the fellows at the other end are kept quite busy. Dave makes no false motions telegraphing, but when it comes to lingerie (?)—well, that's different, ask Dave.

Freddie Grawe was sick two days last week. He had an attack of heart failure at his girl's house Sunday evening. In telling how it happened, Fred said: "I was at the piano playing something, when suddenly all became black and I knew no more." He was ucx for two hours. Now Freddie tell us what you were playing on the piano. Surely no jazz music. Love is an awful thing!

Speaking of fainting and being unconscious, etc., understand Buck Walsh also had a slight attack. His wife went to the movie one night recently and when she returned, she found Buck stretched out stiff on the best rug in the house. No cause given. Could it be possible that some home brew became uncorked, (accidentally of course) during his wife's absence and that he was overcome by the fumes? fumes?

George Miller is fading away to nothing since he quit carrying his lunch, George never was what you could call a hearty eater; never ate more than 4 or 5 roast beef sandwiches, half a pie and a few doughnuts and maybe a couple apples or oranges to finish up with. Yes, it's too bad, poor feller, he is delicate.

Now we think that is enough. If we get by with this without injury, there will be more. We rather like to do the writing, because you see, when we do, no scandal touches our fair name—73, Peg.

E. W. WAGNER CHAPEL

Sol Schrier is with us, coming here from Shearson Hammil & Co., where he served "9 years at hard labor."

Mike Connolley is a new arrival, coming from Thomson-McKinnon.

Regret to report that we have one de-linquent, but he has promised to pay up back dues. Let's see if he does.

Rumors are again current of Bob Buck-ley's impending marriage—he was over-heard asking a brother member what he was paying for rent, and about what it cost him to live a month. Come on Bob, let us in on the secret, who is the lucky girl?

Flash—Charlie Hinman finally picked a winner—first since Armistice Day.

Gordon Kater bought a new hat to go with the new suit he won.

Charlie Kruse paid us a short visit a few days ago. He says he is feeling fine and sure looks it. Glad to see you doing so well Charles.

Bert Acton coppered Hin's fast one and walked home.

Floyd Stark relieved Mickey McCabe on the stock board and Mac is again quoting a wire. Mac was just working himself up to a point where he could hide behind a lead pencil.

PYNCHON & CO. CHAPEL

We officially announce the Dance and Entertainment given at The Morrison a wonderful success, being represented by no less than twelve from this office, we ought to know.

George Thomson played the Six Day Bike Race for the week and became so en-thused he remained until 4:30 A. M. one morning, keeping the writer up all night. He's a marvelous youngster and plays a mean game of billiards also.

The wonderful telegraph positions so gloriously visioned by one member of our force to be opened up in the Barbados Islands, will not materialize. It is understood "Peg" Bolton entertained this party lavishly a couple of times due to the above mentioned prospects.

When asked why he didn't attend the dance, Bro. Charlie Johnson said: "I'm toe old" when fellows, he's getting younger every day. One can tell that by the smile Al Cutler wrestled with an acute attack of laryngitis or some kind of "Ginitis" a few days last week. The betting reached the long odds of 15 to 1 that he would show up on pay day when Wiley, C. O. called a halt. Cutler showed.

The train service from Gary to Chicago continues to improve, Tom Yarrington having been late only four days the past week.

The Milwaukee circuit has been combined with St. Louis now. Bro. Wiegel is doing the honors. Heinie says he don't mind them putting Milwaukee on his wire, but he would like to know who the devii suggested it, that's all.

The contingent grain orders from abroad have caused Pat Cummings to talk to himself, and it is rumored he has postponed his marriage indefinitely saying he was afraid he couldn't stand the double strain. What's he mean strain?

While no prizes were given at the dance, it was generally conceded that Cummings, Cutler and Yarrington, assisted, of course by their fair partners, carried away the honors in a walk.

THOMSON & McKINNON CHAPEL

Art Stuart is back with us. Glad to see you old sport. Likewise Brother Jacobus, the veteran galosh gazer.

Ora De Bord says the fare out on Oak and Selbridge is too bounteous. Sell five!

Jim Paul came back in a barrel. The Bon Air Hotel burned to the ground and all the clothes were burned up too.

George Downie, you must come to these meetings and find out what is going on. Then you wont have to be filled in.

Is it worth the space to mention about the "BIRD" in our midst who was caught red-handed, writing down a list of the members of the telegraph force who happened to be late of mornings? The reason for the list was that a few days previous he had to get down and crawl. He had failed to show up for more than a week. And this was his idea of making good with his superior. But we are happy to say there is no place in our shop for such tactics. Even the boss emphatically denounces such tactics. Hence we have a snarling, hissing, back-biting object in our midst and we wish he would move on. If that's not wishing anybody else bad luck.

We are now in the first row when it luck.

We are now in the first row when it comes to class. We have some hot quoting wires in this shop. We work hard and earn our money, so don't get it in your noddlet that an overland wire is the colossus of 'em all. They're not, and we get the dough all right and don't work an overland wire either. Where dy'a get that stuff

Eddie Kowski is a hard man to 'break'. His battery is good; he comes thru heavy enough; but we can't break him.

FRANK N. ROBERTS

One of the most picturesque characters of our craft is lost in the death of Brother Frank N. Roberts, who passed away, Saturday, Feb. 5, at his home on Farragut Ave. Furferal services were under the auspices of Sunrise Lodge No. 996 A. F. & A. M., interment being at Rosehill on A. M., interment b Tuesday at 2 P. M.

A. M., interment being at Rosehill on Tuesday at 2 P. M.

For many years Brother Roberts was night chief operator in the main office of the Postal Telegraph Co., Chicago. Later he was promoted to traveling auditor, and then back again to the desk of chief. As all times he was a true friend of the boys; was true blue in his every relation with his Union, and in 1919 was President of Chicago District Council No. 1. It was then he participated in the walkout at the Postal office. From that date until near his sudden death he was identified with several of the best houses on the Street where it is a well known fact that Brother Roberts, despite his burden of years, was known only as a first class telegrapher.

Frank Roberts was a thoroughly representative telegrapher. Through his lengthy career as an official he never asked for personal favors; but on the other hand he granted many bona fide favors to others in his quiet, kindly way. While he did not say so, it was understood by all concerned that he granted these favors because he was convinced that the honored were men worthy of them, and not because he was "worked." He was big in body and big in spirit; a "Chesterfield" personified, and he will be sadly missed in the intimate business and social circles which he graced for so many years.

which he graced for so many years.

Just want to tell the world and Mars too. If we ever make connections, that IT DOES PAY to be up-to-date. If any non-believer wants to be filled in please refer him to me.

SEATTLE NOTES

From the looks of the past few issues of The Journal and Bulletin, it would seem that we are sadly in need of a correspondent to cover the West and Northwest. We all like to hear what is going on in other parts of the country and it's only natural that they are interested in our doings. Let's appoint a correspondent who will at least write a few personal items for The Journal each month.

I suggest as a start towards creating interest in the W. B. D., and giving Chicago the support they should have, that each member take advantage of President Alcorn's invitation to post him on their views as to the proposed activities of the union during 1921. We should all do something more than merely remit our dues twice a year and thinking we are good union men.

If we really want a schedule we must first realize that it's a useless task to ask our committee to schedule anything for us unless we are behind them and the best way to show this is by carrying a card and also helping to increase the member-

Am sorry to say Seattle has only 8 members out of 14 broker operators. This kind of backing will never put over a schedule and it may not be amiss to state now that the way business is at present, a cut in salary is a possibility of the near future, unless some of these operators who fail to see the light can be awakened. It is unfair to the men who carry cards and support the union to have non-members enjoy the same privileges as a member and I for one will be mighty glad when we have a union agreement and a closed shop.

With the start already made in Chicago

With the start already made in Chicago and the east there is nothing to stop the W. B. D. from being a success on the Pacific Coast; with a salaried president, who devotes his entire time to our interests, all we need to make 1921 "the year" is to get behind him with an 100 per cent membership.

AN APOLOGY
In the issue of The Bulletin of February 5th there appeared an item entitled "Housewives": admonishing housewives not to buy certain British products.

The article above referred to is a result of an unfortunate circumstance, which happens even in the best regulated publications in the country. It was received in this office together with some communications from affiliated unions, which is usually intended for publication. At the time of going to press with the Bulletin, we were short some copy and this article was picked up hastily as a "filler."

The editor of the Bulletin hereby apologizes for not using better care, even when in haste, in selecting articles. I hereby EAT said article.—Editor.

CLEVELAND SUB-DIVISION No. 10

Brother W. F. (Chubby) Devine came to the office Feb. 9th, his face wreathed in smiles. The cause for this was the arrival of a big baby girl the night previous. Chubby received many congratulatory messages from old friends along the line as far as the old home state of Connecticut. Miss Devine No. 2 is as yet unnamed.

Brother Kenneth Laidley, of Howell and Wales, and Miss Mary Cummings, of Cleveland, were married Saturday, February 5th. They will be at home to their friends at 14300 Strathmore Ave. East Cleveland. Brother Laidley slipped one over on the boys, keeping the news of the coming nuptials a secret until the day of the weedling.

All members of Sub-Division 10 wish Mr. and Mrs. Laidley a world of happiness.

on Friday evening, January 21, Cleveland Sub-Division gave its first dance since President Alcorn instituted the "Baby" sub-division. The affair was a huge success in every sense of the word. Socially, it was beyond all expectations. Financially it was beyond our fondest hopes. Everyone present—and there were many—commented on the exceedingly good time they were enjoying, and practically all asked the same question—"When are you going to give your next dance?"

Practically all our members, with each bringing two or more friends, were present. When a "baby" sub-division can put on an affair such as this was, who can continue calling us "the baby" sub-division can put to call us "baby" if you wish, but I guess we are showing you that we are about as husky a "kid" as you have in your family? Pardon our self-praise, but who speaks if we don't?

DETROIT SUB-DIVISION NO. 7 From the Heart of the Motor World.

From the Heart of the Motor World.

Well, we hauled our old hack Sub No. 7 out of the garage, where she has been up on jacks for some months and overhauled her and put a few new parts on her and she is all set. We wish to announce to all the sub-divisions that we are still in the race with her. There are a lot of folks who thought and still think that when it comes to keeping up our dues and pulling our part of the load we were a Dodge Brothers, but we ain't, we're live ones, we are, and we can show we still have lots of power and plenty of speed left to finish ahead of the rest of them. Right here I wish to serve official notice on our worthy fellows, Cleveland Sub No. 10, that having a large and noisy horn on their little bus isn't sufficient to make the big boys get off the road for them. With Guy Blakeley at the wheel and an old timer, John Dugan, carrying the oil can, with cord tires on all four wheels of our old quadruped truck, Sub. No. 7 is going over the top ahead of them all. All we need to start her is a little crank and all hop on and stay aboard. If you expect to get there you all better pay your fare and help keep Sub No. 7 ahead of the rest. For your benefit and in justice to Guy, 1 wish to state that these LYRICS ARE NOT BY GUY BLAKELEY:

The New Model No. 7

All you who think our sub is slow, We just tip you, we're all set to go, The roads are just fine, and the boys all in line,

So let's drive right along, doncherknow. You birds have all heard about Guy, His charlot points toward the sky, Don't stay on the grass when he gives her the gas

For he's going to make it on high.

So if you've a bad sluggish liver, Don't be a bad, lazy giver, You may eat as you chose, but pay up your dues.

And don't let this thing be a flivver. Yours truly, (Mike) NADEAU.

Brother A. S. (Red) Walsh, who is still out in San Diego, writes that he is slowly improving in health and we may see his smiling face again when the birds return in the spring. Drop Red a line, boys, to let him know we are pulling for him and hope his recovery will be rapid and complete.

D. J. Nadeau, with C. F. Childs & Co., has moved into new quarters on the 15th floor of the Penobscot Bldg. You can't keep a good man down.

Bro. J. N. (Hi) Lee, is still hitting the ball hard at Meeker & Co. We had the pleasure of seeing him amongst us at our last meeting and hope to see him there right along now because we need good men like "Hi".

We neglected to say that Bro. Artie Mc-Ardle is on the committee to look after the Capper and Tincher bills and we can already see where they are beaten to a frazzle.

The following officers were elected at January 8th, meeting to serve 1921:

Chairman, Guy H. Blakeley (re-elected); Vice-chairman, John M. Dugan; Secretary Thos. J. Baird (re-elected); Correspondent to Journal and Bulletin, Harold J. Nadeau.

Conducted by The New England Brokers' Division, Headquarters and Employment Bureau, No. 7 State Street, Boston, Mass.

THE SPIRIT OF SUCCESS.

The Spirit of Success which has characterized this Division for the past year continued this month with new vigor and momentum, which was reflected in the initiation of twenty-one new members. It really looks as if we are definitely headed for something very close to a hundred per cent organization in these New England States. On the part of broker telegraphers this is the result of about twenty per cent psychology and eighty per cent high grade common sense. The telegraphers are gradually becoming convinced that a new order of things has That the organization, at least for the past fifteen months, really been instituted. has been conducted along safe, sane, and moderate, but high class Union lines. That the officers are seeking the improvement of telegraph conditions without "shooting up the town"; and that everybody, from the veteran of '83 to the newest member is treated with equal fairness and consideration, and extended the same invitation to take an active part in managing the organization.

It has always been maintained by the few old timers who have kept the organization alive during the dog days, that ultimately this success would be the result.

There is no doubt now of the success of the New England Brokers' Division. "Mistakes may retard it, and sound judgment may accelerate it, but ultimately the result will be the same."

We are very anxious to see more of the brothers from out of town at our March The officers are working on a chapel plan, which will aim to get these meeting. brothers in closer touch with headquarters. We want it emphatically understood that we are not, and have no intention of becoming, a Boston organization.

NEWS ITEMS

There has been some surprise expressed because the Committee has investigated some applications, and questioned the advisability of favorable action. This should not be construed, however, as meaning that we are drawing any old lines. The attitude of the officers is liberal and in a general way our objective is to ORGANIZE, but the right of an organization to say who it will or will not admit is, we believe, unquestioned. Therefore, brothers should get applications from their friends, properly signed by the applicant, and turn same over to the Secretary, who will place it before the Board.

We hear some of the Chamber of Commerce firms are pretty blue these days, probably largely on account of the continued slump in the grain markets. We hope this will only be temporary, and that the one or two men already laid off will be the end of it.

G. F. Redmond and Company now employs more telegraphers in this city than any other house. Brother Joseph F. Coughlin is Senior Operator.

Secretary Treasurer Sullivan recently paid a visit to New York. "Don't let anybody tell you they haven't got an organization dwer there." says Dan. He visited headquarters, and exchanged ideas with New York's live officers.

Out of five positions filled during the past month, the Division placed four of its men, and lost one through being underbid. Or rather, our man set a minimum, and didn't get it. When we lose one out of five positions for a reason like this we have a "bad" Employment Committee.

But we must keep on the job, with our ear to the rail for new jobs, and no one fail to notify the Employment Committee of any clew to an opening. Three healthy men with excellent appetites are on the list. They are all First Class operators.

February Meeting

The regular meeting was held at head-quarters, Monday, Feb. 7th, with the largest attendance of any meeting for years. It was also the most representative meeting yet held by this organization, the interest being evenly divided between the young man attending his initial Union meeting, and the dyed-in-the-wool veteran of many years. To see the young men taking hold the way they are is certainly encouraging, but to see the veteran become enthused anew is inspiring.

Satisfactory reports were received from the Sick Relief Committee, Organization Committee. Indoor and Outdoor Recrea-tion Committees and the Secretray.

The meeting decided to make the Annual Outing the big event of the year, and the Committee's recommendation that it be held at Paddock's Island on the first Sunday in August was approved. There seems to be no reasonable doubt that this will be one of the biggest events ever staged by New England Telegraphers. It is not too early to begin to look forward

The Committee also recommended the organization of two baseball teams to include all ball players as regulars or subs. and to be under the management of a Committee of three, to consist of a Manager and two captains. Further action on the organization of these teams will be taken at the March meeting, and it is requested that all those interested in baseball attend the next meeting.

About one hundred dollars was distributed by the Sick Relief Committee during the month. Hereafter all such benefits should be under the auspices of this committee.

Several brothers have received applications from Broker Employes outside the Telegraph departments who desire to join the organization. A Committee consisting of Brothers Conry, Heffernan and Fisher were appointed to investigate this matter, and make recommendations at the next meeting. next meeting.

The Board of Directors met on Saturday, Feb. 5th, to take action on the death of Brother Edward C. Blidden, of I. N. S., Division 61. A resolution of sympathy was adopted, to be conveyed to his family by Brother Feltus of the Board and Brother Heron, who was a very close friend. A floral tribute and a little more substantial evidence of our sympathy were also sont to the bereaved family. Further details of Brother Glidden's death appear on another page. another page.

GREAT LAKES DISTRICT

A destructive fire, which completely gutted the Forum Building, Toronto, on the morning of January 28th, included in its toll the offices of our General Secretary-Treasurer.

The books and records of Canadian Marconi Wireless System Division No. 59 have been lost, but as the duplicate of much matter covering the System Division and the Great Lakes Subdivision, is in the possession of the General Chairman, something can be done towards replacing certain records.

Apart from the financial statements and reports of minutes issued monthly, and copies of which are always mailed to each station, our secretarial records have been utterly destroyed.

It is a matter for congratulation that on January 15th, the half-yearly audit had been made, the books found to be well and properly kept, and all disbursements youched for.

The bank balance is safe, but former assets in the shape of stamps, buttons, etc., as also much printed matter, are a dead loss.

Our treasured charter, which hung in a worthy frame of rosewood, together with the official seal, filing cabinets and contents, were destroyed.

Immediate application is being filed at headquarters for another charter and seal. Brother Crewson is taking immediate steps to have a full supply of stationery printed. Some of our last lot deserved its fate, for it was minus the "Union Label."

It is understood that unopened mail addressed to the General Chairman in care of the General Secretary was destroyed, and correspondents are hereby asked to re-write their letters if reply has not been received to their communications. It is believed that mail from St. John, N. B., was lost.

Temporary offices have been secured at Dundonald Building, Yonge Street, Toronto, and until further notice, the regular monthly meetings of Great Lakes Subdivision will be held there.

Brothers having subscribed to the fund for the widow of the late Brother, C. E. Hill, are asked to at once write Brother Crewson, stating the amount of their subscription, and whether paid or pending. Subdivision secretaries are asked to at once furnish Brother Crewson with a duplicate of lists sent in, together with a fresh copy (pink) of all receipts given.

It is desirable that this matter be cleared up as quickly as possible, and the proceeds handed to Brother Strachan of C. P. R. Division No. 1, who is chairman and treasurer of the Hill Fund.

If all are prompt in meeting our wishes as outlined above, it should be within our power to have the complete list ready for presentation to the membership in the March issue of the Journal, and the funds where they properly belong.

It is hoped that an early issue of the Journal will contain the new design which will in future ornament the initial page of the Canadian Marconi Section. The thanks of this division are hereby extended to our International officers, Brothers Johnson and Schnur, for the favor so willingly granted at the request of our General Chairman, and it is felt that an appeal to the membership of Division 59 is unnecessary to induce them to show their appreciation of a "Special Radio Section," by furnishing plenty of appropriate and good material each month for its columns.

Bro. G. E. Clegg of Quebec has been appointed "Editor," and all communications intended for the Journal should be sent to him. His address is P. O. Box 193, Quebec, P. Q.

Communications intended for the Journal should reach the "Editor" (Brother Clegg) not later than the FIRST of each month to ensure publication in the current issue.

It is worthy of note that Brother Clegg has had considerable experience in newspaper work, (who said that he used to sell papers?) so that his services in connection with our Journal column are certain to be valuable. Now get busy, and give him lots to do. Manuscript will not be returned, and we hold his pledge that he has burned his W. P. B. which was not made of wire.

The Car Ferry Ontario No. 2 ran aground three miles east of Cobourg on the morning of January 23rd. Her sister ship Ontario No. 1 and the Toronto Wireless Station were in constant communication with her, the former succeeding in releasing her at 10:35 a. m. on January 25th.

The worth of Marconi link between the ship and her owners was demonstrated and there is reason for believing that the new Marconi receiving tuner recently installed aboard had much to do with the evident ease with which her operator read signals through some really bad Q. R. M.

Or do you wish to have the General Committee declare you "Not in good standing" through your failure to pay your assessment. Try the cap on, and if it fits, wear it. They got it, and were duly reinstated. Had they not been in GOOD STANDING, they WOULD NOT have received our help. You may be in a similar position at any time, and we WILL NOT be able to do anything for you. It's up to you."

of interest to all Great Lakes Brothers:

THE YOUNGEST SOLDIER.—The credit for having the youngest soldier in the great war has been claimed by both the United States and France, but the honor really belongs to Canada. R. C. Thompson of Frince Edward County, Ontario, enlisted when only thirteen years of age with the 80th Battalion. Discharged from this on account of his age, he three months later enlisted in the 155th Battalion on March 16, 1916. He accompanied that battalion to St. Andrew's, New Brunswick, and left for overseas on September 14, 1916, and served in France for several months before it was discovered that he was only thirteen years of age and sent back to Canada. At the age of sixteen he again went overseas and served with the C. M. R., returning to Toronto with that unit, after the close of the war."

I wish to thank the Brother members for their kind expressions of sympathy in our heavy loss of our business and equipment, which was only partly covered by Insurance. We hope to be re-established in new quarters very shortly, having taken temporary quarters corner Dundonaid and Yonge Sts., Toronto.

G. W. CREWSON, Gen. Sec'y-Treasurer.

Brother members of Great Lakes Sub-Division are asked to furnish Secretary G. W. Crewson, 71 Balmoral Ava., Toronto, of their permanent address, that our rec-ords may be completed.

All news of interest will be gladly accepted from our brother members for the Journal; all matters for Journal must be sent direct to Bro. G. E. Clegg, Marconi Station, Citadel, Quebec, Que., not later than first of each month. Bro. Clegg has been appointed Editor and Censor of all matters for the Journal.

Congratulations Sub-Division Secretaries on the fine showing made during the first month of 1921. I also wish to thank those of the membership who have secured their 1921 annual. Do you wear one of our new C. T. U. A. emblems? They sure look good. Just write to General Secretary Crewson and secure one for the small sum of 75c. Made of rolled gold.

Those of the membership who have not secured their 1921 Annual Card are asked to respond immediately and help us make a clean-up of the cards by end of March.

Word was received by Bro. Crewson that Bro. Berry was seriously ill, but since then none of our brothers know how he is progressing. Here's hoping he is well again. His father stated "Doctor's orders he give up wireless work forever." We sincerely hope the Doctor has Bro. Berry in shape for spring opening of navigation.

All interest and best wishes will be turned to our brother members of Government Division No. 65, during the next month, watching the progress of their conference with their employers for adjustment of salary, working conditions, etc. Good luck to 'em.

EASTERN DISTRICT

There is a current saying that Shakespeare never repeated but that genius lived in a day when there were no labor unions.
Had he done so he would have found himself repeating a good many times "Don't forget your Annual", "Come in, the water's fine" and all those well known slogans employed to induce the "Non" to come across.

We are glad to join in the congratulations extended to Bro. and Mrs. Carl Newberg on the birth of a son. If he turns out as good a head as father, he won't do so bad. Good luck to you and yours, Bro.

of the real aristocracy of our Dominion, the fathers and mothers of the future worthy citizens of a glorious heritage.
Said heritage seems to be a bit wobbly at present what with un-employment, rapacious Shylocks masquerading as landlords, and a topsy-tury state of things in general, but we do not doubt that in due time the wobbliness will depart and stability will come.

We are also glad to congratulate "Billy", son of our paregetic deference.

shoes.

We would suggest that Bro. Lightbown of the dulcet voice, get on a wireless phone some night and employ his gift to persuade some of our "shy" members to come across on the Union plate.

Well, you brothers who live on Company's stations, ought to congratulate yourselves on the fact that you don't live in a burg where you have to loosen yourselves from anything between twenty and fifty per cent of your monthly roll for that present day substitute for piracy called rent. We have just been touched for our next year's increase in this connection and don't feel quite as joyful as we did a month ago. We are of the opinion that if organized labor could get together everywhere and tackle this matter of landlord extortion by getting after Municipal and Governmental authorities they would accomplish as much good as if they obtained salary increases from employers. Barring actual unemployment there is no single thing in the whole range of cost of living expenses which is causing as much unrest as this. Bolshevism or what it stands for has no greater friend than the rapacious landlord.

Well, now we have got that off our chest we will proceed to something else. What about the long-promised grievance committee for the Eastern section? The Lakes Division have had such a committee from and we are given to understand.

Division have had such a committee from inception and we are given to understand that it functions in a satisfactory manner all around. A little action in this matter from our Executive would be received with general approval.

There seems to be a divergence of opinion as to just how serious a member's grievance should be before Executive action is taken. We are of the opinion that every grievance, no matter how apparently trivial should receive due attention. The average member thinks, and we believe rightly, that as he is paying so much per year for protection he is entitled to have his grievances taken up and if they are really trivial the Executive should be able to let him see that, if the case is judicially handled and then everybody would be satisfied, the member being left with the feeling that his Union was really behind him.

General Chairman Seefred, immediately upon being informed of Brother Glidden's death, by Circuit Chairman Pare, obtained permission from the I. N. S. to put the following appeal on all I. N. S. circuits:

"After a long uphill struggle against high prices and hospital bills, our faithful brother, E. C. Glidden, of Lynn, Mass., has passed away, following an illness of several weeks. His widow and five small children need assistance. Please join me in a voluntary fund, remitting quickly whatever your circumstances may justify to Brother J. J. Added to these circumstances, Brother the cost of living leaped to the top notch. Added to these circumstances, Brother Glidden experienced other misfortunes in the way of sickness in his family, entailing hospital expenses of unusual proportions. Through it all Brother Glidden struggled nobly, never grumbling at union dues or assessments. It is not surprising therefore to find his exchequer depleted when the Master called him to rest. He had a varied career while a telegrapher. went South early in life, and worked in various southern cities. He was formerly with the Western Union in Houston, Texas, and Dallas. When the strike of 1883 was declared Connelly was night chief for the Western Union at Houston. Notwithstanding his official position he went on strike and remained out until it was officially called off. After the strike the Western Union permitted him to return to work at Dallas where he remained until he entered the newspaper business. It was said that Connelly was the only chief in the United States that went on strike. After retiring from the telegraph service Connelly continued to take a deep interest in the Commercial Telegraphers' Union and was at one time an honorary member of Memphis local. C. T. U. A. # NIPS AND TUCKS (By A. R. G.)

Here are listed a few of the interesting things which we may safely "view with alarm":

Government figures show a million women in England whose only chance to marry is to emigrate, because of war-decimation of males. So at last we solve the mystery of why American women are opposed to allowing unrestricted immigration!

Because it denudes the pastures of grass, forcing out antelope and other valuable game, the government has officially branded wild burros as pests. This should be a valuable tip to the male population of Hawaii.

The total number of men who died in the World War is set at 8,501,437. And while the world is still unsafe for democracy, it is comforting to know it is also unsafe for those who admit it is unsafe.

One fourth of last year's tobacco crop will be made into fertilizer if the government permits. And this seems a reasonable thing to do with a lot of this scab-made tobacco that is being smoked by half-baked union men.

The wearing of monocles by officials is verboten in Berlin and reports are that 5,000,000 "better class" Germans plan emigrating to the Americas. But will Messra. Gary, Carlton & Co., welcome competition?

American farmers who innocently believed in the stories about "need for greater production" have 25,000,000 bushels of corn they are willing to contribute free to Europe's starving children if the railroads haul it free. Safe to predict nothing will come of it—no one would make any profit out of such doings.

The forestry service warns us that insects kill annually trees valued at $70,000.000. And we might add that "bugs" kill telegraph operators whose "annual valuation is incalculable. (Applause from Ed Williams).

Guam fishermen lower intoxicating root pulp into streams and then wait for the stupefied fish to float to the surface to be fathered in. American manufacturers lower a bunch of propaganda to "produce" and when it takes effect, scoop in the fish brained workers while their power of resistance is paralyzed. One touch of nature—

Floating crematories capable of incinerating 30 bodies at a time are being built at Tokio. Which leads us to suspect that some more Japanese workers are going to commit hara-kara by going on strike.

The L. & N. is building wireless stations to handle railroad telegrams—but not train orders as yet. Looks like an imitation "multiplex scare" to convince the OS-ers that salaries should fall.

The British government spends annually $250,000,000 for maintenance of troops in Ireland. Well, the world can not be made safe for self-determination without some expense!

Chicago is using a snow-loading machine that takes the place of 60 men and 12 trucks. So, some day the unemployed will stop praying for snow.

New York women are now wearing shoes made of snake skins, it is revealed, thereby solving at last, the mystery of their sinuous motions.

But do these society women wait for corporation spies to die before taking their hides for shoes, or do they heartlessly murder them? Here is something for Mr. Palmer to think on.

Frisco authorities have asked Washington for a machine gun to guard hootch valued at $2,000,000. But who will guard the machine gun and who will guard the guards?

Welfare workers declare that a fourth of the children (numbering 175,000 annually) who come into the American courts, should have been handled differently. This is a wanton attack on business. How else would 1,000 percent dividends be paid than by employing children instead of adults?

The Danish physician who invented a powerful disinfectant which removes all pains from wounds should offer it to the American telegraph companies to be used in their offices on the broken down men and women, the injustice of whose treatment smells to high heaven.

Judge Ben Lindsey is still unregenerate. He declares "As I see it, the hope of the state—of all states—is still in education, beginning with itself, in its own beginning—childhood". Pure treason! This man might even forbid employment of infants as messenger boys by our telegraph companies!

Unless you are loyal to your fellow workers, you cannot expect loyalty from them. And disloyalty to your fellow workers is at the same time, disloyalty to God, your country and your soul.

Bless the "Open Shoppers" and kindred institutions, bless and keep in health and lust for blood of Union men, whose fearless and courageous gunmen, strike breakers and the heads of private detective agencies who, though of lowly descent, have heeded the words of our worthy disciples, the "kept newspapers" and publications. ## WOULD YOU WANT THESE OLD TIMES BACKT

"An old account book has been unearthed showing prices paid by the owner of the book in 1843," says the San Francisco Star. "The figures given are such as to make one weep for the 'good old days'—until one stumbles on an item indicating the wages paid 78 years ago. A pair of shoes is entered at $1.37, slippers at 62 cents, dozen eggs at 8 cents, coffee at 10 cents a pound, butter at 8 cents, cheese at 10 cents, lumber at 1 cent a foot and chickens at 10 cents each. These were the days when a dollar was as big as a cartwheel in the matter of purchases. But the sad awakening comes when one reaches the entry: 'Credit for one day's work, 50 cents.' In '43 a day probably meant from 12 to 14 hours." "An old account book has been unearthed

The Postal is not opposed to the C. T. U. A., so why don't the Postal operators go ahead?

Is this so? Better think it over.

The C. T. U. A. keeps salaries up to their present figure. Could we say this if there was no such thing as the C. T. U. A.?

Before the C. T. U. A. was organised salaries were at the starvation stage and there were times when the breadline looked very tempting to a commercial telegrapher.

The minimum press scale is $45 per week for day work, six days a week, in Canada, but not in the U. S. A. It's $40 per week over here.

THE BRASS CHECK By J. B. M.

If you were a writer-fellow and you had cast your lot with the working class twenty years ago, and as a result of your twenty-year battle against injustice and greed you had become terribly hated by capitalists everywhere; and they had tried many times and almost succeeded several capitalists everywhere; and they had tried many times and almost succeeded several times to ruin you; and you had been in jail half a dozen times, sometimes willingly as a means of drawing attention to certain injustices, other times as a result of the hatred against you; if you had had everykind of a despicable lie printed about you in the papers; if you had written a book that was so terrible, so vivid that for a year it was the biggest seller in the United States, and the best known American novel outside of the United States, being translated into seventeen different languages; if your book had brought several multimillionaires to their knees before the American people and caused a Congressional investigation, incidentally making you the mark for an unbelievable propagands of misrepresentation, persecution and libel—if all these things had happened to you and after fifteen years you were still on deck fighting injustice and greed every minute of the day and really getting the better of them—if you could write a book of your experience and adventures in your fight—could you make it hot enough? enough?

In your fight—could you make it hot enough?

There is a man living today who has done all these and he has written his book and it is hot. It is so hot that it sears. You take it up to read; you become intensely interested; you read on and on; you stop a moment; you say: "My God, this can't be true!" You read on and you find names — names of some of the best known men in the country; you find names of newspapers which you know, some of them you have worked for; you find dates; you find everything as it would be in a court, before a jury. You read on; the book becomes so interesting that you refuse to lay it down.

By this time you are breathless; anger stirs within you; you are half way through it; you decide that every soul whom you know shall read this book. It is stupendous, it is unbelievable, it is terrible. You finish the book. You look into space. Then gratitude wells up in you; gratitude to the man who wrote it: gratitude for his courage, regret for the misery he has been through. You wonder at his courage. Like a withering blast he has cut his way through corruption, injustice and hypocrisy. You swear that you will spread this book far and wide and you go out with a rejuvenated enthusiasm, glad that in the world there is at least one man who defies "the name of the book is "The Brass Check." FLORENCE HILL.

Editor Journal:

We were informed in the November
Journal that a joint meeting has been held in Toronto on October 17, 1920, and that the following resolution was adopted

In Toronto on October 17, 1920, and that the following resolution was adopted thereat:

"That it is the sense of this meeting: As the best means of meeting the employers with a united front, this joint meeting representing all commercial telegraphers in Toronto, embracing C. P. R., G. N. W., Wireless, Press, and Broker Divisions, desires to go on record as favoring a federation of all Divisions of the C. T. U. A. in Canada with an executive board having jurisdiction over all affairs affecting the Canadian telegraphers as a whole.

"That all schedules before being presented be referred to said board for approval and revision where necessary, in order that they may be made to harmonize and made uniform as far as possible.

"That in order to bring this federation into being a convention will be necessary, the details and by-laws to be worked out by the convention.

the details and by-laws to be worked out by the convention.

To supplement this resolution, the following motion carried unanimously:

"That a committee be appointed composed of representatives of various units to take up the above resolution and keep it before other Divisions to bring about this convention at earliest possible date, and that this committee report to a joint meeting results of its efforts."

According to the minutes, the following members were elected for this committee:
Bros. Mitchell and Kelly, (GNW); Bros. Storey and Renseman, (CPR); Bro. Tobin, Canadian Press; Bro. Allen, Wireless; Bro. Blainey, Brokers.

By the time the February Journal appears four months will have passed, and at the date of this writing the above committee has not yet reported. To all of this committee, we would ask: What is being done?

There are two things this committee done?

There are two things this committee should do and two only. Either go ahead and carry out their instructions or come out with an expression of confidence that we will be able to "muddle through" with organization (or the lack of organization) as it is. Will they do one or the other?

It has come to us, through the "under ground," by the way, that a certain official has said we could not possibly finance a convention before October next. Why not? But at that, with our committees on expense all summer, as all signs point to their being, what assurance have we that we shall be able to finance a convention even in October? None whatever. Anyway, a convention is only a means to an end and is by no means an end in itself. The end in this case being to organize the Union here and now so as to enable us to "meet the employers with a united front"—as the resolution says. We shall need that "united front" this summer, and that being so, it certainly is questionable generalship to put off lining it up until next October. Speaking for Canadian National Division, I say we can finance any necessary move that we undertake. The members of old G. N. W. Division have never failed to carry through any legitimate proposition they ever undertook, and they will not fail now.

A convention in the first week in May next would hearten our people to face what is before them. a full delegation would be sent and things would be done; they might send one or two delegates to a convention in October, and we'd have the usual result to go on with.

Yours fraternally.

Editor The Journal:

Appearing in the editorial columns of the January Journal is the following com-ment about organizing the A. P. telegraphers:

"A movement has been launched by I. N. S. men which, IF SUPPORTED BY UNITED PRESS, UNIVERSAL SERVICE AND CANADIAN PRESS BROTHERS, will build up an A. P. organization fund which will ensure sending out a competent organizer, who will devote his entire time to organizing those Associated Press men who have not yet been convinced they are standing in their own light."

The I. N. S. men need not be afraid that the other organized press men will not do their part towards helping the A. P. men get organized. For haven't they carried the burden of the A. P. men since 1907? Haven't they paid for getting the A. P. the high minimum which they now have? Then, it ought to be plain that they will do "their part" in any movement that will lead to getting the A. P. men lined up to carry their own load hereafter and not make it so hard on the already organized press operators.

The quantion is: "WILL THE ASSO-

A. P. men! All listen! Do you, any one of you, really, honestly and truly believe, right down in the bottom of your heart that you would be getting the $40.00 minimum today if it wasn't for the organized press men of other Associations? When $5.00 of this has a string to it and can be "jerked back" at any time; the A. P. happens to decide that there are enough operators that they can afford to take it away from you; when you are not paid your regular salary while you are on your vacation, but this extra $5.00 (bonus?) is deducted and paid to the man that relieves you, and when the T. D. R. takes a man that has six and twelve months' less service with the company and gives him a job over you that you desire, and when men working on the same circuit with you are over you that you desire, and when men working on the same circuit with you are given no more than a day's notice upon being taken out of the service, and when another man on the same circuit has to wait three and four weeks, yes, and sometimes longer, for relief when he HAS RESIGNED, I ask you, as one A. P. man to another, do you think we are being treated fair? And do you really believe, that we would receive half as fair treatment as we now receive. If it were not for the already now receive, if it were not for the already

ASSOCIATED PRESS: OHIO STATE

Hail to the A. P. organization campaign!
Captain Roscoe Johnson, you graduated from a fine school for this new task—you learned to fight for democracy and selfdetermination in France. You and your fellow officers led against foreign autocracy, men who never had known the meaning of the word. We are glad to welcome you back here to lead us in the fight to finish making America free!

Many of the same Buckeye boys who played havoc with Prussianism in France are back here in Ohio working for the A.
P. We are ready to "finish the job" that was left undone by our brother telegraphers over here while we were in France.
We men of the A. P. have watched, in humiliation, the unionized press telegraphers carry our burdens for a number of years. We have seen the unionized associations raise wages repeatedly and improve working conditions and we have seen the A. P. put up the "me too" sign every time, meanwhile studiously pointing every time, meanwhile studiously pointing out to us how we received wage increases
"without benefit of union." But we continue to work 7½—and, even of the benefits we HAVE received at the expense of the organized telegraphers, we know they may be taken away at any moment without the necessity of consulting us. We have no SIGNED CONTRACT, no verbal contract—we have as our sole assurance of protection THE CONTINUED EXISTENCE OF THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION OF AMERICA AND THE CONTINUED SACRIFICES OF OUR UNIONIZED FELLOW-TELEGRAPHERS!

But if we have been "a fine bunch" heretofore, we are glad now to line up with the unionized men to meet the new menaces faced by all classes of skilled workers. The organizations which have brought us peace, prosperity, decent conditions and some measure of assurance MUST BE PRESERVED.

Every A. P. man and every unorganized press telegrapher in America must unite on this movement: ORGANIZE AND SCHED-ULE THE ASSOCIATED PRESS! The I. N. S. U. P., Universal and Canadian Press telegraphers have assured us of their support. They are contributing, voluntarily, real cash to aid in organizing the A. P. and independent press associations. Common decency forbids that we dash aside the fraternal hand these boys hold out to us. Sound judgment dictates that we join hands with them and stabilize our craft, removing once and for all time the old inefficient and un-American methods of "individual (verbal) contract."

Men on the Ohio day and night circuits are lining up fast. The question, first whispered and now asked openly: "Where do we get application blanks from?"—is becoming more and more heard. Here's the answer: From Paul F. Schnur, secretary-treasurer and temporary chairman of the A. P. Division, C. T. U. A., No. 113, South Ashland Blvd., Chicago! These circuits will be solidly organized by the last of April. of April.

Lester Butler is sending out of Columbus on the day wire, while Chris Nowell is the spit-ball artist for the night wis.

The Cleveland aggregation consists of: Louie Winch, Jim McCarthy, Ed Baum and Frank Nichols.

Other old-timers on the circuits include: Fred Sanderson, Canton; Dudley Washington, and Smith. Dayton; Stettler, Steubenville; Vance, Sandusky; Claudia Walters, Springfield; Boyd, Lexington, Ky.; Robbins, Alliance; Joe Lemkuhl, Lima; Steffy, Akron; McHugh, Findley; Tom Murphy, Zanesville; Gruelich, Dayton; Steinkamp, Hamilton; Stanley Davis, Dublin. We thank the unionized press men for their wonderful aid in helping us get started. Help us get our committee before the management this spring and you will have a splendid, organized bunch back of you to render you all assistance should you ever need it. And you'll be rid of a great mass of dead timber you've been carrying for so long.

CANADIAN BROKER DIVISION

It has been quite some time since notes from this neck of the woods have appeared in our Journal, but things have been very quiet of late and then the holidays have kept everybody busy.

The majority of men on the Street were expecting a fair "Bonus" this year, but with one or two exceptions, they were nearly all disappointed. 'Pears to me that unless stock brokers make a couple of million iron men a year, they won't even think of passing out a handout; which all goes to show that a bonus is an "elusive object indeed" and not in the same class with a regular job and regular salary. The Canadian Press men in this territory are making, in bureau offices, on an average of $6 per week more than the broker men, and on the line, I believe they make from $4 to $6 a week more than broker line-men. And quite often we hear the old cry "Press men should not be getting more than broker men"-always this pitiful whine comes from the non, who hasn't sense enough to take out a card, let alone understand WHY the Press Men get more. Personally, I say more power to the Can. Press Operators.

I understand two men are being let out at one of the New York houses very soon. I know one is not up to date and think the other is in the same boat. If they have a chance to catch on with the press watch them dig for that back dues card! And strange to say, they'll find sufficient kale to put them up to date! "Some men is funny animals" as Ring W., would say.

is funny animals" as Ring W., would say. Old man Hines wanders home every night now steady as a clock, he says there's nothing like a regular home, where he can take off his boots when he hits the door and scratch his back without comments from any roommates. He also says: "No one can come in here and sing 'Sweet Adeline'." George used to wander from his nice cozy room into the room where Shorty Long and Ralph Hague Lawson were murdering the evening, and say "Cut that Out." At any rate he promises us a singsong at his house one of these nights, and the gang will go along and shoot the deck. May also be a Scotch entertainment (friends of Gawg's) the eve of Lincoln's birthday or Washington's and the boys will trot to N. D. Grace.

While one the subject of matrimonial

While on the subject of matrimonial woes the writer has been flashed the glad tidings that Sister N. K. Vance of the Royal Bank, is officially engaged to Brother Duggy Lawson, holding down the anchor position on Baldy's team of bowlers. We all surely wish Dug the best of luck in his new anchorage, and to Miss Vance the very best also. They both deserve all that's coming to 'em that's coming to 'em.

Ottawa is lined up solid now and we extend congratulations to Bro. Gregory, transferred from G. N. W. Division, and also Bro. Auger. Bro. Crockett has always been a member of C. B. D. No. 21, and that 'ill burg is living up to its reputation as a good union town.

Come across boys and help make Montreal 100 per cent, the local fund is growing fast, and with so many leased wires in town, bank, etc., we should be able to make a real thing of this local. It's funny how some have the money to play a $2.00 spot on the nags, and won't come in even on the installment plan and get up to date. Are they hoping it will go bust, and they will not have to pay? Well, if they only would realize that if they do lose a broker job, they will have to pay all back dues to get on with U. P., Can Press, and most all commercial companies, and what would the O. R. T. do to a man behind in his dues. This cannot be emphasized too strongly, so get in and help the other boys who are up to date. Let's hold a real meeting, come to the next C. P. R. meeting. We can get the hall after they are through, and then arrange for a big rally of our own.

The Canadian Broker Division sent a beautiful anchor and a resolution of sympathy to our late departed Bro. C. E. Hill's home.

There are quite a few who have not paid up for the first half of 1921 as yet. Hope this is only forgetfulness on their part and that they will not forget to go see our Secretary-Treasurer. All leased wire men are members of C. B. D. No. 21, or should be, and operators in Banks, Trust Companies, Harris Abattoir, etc., should see they are transferred.

Dues are coming in fast, and those be-see they are transferred.

Dues are coming in fast, and those behind are helping by paying installments, but there are a few to hear from yet.

The business of snooping around broker houses after your own wire is clear, looks bad, and unless you have urgent business, such as calling on the Treasurer to pay your dues or get an application form, the operators and the officials there don't like it very well. At least it don't seem reasonable that a firm wants anyone but their own staff of operators "Listening in."

This is mentioned not because it is the habit of many operators to do this, but one or two, do visit one office in particular.

ope or two, do visit one office in particular.

There are not many jobs open on the "Street" just now, but we will keep all members posted on the vacancies, and no house to house canvassing will be necessary. Of course non's will have to take a chance on the cold winter.

Business, they say, will be better in the spring, with lower prices for suits, shirts, collars, Government Hootch (they are going to sell it), etc., so let's all join the optimistic gang, and get a card.

In our initial appearance last month we neglected to mention the fourth member of our tiny 100 per cent union service, H. A. Harmon, who sends from our Washington office. At the same time we regret the ton office. At the same time we regret the fact that he has just lost his mother. He has the sympathy of the boys in the New York office.

In response to our request, that sub-divisions co-operate with us in lining up our subscribers' operators, we received one lone reply from the Secretary at Pitts-burgh. Wake up Cincinnati and Detroit. In New York there are a number of unattached men at the New York Times at night. They should all hold union cards. Only a few of them do.

Bill Holland says the Broker local at Phila. is growing by leaps and bounds. So are all of them, we say.

TORONTO C. P. R. NOTES

It will no doubt surprise a great many members in "RN" to learn that there are members in "RN" to learn that there are still some who are delinquent on their assessment of the first month's increase levied last summer. I don't want to say anything to these members that might be unjustified by their circumstances, every man being supposed to know his own business best. But boys, if this money was owed to you by the company what a holler there would be. Your organization operates on business lines, and bad book debts are as hurtful to our rating as in any other business. Will you not make a start to wipe out your indebtedness, even if it is only at the rate of fifty cents each pay day. This will be proof positive that you are not throwing us down and letting the "other fellow" pay your obligations.

The Sick and Visiting Committee for 1921 is making a decided hit, and their method of doing business is to be highly commended, and we are confident that with the co-operation of the local officials no member of the staff unfortunately compelled to be absent through illness, shall be left in doubt as to whether his absence has been noted or not. I submit with pleasure the report of the committee for the last month: The following members absent through illness were visited by the committee and herewith a report on their present condition:

Sister Quail. suffering with named Sister Quail, suffering with neuritis, a little easier but still confined to bed.

Sister Gould, operated on for appendicitis on Jan. 28th, doing splendidly and now removed from the hospital to her home.

Sister Patterson, suffering with La Grippe, improving but will not be out for another week.

Bro. McReynolds, pleurisy (Jack has since resumed duty we are glad to state).

Bro. J. W. McCarthv was visited at his home on January 29th and your committee is glad to report that he is getting along as well as can be expected. The bone in his left leg which was fractured by the unfortunate fall he had while alighting from a street car on Dec. 10th, is claimed by his physician to be knitting quite satisfactorily but it will be considerable time before he will be able to resume duty. A letter from some of his old friends would fit in very acceptably. "Come on Mac" XS is waiting for you.

We regret to chronicle the serious ill-

We regret to chronicle the serious illness of the mother of Bro. T. J. Stewart at her home in Guelph.

The best wishes of the staff to all the above for a speedy return to health and strength is sincerely expressed.

Bro. "Bill" Holden is again the popular chairman of the Entertainment Committee for 1921. We look for big "Doins" after Lent. Let's go Bill.

We are again a NATION: We have a hockey team once more, and any one who has aspirations of getting into the Big League had better interview Bro. Tom McLaughlin "Toot Sweet." They expect to play a team from the Post Office shortly, and the staff anticipates a lot of Posties to be sent to the Dead Letter office pronto. From reports received at the Casualty station, Bert Beatty is a thorn in the side of opposing forwards. "Giller" says he couldn't find his stick, it must have been lost on moving dav.

"CA" bought a nifty stick for $2 (repeat two bucks) he came out of the practice IK but the stick is reported among the missing.

It is reported that Dick Ward will do-nate a pair of crutches to the most useful man on the team. "Doc" Pearce and some other well-known authority on sport to be the judges.

We hear that Miss Beach contemplates forming a ladies' team to challenge the boys to a game on April 25th (referendum day). There is a strong movement on foot to induce Hon. W. E. Raney to donate a pair of steins to each member on the winning team. J. D. Flavelle denies the rumor that Scrips will be used instead of court plaster.

Dick Kee, Mack Ort and Pah Suhn, three local Chinamen, are in the market for new Stanfields as a result of a recent pool

Did you all notice the new arrival on the all night staff? Our popular chief has a new lid.

Our "old friend Bill" Smart, formerly of the Canadian Press, and now with a well-known broker house, has become so pro-ficient with the Wee Gees on the green baize tables that he has issued a challenge to the C. P. R.'s best.

Norm Souch is recovering from a bad cold. Dick Ganton claims it's from saying "That's me."

Somebody has started Tom Clark playing Pea Pool. Flan wants to know how it compares with the "Fuda" Club.

Don Cameron thought the Bear market was over and went short on Granites Pfd. The old boy knew just how Ryan of Wall Street felt, when Hamilton won. Cam says dealing in hockey futures is off.

We regret to report the death of Bro. Louis Tenser which occurred on Jan. 18th after a short illness. Bro. Tenser was a quiet, unassuming young chap, well liked by all with whom he came in contact, a good union member, a conscientious worker, and a clean living, clean acting boy. It is hard that such a promising life should be cut so short. Our heartfelt sympathies go out to his stricken parents. ٠

The new system of Saturday night meetings is proving a pleasing success, their popularity proven by increased attendance. Don't pass them up, as there is something doing every meeting, and it is hoped that a short musical program will be an added feature in the near future.

Loosen up on those notes and make your correspondent work for all the flowers he is receiving daily.

Clerical Notes A DELAYED XMAS PRESENT

Alas, poor Mac., no more bowling, no more "umn." Didn't you hear about "the new arrival"? Well, anway, the "tickers" will miss his smiling countenance "Thursday nights" but, "rocking haby" is splendid exercise too.

And, did you hear about Santa Claus' mistake? Yes, he visted our delivery department, piled all our delivery clerks in his sack, got them slightly mixed and distributed them to their wrong desks. He even left one in the service department. However, Bro. "Bill" Miller doesn't mind, "but oh, how he hates to get up in the mornin'." We trust things will adjust themselves in the very near future, then happiness will once more reign supreme.

About the only pleasant happenings in the OFFICE these days is when our esteemed cable clerk tries to brighten the atmosphere by rendering "I dream't I dwelt in marble halls." Makes us almost wish we did too.

We regret to learn of our Nightingale, Sister Dryden's illness. Those who saw "Ze Pirates" at Massey hall recently will understand our keen disappointment, when she was unable to take part this week at the Grand Theatre. We trust for a speedy recovery.

Although we are sorry to lose Bro. "Eddie" Smith as sub-chairman, and appreciate his past efforts, we are pleased that Bro. Ernie McBrien is to "carry on" the good work. We are sure everyone will do their utmost to help him along, and wish him the best of luck.

We are all sorry to learn of the death of Bro. Clarke's mother, and extend to him our sincere sympathy.

Anyone knowing how Bro. A. Cannon can overcome the paying of income tax and who also know of a nice comfortable flat. kindly communicate with Ex-Sister C. T.

It is too bad the regular monthly meetings are held on Saturday night as the clerical department seems to think more of dancing than attending a meeting which may mean something in their pockets instead of something out.

Some (thank goodness the number is very limited) who were affected by the recent application of the Company's ruling regarding the two-job employees, are showing a coldness towards the local officials, that is anything but pleasant and to say the least entirely unjustified. The local officials or any other officials of our organization, as has already been pointed out in this column, had nothing whatever to do with the enforcement of the company ruling which called for employees holding down two jobs, to relinquish one job—either remaining with the company and thus retaining their seniority, or resigning from the C. P. R. and remaining with the broker, or other "lease" position.

signing from the C. P. R. and remaining with the broker, or other "lease" position.

Our local chairman came in for a share of the above mentioned "scorn," and resents the action of the individual responsible for the slight, which took place in the office a short time ago, and which is to be regretted, bearing in mind the fact that our local chairman performs the duties of the office to the best of his ability at all times, giving freely and cheerfully of his time (and very frequently of his personal funds), gratis, for the beneft of us all. 'He also pays his dues and assessment just the same as any other member does and therefore is entitled at least to whatever appreciation he has earned, with ordinary civility on the part of the membership. The position is not one of self-appointment but instead is one that is filled annually, just the same as the other local offices are filled,—by ballot. There is no such thing as graft, for the simple reason that there is nothing in sight to graft, even if an official were so inclined. So what's wrong? If the membership are not satisfied with their officials it is quite an easy matter to replace them. I do not believe that any official is in office from his own choice, any more than perhaps he has the good of the organization at heart and desires to do his part towards keeping things going and making a bit of progress occasionally.

While my fountain is working I might as well hit on the subject of attendance at meetings. It is sure discouraging and very unfair to the local officials when a meeting is called to find that only a handful of members turn up and occasionally not enough for a quorum. Looks like it's a case of let George do it. Poor encouragement I'll say. And then when "George" is called upon to do it, and "it" just don't suit some (very often those who do not attend a meeting once in a year nor take any part whatever outside of paying dues), what a howl of dissatisfaction is let loose. Again I'll say it's poor encouragement and poorer appreciation as well. It could be more in keeping if these disgruntled individuals would take a turn and help the local work instead of retarding it as they are doing. are doing. "CQ."

> AT REST With Apologies, Etc. "CQ"

Now I lay me down to sleep, my union dues all paid,
I've not another single care, except perhaps that I'll awake
To find that good old "George", who's ever on the job,
Will not forget to think of me, whilst fighting for the cause.

I pray the Lord my soul to keep, George will do all the rest.

He's always done so in the past, no matter what the test.

If I should die before I wake, my body George will surely take

And place it with those gone before, to rest and rest, for evermore.

God bless my union brothers, yes, all along the line.

They've stuck by me thru thick and thin, with grit that was sublime.

And now within my dreams I see George flitting to and fro.

As busy as a bee e'er was, (bk-bk)—I'm awake—let's go.

Moral: Don't be satisfied with being just a card-holder. Get busy.

UNITED PRESS . (Kansas City-South)

(Kansas City-Seuth)

Brothers, attention! I believe Bobby Wise's scheme for raising funds for the purpose of organizing the A. P. and other press associations is the real stuff. Have long feit that the only way to get at them in the right way is to get men out and after them and when they get to them not to let them escape 'till they sign up. Some of them maybe don't want to be free. Neither did some Negro slaves, but the majority do, so we must whip the minority in line for the sake of the majority. Don't believe any on our circuit but what are in favor of this plan. What do you say?

Not much news this month so will of necessity be brief. With the opening of Senator Capper's new paper the Kansan, at Kansas City, Kas., our circuit continues to grow. Brother T. M. Daniel was transferred from Enid to Kansas City and we all know that Dan is going to make them like our stuff like our stuff.

S. C. Walker relieved Brother Daniels at Enid. Glad to greet you Brother Walker.

We started a relay of our Saturday night report at Kansas City, Jan. 29. Apparently this arrangement is a dandy improvement.

New York State-Canada Circuit

Haven't seen anything concerning the New York State Circuit in the United Press notes for several months, so thought we would send in a few lines for the February issue of the Journal. Perhaps the regular correspondent will recover from his lethargy and submit a little write-up occasionally, when he discovers somebody is trying to "steal his thunder." We like to see ourselves in print occasionally and somebody ought to keep up the good work.

Smithy is still promoting peace and harmony on the line and doing the heavy work at "NX." He has been with us for more than a year, and we hope he will stay for a long time yet.

Tom Casey has had plenty of opportunity to skate with the Newburgh young ladies this winter, being released quite early each afternoon. We understand he is a star on the steel runners, as well as a favorite among the fair ones.

Tommy Cornell at Albany, is doing plenty of machine-gunning, now that the legislature is in session. Smithy asked Tom the other day, if he wanted to borrow his "bug," but Tom said no, he didn't need it—And he didn't.

The United Press recently added a new paper to their Empire State group of clients, when they annexed the Saratoga Sun. Harry Neal of Schenectady is covering the job temporarily. Harry is an old-timer and worked a leased wire for the General Electric works at Schenectady for several years, being displaced by a machine a few months ago. We welcome him to our circle and hope he will stay around. Previous to going to Saratoga, Neal relieved Fred Horstman at Schenectady for a week or so, Fred being laid up with an attack of quinsy.

Peter Brady, formerly of New England and points east and west, is doing the stunt at Sayre, Pa., having been there since before Christmas.

Nelson Payne at Oswego, is one of the youngest men in the business, but that doesn't detract in any manner from the gilt-edged quality of the goods he delivers to the two Oswego clients of the U. P.

We were very sorry to hear that Tom Sweeney at Buffalo, had to stay off the job a couple of days recently, because of the illness of his wife, and sincerely hope Mrs. Sweeney has entirely regained her health before this time.

We don't know whether Joe Yawmans uses his spare time in the afternoon for skating or not, but sometimes when we hear him leaving, we think it must be a nice thing to live some place where there isn't any Volstead law.

Of course we miss "Our Mary," who was Lockport for so long. We wish to or course we miss "Our Mary," who was at Lockport for so long. We wish to assure her, however, that the moral tone of the wire has not deteriorated to any perceptible degree since she was among us. We still try to live up to the good habits of deportment we learned from her, and hope she will be back with us again soon. soon.

Chicago and South Kansas City

This circuit remains about the same, only our beloved Ed Daugherty at "KP" is off ill and we are only counting the days until we will hear his "famous soupbone" playing again.

Our "old pal" Artha is still putting out that beautiful stuff. We do not approve of any remarks about his "girts" that some other circuit put in last month's Everyone seems to be on the blinds lately, and it seems as though the "PR" job has been discontinued! . .

When Art was sending the other day, a story about "Terence MacSwiney", someone broke and said: "Go ahead Trench Machinery"

Evidently the party had been drinking wine of pepsin.

Our branch office at "KZ", Kansas City, was threatened by fire the other night when it is alleged an employe dropped ashes from his pipe on a protruding awning below the window ledge while visiting with a couple of "FRIENDS".

Had it not been for the presence of mind of said employe, in throwing water on the blaze, there might have been great loss.

There were no casualties but "evidently will be", when the owner finds out his awning has been destroyed.

R. D. Abernethey is the new-comer at Elgin. Formerly with the U. P. at Grand Rapids.

We are glad to have you with us, old boy.

This circuit will be one hundred per cent pictured, as well as buttoned soon.

Later.

Brother Lyons has resigned to take a position with the I. N. S. at an early date.

While we know that it is a great loss to this circuit we wish him the best of luck and success.

During out association with Brother Lyons we have always found him a clean-cut, square fellow and this circuit cannot adequately express its deep regret in losing him.

g him.
Best wishes "Art" old boy.

ATLANTA-SOUTHERN U. P. NOTES
General Secretary Treasurer D. K. Stevenson has been transferred from Pittsburgh to Anniston, Ala. The automatic replaced Stevenson in the city of the big smoke, so he got as near as he could to the Pittsburgh of the South. He is only 60 miles from Birmingham. He says he would have drawn the assignment at the Magic City if he had known a new paper, the POST was opening up there in January. Steve has learned most of the tricks of the Central Time clocks now, but he says Anniston is a mighty sleepy town.

W. A. Copeland is a happy Daddy now, and has received many congratulations on the occasion of the Mrs. presenting him with a fine girl. That's the sort, Cope,—much happiness to you.

Charles Joyner is now assigned to the Birmingham NEWS, where he relieved L. T. Harris, who opened up the wire on the new sheet, the Birmingham POST. That is the only town on the circuit with two operators without a bureau.

E. A. Shelnutt, of the Atlanta bureau,

OHIO STATE I. N. S.

The banner press circuit of Ohio!

The banner press circuit of Ohie!
That's the present status of the Ohio State I. N. S. circuit, from every angle—number of clients served, quantity and quality of news, type of newspapers served and efficiency of telegraphers employed.

We cheerfully admit it all.
We even plead guility to annexing a former A. P. client—the Chonicle-Telegraph, at Elyria, Ohio. Nor do we expect to stop at one: the record hung up this month by the 18 thoroughly competent UNION telegraphers, three brilliant staff correspondents and the 16 alert special correspondents who serve this circuit, is too splendid to escape the attention of editors not now using the service and still more are expected to enter the fold.

The answer?

The answer? CO-OPERATION.

Thoroughgoing co-operation between the I. N. S. workers from top to bottom—the general offices at New York, the Cleveland and Columbus bureaus, the local correspondents and the telegraphers. Our share of it—the telegraphers—is contributed by: Reporting on time, sticking on the job, taking no more than the allotted relief periods, copying the full report, acting as highly intelligent go-betweens for the service and client, co-operating with the sending operators to keep the circuit moving—100 per cent service. That is the sort of service that causes publishers to renew contracts and urge other publishers to take the service—thereby creating more jobs to be filled by UNION telegraphers.

other publishers to take the service—thereby creating more jobs to be filled by UNION telegraphers.

There is no "slave-driving" on this wire—simply hearty co-operation. With three such capable, intelligent senders as Chief Operator McMahon and "Wild Bill" Philips, at Cleveland, and "Jock" Wolford, at Columbus, this is no difficult situation to bring about Columbus, this is no difficult situation to bring about.

The Williamson, W. Va., trial of coal miners charged with killing Baldwin-Felts "detectives" is being covered by S. D. Weyer, New York staff man, with "Red" Morgan, of Huntington, doing the transmission stunt. Both Morgan and Weyer are brave boys and while they are in actual danger of sudden death because of the high tension at Williamson (which might explode promiscuously and in all directions without warning) they seem to enjoy the risk.

Bro. George C. Smith, Newark, went under the table during January with grippe, being relieved by T. W. McCullough, Columbus. Owing to the fine quality of the raisin jack dispensed at Dayton, where he recuperated, Smith was back in three days.

Bro. E. L. Keith, Steubenville, also contracted the dread disease but was apparently able to find a "physician with a heart", as he was able to stick it out without a sub.

sub.

Art. Graham, Marietta, was also a casualty for several days, being relieved by Bro. H. J. Carroll, broker, Marietta, and Bro. Fred L. Manchester, of Huntington.

"Red" Beuker, U. P. chairman, of Huntington, spent a few days in Marietta reently, probably being attracted by the excessive beauty of Ohio girls. Beuker is doing his bit in the A. P. drive.

Raleigh Thomas, former aero-expert for Uncle Sam, drifted through and appeared surprised that operators are still unable to buy the oil stock he is selling.

"Jock" Wolford, Columbus, circuit chairman, is pounding away on the A. P. drive and unless something is done about it, may make Ohio safe for Democracy. He is being some of the fellows DO find it easier to buy auto tires, red, white and blue chips, and moonshine than to help out in the organization fund. However, the circuit is expected to come clean 100 percent on the A.P. movement, as it has on everything else. R. H. Warnock opened the new office established by the I. N. S. with the Chronicle-Telegraph at Elyria, replacing the Associated Press. Welcome! If we can't get the A. P. men organized any other way, we can take over the A. P. clients—and that's something to be expected in quantity in this territory soon.

Bill Cruse, erstwhile Cincinnatian, recently reported by the "Red City" chronicler as being with the U. P. was only mildly insulted. However, to clear his record, be it said he is with the I. N. S., Newssignal, Middletown, O., and dug in for the winter.

Congratulations to Bro. T. A. Pinson on the "Lame Duck" article in Jan. Journal! It's a pippin. Let's hear more from Bro. Pinson—and Bro. Boole.

A. P. men—send in some news notes and get busy on this organization drive! It's YOUR movement and if YOU don't see that it goes across, there'll be a lot of regret to chew on a little later. A stitch in your defenses in time saves 99 after the enemy has broken through. You have no guarantee of any kind—do you expect the A. P. always to meet the union scale without any effort or expense on your part? Wake up! up

The unionized telegraphers stand ready to help you: we are paying out real money to do it now. If you A. P. men cause our efforts and sacrifice to go for nothing there'll be nothing for you to take pride in. Be men! This is AMERICA—not old-time Russia.

CHICAGO-WEST I. N. S.

Brother Charley Mayer, our genial key artist at Fond Du Lac, Wis., is determined to keep the "circuit club fund" going and growing. He "came in" this week with a donation of $101. However, Charley explained the presence of the counterfeit $100 by saying he received it from Mars, which planet, according to some astronomers being located so close to the moon, is liable to cause a man in Wisconsin to do other things besides voting the Socialist ticket. ticket.

Anyhow Charlie sent along a perfectly good $1 bill and his name will appear among the celebrities in this issue of the Brother D. Christopher, Sullivan at JN has finally located Bud Wiser. Dave says the last he saw of Bud he was hanging by his coattail to a rainbow.

Bro, "Bob" Wise at St. Louis says he doesn't object to being called "runt" if the boys will just do a little punting for the circuit club fund. Bob will stand for almost anything as long as there's a union cause to be served.

It is rumored that "Pike" Merrill is going to quit working 58 hours a day. Reason—"Passion" is coming to St. Louis.

"Passion" by the way, is a moving picture show.

ture show.

Bro. McNutt at VS wants to know if there aren't any "mill fixers" in Springfield. Mac evidently means "Bonesetters." WHALEN.

CHICAGO-NEW YORK I, N. S.

On this major league circuit, B. F. Chandlee at New York, sender extraordinary, literally throws Morse at us. The only way Ben could get rid of more copy would be express it in huge packages.

Skipping over to Pittsburgh, we find some oid timers pounding "milis" and eating Pittsburgh atmosphere. C. D. Hawkins, at the Leader. Hawk never breaks. (He's on blind, no key.) G. W. Morgan at the Press and C. W. Carter, at the bureau. Next at Cleveland W. R. Phillips, holds forth at the bureau and relay. Bill was given a unanimous vote for circuit chairman when the circuit chose a chairman. At Toledo, T. J. Everett, committeeman, telegraphs on the side and works overtime on Union matters. Tom says he's some busy guy these days.

Then at Detroit, E. J. Williams, formerly of Chicago bureau, is at 73 Cass avenue. Ed says its a relief to get to Detroit. We believe it may be a relief for Ed to get away from Sam Goodfellow. Sam is some kidder. W. R. Stokely is at the Times. Stoke also acts as bureau manager and there's a continual stream of news from Cobbtown these days.

At Chicago, S. J. Goodfellow, J. C. Godfrey and Frank Darby all have turns and all bat 1000.

WISCONSIN-INDIANA I. N. S. NOTES

See What's Here!

The League of Nations may be dead and forgotten, but here's a new "league" that is much alive and will interest all operators who like to keep in touch with "current events."

The new "league's has been organized by the International News Service and will be known as the Indiana-Wisconsin Circuit. It is made up of Indianapolis on the south and Minneapolis on the Hoosier points include Elkhart, Marion, Logansport and South Bend, while on the Badger side of the circuit are Fond du Lac and Sheboygan, Wis.

Here's the whole bunch—meet them personally and shake hands all around: "Charlie" Seefred, our general chairman, at Indianapolis; E. (Ed.) M. Williams, at Elkhart; R. I. Flowers, at Marion; Elmer Lingquist, at Logansport; W. J. Vincent, at South Bend; O. A. Rosenhauer at Minneapolis; "Charlie" Mayer, at Fond du Lac and Frank Cherdron, at Sheboygan, Wis. James Godfrey (Jim for short) is our genial and clever sender, while Sam Goodfellow "sits in" several hours each day just to show us that the "old masters" in the sending game are not all dead. For speed, accuracy and general good judgment they don't make 'em any better than Sam.

Sam.

Frank Cherdron, who for two years has been serving our client, the Times, at Hammond, Ind., was displaced at that point by an "automatic" on Jan. 15th. consin Circuit.

The past month has seen many changes in the I. N. S. service in this region. In the re-arrangement of the circuits, Atlanta. Chattanooga and Nashville have been cut off the old Chicago-South circuit. They are now hooked onto the Atlanta. West wire. We'll miss those boys from the old family circle. And here's wishing 'em luck and happiness.

While we lost Hammond, Ind., as a Morse client, we have recently gained new clients at South Bend, and Elkhart, Ind. E. M. Williams, an old timer, and W. J. Vincent are among our new colleagues. Brother Carl Bartness, of international fame, was transferred from Marion, Ind., to Elyria, Ohio, where he opened up our service to a new client, the Chronicle-Telegram, Feb. 5th. Carl says Milwaukee is no longer what Milwaukee used to be, though he still cherishes pleasant memories of the old town Schlitz made famous before the war.

R. I. Flowers, for several years in the U. P. service, but more recently with the Pennsylvania railroad relay office at St. Louis, relieved Bartness at Marion.

Brether "Charlie" Mayer, at Fond du Lac, and O. A. Rosenhauer at Minneapolis are among the stars in the new line-up.

Brother Elmer Lingquist, former chairman of the recent Chicago-South circuit, is still with us at Logansport, though we never hear from him. The only evidence we have of his presence on the circuit is when his wire goes bad.

In his usual tactful style, our capable general chairman, Brother "Charlie" Seerled, in the call for contributions to the Glidden relief fund.

The "Circuit Club" plan, proposed by Brother "Bobby" Wise, to raise funds on the various circuits for the purpose of placing a paid organizer in the field, has made a decided "hit" over this way. With one exception the boys of the Chicago-South circuit before its dissolution voted for the plan. The same holds good for the new Indiana-Wisconsin circuit.

The boys of the new circuit will be at the front in all that's best for the service and the good of the Union.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE Chicago-South

Out of a total membership of 58 only 26 votes were cast in the election for general chairman, which closed Jan. 25. Twenty-six votes were cast for secretary-treasurer. This is not quite half the voting strength of Universal Service division. It is hard to understand why there was such a lack of interest among our members in such an important matter. It only takes about one minute to sign your name on the ballot and seal it in an envelope, and it's not any trouble to put a two-cent stamp on the and seal it in an envelope, and it's not any trouble to put a two-cent stamp on the envelope and drop it in a street letter box or in the postoffice. Electing officers of the division is always a very important matter. Members by failing to do their duty are liable to be responsible for letting the wrong set of officers be elected some day.

wrong set of officers be elected some day. In spite of the gross negligence of over half of our membership in not voting we elected two exceptionally capable men as general chairman and secretary-treasuer. Frank B. Powers, of Minneapolis, and Moulton B. Norton, of Chicago, are well known to the division. Powers is ex-general chairman of the United Press division and Norton has been our secretary-treasurer and committeeman about two years. So both members of our general committee, have had wide and varied experience in negotiating schedules. We should at all times have capable and experienced men on our general committee. Sentiment should never enter into the election of committeenever enter into the election of committeenever enter into the election of committee-men. It's a business proposition alto-gether. The members of a division are its stockholders and most assuredly they ought to take an interest in the election that is to determine what manner of men is to largely shape their working condi-tions and determine the amount of their Union press operators should always observe the stipulations of their contract and comply with the rules and regulations of the press service they are working for. Showing up late is a violation of the rules and it lays out the circuit. An operator can be on time as well as late. If he cannot arrange his personal affairs so that he can show up on time then he had better resign and let somebody take the job that will show up on time.

Overstaying the regular ten-minute rest periods and lunch period is a violation of the rules. Such a practice should not be resorted to.

resorted to.

Union men should always co-operate with their chief operator and act as if they appreciated their jobs.

By violating the rules and displaying a lack of interest in your job causes complaints to be made to headquarters and this gets you nothing but censure, a layoff and sometimes discharge.

Union men have set up the claim that a schedule is to the advantage of the employer as well as the employe, and that their work and conduct is superior to that of non-union men. Since they have set up this claim they ought to act accordingly.

T. A. Pinson, of the I. N. S. at Atlanta, Ga., had a very valuable article in January Journal on the subject of dereliction of duty and he pointed out what this leads to. All good union men should read Pinson's contribution if they have not already done so. 80.

New York, Feb. 2.

Dear Bud:

I and the Western Union has been taking lessons from Nat Goodwin since I has seen in these cols. some time ago and I has about as much chanst of working for them as them suspended White Sox has of working for Judge Mountain Landis out in Chi. because we are in the same cat gory which is on the blacklist.

I and the postal is on good terms now and I sine "DU" up there. This Postal aint got nothing to do with the Post off as I know anything about. I have did what Sec Hickey whispered for me to do—join the CTUA. I ast the Bird what took my application if shouldnt ought to get a reglar Broker job in wall St. and he says, No, if we get all you birds what joins the union a broker job there wont be nobody left at the Postal to schedule. I had heard about a firm in wall St. what they called a student factory and I went to see the mgr., but it aint no place where Arthur Morgan nor Pat O'Sullivan works at.

All you fellers what ever worked with me knows code is my dish, so when the mgr. of this Student Factory says do I know code I says Yes, I know all there is and some that aint. He says Yes and maybe you dont know a lot that is. Then he asked me what was "k-e-v-y." I couldn't think at the minit and he ays Oh well, he died before you and code got on speaking terms. Then I says Well I am a fast sender and sent with a bug. He says he got enough bugs in this office now and dont want no more, I says I was a baseball bug too and the mgr. looked me over and says Young man thers lots of bush leaguers up here in the big show. I don't get his meaning but I know one thing—I aint got no broker job—yet.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, NOTES

W. F. ("Billy") Marshall, a well known telegrapher, of the San Antonio Cotton Exchange, has been seriously ill the past six weeks. He has an obstruction in the Exchange, has been seriously ill the past six weeks. He has an obstruction in the neck of his stomach. Attending physicians are not sure just what the aliment is. Attending Marshall's condition has been critical. We hope for a favorable outcome. Marshall is well known among broker operators, having formerly worked for the Cella Commission Co., at St. Louis and Wagner & Co. in Chicago. He was with the W. U. here about eight years before going with the local exchange.

Schedules

If the operators employed by the Central News, Chicago Tribune News Service, Philadelphia Ledger News Service, Consolidated Press Association and the Associated Press were to make an effort to induce these concerns to sign a schedule they might be successful. The Central News operators are 100 percent union and the other services named, excepting the A. P., are no doubt pretty well organized. This is 1921 and we have started out to move along at a rapid pace, so all union press operators ought to help out on our intensive organization campaign by trying to negotiate some new schedules.

New Member.

San Antonio started the new year right by securing one new member, and he is a good one—all wool and a yard wide. We have several other new members in view, who say they will join. The field for get-ting new members here is limited but we are steadily on the job and are doing our

More Notes.

San Antonio members would like to see more notes in the Journal from the South-western cities. We would also appreciate monthly notes in the Journal from the New York and Chicago Postal offices. Chicago and New York style themselves as hubs of the universe but we seldom see any signs of these two hubs in the Journal. The Eastern, Western and New England Broker Divisions are represented right along but the Postal division seldom thaws out.

BUFFALO LOCAL NO. 41

BUFFALU LUCAL NO. 41
Buffalo is to have a Labor Temple. Work on its construction will begin May 1st, and it will be ready for occupancy by the end of this year. Brick and steel are the materials principally to be used in the erection of this building, which, according to accepted design, will equal if not surpass any Labor Temple in the United States, so far as architectural beauty and modern equipment is concerned.

so far as architectural beauty and modern equipment is concerned.

It is to be ten stories in height, with a frontage of fifty feet on Ellicott St.. close to the corner of Genesee St.. and will cost, approximately, five hundred thousand dollars. The site was purchased five years ago for the sum of forty-five thousand app. lars. dollars.

dollars.

Telegraphers generally, and Buffalo telegraphers in particular, have a special interest in this new home of organized labor due to the fact that it was largely through the consistent and persistent efforts of International Vice-President Mary J. Macaulay of the C. T. U. A. that the attention of local trades-unionists was concentrated upon the necessity for such a centralized conference and club house. Miss Macaulay was elected Vice-President and a director of the Labor Temple Corporation, and she had the honor and distinction of being the purchaser of the first two shares of stock issued, and has since bought a number of shares until now she stands third high in the list of individual investors in the common stock at five dollars ner share lars per share Patrick J. Nolan, an organizer for the C. T. U. A., who is well known in labor newspaper circles, and who has been active in promoting the Labor Temple project is also a stockholder to the limit of his present awailable funds—fifty shares—but says he will not be satisfied until he owns one hundred shares.

Buffalo Local 41, C. T. U. A. owns several shares of Temple stock, and when the Temple is completed, Miss Macaulay says she expects to be first to place a local union Charter in the big Assembly Hall. This will be the charter granted by the Commercial Telegrapher's Union "Grand Lodge" to Buffalo "Lodge" 41, May 10, 1903. which charter has been kept alive concontinuously to present date in spite of various hostile attacks by employing companies upon the ranks of union telegpanies upon the ranks of union panies upon the ranks of union telegraphers.

Buffalo's charter is in good condition considering its eighteen Summers and equal number of Winters, and it might be of interest, and possibly serve a good purpose, to mention the names of those who signed the application for the charter as they appear on the more or less ancient document:

Officers: Merton D. St. John, Chancellor; Officers: Merton D. St. John, Chancellor; Sam Berg, Secretary-Treasurer; Harry W. Conroy, Sergeant-at-Arms; Geo. B. Losier, J. Bowels, J. W. Canfield, C. E. Farmer, F. C. Showerman, F. B. Latimer, Ray F. Collins, T. A. Feary, F. J. Slocum, Geo. W. Thrall, W. H. Lampman, T. F. Steuernagel, M. H. Donahue, Geo. C. Towne, H. D. Mason, J. McGowan, Geo. P. Wyckoff, H. H. Bonney, H. J. Johnson, Pat'k J. Morgan, A. J. Guyett, Geo. Maloney, L. Williams, C. F. Hardie, R. H. Dyer, Jr., A. H. Lockwood, Geo H. Henningham, F. D. Hyer, G. D. Haynes, W. Harkness, R. A. Drake, J. R. Morris, Chas. B. Squires, H. E. Cline, B. F. Snyder, J. Dickman, Geo. A. Cross, Thos. E. Hogan.

Morris, Chas. B. Squires, H. E. Cline, B. F. Snyder. J. Dickman, Geo. A. Cross, Thos. E. Hogan.

The Grand Lodge Officers' names attached to the Charter are:
Percy Thomas, Associate President; I. J. McDonald, Associate President; Wilbur Eastlake, Grand Secretary-Treasurer.

Three, at least, of those whose names appear in this list have passed on to their Eternal reward: "Pat" Morgan, the first called, followed in more recent years by Geo. Cross and George Towne, respectively. Towne, who died in Ft. Worth, Tex., a few weeks ago, was the only Associated Press telegrapher in Buffalo, to respond to the strike call in 1907, and he remained out to the finish, giving splendid moral and financial support to the commercial operators on strike. He never again worked for the A. P., but his expertness on a press wire kept his services constantly in demand: That he always kept a paid up card in the C. T. U. A. showed the sincerety of his faith in organized labor. This won for him the respect of his fellowworkers on circuits manned by union telegraphers.

Will those "Charter Members" and the workers on circuits manned by union telegraphers.

Will those "Charter Members" and the hundreds of other Buffalo telegraphers, who came through with clean records in the struggle of 1907, search their nockets and see if the date of their last C. T. U. A. card "squares" with the henefits they have received through the regular organization's hard fighting? Officers of Buffalo local know the men who have stuck to the ship through storm and calm, and, naturally, honor and appreciate their steadfastness to the principle of trades-unionism. It is their earnest hope that they and others who, through fear, or promise of preferment, joined the "Hazy." Hayes-Company-Onion will soon realize the fallacy of the "OPEN SHOP" principle (?) and rejoin their fellow workers.

their fellow workers.

We have a horrible example of the "Open Shop" in a daily newspaper plant in "Open Shop" in a daily newspaper plantis city.

The "Commercial" is openly and blatantly opposed to organized labor. Fair workmen shun it as a place of employment, and its circulation is going to the demnition bow-wows? Newsboys last year refused to handle it. It is a matter of telegraphic history that a three-time strike-breaker took George Towne's job on that paper in 1907 and still holds it as press operator.

(A. P.). Yep, he looks the part.

The desk sergeants in the Buffalo Police Department recently asked the Commissioners to permit them to work "extra" in Department recently asked the Commissioners to permit them to work "extra" in brokers' and commercial telegraph offices to increase their income. Union representatives passed the word along to the Commissioners about the evil results of the two-job proposition. Permission denied. It is needless to call attention to the fact that the broker operators are working press jobs to fatten their bank rolls. The world (and also the Tribune?) knows it. These are the birds who get sore if the organizer hints at a card, and ask: "What did the Union ever do for me?" New York and Chicago please give them an answer quick? Names and addresses furnished by Secretary Schnur, or local officers. Secretary Schnur, or local officers.

Thanks to the Union, press operators are now getting nearer the "living wage" than ever before. The press operator who tries to annex a second job ought to starve to death. "Pan" him properly.

"Bobby" Wise, shake, you're a live wire! Fifty cents a week to defray expense of organizing, fully, the A. P. boys, should be dropped into the pool cheerfully and quickly. Mine goes forward today to General Secretary Schnur. Ship the organizer east from Chicago. Start him before the A. P. knocks off that last $5 emergency raise Buffalo friends and acquaintances sincerely sympathize with Peter J. Anderhub of the Ohio circuit, United Press, in the death of his father, which occurred in this city in mid-January, and also with Geo. W. Teeter, of Pittsburgh, formerly of Buffalo, whose father died recently, the burial being in Canada. ing in Canada.

The roster of press telegraphers working on regular jobs in Buffalo is as follows:

I. N. S. Thos. Condon, Enquirer, days;
James F. Cooley, Courier, nights (Universal). A. P., Ralph Smith, News, and Robt. Mooney, Times, days; Fred Crane, courier and Wm. Vanderhuyden, Express, nights. United Press, Thos. F. Sweeney, Bureau, days, and Saturday night. Printer operator, days, Geo. Hansel, sending. Consolidated Press News, days, Mary J. Macaulay; Chicago Tribune wire, nights: Geo. W. Harding and Emil Myers, (broker operators, working alternately, nights.) at the Express. Express.

The Postal here is rousing from its lethargy. The W. U. has to run a jazz dance to keep up the drooping spirits of the A. W. E. There are few telegraphers at the A. T. & T. They are all "officials" or "Mechanicians".

DETROIT LOCAL NO. 11

It has been some months since Detroit Postal Office has appeared in print, and many changes have taken place in all departments since then. Late last summer our former manager, C. F. Crittenden, decided to quit the telegraph game forever and established himself in the grain business in Topeka, Kan., and we hear he is doing well. "Crit" was a very popular man and we wish him further success. He was succeeded here as manager by (then our chief) R. T. Baker, who is well and favorably known, and it is the consensus of the entire force that the selection was a good one, but when the selection was a good one, but when the selection was made, they certainly made a grand one when they placed on the throne the "Daddy" of them all, the Dean of the telegraph profession, Frank Stafford Eaton, known from coast to coast, and one of the "finest" telegraphers in the country, and telegraph profession, Frank Stafford Eaton, known from coast to coast, and one of the "finest" telegraphers in the country, and he has gathered together a bunch of telegraphers that reflects great credit to his able management, and there has yet to be the first kick on anything in any particular. He is ably assisted by the well-known magazine writer, Frank Lovett, who has gained a liberel recognition through his many stories in the railroad magazine (now the Argosy), and a more suitable appointment could hardly be improved on. proved on.

Among the force there are very few who are not known in the four quarters of the globe, all "boomers." with a very few exceptions. The force here has changed so much during the past six or eight months that it would take too much space to chronicle, but those that still remain emfrace the following:

New York bonus, Messrs. Getters and Brown; Cleveland, "Tony" Granda (who has boomed from Grand Rapids, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit); Pittsburg, the Texas ranger, Galloway, right from Dallas, and a great "kyuse" chaser, but he carries the right kind of goods. That's an "up-to-date one," and can be approached if possessed thereof, but otherwise "No"; Cincinnati, most anyone that wishes to "sit in" and work free bonus, as there's not enough for two and just enough for a large average without any balance on your debit side, so, as a consequence, it goes begging for a regular; Buffalo is covered, as it has been for two years by "Fatty Arbuckle," nee Welner, and nothing gets away but good, clean-cut copy which speaks for itself; Chicago is covered by two stars, Messrs. Robbins and Patchin.

Messrs. Robbins and Patchin.

The word bonus, with the exception of our New York wire, is an unknown quantity and one would hardly class them as such, merely a side issue, such are the conditions here, and it necessitates a compulsory layoff every seventh day of a regular man, and there are five others that accompany him, six men being laid off daily, and out of a regular force of seventy-two men we have been reduced to one of forty-two. We are not the only sufferers, as every automobile factory in the city has reduced their force to one man and a few of them using the force and doing away with all operators, and I advise all that contemplate coming here to think twice of it, for there's absolutely no chance on earth of securing employment here and won't be until June next, and we are all looking for a busy season then. Most of the shops here call it "closed for inventory"; that's a good alibi, but it throws 75,000 skilled mechanics out of employment and the conditions are critical.

The W. U. has adopted an every ten-day layoff clause, which embraces the entire force. Telegraphically speaking, things are very, very poor.

are very, very poor.

Billy Masksie is still the "Trouble" man at the switchboard. "Oklahoma" Flanagan watches over his herd in the quads, while Monitor Chamberlain looks them over in monitor Chamberian looks them over his the woods.

The balance of the force comprise a few who are known elsewhere and are: "Swede" Janecki, Brown, Burton, Payne, Connell, Johnson, Strand, Jenkins, Walsh, Gallagher, Doyle, Surtman and numerous others whose names I can't recall, but will give later—all on days.

The night force is looked after by Joe Richardson, who does not need any introduction, as he is well known by the fraternity at large, and is assisted by Wire Chief Wilkins, who hails from "Sou-Karolinar," and he speaks it. On NY bonus, Cowan; Chicago, Eddie Gibbons, who handles all the way from 1 to 5,000 NL's every night, more or less—which?—and several others of whom I have not yet cultivated their acquaintance, and lest yet cultivated their acquaintance, and lest we forget, "Old Man" Taylor represents the Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. from 12 midnight to the morning and has a coterie of some "Ops."

that she has wont to be and is well liked by all.

In conclusion, I want all to watch the directory of the C. T. U. A. in another column of this Journal, and if you don't see our name on the roster by the time this Journal is issued next, I shall miss my guess, but it won't be my fault, and, oh, boys, we are on our way and will land soon, and we shall once more be amongst the "push" and shall be recognized. They are coming slowly, but sure as you're reading this, we shall be a feature ere long.

We have finally got a start and we are going to maintain it and there's no such word as "fail" this trip. You will hear from us all again, and more fully.

We are thankful here for a full quorum, and say, boys, we have that sure enough. Now watch us grow.

Thanks for your indulgence.

When a general manager of a press association practically invites the telegraphers employed by it to send a committee to see him, with a view of negotiating a union schedule, like General Manager Frederick Roy Martin, of the A. P., did when he notified President Roscoe Johnson that he would receive a committee of A. P. telegraphers, those telegraphers ought to accept Mr. Martin's invitation. I hope they will.

If C. T. U. A. schedules the A. P. and the Postal this will be a fine record for one year. I sincerely hope that both institutions will sign a contract long before 1921 expires. If we can succeed in attaining this result it will be a trump card for the organized commercial telegraphers of the U. S. A.

Annual Card Holder. Annual Card Holder.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

The Postal: It's a matter of common every day knowledge that Postal telegraphers can secure a schedule from the Postal any day in the week that they send a representative committee to New York to call on President Clarence H. Mackay. Mr. Clarence Mackay has always been favorably disposed toward organized labor. His fine father, John W. Mackay, absolutely refused to permit the Western Union to induce him to enter into a conspiracy to fight the C. T. U. A. This is a matter of record. John W. Mackay, have to be a supply memory, said that employes of the Postal had as much right to belong to a labor union as to a church, or any other organization that a self-respecting American desired to belong to.

Postal operators had better wake up and look to their interests. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

BALTIMORE, MD.

The committee that is to call on the Postal management for the purpose of negotiating a schedule should be a representative one, and should be composed of men of experience and ability. North, East, West and South should be properly represented. Postal operators would do well to be careful about whom they select as committeemen.

The Postal is not antagonistic to the

The Postal is not antagonistic to the C. T. U. A. The policy of that company has always been one of marked contrast compared with that of the Western Union.

Organization work among Postal operates active.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.

THE POSTAL. Get the Postal General Committee ready, gentlemen. Let's have the proper representation on it from different sections of the country. The committee should be composed of experienced and wide awake members of Postal System Division. Time changes all things, and time has changed in favor of the commercial telegraphers in 1921. It's the Western Union, not the Postal that is antagonistic to the C. T. U. A. Mark these words!

We are growing—growing every day.

We are growing—growing every day.

NEW YORK

The C. T. U. A. will celebrate its ninetending summer. I make the venturesome statement that before the birthday comes around we will have a schedule with a telegraph company. The name of that company is eastly imagined. It would be a very happy occasion to be able to celebrate our birthday and the signing of a schedule in the same year.

The Postal is NOT antagonistic to the C. T. U. A. This is certain.

Our general committee should be rounded into shape right away. There's important business ahead for us, take it from me, because I live in New York and CAN SEE THINGS coming our way.

The proposition to schedule the Postal and A. P. was received with great favor and much enthusiasm here. We can do this if we will go to work on the matter earnestly and laboriously. Get more members. Preach the union gospel in the right way to nons and for heaven's sake don't use any rough stuff.

A WELL WISHER.

BOSTON, MASS.
The Hub city extends best wishes to those who may become actively engaged in negotiations with the Postal and A. P. for schedules. When we say we wish them complete success we speak mildly. Go to it, gentlemen. FAIR PLAY.

A WONDERFUL VIBRATOR

This unique and unrivaled vibrator has a triple spring driving power that gives it a greater carrying capacity than any single spring on the market. A retard spring controls the movement, thus making its vibration uniform, and the characters solid and heavy, at fast or slow speed—not jerky and light.

The rubber cushion shock absorbers, which prevent injury to the nerves, and triple spring vibrator are but two of the features that have made our sending machines national in fame as well as in name.

LABOR CONFERENCE WILL PROVE HISTORIC

By Roscoe Johnson

The conference of trade union representatives in Washington, February 23, was a path-breaker, and will prove historic.

One feature of this gathering was labor's solidarity. There were no so-called "conservatives" or so-called "radicals." There were no groups or dissension. The only differences were whether trade union declarations could be made stronger. The debates were high class and marked by a confident and determined spirit.

There were no fantastic speeches, and no impossible programs suggested to resist industrial autocrats, who would smash the trade union movement.

"It is a condition, not a theory," that confronted trade unionists and they acted accordingly.

No part of the proceedings can offer the slightest encouragement to opponents, who must now realize that their anti-union campaign since the armistice has not affected the morale of organized labor.

The declarations for human liberty, so often made by the trade union movement, were again reaffirmed, and methods devised to vitalize and energize them as never before.

Trade unionists are alert to the forces against them. The power of these forces was not minimized, but this did not have the slightest effect on men and women who are striving to get the story of trade unionism into the heart and mind of wage earners.

This confident spirit was shown in the call for workers everywhere to join the union of their trade or calling, to intensify their fight for American guarantees, and to ignore labor injunctions. A more extensive information and educational program was outlined.

The conference was a success. It was practical and inspirational. It again proves—if proof were necessary—that labor is solidified and enthusiastic in its contest against industrial and judicial autocrats.

The United Mine Workers of America have elected John L. Lewis president; Philip Murray, vice-president and William Green, secretary-treasurer. All of these officials are recognized as able men in the labor movement of this country. Paul Schnur, our G. S. T., served his union apprenticeship as a member of the Miners' union. No doubt this training has a great deal to do with Brother Schnur's ability in putting the C. T. U. A. upon a sound financial footing.

Postmaster General Burleson has filed his last annual report with Congress. Much space is devoted to an explanation of the deficit of $7,270,482, the second largest in the history of the service.

Two short years ago it was declared we had won the war. The question now arises, for whom did we win it? It might be answered by the 4,000,000 people who are now searching for employment.

Decreasing the purchasing power of the worker will not stamp out radicalism. Reduction of wages will not make for prosperity. Prosperity can only become a reality when the bone and brawn of the nation are free from the shadows of adversity.

Alex S. Strachan, general secretary-treasurer, C. P. R., Toronto, and Frank B. Powers, general chairman, Universal Service, have been elected members of the General Executive Board. Both brothers are well and favorably known to telegraphers on both sides of the line.

James J. Davis, of Pittsburgh, has accepted the portfolio of secretary of labor in President Harding's cabinet. Mr. Davis is supreme head of the Loyal Order of Moose, a fraternal organization with a membership of 600,000. The new secretary of labor came here from Wales and spent his younger days in the steel mills.

Official announcement has been made of the resignation of William W. Cook as trustee and general counsel of the Mackay companies. Frank L. Polk, until very recently Under Secretary of State of the United States, was named to fill the vacancy.

One question upon which we are all agreed: Toronto for the October convention.

Alexander Howatt, the president of the United Mine Workers of Kansas, has been sentenced to one year in jail because he refused to retreat from his position that the law which created the Industrial Court of Kansas is unconstitutional. Imprisonment will scarcely change the convictions of men who have the moral courage to fight for a principle.

The sliding scale is meeting with little or no opposition in the commercial telegraph service where the workers are not solidly organized.

CONVENTION ISSUES

By S. J. Small

At 10 o'clock, a. m., on the first Monday of October next, the delegates to our international convention will convene in regular session for the purpose of—what?

At the first regular meeting of subordinate units in August, delegates to that convention will be elected. Are you keeping that in mind?

The General Assembly is the supreme authority of the union and the delegates elected in August will compose the General Assembly next October. It rests with the membership of various units of the union as to whether we have a group of delegates at that convention elected on merit or possessing popularity; whether they be selected because of their long continued intelligent effort on behalf of the craft and the organization, or because of a candidate's spasmodic activity, based on personal ambition and backed only by indifferent interest and knowledge of the questions to come before the General Assembly.

In 1907 ours was a union with a membership of 75 per cent effervescence and 25 per cent hope. Today the hopes of that 25 per cent have been realized in the knowledge that our membership is 95 per cent stable, and that stability will continue only so long as we send to our conventions delegates of wide vision, sincere in purpose and unimpeachable fidelity. We will have the effervescent individual with us but his bubbling enthusiasm is held in check by the dominant influence of his older brother who has, with that ever-present hope in his breast, taken over the management and control of affairs, and who, little by little, has moved our banner nearer the goal for which the telegraphers of North America have been striving for half a century—success.

What does success in this instance mean? Are we to interpret it only in dollars and cents and conditions of employment? Has not the cause and effect of the late war, and more recently the November elections, taught wage earners that membership in craft associations and citizenship obligations are analogical. Can it be doubted that the world would have escaped the terrifying and heartrending suffering inflicted upon its people had members of craft associations of all nations joined in a peremptory demand that there be no war. And, after the war ended, were we not remiss in our duty both as citizens and union members when, politically, we adopted a nonpartisan attitude instead of scrapping Old Guardism and Jeffersonian tommyrot and openly declaring for realignment—a right about face—back to principles laid down in the federal Constitution, under the banner of a new political party?

The necessity for active participation in politics, on the part of wage earners, collectively, becomes more apparent daily and telegraphers should not permit their modesty to relegate them to a position in the rear.

Our next convention should be the milestone between past failures, indifferent effort, internal strife and sectional jealousies and a consummation of the ideals for which we stand. We should not stop at "to distinguish the work performed by members of the union and make it preferred," but add to the preamble of our constitution in boldface type a declaration reading:

"To assume our rightful position in the family of trade unions by force of intelligent statesmanship and adherence to the principle of right is might."

We should send a delegation to future A. F. of L. conventions instructed to carry a battle flag representing partisanship in everything political and negotiation and arbitration in all industrial disputes. Sound a battle cry and let it be—enforce the laws we have now and give the national conscience the Keeley cure.

The greatest curse from which the world suffers today is the unsatiated appetite for financial power. That is the ointment that, applied by predatory groups in various world centers, is searing the souls of men and women and rendering the children of unhappy Europe physically and mentally unfit to meet the problems of their generation.

These are matters that must be adjusted through political action, and picking out individual candidates from different parties who promise to vote for legislation favorable to labor, will not remedy the evil. The duty of leaders of international unions as such should be exclusively that of negotiating wage scales and adjusting shop grievances, but outside of the union meetings and union activities they should affiliate politically with the farmer, the small trader, the landlords and others who will join them under the banner of a new political party.

The one big political question to be decided definitely is: Shall labor's political action be partisan or nonpartisan? The next convention would do well to decide it for telegraphers.

WRECKING FROM WITHIN

That our ranks are honey-combed with traitorous spies called "operatives" in the employ of the "open shoppers" again is proven by the recent exposures of ten prominent "leaders" in the city of Akron, Ohio.

These emancipators of the working class followed the customary campaign of misrepresentation, attacked International Unions and officers, advanced "new ideas" and conducted a general policy of villification, until they succeeded in obtaining the confidence of the rank and file and were placed in positions of trust; then depleted the treasuries and crippled the organizations.

When exposed, those of the vultures who did not have time to leave town and avoid the wrath of their outraged followers, openly confessed. One of these, Wm. J. George, a bricklayer, was traced by an International Representative to Toledo and there he confessed before a committee of bricklayers, Local Union No. 3. The confession is typical of the methods used and we quote it for the information of our members:

"On or about seven (7) months ago I was approached by a man named Wallace, who put up a proposition to me. After thinking the thing over for a couple of days and thinking I could get stuff to the bosses that would benefit the association, I took on the proposition. The duties were to send in reports of things that happened in Bricklayers Union to the contractors' Service Corporation. The mail was directed to Post Office Box 294, at Akron, Ohio; and from there I do not know where the reports went. My services were disposed of on October 30, 1920, due to the stoppage of work. Mail was sent through Cleveland, Ohio, postoffice to Akron, Ohio. Salary connected with this was $110.00 per month, and when paid the paymaster would meet the man on the street or some appointed place. No checke were used and the employes never visit the office as the company seldom used the same name any length of time. In fact, the men employed seldom if ever see men at the head of the company. Post sent from Toledo, Ohio to Akron through Cleveland, directed to Thomas Young, 1922 East 18th Street. Monthly allowances for expenses were from $10 to $15 per month. After being dismissed or discharged was offered later a proposition at Toledo, Ohio, which I frankly refused. The direction of all mail was changed from time to time, also post office box. Wages are on a three dollar a day basis; if same is earned, man gets the difference. All employes are numbered, as no names are used. While I was in the employ my number was $01-A.

Traitor.

Committee—Tom L. Wood, Fred Payne, R. S. McCoy, Ed. M. O'Brien, A. O. Schupp, J. W. Jockel."

This particular traitor had so ingratiated himself into the confidence of the Akron Labor Movement that he was elected treasurer of that body just a few weeks before the exposure occurred. He was also candidate for the City Council at the last municipal election.

Floyd Brudick, another spy, made his appearance in Akron in September, 1919; had such a pleasing personality and was so adept in criticising International Unions and their officers that he was soon elected business agent of the Steam Fitters' Local. His exposure came about through a copy of the minutes of a meeting of the Building Trades Council, which he was reporting for a detective agency in his own hand writing, falling into wrong hands. In making his reports he signs himself K-23.

R. D. Squires was president of the Carpenters' Local for two years, and was delegate to numerous conventions. He never missed an opportunity to attack the International Union and its officers. His official operative number was M-188.

Peter Christison, known as a "tough guy," played upon the Street and Electric Railway employees. He is now back at his old job of scabbing, where he properly belongs. It is evident that the Carpenters' Union held particular attraction for detective agencies, inasmuch as C. L. Gaskins entered Akron with a carpenter's card, and being a fast and capable worker, soon reached the position of recording secretary of one of the Carpenters' locals and treasurer of the Carpenters' District Council, officer in the Building Trades Council and president of the Central Body. He is credited by the detective agency with being a representative of excellent ability for creating strife and dissension. In the classification of their operatives they list him "very good."

The Machinists' Union was more than well represented, having four clever operatives as follows:

Herb Hazard, card No. 762522, reached the position of trustee and member of the Local Executive Board; number K-168.

Lee Roy, card No. 646416, classed as an "intellectual," was a very convincing talker. Wrote articles for radical labor publications; also served as secretary of local I. W. W. Was an ardent advocate and supporter of the one big union; never missed the opportunity of espousing the cause of the down-trodden proletarian and elaborating upon the virtues of "industrial unionism." He was classed as operative E-290.

Frank Moore, card No. 808420, was listed as "active" and known as W-171. His particular specialty was fomenting strikes when employers desired them.

Geo. E. Clough, card No. 389912, served as auditor on numerous committees; was delegate to Central Body and to the convention of the International Association of Machinists; was an unusually good villifier of the International officers and the Trades Union Movement. He was known as operative W-47.

Few, if any, subordinate units of size and importance affiliated with any international organization but what has its quota of company agents and detectives operating for the purpose of obtaining information concerning the proposed movements and plans of organized labor and for the specific purpose of fomenting trouble and bringing about strikes at times unfavorable and inopportune for the worker.

We have attempted many times to warn the members of the C. T. U. A to think for themselves and decline to be stampeded into a hasty or foolhardy difficulty that possibly has been staged for the sole purpose of wrecking the union.

No grievance ever arises but what will bear investigation by responsible authority. When you are confronted with trouble, insist that the laws of your organisation shall be followed. Keep ever in mind the fact that the favorite argument of detectives and company agents is that time will not permit following the constitution and taking the matter up with the slow-moving International Union. When you hear this argument it is time for you to begin to view with distrust those who present it. Put yourself in the "Missouri" class and make every one show you before they obtain your full and complete confidence.

THE NON-UNION UNION

BY J. B. M.

To learn something about dead or vanished races one must discover remains of their literature and study them. So it is with that once freeborn race of Western Union employes.

I have before me a copy of the January issue of the "Telegraph World, organ of the Association Western Union Employes," which I read and compare with the January issue of the C. T. U. A. Journal.

First I look for the union stamp of the printer. It is absent, both from the printing and the paper.

Upon the first page is an editorial embodying a call for new ideas and ideals. It seems that there is displeasure somewhere at the lack of progress made by the Association. Hence the call for new blood. On page 2 and thereafter come such articles as: "Business and the Engineer;" "Plugs, Hams, Lids and Dubs;" "Reminiscences of the Spanish-American War," and "As to the A. W. E. Conceptions." What there is constructive in these articles is possessed by the aforesaid call for ideas and ideals. The others are pure trash, entirely out of place in an organ of 40,000 employes (?).

Compare them with the five ringing editorials at the front of the January C. T. U. A. Journal: "Anti-Unionists Ignore Frankness and Truth;" "Open Shop Drive Exposed;" "Labor and the Profiteer;" "Unemployment and Wage Reduction" and "The Steel Octopus." These seem to breathe the very spirit of that early American flag with the inscription on it: "DON'T TREAD ON ME."

On another page are extracts from outside labor news. You will better understand the next few lines if you learn that the A. W. E. considers itself a labor union and publishes that impression broadcast. When I say "labor news" you naturally expect news of doing of labor men and bodies. Is that what the A. W. E. organ prints for labor news? It is NOT. For labor news the A. W. E. organ presents its readers (workers) such items as: "The failure of a Co-Operative store run by a Labor Union;" "The meeting of an EMPLOYERS' Association to assist individual business men, as they do the LARGE CORPORATIONS, in resisting the demands of labor;" "The formation of another A. W. E. somewhere;" "The suffering among hundreds of thousands unemployed, AS GIVEN OUT BY AN EMPLOYERS' ASSOCIATION;" and "The fact that a number of workers in a Cincinnati clothing factory voluntarily took a vacation to give work to unemployed unaffiliated."

Here is an Editor, supposedly elected to protect the interests of the members of the A. W. E., who picks 5 news items all of which state the employers' side of the matter. Nowhere in the entire issue is there an item favoring the employes. Notes from the different cities there are plenty, advertising the activities of men holding office now, who never did a thing for their fellow-workers before they were chosen to occupy their present deadhead positions; men who are neither popular nor active. Nowhere in the book is there a hint of the fact that the Western Union is compelling, in the larger cities, all men with less than two years' service to work 5 days a week, or that a five-hour day exists in many large offices. Nor that Mr. Newcomb Carlton in a signed statement in December denied any plan of cutting the force; part time is another way of getting around it.

But hark! There are entirely too many operators on the pay roll of the Western Union just now so on page 17 and 18 you will find a joint agreement between the W. U. and the A. W. E. respecting discipline—and here you will find different offenses for which an employee may be fired—two pages of them.

Nowhere will you find a notice that there will be a reduction in wages unless business increases. Nowhere will you find in it a statement of that huge Western Union surplus, held out for a rainy day. The employe will get the rain, the company the surplus.

Misrepresented, mistreated slaves of an autocratic corporation—when will you rise up and call yourselves free men?

WAGES AND PROFIT

The attempt to reduce wages by appealing to the workers' sense of fairness reveals the hypocrisy and cant of those who talk about "a square deal."

The workers are told that "capital (meaning capitalists) and labor must both sacrifice in this period of readjustment."

Coupon clippers and money lenders favor the plan, as do editors and so-called economists who talk about "natural" laws and publicists who wag their heads in owlish wisdom.

When these modern sages and seers say "capital (capitalists) and labor must make sacrifices," they would have folks believe that when the capitalist abandons war-time profits, his living standards are lowered.

These profits have been so stupendous, especially in the basic industries, that the ingenuity of the most skilled accountants have been tested to conceal them.

Despite a nation-wide propaganda on high wages, government figures show that wages today, or at any time during the war, has not made pre-war living standards possible.

A large portion of the press ignores this fact, while it prints crude editorials on "silk-shirted workingmen"; economists with an eye on the Carnegie pension fund assemble figures to plead the cause of those they would serve, and university presidents, hoping for a million-dollar endowment, attack "high" wages. in no instance is the government's figures challenged.

When a capitalist talks about less profits this does not mean less wholesome food and warm clothing for himself and family.

But less wages mean instant lowering of the workers' living standards.

To the capitalist profit does not mean interest on the money he invests, which is a charge on industry, and is guaranteed by a lien on the plant or business in the form of a mortgage, called bonds. Profits are exclusive of interest.

There is no comparison between wages and profits.

The virtuous, unselfish pose of big business and its defenders is one of the humors of the hour.

The attempt of this element to be impartial when they plead with workers to lower living standards would be comedy if the workers' wives and children were not involved.

HOW GERMANS BACKED LINCOLN IN 1860 SLAVERY CRISIS

After Lincoln's election in 1860, he made a speech at Cincinnati, Ohio, which shook the faith of his radical followers in his determination to free the slaves, and among the first to warn him of the danger and place themselves on record as favoring a determined attitude, were the Germans of Ohio, who presented him with an address through their spokesman, Mr. Fred Oberkleine, as follows:

"We, the free workingmen of Cincinnati, avail ourselves of this opportunity to assure you, our chosen Chief Magistrate, of our sincere and heartfelt regard. You earned our votes as the champion of free labor and free homesteads. vanquished opponents have, in recent times, made frequent use of the terms, 'Workingmen' and 'Workingmen's meetings,' in order to create an impression that the workingmen were in favor of compromises between the interests of free labor and slave labor, by which the victory just won would be turned into defeat.

"This is a despicable device of dishonest men. We spurn such compromises.

We firmly adhere to the principles which directed our votes in your favor.
"We trust that you, the self-reliant, because a self-made man, will uphold the Constitution and the laws against secret treachery and avowed treason.

"If to this end you should be in need of men, the German free workingmen, with others, will rise as one man at your call, ready to 1.sk their lives in the effort to maintain the victory already won by freedom over slavery."

When finally the Civil War broke out and Lincoln issued his call for volunteers, the Germans in this country made good their promise and joined the Union Army in great numbers. They fought bravely and did their full share to preserve and maintain this Republic.

We have written this article as a sweet memory to Lincoln; also as a kind reminder to those who today preach hatred against our German population.—Brewery Workers' Journal.

NEW SCHEDULE NEGOTIATED BY CANADIAN GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPHS DIVISION 53

INCREASES AVERAGE 19 PER CENT—NEW SCALE RETROACTIVE TO APRIL 1, 1920

The Canadian Government Telegraphs, Division No. 58, following months of negotiation, has signed a new wage agreement with the Dominion Government. The average increase approximates 19 per cent and is retroactive to April 1, 1920.

After preliminary meetings in Vancouver, attended by J. Aitken on behalf of Vancouver Island lines, your schedule committee, consisting of P. R. Campbell, Edmonton, Alta., representing the prairie province, and W. Mitchell, Smithers, B. C., representing British Columbia and Yukon, in conference at Ottawa, Ont., in June with Inspector MacDonald, Edmonton, Alta., Superintendent Phelan, Vancouver, B. C., Superintendent Stevens, Kamloops, B. C., and General Superintendent Keeley, Ottawa, Ont., agreed to and submitted to the Civil Service Commission for approval, a wage scale providing for an average increase of 20 per cent for all Government telegraph positions in British Columbia, Yukon, Alberta, and Saskatchewan, with the exception of Dawson, Atlin and Carmacks, and certain points on the Yukon line supplied with provisions by the Government.

The Civil Service Commission withheld their decision until November 1st. when the matter was referred back for reconsideration and resubmission of new rates owing to the fact that some of our proposed rates of pay appeared exces-

A meeting for this purpose was held in Vancouver November 22nd to 25th between your committee and the western superintendents, who were present at Ottawa, with the addition of Superintendent Stead, Canadian National Telegraphs, Saskatoon, on behalf of the Government.

A revised schedule was drawn up and finally accepted by the Civil Service Commission on December 19th, retroactive to April 1st, 1920. The revised rates provide for an average increase of 18.96 per cent for telegraph positions (operators, operator-linemen, and linemen) throughout British Columbia and Yukon, with the exception of the points mentioned above, the highest rate of increase going to Vancouver Island lines, where it averaged 19.76 per cent. Twenty-five positions of the Yukon line, provided with provisions by the Government, received a monthly increase of $5.00 only. Members of the superintendent's staff, clerks, telephone operators and messengers received increases as a direct result of our efforts.

The following amendments to Rules and Regulations, Appendix IV, were also accepted by the Civil Service Commission:

Appendix IV, Art. 2, Clause (a). Interchange of positions on the Yukon line and the Vancouver Island lines will be allowable in cases where telegraphers of not less than two years' service on the Yukon and Vancouver Island lines, having established reasonable grounds for the request, shall be considered as eligible for transfer, and for this purpose vacancies occurring in either district will be bulletined in both.

Appendix IV, Art. 2, Clause (g). Three days in place of ten days for bulletining vacancies.

Appendix IV. Art. 2. Clause (1). After the words "a telegrapher on leave of absence" add "or absent on duty."

Appendix IV. Art. 5. Clause (2). "In event of a telegrapher who is entitled to a vacation with pay being discharged or leaving the service after proper notice, before obtaining a vacation that has been deferred after the date allotted, he shall be paid at the regular rate of wages for same."

(g). "Telegraphers on the Yukon System will be entitled to a proportionate amount of their holiday allowance, based on the portion of the period worked without holidays, provided they have been in the service for one year."

Appendix IV, Art. 2. Amend Clause (k), Article 2, by striking out the entire clause and substituting the following:

"Telegraphers when called upon to perform duties at other than their regular place of employment shall be paid the same salary as the telegrapher relieved, provided salary is not less than their own and shall be allowed all necessary expenses incurred."

incurred.

Add following regulations: (1). Salaries for new positions created shall be in conformity with other salaries of the same class in the respective districts or offices.

(m). In the event of a telegrapher leaving the service after proper notice, before the payment of a higher rating is made, he shall be paid such increase as is applicable to the position he held, from the date higher rating became effective to the date of severance of service, provided he make application for same within two months.

(n). A telegrapher leaving the service will, upon request, as soon as practicable, be furnished with a certificate by the proper official, stating term of service, capacity in which employed and whether leaving the service of his own accord or discharged; if discharged, cause of dismissal will be stated.

Appendix IV, Art. 3, Clause (c). Add special provisions regarding Yukon Line: "Where boat or rail transportation is available, telegraphers will be allowed fare one way when covering their sections and will be allowed actual expenses for meals and bed when on duty away from headquarters when properly signed vouchers for same are sent to the District Superintendent."

Appendix IV, Art. 6, Clause (a). The clause to be reconstructed as follows (May, 1920): "At offices where two or more operators are employed eight hours will constitute straight day duty, beginning and ending between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. Seven and one-half hours will constitute split trick duty between twelve noon and midnight. At all other offices the hours of duty shall be eight hours within ten consecutive hours, the time of opening and closing to be determined by the District Superintendent. Superintendent.

Appendix IV, Additional, Art. S (May, 1920): "Typewriters will be provided and maintained by the Government at all terminal and relay offices and at other offices where required to use them as determined by the Superintendent concerned."

ASSOCIATED PRESS ORGANIZATION FUND

By Paul F. Schnur

If the drive for funds to send out organizers to line up Associated Press men by June 1 is to be a success, all organized press operators must help. At this writing only a corporal's guard have responded and they are being left to carry the entire burden for the fraternity.

Those brothers who have responded so liberally certainly do not take kindly to the idea of contributing their hard-earned dollars when their brother press men sit back and do nothing.

To those who are carrying the load we offer a few words of genuine praise and appreciation. They are conscious Unionists and far-sighted enough to appreciate the benefits that will accrue to all press telegraphers once the A. P. operators have a contract.

To those who have not as yet entered into the spirit of this movement, we respectfully urge that a little thought be given to the problem. Look over the list of contributors in this column and ask yourself if it is right to let these men carry the entire burden.

You all know the value of a one hundred per cent press telegraphers' organiza-Its accomplishment cannot be brought about by a "Let George Do It" tion attitude. Will your name be in the list next month?

"Though a man may be utterly stupid he is elever when criticizing others",--Chinese Proverb.

This is the second of a series of articles, written by a well known Wall Street Broker, pointing out the haphanard manner in which some houses conduct their telegraph department, which results in minimum efficiency and consequent loss of business.—Editor.

ARTICLE II.

Extent of Efficiency or Nonefficiency Determined Frequently In All Departments of Your Business But One.

Your Business But Ome.

No matter how efficient their clerical forces may be, brokerage firms have made, at frequent intervals, audits of their books, and in addition, in many instances, call in Efficiency Experts to simplify and systematise their methods of conducting business. What about your Wire Department? Numerous firms expend thousands of dollars yearly for this branch of their service, and notwithstanding that telegraphy is so much Greek to them, they engage help to man that department in a haphasard manner. They contract for a single wire at a cost of as high as $25,000 per annum, and exact of the Telegraph Company perfect service, but when it comes to engaging Telegraphers to work that wire, it is a guess with the firm whether the human instruments are the best in the profession—a glaring instance of inconsistency.

The question therefore arises, how can this difficulty be overcome? The Brokerage Divisions of The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America were organised for this very purpose—for the betterment of brokerage wire service and conditions with the telegraphic profession alike. When we furnish you with a Telegrapher, you may rest assured that he is an expert in his line, both as regards his knowledge of telegraphy, and of the brokerage business.

Call us up, Telephone Broad 2258, Room 504, 44 Broad Street, and we shall be glad to be of service to you without charge.

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT.

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT.

The following piece of "market news" was sent out over all wires of a certain New York concern on February 24th:

"Beginning today the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, a combination of oil producers in the Mid-Continent field, have decided to stop the drilling of all unnecessary wells until such time as production exceeds the demand sufficiently to favorably influence the market price of crude oil."

We arise to ask: If these things can be openly done by so-called "big business" why are union leaders jailed when the Union men cease production "until such time" as they are paid a sufficient wage to keep themselves and families in ciching and food?

The coal operators closed down until "such time as production exceeds the demand sufficiently to favorably influence the price." The American Woolen Company did likewise and threw thousands of employes out of work. This same "Big Business" barely escaped prosecution on a charge of violating the Federal laws prohibiting profiteering in necessities on the filmsy technicality that wool is not cloth; Automobile factories throughout the country either closed entirely or worked part time, further increasing unemployment, "Until such time as production exceeds the demand sufficiently to favorably influence the market price."

When union miners in Kansas cease work for the same reason, the labor leaders are jailed and sent to the penitentiary.

Verify the land of our fetters is a fet for democracy. Yes, it is the Hell!

are jailed and sent to the penitentiary.

Verily, the land of our fathers is safe for democracy. Yes, it is, like Hell!

WHAT IS A TELEGRAPHER?

By Ed. Palmer

"What is a telegrapher: is he a man who wears a starched collar and has a position in Wall Street, or is he a wheel in the machinery of trades unionism, working to further his own and fellow workers' interests?"

These were the words used by Miss Lenora O'Reilly, a prominent trades union organizer, in opening her address to a large gathering of telegraphers several years ago. The words shot straight as an arrow and wounded the pride of many of those present, as every one wore a starched collar, and some were proud possessors of a "position" in Wall Street.

The question did not go unanswered for among those present was Brother Dan Russell, who in a few moments of oratory, for which Dan was well known, convinced Miss O'Reilly that, although we were small in numbers and weak in support, we were possessed of that spirit which says "never die," and some day would win our place in the ranks of Labor.

Today Miss O'Reilly could find the same number of collars ancientism.

Troday Miss O'Reilly could find the same number of collars encircling the necks of the same brass pounders, but she also would observe that the "positions" have appreciably diminished, and you can thank the live wheels in the machinery of the Eastern Broker Division for that.

To those who are unfortunate enough to still retain one of those aforesaid "positions," we extend a cordial invitation to visit our Headquarters and allow Brother Jack Hickey to enroll them into membership of E. B. D., which makes a specialty of transforming "positions" into jobs. To those who are fortunate enough to have a job and no card we also extend an invitation. We will try to make a sinecure out of your job. It has been done before and can be done again.

What is a telegraph operator?

My answer is:

Members whose praiseworthy accomplishments tend to cheer and inspire us to greater achievements.

had. This can be done if we all co-operate.

Let us, as one duty, support our officers by attending meetings as often as possible. Nothing gives them greater encouragement than to see a large attendance. It shows that you are proud of YOUR organization, that you take an interest in what is being done, and that you will aid them in all their undertakings.

Unionism is too vital to let indifference creep in. Don't depend on the other fellow, COME YOURSELF.

"AROUND THE CORNER."

"AROUND THE CORNER."

Around the corner I have a friend,
In this great city that has no end;
Yet days go by, and weeks rush on,
And before I know it, a year has gone.
And I never see my old friend's face;
For life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows I like him just as well
As in the days when I rang his bell
And he rang mine. We were younger then;
And now we are busy, and tired men—
Tired with playing a foolish game.
"Tomorrow", I say, "I will call on Jim "Just to show that I'm thinking of him,"
But tomorrow comes—and tomorrow goes;
And the distance between us grows and grows.

And the distance between us grows and grows.

Around the corner—yet miles away.

"Here's a telegram, sir:"

"Jim died today"—

And that's what we get—and deserve in the end—

Around the corner s venished friend

Around the corner a vanished friend "Morse D Dial." Read it again, it brings a timely message to all of us.

VETERAN TELEGRAPH OPERATOR DIES AT KEY

George Marcyes, sixty-seven years old, of No. 95 Clark Street, Brooklyn, a veteran employe of the Western Union Telegraph Company, with a record of nearly fifty years' service, died suddenly at the company's office at No. 24 Walker street early today.

Marcyes collapsed while at his key and was taken to the hospital room of the office, where he died later. It was said death was due to acute indigestion. Marcyes was born in Maine and had been employed in New York for the past twenty-five years.

In the wild scramble to gain favor with the "high and mighty" one more soul has been sucked into the maelstrom of the Octopus. He has gone; died while serving the company, but another sucker will take his place. We hope Mr. Marcyes had accumulated enough of this world's goods to leave his family something more substantial than the words of praise, "faithful employee", "loyal and painstaking", etc. etc.

In the meantime the Western Union goes merrily on its way paying the customary dividends (to the stockholders) and drawing other men into the vortex of human failure.

MINUTES

The second regular meeting in February called to order by Chairman Dunn at 2:45 p. m. Total number present 97, taxing the capacity of the rooms.

B. J. Schwartz appointed Sergeant-at-Arms to serve in the absence of Brother Worzel, called out of town.

Sixteen new members and five transfers voted on. Accepted unanimously. Two new members, Brothers F. A. Habeck and Wm. J. Booth, took the obligation as administered by the Chairman.

Chairman of the General Committee reported sessions with the local executive committee on matters pertaining to the By-laws as they affect sub-unit divisions and announced that he had extended invitations to all chairmen of sub-units of the E. B. D., to come to New York March 18th, for our annual entertainment, remaining over Sunday for a full and free discussion of many important matters affecting the division.

Committee appointed to visit Brother Power reported he had sufficiently recovered to be able to work.

The Chair regretfully reported the illness of Sister Mrs. Kate Stetson and stated that he would appoint some member to visit her and report her condition at the next meeting.

Brother Ralph W. Pope, the oldest member of the organization, journeyed from his home in New Jersey to attend the meeting. In making his address to the body he declared the occasion the most encouraging in the way of telegraphers' unity in 52 years. He spoke on the advantages of organization and told of the Telegraphers' Protective League with which he had a great deal to do in 1870. He also pointed to the similarity of conditions existing after the civil war and the situation today with salaries in the commercial companies at the highest point and the practice of these companies to bring about reductions through the sliding scale, demonstrating the need of thorough organization as the only means of resistance.

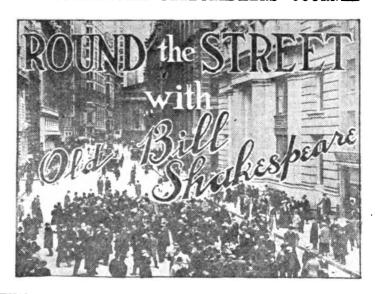

On motion of Brother Palmer a standing vote of thanks was extended Brother resistance.

On motion of Brother Palmer a standing vote of thanks was extended Brother Pope and a cordial invitation to attend another meeting.

Brother James J. Donnelly, Sr., took occasion to impress on the members the value of holding membership in the E. B. D. by contrasting the difficulties he encountered in coming to New York before its existence and the advantages he derived when he came to New York again and found the organization in full swing. Adjourned 4:30 p. m.

Your obligation requires that you give a union brother preference in the placing of men in position, but we regret that a few instances have come to our attention where the opposite method was pursued. A brother is entitled to consideration ahead of a non-card man, no matter if the new one takes a card after securing the job.

Bring the jobs to Secretary Hickey. He will supply you with entirely competent men who have been paying dues as insurance against the very thing that some time happens.

THE CROW'S NEST

California isn't the only state to claim a woman as "Our Mary". New York claims her own "Our Mary" and Buffalo is her home. Seems like old times to see Buffalo notes in the Journal and we sincerely trust that we will see them regularly. Congratulations to International Vice President "Our" Mary Macaulay.

At the annual Police dinner at the Biltmore Hotel, attended by over 600 patrolmen, sergeants, lieutenants, captains and other "higher ups", a disturber in the balcony was admonished to "keep quiet or I will call the police."

Brother Dugan, Detroit Sub-Unit, W. B. D., was present at our meeting February 26th, but when the Chairman invited him to address the meeting, Brother Dugan had gone. Come again, Old Man and make yourself known. President Dunn knew nothing of your presence until about adjournment time.

B. F. Shrimpton and Wesley Russell returned to New York for a few days last month to attend business matters. "Shrimp" left for the balmy clime of California on March 9th, Wesley remaining in New York, temporarily. Welcome, old scouts; always glad to see you.

Brother Oliver Dillion, Certificate 4033, E. B. D., who, because of the blacklisting of union men by the commercial companies, 15 years ago, was obliged to assume the name of George W. Dillion, in order to secure employment, died at New York City on March 5th.

Upon the request of his brother, Frank, who is located in the West, the E. B. D. made arrangements for temporary interment of Brother Dillion's remains in a local cemetery, it being intended to remove the body when the family decides on the place of permanent burial.

Secretary J. A. Hickey of the E. B. D. took personal charge of the arrangements and with Brothers Markson and Meyers, attended the funeral.

A beautiful floral wreath from the E. B. D., was placed upon the grave.

DO YOU KNOW By Jack Martine

Some of those articles on the labor question in the February issue caused favorable comment at one of the A. F. O. L. meetings. They were written in a sane vein and showed no partiality. Remember that in a free State it is not Capital that rules Labor; neither is it Lebor that rules Capital; it is Justice that

It is never too late to mend, come 'round and see 'Jack' and square yourself. Let the dead past bury its dead. What's the use of trying to fight against a host of stalwart union telegraphers with a corporal's guard of malcontents. People who agree to everything you say are about as entertaining as a Chink melodrama lasting a week.

Since delivering that master effort of eloquence on the retirement of Bro. Hinshaw as secretary, Fred Towne has been in great demand as an after-dinner speaker. Upon being questioned he acknowledged his first after-dinner speech was made to an audience of one, consisting of the bouncer of a beanery on Park Row in the 80's.

J. M. Shackleford, of Brown Brothers & Co., "took a chance" last month and reports life one young sweet dream since the sky pilot affixed the tow line. He took a tryout honeymoon at Atlantic City over Lincoln's Birthday, but the "big noise" is set for next Winter when he takes his bride to the Sunny South to be introduced to the home folks. An E. B. "Jack" O'Connell, Chief of Wireless, on the "Corsair", J. P. Morgan's private yacht, writes from Kingston, Jamaica, that the cruise is about over and he will be returning to the "States" in two or three weeks with an ample supply of a certain remedy for the things St. Patrick chased out of Ireland. Welcome to our city, Jack.

J. P. McCusker has landed regular with Greenwood & Co.

Imbrie & Co., one of the best known Stock Exchange houses in the East, were adjudicated a bankrupt concern and placed in the hands of receivers on March 2nd.

Our annual entertainment and dance occurred March 18th—too late for this issue of the Journal. Next month will be a humdinger.

Brother M. J. Connolly of the Western Broker Division rolled into town on the Twentieth Century and after seeing New York, landed a regular job with Greenwood & Co. "Con" says: "A feller has no business in New York if he hasn't the proper credentials." We'll say so.

February, a short month containing two holidays, netted the extra list 113 calls for a total of $1,579.34 and TEN REGULAR jobs. Isn't it worth $18 per year for the privilege of enjoying insurance against unemployment?

"Sunny Jim" Lee Butterfield, is with Hughes & Dier, temporarily.

Jack G. McCloskey has been over at Byllesby's for several weeks.

Noyes & Jackson, requiring a first class man, flashed the word and Brother D. J. Foley is now holding forth, regular, having left Pynchon & Co., and reported to Headquarters.

"Billy" Mitchell gave a card party at his home, Feb. 21st. "Charlie" Crawley, Ralph Thompson, Frank Gambino, "Joe" Mead, "Red" Blanco, "Herb" Long and your humble servant declared themselves out because of previous engagements, distance, or being non-players.

GAME BY ROUNDS

Hand 1. Playing desultory. Great caution on all sides. Everybody drew from 3 cards to a book. Nobody had openers.

"Billy" serves milk punch— ik. Playing very much as in Hand 2. "I without milk. hand one.

Hand 4. Pulling up of chairs, settling down therein and drawing of cigarette cases. "Billy" serves.

Hand 5. "Billy" serves. "Bill" Mac-Lellan tries to take the pot with five queens. "Jack" Dunn has it on him with five kings when some "wise-cracker" dis-covers it's a pinochle deck. Pot stands.

Hand 6. Everybody happy. "Billy" serves. Avery says, "Damgood stuff, 'Billy,' and you're some host" and breaks into "They Were Only Playing Leap-frog." Hand 9. Avery wins. Walsh takes the pot. Avery not yet aware of it. "Billy" serves.

Hand 10. "Billy" serves. Beats it cellar to see how it's holding out. Con-sults watch. Lightning calculations in the bean. Decides he's good for an hour easily.

Hand 12. Avery starts the grasshopper song again but Walsh beats him to it with "Whether It Rains, Snows, or Freezes."
Avery being a versatile vocalist with a repertoire, knows that one too and chimes in though he differs as to key. Near enough, though, and the gang's judgment is commendatory, rather than otherwise.

Hand 13. Rogero says when he catches a mouse, home, he holds it up by the tail and spanks it, lets it go, and it runs home crying, never to return. "Billy" serves. Rogero participates and then offers to prove the mouse statement.

Hand 15. Rogero wants a mouse so he can demonstrate. "Billy" all out of mice. Rogero insists, but is drowned out by Avery and Walsh doing the "Rains, Snows, or Freezes" ballad. "Billy" serves.

or Freezes" ballad. "Billy" serves.

Hand 16. 2 a. m.—That being the agreed hour for breaking up the game, Dunn scoops in a ten simoleon pot and grabs his hat. Avery renders "Grasshoppers" and Walsh "Rains, Snows or Freezes", simultaneously. Dunn tries a little basso but falls to declare which side he's on. All don hats and coats and go into the hall. "Billy" pleads for quiet. "Rogie" wants a mouse. All out safely. "Billy's' stock that he has been saving since before prohibition enforcement depleted and no chance of ever replenishing it.

PITTSBURGH SUB-UNIT NOTES

The large attendance at the monthly meeting held February 19 showed the benefit of the change in date. Heretofore, the meetings held on the third Monday evening, while well attended, did not quite come up to the standard. However, quite come up to the standard. However, the new arrangement makes it convenient for all hands, and a capacity attendance is looked for at all meetings hereafter. Don't forget the date, boys—the third Saturday afternoon of each month, at 2 p. m.

Chairman Patterson will be among those present at the dance on Mar. 18. He will also attend the meeting of the General Committee the following day.

Brother Brower has left Jennings and Company and gone with Woodward and Company, the newest arrivals in Pittsburgh burgh.

Brother Laitta, of Howell and Wales, is elighted with the change in meeting ates. But, of course, he has lately joined delighted the benedicts.

Brother Fred Moore was fairly aliv with enthusiasm. It is rumored "Shorty picked a winner at Shreveport.

Among the old timers present were Brothers Kingsley and McKenna; both true blue and always have been—and always will be. Can't stop 'em.

Secretary-Treasurer McCutcheon is hot on the trail of the few delinquents. It's hard to get by Mac.

PHILADELPHIA DISTRICT

The regular February meeting of the Philadelphia District was held at Grand Fraternity Hall with the largest and most enthusiastic attendance in some time. Everyone had something cheerful and constructive to say and it was a real pleasure to be there.

Ex-Chairman Bone and Ex-Secretary were voted suitable remembrances as a mark of appreciation for their good work during the year 1920.

Secretary Oeser reported that the dues were coming in promptly and willingly by all the members. Brothers, a paid-up card is the best insurance you can carry. ٠

Chairman Wright administered the obligation of membership to ten new members in a dignified and impressive manner. Five new applications were favorably acted upon, while many of the brothers reported probable prospects for the March meeting. At this rate we shall soon reach our goal—100 percent solid! . .

The turn out was very encouraging and our tireless Chairman wishes to thank all the members for their splendid spirit of co-operation and willingness to work. It is producing results. "Doc," as he is familiarly known, is never too busy to call his flock on the telephone, buttonhole them in the street or corner them in their offices. This is real organization work and, with the continued and increased efforts of his fellow members, we shall have our organization in mighty fine shape.

Brother Bone was again in evidence with his irrepressible mirth and humor. His motions, objections, points of order, et al, kept things humming. We believe he is still in doubt about that bag.

Among the young fellows present were John Belzer, Sam Long, Con Kelly, Bill Holland, Johnny Carroll, Phillip Murphy, Eddie Boyle, Ben Potter, and others too numerous to mention.

Brother George Burt has gone to Johnstown for Boreau & Evans.

Harry Koeberle has returned after an attack of grippe to his old stand at Price, Guard & Company, Brother Bryant filling in for him.

Among our out-of-town members present was Brother Ludwig with Koontz & Company, Trenton. Come often for we are always pleased to welcome our distant

In Brothers Campbell, Long and Makin, West & Company have a trio that would be hard to beat, and the District values their splendid efforts in its behalf.

Brother Frank Lauria is located with our vice-chairman, Brother Ruberg, at Koontz & Company.

The meeting would have been complete with the presence of Brothers Marshall and Mattson from DeHaven & Townsend, but they were unable to be with us. Come to the next meeting, brothers.

Don't forget the first Saturday afternoon in every month. Meeting starts promptly at 2 p. m.

GO AND GET IT By W. L. Bivin

It has often been said that "Everything comes to him who waits"; I do not know who started that rumor, but believe me it is without foundation, and is that most used stock phrase of the "big bosses" to keep the under dog pacified.

Did you ever stop to think that every man has the success to which he is entitled? It is proven every day; anything that is worth having is worth fighting for, and we enjoy that success only to the degree that we are compelled to fight for it.

You may think you are entitled to a greater degree of success than you enjoy, but are you? A typical example is the recent attempt at wage cutting by a Chicago house. Note this, that the men who were ready to fight, and registered that indication by backing your officers in the W. B. D. were all successful in retaining that for which they were ready to fight, while on the other hand the men who were stampeded even before aid from headquarters could be rushed in, and who actually surrendered to the opposing forces without a sign of a fight, took a cut of $10 per week, and in each instance between the above, (Country offices) and (Chicago office) they enjoy the success to which they are entitled.

Everything does come to him who goes out and gets it, but you never heard of a hunter going after big game without any ammunition. Where do we get the ammunition to bring down that for which we are searching?

We spend on an average about 15 minutes a day or a little better, let us say two hours a week, combing, brushing and fixing up the "old hatrack" and on top of that we generally step into some "Tonsorial parlor" and pay a barber $2.00 a week to do it for us; that part of it is all right, but does it really get you anywhere? The road to the White House or any other goal that we set up as the Mecca of success is not attained by that which is on the outside of the old think tank, but rather that which is on the inside.

Suppose that we should spend two hours a week, and two dollars a week on proper material to clean the inside, brushing away the cobwebs and making the machinery a little more brighter, keener and effective. Don't you think it would be a good investment as ammunition?

What would you think of an operator that spent 15 or 20 minutes three times a week brushing and polishing his typewriter case and never giving any attention to the mill or the mechanism that it contains? What would you think of an operator that spent a like amount of time and energy shining the base of his bug and the nickled parts and never filed the contact points? You would say that he wasn't going to carry very far, and you are right.

Then to my mind the best ammunition we can possibly carry for the game we are after, for the success we mean to shoot down and drag in, is that ammunition that is stored in the little old powder horn that we hang our hat on. Spend as much time at the meetings of the W. B. D. as you give to your barber, and spend as many cents each week for good constructive literature as you allow him to ring up on his cash register. In so doing you will accumulate a supply of ammunition that will bring down the big game and will afford you a lot of satisfaction to know that you are able to be in at the kill.

In attending the meetings you get the benefit of all the old hunters' experiences and learn to know a live trail from a cold one; where the best feeding grounds are and a lot of other hunting lore. As individuals we cannot hope to surround success and bring it in allve, but with each shoulder to the wheel, each one carrying the proper ammunition, it is the easiest thing in the world.

Remember each one of you are enjoying the success to which you are entitled, remember that good old slogan of 1776, "United we stand, Divided we fall."

A WORD FROM THE W. B. D. SECRETARY

Don't fall behind now, most of the members of the W. B. D. have proven themselves to be all that I predicted. Before January first I predicted that the division would be supported from every member who at that time carried an up-to-date card. And I am proud to say my predictions have almost been exact.

However, my records show that a few of the boys have neglected to fall in line. Just think it over, boys, and see if the organization isn't worthy of your support. Surely you will not be without the protection which the W. B. D. provides for you any longer than you can possibly help.

Nothing much to write up at this time. In fact about the only incident in this shop lately was the cutting in of a new doorway between the lair of the margin clerk and the wilds of the wire room. By this new arrangement, Alex. Tolf, the unrelenting margin expert, can now rush into the wire room, grab some "op" by the neck, call a gink for margin, and rush back again before the market gets back to where it was in the first place.

Pete Anderson is building himself a bungalow in Albany Park. Go to it, old kid. If some of the rest of us were aggressive along those lines we would not be content to remain forever beneath the iron heel of the rent czar.

Speaking of the present housing shortage in Chicago and comparing it with ye palmy days, one of our grizzled veterans the other day stroked his hoary beard as he piped in retrospect:

"A long time ago, I believe it was back in 1916, my wife and me, we lived out on the North Side. We were boarding at the time and were tired of eating buffalo steaks and prairie hens they fed us in them days. We decided to go housekeeping and there were so many flats for rent we didn't know which way to look first. A landlord that only gave a month's rent free in them days was a piker. We finally landed a fine flat with three months' rent free. They put some fancy word in there, consecration, conception, or it might have been concession. Anyhow, that word is out of date now. Them were the palmy days."

Regular monthly meetings at Headquarters, first Monday in the month.

By Wm. T. Yetman

At the March meeting, which was held on Monday, March 7th, emphasis was laid on two points upon which the President desired concentration during the coming months. The first point was ORGANIZATION BY THE MEMBERS as against organization by the officers only.

In order to get this very important phase of our progress upon a real business basis, the by-laws are being amended to provide a period devoted to this subject in the regular order of business at each meeting. The year is going by, and three meetings of this year's twelve have already become history. If we are going to attain our objective this year it is time we stop dreaming, lay down the pipe (take one good stretch if necessary) AND GET TO WORK. Let this be a reminder to you to come to the April meeting with a report of progress on some prospective member. We don't expect everybody to have a new member, but we are going to find out who is trying and who is not, so that we may give credit where credit is due. We are no longer in need of members to keep us going. There are already plenty of funds on hand for the current year, but we want members because if 30 per cent of the telegraphers can do a lot of good, 60 per cent can do lots more.

And remember, the member you get in now may be the member who will turn in to our Employment Committee, the job you will need.

The second point scored at this meeting was the creation of the machinery to provide us during this summer with a better share of God's fresh air than we have been accustomed to. All activities along these lines will revolve about the two baseball teams which will be organized in the near future, with every brother, who desires to, having an opportunity to get in on the fun. Acting on the report of the outdoor recreation committee, President Yetman appointed a committee of three to have full control, consisting of Dan Sullivan, Orrin Kinney, and Kit Nevins. Brother Sullivan will be chairman of the committee, which will arrange its own rules, and Brothers Kinney and Nevins will be the team captains.

Brother Fred Feltus of Jones & Baker, has been on the sick list about two weeks, suffering from an infection of the jaw, caused by a bad tooth. He is being treated at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. His host of friends in the union wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

Brother Howard A. Smith is subbing for Brother Feltus at Jones & Baker, and getting his lunches free.

Brother M. J. Reidy substituted at Paine Webber's for Vice-President Herbert, while he was absent on acount of the death of his father. The TICKER extends to Brother Herbert the sincere sympathy of the Brothers.

We now have four men on the waiting list, and although the epidemic of closing out apparently culminated in February, there is a dearth of new jobs. This is the business of every member—the most important business of every member. We cannot afford to let anything get away from us. We lost the Brickley job to a NON, and, from what we can gather, a confirmed non.

Will the New York brother kindly note?

Brother Thomas Cony of Portland, recently paid us a visit at Headquarters. Come again, Tom, and don't forget to line up these Portland boys.

Four new members in February is a big drop in the speed we hit in January, and has got to be improved upon. There are many chaps enjoying good jobs in State Street through the N. E. B. D., drawing down $2,500 a year as the result of a $12 investment, who think they are doing wonders to pay their dues. ONE OF THEM BECAME SO IMPORTANT THAT HE DIDN'T THINK HE'D WASTE THE TWELVE, AND THEN HIS JOB BLEW.

The auburn-haired brother denies that he got it dipping his head in a solution of molasses and distilled water in an effort to make wood alcohol.

G. F. REDMOND CO. NOTES Our new office at 19 Congress Street, is a Our new office at 19 Congress Street, is a decided improvement over the old quarters at 10 State Street. The new suite is larger, brighter and better ventilated, when the "automatons"—(suppose we might as well give them their title)—order clerks—don't complain that they will get pneumonia, because a little fresh air is admitted.

Sittings are provided for 12 operators. Eight are employed at present, "all members of this division" with one exception.

All the boys are now keeping their legs spread well apart while working. To understand the reason for this, ask Fred McKenna, who tied him. Fred says it's a shame to tie a man down so close to his work.

Just a suggestion for the Friends of Irish Freedom. If Freedie Hearon can govern Ireland as well as he can agitate for her freedom, he's the only man living for its president.

A good way to settle the Irish question once and for all would be to match Freddie with Lloyd George in a fight to a finish, winner take all—all Fredand.

No more lunches are provided by the firm. The "boys" are now given a lunch period of 30 minutes. While the force would have appreciated the addition to their weekly stipends of the lunch money, nevertheless it is good to be able to get out and get a "sniff" of fresh air and no one is growling over the change.

Some men are always ready to step from under their personal obligations. They are willing to shift the load to other shoulders where it does not belong. When these men are members of a group working together they do not carry their share. This is quickly noticed, and becomes epidemic. DO NOT BE ONE OF THESE SLACKERS. demic. DO SLACKERS.

Quit passing the buck.

The President of this Division wishes to take advantage of this page to say that he will not countenance any white man being kept out of the organization, through the little personal jealousies or insignificant differences of the past. The organization is too big for that now, and the brothers who keep pulling it are doing more harm than good. The Board of Directors pass on applications, and they are experienced and representative enough to be depended upon in their judgment. Times change, conditions change, and circumstances change, and the viewpoint must change with them. Those who refuse to do this seem to the writer to be trying to keep an ounce of sand out of the sugar, and putting a ton in the works.

Ben Reid, of the Chamber of Commerce, is another young old-timer who promises to be among us in a very short time. We have no doubt Ben means it.

A lot of the boys on the outside have signified their desire to come to the outing this summer. We will be glad to have them. And what's more, we will guarantee them a good time.

But you never shall see your dreams made real, save you work with your fellow man.

fame to rear.

Out of the hearts of our fellows has all of our greatness grown,
Together they stood for this purpose—for no one could do it alone.

Stand off by yourselves with your dreaming and all of your dreams are vain,
No splendor of soul or structure can man himself attain;
'Tis willed we shall dwell as brothers, as brothers then, must we toil.
We must share in a common purpose, as we share in a common purpose, as we share in a common soil.
And each who would see accomplished the dreams he is proud to own,
Must strive for the goal with his fellow—for he cannot reach it alone.

EASTERN CANADIAN DISTRICT
In a few lines of congratulation to ourselves on attaining the dignity of Journal Correspondent for which we are thankful and duly appreciative, Editor and Bro. P. F. Schnur proffers the suggestion that in writing notes, we use double space on typewriter, on account of the printers' objection to single space matter. As we think that the same advice might possibly apply to other scribes we have pleasure in passing it on.

We desire to join in the expression of regret and sympathy from the Great Lakes towards Bro. McGilliveray, our first Chairman, who is passing through such a domestic trial in the shape of the sickness of both his wife and himself. We hope that ere long both will be restored to good health.

We are in receipt of a letter from our International President, Roscoe H. Johnson, in which he advises that the proposed March first meeting has been indefinitely postponed, all the interested parties being notified to this effect by wire. The reason for the postponement being that several of the interested districts have contended that it would be impossible to gather instructions from their constituencies in such a brief time. President Johnson closes his letter with the following statement:

"The necessity for co-ordinated action

"The necessity for co-ordinated action during the present year (particularly the commercial divisions) is obvious to all and it is hoped that each and every unit will succeed in so arranging its affairs in the near future that a meeting may be held."

in the near future that a meeting may be held."

In this connection our General Chairman and Brother, F. C. Allen, recently sent out an appeal to this section to have delegates nominated to represent us at this meeting. Some of the brother members and Executive were in favor of having two of our Executive attend this meeting whilst others were not. We took the ground that as the object of the meeting had been fully explained in previous issues of the Journal and both members and Executive should therefore be fully posted on the issue to be discussed, our General Chairman could easily be advised by wire or letter as to the general feeling and being on the spot himself, with General Secretary Crewson, he could easily do all the representing that we would require and thus protect our slender funds from a heavy travelling expense that could be avoided. However, this matter, like any other, should not be decided on the sayso of any individual but by the feeling of the majority, so, brother members, send in your opinions to your Executive and let them know where you stand.

N. B. Ours went in a month ago.

Recent eyents in the conduct of the affairs of our Eastern District have led us to the opinion that our section is suffering from the usual spring symptoms and that a gentle aperient in the shape of a little publicity would not only tend to clear the air of possible misunderstanding but would also prove enlightening to the generality of the membership, and beneficial, to the extent that they would know what was being done by some of their Executive and thus enable them to cast their ballots intelligently upon the occasion of our first general election to be held in the course of the present year. This preliminary is inspired by the announcement in the Great Lakes notes that, in consequence of the illifess and general domestic trouble of our District Chairman, Bro. McGilliveray, (which we all sincerely deplore) he has been obliged to resign as D. C. and that Bro. Leslie of Cape Sable has been nominated as his successor. The announcement goes on to state that the views and approval of the Eastern Executive have been asked by the G. C. relative to this nomination and that it is likely that this will be approved in view of replies already received. We regret to state that our worthy G. C., Bro. Allen, has been misinformed and that the above announcement is not in accordance with the facts of the nomination, which we will, for your guidance, now proceed to give you. When Bro. McGilliveray found he was unable to "carry on" he elther tendered or suggested the nomination go to one or more members of his station staff. For some reason or other it was not accepted and in the correspondence that ensued between our late D. C. and our Secretary-Treasurer, Bro. Ross, it was decided to offer the nomination to Bro. Leslie and the latter in a letter accepted. One of your Executive was absolutely ignored on the matter and the other was advised when the whole transaction was completed and the letter of acceptance received. There are the simple facts of the case. When we first head and offer the nomination of such an important pos or member for this position, neither are we actuated by any personal feeling against the nominee, Bro. Leslie, but we feel that the membership should have some kind of a line on the qualifications of any nominee for this post and the only indication we have as to what we may expect from Bro. Leslie in the way of leadership is that contained in a short Editorial which appeared in one of last year's issues of the Journal and which we are informed came from his pen. We feel that in placing this matter before the membership our whole duty is done and if the majority are inclined to follow him as their D. C., we will gladly fall in line and follow as loyally as the position demands. demands.

We are glad to join in the congratulations extended by the members of the Great Lakes District to Mr. Geo. F. Eaton on his ascendency to the position of Great Lakes Superintendent. We know G. F. and are confident that he will bring to his new post that ability and geniality which he has always possessed. The appointment does honor both to the Company and the appointee. pany and the appointee.

GREAT LAKES DISTRICT

It is with sincere regret that we of the Great Lakes learn of the protracted illness of Bro. McGilliveray, Chairman of the of Bro. McGilliveray, Ch. Eastern Canadian District.

This brother's misfortune is more than doubled in that his wife also has been, and is, very seriously ill. At this writing she is confined to hospital, having suffered a relapse following a trying period of eight weeks' illness spent in the same institution.

It is our very earnest hope that the affliction at present upon Bro. McGilliveray and those dear to him, may speedily vanish in the light of his own and his wife's early restoration to perfect and sustained good health.

In consequence of his illness and domestic trials, Bro. McGilliveray has reluctantly been compelled to resign his office as Chairman of the Eastern District, and has suggested Bro. H. Leslie of Cape Sable as his successor. institution.

has suggested Bro. H. Leslie of Cape Sable as his successor.

The views and approval of the Eastern executive have been asked by the General Chairman relative to this nomination, and it is likely, in view of replies so far received, that Bro. Leslie (who has expressed his willingness to accept office) will replace Bro. McGilliveray.

The many old timers in the Service, as also many of the younger fry, will learn with pleasure of the confirmation of the appointment of Mr. Geo. F. Eaton as Great Lakes Superintendent. The appointment dates from January 1st, 1921, and we congratulate "G. F." on his promotion, and ourselves on the realisation of our hopes in his regard.

Mr. Eaton is recognized by those who know him best, as wise; conscientious; diplomatic; and just. A sense of peace and contentment has been evident is the Great Lakes District since he grasped the reins, and there is a feeling that under his superintendentship, we will be reminded of the happy days experienced by many of us under the silken lash of our good friend, Mr. Leslie S. Hawkins.

Now C. T. U. A. work with your Superintendent, and we may hope to give our Grievance Committee an even longer holiday than it has had since Mr. Eaton sat in. The General Chairman together with many of the membership of the Eastern district, would like to see the Grievance Committee appointed and functioning in said district.

Committee appointed and functioning in said district.

Such a body is a most necessary and valuable asset, and in the Eastern District is known to be essential. Bro. Ross has a full share of work in his secretarial capacity, which coupled with his duty to the Company on a busy station, does not warrant his being overloaded with work that could and should be shared by others. Frequently complaints are filed with the General Chairman, which properly are within the sphere of the local Adjustment committee. This is not right, neither is it fair, and the membership justly complain of neglect of their interests.

A good Grievance Committee, wisely directed, is, as has been proven in the Great Lakes District, instrumental in keeping many complaints and often frivolous matters from the Divisional Office and from Headquarters. The proper functioning of a discreet G. C. is frequently responsible for aggrieved individuals learning to view their troubles from sides and angles other than their own.

DIVISION 65, BRITISH COLUMBIA DISTRICT

In introducing ourselves to the readers of the Journal on our first birthday, we of Division Sixty-five have no apologies to offer other than for our tardy arrival in print. With practically a maximum membership, and schedule negotiations in progress, what we lack in numerical strength as compared with some of the land-line Divisions, we believe we make up in dermination. There are few, if any, weak-kneed trade-unionists in our ranks, and the only two operators who have not yet joined us have promised to do so. With the example before them of the two of three enthusiasts who have done all the pioneer work in organizing the Division (of whom the Secretary-Treasurer, Bro. W. L. Parkin, deserves the greatest credit), it is hard to understand how any operator can hesitate to do his little bit for the common cause. common cause.

Eventually it is hoped to make the Canadian wireless service fit for white men to work in. The Marconi Division, No. 59, may count on the co-operation of Division 65 in the struggle which they have so well begun. We who work for that "model employer," the government, have a list of major grievances as long as one's arm, and we shall leave no stone unturned to secure their redress. Our scale of pay, which is built up of various elusive allowances, would not be considered adequate for a six-day week in any branch of telegraphy, but we work seven days a week for it. In lieu of the fifty-two Sundays and the nine public holidays which the Civil Service Comission's own regulations authorize, we are given 21 days' annual leave. Even the Western Union does better than this. We are fortunate in having Bro. Thomas Taylor of Toronto deputed by the International President to take charge of our negotiations, and look forward to the result of his efforts with the greatest confidence. We will back him to the limit.

It is interesting and instructive to compare the rates paid in this service with those of railway operators. A friend of ours (whose name, Shorty Heaslip, is well-known in some Divisions) has blown down known in some Divisions) has blown down from the prairie to hibernate on the coast. He says that operators on the Canadian National Railway have a minimum of a hundred and forty and that the veriest hams are drawing not less than two hundred a month, including their Sunday pay. We have suggested that the officers of this Division would do well to study the schedules published in the O. R. T. Journal. The railway operator and the radio man have this in common, that in addition to being telegraphers they have to be familiar with a vast number of regulations of a semi-technical nature. On top of this, of course, the radiotelegraphist must be some sort of an electrician. Hence the minimums of certain commercial telegraph companies, should not be applicable to this service, the qualifications required not being comparable.

But few changes have taken place on

But few changes have taken place on the west coast stations since the Division was started. The half-yearly change-over at Triangle Island occurred in September and the present inhabitants of that forlorn "outpost of empire," Bros. Daniels, Crow and McTavish, have the doubtful distinction of being the last to inscribe their names on the roll of fame that exists on the rocky isle. The station will be dismantled in a few weeks' time, being replaced by another now in course of erection in a less isolated location, and Triangle Island, long the buybear of this service, will be returned to its original owners, the birds.

Well, he had lots of practice with ammunition messages at Chateau D'Acq. Bro. Emmerson has been so busy with his engines lately that one fears his garden will have suffered.

A bouquet was handed to Bro. Harris at Point Grey (Vancouver) for his good work in helping to save the steamer Princess Beatrice, when she ran aground at Texada Island one night last month. The manager of the steamship company, Capt. Troup wrote a very appreciative letter.

We wonder whether the call-letters VAN, which are available for issue, will be reserved for the powerful radio station which is to be built near Vancouver this year. This being our birthday, we make the government a present of the sugges-

We intend to spread ourselves over a column of the Journal as frequently as weather permits. We realize our literary shortcomings very keenly, but our gifted brothers might palliate the horror by supplying the material. #### THE AUTOMATIC BUGABOO

THE AUTOMATIC BUGABOO

By Chas. Shea

The prevailing uneasiness among press telegraphers, brought about by the indiscriminate installation of the automatic printer, recalls to my mind the days of 1905, when the Western Union introduced the first "Barclay" machine. We were somewhat perturbed in those days—the common expression being, "guess we'll all have to look for other jobs," but up to this time I haven't heard of the machine driving any one out of the business—it would have been a God's blessing if it had. I recall that I had my eye on a milk wagon job during the "flare up" of '05, and I often think of the serious mistake I made by not hopping the cart and "pull-in' the bell cord over the back of old Dobbin".

Milk dispensers place a premium on intelligence; they pay their drivers a commission, in addition to their regular stipend, on increased effort—a consideration unknown in the telegraph field. Milk tion unknown in the telegraph field. Milk wagon drivers receive more pay than do press telegraphers.

Since the first of the year automatic printers have been installed at Fort Wayne and Gary, Ind.; The Drovers' Journal, Chicago; Battle Creek and on two papers at Grand Rapids. Elkhart and South Bend, Ind., switched from one leased wire service to another, evidently to escape the printer.

escape the printer.

Thousands of dollars have been spent during the past fifteen years in efforts to improve the printer, and I do not believe its most ardent advocate would have the hardhood to say that a great deal of progress has been made.

"We have a machine coming out nardinood to say that a great deal of progress has been made.

"We have a machine coming out SHORTLY that will work from either end of the wire; it will print, upper and lower case; supply all the punctuations (none of which the present machine does); it will be a revelation".

I have heard this statement for the past fifteen years but I am still waiting for the machine, and when they get it they will be taking a step backward, as compared to the efficiency of the present day press telegrapher, and it should not be difficult to convince any newspaper proprietor of this fact.

Of course, if the press associations, either through choice or intimidation, have joined those who are enveloped in a riot of greed, to make serfs of producers, common sense will have to be adjourned and other methods applied.

and other methods applied.

Law Complied With

The Federal Department of Labor will take no further action at present in regard to the dispute between the employes and management of the Canadian National Rallways, arising out of President D. B. Hanna's "no politics" order. When asked with regard to Mr. Hanna's letter to the department, in which he refuses to change his policy, Senator G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, merely stated that the department was through for the present.

"The law has been complied with," said the minister. "A board of concillation was applied for, held its investigation and made its report. It remains for the parties to the dispute to say what they are going to do in regard to the findings of the board. The employes have practically expressed their readiness to accept the majority report, as well as the report in which all three members of the conciliation board concur. Mr. Hanna and Senator Robertson expressed surprise that Mr. Hanna should have allowed his letter to the deputy minister of labor to be published before a copy of it was received at the department.—Ottawa Citisen.

POSTAL EXTENDS LINES
The Postal has completed an extension of its lines 300 miles in length on the east coast of Florida. Offices have been opened at Daytona, West Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale and Miami. The offices at these points have been fitted up in strictly first class shape with the Postal's latest modern equipment.

The Postal has also opened new offices at Okmulgee and Shawnee, Okla.

CANADIAN PRESS MINIMUM

If the Canadian Press members can negotiate a schedule calling for a minimum of $45 per week for day work what ought the union press committees be able to do in the direction of establishing a higher minimum in the United States?

The minimum scale for press work in the United States is $40 per week. This is entirely too low. An operator can make as much as $40 per week without working any over time in most of the big offices of the Postal and Western Union. And it's a matter of common notoriety that any amount of railroads pay better than $40 per week.

it's a matter of common notoriety that any amount of railroads pay better than $40 per week.

Press work is the highest skilled telegraphy there is and the highest salaries ought to be paid for this class of work.

Broker operators are paid far better than press operators. Brokers operators also work shorter hours and never have to work on any of the holidays, but get their pay the same as if they had worked.

The night minimum union scale in the United States is only $45.50 per week for six nights. Where a night operator works 7 nights a week on a minimum job Sunday night is figured as over time. The night minimum is also entirely too low.

There never was a time since leased wires and the code were introduced that minimum day press jobs were not worth more than $40 per week and minimum night jobs worth more than $45.50.

The maximum jobs are not paying enough either. Both the minimum and maximum salaries ought to pay more. We have had a good lesson from our Canadian brothers and we ought to profit by their example.

example.

Let's do it next time our union committees start their negotiations.

BANDITS KILL TELEGRAPHER
Lubbock, Texas.—J. Eugar Crait, night operator at the Santa Fe railway passenger operator at the Santa Fe railway passenger station at this place, was killed by two masked bandits at 4 o'clock in the morning of Feb. 25th, after the bandits had demanded that Craft open the money safe which he told them he could not do because he did not know the combination. Craft's father, who resides in Lorenzo county, arrived in Lubbock on the same day after his son was murdered and accompanied the body home for burial. Young Craft was a member of the Elks, who took charge of the funeral.

A few days after the murder a suspect was arrested and is said to have confessed killing Craft, implicating two other men. The prisoner was hurried away to another town because of threatened mob violence.

Deceased was about sixty years old. He is survived by his widow.

"Billy" Marshall, as he was familiarly known, was a splendid man and a fine operator. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He possessed many fine qualities. Those who knew him deeply mourn his passing away. He was formerly connected with the Cella Commission Company at St. Louis, Mo. At one time he was traveling representative for that firm with headquarters at Dallas, Texas. Later he was employed by Wagner & Co., Chicago. Many years ago he was with the Western Union at Memphis and used to send press out of the Memphis office in the days when the Western Union handled the Associated Press report. He was formerly a member of the C. T. U. A. About nine years ago Marshall went to San Antonio from Chicago and went to work for the Western Union there, where he was employed until about two years ago, when he entered the service of the San Antonio Cotton Exchange. He was in the employ of the Exchange at the time of his death.

about time they were making preparations to accept this invitation.

The union press divisions have carried their load and the A. P. mens load for a long time. It's about time the A. P. men were carrying their own load. There's an old saying that "God Almighty helps those that help themselves."

A. P. men can profit by the example of the unionized press divisions. When will they take advantage of the golden opportunity that now presents itself?

There's nothing the matter with the C. T. U. A. if you are a sour non and do not like the way the C. T. U. A. does business, why don't you join it and show the officers of the organization some of your wisdom? your wisdom?

your wisdom?

The world was not made in a day. Neither was the C. T. U. A. No man is perfect; no government is perfect; human ature is not perfect; human society is not perfect; the C. T. U. A. is not perfect; neither is a non perfect. The way to try to bring about perfection in anything is to put forth a little energy and enthusiasm and do the best you can.

Common sense is a great asset. We want to organize the A. P. men thoroughly and we want a schedule with the A. P. It's up to the A. P. men to go to work and endeavor to bring about this much-desired result.

desired result.

Go to it.
A. P. MEMBER, New York, Mar. 1.

A. P. OPERATORS

Why should we A. P. operators wait for some other division of the C. T. U. A., to organize us? Haven't we got brains and pride enough to organize ourselves? We, organized ourselves once before, so why can't we do so again?

can't we do so again?

I do not believe any sensible A. P. operator will deny the fact that we are badly in need of thorough organization.

Operators in other branches of the telegraph service have supported the C. T. U. A., when its strength was at a very low ebb. I am sorry to admit that the A. P. operators did not contribute the proper share of support to the union when it sorely needed our aid. However, the C. T. U. A., has thrived and grown and is still growing by leaps and bounds in spite of the fact that A. P. operators as a class taye falled to properly support it since the 1907 strike.

The unionized press committees have gone to New York year in and year out.

The unionised press committees have gone to New York year in and year out, getting the wage scale in the press service increased and improving working conditions all around. During this time the A. P. operators have done absolutely nothing towards trying to improve working conditions and increase salaries in the press service. I know that I speak the truth because I work for the A. P. and am thoroughly acquainted with conditions in that service. We are told nearly every month in the Journal that the union press committees have regulated A. P. salaries for a long time. Nobody but a stupid person would deny this fact. It is a matter of common notoriety that every time the union press committees secure a new schedule with increased salaries, the A. P. immediately meets the union scale. The union committees spend their hard-earned money and give freely of their valuable time and energy in negotiating the schedules. The A. P. operators do nothing but REAP THE BENEFIT OF THE EFFORTS OF THE UNION COMMITTEES.

ABE AT HIS BEST

Lincoln understood jawbone; he is probably the only lawyer who ever did. There is a Lincoln story which illustrates the thought back of this article better than anything else we call to mind.

Two parties got into a dispute over a cow. They went to court. The man having a little the better of the dispute retained Lincoln; the other party retained a brilliant gentleman who was famous for his ability to sway juries with his eloquence.

when it came time to address the jury Lincoln's adversary talked for three solid hours. He talked about everything but the legal point involved. He discussed cowology in all its ramifications; he pointed out that the cow was a foster mother of man, that she nourished the babe in swaddling clothes and fed the old man tottering to his grave.

old man tottering to his grave.

It was a hot July afternoon. The jury shifted from one position to another. It squirmed, it fidgeted, but nothing could appease that flow of cow oratory.

When Lincoln arose to reply, the jury shuddered and lapsed back to listen to another three hours of cow. But not Lincoln!

another three nours of countries of coln!

"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "I have concluded to adopt the tactics of my honorable opponent and submit this case without argument!"

And then he sat down. There was a titter, a giggle, then a shout of laughter. The jury filed out. People thought Lincoln was a fool, or else too lazy to argue on such an afternoon. But Lincoln got the verdict. He understood the law of towhome. the verd ever produced charmed the audience with his great speech.

Lincoln spoke but a very few minutes. Today his speech runs in the minds of hundreds of thousands of Americans. But at that time it was looked upon as a failure, a disgrace to the nation. People then had not learned the lesson of jawbone.

THE DESERTER

THE DESERTER

History depicts no creature more contemptible than the deserter. As an example of craven cowardice he stands alone. All nations of the world declare that the man who deserts under fire is not fit to live and commune with his fellow-countrymen, and the firing squad at sunrise mercifully ends an existence that is unfit to contaminate the earth.

Labor unions do not use the firing squad to the end that the life of the deserter is demanded, but we do brand with the mark of shame and infamy those who betray our cause by desertion.

The man or woman who deserts their regular organization whether in time of strike or to form a dual destructive organization deserves the contempt and enmity of every decent member of society.

Deserters are welcomed by the boss and used for the present only. He is neither loved nor is he a hero. The employer knows that he is a deserter from nis own ranks and is therefore a creature void of dependence and wholly untrustworthy.

The deserter not only helps to destroy his own army on the industrial field, but he destroys his own economic life as well. He willingly, because of his cowardly, inhuman attitude, destroys the conditions under which he and his fellow workers have a degree of independence. He would throw the entire trade into a position of absolute chaos and would leave all who toil at the mercy of the employer's greed.

We are, economically, in the hands of those whom we have made rich by our labor. We are in the hands of a class of people who would starve to death if they compelled to live upon the fruits of their own labor.

WHAT SCABS WON'T DO

No scab would write back home and say:
"Dear mother, I am scabbing;
I'm working here in a vile bull pen
At the only job worth grabbing.
I work, eat, sleep, here on the job;
Am penned in like a crook,
And have armed guards protecting me
From the men whose job I took."

Nor would he write to Molly Dun And say: "My Molly, dear, I want to prove myself a man, And that is why I'm here. I'm praying for the day to come When you and I shall wed; I know, dear, you agree with me, "Tis best to scab for bread."

Nor would he take his little kids
And place them on his knees,
And tell with pride of the time he scabbed
On men who would be free.
But the man who fights for his union cause

May tell with keenest pride,

His dear old mother, way back home,
Or the girl he would make his bride,

Exactly what his pursuit is;
He has no cause for shame;
And the kiddles, too, are glad to hear
Of the days when dad was game.

THE LITTLE BIG MAN

There are people we all of us know Who give us a personal pain. There are people who weary us so— The silly, the solemn, the vain; But of all the folks that I detest, Since meeting with mortals began, Is The Little Big Man.

But never a king on a throne, A president, sultan or khan, One-half the importance has shown Of The Little Big Man.

But here is the funniest thing: I don't understand it, do you? I have shaken the fist of a king, And have dined with a president, too. And the bigger they happen to be The easier see them you can;

UNIVERSAL SERVICE ELECTION FRANK B. POWERS, Minneapolis, Minn., general chairman.

MOULTON B. NORTON, Chicago, secretary-treasurer.

This is the ticket that Universal Service division elected in January for the present

Out of a total membership of 58 in the division, only 26 votes were cast in this election.

Powers received 26 votes and Norton received 26 votes.

Powers was formerly general chairman of the United Press division. He has a wide and varied experience as a union committeeman. Universal Service did well to elect Powers general chairman. While general chairman of the United Press divi Powers served that body well and fully. He has a splendid record as faithfully. He has a general chairman.

Norton has been secretary-treasurer and committeeman of Universal Service over two years. His record in this capacity is a most excellent one and he has done yeoman service for the division.

Electing men to serve a division as officials and committeemen is a very important matter. Members should never shirk their duty by not voting when an election of this kind takes place.

Congratulations are hereby extended to Messrs. Powers and Norton.

THOUGHTS AND THINGS

Now and then some ruthless iconoclast comes along and topples over all your kings and knights and household gods and you grow very angry with the idolbreaker for showing up the worthlessness of your sacred things. So this writer does not court your ill-feeling. He seeks to avoid it by quoting to you the latest inside information given, confidentially, to his "clients" by Roger Babson, famous Wall Street financial expert and oracle of the employing class."

"The war taught the employing class," wrote Mr. Babson, in part, "the secret and the power of widespread propagands. We have learned. We have the schools; we have the pulpit. The employing class owns the press. There is practically no important paper in the United States but its theirs!

"English labor," continues Mr. Babson. "has come out of the war with great gains. English labor was ready to wring advantage out of the war. United States labor wanted to do so, but it had not lived the life needful to that end."

Comment on the two paragraphs above is superfluous. They are not the ravings of a Red agitator, nor the incautious utterances of some drunken middle-class nonenity. They are the carefully weighed words of a man who charges big money for such advice; whose word is accepted by employers as unquestionably authentic. Telegraphers! Learn to "live the life!"

Two predictions of this "prophet," carried in these columns since the "year"

Two predictions of this "prophet," carried in these columns since the year started, have come true: One, that Western Union wages would be cut; the other, that the proffer of American farmers to that the proffer of American farmer to give vast quantities of grain to the starving people of Europe would be rejected. These prophecies were not "guesses." Plainly, unorganized Western Union men could expect nothing but wage reduction; equally as plain was it that, since the railways nor anyone else could make money on the noble generosity of the money on the noble generosity of the farmers, the starving Europeans might well continue starving. Two and two still make four.

The New Republic is running a series on "The Labor Spy." Every telegrapher should read these articles. A good follow-up would be Upton Sinclair's "100% The Story of a Patriot." (Upton Sinclair, Pasadena, Cal.) It is extremely interesting to learn the methods used by corporation spies in thrusting themselves into our unions, attempting to gain control and ultimately bring about disruption. These vile snakes can do no harm to unions of educated workers. Get an education!

What remark did you make when you learned that the thousands of cases of condensed milk sold to France by the United States army after the armistice had been shipped to the U. S. and been re-sold? France needed the milk; America had no use for it. Puzzle it out for yourself, along the line of "the law of supply and demand."

Once in every ten years or so, the word goes out from the "invisible government" and simultaneously, throughout Americabegins the periodical "shake-down" that takes away your half-paid-for home, your savings and other "superfluous possessions" and starts you back on the vicious circle with nothing but super-abundant hopes. It is a splendid system and breeds enormous respect for "Americanism."

You must like this periodical shakedown, or you wouldn't stand for it. You are of the great, overwhelming majority. Organized, you are invincible.

Stop whimpering when other men scrub their feet on you, starve your babes and ruin your daughters!

Organise and fight for your life!

England and France have been caught in the act of trying to induce our government, without our knowledge, to cancel their debts to America. If this money would benefit the oppressed of Europe, American labor would demand the debt be cancelled. We know better. This money must not be turned into powder and shells to be hurled at American soldiers in some future war!

Art Young, America's greatest cartoonist, has started a bi-monthly labor magazine of humor, to take the place of such periodicals as Life and Judge. The new publication, "Good Morning," printed at 7 E. 15th St., New York, bears the union label and is worth all the labor-hating "funny" magazines combined.

How envious must be the spirit of Abraham Lincoln—assuming he is able to understand present-day occurrences—as he looks down upon the martyrs of our time and reflects that he was never privileged to go to jall! The latest of our great men to face incarceration is Judge Ben Lindsey—sentenced to twelve months! Surely, the time will come when our children will turn away from us in shame because their cowardly fathers never had the courage to go to jall!

The last witness against Thomas J. Mooney, San Francisco labor leader, has long ago confessed. All those who testified against him, including police, have exposed the ghastly frame-up. Men high in public life have investigated and delared the case unquestionably a frame-up. But Mooney still tolls in jail and is denied the sweet sunshine and clean air. This, too, inspires overwhelming veneration for the "New Americanism."

Justice? Read the records of the courts. See how witnesses are intimidated and brutally treated or simply bought, that men utterly innocent of guilt might be "railroaded" to appease the spite of those close to the "powers that be."

This writer is descended from pure American revolutionary stock and loves America. But does not this invoke the obligation to rid America of the caarism and Prussianism which allens seek to foist upon us—nay, have already fastened upon our backs?

Now, here's another puzzle to wrack your wearled brain. Mathematics. Addition: One overwhelming need for homes, oversurplus of land, plus an oversurplus of plus an oversurplus of materials, plus an labor—equals? Homes? No, that's a silly answer. This is America, not Utopia! Anyway, dig in and think it over. No new building yet.

Without doubt, the most ridiculous figure on earth is a merchant or professional man who "whoops it up" for the open shop and permits himself to be used in the fight against labor. For as labor prospers, the merchant and professional man prosser. Prosperous workers pay their bills—or buy for cash.

The only explanation is that such man-

The only explanation is that such merchants and professional men as do join the opposition to labor, do so because they are incurable toadles and worship no god but gold—even though it be held by the "higher-ups."

Meanwhile the small business and professional men are being crowded into the ranks of labor by trusts, syndicates, combines, chain stores, etc.

Kept writers can't pass up the chance to exude more honied praise for John D., because of his recent gift of $70,000,000 to his General Educational Board. However, this money is to be used mainly to help increase wages of college and university teachers. Of these funds, which are invested in dividend-paying stocks and bonds, the Industrial Relations Commission self. sion said:

"The funds . . . by every right, belong to the American people."

Meanwhile, might an over-bold, "un-kept" scribbler ask:

"Is it not true that who pays the piper calls the tune?

"Would it not be well to keep an eye on the SOURCES of our (mis) education?"

Among the other great religious institutions which have indorsed the principle of collective bargaining and labor's right to organize is the Y. W. C. A. The fine, big-hearted, trained and educated women who manage the affairs of the organization know what American girls need to protect them. But employers have different ideas. Many of them "employ" girls only as a trap. They don't want any union agitators butting in to spoil fine; "privileges" with the bodies of the young girls over whom they have domination.

Which reminds one of the Pittsburgh scandal which was probably suppressed in most alleged newspapers. The vice-president of the Employers' Association of Pittsburgh, in a letter to the membership of 300 employers, advised against contributing to the Y. W. C. A., because of its industrial policy. The Employers' Association of Pittsburgh, needless to say, is employing an "open shop" propaganda at present. Further comment is unnecessary.

Southern cotton mills workers superior to W. U. telegraphers? Incredible!

Recently the Charlotte, N. C., cotton cars posted notice of extension of the hours from 54 to 60 a week. All next day the whistles tooted at intervals, but the cotton mill "hands" had strangely grown deaf. The cars promptly backed down and sent for the Textile Workers' Union committee. committee.

President Finley, of the Southern Railway, branded his telegraphers as of little importance in operation of the road. Mr. Finley died because an operator failed to deliver the order that would have saved his train from being wrecked.

President Milton Smith, of the L. & N. Railway, made many dire threats and hundreds of noble, brave, generous, intelligent men and women lost their jobs because of Mr. Smith's attitude toward collective bargaining. Mr. Smith lived to see his railroad operating under a scheduled agreement with the Order of Railroad Telegraphers—as Mr. Finley's Southern Railway is operating.

The men who work for the A. P., Postal and Western Union without carrying C. T. U. A. cards are, I believe, not less brave or generous than their fellow-telegraphers of the railroads. But they are to say the least, less intelligent. Finley's and Smith's "bogey man" — discharge — proved vague and meaningless when their telegraphers joined the union and laughed at threats. Carlton's, Mackay's and Garges' "bogey man" has even less substance.

The real question is not: "Are commercial telegraphers child-minded"—but: "Are YOU (the individual who tries to hide behind the mass) honest and mature-minded yourself? Think it over. Spineless simpletons are the laughing stock (rightly or wrongiy) of real men and women. You can afford to be pitted and laughed at for many things—but not for lack of manhood or womanhood. Stand up atraight! or womanhood. Stand up straight!

THE PASSING OF WOOZEY FUNK By "Little Redfoot"

Woosey Funk was an old, broken down wreck of a telegrapher. So decrepit and worn was Woosey that, as he walked down the street he reminded one of nothing so much as a half-vitalized parenthesis mark. His clothing, shabby as it was and patched in the seat, gave one the queer thought that some absent-minded bootblack had polished the back of his coat and trousers rather than his shoes.

But it was in Woosey's face, head and hands that the observer read what we call by courtesy, the man. Long, twisted fingers, like talons, with blue veins standing out, face seamed, 'he mouth toothless and the eyes shifty as a "suck-egg" dog's. But his head was his glory: fringed with a dignified iron grey, Woosey's marble-like dome shone—and it was the only clean thing about him—as a beacon light to a lost and bewildered world.

Merely to recollect the details of Woose lost and bewildered world.

Merely to recollect the details of Woozey's appearance forces the most hardened Bolsheviks among us to a cracked, crazy sort of laughter. The sort of laughter one of our muck-raking writers must have given vent to just before fainting at sight of the manner in which a hog was hoisted, stuck and butchered in a Chicago stock-yard. And, at that, some similarity between the history of a porker and the history of Woozey does exist. He was born, perhaps, a beautiful baby, squealing delightedly at his mother's breast; growing fat and strong as little boys are wont to do—even as pigs insist on doing—despite hard treatment and coarse fare. And then, grown almost to manhood, Woozey was seized as a juicy, delectable morsel, hoisted, by an elevator, to a great telegraph office and there sucked dry of all the energy, force and love of life that was in him........... no refer that a $3,000,000 game preserve might be kept in ship-shape for a great telegraph magnate. a great telegraph magnate.

We might carry the parallel still further. Like the pig, Woosey dreamed of great destinies and wonderful fields of conquest.....and his dreams were always for himself alone. He was content, for the time, to eat of the slop and refuse. But at the point where the sticking process came in, the pig and Woosey part company: for the pig bit, twisted, screamed and fought for his life, while Woosey pretended to like his fate and betrayed others into the slaughter pens of his oppressors. When, by chance, some rebellious boar tore a hole through the pig pen, all the pigs would escape. But when some human boar ripped down the fences guarding the human slave pens, Woozey set up a mighty squeal that brought the masters granted.

But this must be a brief yarn and we must skip many years......Forty years had Woosey served faithfully and at the end of that time would have been pensioned had not a chief operator of greater cunning than Woosey's, noted this fact on the day before his pension would begin and fired him for putting the wrong number on a telegram.

the day before his pension would begin and fired him for putting the wrong number on a telegram.

So, at the opening of the story, we find Woosey, in dead winter, strolling down that same old Broadway he had so often trod as conquering hero, seeking a warm place to escape the hitter winds and sleetcold rain. The saloons were of the dead past but better spiritual comfort was to be had in side-street missions. Thither drifted Woosey, entering as a fat, complacent gentleman was rising to begin his discourse. Woosey, blear-eyed though he was, recognized the speaker—a high official of his former employing company. He realized that, in seeking warmth, he had blundered into an "open shop" rally .... but so far into the depths had he sunk that nothing longer mattered. He settled down in a comfortable seat, nor heeded the sniffing of noses and quiet removal of those seated near him.

"This is a free land, so bequeathed us by our noble forefathers and so it will be maintained, though the rivers run with blood", the speaker was saying in a high squeaky voice. He consulted a bit of paper, adding:
"We affirm most solemnly the right of per, adding:

"We affirm most solemnly the right of every worker to labor where and when he please and at whatever wage he think just: nor will we ever permit walking delegates......

Here, poor Woosey drifted off to dream land, even while his alleged mind still mulled over this noble pronouncement of mulled over this noble pronouncement of principles.

So, Woosey dreamed.....and in his dream-land he found the beautiful Utopia of the Open Shoppers—a land of splendor and joy forever. Woosey, in dream-land, was still old.....but he knew his rights. He strode to the "main office," brushed aside those who would hinder him, and faced the Big Cheese.

"Sir," he said, "I have returned to claim my great American privileges. I am willing to work for what I get. At the same time"—and his voice grew to a thunderous roar that caused the Big Cheese to grow pale and cower in his seat—"I demand the right to work where and when I please and at a wage set by myself.

and when I please and at a wage set by myself.
"I choose," he continued in a lower yet commanding voice," to work the first Philly circuit, three hours a day, and I demand pay at the rate of $5 an hour. Also I insist that I be not compelled or even asked to work holidays, Sundays or feast days."

"But," pleaded the B. C., "the Philly circuits have been put in the mux."
"Then take 'em out."

"Then take 'em out."

"Then take 'em out."

"And we have too many men now...."

"Not my lookout. And cut the arguing. I refuse to bargain with you in any way. This is America and individual contracts go here. You are a sniveling interloper—trying to insinuate your dirty form between me and the $,000 stock-holders of this company. I state my terms. If bargaining is necessary, I'll bargain with the stockholders as individuals. Meanwhile, I refuse to recognise you, since you are plainly a walking delegate, hired to stir up trouble. Furthermore, I refuse to pay you graft as I did in the old days, for the privilege of working."

Working."
Woosey threw the office spittoon full into the B. C.'s face and strode to the operating room.
"Put me on the payroll at $15 a day, three-hour day," he told the timekeeper.

The chour day," he told the timekeeper, in passing.

He ordered the wire chief to set up a circuit, meanwhile throwing the traffic supervisors out of the window, whence they sailed twenty-two stories to the street and were picked up with shovels.

Three hours later, having sent six telegrams, Woosey breezed by, collected his $15, and strode down the street. Walking being not to his liking, he boarded a car. "Ten cents, please," said the conductor, as Woosey handed him a nickle.

"A nickel it is," Woozey growled.

"A dime or get off," the con. pursued.
"I decline to bargain with you, sir," harked Woosey. "This is a land of individual contract. If I am to deal with the 7,600 stockholders of this traction system through an agent, it will be through an agent of MY selection and from the ranks of the stockholders themselves. I refuse to bargain with any mere hireling of an outsider."

Despairingly the con, moved on.

outsider."

Despairingly the con. moved on.
At the City National corner Woosey dropped off and entered that imposing structure. Straight to the cashier, past all flunkeys, he walked....by now, rather pompously.

"I want," and Woosey's voice was hard and supercilious, "I want, my dear sir, the sum of $1,000 for twelve months, without interest."

The cashier pressed a button.

without interest."

The cashier pressed a button.
"Officer," he said, smoothly, "remove this lunatic."

With an angry roar Woosey re-stated his needs, adding:
"You're all crasy and think this is Russia, you do! Well, sir, I've stated my terms and you'll give the money over now or I'll take it. I refuse to bargain with an impudent upstart of an outsider. I will argue only with the stockholders themselves!"

He idly counted the bills as he walked

He idly counted the bills as he walked back into the sunlight. But, was it sunlight? No; it had grown suddenly dark and there were many stars out. Strangely, woozey found himself counting them. Angrily, he noted that while many birds were singing, the roar of lions drowned their sweet chirruping. Then.....

Woozey came back to earth confusedly. On either side large, brass-buttoned gentlemen were propelling him. Soon he faced a magistrate.

"Disturbing a public meeting, your Honor," said the arresting officer.

"Thirty days!" His Honor commented, briefly.

"But it was an Open Shop meeting, your Honor," expostulated the cop.
"THIRTY YEARS," roared the great man. "This country has no room for Bolsheviks. Take him away before I find a statute that allows me to send him to the electric chair!"

And so poor Woozey died at Sing Sing, and his body was carved up by medical students. So, after all, he accomplished one useful service in the world and added a bit to the sum total of knowledge. On his brain, which was dwarfed and decayed from disuse, the medical students found the stamp of his servitude—the letters:

found the stamp of his servitude—the letters:
"A. W. U. E."
"Well," commented the chief surgeon, "this is a very unusual case in some respects, but in others it is typical of men who telegraph under inhuman conditions. These fellows, you know, working from twelve to fourteen hours a day, distinguishing 625 sounds a minute and transcribing 80 words at the same time..... it's pretty bad, but what could you expect?"
"While there are no papers to prove it

"While there are no papers to prove it by," the chief surgeon concluded, "it is pretty safe to say, by the condition of his brain, that he abhorred any mention of the union of his craft—the C. T. U. A."

WHY DO WE WANT ORGANIZATION? By N. R. Derry. EX-MINER.

Why do we want organization? The question is asked not infrequently by the non-member. He does not say it in such a direct manner; his employer has "trained" him differently. But I am not attacking the non. The poor fellow needs education and is really looking for information. Let us ask ourselves this question. Why do we want organization; and especially at this time?

I found the answer in this morning's paper. In a general way, the attitude of the railroad magnates should serve as an answer. Where would railroad employes be today, were it not for organization? Would there be such a thing as a Railroad Labor Board if railorad employes were not

One thing the non will do, as does his employer, is to attack the integrity of our union. Why does the non do this? Why does he evade the issue, just as his employer does, if perchance he is hailed before an investigating committee? Their attitude is identical, but their reasons differ. The employer answers questions in an illogical way, while the non who usually asks illogical questions, does so in fear of his employer. It is nothing else but fear that makes a non what he is. Any worker who doesn't want to improve his working conditions is indeed foolish.

We want an organization then to eliminate the non; to make him a thing of rarity, of the Smithsonian variety. In this supposed advanced stage of civilization there is where he should be today.

We want an organization particularly at this time to offset the monarchial, industrially vicious trend of a capitalistic minority—don't forget it is a minority—that would abrogate our constitutional rights, if possible.

that would abrogate our constitutional rights, if possible.

We want organization for defense purposes; for the great battle of tomorrow into which union labor will be drawn. American standards must not be lowered. We want organization in the C. T. U. A. to get the working percentage our worthy President desires; and which we as individual members desire.

We want organization to increase our membership not 80 or 90 percent, but 100 percent. We want a 100 percent organization; this is not impossible by any means, brothers and sisters.

We want organization to schedule the Postal and Western Union telegraph companies in the shortest time possible. Past events dictate the necessity of this.

And we want organization to raise the living standards of the commercial teleg-living standards of the commercial telegrapher.

Unless organized, Mr. Non-member, you cannot hope for alleviation of the chaotic conditions in the telegraph business. A house divided against itself cannot stand, and neither can you, unless you get into the organization that is furthering your interest to the extent of the patronage you give it. That organization is The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America. Think it over.

BECAUSE SHE WORKED AFTER MARRIAGE

My married life has proven a failure and I am just beginning to realize a mistake I made which helped to make it a failure.

When I married Ted I was working in a large confectionery store, where I when I married Ted I was working in a large confectionery store, where I was head lady, and earning $60 per month. Ted was working as bookkeeper for an oil firm at one hundred and twenty-five dollars a month. I knew he was a liberal fellow, and didn't save a cent. But I thought that after we married I could help him to save. And I did try real hard. When he drew his pay, every two weeks, I tried to encourage him to pay all bills before he did anything else. But he believed in keeping the cash and waiting until he was pressed for the bills, and then, of course, the cash would be gone. I then refused to run any more bills and started a cash system, but this did not work either, as Ted often brought home things which he said were paid for and later it leaked out they were not.

We were living in furnished apartments only two blocks from where I had worked. One day my former boss asked me to work for him again. At first I refused, but later I thought it over, and it seemed a pretty good idea. I could work, and at the same time keep up my housework, and the money I earned I could save. Ted would not listen to such a proposition at first, but I finally talked him into seeing it my way. I arranged my hours so I could be home with Ted for meals and he thought we were happier than ever. "We are much better pals this way," he used to say, I was obliged to work a great many evenings and Ted would be out with his old associates until time to call for me. He naturally got into the habit of spending his money with them just like he had done before. I saw so little of his money that I quite often used of my own to pay for little things. Then it wasn't long before I was buying my own clothes and paying laundry and telephone bills rather than be dunned by collectors. On several occasions I had words with Ted and reminded him of his negligence. Such outbursts on my part were very unsatisfactory, as Ted was always kind to me, and no matter how enraged I became he never spoke a cross word to me.

We lived in this manner over two y

We lived in this manner over two years and then I wanted to go home to visit my people. I was getting thoroughly discouraged with life as it was. During those few months I was home I realized many things; first, that Ted could not be made over, and that he must always be a reckless spendthrift, although he possessed so many rood qualities. But hebe a reckless spendthrift, although he possessed so many good qualities. But, because he preferred to ruin his life spending more than he earned was no reason why I too, should ruin my life, especially when I was so willing to work, or live economically. So I wrote and explained it all to Ted. I told him if he could not turn over a new leaf I might just as well stay where I was and be divorced from him. I thought perhaps this would bring him to his senses, but it failed to make the right impression. He simply thought I no longer loved him and wished for a divorce. He took what money he could get together and left the city.

Our letters became few and far between, and after a year and no more letters, I applied for my divorce. It is all over with us now, but I can never forget it.

with us now, but I can never forget it.

My advice to any girl is not to work after she is married. It is not right. Her duty is to her home and she should be her husband's companion every day when he is through with his work. Make home a place where he will long to go as soon as he leaves the office, and always try to look your best. This cannot be done if you are all tired out from cares and troubles of other places. A man wants a home when he gets married and if he fails to keep up the expenses, do your best to reform him, but don't go out and earn the wages if he is able bodied. It is not a wife's duty. I tried and failed.—Physical Culture.

MAKE DOLLARS FIGHT FOR YOU

Today union men often spend' $40 a month to destroy unionism where they give $1 a month to build up unionism.

give $1 a month to build up unionism.

The union men of this country, as a body, spend no less than $1,500,000,000 a year to purchase the necessities of life.

Every dollar of that immense sum that its spent for non-union goods is spent to break down the unions.

When a strike is on, union men all over the country send their contributions to support the strike.

They do all in their power to support their brother unionists when they seem to be in trouble, but the little strike which you aid here or there by contributions is nothing compared with the evil your millions of dollars do in supporting non-union products.

When a unionist spends $40 a month lions of dollars do in supporting nonunion products.

When a unionist spends $40 a month buying scab products, he is trying with a great big hand to pull down the unionism which his poor little dollar of dues to his union is trying to build up.

When a union man gives a dollar a month to support his union, he is very proud of himself as a good unionist. He thinks himself a philanthropist. Perhaps he thinks that miserable dollar a month will build up a powerful trade union movement.
But it never can while he continues to put many dollars a month into ten-cent stores and the purchasing of the products of prison and scab labor which is cutting the very ground from under his union.

The union label is the symbol of efficiency, of honest endeavor, of a square deal, of industrial peace in the life of the nation. It appeals to the potency of the purchasing power of the toilers, in the elimination of the sweatshops, of child labor, of prison contract labor and underpaid labor in general.

When the weather is wretched the poor turkey buzzard sits and shivers miserably. It can't build a nest then. It is the foolest of fool birds. But it is not quite such a fool as the workingman who doesn't join the union in flush times; he doesn't need to. In hard times he can't.

The Journal is not responsible for views expressed in this department by correspondents. Contributions should, if possible, be limited to 500 words and in no case exceed 1,000.

Oshkosh, Wis., March 4th, '21.

Mr. Paul Schnur, Sec'y.

Chicago.

Dear Sir and Bro .:

After two or three years of agreement among union men that we MUST organize the A. P., I am very much elated to know that someone has fallen back upon the old principle, "money talks" and started an organizers' fund. This means, at least, that the A. P. operators will have more than a written invitation to affiliate with organized labor. organized labor.

There was never a time in history that it was as necessary for the workers, in all lines of endeavor, to organize, as it is today.

The war made 32,000 new millionaires and added immensely to the bank rolls of other swollen fortunes.

For fear the ending of the war would decrease the incomes of the money barons, they immediately propagated the "American plan"—America—There is no word in the English language that has been prostituted, like that of the name of our country.

Patriotism and 100 percent Americanism is a stock phrase among the element that remained at home and waved the flag and copped the swag. It is with this element that organized labor has to deal.

This element reminds me of the big dog in the fifth reader, I think it was, while crossing a bridge with a big hunk of meat in his mouth the dog saw his shadow and snapping at his own reflection, in an effort to get hold of what he thought was another beefsteak, he lost the hunk he possessed. This is what will, some day, happen to our "pay-trioteers".

I hope every press telegrapher will see his way clear to contribute to the organ-ization fund of the A. P. It is one of the best investments we can make.

Sincerely and Fraternally,

CHAS. SHEA,

General Chairman, U. P. Div. No. 47.

Editor Journal:

Shall we be favored in the March Journal with a report of the committee of the Toronto Joint Meeting of October 17th, 1920?

We would not at this time charge the members of that committee with side-stepping their duty in this conection, but we would assume rather that they have taken their duty seriously and have been doing it to the best of their ability, that is, "keeping it (the resolution adopted by the Joint Meeting) before other districts, to bring about this convention at the earliest possible date.

Five months will have clapsed by the time the March Journal reaches us since the Toronto Joint Meeting was held. Has the committee done nothing? Has the committee done something? Has the committee even organized itself?

We have been told that it is not so much a change in the form of our organization that is needed so much as it is a change in our head (our mind). All right, a convention in May next can be made to help us towards clearing our head for this needed change. The fight is on now. How many of us know where we are at in it? A convention in May can be made to show us. Leave the convention until October and leave it for what—the "funeral oration?"

Yours fraternally,

D. McNAUGHTEN.

SATURDAY NIGHT PRESS JOBS

SATURDAY NIGHT PRESS JOBS

It is a well defined policy of the United Press to give its regular operators the privilege of working its Saturday night jobs in preference to any other operators. The United Press a long time ago established the commendable principle that the Saturday night jobs rightfully belong to operators who are regularly in its employ. As a matter of fact, the United Press requires its regular operators to work the Saturday night jobs unless they can provide satisfactory substitutes. Even in instances where a satisfactory substitute can be provided by the regular United Press operator, the latter is always held responsible for properly covering the job. The same policy with respect to Saturday night jobs obtains in the Associated Press service.

A case arose at Houston, Texas, about Press service.

A case arose at Houston, Texas, about three months ago, in which the policy of the United Press with respect to Saturday night jobs was put to a severe test. At that time the Houston Press, an afternoon paper, installed the day leased wire service of the United Press. Up to that time the Houston Chronicle had been taking the Saturday night service only of the United Press for about fifteen years and Joe E. Johnson, manager of the Mackay Postal had been working the Saturday night job nearly ever since it was opened. As soon as the Press installed the day leased service the regular day United Press operator claimed the Saturday night job and the United Press management instructed him to work it regularly. Johnson wanted to keep the Saturday night job but the claim he made on the job availed him nothing. So the Houston Chronicle took a hand in the matter and informed the United Press that it desired to have Johnson remain on the Saturday night job. The United Press advised the Chronicle that the Saturday night job belonged to its regular day operator and that he would work it. Then the Chronicle threatened to discontinue the Saturday night service if the United Press did not retain Johnson on the job. The answer of the United Press to this threat of the Chronicle was that as long as the day leased wire service was in vogue at Houston and the Chronicle took the Saturday night service the regular day United Press opeand the chronicle took the Saturday highs service the regular day United Press operator would work the Saturday night job. This settled the matter and the Chronicle did not make good its threat and continues to take the Saturday night service.

The policy of the United Press in giving its regular operators preference with respect to the Saturday night jobs is dictated not only by a sense of fair play but also by a good business policy. The United Press can always depend on its regular operators covering the Saturday night jobs. If the latter should neglect to cover these jobs, then they are subject to the law of discipline. An operator who has a regular job with some other employer and works a Saturday night press job as a side issue cannot be disciplined in the manner that the U. P. could discipline one of its regular operators. The policy of the United Press in giving

The employer who does not recognize the right of its regular employes to any overtime that it may have to offer, in preference to outsiders, is getting away from the spirit of fair play. If such an employer has a signed contract with its employes and under such circumstances persists in giving overtime to outsiders in preference to his regular employes, then he is getting away from the spirit, if not the letter, of his contract.

"The A. P. solidly organized by June 1, 1921

Our presence in the February Journal occasioned much comment and directed Our presence in the February Journal occasioned much comment and directed attention to a number of persons on the day and night wires who were under suspicion of doing their own thinking. Feeble attempts at sarcasm met with wet blankets—this is a unionized outfit—day and night—and the few who live in the past and hope to attract favorable attention from either management or operating force by remaining out of the unique would do well to wake up. The proper person to apply to is Paul F. Schnur, acting chairman of the A. P. Division, C. T. U. A., No. 113 South Ashland Blvd., Chicago, and the dues and initiation rate to June 30 will be $4.67 or for the balance of 1921, $8.67.

In our task of organizing the Associated Press we are fayored with a higher degree of intelligence among the operating staff than that displayed by Western Union telegraphers. When the W. U. men had an opportunity to organize into a real union, they permitted themselves to be misled into a "company association"—and they are reaping their reward instake.

The Ohio State Circuits will be ready to

The Ohio State Circuits will be ready to send their representative to the management as soon as any other circuit. There is need of speed and we urge all A. P. men to line up quickly before the sharp-cutting wage-reduction knife is at their throats.

cutting wage-reduction knife is at their throats.

Among recent changes on the circuit, we note the resignation of Chris Nowell, night wire sender out of Columbus. Chris is now running at large, but we understand he will take up cement selling as a more profitable venture.

Relieving Chris at the State Journal is Mr. Pfadt, formerly of Newark, who flings a pretty mean bug himself. Wert Pressler is also at the State Journal and Lester Butler at the Dispatch.

In noting a few of the well-known "old timers" last month, we inadvertently included Miss Claudia Walters, at Springfield. Miss Walters is emphatically NOT an "old timer" but so neatly does she handle the job that an expert judge not actually present would decide otherwise. American women are beating the men at their own jobs and the place in the sun of the male dishwasher is not far distant. The entire force on the eighth floor of the Leader-News Building, Cleveland, being deposed and sworn, deny having attended the naughty shows recently visited by the police. There is much unwriteable stuff at the bottom of this.

R. H. Warnock, Elyria, reported to have gone to Hesven is now definitely known to have simply transferred to the I. N. S., when his newspaper went over to the opposition. And it might not be so far away from Heaven, after all, to be on a circuit composed of union men 100 per cent strong. We congratulate Bro.

circuit composed of union men 100 per cent strong. We congratulate Bro. Warnock.

One of the boys at Dayton is reported to have refused to take out a card. Probably has his application in for a W. U. job? Come on in, boy....ask the unionized men there whether it pays.

The correspondent is accused of placing Cincinnati in Germany by not mentioning any of the boys there last month. However, the old town hasn't seceded yet, even if the drys are trying to oust the mayor for being "lenient" on dry-law violators. We still have with us Wohlwinder, Sr., and Jr., Wilson, Ronsheim, McLarnan, Scoggin and Pairan—a pretty fair aggregation of stars.

We hear Walter Taylor on the job at Dayton occasionally, on the Saturday night wire. Walter has the g-r-r-a-n-d job now, with a broker.

In conclusion: Let's hear, in the Journal notes, from Kansas City, Dallas, St. Louis, Atlanta and Washington A. P. boys. There's some real talent in those towns with something of the spirit of "6 and '17 left in them. Take a tip from an ancient A. P. flunkey and file off the chains! Black Jack Pershing and Woodrow Wilson gave you the file!

CENTRAL NEWS NOTES

This month ye correspondent secured an This month ye correspondent secured an exclusive interview with Bill Meents, the millionaire telegraph operator of Chicago. Bill had been to Bermuda and landed in New York for a short stay. Bill returns with the following information: That Bermuda onlons are grown in Texas; Bermuda lilies come from New York and that Bermuda onions are grown in Texas; Bermuda lilies come from New York and that American profiteers must have taken their lessons from some of the gentry in Bermuda. Bill also whispers that Bermuda 18 wet—very wet. This is not a strange condition for an island surrounded by water, outside, and by something else inside. He brought back a flock of kodak pictures. See them, boys, see them. The spirit of "Let George do it" broodeth over the land. Nowhere are we able to get a nibble to our proposition that the unattached newspaper men in New York get together to form a National Press division autonomous local.

About March 15. the Central News will commence a service to a subscriber in Cleveland. The name will probably be known to all broker men—the service will be financial. This is a tip to the Cleveland sub-unit to spear the operator who will work the wire. He probably will be a man from Cincinnati whom the bunch in that village were unable to land in years. Bill Holland saye: "I notice that two dear ones had to suffer the publicity of a campaign for necessary funds through the Journal. There should be a fund in each division for such worthy purposes, or the union as a whole should provide for the collection of an emergency fund. Collecting through the Journal is an advertisement to every chief operator in the country that the C. T. U. A. has to depend on contributions to take care of its members and their kin." And we agree with Bill. Fifty cents a month would create a fund large enough to cover every emergency. What became of the old insurance provisions of the Constitution? Two cents provisions of call a day, boys.

Have you read "The Brass Check"?

What a book, boys; what a book!

NEW YORK DISTRICT COUNCIL NOTES

The Postal was well represented at the bail given by the Eastern Broker division. One of the girls was overheard talking to one of the income asking him why they didn't wake up and organize so that we could do the same thing. "I wonder why." "Con" and "Mumsey" presented tickets numbers one and two to the doorkeeper at the Pennsylvania hotel ball given by the Eastern Broker Division and brought eighteen other pople with them, making twenty tickets in all that "Con" disposed of. I would like to tip the Western Union operators off to something and have them stop running after me for a card, when it's only a broker job they want. The "Bird" that came over yesterday, after telling him that he couldn't join the Eastern Broker division and that there were no broker jobs open, he said "Oh never mind the card." The woods are full of these kind of union men. "To hell with them." If at any time any good union man is in doubt of someone that wants to join please see Hickey or myself and we will give you the dope on 'em, "we have it."

I hope the boys won't forget Dan A. Mahoney when they want a "bug" or a typewriter.

W. T. Brown, the "Kid Wonder," is working at Slidell, Louisiana, for the Southern Pacific.

"Bill" McDonald from Washington paid us a visit for a few hours and was well received by the old-timers. Come again, "Bill," you're always welcome.

Come on, boys, out West! Let's hear from you in the Journal. "New York" is wide awake and going strong. The Postal and W. U. are being well covered. Secretary Schur doesn't mind working overtime, so come on with your gossip, "but get the applications first."

"RUPPLE."

Things have changed a great deal here since my last notes and one would hardly recognize the office or force as the same.

Late last month the retrenchment of salaries began and up to the present writing are beyond recognition.

Firstly, the $157.30 men have been cut to $143.00 and in one instance one man was sliced $47.30, down to $110.00. Some cut!

The entire force was cut they didn't discriminate, and as a result, a sense of "unrest" prevails more or less and further departures may be looked for.

The prevailing salary is now $120.00 for first class or "near" and the other classifications are $110 (mostly). The strange part to relate is that they have abundant applications at the "reduced" salaries and how they are going to manage on the almost prohibitive prices of living here in applications at the "reduced" salaries and how they are going to manage on the almost prohibitive prices of living here in Detroit (which have not come down in any line) is beyond any solution. If that were all, one might stand it for a while, but they are working the "ring" list and a compulsory day off is effective every seventh day for six men each day; and for all that, they are hiring men every day. Who can figure this out? I can, but am not in a position to be too broad, but just read between the lines; the question is very plain.

Can anyone imagine a thing like this being pulled off in a thoroughly organized office?

Think again.

What are you going to do about it?

Do you wish to go back to the old standard of $75 to $85 per month, with the nine hours added?

It behooves you to get together and without delay or you'll see just such a thing pulled off.

Haven't our international officers in the order appealed to you time after time, beseeching you to wake up before it's

But you lag, "let George do it."
For the love of Mike, will you ever wake up? Isn't it better to spend a few dollars now for the sake of saving your salaries than to beg for the opportunity to do so when it's too late?
Your only salvation right now is the organization that is working hard for your own interests while you yourself are lying down on them.
It's for your own welfare.
You see what the "dear old company" are doing, don't you?
Do you see them going back to their old rates? The advancement in rates was for the sole purpose, so the company claimed, of disbursement to their employees. Ployees.
We all got it, for a while, but how about now?

we all got it, for a while, but how about now?

It's the old gag something similar to "on again, off again, Finnegan."

I don't blame the company one bit. If they make you like it now, what will be the next move? Still lower, until—well. What's the use? Ever since you have entered the telegraph field you know you have been underpaid and when it began to assume the proportion of decency, it pulled down to a lower level than the "white wings" salary and don't ask yourself why, you know the cause.

Do you suppose for one moment that if there existed as well an organized union as there is in Canada that this reduction would have been pulled off as it was without a day's notice? Think again.

The boys in Canada don't have to stand for a thing of this sort, they are usually consulted first and it would be so here, too, if you would only do just as they have done.

There is absolutely no excuse for the existence of these conditions and if you

There is absolutely no excuse for the existence of these conditions, and if you wish a further reduction, just do as you are doing now—lay down and submit to anything, it will surely come, as this is but a "feeler." anything, it will surely come, as this is but a "feeler."

If you won't recognize what others are

If you won't recognize what others are doing about you for your benefit as well as their own, it's about time that you should mark your numbers off and hike. Get out of it, for you're but a detriment to the profession.

I should feel ashamed to accept what others procured for me.

If people like Ed Reynolds, the general manager of the Postal Telegraph Co., say that the C. T. U. A. is all right, now what have you to say?

There isn't an issue of the Journal ever printed that doesn't make it A B C to you the truth of this whole question and are pleading with you for your support; and what for? For your own benefit. It's you that is the beneficiary, but you are not blind to this. You know it just as well as the Journal does. You know it's the truth.

the truth.

But oh, boys, how you smile when you receive the notice of an increase! How different; wonder how it happened.

Ask yourself, you know, but you are not man enough to declare yourself.

In order to make a child understand what you say you have to be plain spoken, hence these few remarks, and believe me, the telegraph offices of today resemble a kindergarten more than in former years, and now, my children, be good and come on, show us you are not "kids." All together, now.

together, now.

Let this little appeal to you arouse you, let it be the means of awakening you, if you "refuse" to be awakened, you shall be the sufferer.

Let every one make it a point to call on the S. and T. of his local, and if you can't pay cash, why, we'll start an installment bureau; what say? Come on, we mean it, even, if only a "caser" at a time, we are the most patient firm in existence.

Be serious for once in your life and secure a nice little up-to-date credential and I can assure you you'll be the happiest "lid" in the office.

There never existed better people than

There never existed better people than just this little old telegraph bunch, and they are generous to a fault, but it seems not for a cause. But, brother, wake up, get right yourself and you'll get others right.

Now let's see what I can say for the "bunch" in the next issue and if you are real good, I'll personally mention your name and tell the whole telegraph world what a fine operator you are. That's worth something isn't it?

something isn't it?
The better you are the better I'll be, so you'll be helping yourself and at the same time you'll be helping me. Wouldn't it be a grand thing to see every one's name in the office on the honor and "right list"? I'll say it would.

I got my eye on every one of you. Now let's see what two weeks will do, and then I'll promise you I'll do my part.

More anon.

Always your friend.

Always your friend.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, NOTES

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, NOTES

The Detroit and Buffalo notes in February Journal were read with lively interest in San Antonio. It has been a long time since any news from these cities has appeared in the Journal.

Some A. P. corfespondents sent some notes to the Journal in February, too. Looks like there is some activity in A. P. circles. We hope this activity will continue. The A. P. operators should not let the unionized press divisions do all the hard organization work. Various correspondents have promised great things the hard organization work. Various correspondents have promised great things for the C. T. U. A., during the year 1921. Everybody with any union leanings should take up the cudgels in behalf of the organization and help to make good these promises.

As to the A. P. operators, General Mana-ger Frederick Roy Martin has practically invited them to send a union committee to see him. So it's up to them to accept the invitation.

Announcement in February Journal that the Western Union is slashing through the sliding scale method created no surprise here. The Western Union organized the A. W. E. so that it could lull its operators into a pipe dream until it got ready to double cross them. Now that the W. U. operators have been given daylight evidence as to why the W. U. corralled and drove them into the A. W. E. bull pen, what are they going to do about it?

Whoever heard of a corporation "organizing" its employes? Whenever you hear of such an absurd proposition you may know very well that there is a sinister motive behind it.

of such an absure properties a sinister motive behind it.

The only place of refuge and safety for a commercial telegrapher is the C. T. U. A. We are nearly 19 years old and we are growing fast.

Personal

Charles E. Michaels, night chief for the Western Union, has been confined to his home several weeks, suffering with rheumatism. At this writing (March 2nd) he is still unable to be at work. The telegraph fraternity here wishes him a speedy return to health. Mr. Michaels is highly esteemed by all who know him, as a man and as a chief operator.

Western Union

Several operators were laid off here by the W. U. during February and several were forced to take their vacations. This is part of the Western Union's retrench-ment policy, the A. W. E. to the contrary notwithstanding.

Canadian $45 Minimum

With the Canadian Press Limited minimum $45 per week for day work and cheaper living in Canada, what ought it to be in the U. S. A., with the cost of living higher? The minimum press scale in the U. S. A. for day work is $40 per week. The W. U. pays better than this in all of its big offices; and overtime is at the rate of time and a half.

Postal
Postal notes in the Journal are scarce and W. U. notes are still scarcer. Wake up, Postal-W. U. men!

Brokers

The several broker divisions have the right sort of "pep." They are going at a rapid pace. There does not appear to be any lack of interest in those divisions. Keep it up, boys, we are watching you and expect great things from you in the near future.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE Chicago-South

W. I. Schultz has been assigned to the Saturday night job at Tulsa, Okla., vice Hillman. Schultz is the I. N. S. operator at Tulsa.

Birmingham was put on the Chicago-South wire, Feb. 26, Saturday nights. The News takes the Saturday night report at Birmingham. Birmingham was formerly on the New York-South wire which was recently put in the printers.

W. R. McKinney is the Saturday night operator at Beaumont, Texas. He belongs to the O. R. T. and the C. T. U. A.

A. R. Bates at El Paso remitted for an innual card for the year 1921. Good boy! Keep it up.

There are two annual card holders on this circuit now.

We congratulate ourselves for having voted for Frank B. Powers for general chairman and Moulton B. Norton for secretary-treasurer. The vote was unanisecretary-treasurer. The vote was unanimous on this circuit.

Unionized press operators are doing their very best to bring the A. P. operators into the C. T. U. A. If the campaign to organize the A. P. men thoroughly fails it will not be the fault of the unionized press men.

The A. P. men used to be about 98 percent strong. They would do well to return to their old-time strength. We hope they will. Unorganised, they can never tell when the axe will fail.

The A. P. said that the last increase it granted in February a year ago was "temporary." Just how "temporary" it is remains to be seen.

There is still a scarcity of notes in the Journal from other Universal Service circuits. By all means, there should be a better representation of notes from the various circuits in the Journal each month. Paul Schnur and Roscoe Johnson would appreciate them. So would the month. Paul Schnur and Roscoe Johnson would appreciate them. So would the various members of the division.

The U. P. and I. N. S. divisions are invariably pretty well represented in the Journal. The same thing cannot be said of the Universal Service division. Neither can the same thing be said of the A. P. division division.

division.

Universal Service covered Harding's inauguration in a thorough manner.

Telegraphers on this circuit were exceedingly sorry to learn that Bobbie Wise, of the I. N. S., St. Louis, was compelled to undergo an operation for appendicitis the latter part of February. We are happy to know that he is rapidly recovering, having passed the danger mark. Wise is a staunch union man and has done some hard work for the C. T. U. A.

nas done some nard work for the C. T. U. A.

The Journal is always read with lively interest by members on this circuit. The various items on organization activity are appreciated. They are well written and their authors impress us as being men who have done a little thinking and are well posted. The art of printing is a great boon to mankind. Printers' ink will spread a gospel or advance an idea when nothing else will. The world was groping in darkness until printing was invented; and the art of telegraphy enhanced the value of printers' ink. Gutenburg, the German, invented printing, which was very slow at the beginning; Benjamin Franklin, a great American, gave it a big boost by inventing the printing press, and Morse, another great American quickened its circulation by inventing telegraphy. There's no gainsaying that printers' ink has pushed the world along at a very rapid gait. It would be a hard matter to overestimate its value to mankind.

Bill Loughlin, Carl Faller, Moulton B.

Bill Loughlin, Carl Faller, Moulton B. Norton and Dave Duey, senders, continue to hammer out a 100 percent report on this circuit. They earn their money by the sweat of their brow and the movement of their arms. So do the receivers. We freely and frankly admit it freely and frankly admit it.

of their arms. So do the receivers. We freely and frankly admit it.

When this circuit was in a W. U. wire, Dave Duey hung up a record for bawling out W. U. wire chiefs that nobody has ever been able to equal. If Dave could have personally met any of those chiefs he would have knocked 'em dead. Dave sure did romp on 'em.

It is not out of place to repeat the warning that members of a division should always vote during an election for division officers. Negligence and indifference will be the cause of the wrong set of officers being elected some day. "Etternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

The Typographical Union is signing up new contracts all over the U. S. which stipulate shorter hours and increased wages. The increases in wages range from $5, $6, $7, $10 and $12 per week. It should be borne in mind that the organized printers have negotiated these new contracts during the period of reconstruction that we hear the politicians and capitalistic polyrooms talk so much about. The Typographical Union is an honorable and ancient institution. It has safeguarded the rights of the printers for over sixty

The C. T. U. A. is nearly 19 years old, but it has done a whole lot in this short space of time. What ought it be able to do when it is sixty years old?

There's an old and true saying, "In unity there is strength."

L N. S. OHIO STATE

There is no possible way of keeping a thoroughly alive press circuit from growing, creating new footholds and shouldering aside dead and dying opposition. It is a sad state of affairs for the open shop press association to contemplate and a happy illustration of the power of 100 percent unionism with co-operation plus.

We point as an example to the Ohio State I. N. S. circuit, manned by 100 per cent union men—the biggest press circuit in the middle West—to the membership of which the rest of the press circuits must look for leadership in union affairs.

We introduce this month two new clients—the Ironton (Ohio) Register and the Ashland (Ky.) Independent.

E. F. Mulligan, of Detroit, Washington and Cincinnati, mans the Register job_and by way of complying with certain rules and regulations governing employment, merely has his membership transferred from the Detroit local of Postal Division 55 to I. N. S. Division 61.

Loy Allen, late of the U. P., same village, likewise transfers and holds down the Ashland assignment with considerable weight. Originally of Mt. Sterling, Ky., Loy has only strayed from the land of puffect licker, lovely women and fast hosses long enough to ply his trade in Parkersburg, W. Va., Washington and other foreign ports with the Western Union and A. P. He has been on the Independent for two and a half years.

pendent for two and a naif years.

The careers of the above-mentioned gentlemen should be an encouraging note to Western Union and Postal operators. Both, at one time in their lives, worked in Western Union offices whence they were able, by dint of thinking for themselves and honest living, to graduate into the top ranks of the profession—in the unionized branches of the craft. We welcome them as proven fine material into the ranks of real Americans (they've been here before). here before).

We part with Carl Bartness with keen gret. He brought to the circuit, from ilwaukee, memories of better days and Milwaukee, goes to Pittsburgh, after doing some vaca-tion reliefs, as a just man claiming his reward. For Pittsburgh has acquired a reputation as being not without antidotes, even for the smoke nuisance. The Pittsburgh Press is a lucky sheet.

R. H. Warnock, of Elyria, and Fred Newton, of East Liverpool, are back on the job after enjoying pleasant vacations.

the job after enjoying pleasant vacations. The boys on this circuit are doing their bit in the A. P. organization drive. After giving the fund its biggest boost last month, they have turned their attention to thining up the A. P. men in and adjacent to the Buckeye state, with much success. We wish to appeal to the membership at large to get behind this movement and put it across. Let's all get together—all divisions—for once in the history of the union and write a new, clean page in telegraph history. It means a little effort from all besides the herculean efforts of the active few. Success of the movement means a big step forward for all. Let's put in our heavy work now while it counts. Don't murder the best men in the organization by over-burdening them with work that must be done if we are to go forward.

"Half-baked" members we will always have with us—the "card men" who join a union in order to obtain the benefit of the toil and sacrifices of better men. But while this is true, it is no excuse for neglect of the union by the real union membership.

"Act well YOUR part, therein the glory lies."

KANSAS CITY-SOUTH U. P.

As we go to press this month we are sorely grieved to hear of Bobby Wise being imprisoned in the hospital with acute appendicitis. That Bob will pull through, we will wager 5 to 1, as he's the fightin' kind that won't be knocked out by a little thing like that.

We are sure proud of your progressive battle for our craft, Bob, and while we know you will recover, we extend you our sincere sympathy for the pain you must endure temporarily.

Our circuit, as might be expected, is right on the job in the organization campaign. While all the boys are doing their bit toward this campaign, can't help but single out our Brother W. E. Baugh for personal commendation for his quick response to the call and contributing the whole three months in a lump.

Our old time friend and brother, Jack Bradshaw, contemplates going into the chicken business. No doubt but what Jack will know just what chickens to pick. If you want 'em to work for you, Jack, go out every day and spade them up a few feet of earth. They sure love worms.

The Eddytur of the Kansas City Kansan has confirmed our suspicions that Barother Dan Daniel would make them like our service.

The boys on our circuit were somewhat surprised at the lack of interest displayed by quite a few of the U. P. circuits in the organization campaign. Every day we hear some of our brothers flash the word along that they have got a new membersither A. P., W. U. or Postal—evidence that all are alert and working for the organization. zation.

That's the kind of timber we have on our circuit. All doing personal work besides parting with their 50c a week.

Steam up, fellows, let's develop some pep. If you haven't a garden spot, have some rock hauled in your back yard and break 'em up of evenings. I'll guarantee that in a few weeks you'll want to meet Judge Gary, Carlton and Sir Milton all three in a ring and allow each of them to wear "knucks."

ATLANTA-SOUTHERN U. P.

General Secretary-Treasurer D. K. Stevenson, of the United Press Division, is the distinguished new member of the Dixie circuit.

"Steve" is now in Nashville, where the warmth of his general welcome in the South was typified in his reception at the station by a party of newspaper folk who ushered him into his new job at the TENNESSEAN. Steve said the lady who drove the big car was an ideal speeder.

J. G. Lamar and C. S. Joyner figured in the "infernal triangle" (as Charles might call it) which placed Stevenson in Nash-ville, Lamar on the Birmingham NEWS and Joyner in Anniston, on the Star where Steve first made his appearance on this circuit, after he was transferred from Pittsburgh, in January.

While the tale might be too tedious for print, still, Steve played such an impressive part in it, he may not forget to exert some influence in the forming of the next contract toward bringing about the bulletining of vacancies.

Evidently Nashville isn't "the deadest town" that Steve ever saw. He hasn't been late yet. He feels sorry for Joyner, however, we imagine. He explained his sentiment in his agreeable manner to Charles in the L. & N. Station in Rirmingsham while passing thru. Between trainshe also was entertained at a forenoon meal by Miss Valora Harris, at the home of her proud parents Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Harris, a "jitney's ride from town."

SAN FRAN-SOUTH U. P.

'Tis a cold and windy day with lots of rain supplanting Tom Kelly's "lotsuv sun." The rain will make the farmers happy but all and sundry on this circuit declaim the drops, saying they are not contributors to contentedness—Murphy having just declared the day as being one ideal for clared the day as bein "blowing up," or ichitis.

The moisture being the reason for not taking my constitutional during the lunch period I devised the idea of writing a few remarks for the benefit and enlightenment of those not PRIVILEGED to work on our San Francisco-South circuit.

The outstanding news features that I can recall for the past few days are:

Bro. Roberts, of Long Beach, lost a sister who was ill only a short time. Our sympathies, Bob.

Bro. Christy, whose wife was taken to Indiana a few weeks ago on account of ill health, is recovering and is expected to return to California and become George's boss again in a few days.

Bro. Kelly thought some of learning the telegraph profession but thought better of it and decided to stick to what he already knows—piling up Walter Hurst at the Los Angeles bureau with copy.

Bro. Dundon, recently from the A. P. has landed a good extra job at the Tribune, Bro. McIntyre, of San Francisco, is a newcomer at the Oakland Enquirer.

We had a fine sender doing the legislative stunt at the Capitol, Sacramento, and we all hope he gets Murphy's job. That boy knows more code and has more combinations than—well, a lot, anyway.

Fred Hubbard is vacationing.

There have been quite a number of changes lately up North but we all seem to be married to our jobs here in the South and it takes a mighty fine job to beat one of these Southern California stunts, I'll say.

SASKATCHEWAN C. P. R. NOTES Saskatchewan has lost it's chairman in the person of A. W. MacLaren, who resigned from that office the beginning of this year, owing to ill health. We are all this year, owing to ill health. We are all sorry to see "Mac" go. A better worker for this local will never be found.

Election of officers resulted in Bro. W. E. Aldcroft being elected as District Chairman, Bro. L. A. Anguish, re-elected Vice-Chairman and H. F. Tibble Secretary-Treasurer.

Our social and dance which took place at Bijou Hall, about a month ago, proved quite a success. Everyone had a whale of a time, and asking when the next dance is due. Why not another Hop this month is due. please?

Owing to depression of Business, a few have been laid off, but we hope they will "RM" just returned from three months leave of absence. Visiting his parents in Brandon.

Our Chiefs are now being issued new speckled Easter Hats, and sure are some Tib seems to be able to get to work on time, even though he's only just married, it's a great life if you don't weaken.

"W" is still at home, although not working. We find him at the office every noon and evening. He's our Hockey Pool Promoter, Also winner.

Flash—One coach loaded with operators, Pugs and Wrestlers. Sure was a hard Battle. Stan quit laughing, Shorty tore his trousers, and Bill was hit in the head by a Baggage Truck; unconscious till following day. Only two K. O's. were witnessed. Would have been more, but someone put the brakes on.

Questions we want answered?

Who tore Shorty's suit, and hit Bill in the head with a Baggage Truck? Why our Printer girls all go to Calgary?

Is it true, that all the girls love the sailors?

Misses Harrington and MacCauley, have just returned from their trip West, and report a wonderful time.

Never mind Vera, it will soon be summer. And then a day job. Hurrah!

It seems strange for some of them to hear that, Ethel and Ted should have had Tonsilitis at the same time. In future they will have to be more careful or we fear the result.

Everybody seemed to have their sick spell this winter.

"Andy" was laid up for a month with small pox. We are pleased, however, to see him back and feeling O. K. again.

Diamond rings are numerous in "MU" office. Where you getting 'em all, girls? All join in congratulating Misses Heron and Westgate.

Buck up, Regina. Let's hear from you. Send in your dues. Get an Annual if possible. No cards, no favors. CERT. 2172.

C. P. R. ALBERTA NOTES

Calgary, Alta., March 1.

No, we are not dead, although we did not appear in the February Issue. This, however, was unavoidable, but neverthe-less, here we are again, as large as life.

less, here we are again, as large as life.

We would like all districts on the C. P. R. System Division to note contents of Chairman McKay's circular letter of February 18th. The membership should insist that representatives of the different districts in Canada be brought together in a conference quickly, before it gets so busy that the companies would be unable to spare the men.

A conference of the various committeemen would be useless as it would be too limited. Representatives should be elected for this purpose, bringing together the best men in the organization. The general committees will have to meet and plan their work for this year, and the representative conference could do a great deal in the way of solidifying the Canadian organization, without a great amount of extra expense to the membership, as business could be settled more speedily.

Bro. McKay's letter points out the following questions which have been hanging fire for some time, awaiting settlement, which only a good representative conference can deal with:

- 1. That the future schedule work of the Canadian units be consolidated, and to obtain this, a federated executive be formed of, say, nine representatives of the different units, with chairman, vice-chairman and secretary-treasurer; all to be elected annually by referendum vote of the membership.
- 2. That the position of secretary-treasurer be consolidated with that of Canadian International Vice-President, and that it be a paid position.
- 3. That this secretary-treasurer handle all the general secretary-treasurer's work for all units, thus saving funds now being paid division secretary-treasurers, and as full time would be devoted to the organization, this could easily be accomplished. That annual leave of absence be secured for the elected member to this position, by the unit from which he is elected, thus protecting him. That he make a periodical trip east and west when deemd necessary. That headquarters be preferably at Winnipeg as a central point reaching all units in like time.
- 4. That a standard rate of dues be set for all units that would provide portions for paying this organizing secretary, carrying on of schedule work, and maintenance of locals.
- 5. That question of per capita to International headquarters, and amount International would be able to pay towards salary of organizing secretary, be gone into with President Johnson.
- 6. That standard by-laws covering the federated units be drafted.
- 7. That future schedule work be done by the federation executive, and that the different units elect a schedule committee of three members and general chairman to negotiate with companies concerned; schedules to be presented at same time, and in case of board of conciliation one board be applied for to cover all units, and federation to fight case before the board.
- 9. Thorough discussion of International affiliation, attendance at Toronto convention, etc.

These questions must be satisfactorily settled to obtain unity and harmony of the organization in Canada. The expense will be no more than will likely be spent by meetings of the various general committees this spring anyway, to decide on work of the units for this year, etc. Get after your chairman and general chairman to get this going so we can have a united, harmonious organization for 1921

Our annual dance was held in the MacDonald Academy on February 1st, and it was a splendid success both socially and financially. Great credit is due to Chairman McKay and Secretary-Treasurer Williams for the very capable manner in which the whole thing was arranged and carried out, and also to Bro. Harry Booth for the splendid manner in which he held down the post of "M. C." One of the most pleasant surprises of the evening came about when Sister May Eustace of the Morkrums enticed "our amiable Scotchman." Bro. Harry Pryde, to the floor, thus claiming the honor of being the first girl to dance with him, and we are told that before they were through, May had him doing the "shimmie 'neverythin'." How about it, May and Scotty? Yours truly was not able to be present (darn the luck), so we have had to gather this information from eutside sources, which, however, can be relied upon.

Since we last appeared in print, we have lost two members of the Morkrum staff. Sisters Curtis and Carle, who were laid off on account of reduction in staff. It's hard luck, "Mickey," and we hated to see you go, and only hope that we will soon see you among us again.

A number of the staff have taken holidays to save layoff, among them being Bros. Jack Forsyth, Fred Williams, Jack Harris and Harry Wright, but even this does not seem to have been sufficient to stem the tide, as there are at present three notices out which take effect on February 28th and two more a week or so later.

"CORRESPONDENT."

PACIFIC COAST C. P. R.

Annual cards in pacific coast district are growing in favor. We could well adopt a leaf out of Marconi wireless book. In that unit every member possesses an "annual".

"VR" members are reminded that their "Journal" should not be left in operating room mail box for an indefinite period. If contents do not meet with your approval, cancel its mailing, each copy costs fifteen cents and should go where it's appreciated.

Brother O'Connor is the Luther Burbank of this district. Every day sees Brothers Prushaw and McKinnon in consultation with Tom. If these farmers market half they expect to grow, the local Chinese truck gardeners are in for a bad seeson.

A most distressing accident occurred to the mother of Bro. Aubrey Tennant. A local druggist deliyered a prescription which nearly caused fatal results. Mrs. Tennant is slowly regaining her normal robust health, which we all hope and trust will be permanent.

Bro. Cunningham reports very few delinquent in dues. The secretary is promising a trip in his motor speed boat to all "Annual" card holders.

The social committee made a "Hit" with their first dance which was confined to operators, clerks and relatives. Numerous requests for another "Jazz nite" is under consideration by committee, which is composed of following members: Brothers Master, Rose, Ross, Jr., Husband, sisters Buss, McDaniels, Wyness and P. Williamson. The music and refreshments were fine and dandy. Sister Polly rendered a plano solo, and sister Matheson, a vocal solo. Brother Thorpe's little daughter, Gladys, gave a delightful exhibition of classical dancing.

Bro. Tom O'Connor was presented with a gold watch by the members of the BC district on his retiring from the chairmanship. He had been our chairman for eight years and the members would not allow the occasion to pass without showing a slight appreciation for the good work he has done on their behalf.

Next to "dawncing" the principal pasttime around VR is the mumps. Sinters Sproat, Wyness, Brothers O'Brien, Ross, Jr., being indisposed at present.

CANADIAN NATIONAL MONTREAL NOTES

As the bashful groom, when called upon to respond to the toast of the bride, accidentally put his hand on wife's shoulder and said "Brothers and Sisters, this has been thrust upon me."

We had a rattling good attendance at our first Monday night meeting, held last month. And the consensus of opinion was that it was the brightest session yet held. Much of the credit being due to our hustling local chairman Bro. Vin Wallace, who, rumor has it, has something up his sleeve in the way of entertainment, after the next meeting. "So let's all be there."

Two very enjoyable events were pulled off recently, the first being a supper and dance given by the Operating and Commercial Departments, combined, at Palace Du National, where the old jazz reigned supreme until 1:30 a. m. "Some happy night, say we."

CANADIAN NATIONAL QUEBEC NOTES

It has been some time since this neck of the woods has flad representation in our monthly organ and we should elect or appoint a regular correspondent. Some one who will write newsy notes of interest and give our views and suggestions on questions of vital importance to the organization in general.

Some correspondents have the idea that notes from their district should carry nothing but silly twaddle and dry Jokes that would not be appreciated outside of their own circle. Print paper is much too expensive to waste on such dribble. Let's all get together and clean up the "Local Notes" department of our Journal. Eliminate any and everything but real news notes and constructive ideas.

This district should get together and elect a correspondent immediately.

Those of our fellow workers who have withheld their support from the Union are now gaining a good object lesson on organization.

With present business conditions what a different result we would have if we had no organization. With a hundred per cent organization it might have been easier. It's time for some people to take a tumble.

Congratulations to Brother Boivin. He has a new arrival at his home. At this writing we are still in doubt as to the sex. has Brothers Watt and Bonhomme have returned to our midst after a short absence. We welcome them.

Brother Guay, who has been on the sick list for the past two months, is again with us. We are gratified at his recovery and welcome his return.

et us all put our shoulders to the wheel and support our organization. There is much work to do and we must have no shirkers.

WINNIPEG CANADIAN NATIONAL NOTES

Business is not very good, however, we are holding our own fairly well with a reduced staff brought about by some taking holdays now, and others leaving the service. Lots of inquiry from the States regarding reemployment in Canada. We must advise those who contemplate coming this way to think twice before starting, and further, Canada is no longer an ing, a

We wish to make special mention of the following printer clerks who voluntarily joined our union. (All new in the service.) Anna Thorardson, Gertrude Caplett, Agnes joined our union. (All new in the service.) Anna Thorardson, Gertrude Caplett, Agnes Dougall, Ethelyn Turkletop, Catherine Knoss, and Mr. K. Smith. Here is an example that a couple of girls should follow who have been in the service nearly a year, and have turned down all overtures to come into the fold. We fear our patience will sooh become exhausted and when it does, something is sure to happen—it always does. One young lady remarked to the writer recently that if she took the same attitude as the young ladies referred to, she would feel like an imposter.

Miss May Tyson has been transferred from the 'phone department to the Automatic. May has carried a card ever since she was a check clerk. That's the kind of a girl we admire.

Our curlers, B. S. Round, Skip A. Robinson, lead, F. W. Lee and Harry Saults won second place in the Charles Rannard Active Telegraphers Trophy, each player that "Buster" Saults got sick in the early part of the season and the others had to go it alone. Better luck next time, boys.

had to go it aione. Better fuck next time, boys.

An unusual thing happened the past week. The girls' so-called rest room was scrubbed and put in a fairly clean condition. Who snitched?

Eddie Young, our genial general chairman, along with Bros. A. Robinson and A. Wylle, spent several days with General Manager Perry in Winnipeg recently. Eddie said he thought seriously of locating in Winnipeg, because he liked the spirit of the West. However, the writer is in possession of facts which would indicate that there is a more magnetic attraction situated on Agnes Street. How about it, Eddie, come clean.

That was a splendid trip the Milkmaid turned down to the Onion Belt of Texas. Have any of you seen an electrical engineer who installs Multiplex apparatus? If so, communicate with our old friend

WINNIPEG CLERICAL NOTES

Cupid came flying along one day and whispered to Mary, so she's going away. So long, Mary. Here's wishing a very happy future. (Ptr. staff.)

Peg baware, cupid is becoming quite popular among the ptr. staff.
Madge is looking lonely these nites.
Cheer up Madge, we all know the reason.

There is a "Roomer" Viola baked a cake today. Boys beware of indigestion!

Alice U-tell-em working "RA" single is no joke. Cheer up. We hope it won't be long until you have your old side kick back.

Our Ptr. Supvr. "RO" was very successful during the big bonspiel. He sure played some wonderful games. It is said he could go through the eye of a needle, but when it comes to playing "JO's" curling team (Telegraphers) "RO" wished the eye of the needle was as big as a barn door.

Now that the Rannard Cup has been won by Greenway's big four, we hope the hatchet will be buried for another year at Wonder if the "CR" girls will ever get wise to the "Harhar" at W end? at their expense?

We fear for the "Social Column" of the Portage La Prairie Gazette since "FA" has returned.

Also hear "FA" is getting rough since being in that wild town, and has been noticed visiting the 5-10-15 cent store quite frequently. Don't be too reckless.

Rumbred that the printer hockey team will be in the Allan cup playoff next year. Nothing like having aspirations!

We miss C. A., Z., N. I., M. D., and C. B., and hope they will be with us again soon. L. M. will be a great help to the company when he grows up.

Our esteemed friend B. N. says it's a rotten job when they cut your short down to half an hour.

Now that regular correspondents have been appointed, it is to be hoped that the members will contribute a few notes and help them out in this respect. Let's show a little life, and take an interest in our organization. Don't forget your dues, it's impossible to continue on air.

Just one or two assessments more now Just one or two assessments more now from the printers and they will all be paid up. The outstanding we have now on the printers we think is due to carelessness, or thoughtlessness not from a desire to escape the obligation. The printers everywhere else on the system are the bulwark of our organization. Let us all get squared away once more, and make Winnipeg the banner office instead of Toronto 73's.

TORONTO C. P. R. CLERICAL

Have you seen Bro. P. L's with his new spec's? They tell me he looks like a cross between a negro parson and Harold Lloyd, but I don't believe it.

And Bro. J. S. complains of having to do his own "sewing," never tires of telling "what a splendid cook" he is, can't some of you girls help him out?

The clerks floral fund has met with such success, the "boys" were wondering if a "matrimonial bureau" could not be organized too? Suggestions quite confidential.

Prevailing "New York" styles are being introduced to us daily, looks like "they're wearin' 'em higher" is coming into its own once more.

And did you notice sister V. E. R. and Ex Bro. H. R., looking at diamonds in Ellis's window? Wonder if they are all going to be "June Brides." The good old C. P. R. has its good points too, look at all the little romances it has been responsible for in the last few years.

We are all sorry to learn of sister Killen's continued illness and looking for-ward to seeing her back with us again SOOD.

Wonder when "the lonely one" is going to get a card? Maybe he thinks because le is the "only one" he will "come in" on all that's coming without necessarily being a member. Hope he won't be disappointed, but like the Scotchman, "we hae our doots." He'd better watch his step.

TEN WAYS TO KILL YOUR UNION

Don't go to the meetings.

If you do go, go late.

If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of going.

If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and members.

Never accept office, as it is easier to criticize than to do things.

Get sore if you are not appointed on committee, but if you are, do not attend committee meetings.

If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some matter, tell him you hav nothing to say. After the meeting te nothing to say. After the meeting every one how things should be done.

Do nothing more than absolutely necessary, but when members use their ability to help matters along, how that the institution is run by a clique.

Hold back your dues, or don't pay at all. Don't bother about getting new mem-ers. "Let George do it." Contributed by a Toronto member. bers.

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

The Chicago Tribune News Service has been extended to Los Angeles and Vancouver, B. C. The Times takes the service at Los Angeles and the Sun takes it at Vancouver.

The Denver Rocky Mountain News recently discontinued the Tribune service and a short time thereafter the Denver Post installed it.

SIX NEW W. U. WIRES

The Western Union is planning to string six additional transcontinental wires from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. The new wires will connect eastern cities with Pacific coast cities. The aggregate expense of erecting these new lines will be about $2.000,000. The amount of copper wire used will be approximately 4,000,000 pounds. Hundreds of tons of glass insulators will also be required.

A FEW DON'TS

Don't condemn the labor movement because you know of "objectionable features." Every man and every human institution has some imperfections.

Don't "wait for others." Others are waiting for you. Some must be among the first—why not you?

Don't forget that the more bitterly the employer opposes labor unions, the more the employe should support them. There's a financial reason. Think it over.

Don't shirk the moral obligation to do all you can to uphold the dignity of our occupation—to elevate the standard of our living.

Don't be blind to your own interests; unionism helps all workingmen, all society, the home and state.

Don't let so-called "independence" prevent you from being unselfish. We are all dependent on someone or something. "No man stands alone." Let's get closer together.

Don't forget that bricklayers, plasterers, tinsmiths, stonecutters and in some places, hodcarriers, receive more pay then telegraphers, and don't forget the reason—strong organization.

Don't say "I got along without a union for 5 (or 55) years it is useless to me; unions can't accomplish their purpose." They do-Over seven million union men say so!

TEN WAYS TO KILL ANY ORGANIZATION

- 1. Don't come to the meetings.
- 2. But if you do-come late.
- 3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
- 4. If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and the members.
- 5. Never accept an office, it is easier to criticise than to do things.
- 6. Nevertheless, GET SORE, if you are not appointed on a committee, but if you are, do not attend the meetings.
- 7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. AFTER the meeting, tell everyone how things should be done.

- 8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary. When other members roll up their sleeves, and willingly and unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, how that the organization is run by a clique.
- 9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay them at all.
- 10. Don't bother about getting new members. "Let George do it."

¶ Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves far the higher consideration.

A WONDERFUL VIBRATOR

This unique and unrivaled vibrator has a triple spring driving power that gives it a greater carrying capacity than any single spring on the market. A retard spring controls the movement, thus making its vibration uniform, and the characters solid and heavy, at fast or slow speed—not jerky and light.

The rubber cushion shock absorbers, which prevent injury to the nerves, and triple spring vibrator are but two of the features that have made our sending machines national in fame as well as in name.

FIRST C. T. U. A.-O. R. T. SCHEDULE SIGNED

Commercial and Railroad Telegraph Organizations Work Hand in Hand

Portends Big Achievement for Future

By Roscoe Johnson

(International President)

For the first time in history, a joint C. T. U. A.-O. R. T. schedule has been Beginning April first linemen and cable splicers formerly working under separate agreements with the Great Northwestern Telegraphs, Canadian National Railway Telegraphs and Grand Trunk Pacific Telegraphs, will be governed by one schedule with the Canadian National Telegraphs, negotiated and signed jointly by representatives of The Order of Railroad Telegraphers and The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America.

The full significance of the dual agreement just signed will immediately be apparent to commercial and railroad telegraph workers alike. To those farseeing union executives representing linemen and cable splicers employed by the Telegraphs of Canada, goes the credit for blazing the trail toward a better understanding and closer working agreement between the two great organizations of telegraph workers—the O. R. T. and C. T. U. A.

Following a conference in Winnipeg with W. H. Phillips, general chairman, Western Lines, Order of Railroad Telegraphers, E. J. Young, general chairman, C. N. T. Division, Commercial Telegraphers' Union, called together the C. N. T. general committee in Toronto on March 22nd and agreed to joint action of the two organizations in negotiating an agreement with Mr. George D. Perry, general manager of The Canadian National Telegraphs. The agreement covers linemen and cable splicers of the newly organized government telegraphs.

International President Roscoe Johnson, C. T. U. A., and Third Vice-President J. M. Mein, O. R. T. Canadian executive, arrived in Toronto on March 24th. In conjunction with Brothers Phillips, J. J. Trainor, general chairman, Eastern lines, O. R. T.; and E. J. Young, general chairman, Canadian National Telegraphs, C. T. U. A.; the two international organizations made short work of drafting up an agreement acceptable to both unions. As a matter of fact the proposed agreement as originally drawn up by Brother W. H. Phillips, O. R. T., was accepted agreement as prigrated by the joint O. R. T. C. T. H. A. committees and experience. almost in its entirety by the joint O. R. T.-C. T. U. A. committees and eventually was agreed to by the general manager of the Canadian National Telegraphs.

The following committeemen participated in negotiating the new schedule:

- O. R. T .- J. M. Mein, third vice-president; W. H. Phillips, general chairman, Western Lines; J. J. Trainor, general chairman, Eastern Lines.
- C. T. U. A.—Roscoe H. Johnson, international president; E. J. Young, general chairman, C. N. T.; A. Robinson, chairman, Western District C. N. T.; C. W. Mitchell, chairman, Central District, C. N. T.; J. A. Grover, linemen's representative, G. T. P.; G. Lefebvre, linemen's representative, C. N. T.

To Brothers Young and Phillips, fell the bulk of work. The final results speak volumes for the untiring efforts of these two excellent general chairmen. The linemen also are to be congratulated upon their selection of representatives. work performed by J. A. Grover, Edmonton and G. Lefebvre, veteran lineman of Chatham, will stand as a monument to the good judgment of these workers.

CANADIAN NATIONAL TELEGRAPHS

Rules For Stationed Linemen

PREAMBLE

The following rules and wages will govern the linemen of Canadian National Telegraphs.

When additional linemen's positions are created compensation will be fixed in conformity with that for the positions of the same class as shown by this schedule.

ARTICLE 1.

Linemen's right of promotion will extend over the District Plant Superintendent's district in which they are employed and will be governed by merit, fitness and ability. Where these are sufficient the senior lineman will be given the preference.

A lineman on Western (Railway) lines having at least four years' service, shall have right of promotion from one District Plant Superintendent's district to another district on Western (Railway) lines. Provided that lineman having four or more years' rights as such will, on application to their superintendent, be furnished with vacancy bulletins from the other promotion district.

A lineman's seniority will date from time he last entered the service as a stationed lineman.

ARTICLE 2.

Vacancies (or positions in new districts created) will be filled by the appointment of the senior competent lineman who in the opinion of the District Plant Superintendent is capable of filling the position, the District Plant Superintendent to immediately notify all linemen in his district of vacancies, or new positions, stating rate of compensation. Application for any vacancy must be made within ten days of issue of bulletin. Any lineman senior to the man so appointed may claim his rights to the position, provided he files his protest within ten days after the appointment has been bulletined.

All appointments will immediately be bulletined.

Vacancies will be filled within thirty days after they are bulletined by appointment of linemen extitled to them.

Linemen not placed within thirty days from date of close of vacancy bulletins, through no fault of their own, will thereafter be paid at the rate of position to which they are transferring, if higher than the rate of position held.

Linemen applying for positions bulletined may, if they so desire, cancel their applications within ten days from date of bulletining of the vacancy. Should the senior applicant withdraw or not receive the appointment, the next senior qualified applicant who has not withdrawn will then be appointed without another bulletin being issued. After such period of ten days the request to cancel or withdraw his application will not be considered, and the position from which he is transferring will immediately be bulletined and he cannot again bid in his former position until it again becomes vacant.

Linemen declining promotion do not forfeit any rights to the same or any other position they may be entitled to when a vacancy occurs.

In the event of a lineman having been appointed a gang foreman and then reduced to the position of stationed lineman, whether on account of reduction of staff or otherwise, he will retain his seniority and will be entitled to any vacancy to which his seniority entitles him. In event of there being no vacancy, he will be placed in the junior lineman's position, providing he has seniority over the junior lineman.

When a lineman is assigned to a position and after a fair trial is found incompetent he will take his place on the extra list, retaining his seniority rights.

ARTICLE 4.

A complete list of linemen, showing seniority standing and rates of wages, will be kept on file at the office of the District Plant Superintendent, and may be seen at any time by linemen or properly appointed representatives (employes of the Telegraphs) of said linemen, and corrections will be made if any errors are proven. A complete list as above will be furnished to the representatives of the employes on January first, each year. Linemen promoted within the Telegraphs will be permitted to retain their

ARTICLE 5.

In case of reduction of staff or abolishing of positions, the junior Lineman in the District Plant Superintendent's district will be dispensed with and such men will be given at least ten days' notice.

Any lineman in good standing, whose services have been dispensed with on account of reduction of staff, will be given preference of employment when a vacancy occurs in the district in which he was employed.

A lineman securing employment with the Telegraphs will, within thirty days from date of employment, have returned to him all service cards and letters of recommendation which have been taken up by the Telegraphs, except any previously issued by the Telegraphs.

A lineman leaving the service of the Telegraphs will, on request within ten days, be furnished with a certificate by the District Fiant Superintendent stating term or terms of service, capacities in which employed and whether discharged or leaving the service of his own accord. If discharged, cause of dismissal will be stated. If detained more than ten days awaiting such certificate he will be paid his wages for all time in excess of ten days. Unless otherwise requested this certificate will be mailed to the lineman at the piace of his last employment.

No lineman shall (except for investigation) be suspended, discharged or disciplined, until his case has been investigated and he has been proven guilty of the offense charged against him, and upon his request to the District Plant Superintendent, particulars of the charge will be given in writing. A lineman may, in such cases, have the assistance of a co-employe, if he so desires. Should no decision be reached within ten days, he shall receive his regular pay until the decision is arrived at. If a lineman be found blameless of the matter under investigation, he will be paid his regular rating for all the time lost and necessary expenses while attending the investigation (if away from home) and be reinstated. He will also have, without discrimination, the right of appeal from the local to the General Officers of the Telegraphs.

By request of the lineman a co-employe may be present at any investigation. If the lineman so requests a written statement setting forth the results of the investigation, will be furnished to him.

ARTICLE 6.

- (a) Eight consecutive hours exclusive of the meal hour, shall constitute a day's work.
- (b) The hours of duty of all linemen will commence between six and nine a. m. and will be the same on all days of the week.
- (c) Except in cases of emergency linemen will have eight consecutive hours rest within each twenty-four hour period.

(d) Linemen required for service outside of regular hours of duty will be given an official order as authority and will be released in the same manner.

(e) Linemen required to work on Sundays or outside of regular assigned hours on any day will be paid overtime for such service at time and one-half rate. For work within regular hours of duty on New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day (or King's birthday), Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day they will be paid overtime at pro rata rates per hour. In the event of any of the above holidays falling on Sunday the day substituted by the government will be observed. Even hours shall be paid for at the end of each paid period; fractions thereof shall be carried forward. carried forward.

(f) If a lineman is called before or after assigned hours or within regular hours on Sundays or holidays mentioned in Clause "E" he will be paid a minimum allowance of two hours at time and one-half, for which two hours service may be required.

(g) To arrive at pro rate rate per hour for overtime the monthly salary shall be multiplied by twelve, divided by three hundred and six and then divided by eight.

(h) Linemen will be allowed to go home each night, if overtime entailed will not exceed the amount of expenses requird to keep them on line over night, provided that work is finished or that they can reach their work before assigned hour next day.

ARTICLE 7.

Linemen will be advanced half their monthly wages on or about the thirteenth of each month, and the balance, together with their expenses or or about the fifteenth of the following month.

ARTICLE 8.

Linemen after three hundred and six cumulative days' service will be allowed twelve working days leave of absence each year with full pay.

If the Telegraphs find it inconvenient to grant leave of absence during any year to a lineman entitled to it, the lineman shall, at this option, receive either compensation at his regular salary for the period or in the next year additional leave of absence for a like period.

Applications for leave of absence filed in December of each year will be given preference in order of seniority of applicants and applicants will be advised in January of the dates allotted them. Receipt of applications will be acknowledged promptly. The Telegraphs will, whenever possible, arrange vacations between and including the months of April and October, when desired. Linemen not making their applications until after September thirtieth will not be entitled to compensation if the Telegraphs is unable to relieve them in that year.

In the event of a lineman entitled to a vacation with pay being discharged or leaving the service of the Telegraphs on proper notice before obtaining a vacation that has been deferred by the Telegraphs after time allotted, he shall be paid salary for Linemen will be paid all necessary expenses while away from home stations.

A lineman required to leave his own district will be allowed all necessary expenses and extra compensation commensurate with responsibilities, if called upon to take charge of not less than five men.
When required stationed linemen will be advanced funds to meet expenses.

ARTICLE 10.

Linemen attending court or investigations at the request of the proper officers of the Telegraphs will have their expenses paid by the Telegraphs in addition to their wages.

ARTICLE 11. If a lineman considers himself overtaxed his statement to that effect, to the proper officers, will be carefully considered and if well founded relief will be granted. -

ARTICLE 12.

If a lineman receives leave of absence from the Telegraphs for a period of three months or less he may retain his position and seniority for that period. If his leave of absence be extended for an additional three months he may retain his seniority for such period and his position will at once be bulletined vacant, but this is not intended to apply in cases of bonafide sickness.

FIRST BROKER SCHEDULE SIGNED

Strike of One Week's Duration Brings Contract

The Western Broker Division of The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America has signed its first schedule with a brokerage house. The schedule covers minimum wages and working conditions of ALL telegraphers employed by E. Lowitz & Company, Chicago, Illinois, who are members of the New York Stock Exchange and Chicago Board of Trade.

The minimum wages for Chicago telegraphers is fifty dollars per week and that of country telegraphers forty-five dollars per week. Fifty-five dollars is the minimum for quotation wires.

Provision is made for lunch reliefs and two weeks' annual vacation.

The lunch reliefs and vacations were points in dispute which brought on the strike. The firm of Lowitz had decided that lunch reliefs and vacations would The men decided differently, and, in view of the fact that be discontinued. Lowitz & Company had in the past three months, made and broken two verbal agreements, instructed the officers who had charge of the negotiations, they would not return to work unless a written agreement could be obtained. This stand was approved by the International.

The strike went into effect April 6th at the close of business, all telegraphers responding, and lasted just one week.

It was the first 100 per cent strike the C. T. U. A. has ever led and was conducted in an orderly and business-like manner. Strike benefits of fifty dollars per week were paid the strikers.

It is now the intention of the Western Broker Division to make this contract so attractive to E. Lowitz & Company, that other brokerage houses will see the necessity of working under such an agreeable understanding.

Broker telegraphers who are members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America now have a good selling argument in recruiting new members and it is expected that the big majority of broker telegraphers in the United States and Canada will soon be enrolled on our rosters.

BOOST FOR THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS UNION OF AMERICA, THE ORGANIZATION THAT GETS RESULTS.

WESTERN UNION PROFITS GROW

(By Paul F. Schnur)

Net profits of the Western Union for 1920 were over fourteen and a half millions.

Dividends paid on stock amounted to nearly seven millions.

Surplus on December 31st amounted to more than forty millions, an increase of SIX MILLIONS over 1919.

President Newcomb Carlton in his annual report says in part:

". . . In 1918 employees organized an association to encourage efficiency and promote co-operation with the company. Employees now number 60.500.

Newcomb Carlton, in making his report to the stockholders who hire him, is not very specific in regard to SMALL details. It probably is not obligatory for him to tell the stockholders just how it was possible for the Western Union to add six million dollars to their surplus during 1920. Stockholders are not, as a general rule, interested in the methods used. All they are interested in is the financial return. They always hire a man to run their business who can be relied upon to turn the trick. If the man doesn't show results he is kicked out and someone else hired. Newcomb Carlton must hold his job.

While digesting the above-mentioned annual report, especially that section referring to the association (company union), we felt it might relieve us a little if we helped Newcomb and went into some small minor details for him.

We will suppose that we were asked to write that portion of Carlton's report which refers to the employees and their association, which was formed for the purpose of "co-operation." Our version of it would be something like this:

"In 1918 while we were at war with Germany, our employees felt that it might be a good idea to get a little of that 'Democracy' for which we were fighting on foreign soil, right here at home. The Western Union had denied them their constitutional rights as American citizens by discharging all employees who attended Union meetings or joined a labor Union. The employees were becoming very unruly and were joining the Commercial Telegraphers Union in droves. They wanted a living wage, decent working conditions, and their constitutional right to go to any kind of a meeting they wished to attend.

"We did not want them to join the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America as that trade union wanted to force us to pay a living wage. The C. T. U. A. is a legitimate trades union and has been fighting continually since 1902 to protect the interests of commercial telegraphers. It would have been necessary for us to pay a living wage to our employees had we consented to their joining that organization.

"To combat this evil we found it necessary to foist upon our employees a company union—the Association Western Union Employees—which is dominated by the officials of the Company. Preference was given to those employees who belonged to the company union and a check-off system was adopted. Membership dues were withheld from the pay envelopes of the employees and they were given to understand that it would be to their interest to join the company union. penalty for joining or belonging to the real trade union of commercial telegraphers—the C. T. U. A.—was immediate dismissal from the service, regardless of length of service in our employ.

"Our efforts along these lines were eminently successful and through fear of being discharged the membership of the company union has grown to huge proportions. A negligible number of employees have refused to join the association but they will soon be enrolled or suffer the consequences.

"If our employees would only realize their collective strength they could use it to good advantage, but they have been thoroughly cowed, hence our handsome profits for the year just ended. I am pleased to report that our employees have become so docile that we have very easily been able to reduce their salaries and indirectly adopt the sliding scale. The 9-hour day will be the next step."

Of course Newcomb Carlton did not go into the above details in making his report. It was not necessary. The stockholders would not be interested. All they want is results.

We have great faith in the commercial telegraphers of this country and hold steadfastly to the belief that the time is almost at hand when these telegraphers will rise up as one and throw off the shackles that hold them to jobs which do not guarantee them a decent living and justice. Even now ominous rumblings can be detected by those who have their ear to the ground.

Until the telegraphers do rise up and revolt we patiently hold our editorial nose to ward off the stench of stinking Western Union tactics.

Telegraphers are human and human tolerance has its limitations.

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

By S. J. Small

Page 104, March Journal: "When a capitalist talks less profits this does not mean less wholesome food and warm clothing for himself and family. But less wages means instant lowering of the workers' living standards."

That's hitting the nail an awful wallop on the head.

Secretary of Labor Davis, assisted by Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in adjusting the controversy between packinghouse employers and the packers, decided that the packers' program of wage cuts varying from 8 to 12½ cents an hour was reasonable.

Secretary Wallace, the day previous, issued a statement showing that prices paid the farmers for beef cattle on the hoof had declined and the selling price to butchers had advanced materially. Sure. Why not? That's what we voted for last November.

Federal census figures frequently bring to light conditions that baffle explanation. In the state of Missouri, according to statistics of the census bureau at Washington, for the ten-year period, 1909 to 1919, the number of mortgages on farms operated by their owners grew from 46.3 to 51 per cent. But the total value of farm property increased 74 per cent, and the average value of land alone increased from $41.80 to $74.60 per acre, while the total value of the state's crops during the same period show a gain of 164.9 per cent.

Why should the farmer become poorer while his possessions and his output in value? Has somebody been working a "sliding scale" on the tillers of soar in value?

the soil?

High rents, unreasonable cost of foodstuffs and unemployment are the headliners in the mental calculations of the average citizen on world conditions and unapplied remedies.

We naturally ask why, two and a half years after the close of the war, are housing conditions throughout the country more deplorable than they were in Why, in the face of overproduction of foodstuffs in this country and alleged dumping of foreign products onto our markets, are we paying war prices for many articles of food and wearing apparel?
What is the explanation for unemployment?

At the close of the war the master minds of industry told us the United States was about to experience the greatest prosperity in history. They pointed out that we must build, immediately, a million homes and supply European countries with the necessary machinery, etc., to carry on reconstruction. Billions of dollars worth of railroad equipment must be replaced in order that the transportation systems of this and other countries might be brought to a state of efficiency. These undertakings were absolutely necessary and should be started forthwith, we were told at the close of the year 1918.

We must first have an understanding on financial and moral But hold!

obligations with Europe and between ourselves. And then the fun began.

The politicians repudiated the treaty of Versailles; the financiers forced congress to stop further credits to foreign governments, leaving the starving millions in Europe to be cared for through contributions of charitable citizens of this and other countries. The Wilson administration, with a Republican congress, lacked power to act and the Harding administration never has, before or since inauguration announced a foreign policy. The master minds of industry were sincere when they predicted unusual and world wide industrial activity at the close of the war. They based their optimism on the apparent needs of the world and a belief that the great conflict between nations had resulted in a cleansing of the consciences, not only of individuals but of the world, politically and morally. They could not foresee that a political row would result in making of Uncle Sam a mere spectator in the gallery in the theatre of world politics, and that congressional action would give the banking interests of this country the power to strike from the hand of the Goddess of Liberty the symbol of justice and substitute therefore the gilded sign of the international Shylock.

Unemployment! We should be thankful that we have not had more of it.

All of which should impress indelibly upon the minds of workers the importance of discussing economics as affecting individual crafts in their union meetings.

How many of the present generation of telegraphers realize that they are paying now for the sins of Jay Gould and his associates, committed in the late 70s and early 80s?

Don't be a Bergdoll. Come clean.

ASSOCIATED PRESS ORGANIZATION FUND

By PAUL F. SCHNUR

The A. P. Organization Fund is climbing. The four-hundred-dollar mark will soon be reached. A considerable number of press men who have not yet contributed in small installments have assured us their $6.50 will be sent in before the end of May. A little more speeding up and we will reach the $1,000 mark by June 1.

Your efforts are being appreciated by Associated Press men. They have taken on a new lease of life with your encouragement. They are taking kindly to your assurances that Union press men are behind them. Several circuits are nearly solid. Applications are coming in from all sections of the country.

The A. P. management is well aware of the prevalent unrest among their telegraphers. They realize their men mean business and will not be trified with. They realize it to such an extent they dare not take away the $5.00 weekly bonus which was handed to their telegraphers with a string attached. Information has reached us that this bonus was scheduled to be taken away from A. P. telegraphers March 1. Six weeks after March 1 the A. P. finds itself in the position of fearing the action of their telegraphers should this $5.00 be taken from them.

Our campaign has already brought results. It has given the A. P. men $5.00 per week. A Union schedule will give them even more.

We dare the Associated Press to reduce the salaries of their telegraphers!

A little effort from all of us will help our A. P. brothers over the top. Do not withhold your support from this movement. It means money in your pocket to help.

A federation of press divisions and a universal press scale!

CONVENTION GOES TO TORONTO

Acting on a petition signed by a large majority of our membership, the General Executive Board has decided it is for the best interests of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America that our 1921 convention be held at Toronto. Ontario, instead of Atlanta, Ga.

This will be Canada's first C. T. U. A. convention and we should all unite in ensuring its success by preparing now to send full delegations and the very best brains in our organization.

Monday morning at ten o'clock, October 8rd, Roscoe Johnson will call the convention to order.

History will be made at Toronto. Do your share. Submit your ideas to your officers now.

THE PUBLIC'S RIGHTS

"The public's rights are paramount!" shrick can't-strike advocates.

These breeders of anarchy and spawners of tyranny would handcuff portions of the public to their jobs and then lisp nursery tales of "the public's rights."

"Right" based on a denial of liberty is a contradiction. To claim the contrary is to uproot the Declaration of Independence.

A public opinion manufactured by the smug forces of reaction cannot justify Until quite recently it was America's boast that men are free. The tune is now pitched up to "the public's rights" by coarse-minded, dollar-chasing profiteers who are devoid of even the sense of honor that marked the road agent in stagecoach days.

When can't-strike advocates profess an interest in "the public's rights" they are untruthful, illogical and inconsistent.

If they were truthful they would not use the term, for right is impossible when based on wrong.

If they were logical they would not proclaim "the public's rights" and remain silent on the public's duties.—The New Majority. off act of a

LABOR AND WAGES

The question of labor and wages is as old as the world itself. the centuries it has confronted every age. Empires rise and fall, other questions come and go, yet the question of labor and wages is ever paramount, ever before the public. It always has been, no doubt it always will be, for in any exchange of values there is always a difference between those who have to sell and those who desire to buy. Labor is unlike any other commodity that is for sale. It is a man's whole stock in trade. As a rule, the working man has no money in reserve and must, of necessity, sell his labor at once. He has only his own labor to sell, while the employer engages hundreds or thousands of men and can easily do without the service of any particular individuals. The result is that even under normal conditions the individual laborer is at an enormous disadvantage.

PROGRESS OF AUTOMATIC PRINTERS

(Written by Request)
BY CHARLES J. SEEFRED,
General Chairman Div. 61

Indianapolis....... A total of forty-three clients are now being served a leased wire news report by automatic telegraphy (printers) by the International News Service, according to data received by the General Chairman from reliable sources. Of the above total sixteen were former Morse leased wire clients, fourteen graduated from telephone pony service, six are New York City "deliveries" and the remaining seven may be classified as auxiliaries made possible by factors peculiar to automatic system itself whether in point of economy or otherwise.

While sixteen Morse salaries were chopped off, six salaries for "transmission" to the "printers" were added, making a net loss of ten Union jobs to our craft.

Five clients have been switched back to Morse after "printers" had been in operation several months viz. Two newspapers at Pittsburgh, and one each at Baltimore, Philadelphia and Norristown, Pa.

Roughly speaking, $570.00 per week is being saved on the I. N. S. Morse payroll, while $211 per week is added for automatic transmitter members, or a net loss of $359 per week—$19,386 per year—from the pockets of human workmen, on a total payroll of probably $250,000 annually.

In view of the plans of the International News Service for the substitution of automatic telegraph printers for Morse operators as outlined by the management to the General Committee in 1917, when the so-called "30-word per minute" printer was being perfected, it would not seem that the foregoing survey of the situation existing nearly four years later should cause undue alarm in the ranks of our Morse craftsmen. The I. N. S. Committee was given to understand in 1917 that the adoption of the telegraph printer was based on the broad spirit of progress and solid business principles, devoid of sentiment. The change from the human to the mechanical producer necessarily would be gradual, it was stated, and no extravagant predictions were put forth.

The suggestion of a general survey of the development and expansion of the automatic telegraph printer department of the International News Service, as well as other press associations, is in line with numerous expressions from members of Division 61 that more space in the Journal should be devoted to this subject.

A large number of I. N. S. Morse operators feel that they are sitting on a volcano, figuratively speaking, to be blown off their jobs by the installation of "printers" on short notice at any time, according to reports to the General Chairman. Much information, claimed to have been obtained from publishers, has been communicated concerning contracts already signed up for printer service to displace the Morse, many of them said to have been closed several months ago, but actual installation having been deferred for unknown reason. Several logical surmises have been forthcoming, among them the evident advisability of "printerizing" an entire state, or section of the country prior to installation in order to make the change profitable; excessive duplication of existing Morse wire mileage as a retarding factor; and the expense of attendants at carbon-copy points may temporarily militate against the substitution at some points. There is a thought worth considering in each of these suggestions and they are passed along without definite confirmation.

Information also has been submitted by members relative to the compelling arguments put forth by salesmen in promoting the automatic printing system to supplant the human element. Specific details probably are irrelevant, but alleged claims of scarcity of first class Morse telegraphers and failure of the Union to develop competent Morse operators to meet the demands of a rapidly expanding news service, are perhaps the most interesting to our Morse workers.

The writer is indebted to Brothers Chandlee, of New York, and Lyons, of Chicago, for assistance in gathering the following summary of "printer" news service circuits operated by the International News Service:

Overflow circuit between Washington and New York Bureau, with drop at N. Y. Evening Journal. (Baltimore, Philadelphia and Norristown formerly were supplied by this circuit which it was anticipated would supplant the Morse, but the plan was abandoned owing, it is understood, to inflexibility to meet flash and bulletin action on important news breaks.)

Circuit out of New York, made up of numerous "legs" of short mileage each—practically a N. Y. City and suburban service. Subscribers served include: N. Y. Jewish Journal; N. Y. Nepszara; N. Y. Export & Import; N. Y. Daily Garment News; N. Y. Night Garment News, and N. Y. La Nacion; Mt. Vernon, Yonkers, New Rochelle, Tarrytown, White Plains, Jamaica and Ossining, all in N. Y. State; and Bayonne, Hackensack, Paterson, Elizabeth, and Trenton, in New Jersey.

Circuit out of New Haven, Conn.: To Middletown, Waterbury, Bridgeport (2 clients), Stamford, New Britain, Willimantic, Manchester and Nagatuck, all in Connecticut.

Circuit out of Pittsburgh: Supplying Farrell, Erie, Sharon, and Newcastle, Pa. (Two Pittsburgh clients were on this line for several months, but reverted to Morse recently.)

Out of Chicago: Evanston, Streator, Rockford, Hammond, Milwaukee, Savanna, Peoria and Dubuque, comprising a total mileage of approximately 450 miles in Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Attacks on Trade Unionism To Be Considered by Labor OULIA TELLS IT TO MARS

By Julius Caesar

(Editor's Note.—The following exclusive despatch from our staff correspondent on Mars contains the first official information that Mars is subjecting the people of the Earth to a close scrutiny as well as that successful conversations are held by Mars scientists with Ouija, now beginning to be dimly understood by us.)

OLYMPUS, MARS, April 10.—Scientists of this planet, who have been studying the peoples of the Earth for many centuries, using powerful magnifying glasses, telepathy and similar methods, have at last, through the medium of Ouija boards, established full contact.

Professor Asbestos Kurttane, head of the Department of Psychic Communications, Olympian University, today made public an accurate record of his conversations with Ouija concerning earthly matters, through which many strange customs and activities of Earth inhabitants are at last cleared up. The questions were propounded by Prof. Kurttane, the replies made by Ouija.

We have observed signs of terrific disturbances on Earth during the pest few years. What was the trouble?" asked the professor.
"The free peoples of the Earth have been fighting the militarist nations to make the world safe for democracy," answered Ouija.

"And what was the outcome?"

"Democracy adjusted itself to militarism and the world was made safe for "Democracy adjusted itself to militarism?"

"Yes; the militarist powers were conquered and the free nations seized the yoke of militarism from the slave nations and began wearing it themselves. They are now fighting over division of the spoils and freedom is lost to all but those who died.

"But are the people reconciled?"

"No. They have changed governments in all countries since the war, but they sink deeper into the mire. They are a sheepishly puzzled lot."

"We notice a lot of people are hungry and cold and without homes. Have the raw materials of the Earth given out?"

"No; raw materials still exist there in abundance."

"Then why are the people in misery?"

"They have produced too much goods and are out of work."

"But that would be a pleasant thing—to catch up with production now and then, and rest, as we do. Is it that they love work so well?"

"No, Work on Earth is mostly dreary drudgery. The trouble is the things "No, Work on Earth is mostly dreary drudgery. The trouble is the things they produce are not their own. Those who make things on earth are given back only a pittance of their product and when they have produced a vast quantity, they must stop because the Overlords no longer find it profitable to employ them."

"I think you're spoofing now, Ouija. Are the Earth people so crazy?"
"Indeed, no; one must have brains to be crazy—and so few of the Earth people have brains.'

"And what are the relations between the employers and employed on earth?" "Except where the workers are united, the relations are the same as those existing between a lion and a flock of lambs."
"Then the workers are not all united? You astound me."

"No. In many cases, they try hard to unite but are prevented by their employers who use a weapon known only to Earth people to prevent them."

"And what is this terrible weapon? One discovered during the war?"

"No. It is an old, old weapon down there—it is FEAR. When the workers try to organize, the cannibalistic employers inject the FEAR serum into them; fear of starvation, of unemployment, of cold, of jail, because of unemployment, of suffering by their wives and babes."

"We see a network of wires covering the Western continent—what is that?" "They constitute the telegraph and telephone systems, which employ many thousands of workers."

"And are these workers organized?"

"The bulk of them are not. There are one or two of these great systems that will not even employ an 'organized workman.'"

"Indeed; from what we observe, the telegraph and telephone concerns employ but few men. Why is that?"

Digitized by Google

"The telephone companies employ young girls because they are 'cheaper.' Of late, the telegraph companies are doing the same."

"What do you mean, 'cheaper'? Do women require less food, clothing, or shelter?

"Indeed, no; they require even more clothing than men. But they will accept lower wages because they are still near-slaves. They have not progressed in point of demand for liberty, as have the men.

"Then workers are not paid in accordance with their needs or commensurate with the amount of work they do?"

"Indeed, no. They are paid the lowest wage they will accept; and since it is the custom to compel them to work long hours, fewer workers are needed and competition for jobs is keen."

"Why, then, do they not go out to the land and toil for themselves?"

"Because the land is in the hands of a few. The natural resources of that great Western nation you are so interested in, rest in the hands of a few hundred families."

"Whew! They must be prodigious giants to have worked so hard and accumulated such enormous wealth?'

"No, indeed. For the most part, they are shriveled weaklings who do not even know how to work. They acquired ownership by magic papers granted by kings, through the superiority of ancestors as thieves, or by accident."
"Coming back to those telegraph workers: Why are the women predominant in that industry? And more puzzling still, why do so many telegraph workers who are not men, still wear trousers?"

who are not men, still wear trousers?"

"The wire companies, mainly, are controlled by cannibals who are insane with greed and hatred of liberty, so they employ the cheapest labor. But the things you see wearing trousers, who still are not men, why they are Earth's funniest jokes! They are carefully selected for this reason: bcause only real men and real women join labor unions. But happily, the breed cannot perpetuate itself and some day the telegraph companies will be compelled to employ real men and women. And the women are coming rapidly to demand more freedom. It is true, too, that where women are really awake, they go even further than men in devotion to ideals of liberty."

"Then what will the telegraph owners do?"

"One of them has said he would let the wires rust and the poles rot down rather than deal with organized workers."

"And the people will permit their means of communication to be thus interrupted?"

"Indeed, yes. They would return to barbarism rather than impinge on the sacred rights of property."

"But, for God's sake, is there no such thing as HUMAN rights on Earth?" "No. Human life is the cheapest thing on earth. It is a standing joke there that 'there's a new one born every second.'"

"Then these telegraph workers, who, by their toil, helped create the telegraph systems, have no RIGHTS in them?"

"Not at all. There is a pleasant fiction on Earth that things are produced by capital and not by labor."

"But the tremendous piles of gold we see stacked up in the national capitals: we see plainly that they produce nothing—that they are added to only by the toil of the producers. Can the people not see this?"

"No, indeed. But if they do, it is taboo to say so. Those who do are dubbed Bolsheviks and deported to Russia."

"You have hinted, Ouija, that some employers are not cannibals—that some of them deal with their organized workers and-

"Yes, civilization has produced many employers who do not enjoy eating the flesh of babes and sucking the marrow of old men and women. Their ranks are growing."

"And are their relations with the workers pleasant?"

"Certainly. They work with their workers, in harmony. And, really, they receive greater returns than do the cannibalistic employers. But, of course, the flesh-eating employers feel themselves recompensed in the misery and pain they are able to cause women and children."

"Why do not the peoples of the Earth banish the cannibalistic employers?" "There is no place they may be sent to; even Hell won't have them. And there are not yet enough intelligent citizens to put an end to slavery entirely. A start has been made, however. Two of the worst offenders, Emperor Wilhelm of Germany and Czar Nicholas of Russia, have been rendered harmless."

"Then there is hope that the world may become civilized, even by such slow degrees?"

"Yes. The process is speeding up. The cannibal employers made the great error of forcing their victims into schools for education, in order to make them Soon they will become sufficiently educated to see that the better producers. Earth has no need of cannibals."

"Then that will be a pleasant day. Until then, the people of Mars wish nothing to do with so backward a people. Please ring us up again when the Earth has been made safe for HUMANITY so that we of Mars may establish relations."

YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL

We admire a man who kicks when he has a kick coming, and gets it over with instead of carrying it around with him and being a perpetual grouch, and we like the fellow who offers criticism when he has a remedy to propose for the fault he points out. There is nothing more reliable in life, then plays and and valuable in life than plain speaking and constructive criticism, and there is nothing more disgusting than a grouch and a kicker.—North Dakota Workman.

and a kicker.—North Dakota Workman.

If human beings were not to talk to each other and listen to each other in a friendly horsensical way, God would not have given them the power of speech and the best brain of all the animals. If He meant our tongues and ears to be used in combat He would have pointed 'em more and put stingers on the ends of 'em. If speech and reason are not for friendly purposes, then God did a bum job on developing man. Look at the horns, hoofs, claws, fangs and teeth of elks, mules, tigers, snakes and alligators, and you will be convinced that if the Creator intended man to be a brutal scrapper, He would have known how to equip him for warfare. warfare.

So, confine the use of your organs of speech and hearing and thinking to peaceful purposes, giving and taking good advice, and not for making war on others and a darn fool of yourself.

"BACK TO THEIR PLACES" (By O. Penn Shoppe)

Oh. Labor thought to shake its chains, and deal with us together; it thought it had a lot of brains, and all that sort of blether. The workers labored through the war, or fought at Mons and Argonne; they jabbered of the war 'gainst war, and all that sort of jargon.

Sure, Labor fought to make men free, to toll the Kaiser's hour; we gave the boobs the loud Hee Hee for ours was the power. They manned the guns, we waved the flags for Democracy whouted; our "hands" wore patched up rags; we silks and broadcloth flouted.

Oh, what a joke: Oh, what a scream! Our slaves have gone plumb crazy, that they should even dare to dream, to share with US the realm of Lazy! They make us shake and roll and laugh, to dream they're up with we who graft.

And now the great world war is won, for Democracy (?) the world made safe; we'll show the slaves their freedom's done, we'll shove them back into their place. WE won the war by waving flags, while foolish labor fought and toiled; we'll lock them out till they're in rage, and vicious labor chiefs cry "foiled!"

Chicago.—The latest work of William Z. Foster, former secretary of the national committee to organize Steel Workers, called "The Railroaders' Next Step," is being published by The Federated Press in fourteen installments. He presents a historical sketch of the manner and means by which the railroaders have robbed the government, plundered the shippers, exploited the workers and double-crossed each other. other.

Foster shows a way out of the present impasse as it relates to the 16 railroad labor organizations. "The thing to do," he points out, "is to amalgamate these bodies into one powerful union along much the same lines as the railroad unions in Europe.

Washington.—At the final adjournment of the sixty-sixth congress, the following bills failed to pass:

Poindexter anti-strike bill, government regulation of cold storage, establish a budget system, permit co-operative marketing by farmers, appropriate money for federal good roads, prohibit future trading in food stuffs, infant and maternity aid, creating a department of education.

Huge profits for 1920 is reported by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. It is stated that the balance, after all costs have been paid, is $8.444,423, as against $4,039,457 in 1919.

The company has this large amount as "velvet." after all interest charges are met, dividends are paid and vast sums set aside for contingencies.

Charleston, W. Va.—The acquittal of the 16 miners of the murder of Albert Feltz at Matewan is halled here as an "unanswerable argument for the cause of unionism." An editorial in "The Federationist," speaks in glowing terms of the verdict, which it declares to be "a milestone in the march of unionism, a new Magna Charta to the miners of Southern West Virginia," and "a monument to the fearless and heroic men and women who are there making a fight for human liberty."

The editorial says that the trial was far more than a mere trial for the murder of Feltz; that it was "a trial of the American labor movement and particularly of the United Mine Workers of America," and "in a still larger sense of self-government."

The men, including Sid Hatfield, chief of police of Matewan, were found not guilty by a Mingo County jury.

Ottawa. Ont.—Unions opposed to the American Federation of Labor recently met in Toronto "for the purpose of forming a dual trades and labor council in Toronto and a dual national organization to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada." Tom Moore, president of the latter body, in a formal statement, condemns the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Workers.

"The decision handed out by Justice Rose, restoring to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employes the right of affiliation with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will not be appealed," the statement says.

The Winnipeg convention of the American Federation of Labor's legislative congress will take action, however. It will expel the Canadian Brotherhood, according to well-informed officials of the A. F. of L., who join with President Moore in charging that the Canadian Brotherhood is now making war on the International Seamen's Union through the issuance of charters to seamen engaged in the St. Lawrence trade.

Montreal, Quebec.—"The unemployment situation is very bad, and is steadily growinp worse," J. T. Foster, ex-president of the Trades and Labor Council, declared in an interview.

"Besides 5,000 men just thrown out of work by the shutdown of the Grand Trunk and Angus shops, between 15,000 and 18,000 are receiving no income whatever because of the slackness of the times. Many of them have had no employment for the last eight months."

Amsterdam.—Figures published by the International Labor Office show that in 20 countries the number of trade unionists has increased since 1910 from 10.836,000 in that year to 32,680,000 in 1919. Of these, five countries, the United Kingdom, Germany, United States, France and Italy, claim over 27,000,000 members.

Vancouver.—Electric railway and other public utility companies have refused to accept the award of a government conciliation board, thereby forcing union electrical workers in Vancouver and Victoria to call a strike.

London.—A summons to its 3,000,000 members has been issued by the International Transport Workers' Federation to meet at Geneva on April 18. Many subjects are listed for discussion in the resolutions on the agenda. One, in the name of the executive, for instance, congratulates the workers of those unions that prevented the transport of munitions to Poland and those intended for the blockage of Hungary and declares that "the most effective weapon against militarism and imperialism in every country is the organized strength of the trade union movement."

Washington.—Trade union women and their allies, federated as the National Women's Trade Union League of America, have announced their Eighth Biennial Convention, to be held in Waukegan, Ill., during the week beginning June 6.

The delegates to the convention of the National Women's Trade Union League will come from all branches of unionized occupational groups of women. There are about 600,000 organized women in the United States.

Montreal.—"Any modification of the existing scale of wages in the printing industry following the introduction of a 44-hour week depends, as far as organized labor is concerned, on the willingness of employers to give assurance, when the joint conference convenes in Chicago on April 2, that the 44-hour week will come into force on May 1." J. W. Hayes, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union, announced.

"If this is assured our labor group will be prepared to leave the settlement of wages in the hands of its local unions."

Washington.—The Cummins-Esch law is a failure, both in theory and effect, declared William G. McAdoo, former director general of railroads. The former official is quoted as saying that the carriers are drifting toward government ownership.

Seattle Union Record, of Seattle, Wash, the daily owned and operated by organized labor, has purchased a four-story building which it will occupy May 1. The building was bought for $80,000. An additional press will be installed, which will make it possible to increase the circulation to 100,000, the editors have announced.

Detroit.—Strikes in the body-finishing departments at the Fisher Body Corporation plant, the Packard Motor Company and the American Auto Trimming Company are still on and the lockout at the Hupp Motor Car Company also is going forward. Employes have been out nearly two months, wage reductions put into effect by the companies having been the cause of the walkouts.

Billings, Mont.—Coal miners of the Montana district have voted and sent $2,000 for the use of striking miners in Western Washington who are now out of work in resistance to a wage cut announced by the operators. A special assessment of one per cent was levied on the Montana miners by their district board here.

Toronto. Ont.—Training of auto mechanics will take place in a school to be established by Toronto lodges of the International Association of Machinists.

According to Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, 16 trade unionists have been elected to the national house of representatives.

national house of representatives.

"Unofficial returns," says Mr. Morrison. "show that there have been re-elected 288 members of congress whose records show them to be friendly to labor, or who have made pledges to support labor measures. There were 117 elected whose records are known to be unfavorable to labor while the records of 63 are unrecorded."

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has joined the list of international organizations that own their own homes. The garment workers have purchased a four-story building in New York City for $55,000 and will expend $50,000 in fitting it for the various activities of this organization.

Organized workers of Lynn, Mass., are assisting in the promotion of a co-operative laundry, under charter granted by Massachusetts. The authorized capital is $50,000, divided into $5 shares. The plan that has been successful in Seattle, Wash., and other places is being followed. Lynn has more than 15,000 organized working people.

London, England.—Robert Smillie, president of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, has resigned because of ill health.

Agreements have been reached by organized granite workers of New York and 200 employes continuing until April 1, 1922, the present rate of $9 for an eight-hour day. Negotiations continued over a period of two weeks.

There had been talk of reducing the scale, but arguments advanced by representatives of the workers prevailed and the employers, after signing a contract, expressed themselves as entirely satisfied.

Granite employers in New York are not members of the Building Trades Employers' Association. They deal directly with the members of the Granite Cutters' local union, with a membership of about 1,100.

Vancouver, B. C.—Union street car men won their strike against the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, this corporation withdrawing its proposal for open shop conditions and a 10 per cent reduction in wages.

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—Frank Woodward, secretary of the Central Labor Council of the One Big Union, has been elected editor of the "One Big Union Bulletin" to succeed John Houston, who died of pneumonia.

Mr. Houston was well-known in various sections of Canada as a lecturer and writer on Socialism and kindred topics.

Montreal Quebec.—Operations in Montreal's cattle markets are at a standstill because 500 butchers employed by the Davies Packing Company, Canadian Packing Company and Montreal Abattoirs struck against wage reductions of from 12 to 26 per cent and increased working hours.

Rochester, N. Y.—Organized teamsters in this city have declared against a wage reduction, favored by employers. The teamsters say they will negotiate on the basis of the present agreement.

Detroit, Mich.—Commercial shop members of Typographical Union No. 18 have secured wage increases through arbitration. The old rate of $44.50 for day work and $47.50 for night work is increased to $46.50 and $51.50, and will date back to November 1st, last.

Newark, N. J.—Wages of pressmen employed on newspapers have been advanced $4.20 a week, as a result of arbitration. The new rates are $49 a week for foremen and $43.20 for pressmen. An additional $1.80 will be paid for Sunday morning papers when the work is performed on Saturday night. The award dates back to October of last year.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Firemen and Oilers' Journal reports that since last December the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and Oilers has chartered nearly 100 locals, in every section of the United States and Canada.

Somerset, Ky.—An eight hour day and a 25 per cent wage increase has been secured by local street car men, who have perfected a strong trade union.

Galesburg, Ill.—The new wage agreement negotiated by Typographical Union No. 288 provides for increased wages in some branches. Newspapers and commercial shops are affected.

SECOND ANNUAL BALL BIG SUCCESS

The greatest gathering of Telegraphers in the history of the profession attended the Second Annual Dance and Entertainment given by the Eastern Broker Division, Friday evening, March 18th, in the Grand Ball Room, Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City.

Attendance records for past performances were smashed. Approximately 1,000 people graced the occasion and remarks overheard during and after the affair indicate unanimity in one idea—a big time and great success for the E. B. D. Many prominent brokers, representatives of wire houses, their friends and families, and high officials of two news associations were noticed among the multitude of merrymakers.

Division members of the General Committee from subunits were invited by Chairman Dunn. Those present from subunit districts were:

A. L. Wright, Philadelphia.

R. C. Patterson, Pittsburgh.

W. H. Schott and J. W. Freeman, Baltimore.

The General Committee met in executive session Sunday, March 20, at the Continental Hotel.

The affair was informal, only committeemen wearing the customary full dress. The gathering was noticeable because of the many, many stylishly gowned ladies, and many of their escorts let it be know that they were proud of their charges.

Everyone in the spacious ballroom seemed to imbibe the air of congeniality and friendship that swept through the hotel with the arrival of the committeemen. This feeling was apparent until the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" floated out into the fover.

Many men shook the hands of dear friends whom they had not seen for many years. In many groups one could gather from conversations that pleasant associations and happy memories of days gone by were being recalled with delight.

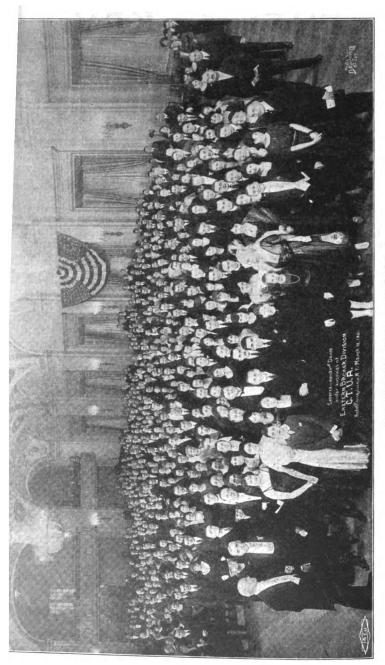

The crowds began to arrive early and continued to steadily pour in until 11 o'clock. They came singly, came in pairs, came in parties of ten and twenty; came in flocks and droves, taxing to the utmost the various committees. Every seat and box in the great ballroom was occupied and two hundred or more walked and lounged about the foyer and committee rooms.

The entertainment was conducted cabaret style—alternating dances with vaudeville. The show was under personal supervision of the Vaudeville Division of the Actors' Equity Association, from whom we booked the talent, with the exception of two juvenile stars—Baby Pearl Sims and "Babe Ruth" Stern, both five years of age and daughters of brother members. The tots did their "stunt" in "big time" fashion and gained tremendous applause from the audience.

Expressions heard on every hand were very gratifying to those who toiled many long hours to make the occasion a great success. "I left that place," said one member, "as proud as could be of my brother members and of the organization that staged it."

One lady expressed the unanimous sentiment when she said: "For once in my life I was proud to be a Telegrapher."

ARTICLE III.

BUGGESTIONS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE FOR BROKERAGE FIRMS HAVING WIRE DEPARTMENTS

At regular intervals most firms have their books audited and have their system gone over by an efficiency expert. Thorough investigation is made in all departments—BUT ONE—and recommendations suggested to improve the methods of conducting business. This work involves considerable expense and is considered money well expended. The strength of a chain is measured by that of its weakest link. Many firms have telegraph departments with maintenance costs running into very large amounts yearly, and yet no efficiency expert is called in to ascertain whether that branch of the service is being conducted efficiently or economically. Quite a few firms have the idea that by engaging the services of Telegraphers at the lowest rate of wage possible it means economy. There is no more glaring instance of uneconomic truth than this. Telegraphy being so much Greek to the average Broker, the query naturally arises. Whore can I secure the services of an Efficiency Expert in Wall Street telegraphic service? Perusal of the following will enlighten you in this respect:

The EASTERN, and WESTERN BROKER DIVISION of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America were organized by several of the well-known expert telegraphers in Wall Street, who had a keen appreciation of the slipshod method pursued by Brokerage Firms in engaging the services of Operators to man their wires and the resultant loss of business. They realised that brokers, ignorant of the telegraphic art, were at the mercy of the men so engaged, and that it was only by chance that the services of a good man were secured. Rules were drawn up, requiring that before an Operator was eligible for membership he would have to pass a test as to telegraphic ability, familiarity with Wall Street methods, and furnish references as to character, honesty and ability. Our plan was outlined to some of the larger wire houses in the Street, with the result that they are now thoroughly unionized, and even when they want a substitute operator they telephone our headquarters. Other houses in similar instances, simply give instructions to "get an operator wherever you can." How unbusinesslike, to put a stranger, of unknown ability, on a wire handling business, the character of which admits of the possibility of heavy losses through error. For the sake of consistency, we urge that whenever you need a Telegrapher you get in touch with us—we assure you that any man we send to you will be an expert in his line.

Furthermore: Do you realise that the proper team work between Telegraphers on your wires is reflected to a considerable extent in your earnings? Give this particular attention! What is your attitude toward your Telegraphic force? Do you look upon them as a sort of necessary incumbrance, or do you accord them the treatment that should be shown men of above ordinary intelligence? Is your Wire Department located in a dingy, poorly-ventilated part of the office, or are their quarters commodious and cheerful? Do you consider them to be mere machines, or do you by your attitude infer that you look upon them as high intellectual business developers, and that you will consider them as eligible for higher positions? In other words, what is the morale of your Wire Department? If your operators are well paid men, with prospects of promotion, they will make your interests their interests.

The clerical force is given especial consideration in the way of treatment and chances of advancement; and still, their training is not necessarily as comprehensive as that of the telegraphers. A clerk can dally over his work, but seconds count with the telegraphers. A clerk can make an error and correct it with an erasure, whereas the telegrapher is constantly under the strain that if an error is made it is generally corrected at a loss of dollars to the firm.

The following analogy is far-fetched, nevertheless it is pertinent: If you purchased a new Rolls-Royce auto and contemplated engaging the services of a Chauffeur, would you simply fone a garage to send you "a chauffeur"? You would not. With a car costing thousands of dollars you would not trust it in the hands of a man who had not been running anything better than a Ford. You would want an expert and you would expect to have to pay him a higher wage than the less capable man. And yet, in many instances, when a firm installs a wire service costing thousands of dollars yearly, they endeavor to secure the services of Operators at the lowest figure possible. Either the wire is worth working for all the business possible, as out-of-town business is extremely competitive, and retention and increase depends upon rapidity and accuracy of service, or it is not worth bothering with at all.

If you should desire any further particulars, a phone call to Broad 2258, or letter addressed to THE EASTERN BROKER DIVISION, C. T. U. A., will bring one of our representatives to your office.

REFLECTIONS FROM THE BALL

Three pages of facsimile signatures carried in the program was a distinct hit with old timers as well as the younger men.

Con McElreath had "Mumsle" with him. Anyone who doesn't know who "Mumsle" is has no business in the telegraph game.

Oliver M. Young, chief operator for E. H. Clarke & Co., was all over the place meeting old friends.

Captain Cook and Peter L. Murphy, boardroom men for Paine, Webber & Co., had a pleasant time and made the time pleasant for some of their friends.

Flashlight shows Jack Gerrity posed as if the weight of the ship of state rested upon his manly shoulders.

There are a few flashlight pictures left. Anyone desiring them please communicate with Secretary Hickey.

Johnny Custer and his boss also were tere. Johnny was all slicked up like a peeled onion.

Bob White and Mrs. White saw more Telegraph Operators in one night than Mrs. White thought were in the world.

7:18 p. m. in Room 523, Pennsylvania Hotel: John Fletcher admires himself in the mirror on the bathroom door. "I wish Mamma could see her son now!" 7:23 p. m. Enters Grand Ball Room erect and much pleased with himself.

"Doc" Raynor, of Nicholas, Raynor & Truesdel, was "there by a large majority." He invited everybody he met down-stairs to have a "cigarette."

Bill Sedgwick was trying to out Samson Samson with the marble pillars in the ball room.

John Peacock Duckworth, accompanied by the other 15/16ths, was present, amply suplied with samples—visible and invi-sible. He danced without a sending machine.

Oh, sure! Jimmy Ross was there and after looking Bogey Nelson over remarked: "Gosh, I never saw Bogey with such a broad expanse of white shirt."

A lady friend of Charlie Josephson remarked: "How odd that all the men have on the same kind of shirts." Shut up'

B. F. Rupple, Secretary District Council, and Miss Aline Whittlesev, our former Assistant Secretary, handled the crowds at the door.

Harry Greene stood close by the door to give everybody the glad hand.

After watching the dance for some time and giving Wesley Russell the O-O, we'll say he shakes a mean foot.

President Thomas of the District Council, left a sick bed to be on hand. The affair would have lacked something had Percy failed us.

George Martin hailed "Whit" as the "Ambassador to Turkey." Well, wet Turkey is better than dry New York. Let's go!

Mr. Marlen E. Pew and Con. H. Mc-Elreath, representing the I. N. S., occupied a box set aside for their comfort and con-

Mr. W. W. Hawkins, L. E. Earnist and K. A. Bickel of the United Press, wrote their regrets to Secretary Hickey. Mr. Hawkins was the only one in the city and he pleaded an urgent business engage-

Mr. Savage, "C. O." for Post & Flagg, was there with his entire family.

8:41 p. m.—W. F. "Bill" Fisher and Sam Aber arrive, accompanied by Tom Doyle and a welcome odor of the past.

9:18 p. m.—Enter President Dunn. Introduces everybody to everybody else and goes into executive conference with two stews.

"Now boys, don't fail us tonight." They were the punchbowl attendants. . . .

10:30 p. m.—Secretary Hickey approaches Chairman Snodgrass of the Entertainment Committee as he leaned against the wall near the punchbowl. m.—Secretary "Say George," began the Secretary, and then took a squint at the Chairman.

"Oh Hell, you're too d——d stupid to know your name."
Exit Hickey.

10:50 p. m.—John Fletcher emerges from Room 123, pallid of countenance and a steely stare, walking with a dot and dash movement.

Secretary Hickey: 'Oh Boy! Don't you wish Mamma could see her son now." Dumb.

11:15 p. m.—Orchestra playing a popular fox-trot. Chairman Campbell of Ushers' Committee dancing waltz time with s young lady; stops and gazes at her, saying: "Shay! Where's zyoung lady 'zwas dancin' zwit a minnit 'go?"

Continues to waitz.

Matty Gaffney says he can't dance with anyone, but the Missus. Why?

Mr. Stevens, of Munds, Rogers and Stackpole, was also present and said he "wouldn't miss it for anything."

Charile Donahue was on the job near the gate. Charlie knows everybody in New York and vicinity, either personally or by sight.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Hinshaw danced "together." Wonder why these dancing masters ALWAYS dance with their wives.

Second Vice Chairman, Gessner shows up like a bloated bondholder in the flashlight picture.

Bart Kearney was busy all night try-ing to find O'Sullivan. O'Sullivan was busy trying to find Campbell. Nelson was all piled up trying to find Snodgrass. Snod-grass was "supervisor" of the punchbowl.

Among those not present was Pat O'-Sullivan. We missed you.

4:20 a. m.—Telephone rings in Room 523. Chairman Snodgrass answers. "Shay Snod. I jus' foun' a bottle of sumpin' up here 'hind windowshade, want "Hell no," replied the Chairman, "I got muh shoes off."

J. Allen Trudo placed Lyndhurst N. J., in the public eye. He showed up in full dress with minstrel collar and a black necktie. He was announced as "Campbell the Undertaker."

Ralph Barber viewed the entertainment from a point of vantage in the boxes, accompanied by his Mother.

Marse Lee Butterfield's expansive smile was there.

One gentleman came with his own dress suit, his own girl and his physician. He wanted to KNOW he'd get home.

Chairman of a certain committee, when introduced to Mrs. Clyde M. Howell, merely stared and gaped like an alligator out for a sunning. Couldn't say a word.

Lester L. Greene, accompanied by Mrs. Greene, his son and two sisters seemed to enjoy the affair.

John W. Morris, originally from Turkey Grove, Texas, now head of the Order Department for a big house, paid us a visit early in the night.

Bogey Nelson and his boss were invited up to a friend's house to spend the night. After having a bite to eat they hailed a taxicab and went up town. Next morning Bogey discovered he had nothing to wear to work, but the old full dress. He borrowed everything he wore except his overcoat and hat.

S. T. Abel brought his two daughters and danced with the other young bucks.

C. H. Ludwig, I. N. S., at Philadelphia, came in with the visiting members, but unfortunately had to leave at midnight in order to cover the job Saturday morning.

John P. McCloskey and sister occupied a box and met many old friends.

"Doug" Wilson and Harry Schaefer headed a party of twenty from one wire house.

Chairman Campbell, after taking his lady friend up to "Coogan's Bluff," registered with the Interborough for a through trip to Brooklyn. He went through and back to Van Cortlandt Park, New York, and then reported to J. B. five minutes late. Jim says, 5 cents is entirely too cheap for a night's travel, including Pullman.

Many people came from as far as Brooklyn. New Yorkers were heard to remark that they looked almost like regular "city fellers."

Tom Doyle awoke in Hoboken, clear in the head, but crossed in the feet. He rang "Z" in and reported the "trouble."

Ralph Johnson, lightweight checker phenom, disappeared about 10 p. m. At midnight Mrs. Johnson organized a posse to start pursuit. He was located parked in a taxicab at 1:45 a. m. What was that you told Charlie Josephson, Ralph?

"After The Ball," Babe Ruth's latest hit, was appreciatively conducted by Arthur Sullivan, Jack Martine and Jack Hummel. All three saluted everyone they met, but none would talk. 6:20 a. m.—J. W. "Bill" Freeman and Schott offer a consolidated reward of ten bucks for the guy who gave away their room number.

"Doc" Wright, Philadelphia, and Patterson, Pittsburgh, searched the neighborhood for binoculars, saying they wanted to see it all.

Secretary Hickey was "called" by several chief operators for not notifying them of the affair so they could be on hand to meet their old friends and enjoy the evening with the boys.

Oh, yes, Joe Mallon is in the picture. He's standing just back of Whit. Any wonder you can't find him?

The floor Committee are contemplating formation of a "booking agency." They figure experience gained in booking dances at the ball speaks for itself.

Denny Kelleher, when not trying to see himself in the punchbowl, was telling someone about the two Irishmen who wanted to "start this fight all over again."

Chairman Dunn, Mrs. Dunn, Master Allen Dunn, Master Jack Hickey, Jr., in juvenile marine full dress, Fred Towne and his close friend, Mr. Murphy, occupied the front row in the flashlight.

Bogey says he agrees with Mr. Dooley, that the greatest man who ever lived was the man who invented suspenders.

Jack Dunn and Jack Hickey couldn't "figger" out why their boys, Master Allan Dunn and Jakiki, Jr., touched the Old Man for half a buck every few minutes. However, the mystery was cleared when they came back from the candy store escorting the two Howell girls. At Easter time anonymous postcards were exchanged between the four. Startin' early, boys.

Nearly everyone knew Ed. Palmer. He was there greeting old friends with the glad hand and winning smile.

It was one grand night and members of the E. B. D. are justly proud of themselves and their organization.

Ten regular jobs were filled from Headquarters during March and nineteen full weeks of relief were supplied. Total $2700 exclusive of regular jobs. Dues in the E. B. D. are $18 per year.

Fred Towne in the front row of the flashlight leads one to believe it was a gathering of bankers.

In submitting the report of our recent Entertainment and Dance, we desire to express our thanks, not alone to those who took an active part in the arrangements, but also to the much larger number who, in various ways contributed to its suc-COSE.

A substantial portion of the credit for the success of this year's event must be attributed to the spirit of co-operation shown by those who composed the 1920 Committee. Their efforts made a success of last year's Entertainment and the experience then gained has been of great value to us. To the members of that Committee, we acknowledge a real obligation and wish to express our deep sense of gratitude for encouragement and helpful counsel; and, in return, pledge similar support to the Committee which succeeds us.

Thanks are also extended to General Chairman Dunn, and to the host of other members, friends and well-wishers of whom it is impossible to make individual mention. Their co-operation was necessary to success and they responded almost as a unit, purchasing more than one thousand tickets and thirty-two pages of advertiging space. advertising space.

CLOTHING WORKERS WIN RIGHT TO ### PICKET

NEW YORK-

Amalgamated Clothings Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America to restrain the workers from picketing the establishment of J. Friedman & Co., Inc., was dismissed by Justice Bijur of the State Supreme Court on March 29.

Justice Bijur ruled the facts stated in the complaint failed to allege a sufficient cause of action.

The suit was for an injunction preventing picketing; for dissolution of the union, and for $500,000 damages against the officers and 175,000 members of the Amalagamated Clothing Workers.

The union, by the decision, wins the right to picket shops where its members are on strike.

NEW YORK—(Next day)—Supreme Court Justice Van Sicien granted to Schwartz & Jaffe, clothing manufacturers, an injunction restraining the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America from "unlawful picketing," etc.

What we'd like to know is: Which is which or who's who? Also what became of that indictment against the Western Union for carrying telegrams via the Suit Case Route.

JACK'S OBSERVATIONS

The Entertaining Committee in the "Smoking Room" consisted of Brothers "Mike" Keenan, "Bill" Sedgwick and "Jack" Hummel. How so many folks found their way down there is a mystery to me, when the extraordinary attractions on the floor above were so enjoyable

The strangest thing about the "jabbering" in this den is that there was not a single knock against the Volstead act.
At a rough estimate, we venture to say Frank Williams and "Tom" Doyle made the most trips, and were still travelling when the gong rang.

Doc MoLean, announces the birth of an heir apparent on March 27th. Congratulations, Mac.

The Consolidated Stock Exchange dropped their telegraph force on the first of the moffth, having been permitted by the New York Stock Exchange to place a ticker on the platform, from which the quotations are placed on the board. This let three men out, only one of which, Brother Thiery, has a card. One of the others made an attempt to get a Broker Division card when he was tipped off of the discontinuance, but owing to the new ruling of the E. B. D., he will have to serve his apprenticeship as a "regular job" operator in Wall Street first. The Consolidated Stock Exchange drop-

One of the latest additions to the list is Brother Sam Schwinger, who severed his connection with our old friends, Thomson & McKinnon, where he has been doing wonderful work for a long while. They will have to go some to replace Sam, as he "eats 'em alive." Another addition is "Joe" McElroy, from the W. B. D. He has made a fine showing already, by an exhibition of unionism in connection with a certain position down here. Send on some more like Mac. There will be plenty of room in New York when things get lively again. again.

A COMMENDABLE SUGGESTION

An Open letter to the Members of the New York District E. B. D.

Brothers:

Harmony, able leadership, and loyal co-operation of the membership are the three important essentials to which can be at-tributed in a great measure, the splendid success of the annual Entertainment and Dance of New York District, Eastern Broker Division, C. T. U. A., held in the Grand Ball Room of the Pennsylvania Hotel Friday, March 18th, 1921.

Our many friends also stood by us loyally, contributing their share towards that success, which culminated in one of the most brilliant affairs ever held in this citv.

A glimpse at the generous donations of advertising in the Official Programme insured the financial success of the underof advertising in the Official Programme insured the financial success of the undertaking, and when one looked around over the gathering, no doubt remained as to the Social side of the affair. Besides the usual array of expert telegraph talent, there were present many of our friends who are prominently associated with large firms in the financial district, and the simple inquiry "What do you think of it" always elicited the brief but pleasing reply "FINE." You have now demonstrated beyond the question of a doubt what New York District is capable of doing socially each year. For the second time within a trifle over a year, you have placed our organization in a position of respect, and those whom we look upon as our employers admire our efforts and offer support in seeking to form their forces through the medium of our headquarters. We are fast outgrowing our present headquarters, and will soon be obliged to seek more lucrative rooms, and this important change should not be permitted to go until the last minute. Our District is now on a solid business footing and we need more room. We should have a Headquarters where we can seat comfortably at least one hundred members at and we need more room. We should have a Headquarters where we can seat comfortably at least one hundred members at meetings, with a private office for our Secretary Treasurer, a suitable room where our General. Executive, and other Committees could meet to transact business, and a room fitted out with Newspapers, Magazines, books, writing material, etc.

and a pool table if possible. If such a layout can be secured, centrally located, I believe we could arrange to have a luncheon served to our members and their friends, who could take advantage of same daily, at a moderate cost.

At first thought this may appear too much of an undertaking, but when we look back upon the success of our last two annual affairs, nothing within reason appears beyond our reach. However, caution should be exercised before taking any definite steps along such lines, and I take 2776—Tel Journal 4-11 ROSEN—18 this opportunity to suggest that a Committee of not more than FIVE be appointed to "DEVISE WAYS AND MEANS" to procure a suitable Headquarters for the New York District, on or before expiration of the present lease. Or perhaps our Executive Committee would be the proper Officials to function on such a matter. Over a year ago I addressed an open letter to you along these lines. The time is approaching when you must take some definite action regarding your Headquarters. Will you be ready when that time arrives? Fraternally and Respectfully Submitted,

FRED W. TOWNE.

R. H. MeMASTERS & CO.

Dave Talmage, who has been hitting the ball on our Chicago wire for the past year, has been promoted to manager of our Hartford office. Hate to see you go, Dave, but here's wishing you all the success in but here's the world.

Bob Stewart from Josephthal relieved Dave on Chicago and is putting 'em over to Paddy Shea at that end.

Percy Bowling is giving the boys plenty faction on the Hartford - Richmond string.

Ernie DeLashmet is handling the curb service via phone at present and helping out on wires when necessary.

PYNCHON & CO. NOTES

Everybody seemed to be pleased with the manner in which our Entertainment and Dance was conducted. The event was a re-union of old-timers, and helped to elevate the craft. The flashlight of the merry-makers turned out very distinct, and as to the programme "Nuff sed."

Bill Booth is back on the Duplex after a two weeks' illness.

May and Anna Reilly are pounding the brass as usual after a brief absence, due to sickness in the family.

Ralph Cook has been released from our staff due to a reduction in force.

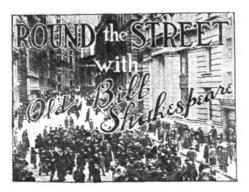

A sure harbinger of spring is that the Pynchon Athletic Assn. has started their practice games at Donnelly's Grove, Staten Island. The result of the first workout was as follows:

Regulars ......10 Rookies .....

Luft pitched for the former, and Lucke for the latter.

The line-up follows:

Greenlee3b	O'Brien
GarvinS-S	MetzlerC-F

PAINE WEBBER NOTES

Drop in fellows and see our art gallery, every morning the boys have a "hanging" and our wire room looks like the Louvre.

"Sergeant" Markson graced our office for a week while Brother Demers visited the old folks at Fitchburg.

Cal. Connery, and Jack Handlen have defied all criticisms and now wear spats openly, right in broad daylight. Cal. threatens to part his hair in the middle, while Jack is developing a cute lisp. It may reach the point where it may be necessary to buy them kimonos.

Dan Foley is filling the chair alongside "Fatty" Considine on the Boston duplex.

Jack Woods is complaining bitterly these days of the quality of cigars you get for a jitney. His complaint is echoed by the gang who have to inhale his smoke.

There is a terrible epidemic of mustaches in this office, Yerkes Dunn is the latest addict to the habit. He has become fully fifty percent less efficient, due to the habit he has developed of stroking his facial decoration.

Ed. O'Reilly of our Philadelphia office came up for the big racket. Our wife thought him very handsome. Ed sure enjoyed himself immensely if outward appearances count anything.

Al Healy, he of the ornamental growth, is preening himself on these, a sure sign of approaching spring. Al is in the market for a non-melting wax to keep his mustache from skidding during the hot spells.

We see our old friend Lennox Barnes around these days. "Buster" is taking on the appearance that goes well with an affluent broker.

E. F. HUTTON & CO. NOTES

Many changes have taken place in this telegraph office since New Years—almost the entire force is new, that is, new to this office but old in the business, and, disregarding the bad example of Richard Mansfield, the actor, Thomas S. Brick-house, Esq., has surrounded himself with a "galaxy of stars."

Among the new arrivals are: Pearce, Thad Terry, Russell Broad, Marshell Poindexter, W. C. Cozad and Thomas Christy.

The new North Coast duplex, a little cumbersome and requiring very close attention, takes in Denver, Butte, Tacoma, Portland, Vancouver, etc., and extends south to Los Angeles. It is the longest of all leased wires and is manned by Christy and Broad. The old coast wire is handled by Terry and Derr.

There are two "bricks" in this office— Brickhouse and Brick Sly; the latter a well known master of fast rhymical sending, is wiggling his bug on Palm Beach wire.

The stenographers, etc.. deadly females in vamp attire, bust into the telegraph department very, very frequently. They seem to prefer to engage the attention of the popular Asst. Chief Opr., Jack Phillips, rather than the Chief Opr. himself. Not that the Chief Opr. is curt or brusque or that he holds himself aloof from the females, ah no' Brickhouse can shoot the ointment with any of them; but Phillips has a certain way of rolling his eyes that simply—well—, they must have more.

Hope Bowling is working the midnight shift. Mrs. Michael O'Donnells' husband is on the job every day.

We very much regret to report that popular fellow and good operator, Harry Pearce, underwent an operation for appendicitis recently.

When the workmen get through here we are going to have an entirely new and enlarged telegraph office with new furnishings and additional facilities for telegraph service.

Brickhouse is admittedly one of the foremost of Chief Operators in a position that requires great ability and efficiency. And it is the kind of efficiency that fits in with the "New Freedom." Operators are treated as Brickhouse would want to be treated himself. The confinement of the business is reduced to a minimum and there are lunch and short reliefs for all, anyone can go out on a moment's notice.

A. A. HOUSMAN & CO. NOTES By James P. Tynan

"Charlie" Gessner, for many years with N. L. Carpenter & Co., and since the first of the year with A. A. Housman & Co., resigned, to take a position with M. S. Wolfe & Co., where Brother Fletcher is in charge. We have known "Charlie" for a long time and have always held him in the highest personal esteem. He is not only a very fine telegrapher, but is the personification of congeniality and the embodiment of goodfellowship. He "tipped us off" that he expects to get a few vocal lessons between times from Brother Fletcher, who is the star baritone of the E. B. D. "Charlie", the boys at Housman's wish you all the success in the world

Our own "Shoot-It-To-'Em 'Bill' " Fisher was very much in evidence at the ball. "Bill" had his "up-to-date" pinned to his left coat lapel and shook hands with almost as many people as he does on one of those famous Seattle-Havana-Toronto trips he makes when he goes out to 'bring home the bacon" for the firm.

Our President, John W., and Mrs. Dunn were voted the handsomest couple at the bail. They were "chaperoned" by their son, Master J. Allan Dunn. Allan wanted to take out a card, but "Jack" said he'd have to wait another year as he is only 11 years old. In another year he will be 21 (reversed).

Clarence Avery had a little trouble at the door because he insisted on bringing the Pierce Arrow in on the ball-room floor.

"Tommy" Dealy and Mary Ryan, the two most prominent of our all-star order force were in the middle of the ball-room floor when the photographer stopped the dance to take the flashlight. After the blinding flash and the accompanying explosion the orchestra resumed and Mary, trying to recover her mental equilibrium, said, "Let's see, what were we doing?" "You were dancing and I was with you," solemnly replied the undaunted Thomas.

Herbert and Mrs. Long "looked down on us."—From one of the boxes.

Ralph Thompson was there with the "fish-and-soup" on.

"Rogie" Rogero brought his mother-inlaw with him. That's our conception of a sport.

Frank Gambino's wife would so let him go. But she wouldn't give him carfare.

"Red" Bianco had to attend a meeting of the Clan-Na-Gael.

"Billy" Mitchell got "sore" because Mary Ryan only danced with him three times.

We kept "ducking" "Charlie" Crawley's wife all night because he said he was going to point us out to the lady as the "gink" that writes these notes.

"Joey" Mead was there with the future Mrs. Mead. "Joey" says June 17th is to be the date.

"Dick" Walsh stuck so close to "Web" of Carpenter, Caffrey & Co., that we can't figure out whether he was trying to get a job with Weber, or get Weber to take a job with Housman & Co.

As we went out we saw "Dave" Berman and Shackleford arguing with the house detective as to whether or not it was objectionable to try a little close harmony in the main foyer.

PRICE GUARD & CO.

Brother Russell Dougherty is Manager of Order and Telegraph Department and has an efficient force.

Louie Silverman, a "Listening Post" regular, bats 'em out to a 100 percent crowd, including Harry Koeberle at Philadelphia.

Miss Hartung, formerly assistant secretary, E. B. D., and one of the best steno-graphers in the Street, is employed by this firm.

JOSEPHTHAL & CO. NOTES

"Greetings from JO", new contributor in these columns. Although we cannot at the present writing, boast of a 100%, nevertheless the prospects look bright.

Brother Bob Stewart, who was with us for a number of years, has resigned to accept a more lucrative position with McMasters & Co.

Arthur Riblef, formerly with N. L. Carpenter & Co., relieved Bob Stewart on the western circuit. This wire has five offices, manned by the following operators who are all members of the W. B. D.: Joe L. Rapp, Chicago; Wm. Walsh, Cincinnati; Wm. F. Balmes, Detroit; Dick Wismer, Ft. Wayne, and Geo. Guy at Canton.

Outside of looking after the wire room, answering the fones, relieving the operators, watching the telltale, and answering questions, Joe Shields, our genial Chief Operator, has absolutely fiothing else to do.

Andy Turner, who resides in Huntington, L. I., has been tearing up Merrick Road with his high powered Hudson. When out joy riding Andy is always in high "Spirits".

Bill Russell, who works the Cleveland wire, informs us that he has a wonderful cellar. Can you let us in on your recipe, Bill.

Jack Lawson, manipulator of our Hibbs Washington wire, is very bullish on "Allied Oil". We presume he got some inside dope from his uncle, Thomas Lawson, on this. While we do not guarantee this stock, we believe it to come from a reliable source.

Johnny Neff, the beau Brummel of the wire room, has broken two of his wisdom teeth trying to master the guttural tones of the Hebrew dialect.

John Prevot, one of our order clerks, believes in that old adage "Silence is Golden." (That's Old Stuff, John).

You can hear Sam Sherman, our curb specialist, singing his famous ballad, 'Tre-land must be heaven for my mother came from there."

Jim Dougherty, our odd lot man, is as busy as a one armed juggler, with the poison ivy.

It is rumored that Johnny Freund has acquired a seat on the Exchange—Buffet.

The Josephthal Baseball Club has been formed with Howard Oscar as its manager. We are ready to meet all comers in the financial league. Our grounds are located at Park Circle, Brooklyn.

PHILADELPHIA NOTES

The March and April meetings proved not a whit less enthusiastic than previous meetings this year. The attendance at both meetings was splendid and the members deserve a word of praise for their earnest support of the present officers.

Eight new members were admitted, bringing the total up to about 25 new members so far this year. We've got to hand it to our untiring leader, for when he undertakes a job he completes it, and with the continued efforts on the part of his fellow-members, we shall soon have old Philly solid as the rock of Gibraltar.

Cornelius Kelley, with a record of being one of the senior members and one of the very finest of our organization, was named as a candidate for delegate to the forth-coming convention at Toronto. We know that everyone in this District will line up behind him, and we earnestly hope that he will be elected.

Ex-Chairman Elmer E. Bone and our former and tireless secretary, Brother Robert A. English, were presented with suitable remembrances for their past efforts.

When Brother English was presented with his remembrance—a fine leather bag, there was a grand rush made for it, but the only thing to be found in it was a pair of garters. Bobby was delighted with the "hootch" carrying capacity of the bag, but was cautioned to be careful of the Jersey laws.

Whereupon Brother Harry Isaacs, with Daniels & Company, wanted to know if ½ of 1 percent or stronger was permitted in the building. If so, he knew where to get it, and if not, he knew of a Yiddisher hall where there would be no objections.

Brother George Gilbert, of Allentown, is now located with Thompson & Company. Glad to have you among us, for we know that just as soon as you become acclimated your dynamic energy will assert itself.

It is learned on high authority that Brother Bone has just been elevated to a very high position in the New Jersey Order of Night Riders, an organization which has for its aim the extermination of potato bugs in southern Jersey. Whether this is its real object we have not been able to confirm. Brothers English, Oeser, Boyle and Camp, fellow-compatriots of that arid stretch, are also eligible.

It surely did us good to see Brothers Holland, Long, Makin, Murphy, Goodis, Michener, Howard, et al., in their splendor at the last meeting.

Not to be outdone by these stalwarts, however, we are pleased to mention Brothers Walters, Ray, Ruberg, and Hansbury, who brought up the rear guard and acted as anchor men.

Chairman Wright gave us a detailed report of the New York District entertainment of March 18th and of the meeting of the General Committee the following Sunday, which was very interesting and brought forth considerable favorable comment. We congratulate our sister district in its hour of huge success, and we feel convinced from the Chairman's report, that the General Committee meeting was productive of a great deal of constructive and co-operative thinking which will result in the further progress of our Division.

PITTSBURGH NOTES

President Patterson, who represented Pittsburgh at the Annual dance in New York, reports it was a glorious success and reflected much credit on the E. B. D. He also gave the boys an outline of the business transacted at the General meeting and everybody is pleased at the splendid progress being made. He reports much interest in the coming convention in Canada and says the Eastern Broker Division is going to be well represented.

Koonts and Co. have opened an office in Pittsburgh and they have selected Brother Thomas Barrett as manager. Brother Harry Davis, who arrived from Chicago a few days before they opened, secured the position as operator. Two union men found two good jobs.

Brother Hill has been appointed manager of Boreau and Evans. All his friends extend their congratulations. Another union man got a good job.

Our Saturday afternoon meetings have been well attended. The boys seem to like afternoons better than evenings.

Brothers Bowman and Robertson, who were cut off at E. F. Lelands on account of business depression, speedily found work at Winkleman and Co., at increased salary.

Brother Ridinger, who has been on the sick list for a long while, is reported to be doing fine at Cresson and the boys look for him back on the job shortly.

Hughes and Dier are in their new home on Fourth Avenue and it sure is a fine looking place. Brother Brockschmidt, assistant manager, certainly knows how to pick locations.

LOWITZ CONTROVERSY CULMINATES IN STRIKE

MEN OUT A WEEK; GO BACK WITH WRITTEN AGREEMENT

The last of three verbal agreements, the burden of which were a lunch relief and no discrimination, was made with Mr. A. R. Frank, of E. Lowitz & Company, on March 24th. President Alcorn represented the men and the agreement was understood to be between Lowitz & Company and their men—not between the union and the firm.

In the short space between March 24th and April 2nd, complaints began to come in from the men that they were being influenced not to take their lunch relief. The impression was left that if they insisted on the lunch relief period, their chances for a vacation were slim. This procedure served to divide the force. Some were taking their lunch relief period, as had been agreed to by the firm, while others, fearing the loss of their vacation, sacrificed the lunch relief.

Two of the men who insisted on their right to a lunch relief, were given to understand that it was only a matter of time when their services would no longer be required. This created more unrest and a marked degree of uncertainty among the Lowitz force. On April 2nd the crisis was reached, when a flat statement was made to the effect that there would be no vacations this year.

The men came to headquarters in a body and laid their case before President Alcorn and asked him to demand a written agreement, as the verbal agreement was for the third time being broken.

In the absence of International President Johnson, International Secretary-Treasurer Schnur was called in. President Alcorn took the stand that the present trouble was only a continuation of the March 24th agreement and that according to the constitution, an ultimatum by the International would be absolutely in order. Brother Schnur agreed to this and the following document was delivered to E. Lowitz & Company:

E. Lowitz & Co..

209 So. La Salle St.,

Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs:

Your telegraphers were notified on March 19th by Mr. Frank that beginning Monday, March 21st, they would not be allowed the usual necessary time away from their work to eat midday luncheon. Your telegraph force protested against this action with no result. Failing of adjustment the matter was pluced in the hands of THE UNION of their craft, of which all your telegraphers are members.

On Monday, March 21st, John B. Alcorn, President Western Broker Division, a subordinate unit of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, was received very courteously by your Mr. Frank. At this conference Mr. Frank reiterated the stand previously taken, i. e., your telegraphers would not be permitted a lunch period. The reason given for this action was the salient fact that the firm was losing money and felt it necessary to reduce expenses by cutting off the lunch relief men or reducing salaries generally.

Final decision was postponed until Thursday, March 24th, at which time Mr. Frank agreed to restore the lunches without any discrimination. This settlement was satisfactory to your telegraphers and the negotiations terminated.

In the short period from March 14 to April 4th, it develops that certain telegraphers are being unduly influenced by the chief operator to forego their lunch relief period entirely, by leaving the impression that to insist on such lunch relief period means that their chances for the customary vacation relief will be put in jeopardy. Other men were given to understand that the continuity of their employment with E. Lowitz and Company is limited, because of their "belligerent attitude." By "belligerent attitude" we cannot understand what is meant, in view of the men's pledged word that they would give E. Lowits and Company their best efforts.

In view of the foregoing developments and realizing that the last two verbal agreements with E. Lowits and Company have been broken by you, your telegraphers feel their positions are so insecure that they have instructed their officers by unanimous vote to secure from E. Lowitz and Company a signed statement that discrimination will cease and that their lunch reliefs and vacations, as given in the past will be guaranteed them.

The officers of this organization, in carrying out the instructions of your men, feeling that we have exhausted every honorable means of effecting an adjustment, and having failed, we the undersigned, by authority of the telegraphers involved, do hereby serve notice that unless E. Lowitz and Company signify their willingness to negotiate on the basis of such a written agreement, at the end of their tour of duty Wednesday, April 6, 1921, your telegraphers will feel free to cease work.

Respectfully,

(Signed) JOHN B. ALCORN, President Western Broker Division.

Approved:

Paul F. Schnur.
International Secretary-Treasurer,
Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Attempts were made by Lowitz & Company to reach an agreement with the men Wednesday evening, but the men emphatically told the firm that the matter was in the hands of their officers and any settlement would have to be made through them. To this the firm could not agree. The strike came Thursday morning. All country men were ordered to stay on the job; that the strike would be confined to Chicago only. New York was asked to guard against being involved. One of the orginal force, M. W. Walters, who had just joined the union, stayed in. He gave as his reasons that he had already resigned and wanted to leave in good standing, by waiting to be relieved. He worked one day. He is now on his farm in Ohio. Otto Dodt, who had been employed two days before the strike, also stayed in for one day. Two men from the Postal are supposed to have worked; we are after their names. Fred Githens, a delinquent, lately manager for Conover at Lincoln, Ill., worked a few days. Fred tells us conditions were misrepresented to him and that as soon as he was told by the Union, he quit. C. B. Francis a new arrival from Spokane, Seattle and points west, also worked for a few days. CB has a card in the Musician's Union and after President Alcorn talked to him for 30 minutes and tried to show him the error of his way, he finally agreed to "think it over." He did not work the following day. Joe Adams came up all the way from Danville to prove his loyalty, but he also claims he did not know the true conditions and quit as soon as he had a "talking-to."

Wednesday, April 18th, at the end of one week's strike, Lowitz & Company signified to the officers in charge of the strike, their desire to enter into negotiations for a written agreement as stipulated in the ultimatum of April 5th.

The officers, together with Brother B. A. Benson, chapel chairman, and a representative of the firm entered into conference Wednesday morning, April 18th. At the end of 4 hours an agreement was reached and signed by Mr. John F. Barrett, for Lowitz & Company, and B. A. Benson for the telegraphers of Lowitz & Company. The entire force reported for work Thursday, April 14th.

A copy of the agreement follows:

AN AGREEMENT

Made this 18th day of April, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-One, at Chicago, Illinois, between E. Lowitz & Company and their telegraphers.

Witnesseth:

First: Operators' grievances shall be submitted to the Chief Operator within forty-eight (48) hours, with the right of appeal, either personally or through the employees' committee, to the management of E. Lowitz & Company. No employee shall, without just cause, be transferred, suspended or discharged. Any employee feeling himself unfairly transferred, suspended or discharged, and disproving any charges made against him, shall be reinstated without prejudice and shall be reimbursed for all loss of pay and any reasonable expense which he may have incurred in proving his innocence.

Second: Telegraphers agree that any telegrapher desiring to resign shall give the chief operator of E. Lowitz & Company at least one week's notice of his intention to resign and E. Lowitz & Company agrees that any employee shall be given one week's notice of any suspension of service or one week's equivalent in money, or be transferred.

Third: The right of seniority shall rule in all cases, ability and fitness being equal. Seniority shall rank from the date of last employment. Seniority shall not be retained for more than three months, on leave of absence, except in cases of illness or military service.

Fourth: It is agreed that in the case of staff reductions or the abolition of any position, the telegrapher vacating such position shall have the right to the position held by the junior telegrapher.

Fifth: It is agreed that the rate of wages now paid telegraphers of E. Lowitz & Company shall not be lowered during the life of this agreement. Telegraphers who may be hereafter employed shall be rated according to the duties they are called upon to perform; provided, no telegrapher employed in Chicago shall be paid less than fifty dollars ($50.00) per week, and those employed outside of Chicago forty-five dollars ($45.00) per week. It is also agreed that telegraphers employed in Chicago on quotation wires shall not be paid less than fifty-five dollars ($55.00) per week.

Sixth: It is agreed that telegraphers will be given lunch reliefs.

Seventh: Two weeks vacation with full pay shall be granted annually to all telegraphers of one year's continuous service. All vacations shall be taken at time allotted by Chief Operator, or the telegrapher to secure his own competent substitute, who must be acceptable to the Chief Operator.

Eighth: It is agreed that telegraphers will not be discriminated against because of affiliation with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Ninth: This agreement will be effective the 18th day of April, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-One, and will remain in effect, subject to thirty (80) days' notice in writing by either party hereto.

(Signed) FOR E. LOWITZ & COMPANY, JOHN F. BARRETT.

FOR TELEGRAPHERS

B. A. BENSON OF E. LOWITZ & COMPANY

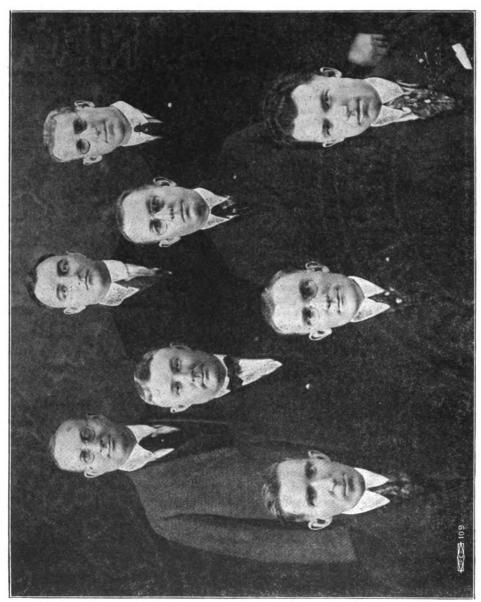

Chairman Telegraphers' Committee.

Approved: Roscoe H. Johnson,

International President Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Careful perusal of Article FIVE will show you that this agreement Applies to ALL TELEGRAPHERS in Lowitz' Employ—Country, as well as Chicago. This is the first written agreement with a broker since 1907. We do not want to take a stand of crowing over our achievements, but on the contrary, we are now more concerned with making good our end of the agreement and proving our contention that it is to a broker's interest to have such an agreement. The successful fulfillment of this agreement means that others will follow.

CHICAGO OFFICERS OF THE WESTERN BROKER DIVISION

Center—Harry Lynch, Chairman Executive Board; A. E. Mackorell, Executive Board.

Bottom Row—Warren C. Wootten, First Vice-President; John B. Alcorn, President; R. H. McDaniel, General Secretary-Treasurer.

ALL MEMBERS:

Remit assessments promptly. We were forced to spend quite a sum of money on this strike. We won. We have a written agreement. Support your officers by paying this small amount promptly. Three weeks' assessment will be required, or $6.00 from Chicago members and $4.50 from out-of-town members. There should be a little surplus, after all obligations are met, which we can place in the defense fund. Attend to this small duty promptly.

JOHN B. ALCORN, President.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER! (By Warren C. Wootten)

Any Telegrapher working for a Broker, a Press association or otherwise, and who thinks that he amounts to anything more than an Operator in fact, ought to have his mentality department investigated.

who thinks that he amounts to anything more than an Operator in fact, ought to have his mentality department investigated.

From time immemorial this type has been one big drawback to the Telegraph fraternity. You have seen him. You know him as well as I do. He is the fellow who is always figuring on something better in this world for himself—and for himself alone. We know that any one of us who behaves himself properly and stays in one place long enough will as a matter of course finally be promoted in his line. But it is a twenty to one shot. Aye, still greater where the office is of larger proportion. This is not an argument against ambition. Ambition is a great thing, but there are different kinds of ambition. A burglar can have ambition as well as can an honest man. The difference is that an honest man is not always a selfish man. He considers the welfare of those around him. In a wire room the honest-to-goodness man, the regular fellow, is always ready and willing to share the burden of maintaining a godly atmosphere in his domain. He is a GOOD CITIZEN. He does not hestitate too long about joining any popular move that his fellow workmen have started. He walks right up, gets his card and pays his dues, his assessments and what not regularly. He is a he-man. He realizes that so long as he must earn his living in this place, he is no better than those around him. Imagine an operator holding an exaggerated opinion of himself enough to state that the reason he did not join the Union was because he couldn't afford to put himself down with "some people" who were in it. The argument was countered that he might as well not come to work the next day if he felt that way because the "some people" he referred to worked right in the office with him. Not only did they work there with him, but were perchance higher class men than himself, not only in a business way, but personally. The fellow who thinks he has "some personality" is another great drawback to our cause.

A great many employers in our line have made the on

A great many employers in our line have made the one big mistake in choosing a man for his veneered personality. An honest-to-goodness operator has little time for "peacocking" around the office. Accustomed to sitting all day in a chair and as near as possible on the back of his neck, his fingers fiying, his brain working in unison and everything going by in a whiri, what chance has the operator to build up a polished personality, such as would attract the up-to-date business man? His personality is going out on that wire—every ounce of it. And this "invisible personality" brings in wonderful results to the firm. It is not necessary here to remind you that the Wire Room is the pulsating heart of a Brokerage institution. Stop the wire system and everything stops. All that is left is the torso of what was a thriving business system.

The operator today who is proving himself a drawback to us is the fellow who thinks he has a "pull" with the firm. He thinks that some day he will be boosted to a higher position. And obsessed with this will-o'-the wisp desire he considers himself above affiliation with his fellow workers. He is living in a fool's paradise and some day he will have a very rude awakening. Then he will turn to those who have played a wise man's part and in his utter humiliation beg for help.

The only way is to play the game well. When you're an operator be a regular operator. Share your burden with others who are trying to better things for all concerned. If you are living in this "fool's paradise" just stop and think for a minute. You are standing in your own light Mr. Non, and your awkward excuse belies your innermost feelings. You know that you are an operator—and that's all!

LETTER FROM FRANC DAVIS OFFICERS OF THE WESTERN BROKER DIVISION, AND MEMBERS:

I feel that, under the circumstances, I am entitled to a few inches of space in the Relay, especially upon this momentous occasion. I am sure there is no officer or member of the organization who received the joyful tidings of the WESTERN BROKER DIVISION'S clean-cut VICTORY—the first real victory the Broker telegraphers ever won, with or without the aid of a Union—with greater satisfaction and rejoicing than did I.

I cannot but look back with pride upon I cannot but look back with price upon my personal efforts, during the period of "reorganization" and construction, of the first real organization the telegraphers in this country have ever been able to boast of, and one with which they can GO OUT AND WIN any JUST controversy.

- I wish to congratulate the present officers and membership.
- to congratulate the Western Broker Division and its entire membership upon the stand they took in this matter and the loyal support they gave these men who were fighting for their very existence.

And I wish to impress upon the membership this particular lesson: UNDER ANY SIMILAR SITUATION, DO NOT CRITICIZE YOUR OFFICERS; THEY ARE OFTENTIMES IN A POSITION WHERE THEY CANNOT GIVE YOU ALL INFORMATION THEY POSSESS. GIVE THEM YOUR SUPPORT. THEY ARE YOUR OFFICERS. YOU HAVE ELECTED THEM BY A REFERENDUM VOTE OF THE MEMBERSHIP TO REPRESENT YOU IN JUST SUCH EMERGENCIES. IF YOU EXPECT THEM TO WIN

THESE CONTROVERSIES, YOU GIVE THEM YOUR FULLEST YOU GIVE TO DENCE.

I mention this because I heard, during the recent trouble, mutterings on the Street such as, "We can't find out anything at headquarters," "The officers won't give us any information." "We don't know what's going on," "Don't the officers want any help from the membership?"

Of course, these comments were natural under the circumstances. Judging from past experiences—with other organizations—the telegraphers scarcely are able to realize that they at last have a REAL UNION. Therefore they were a bit nervous and anxious as to the actual outcome of this fight. come of this fight.

come of this fight.

But, your officers did ask for your help. They asked you to pay your assessment—a very substantial help—in order that the men on strike might not suffer because of their fight for themselves and YOU. You were not donating this money to some charitable organization. You were taking it out of one pocket and putting it into the other. This is the kind of support your officers requested and this is the kind of support with which you won, and with which you will win again.

By such support you gave your officers all they needed—POWER, and of the most substantial sort.

substantial sort.

My only advice is that membership continue to use good judgment. Many stronger organizations have been torn to atoms by such VICTORIES as you have just won. Do not allow yourself to become overconfident, or to try and take undue advantage of your power.

Our motto has always been "CO-OPERA-TION." The treatment accorded your organization by the LaSalle Street Brokers in your recent fight gives evidence that the Brokers as a whole, are fair and consistent and are willing to meet you half way in this co-operative movement. You cannot afford to jeopardize this friendly attitude by any unjust or untoward act attitude by any unjust or untoward act.

Watch your step. Do not involve your organization over trivial matters, but do not give one inch, where your rights are threatened.

Your organization has proven its ability to stand squarely behind you in any just argument. It should stand just as squarely behind this same policy in regard to the Employer who is fair.

I wish the membership could realize just I wish the membership could realize just how I personally feel over this victory of yours. I hope too, that the membership as a whole will realize just what the loss of this fight would have meant to the Broker telegrapher and as a consequence what it means to have won it.

It meant the life of the organization. It meant, had we lost, that promiscuous slashing of salaries and unbearable conditions would have predominated.

Winning means that the brokers realize that henceforth the Western Broker Division is to be considered in any controversy between the Broker and their telegraph forces. It means the complete vindication of your organization and eliminates for all of your organization and eliminates for all time the non's swan song: "The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America will never amount to a Tinker's damn."

No NON on the street can say: "They never did anything for me."

I again congratulate the Western Broker Division, its officers, its membership, and its International officers, Brothers Johnson and Schnur. 73 to all.

Fraternally yours,

F. A. DAVIS.

ADDRESS WANTED

I would appreciate it very much, if I can get any information of Richard Fletcher, a Western Union operator who was in Port Huron, Michigan, in 1915 or 1916. This is merely an impersonal matter with me and all the information desired is simply whether he is living or dead, and if dead, how proof thereof can be gotten. This is of the utmost importance to a certain party in a will case. Anyone who can give any information, please communicate with Harold J. Nadeau, care Chandler Bros. & Co., Detroit, Mich., 130 Penobscot Bldg., and I will convey same to the interested party.

CLEVELAND SUBDIVISION

CLEVELAND SUBDIVISION

Our meeting March 19 was a fine example of our C. T. U. A. spirit. It was better attended than for months. Keep it up, boys. The boys who attend miss you, who do not, and of course speculate as to the probable reason. Don't let them believe you have none. We have gotten the proper start, and by not attending meetings is the surest way to strangle it. Brother C. B. Carnall was in the chair for the first time since his election as vice-chairman. Brother Hattie, chairman, was absent due to the Illness of his wife. Here's hoping all is well, George. We're all wishing the best for you and her. Brother Howard Lewton is temporarily displaced, due to Leland & Co. reducing force. We hope to see something turn up soon, which we are given to understand may be the case.

Brother R. B. Dillinger is also on the "extra list" due to the failure of Imbrie & Co. "Dill" also expects to land something eoon. Here's hoping, old boy.

Brother John G. Adams has been laid up with an infected foot, "Jack" hobbled up to the meeting with the foot carefully planted in a house slipper. Fine stuff, Jack. If they all get that spirit this is going to be some subdivision. We are glad to announce Jack expects to be on the jeb at Herrick & Co. again Monday, 21st.

An organizing committee was appointed at Saturday's meeting, the work being mapped out for them is to try and show those few remaining who have not come with us the advantage and protection they will receive by joining. We hope to report greater progress next month, although we are not ashamed of our showing thus far. Meeting of April 9 was well attended. A Meeting of April 9 was well attended. Brother Otto Draeger, manager of L. L. Winkleman's Akron office, was a visitor at the meeting. Otto likes the Rubber City, the customers like Otto and everything is lovely.

Mrs. E. J. Brewer, wife or "Ernie," manager of Hughes and Dier, underwent a serious operation on her throat April 8. Brother Brewer reports that she is not so well as had been hoped for. Here's best wishes, Ernie. May she soon be home again, and permanently improve.

DETROIT SUBDIVISION

It seems we are hopelessly old-fashioned (and virtuous).

After reading the glowing accounts of the dances and other social festivities in the Cleveland chapters of the last few issues, I tried to talk the ideas into a few of our gentlemen of Sub No. 7, but in vain. Not 25 per cent of them dance, less than 10 per cent drink soda water, and less than one per cent eat crackerjack, chocolates, chewing gum or nabiscoes. A questionnaire of the Detroit broker telegraphers reveals some startling facts. A majority of the men we find love their wives, stay in evenings and hand over their whole pay check to the missus each week. One or two members have been known to make home-brew, but have never broken any other law and over 50 per cent of them go to church, so I guess we can be classed as social outcasts. The Detroit judges apparently have a good opinion of Ohio folks because when they come over to Michigan they don't let them go back home—they just make them remain here. Reminds me of the case of one man employed at the Western Union here last summer. He was up before Judge Keidan on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of one of the little girls under 14 whom the W. U. has checking for them. His Honor ascertained that the defendant was a telegrapher employed at the W. U., so he inquired of him how long he had been working there. "Ten years," replied the defendant. The judge repeated that after him. He will be out na little over nine years. Thank heaven, there are none like him among the W. B. D. boys. After reading the glowing accounts of the dances and other social festivities in the Cleveland chapters of the last few D. boys.

John Dugan, the cleverest key pusher who ever packed a grip, left for a little trip to little old New York Feb. 19. John has more brains stored under his No. 7 hat than any man in the business and it is safe to say no one but John can have it figured out why he went to N. Y. On his return I'm going to meet him and carry his grip.

his return I'm going to meet him and carry his grip.

Don Nadeau, the bond expert, is a commuter now. He has moved into a new bungalow at Redford and is keeping chickens out there. The chickens are what keep the rest of us here in the city. Twelve miles over the bumps in a Ford each day is nothing to one who took the bumps for 12 years at the A. P., is it?

Don Fiedler's boyhood ambition was to work for the A. P. Guy Blakeley's ambition was to be a poet. Al Day wanted to be a Y. M. C. A. secretary and Shaffer night operator on the railroad. None of them are as bad off as they expected to be.

Edward Nadeau, until recently with Schmidt & Deery, has disposed of his read estate holdings in Grosse Pointe and it is reported he is helping Henry Ford out of his financial difficulties so the future of that great industry is assuredly brighter than for some time. Ed can buil Henry if Henry can bear him.

Conducted by The New England Brokers' Division, Headquarters and Employment Bureau, No. 7 State Street, Boston, Mass.

Regular monthly meetings at Headquarters, first Monday in the month.

By Wm. T. Yetman

The regular April meeting was held on Monday, April 4th, attended by the usual enthusastic crowd who are rooting to make this the banner Division of the Union. In the absence of President Yetman, who was on the sick list recuperating from an attack of Grippe, ex-President William E. Conry performed his usual efficient job in his old position. The greater part of the meeting was devoted to thrashing out the employment question, and to methods of extending the organization. This organization has set a very high standard in dealing with the question of its members' employment, and one which entitles every candidate for a position to lay any real or imaginary grievance before the full meeting. We not only want to see that the members get every job in the city, but that the member gets it who is entitled to it. It is natural that no five or six men out of work are going to be unanimous in agreeing that someone else had rights ahead of all of them, but the questions raised have served only to prove that the members as a whole and the Employment Committee in particular, are anxious to do right by everybody.

The officers of the organization recently inaugurated regular weekly conferences to be held each Tuesday at Headquarters, for the purpose of formulating more definite policies for the Division, and concentrating on the work remaining to be done. As a result of these conferences, it has been decided to divide the Division into a chapel system, and a special meeting for this purpose was held on Monday, April 11th, at which the by-laws were amended to embrace the above form of organization.

G. F. REDMOND CO. NOTES

G. F. REDMOND CO. NOTES

The announcement of the recovery of Enrico Caruso was received with great relief by the telegraphers of this firm. Had the great tenor passed into the great beyond it would have meant the loss of one of our best little telegraphers, Thomas Noone of the Springfield office of G. F. Redmond Co. Tommie, be it known, is a sweet tenor singer himself, and only for his reluctance to force into retirement such men as Caruso and McCormack, would have quit telegraphing long ago.

This house is in no way interested in welfare work, but nevertheless the telegraphers, in fact all the employees, are under constant medical supervision and attendance. The medico has his work down to a science, even administering absent treatment, prescribing by mail for the boys out on the line. $1.50 per each prescription, and not bad stuff at that.

There are about ten men in this city at the present time who admit they want to join the organization but say they cannot get together the few dollars for their dues. ### A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING Living costs in the United States are now 101 per cent higher than in 1914. This is 18 per cent lower than in June, 1918, when the high-water mark, 129, was reached.

Over 7,000,000 persons in the United States depend, in whole or in part, upon tips for their compensation. This is a gain of more than 2,000,000 in ten years, and illustrates strikingly the growth of this form of charity.

The U. S. Steel Corporation employs about 250,000 people. The average pay is said to be $6.17, including overtime.

According to the United States Treasury, each man, woman and child in this country is worth $51.06. Those who cannot scare up six dollars for Union dues, please note.

Every year about one-tenth of the total population of the United States falls downstairs, gets run over, trips into open manholes, leans too far out of the window, or peers into a gun that is supposed to be unloaded.

TEST OF A MAN

The test of a man is the fight he makes,
The grit that he daily shows;
The way he stands on his feet and takes Fate's numerous bumps and blows,
A coward can smile when there's naught to fear, When nothing his progress bars, But it takes a man to stand up and cheer While some other fellow stars.

It isn't the victory after all,
But the fight that a brother makes;
The man who, driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high, Bleeding and bruised and pale,
Is the man who'll win in the by and by, For he isn't afraid to fail.

It's the bumps nou get, and the folts you get,
And the shocks that your courage stands,

And the shocks that your courage stands,
The hours of sorrow and vain regret,
The prize that escapes your hands,
That test your mettle and grove your worth;
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows you take, on the good old earth.

That shows if your stuff is real. Dallas Saturday Night.

Quebec and District Notes

It is extremely gratifying to be able to present readers this month with notes from so many sections. Two or three new correspondents make their initial bow to the membership and their matter breathes a spirit of confidence and seal in our Division that is an augury of hope for the future. Our general chairman, Brother Allen, assured President Johnson and Editor Schnur that Canadian Radio News would take up six pages of every Journal would take up six pages of every Journal and he has been somewhat disappointed that we have so far failed to live up to his promise, but this month's contributions should surely satisfy him. All that remains for us to do is to keep up the good

Remember that with the Radio men more than any other affiliation, on account of our being scattered from Newfoundland to British Columbia and not being numer-ically strong in any one place, the Journal is the strand that holds us together.

We have been assured many times from different sources that the only news many of our members receive about their organization is that which appears in the Journal. It is easy therefore to see what a vital force the Journal is for us and what a weakening effect it would have had we no public organ to brace us up.

had we no public organ to brace us up.

It is our aim to make this section your forum for everything appertaining to your organization. If you have a good idea shoot it along; if you don't like some of our remarks, let us know and give us your reasons; if there is anything you desire to know as to how things are progressing with our division, ask us. If we don't know we will try and find out and if we can't find out word, brothers, it is YOUR union and your section of the Journal and as such is entirely at your service. Finally we wish to thank all those who have sent us their felicitations on our ascendancy to the editorship of this "colyum" and to assure them that "she will either go or bust." Let'er come.

It was not our intention to again revert to the nomination and election of our new district chairman, Brother Leslie, but as to the nomination and election of our new district chairman, Brother Leslie, but as a couple of our contributors touch upon the matter at some length, and as we have also received numerous expressions from the membership, with a few dissentients, only of approval, we feel it advisable to state that we will stand by what was said in the March issue. First of all we wish to dispel the idea that exists in some quarters that we are antagonistic to Brother Leslie. Such is not the case. Had any other member, outside of the present Executive been put forward we would have taken the same stand. We saw enough of the correspondence that passed to convince us of the truth of what we stated. The whole of the Executive were not consulted until the whole matter had been settled. Executive Duchesne was not asked for any opinion at all. For the henefit of some who were not aware that Brother Duchesne was one of but as those originally elected, and although it has been said that he had resigned we have never received any official notice to that effect and until his resignation is formally tendered and accepted and the membership duly advised we still consider him as one of our Executive. Executive Bouteillier, as we have already stated, was informed of the nomination after it was put through and after we had written our article he acquiesced in the nomination and sent in his O. K. One correspondent asks what does it matter what the manner of the appointment was so long as it is satisfactory to the membership. He falls to appreciate the point we endeavored to make, which to reiterate was this: We had a D. C., secretary-treasurer, both Executives and three other Executive. The D. C. drops out through sickendeavored to make, which to reiterate was this: We had a D. C., secretary-treasurer, both Executives and three other Executive. The D. C. drops out through sickness, therefore we maintain that the logical thing to do was to proffer the vacancy to one of the remainder of the Executive and then if they all refused the office advise the membership through their organ, the "Journal," accordingly and then put forward their nominee. In this case Brother Leslie. Was this done? It was not and we still contend that it has created a bad precedent. If Brother Leslie is as good a leader as his backers say he is we consider the manner of his nomination only does him harm. We have no issue with our general chairman on this matter as he could not do much otherwise than he did, but this is the second time an Executive position has been filled without the members being given a chance to express an opinion even if the nominations are pro tem. As far as we are concerned the matter is now closed. Brother Leslie is our D. C. and we are prepared to back him to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section. The only advice we would tender him is to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section. The only advice we would tender him is to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section. The only advice we would tender him is to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section. The only advice we would tender him is to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section. The only advice we would tender him is to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section. The only advice we would tender him is to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section. The only advice we would tender him is to the limit in any policy he may adopt for the good of our section and thus will be pleased to advise him of some that have come before us and promise to help him out lovally in all matters for the general good. Incidentally Mr. Chairma to come out in our next souther and the have an official announcement of your election from our own section and also give us a line on your policy?

Welcome Cert. 22 of Division 65 into our columns. As you state you were a long time coming, but you certainly arrived with both feet. Keep up the good work and see if you cannot prevail upon your Eastern Brothers to do a Steve Brodle and take a chance in our columns next month.

This is the period of change around and the changes are being rung so thick and fast that we can barely keep pace with them. We will do our best, so here goes.

Brother "Bill" Hickmott and friend wife have made another change and have left Three Rivers to preside over the destinies of Father Pt. Station during the coming season. We met him here and he celebrated the occasion by speculating in a new lid and, Oh, boy, it was some lid. He also handed us a line of Union dope which would sear our copy did we dare to put it Brother Beauchemin is playing the old game of musical chairs between VCC and VCB. He has returned to the latter place again.

Brother Siteman, of hockey fame, passed through this burg yesterday with his wife and child en route to Three Rivers where he hopes to sojourn for the future.

Brother Masson has recently plunged into the vortex of matrimony and having passed through the preliminaries—initiation, honeymoon, etc.—has returned to Grosse Isle where he will make his future home, Providence and the Marconi Co. home, Provid

At VCC we have Brother Chaisson whom we are pleased to note has entirely re-covered from his illness of last fall; and soon to be Brother Sundstrom, whom we are glad to have with us again.

Executive Brother Duchesne has left CVF, but at the moment we are not aware of his future destination.

To the Brother (unknown) who sent us a copy of a Canadian weekly dealing with the marital troubles of a wireless opera-tor we would say we noted this case at the time of publication.

the time of publication.

We did not think it possible that there could be any of our members who were in the Service on the old rate of pay and who joined? the Union and have not yet paid the $25 assessment which was obligatory on condition of our obtaining the new schedule. To our surprise we find that such is indeed the case. One came before our attention recently, but we have reason to think he will come across. Another not only has not paid that assessment, but had the supreme nerve to take a grievance he had before our Executive and have same fought and practically won at the conference. Needless to say we knew nothing of this at the time or else you would have been made acquainted with the facts. We hear that this narty is now going around and saying the Union is no good to him, but it is a pretty safe bet that he does not refuse to take the increased salary he obtained SOLE/LY THROUGH THE UNION. We can respect the Union can be of use to him, although we must say to our mind there must be some twist in the brain of such an individual and he ought to be examined; but the fellow who nominally joined up and then quit cold on the assessment is not fit to associate with any in our ranks. The only way to handle such is to remember and act on the "No Card. No Favor" slogan. Some fellows, when they have a real or fancied grievance, get peevish and say they won't have anything to do with the Union. They show their callibre all right. A man who is slovenly towards his Union obligations is apt to be slovenly in pursuit of his occupation. If your job is your bread and butter your union is the bit of jam you like to go with it. No union no jam.

For the so-called brother who hasn't naid his levy.

the so-called brother who hasn't paid his levy,

There is no penalty that is too heavy, But he may rest assured when he rises every morn,

That the fully paid-up brother looks down on him with scorn.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND NOTES

Congratulations to Brother Clegg on his attaining editorship of the Radio Section of the Journal in Division 59. This is a case of the right man in the right place. Our sympathy goes out to Brother Mac-Gilliveray and his wife in their trial of sickness. We all hope the crisis will soon have passed and that ere long both will be quite fit again.

In view of the fact of some slight misunderstanding in the appointment of Brother Leslie as D. C., may we ask from where should our D. C. be appointed if not from the general membership. We understand this position is of some importance and we feel sure Brother Leslie will come up to standard. His ability and good judgment evidently is equivalent to our late D. C., therefore why argue over such a trifling matter as the manner in which his appointment came. He no doubt accepted such in a conscientious way, understanding the full responsibility of his undertaking. We also appreciate the step our Editor took in placing the details of the D. C. nomination before the membership. We feel certain that nothing will pass his eye without being carefully scrutinized.

Quite a few Canadian ships are now laying at Halifax awaiting cargoes. A number of brother operators arranged an evening's entertainment which was enjoyed by all participants. The number included Brother Pyke of the SS "Canadian Signalleur," who has lately returned from a long voyage: Brother Watts of the SS "Canadian Sapper" for whom the ancient colony still holds a strong attraction. The other brothers are wondering which is making Sapper" for whom the ancient colony still holds a strong attraction. The other prothers are wondering which is making the greatest impression—fair sex or ice-bergs. Apparently the latter, hence the extensive repairs required. Brother Watts has lately obtained his certificate of proficiency in radio telegraphy His many friends congratulate him.

Brother Ferland is doing the necessary key pounding on the Sable I. Hallfax holds a great attraction for him and he is very conspicuous by his absence on board ship when the sun has gone to rest. Hence, the anxiety of the Chief Steward regarding his welfare. It is not prudent to say more as it may place the brother in an awkward position on his return to Grosse Isle.

Brother Thomas, lately from Point-Riche Station, is now at Halifax, taking his examination. We trust he will meet with success in his efforts.

I regret to hear that Brother Purcell has failed in his examinations, but wish him better luck next time.

Brother Gosse is now at VCS. It is reported that he will return to the gulf station in the near future.

We are pleased to hear that Brother whitford, formerly of VCC, has taken a position on board one of the sealing fleet. Brother Meade is in charge of the SS. "Seal" and Brother Lewis the SS "Ranger." We wish them a safe return with full loads.

That spirit of indifference, even to paying dues, is all too evident in our little family. Come on, boys—don't wait to be coaxed. 1921 dues are long overdue. Remember the chain is no stronger than its weakest link. Strengthen that link by getting your 1921 annual. Swat the Demon of Indifference as you would a fly. ing dues, family.

Our genial inspector, Brother Brown, we hear has lately joined the noble Order of Benedicts. Here's to a long life and may all your troubles be little ones.

Congratulations to Brother Newhook on obtaining his certificate. Who said Levy?

obtaining his certificate. Who said Levy? See many "Bobbin Oles" this spring? How do they tell the different seals aboard the good old "Neptune" o.m.? No doubt our Editor will see no joke in the latter question, but if he runs across Brother Newy he might ask him for the story as we cannot put it on paper.

Editor's Note—We sure will, as we have a keen ear for a good story. As for the former question, what do you mean "Bobbin Oles"? We must confess we never saw them bobbin. Are they anything like Bairnsfather's famous "Better" variety?

Brother Clesg's suggestion that all

Brother Clegg's suggestion that all grievances, however trifling, should be thoroughly gone into is a good one as this procedure would undoubtedly strengthen the enthusiasm of each and every member.

Congratulations to Brother Clegg on his appointment to the important position of Editor of our section. Doubtless Bro. C. will do justice to spilling ink. "Whoopher un"

On March tenth the sealing fleet left St. John's. The same day Brother Ballam on the "Eagle" raised VOJ at four p. m. Apparently, since navigation closed, the scribes at VOJ and VCM have been down in the blues waiting for something new to happen. The sound of a Newfoundland boat caused some excitement. One operator at VCM asked if the sealing steamers left that day and VOJ replied "Dunno, must be the aeroplanes because that is on an 'Eagle'."

Brother Hutchings is first man up every Brother Hutchings is first man up every morning. Harry never allows anyone to get ahead of him. Congrats o. m. on that nice note you hold. It sounds like G above the staff.

We were wondering what kind of a note the "Ranger" had. For three days she did not seem to have any "range" what-ever. However, on Sunday she came in "Faintly as from a star" and "Softly as a breath at eve."

We were more than glad to hear Brother Whitford. There is a saying that "you can't hold a good man down" and it's true, too.

Say, Walt, what about a diagram of that receiver? Perfectly marvellous isn't it old top? Boston and Cape May is fine distance for the night time. Suppose you get Eiffel Tower and an occasional stray from Mars, too, eh?

Welcome back, Brother Spracklin. It's real good to see an old friend who has been away from home for two or three years. Well, Slicks, old boy, what's the world like? It's simply "Learn Wireless and see the World," eh? Brother Spracklin sailed on the "Viking" for the guit. We wish him a bumper trip.

We should all appreciate what the Union has done and is doing for us. We owe the organization our full support. Come on. boys, don't forget it. Don't let Brother Clarke do it all.

GREAT LAKES DISTRICT

Navigation in the Sarnia section of the Great Lakes opened this year two weeks earlier than usual, and was heralded by the passing of a United States patrol boat going north. The Standard Oil Company's steamer, "Renown," passed down at 11 o'clock from Whiting, Ind., bound to Detroit with oil.

We of the Great Lakes have noted with interest, the opening of navigation on the St. Lawrence, which it is understand is the earliest in a period of 40 years.

the earliest in a period of 40 years.

The Canadian Government ice-breaker, "Lady Grey," arrived at Montreal on March 28th. She was at Three Rivers on the 27th and breaking the ice-bridge which forms each winter at that place, enabling the river to free within a few hours. The average date for the clearing of the river is around April 20th.

It is reported that the SS "Dalhousie City" of the Niagara-St. Catherines S. S. Line will resume salling on April 4th.

We have noted the opening paragraph of the Pacific Coast C. P. R. notes, and are pleased to see that the policy adopted by the Canadian Wireless Division at their birth in regard to "Annuals Only" has merited the approval of brothers outside our own division. Our few delinquents are hereby referred to the paragraph mentioned, and are asked to at once make good. good.

good.
Our congratulations are extended to Cert. 22 of Division 65 and to the membership of that unit, on the appearance in the Journal, of their initial contribution to its pages. Their notes and comments are very fine, and insofar as they treat of Division 59, are gratefully acknowledged. We will look each month for a continuation of interesting matter from this, the "Baby Division" of Canada.

A new charter, to replace that lost in the fire at the Forum Building has been received, same having been handed in person to our general chairman by the international president. The thanks of the division are hereby extended to Brothers Johnson and Schnur for the replacement.

the division are hereby extended to Brotherers Johnson and Schnur for the replacement.

Brother H. Leslie of Cape Sable, N. S. Station has been appointed acting chairman for the Eastern Canadian Districtivice Brother McGilliveray, resigned, owing to serious and protracted ill health.

Our earnest hopes are again reiterated, that the April issue of the Journal may find the late chairman much improved as to health, and that his wife also may be well on the way towards complete recovery.

We have learned indirectly that Brother McGilliveray had been admitted to hospital, and the general chairman would appreciate word on occasion from those at Camperdown Station, in a position to furnish reliable information relative to Brother McGilliveray's condition. Much tension on the part of the many close friends of this afflicted brother, could be relieved by the insertion in the Journal columns, of a short report from some of the Camperdown staff, setting out his condition, and prospects of improvement.

Reverting to the appointment of Brother Leslie as acting chairman, it has been ludged well in view of comments from the Eastern Canadian District, voiced in the March issue of the Journal, to elaborate somewhat on the making of this appointment. Brother Leslie has been constitutionally appointed, under Section 5 of the Constitution, and Article 6 of the Bv-Laws. The unanimous approval of the Eastern Executive was received before the appointment was made, and though, under our by-laws, such approval is not required by the general chairman, in making temporary appointments, it has always been the policy of that officer, to secure if possible, complete agreement amongst the executive concerned, when an occasion, such as that before us, arises. The Eastern notes are somewhat misleading wherein it is stated that "the whole transaction" was completed, etc." The "transaction" was not complete until it had been dealt with by the general chairman, and the appointment confirmed. It is immaterial to our purpose which of the executive nominates, but the privilege is usually left to the outgoing officer. This procedure was followed by the late chairman, in nominating his successor, and if for reason, the member so nominated judged it well to decline, it is difficult to find reason for complaint in the policy adopted later by Brother McGilliveray, in consulting the secretary-treasurer of the district. Following a communication from the Eastern secretary to Brother Leslie, relative to his (Brother Leslie) accepting office, the matter was then placed before the general chairman for further dealing. There is no evidence that the balance of the Eastern Executive was ignored, for it may have been well within the secretary's assumptions that the opinions of others of the Eastern Executive would be secured before the nomination would be made an appointment, and the appointment confirmed. The correspondence (or the gist of it) was then submitted to the outstanding executive member, and his approval or otherwise sought by the general chairman. This brother at first demurred, but following further communication, saw his way to acquiesce in the views of the others of his committee, and so advised the general chairman. The appointment was then made, and Brother Leslie so advised. The Eastern Executive were also furnished with conles of the appointment, as sent Brother Leslie. In view of the procedure as outlined above for the benefit vised. The Eastern Executive were also furnished with conies of the appointment, as sent Brother Leslie. In view of the procedure as outlined above for the benefit of brothers who may not have understood the circumstances governing the nomination and the subsequent appointment of Brother Leslie, it is difficult to see just where the reason for the "kick" is to be found, especially when it is remembered that the rule governing such appointments, reads simply: "He (the general chairman) shall fill all vacancies pro tem by appointment, until filled by the regularly elected officers."

Our international president is at present in Toronto (March 29th) and is remaining over for some time. Matters pertaining to the welfare of Division 59 were discussed with him, the general chairman and the general secretary-treasurer taking advantage of his sojourn to review very many details directly affecting the Marconi Division, the Government Division, and the Organization as a whole.

As a member, what are you doing to assist in making the Radio section of the Journal interesting and instructive to the membership? A variation in the weekly program of phonographic music rendered by the Marconi Coy of Canada Limited, from their Toronto office, 93 King Street, East, took place, when on March 22nd a second instrumental concert was given by wireless to the public. The Toronto Serenaders' Orchestra put on a selected program which was heard by many all over the city and surrounding districts. The feature of the occasion was the impression made upon an audience of about 150 people assembled in the Stanley Piano Building, Yonge Street, where a fourstage amplifier had been installed for reception purposes. Baldwin phones were used, and a Brunswick all-wood horn collected and distributed the tones throughout the auditorium.

An outburst of pleasure and surprise greeted the receipt of time signals from Arlington, Va., when towards the conclusion of the musical treat, watches were produced, and a careful checking off of seconds indulged in, following the resonating through the hall of the naval signals. Big Ben on the City Hall tower was severely criticised when it was learned that the clock was fifteen seconds in advance. Following the time signals, the weather report was received and interpreted for those present. preted for those present.

The program at the Marconi offices was directed by Mr. Cottenden, (drums and bells), who with Messrs. G. H. Smith (piano), J. R. Fraser (saxophone) and R. N. Cornfield (violin) has reason to feel satisfied with the results of their efforts.

Messrs. Eaton (superintendent) and Fraser (instructor) acted as announcers and operators. Particular and eulogistic comment greeted the saxophone work of Mr. Fraser, the fine tones of whose instrument were remarkably sweet and clear. The voice announcements also, were distinctly clear and lucid, and the working of the Toronto Island Station was listened to with more than ordinary interest.

I find that 90 per cent of these cases were the fault of incomplete addresses given by our members. When you have a complaint about your Journal, you must write to Chicago Office, or your General Secretary-Treasurer, giving your complete address. In our Division the membership is moving about almost all the time, and very seldom do we receive their new address, with the result their Journal does not reach them, I wish to draw to the attention of all the membership of Division No. 59 to keep the General Secretary-Treasurer posted of your permanent address, also be ready for nominations in June and voting in July of this year. It is imperative that The General Secretary has your address so that elections may be completed as soon as possible.

The spring fever is in the air again, all the old Op's are getting restless to be away again on their respective boats.

The Government ordered the Coast Stations on the Great Lakes opened on the sixth. Many of the operators will be glad to get back to the daily routine, also to their respective salaries according to seniority.

All operators wishing to secure their cards for 1921, may do so by writing or calling on Brother Crewson, 45 Jarvis Street, Toronto. Send along your dues, $10.00 for this season, and you will receive your card, which all Brothers are proud to carry. Are their dues paying for your privileges and excellent working conditions? Think it over and let Brother Crewson hear from you.

All contributors to The Charlie Hill Fund will oblige General Secretary Crewson by sending a list of all the contributions they know of being sent in to Brother Crewson before the disastrous fire, which destroyed all his records. We are desirous of having this amount handed over to the Chairman of The Hill Fund and have a list published in the Journal of all contributors. Let us hear from you at once.

PACIFIC COAST DISTRICT

Brother "Jack" Newberg is on the C. P. O. S. "Monteagle." Owing to the similarity of name to Brother Newburg of the Lakes this brother has been receiving congratulations that are to say the least premature. It will be remembered by our readers that Brother Carl Newburg was congratulated in the January Journal on the arrival of a son and heir. The announcement caused some confusion amongst the friends of "Jack" Newburg and he has been the recipient of congratulatory messages that should have gone to our esteemed brother of the Lakes District.

Before joining the "Monteagle" Brother Jack Newburg had been on the "Princess Mary," plying to Alaska during the last seven months.

Brothers and Brothers Jack and Bob McWatters have returned from Pacific Ocean service to Toronto where they will stay with their mother. Their brother who was overseas died in hospital in Toronto and their mother desired to have them with her here.

Editor's Note—The condolences of the brother members of Division 69 we feel sure will go out to Mrs. McWatters and sons on their sad bereavement.

We would, in order to help us out, ask all scribes to remember our address is No. 12 Saunders Street, Quebec City, Quebec. To have their notes here no later than the second of the month for that issue, to use a typewriter and double space if they have one and if not to write legibly and upon one side of the paper only. This will materially add us to classify matter and also help the typesetters. Thank you.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT WIRELESS DIVISION

British Columbia District

British Columbia District

By the time this appears, we expect Brother Parkin will have gone East to take part in the schedule negotiations for which Brother Taylor of Toronto has been preparing. Local arrangements to present our case have been in readiness for a year, but continual delays from various causes have thwarted every effort of our Division Secretary to bring matters to a head.
However, we can now say with confidence that the next few weeks will see rapid progress made. It is difficult to see how we can fail to secure our main objectives:
the 48-hour week, recognition of the union, and adjustment of salary and overtime rates. No division ever had a better case for argument.

We still have our couple of pat "cape"

We still have our couple of pet "nons," who continually put off the evil day when they will eventually dig down into their pockets and "come through." Apparently their idea is to pay after the results are delivered, but unfortunately it is impossible to run a trade-union on such a system. Labor gains are the fruits of sacrifice.

There is no such thing as sitting on the fence in the matter of trade-union membership. Either one is with his fellow workers or against them. If the two non-members at Prince Rupert would realize that by holding out they are holding back improvements for themselves and for others, we are sure they would no longer hesitate to show on which side of the fence they stood. We invite them again to come on in with the boys. The cost is less than a dollar a month, and a good name is cheap at the price.

good name is cheap at the price.

A contrast is afforded by the case of Brother C. W. Mellish, who has become a member on entering the service. That's the spirit; there's no C. O. D. about him. We wish him luck at VAE.

The organizers of the Canadian Civil Service Association recently circulated a referendum among the west coast operators to ascertain their views on joining this new amalgamation of Civil Servants. The proposal was unanimously negatived. For the benefit of our east coast members, to whom doubtless similar approaches will For the benefit of our east coast members, to whom doubtless similar approaches will be made, we give below the text of a letter, which, at the suggestion of Brother Parkin was addressed to the Vancouver organ of the new body to explain our attitude:

The Editor of the "Organizer." Vancouver, B. C.

Dear Sir:

The referendum regarding the proposed national organization of Civil Servants was submitted to the British Columbia coast wireless stations in February. Nobody favored it, and I should appreciate an opportunity to explain why, in order that it will not be assumed that our vote indicated either satisfaction with conditions or indifference to the troubles of the Civil Service as a whole.

In the first place, our interests are adequately served by our own Division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, and loyalty to our union would preclude hasty secession, even if there were not other weighty reasons.

The message containing the referendum was the first intimation that such a movement was afoot that was received in this Service, and this conveyed no information at all beyond the bare terms of the reference. A copy of the "Organizer" came along later. No invitation was extended to our members to attend any organization meetings, and to attend any organization meetings, and the only information now available, that contained in the "Organizer," does not make the proposal appear very attractive.

The idea of combining the various organizations of government clerks is certainly a good one, but the suggestion that verterinary izations of government clerks is certainly a good one, but the suppestion that verterinary surgeons, engineers, and employees engaged in other technical professions, including ovireless operators, should also participate, does not appeal to us strongly. This has in the past been precisely our trouble: that as Civil Servants we were regarded in the lump, and though the qualifications for our work were of a highly technical nature, and the conditions of our employment both arduous and exacting, we received about as much compensation as we should expect if we worked day-time hours in a city office. We can do no other than agree with the statement in the February "Organizer" that employment in the Civil Service is fust a job and not a "career," though we do not follow the writer to the same conclusion. Wireless operating is not essentially a government fob. The majority of radiotelegraphists are in private employ, and our interests are far more closely allied to theirs than to, say, those of the postal workers. In our craft wherever we go, and this point particularly should be borne in mind: that the most powerful and best-intentioned organization possible in the Civil Service could never maintain or raise our salaries against a falling market outside the Civil Service. This implies that the proposed association would be depending, after all, on the craft organization to maintain the standard of wages elsection. tion to maintain the standard of vages else-where in order to be able to demand a similar scale in the Civil Service. So we should be acong what non-unionists are doing today— reaping where others had sown.

The wireless service, like all technical branches of the Civil Service, would be numerically too small a section of the proposed in the constraint to exsure any considerable renorances of the Civil service, would or numerically too small a section of the proposed association to ensure any considerable rep-resentation on the national committee, and in the tentative scheme no guarantees are profered or suggested that such minorities would receive the special attention to which their grade of work entities them. It does not seem likely to us that the customs olerks, for example, would go far out of their way to secure for wireless operators a higher scale of pay than their own. As staunch trade-unionists, although we are unable to join forces with you, we shall ulways watch your movement with keen in-terest and sympathy. I have studied the draft of your constitution and must express my admiration for the way in which it is drawn up. With such a basis, I am sure the Civil Service Association cannot fail to be useful to those large sections of federal em-ployees which it is so well designed to rep-resent

Sincerely and fraternally yours, S. R. D., Member, Div. 65, C. T. U. A.

Member, Div. 65, C. T. U. A.
We recommend that, in the event of any further referendum being submitted to our members, either by this Association or by any other, voting returns should not be rendered directly, but through the proper channels of the C. T. U. A.
The schedule of the Canadian Government Telegraphers published in the March Journal has a special interest for members of this Division, as employees of the same firm. A comparison of the terms of the schedule with conditions in this service brings home the difference in status that schedule with conditions in this service brings home the difference in status that exists between a long-organized body of telegraphers on the one hand and a new division which has not yet secured fecognition on the other. It is true that the government land-line men are left mainly to their own devices in the matter of accommodation, but they are not sent out into the wilderness and then compelled to pay rent for being there. At Estevan three single men share a disused operating-house which has been converted into a cottage. They are allowed to do this for twenty dollars a month each—sixty for the three. We cannot imagine Brother Lou Cole, the government lineman who lives close by, doing anything so foolish. Lou, who is an operator by profession and a lineman by choice, patrois his stretch of line once in a while and runs a little farm on the side, and is generally happy. In between battles in the late lamented war Lou was an incurable souvenir hunter, and now he combines big-game hunting with his linework, and, armed with an ancient German cutlass in one hand and a howitzer in the other, he makes a formidable figure. The Government Telegraphers' schedule, with its very satisfactory increases, comes out at the same time as the announcement of a twenty-five per cent cut in our bonus, meaning a reduction in our pay of between $8.25 and $3.00 per month, falling heaviest on those least able to bear it. We could say a lot about this, but Brothers Taylor and Parkin will argue the point at the proper time and place. Perhaps Brother Cole will lend them some of his armoury. The members of this District are backbrings home the difference in status that exists between a long-organized body of ward in sending in their news. We ought to hear from our brothers at Alert Bay, Prince Rupert, and Victoria at least once a month. Send your notes to the Secre-

It was for a long time a matter of conjecture amongst the Point Grey staff as to why Brother Samuels always appeared on duty, wearing a different pair of trousers upon alternate days. Brother Stephen has the honour of being the first operator to sample the home comforts of the new station at Bull Harbour, expected to be in active operation shortly. Steve is a particularly adaptable type of chap, and if there is any consolation to be derived from the new surroundings, he may be relied upon to locate it. It is understood he has taken along all the drums and other impedimentia appertaining to his important office in the Abert Bay orchestra, with which to soothe the weary hours. They will be useful to attract the attention of VAF should the wireless fail to do so. Other stations prepare for copious X's. Apropos of the above, we understand the orchestra at Alert Bay are hard pressed to fill the vacancy caused by the departure of manipulator of the noise department. It is rumoured that the versatile Brother Harker has written for Eaton's catalogue, to ascertain the price partition. At a satile Brother Harker has written for Eaton's catalogue, to ascertain the price of bass fiddles, it being his intention to fill the breach by doing the tango on one side with his foot, whilst working the shimmy along the strings at the other.

Much speculation was caused recently by the large cloud of blue haze which appeared from the Cape Lazo direction. The mystery was solved when it was learned that Brother Raine had been having a two-day seance with his condensers Tommy extracted more double strength D's from those condensers than can ever

Tommy extracted more avoide as ever be imagined.

We regret to announce that Brother Samuels left the service at the end of March last, after a sojourn at the Point Grey station. His future plans are unknown, but we commend his decision to continue his membership in the union, and unite in wishing him guid luck.

The British Columbia provincial government has introduced an act to enforce a strict 48-hour week in all trades. We presume that this will not apply to Dominion Government employees. The province would hardly suspect the dominion of discreditable conditions of employment, anyway. But every dog has his day, and our day is coming pretty fast. On les aura!

WIRELESS AS A JOB

By W. T. B.

In the early days of the telegraph the newspapers were not present to expatiate on its development, and the first telegraphers were thereby spared much annoyance. But during the development of the radiotelegraph our omniscient journalists have had their fling. Wireless has afforded scope for their imagination; it has been their standby, their constant fill-gap. They have fed their readers on superlative accounts of its wonders till the public regards as quite beneath notice any station which cannot communicate all round the world. Wireless as a job is never mentioned; wireless as a scientific marvel is an ever-popular theme.

There is small satisfaction for a wireless operator in reading that signals have been heard which might have come from Mars, or that a station in Germany can communicate with Australia. He knows that the salaries of those who do this long-haul stuff are about like his own aboard the ferry-boat. But he has become inured to this, and is not even alarmed now that the newspapers, having lectured for long enough about the "annihilation of space," find novelty in the subject of the "elimination of the operator." So he reads without excitement where a gentleman in Sweden has invented a sending machine which will do the work of 117½ operators. The poor telegrapher has always been on the verge of elimination since the first telegraphic printer came into use, but the wireless operator, to a specal degree, is "in for it" from several directions at once. A number of agencies, of which the inventor is the least to be feared, appear to have entered into a conspiracy against him. The press by the glamour with which it has surrounded wireless and its silence on the conditions of his work, the public by its apathy, and the amateur by his very existence, combine to keep him down.

Although to the general public it may still be largely a "stunt," to the companies and administrations which control it wireless has long been a commercial business of large proportions. And now, by the efforts of the operators themselves, it is losing its last semblance of an avocation and is becoming a real job. For the regular telegrapher first entering wireless, it lost its romance the moment it became work, and it is the regular telegrapher who has been responsible for the improvement which has already taken place. He brought with him into this new field the belief in combination, and through his influence wireless operators have begun to realize that in their work, as in all other forms of labor, better conditions can only be brought about by the efforts of the workers themselves.

There is still much room for organization among wireless men, especially in the United States. The sea covers three quarters of the earth's surface, and scattered over this "wet" expanse are thousands of ship telegraph stations; and the deepsea telegrapher, besides being the king of boomers, is a real operator. But while Canadian Marconi men carry their C. T. U. A. membership across the Atlantic and the Pacific, while every Canadian coast station is manned by C. T. U. A. members, the American operators are divided among several organizations. Only when it is realized that the telegraph system of this continent is all one service, and as such requires one organization, will telegraphers, both land and radio, be able to reap the full reward of their skill. The coast-stations, at the ends of the land-line system, form the link between the wires and the ship-stations; they should also connect the sea and land branches of our union. When this condition arrives, the radiotelegrapher's work, in which a constantly rising technical standard is demanded, will acquire the status of really organized labor. And the knowledge among operators that they are all members of the same great fraternity will promote harmony and ultimately increase the usefulness of wireless. Wireless will become the job it ought to be.

MISCELLANY

DOUBLE CROSS FOR LABOR

When the war was on and labor was needed to produce the implements of war and fight the battles whose chief purpose was to extend the commercial dominions of a comparatively few, there was an abundance of hot air peddled out to labor. Labor was told it really was it. Labor was assured that the days of ignoring the rights of labor to decent working conditions had ceased and that in the future labor was to have a voice in the actual management and control of industries which would insure pure democracy in inmanagement and control of industries which would insure pure democracy in industry with labor as the vital and deciding factor.

Labor listened to these soothing assurances, went across the seas and helped win the war for the glorious democracy which was being promised on every hand and was being promised on every hand and from the most unexpected sources. But now that the war is over there has come a wonderful change over these champions of labor, many of whom were employers with previous anti-union records. Instead of living up to the bland promises they made when the war was still raging, a number of the leading ones are proceeding to give labor the double cross.

No longer are these war-time champions of labor admitting that labor should have a voice in management of industries. On a voice in management of industries. On the contrary, they are carrying on an ag-gressive campaign against so small a concession to labor as collective bargain-ing. The entire anti-union movement sweeping over the country in the guise of the "American Plan," "Better America Federation" and other high-sounding Federation" and other night-sounding names for the open shop activity now being assiduously nursed and propagated is a flagrant repudiation of the promises made to labor during the war. It is the same double cross that labor nearly always gets from these interests.

All labor was not duped by these promises but those workers who were should now let the lesson sink in so deep that they never again will forget it. The most that labor ever gets is what organized labor is in a position to demand and hold. It is not through empty promises that betterments are secured and concessions labor are held, but through strengthening the organizations of labor until they are strong enough both to make gains and to hold them.

ALECK CUTAIR DIES

The funeral services of Aleck Cutair, a former Postal employee, who died at Daytona, Florida, the latter part of March, were held at Campbell's funeral parlors, 65th and Broadway, New York City, on Friday evening, April 1.

"253" was well represented by the following: "Bill" Williams, "Jack" Scanlon, "Tommy" Monahan, Frank Frace, O. A. Juergens, and D. A. Mahoney.

The Episcopal services were conducted by Dr. Prince, and a number of beautiful floral offerings were contributed.

The remains were interred at Kensico cemetery.

EXTRA' "DOC" ALBERT F. ALLEN DESERTS BACHELORS AND BECOMES A MARRIED MAN

A MARRIED MAN
Old-timers among the pressman will be greatly interested, also surprised, to learn that "Doc" (Albert F.) Allen, who put in about 15 years for the Associated Press in Chicago prior to 1907, has at last foresaken the ranks of bachelorhood and has "gone and done it." The lucky lady was Mrs. Julia C. Piper of Los Angeles, Cal., to whom the ex-medico was married in Pekin, Ill., on March 3.

"Doc" is now chief test board man for the A. T. & T. in Peoria, where he has been located since 1911. In the Matrimonial Future Book the odds on "Doc" were 1,000 to 1, which his friends considered a very short price. Moral: You never can tell.

THE SONG OF THE WIRE

From the Edison Monthly
This is the song of the wire
As it hums in the winter night.
I am the bearer of fire;
I am the bearer of light;
I am the bearer of power,
And I am the bearer of speech,
Infinite speed it was despeech. Infinite speed is my dower And limitless reach.

The blizzard may wrap me about;
I deliver my fire in its face.
The sun and the moon may go out;
I deliver my light in its place.
A myriad trust to my strength:
I deliver my power for their need.
Unchecked to no matter what length,
My messages speed.

This is the task that I do
And this the reward that it brings:
That out of my service a new
And manifold happiness springs.
Proudly my burdens I bear:
Was ever so slender a root
That bloomed with a flower more fair
Or bore such a fruit?
—Gorton Veeder Carruth.

New York.—It cost the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company $2,425,902 to destroy the union of the employes here last September and October and to break the strike which for a time almost completely tied up the B. R. T. system. The figures are made public in the tabulation of the company's financial conditions, made public by the Public Service Commission.

The tabulation further sets forth that in the six months which ended December 31 last, the B. R. T. could have earned $188,-212 in excess of its operating expenses, on its five-cent fare, had it not been for the 2½ millions expended to destroy the employes' organization.

WHAT IS UNIONISM?

What is Unionism? This is a question asked so often and one which is discussed so little, especially by those in union ranks. We hear and read so much about what unionism is not and learn of innumerable stories being circulated broadcast over the country by enemies of organized labor, spreading their poisoned propaganda at every opportunity in order that they might prejudice the public's mind. Compared to the enemies' stories very little is given the public to counteract such propaganda and isn't it about time that we awaken to the fact and give the public our side?

Especially during the war and from that time on the enemies of organized labor have been exerting strenuous effort to compel union labor to recognize the whip and capital's iron hand of tyranny. We see them on every corner, in every shop, trying to drive a wedge into the strongly organized labor unions; we see them in their hypocritical masking, crying "America, America." Unionism, if you please, is the essence of democracy, democracy is Americanism and the true union man is the red blooded American of today. We defy anybody to cite one single instance where a man, through organized labor or during the war or any time thereafter.

We see these enemies wrapping themselves up in an American flag and appealing to the public for protection against unionism, and class us in the same catagory as Bolsheviks, I. W. W.'s, etc. Now as a matter of fact real union men do not have to continually cry "America," wave a flag and appeal to the public for protection. Their record stands out for itself, they are Americans to the uttermost, for "by their deeds ye shall know them."

Unionism is democracy, in that it gives to the workers more freedom and not slavery; it gives a living wage; provides in a measure, the better things of life; gives education to our children; draws us closer to the celestial and makes the old world in general a better place in which to live. We ask of the public, "Do you want to see this higher life taken away, placing the bulk of humanity back thousands of years which would result eventually in degradation to all mankind. This is not the teachings of that great man, a carpenter by trade, who earned his bread in his earlier days by the sweat of his brow. Unionism brings education, education brings christianity, christianity brings democracy, democracy brings Americanism.—Union Printer

THE WORLD TIDE By A. R. G.

George Bernard Shaw, the famous Irish writer, informs us the Earth on which we live is maintained as an insane asylum by the other planets of the universe. The only reason we must discard this theory is its too plain reasonableness—which is all-sufficient for the inhabitants of this great crazy-quilt of a world. Take, for example—

Europe owes America ten billion dollars. We don't want her to pay in gold because that would further inflate our already over-inflated financial system. We don't want it paid in goods because that would close our already half-idle factories.

America has produced such vast quanti-America has produced such vast quanti-ties of food and commodities that ware-houses and barns are bursting to over-flowing. Consequently, those who toil in America must suffer and starve in unem-ployment. Meanwhile vast millions in Europe and Asia starve for lack of food which rots in America.

The cost of living in America rises 200 to 1,000 percent and wages rise 10 to 40 percent. Living costs drop 6 percent and wages drop 15 to 30 percent as a result.

If the majority of us were not crazy, these and other crazier things would not be. Mr. Shaw was right: Every time an inhabitant of Mars, Jupiter or other planet becomes insane, he is whisked away and —presto!—another babe is born on earth.

To the lazy "Let-George-do-it" brand of telegrapher. Ralph Waldo Emerson has a message. Ponder it for yourself:

"To every man life offers a choice of two things—Truth or repose. He may choose one—he can not have both".

For the weary and despairing among the telegraph fraternity, Abraham Lincoln left this cheering charge:

"Let us have faith that right makes might; and, in that faith let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it".

Speaking to the whiners who don't be-lieve the telegraph fraternity of America can be organized 100 percent, a modern wise man said:

"Things move along so rapidly now-a-days that people who say 'IT CAN'T BE DONE' are always being interrupted by somebody DOING IT".

Reformers we will always have with us. There are reformers and REFORMERS. One would cure crime and poverty at one stroke by prohibition. Did they do it? Another by sex education, another by thrift, another by "busting the trusts". The physical culturist and the mental-suggestionist have their day along with the long-skirt advocate and the blue-Sunday crank.

The moral is: Get a really broad outlook. The river of humanity can not rise above its common level. RAISE THE GENERAL LEVEL. Begin on yourself. Raise the level of your profession.

Francis Willard, founder of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in her farewell address, said:

"All of my life, I have labored under the belief that drunkenness made poverty and now when it is too late for me to begin again, I find that in truth, it is poverty that makes for drunkenness".

Wipe out poverty. Agitate! Educate!! Organize!!!

Now that we have Harding in the White House, maybe we can count on the big Washington stuff breaking before the "Home Edition" deadline's crossed.

To my mind the greatest organization task of the C. T. U. A. is to UNIONIZE the men already in the ranks. I would not minimize the absolute necessity for unanimously hitting the ball on the national program just now to organize and schedule the Associated Press. But the slowness with which this campaign moves is proof that many in our ranks are unlettered in the very primary principles of unionism—unity of thought, unity of aim, unity of action.

Our Union is an ARMY—of emancipation. When the signal to "charge" comes, too often there are members who want to hoe the garden, play a game of pool, postpone until next year, discuss tactics, criticize leaders, jeer at those who are really trying—albelt, sometimes blunderingly, but TRYING—to act well their part in the forward drive. Too many there are who, when asked about their inactivity, protest "they hadn't heard about it"—when the Journal's been full of it for months. Too many "don't believe the time is ripe for taking on such a big job" and too many have aims so far in advance of the possible and logical aim that they are impatient of the slow and tedious march of the main body.

Meanwhile, the history of the organisation and craft is written in blood and tears by a faithful few—a faithful few who toil and achieve in the night and die before their time in order that the great sluggish, fault-finding, hyper-critical and hypocritical mass might have easier days and their children greater opportunity. The international officers change from time to time and the faithful few change. With every such change, the sluggish mass With every such change, the sluggish mass cheers and promises loyal support—promptly going back to sleep. ٠

The solution of this problem is an INDI-VIDUAL one.

"THOU ART THE MAN!" is the charge I harl at YOU!

While the loyal ones gather for renewed effort, taking heed of blood-bought lessons of the past, YOU sneer and snifte, criticize and hesitate, evade and shuffle, wiggle and wobble!

"Act well YOUR part; therein the glory lies".

Remove the stain of murder from your soul in the glory of big and splendid achievement. For you are as guilty of the murder of the men who die prematurely fighting in your cause, through your neglect, as if your own hand had plunged the traitor's knife into their vitals.

These are harsh words. If I succeed in making someone angry enough to THINK, a good purpose will have been achieved.

During the 1919 strike, one of our organizers made this statement, over and over:

izers made this statement, over and over:

"The prime cause of all our failures in the past; the insidious poison that is disrupting, impeding and making THIS effort a failure is constantly and monotonously re-iterated ENEMY propaganda to the effect that telegraphers are, contrary to the laws that govern other men, a class of moral lepers who WILL NOT STICK. I say to you: THIS IS A LIE! It is a lie that has been told time and again by men who have been well paid by our enemy for the telling. Those who lend ear to this foul propaganda are selling themselves cheaply. Those who repeat this filthy spittle of the Judas Iscarlot—Benedict Arspittle of the Judas Iscariot—Benedict Ar-nold tribe cheat themselves and families by not demanding pay from the corrupters for their services".

The telegraphers, as a whole and at heart, are clean, brave, able and thoughtful men. When YOU come to realize this and pound it sufficiently into your fellow-telegraphers, our troubles will be over. Our organization will spring over-night into its own. This is what 1919 taught THIS writer—do you see any flaws?

The A. P. organization drive moves on, gathers force, attracts to the organization strong, brilliant young fellows who never before gave it a thought; old veterans who were temporarily on vacation; hundreds who, in former days, failed us at the critical moment. Their shoulders are braced to the wheel for another prodigious effort. Success would be SO easy if ALL would lend a hand. Are YOU breaking an honest man's back by failing to do YOUR bit?

Let's break the rules sufficiently to close this with a bit of poetry. It is inspired stuff. The writer gives it as a first-rate poet's (name unknown) reply to the wheeses about miners, steel workers, transportation workers and others in the "dangerous" trades being over-paid. The news associations recently supported it by reporting on the same day a shipwreck with dozens lost; a mine explosion with many entombed and smothered to death; two men buried in a ten-ton ingot of molten steel:

"We have fed you all for a thousand years,

"And you hail us still unfed, "Though there's never a dollar of all your wealth.

"But marks the workers' dead.
"We have yielded our best to give you rest, "And you lie in crimson wool;

"For if blood be the price of all your wealth, "Good God, we have paid in full.

"We have fed you all for a thousand years,
"For that was the doom, you know,
"From the davs when you chained us in your fields,
"To the strike of a week ago,
"You have eaten our lives and our babes and wives.
"And we're told its your legal share;
"But if blood be the price of your lawful wealth

wealth.

"Good God, we have bought it fair!

"There is never a mine blown skyward,
"But we're buried alive for you;
"There is never a wreck drifts shoreward now.

"But we are its ghastly crew.
"Go reckon our dead by the forges red,
"And the factories where we spin,
"For if blood be the price of your accursed wealth.

"Good God, we have paid it in!"

ESTABLISHING A STANDARD By J. B. M.

The other day there was an advertisement in the New York Evening Post, for a telegraph operator. The salary was "$40.$45." Although the kind of man wanted (a broker man)—is more often getting $50 per week to start than $40 or $45, still these figures will serve the purpose in this article.

In the Help Wanted and Situations Wanted columns of the Evening Post on the same day were numerous "ads" of accountants, foremen, office managers and other white-collar position-holding pets of the business world, many of them requiring college graduates. The salaries offered them ranged from $25 to $45 per week week.

Look over the advertisements in the papers nowadays. Everywhere you will find evidence of the fact that unorganized workers have to take what they can get. Organized workers have, in some cases, been forced to accept a reduction in wages, but in most cases they are maintaining their war-time scale, which is what they should do.

The fact that a broker operator can get $40 to $50 per week in New York to start, while a college graduate accountant or office manager—even a lawyer—has to accept $25 to $45 for a start is the result of as fine a bit of business-like organization as there is anywhere in the trade union movement—the establishing of a unon standard by the Eastern Broker Division.

Division.

The moral influence on the employers of telegraph operators is impossible of actual appraisal. They know they have to pay the scale or they don't get the men, for the E. B. D. first signed up most of the broker operators to make sure that the scale would be enforced. The moral support which the broker operators get from the knowledge that most of the men are signed up and if they have to quit, other union men won't scab on them, is also of tremendous value. Then by using its employment bureau to control all the vacancies and relief work, the E. B. D. supports both ends from the middle, making it almost as hard for a "non" to break into Wall Street as for Charlie Chaplin to make any one cry.

Some time ago, one of the big trust make any one cry.

Some time ago, one of the big trust companies, needing a relief man, called the headquarters, and were surprised to have to pay him $10 per day. Finding that they required a man for several months they decided to take one on regular and thus a $60 job was created. In addition their regular men got an increase in salary. Every chief operator in the financial or newspaper district knows where he can get a man—but he also knows what he will have to pay him. So, little by little, the broker men have established a standard which not only helps them but has its effect on the salaries of every newspaper and private wire operator in the city. Here is the proof of the pudding for the commercial men. Establish a standard! Do you recollect how they called us crazy in 1918 when some of the far-sighted members fought for a rating of $5. $6 and $8 per day for commercial men. They really didn't believe they were worth $5. $6 or $8 a day. How far are the commercial ratings from these figures now?

SAID THE GROUCH

Hey you, what do you think you are doing, giving Doug. Fairbanks a "short" in "The Nut", or are you trying to pull some Charlie Chaplin stuff?, Don't you ever feel the "call" to act human and play a serious role in life?

Aw, lay off'n me. Wo u tnk u r ayway. I carry a pasteboard, don't I?

Y-e-a-h you carry a card all right, all right, but fearing the weight of it will make you stoop-shouldered you usually carry it six months out of eighteen. You migrating birds take all the pleasure out of the life of home and mother. Silk shirts and knee skirts is your dish. If common sense were music your portion of it would make jazz of "Home, Sweet Home". How come everything about you except your habits, your likes and dislikes and the language you use are real human? can read and write but you can't reason; you can make a "bug" hum but it don't mean anything; you can orate loudly and erratically in the coatroom but it don't get you anywhere—a real gwenuine 18k Silk Shirt Harry in disguise I callsya. Didja get all of that?

Take my advice, kiddo, cut out the silk shirts and the day dreams about the time when you are going to relieve his nobs in the front office. Devote more time to your bible and dictionary. You didn't get the language I hear you use out of either of 'em.

And what's more they are never going to build a typewriter that will move as fast as you receive, nor a "bug" that can escape a hot box at the speed at which you can send, so why worry?

And furthermore and then some, sonny, I want to impress this upon your little squirrel cage storage tank—that little credential card you refer to as 'pasteboard' is the best little old certificate of character you have ever carried. And don't ever let me hear of you having dishonored it.

Get away from me, you runt, and don't come near me again until you get a little sense and develop that fighting spirit that urges on to better things and purer thought and action. They say the world judges a man by the company he keeps; I estimate the worth of you rookies by the quality, not the quantity of your finished work and your persistence in demanding your share of revenue earned.

Gee whiz, soliloquized the youngster, as he finished removing the weight from his sending machine, that old boy unloaded a mouthful.

 CORRESPONDENCE

MATTER FOR PUBLICATION RECEIVED AFTER THE 10TH OF THE MONTH WILL BE HELD OVER UNTIL NEXT ISSUE.

The Journal is not responsible for views expressed in this department by expondents. Contributions should, if possible, be limited to 500 words and correspondents. in no case exceed 1,000.

To the Editor:

We read the Journal. Particularly do we read what appears therein under "Correspondence" and "Local Notes." This because we think that under those heads should be found reflected any light that has penetrated the minds of the rank and sle; and, by the same taken, we read these columns when searching for the truest measurement of cur ability to make headway. There if anywhere, is the voice of the Unden; these if anywhere, is shown the psychology of the membership. In the Journal for March our search was rewarded in the discovering of at least one bright spot. (See page 140, under heading "C. P. R., Alberta Notes.)" The writer of it is to be commended for his "dragging it all out into the open," if for nothing else. Put that alongside of the resolution adopted by the Toronto Joint Meeting of October 17, 120, and you have the sentiments of at least seventy-five per cent of the telegraph workers in Canada. And those sentiments are not based on "nationalism," either. They are based rather upon the recognized fact that organized as we are we are absolutely impotent to make headway against the powers facing us. Those powers, it might be well to point out, are arrayed before us in two distinct camps: (1) The perfectly organized, or un-organized, as we are, either one of those two camps singly is a tough enough proposition for us to have to do with; together they are all but invincible. If the C. T. U. A. constitution were rewrite the C. T. U. A. constitution therefore such a conference could not federate the Toronto, Ont., April 8. Editor the Journal:

Toronto, Ont., April 8. Editor the Journal, it was reported that we were again a "Nation," the apparent reason being that we had a heckey team once more. It is very doubtful whether a hockey team aione, (and especially one without support) would make a Nation, but it will help towards that end in establishing that much needed virtue—"esprit de corps," which seems to be very much lacking, in and around that busy little flat of the C. P. R. Bldg., so-called "RN."

The old saying—"All work and no play makes Jack a duil boy," still holds good and for that reason a few of the sport-loving chaps suggested the idea of getting together for a little exercise at hookey. The idea was originally a plan to get the so-called "Night Hawks" awake for a short time before twilight, for a little exercise and recreation. This materialised very well and for two or three afternoons we had a really enjoyable time down at Willowvale Park, our only regret being that more did not take advantage of getting together with us for some much meeded exercise. However, the Weather Man must have thought we were taking it too strenuously and our pleasant afternoons were cut short, almost before we had gotten started.

The next move along this line took the form of a challenge from the G. N. W.

The next move along this line took the form of a challenge from the G. N. W. night staff to a game of Hockey at the Arena Gardens, Far be it from us to throw up the sponge at anything like that, so the challenge was accepted and a game was called at the Arena for March 18th.

so the challenge was accepted and a game was called at the Arena for March 18th, at 2:30 p. m.

The appointed day and hour arrived and our little team appeared on that sheet of ice which, even to many a league team who had never played there before, looked like the Toronto Bay itself with a goal at each end. But alas! Was that all? Where were those supporters with the husky lungs, we had so confidently expected to be there to give a word of encouragement and a cheer now and then? "Like the Hen and the Cow, They're not with us now, They're only a Dream of the Past." Out of a staff of some hundred and fifty odd noble souls, aside from the team, we could find but three in the building, and later on a fourth appeared and made it a quartette. But what could a quartette do against odds like the crowd that poured in from the Canadian National (G. N. W). From Chief Operator to Check Boy, they were there with a purpose in view, and that, to give their team that most necessary and appreciated support And they did' There were 75 G. N. W. supporters out.

Many said they did not know there was to be a game although it was talked about for a week around the office and a notice to that effect hung by the clock for exactly five days previous to the game. We might have advertised it in all the "dailies;" we might have sent out personal invitations or we might have personally interviewed every single soul and begged their presence but we hardly thought it necessary in "RN."

Well, to continue—our noble six hundred their presence but the bundred were the sent the sent necessary in "RN."

Well, to continue—our noble six hundred (minus the hundred) went into the fray, and they "played and played the game." It was really and truly a fast and exciting game (with apologies to the Star) and we lost to the tune of 2 to 0. In spite of the number of casualities it was a good, clean game of hockey. We regret G. N. W. goalee Price's misfortune in getting hit in the forehead with the puck, leaving him with a scar which he will doubtless carry always. A ready reminder of their victory of that day.

Never say die! So the return game was slated for the following Thursday. On account of the rather exorbitant price being; charged by the officials of the Arena,

Never say die! So the return game was slated for the following Thursday. On account of the rather exorbitant price being charged by the officials of the Arena, for the use of it for an hour, on behalf of the team a subscription list was circulated the evening previous to help out in that respect. What, you ask, was it a failure? It was anything but such and in fact it was one of the most successful things we have ever seen carried out around old "RN." Did a little notice on the clock make 'em realize that they were with us or against us? At any rate they were right there with the goods and at the scheduled time, next day, they were with us in spirit and person, too. We had the supporters there in earnest and if you could only realize how good it made us chaps, who were playing, feel, to hear a cheer and a word of encouragement, you would have yelled yourself hoarse.

In this game we realized that we needed practice and team play, something we hadn't a chance to avail ourselves of, this season and not one of our team having played a game for several years much less having played together. Although we lost this game also by the small margin of 2 to 1, nevertheless we had the satisfaction of giving the G. N. W. a real task for an hour. We will not take up space to describe the games in detail nor to make mention of personal merit, although much could be said along that line, as that is not the purpose we had in view when we undertook to write detail nor to make mention of personal merit, although much could be said along that line, as that is not the purpose we had in view when we undertook to write this item for the Journal. We might add that it gives us the greatest of pleasure to have been asked by our correspondent to get up a little write-up and to, in some measure, comply with his request.

To come back to the game again or rather the evening preceding the game. Your financial aid was very much appreciated but we think it safe to say that without your personal presence it would have been a case of—"the gift without the giver is bare." Although there was a fairly large attendance from "RN" still it was not what it should have been or could have been and was noted for the conspicuous absence of dignitaries, in the conspicuous absence of dignitaries, in the way of Chiefs, etc., with the exception of that all 'round sport who played with us ("NS").

Is our only encouragement from that source to be, to "clear up" that "bis" on "CH" and take Winnipeg on the 7th, or other of a similar nature. The Canadian National Telegraphers did not look upon it in that light and we feel confident the Canadian 'Pacific Telegraph Company (emphasize "Company") do not either. Authorities on the subject will tell us and it stands to reason that better work will come from a mind and body that has been refreshed by outing, exercise and recreation.

refreshed by outing, exercise and recreation.

If our only ambition in this life, is to work our eight hours, or seven and a half as the case may be, accept the flithy lucre, and call it a day, (a sort of—Come day, Go day; God send Sunday) then it is time far us to get out of the way and give someone else a chance to LIVE as we were intended to do. While we are at work, let us wank with a will, conscientiously striving to give all that is expected of us (noting will be said if we give more?

but don't let us lose ourselves so that when the day is over, we pass on with a grudge in our souls that this life has been nothing more or less than slavery. It's up to you, just what you make it. Work conscientiously, enjoy yourself in recreation afterwards and strive to help your fellow—man to do likewise. Don't get yourself into that state where you come down to the office with a "grouch" that is contagious to all with whom you come in contact, and go away with the feeling—well, thank God, another day; another dollar.

Just stop and consider this subject. Hard to believe, but true nevertheless! tion

Some of this may have gone over your head but perhaps (and we hope so) at a later date we may have another chance to explain more fully what we are hitting at, in these last few remarks. Thanking you for your perusal of this item and if you find it amusing, interesting, beneficial or otherwise, just pass it on and in the near future let's hear from some of you noted correspondents. noted correspondents.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

During 1920 the leased wire facilities of the Associated Press were increased from 64,800 miles to 63,422, an increase of over 4,600 miles. The A. P. now has about 200 automatic printing machines in operation. The A. P. wires and automatic machines are operated by 785 Morse telegraphers and automatic printer operators.

The leased wires were extended to thirty-one cities.

Oklahoma day and night state wires were established, and direct wires between Chicago and Texas were established; also second wires from Kansas City to some of the larger Texas papers.

On January 1, 1921, there were 1,263 members of the A. P. These figures represent an addition of over forty new members for the past year.

Ohio State Night Wire

The Buckeye night wire is now practically solidly organized and we need only a few more of the day circuit to come in to make it 100 per cent, according to underground reports from that string. The writer has been too busy during the past month lining 'em up to take note of current-events. The big job is about complete and we'll be with you next month.

We need a live wire correspondent on the

We need a live wire correspondent on the day circuit. All speak at once. Mail your notes to Paul F. Schnur, acting chairman, A. P. Division, 113 South Ashland Boulevard, Chicago, and he'll consolidate them. There's too much doing on the day Buckeye circuit to let it all go unchronicled.

Inquiry has been made of this correspondent as to whether operators employed by the A. P. who in past years managed to "get in bad" with the C. T. U. A. will be admitted now. One such inquiry read as follows:

"My circumstances in 1907 were such that I thought I had to work. I was wrong-I should have had the manhood to suffer and stick it out with the rest of the boys. The proof lies in the fact that those who stuck are better off now than I they had the brains and manhood to fight-and they have since forged ahead while I remain at the key, drawing my present wage by virtue of the existence of the union which I deserted. I've come clean—will the union accept my applica-tion now if I guarantee to stick?"

The brother's application has gone in and he's regained his lost honor. His new union card is his most treasured pos-

The anwer to the inquiries is that we are facing a new deal. All who apply honorably, with honest intention to abide by the union obligation are eligible. We are forming a new working organization and we expect the A. P. to voluntarily come across with a "closed shop" contract similar to that enjoyed by all other press association operators. We do not wish to force any one out. The A. P. division will welcome all who apply with proper motives.

It is the sense of the Ohio night wire men that the organization drive should continue until sufficient membership is continue until sufficient membership is gained and a working organisation firmly established, so that real progress may begin. We do not desire any break with the A. P. On the contrary, we want more friendly relations and we are prepared to offer, in exchange, a more intelligent degree of co-operation, more work and better service. We want a square deal and there's no other way to get it than by signing a union contract covering wages and working conditions. We want no runaway strike, no hasty action. We have confidence in the officers of the C. T. U. A. and we are assured of the backing of the we are assured of the backing of the publishers.

The writer wishes to urge A. P. men all over the country to get behind the A. P. organization drive. Take out an annual card and go after the non-members on your circuit. Send in some notes about your circuit to the Journal. Letters have reached the writer from many sections reporting progress in the campaign. We are experiencing too much trouble obtaining card men for the Saturday night jobs. Yet some are opposed to help along with the organization fund. What's the matter? Don't you believe in strengthening your organization? There's nothing to that old song about the A. P. men not caring to have us organize them. They want "an organize effort" that's what they are waiting for. When they come they want to come all together not spasmodically.

The packer employes submitted to a small reduction in wages but the eight hour day still stands. What would have happened if they were not organized? Ask the Western Union.

The same percentage of our members the same percentage of our members.

About the same percentage of our membership who refuse to vote will be found standing firmly against any move that is for the betterment of our organization. It is hard to understand why men who claim to be Union men will remain inactive and to be Union men will remain inactive and refuse to take part in any movement for the good of the order. I can't figure out whether they are too tight to contribute their little mite or whether they are only card men because they have to be. I fear if we don't begin soon to discriminate between "card" men and "union" men we will have our ranks full of that class who are card men or non-card men vice versa, simply for policy sake. Quite often have I heard A. P. operators proclaim their sentiments thusly: "I am a union man at heart and if I were to work for the U. P. or I. N. S. I'd sure take out a card." All of which is quite obvious, I'll say. Those birds who put up this kind of chatter should be watched very carefully. We don't want them for they would be no benefit to us.

birds who put up this kind of chatter should be watched very carefully. We don't want them for they would be no benefit to us.

The writer of these paragraphs carried a card while working for the A. P., and not only that, but was active, went from town to town at his own expense agitating, educating and organizing. While engaged in this work I had occasion to meet with a bunch of telephone operators, Western Usion and Postal operators in an organization meeting. There was a "union" press operator at that town who not only declined to aid us, but even belittled our organization work and said the President of the C. T. U. A. was a crook. This same fellow always dropped his card when he worked for the A. P. or any other open shop and even on the railroads as we know the closed shop is not enforced there.

There are scores of operators employed by the A. P. who are good union men and view our effort to organize that system with hopeful anticipation. They are card men in spite of the fact that they realize they would be watched, coerced and intimidated in case the fact became known to the traffic chief—Sir Militon Garges. They know that a few T. D. R.'s and 1907 scabs are always watching for a chance to detect them and turn them in. They are real union men and are our brothers. It is for them that we are striving to organize the A. P. and they are willing to co-operate with us. They are our brothers when some card men on our own systems are not—not in spirit and in truth—.

I also have been instructed to say that all assessments must be in not later than July 1.

Yours fraternally,

J. A. McDOUGALL, Secretary-Treasurer. Vancouver, B. C., April 1, 1921.

Norman S. McDonald, for many years employed in the local commercial office, and later serving overseas with the Canadian forces, accepted the night position opened by the Canadian Press in Port Arthur, Ont., March 16.

All "chiefs" employed by the Great Northwestern Telegraphs in Vancouver, including automatic supervisors (who are members of the A. W. E.) are paid $145 a month. C. P. R. "chiefs" doing similar work are paid a minimum of $210.

Canadian Pacific railway earnings available for dividend for 1921 were $21,877,363, according to a statement recently issued. Since April, 1918, coal prices in Vancouver have increased from $8.50 to $15, or $6.20 a ton. From April, 1918, to January, 1921, there have been ten increases in the price of coal.

the price of coal.

Apartment and house rents in Vancouver are steadily on the increase. A house occupied by one of our members here recently was increased from $35 to $60 a month. Another whose apartment rent in October, 1919, was $40 a month, has been increased until the same apartment rents today fos $57.50. Even at this price it is not possible to secure a lease.

october, 1918, was $40 a month, has been increased until the same apartment rents today fos $57.50. Even at this price it is not possible to secure a lease.

Men working nights in a city such as Vancouver are at a serious disadvantage since many of the night cars stop running at 12:30 or 1 o'clock. If they live within walking distance of the office they must pay excessive rents. If they live in the suburbs they must walk, which means that in order to put in a 7½-hour night they give up about 10 hours.

Hon. Frank B. Carvell. chairman of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners, says the McAdoo award to railwaymen was one of the most "iniquitous" pieces of legislation ever foisted on the United States. He lays great stress on the fact that station agents are paid overtime at the rate of time and a half in case trains were late. It is evident Mr. Carvell never has worked any overtime or he might appreciate that one day's work in any 24 hours should be paid for, even though the train did jump the track.

C. F. Moriarty, of Victoria, has the distinction of being one of the very few telegraphers in the service holding the dual position of telegrapher-correspondent. The committee last year tried very hard, but unsuccessfully, to have a clause incorporated into the agreement which would permit telegraphers to accept "promotion" to editorships.

Not infrequently telegraphers are accepted and part of the agreement which would accept the service of the agreement which would permit telegraphers to accept "promotion" to editorships.

porated into the agreement which would permit telegraphers to accept "promotion" to editorships.

Not infrequently telegraphers are accused of lack of co-operation in the handling of news dispatches. Many times they have been called "pieces of machinery." or "time servers." Invariably they have been criticized when, for one reason or another, they have objected to a delayed lunch period. It has been pointed out that without the co-operation of the telegraph staff, the news service must suffer. With this in mind, can any person imagine a "news man" sitting peacefully at his desk reading a funny story while a block away the streets are crowded with men and women—many of the latter fainting away—watching a running gun fight between a bandit and the police, in which several shots are fired and numerous large store windows are smashed? It is hard to imagine such things. But if is hard to imagine such things. But if such things really do happen, how can the telegraphers be asked to co-operate with this example before them?

There is quite a lot of talk among local men here of establishing some kind of a sick benefit insurance fund, which would be available to any member unable to work on account of illness. The plan, so far as I have learned, is for each man to contribute 50 cents each week, and if on more workers and in more works. contribute 50 cents each week, and if on an extraordinary occasion more money should be needed, an extra assessment would be ordered. The idea is good, and some sort of an arrangement should be worked out. CANADIAN BROKER NOTES

Montreal, April 8. Somebody has made a mistake. Spring is not here.

Things are quiet around this neck of the whods—business keeps away, and as a result, three men were temporarily laid off by one firm, and another large wire house laid off two. One man was immediately placed with a press association, another made all the scoops that were offered, and is now relieving at a local house. The other chap is not working as yet. Question for some of our readers: If a little more interest were displayed by some and dues promptly paid, we would be able to do more for some of the men laid off in bad times, in the way of placing 'em, or tendering financial aid, by taking voluntary lay-offs, to give 'em scoops. When things get bad an up-to-date card is quite an asset, you are not welcome at a commercial office if not a paid-up member, and cannot get a sit in even for an hour on a press wire. Another thing, up-to-date members chould keep officers posted on vacancies and possible scoops, and we will help to place all men in good positions or get them scoops with the aid of up-to-date experators. We should live up to what we preach, help those who helped to make salaries and conditions better in the commercial and press companies of Canada.

The salaries in broker houses are at their present level because of the activities of union men in commercial companies. We could make things better if we had a way of placing only union men and good operators on every new leased wire. This would be a benefit to the house, and the clients. Don't help your personal friends unless they have a card. Help the man who has a card or is doing his best to pay up, and a whole lot are doing that right now, catching up.

The way everybody is coming into the fold and trying to get up to time is very encouraging. Fellows who have been up against it, more than was apparent on the surface, are coming up very handsomely and indications point to a bumper

TORONTO CANADIAN NATIONAL NOTES

Ye Correspondent has come to life again. By the way, how do you like the name heading these notes? Guess that name is old stuff now, but it just brings to mind an article handed to the correspondent at the time this name was adopted, but was too late for the issue of the Journal intended, so we'll just let you stamp your glimmers on it now. Here it is:

To many perhaps, the passing of the name "Great Northwestern Telegraph Company," means the passing of pleasant memories. These memories however great, the state company with those of horse for Company," means the passing of pleasant memories. These memories however great, are stale compared with those of hope; for hope is the parent of all effort and endeavor. It is with hope then, that we herald our identity under the name of the Canadian National Telegraph System.

At the head of the National System, is D. B. Hanna, whose courage, strong sense of duty, integrity and sterling honesty of purpose, inspires that hope, confidence and assurance which will leave an indelible stamp upon all associated with him.

What the new name will represent in the future rests with you—if we follow Hanna's example and do our bit, then it is assured that we will leave an enduring monument of human energy, which will become the common heritage of our race. Some class to that hockey team we stacked up against the C. P. Eh, ladies? They trimmed the C. P. boys up two games in a week and were eased up at the finish in both games. The first game was two to nil, while in the second we netted the same number of tallies and the opposition grabbed one. tion grabbed one.

Frank Price played a good game in goal in the first game, but was unfortunate in getting a nasty cut over the eye, and had to be replaced by our genial all night check boy.

to be replaced by our genial all night check boy.

Henry at center, and Mac McCammon and "Tank" Fawthrop on the wings worked like beavers. Cliff bounced up and down as though he was "loaded" at one end, you just couldn't keep him down. Henry may not be very big, but he disturbed those C. P. boys' equilibrium so often that they were pleased to see him take a rest. McCammon was unfortunate in the second game in getting a bad knock on the knee and had to retire for the balance of the game. Frank Tomlin took his place. Tracy Kew and Jack Anderson on the defense played a fine game, while Jack showed 'em how they do it in Hamilton. He sure had the opposing attack up a tree when they hit his side. Dafoe played goal in the second game. Philip and Deakins were subs and both played good hockey, especially the former, who stuck it out gamely when, due to casualties, no relief could be secured.

The boys played well and displayed a fine co-operative spirit, and goodfellowship that helped a whole lot. If they do the same thing on the ball team they have lined up they ought to win a lot of games this summer. We know they will. By the way, Jack Anderson was elected manager of our ball team. We'll give you more details next month.

The staff presented her with a dinner set, and fine cut glass water set before leaving. All the linemen in the district have renewed their cards and a few new entries have brought them up to 100 per cent.

Regarding the forced holidays: Notwithstanding the fact that navigation on the St. Lawrence has opened nearly three weeks earlier than has been recorded for seventy years, and business is rapidly picking up, the Morse staff are forced to take three days off in turn, and the Krum staff are working short hours.

C. P. R. ALBERTA DISTRICT

Calgary is anxiously waiting for the membership in other districts to join with us in bringing about a successful conference of the various units in Canada this spring. Are not the items mentioned in our last notes in themselves of sufficient importance to warrant a united decision upon them? Have you not numerous other ideas and questions that need a satisfacupon them: Have you not numerous other ideas and questions that need a satisfactory answer, that only a thorough understanding by all districts can settle? Get busy and make the organization formidable, and in a position to unitedly meet the problems we must soon face.

the problems we must soon face.

Bro. Sam Small's letter in the last Journal, is worth reading twice. It is time we learned something from past experience. Only a worker nominated and elected by the workers can represent them in the legislative halls. Only such understands the needs of Labor, and is in daily touch with them. So-called "Friends of Labor" are partly, or entirely, out of touch with the workers, and are in most cases in an entirely different economic sphere.

Another phase of the letter is important, the need of delegates coming to the convention this year with definite plans for the strengthening and upbuilding of the organization. Generally speaking the delegates attending past conventions have arrived there with no definite plan of organization, and leave the convention shelving the matter on to the next executive, without giving that executive any definite plan to work on. We would suggest that the different units elect their delegates and alternates early, so those who would be in attendance would have sufficient time to plan definite and studied resolutions, that would make the C. T. U. of A. a real force and benefit to the membership. bership.

Bro. Fred Williams, our local secretary, has resumed his seat in the "House," after a leave of absence of two months, which he spent in roaming the beaches of "Sunny California." Fred reports his trip a great success, although why he should prefer California weather to that experienced in Alberta this year is beyond our comprehension. hension.

All members of the staff are asked to remove their Journals from the mail basket without delay when they arrive each month. It is a source of great inconvenience and unpleasantness to all concerned to see these left in the mail basket for any considerable time. If you don't want your Journal, pick it up anyway and hand it to somebody who does.

We noticed in Moose Jaw notes last month the question: "Why do all our printer girls go to Calgary?" We would like to ask the same question. There must be something in our balmy atmosphere, especially in the winter, that appeals to our Moose Jaw friends; or is it the attractive personality of our splendid bevy of printer girls? "Calgary has the good either way."

I am informed that cupid seems to be catching on the WN-CR printer circuit, "WA" and "F" getting it bad. It looks as though congratulations will soon be appropriate priate.

We are sorry to say that Bro. Bowling has been laid off on account of reduction of staff. It's tough luck "K", but cheer up, you are not the only one.

"CS" has gone to Kerrobert again, this time for a whole week. Why not let us in on it, Chessie, what's the big attraction?

Brother Abramson is relieving him here and says this is sure some city, and the rest of us heartily agree with him.

We are still using the "world famous" empire "Mills", and "SN" sure has got great control over his temper whilst trying to manipulate same.

Our manager is leading a lonesome life these days on account of his family being quarantined with scarlet fever. Tough luck, "F".

Brother Donnelly is matching the messenger staff and seems to be winning a small fortune. A round of "soft" drinks is promised if he wins enough. Here's hoping you win "RY".

This about all for the present, but you will all hear from us again, soon, and Cert. 3015.

The contents of Detroit local notes in the March Journal brings a few facts strongly to the fore of what might happen if we do not keep our organization 100 per cent "organized."

Bro. Duffy "MO" is wearing a smile that won't come off. His name will be one of the four printed in large letters for participating in the honor of winning a cup in the speel. Things are quiet on the farm also, nothing to do but read. That is, according to Eddie McReady. What are you going to do in the long summer evenings, Eddie?

Our world famous hockey team met with disastrous results against the Beausejour "Mob," one of the members being laid out. Nothing has been said of our late Secretary-Treasurer, Tommy Cross, owing to the fact of there being no correspondent at the time of his resignation. We would like to congratulate him on his efforts in performing his duties in a very able and afficient manner, and it was through his hard work a number of annuals were taken out at the beginning of the year. We would like to present you with a gold watch or something suitable, Tommy, but don't think you would like to wait 8 years or so for one, eh? However, we have every confidence in his successor. Bro. McLean, and hope every member will stand by both he and our worthy chairman, Clay, and back them to the limit. We can rest assured they will perform their duties faithfully if only given a little help. Encouragement goes a long way and righting battles for the other fellow is by no means an easy task. We can all do our share by helping to make things easy for them with a litle co-operation once in a while from every brother and sister. There will be great obstacles to overcome during the ensuing year and it is by your help only they will be able to succeed. So let us strive hard for that end and make it a record year, something we will be proud to look back upon with pride.

Co-operation is a wonderful tonic, it has many good results. Besides it creates a good feeling and it enlivens an interest amongst us, which, sorry to say, has become a little lax with some.

So far we have no "engagements, marriages or newly borns," to announce, but the year is yet early. It will be a dull month if we don't have at least one list to sign.

A fire alarm was turned in at "GK" the other day, but on investigation it turned out to be just Bob McGiver lighting up.

The writer is unable to mention all your names in the one issue, but will warn you to keep to the straight and narrow path if you don't like publicity.

Our fair sister, Minnie Murk, of the printers, will be on leave of absence while this is going to press. Hope you have a wonderful time in Minneapolis, Minnie, is he fair or dark? We would like to know just for curiosity's sake.

Ask Bill Ross how he liked the Allan Cup games. He says he is dealing in futures now and wants to bet on next year's games. How much did you win, Bill?

Bro. Dan McCarthy has returned to duty after several months' absence on the sick list. Bro. Dan sustained a bad fracture of the hip, due to a fall on an icy pavement. We are all glad to have you back with us Bro., and hope no ill-effects of the unfortunate and painful accident will result.

For the benefit of those who are not already acquainted with the reasons as to why the committee appointed at the joint meeting held in Toronto last October, for the purpose of keeping the objects of that joint meeting before the Canadian membership, has not functioned as was intended. The following will explain the situation, in-so-far as the C. P. R. members of the committee are concerned. It was pointed out by an article in the November Journal (Pages 463-464) that the proceedings of the said joint meeting would be contrary to our constitution if carried out as provided for at that meeting. carried out as provided for at that meeting. There is only one explanation necessary to be made in connection therewith, and that is: "Unconstitutional."

If a movement has been shown to be unconstitutional then why continue it? Try again, and go after something that will be constitutional.

The writer who was appointed a member of that committee still feels that a large number of Canadians do favor a get-together of all Canadian Divisions, for future negotiations, and that if something can be put into motion, that will be constitutional, and that has merit, the Canadian membership will get behind it and push like old Harry—only, let it be along constitutional lines. What's the use of having a Constitution it it's not lived up to, anyway?

All C. T. U. A. System Divisions have undoubtedly done remarkably well to date in the way of signing-up agreements. What was ever accomplished in this respect before the formation of system divisions? Very little indeed, if anything at all, outside of our organization work, which of course was a necessity.

Last year three American press committees got together, in New York, and put through good schedules as a result of their efforts, on that occasion.

A week or so ago, here in Toronto, representatives of three Canadian System Divisions: The G. T. P., O. R. T.; C. N. R. O. R. T., and the G. N. W., C. T. U. A., representing linemen of the three divisions worked together, with the result that another advance was made in schedule negotiating, as is shown by the concessions obtained in favor of the G. N. W. linemen, members of our own C. T. U. A. and in whose behalf the representatives of the three above mentioned bodies, got together.

of the three above mentioned bodies, got together.

Now, in the face of, if only on these two occasions, when satisfactory headway resulted through getting together, who will argue that it would not be well for all Canadian divisions to get together for future schedule negotiations?

I hope the day is not far distant when all our Canadian General committees at cleast, will be able to work together or better still, that a Canadian Federation of all system divisions will be formed, and still greater results crown our efforts, than those already obtained, through the medium of concerted action. In union there is strength.

Mr. P. Lewis is grateful for the flowers received when he was sick the day of the Soo-varsity game. We are glad now to report the clerks rank 100 per cent. All dues paid to date, first month's increase paid with the exception of one lonely one, and we sincerely hope that one will "come across" so that we may have a clean sheet. We welcome our new members. Our representatives surely have the "go-and-get-it" spirit and deserve credit.

HAMILTON C. P. R. NOTES

There isn't very much to write about round this district this month but we just feel that we must bust into the correspondence column every now and then, else these other offices will have something on us, which would never, never do. So we will try and find something to say till someone breaks in on us.

We have had one busy season in spite of the fact that our staff has been reduced, in keeping with all other points on the divisions. Seems to be a disease, this reduction of staff. Hockey games have been no small portion of our tribulations, for the sporting people of this city just will have their bulletin service on everything that is of any account at all.

Our worthy wire chief, in small letters, be sure, has purchased for himself a new sky-piece out of the increase granted this past fall. It's a good thing for someone, haberdasher, or department store, underlined, that this increase was scheduled else the same old lid might still be in evidence.

We had with us for a few days Bro. Bert Thompson, formerly of the Canadian Press staff who was subbing for a few days. We regret very much that his stay with us was so brief and hope to have him among us again soon.

with us was so brief and nope to have him among us again soon.

Brother Eric Farquhar spent the past week-end with friends in Ingersoll. It's a mighty insignificant place to go for a holiday but we just naturally suppose there must be some reason for it all—we don't know.

there must be some reason for it all—we don't know.

Brother Jim Ashby has resumed duty as local district station lineman. Brother Ashby is a welcome addition to our ranks. While he doesn't belong to our local, he is right in his own branch and we are glad to have everything solid. Jim is a good fellow and we hope to keep him with us. The holiday schedule is already posted covering a period from June 1st to October 15th. Some staff here by the time we accommodate everybody.

Brother Jack Alexander, from Toronto GLOBE office favored us with a short call a week ago and we were very glad, indeed, to have the pleasure of his call. Jack is all for the "gang" and its a pleasure to have his cheery company and words of encouragement to the boys. There should be more like our worthy brother amongst the telegraph fraternity and we just know the "gang" would be the better for more men of his calibre.

Somebody opened his key right here and held it open so we take it, this is a sign to cut it short which we do right smartly with pleasure. London local look alive now and get in a few notes so we will know you are still on the job.

MONTREAL C. P. R. NOTES

Well, boys, I presume you have no doubt heard that poor Baptist met an untimely death in a pool of water on Craig Street some three months ago while on his way home. His body has not yet been found, but we have been mourning his disappearance ever since.

The above is a joke, but nevertheless, the boys have been missing Baptist's fine correspondence for some time past and are wondering what is the matter, so I thought I would step in and fill the gap and interest the boys a bit.

You will hear with regret that Bro. JB of Bolshevik fame has not yet rented his flat, although this is done on February the 3rd. He says rents are too high. He may apply to the city for a permit to put up a tent on Fletcher's field for the summer, on account of the house shortage. Bros. CY and CN, who were sick some time ago, are back on deck again.

The outlook for a heavy business season is very gloomy, I would advise outside telegraphers to keep shy of Montreal or they may have to buy a new pair of bots to go back, as the majority of those laid off during the winter may not all be taken back as depression seems to have struck all lines of business.

If the above items please the boys, I will come back again. You will hear with regret that Bro. JB

WHO OWNS THE PRESS AND WHY?

When you read your daily paper, are you reading facts or propaganda? And whose propaganda?

Who furnishes the raw material for your thoughts about life? Is it honest material?

No man can ask more important questions than these; and here for the first time the questions are answered in a book,

THE BRASS CHECK—A Study of American Journalism

By UPTON SINCLAIR

Ninth edition just sent to press—a total of 144,000 copies.

"The Brass Check" is a book of facts; a book packed solid with facts. Says the introduction:

"Here are names, places, dates—such a mass of material as you cannot doubt, you cannot evade. Here are your sacred names, the very highest of your gods. When you have read this story, you will know the thing called American Journalism; you will know the body and soul of it.

Says Robert Herrick: "I wish to thank you and congratulate you." Says Charles Zueblin: "'The Brass Check' ought to raise the roof!" (It has done so.)

Says John Haynes Holmes: "The book is tremendous. I have never read a more strongly consistent argument or one so formidably buttressed by facts. You have proved your case to the handle. I again take satisfaction in saluting you not only as a great novelist, but as the ablest pamphleteer in America today. I am already passing around the word in my church and taking orders for the book."

Says the "Nation" (New York): "A most important book * fascinating and thoro treatise upon the American press."

Says the "Nation" (London): "This astonishing production highly curious record * * a telling array of evidence * factual record." a plain

Says the "Neues Journal" (Vienna): "A book-trade 'scoop' without equal * a breath-taking, clutching, frightful book."

"LABOR"

Are you a subscriber for "LABOR"? If not, why not?

What is "LABOR"? It is the official weekly publication of the sixteen standard railroad organizations, published at Washington, D. C.

"LABOR'S" mission is to provide a medium of publicity on all matters of interest to organized labor; expose attempts to trespass on the workers' rights; warn the public against vicious legislation; be of general service to society; and to prevent Big Business from exploiting the public. This being "LABOR'S" mission, quite naturally Big Business is greatly opposed to "LABOR." Therefore, the reason that the workers and public in general should subscribe in order that they may obtain real information on public questions, uninfluenced by the advertising patronage of Big Business. "LABOR" carries no advertising matter and is entirely the property of organized labor.

If you don't read it, you should. Subscribe now and get your friends to join you in a subscription club.

WORTHY AIMS OF THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS UNION

The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America was organized, and is being maintained, for the promotion of the best social, economic and fraternal interests of commercial telegraphers.

Its membership considers it the only labor union capable of consistently representing the best interests of commercial telegraphers.

So believing, and basing such conviction upon its past achievements and need for future protection, it urges all telegraphers eligible for membership to investigate its record in the hope they will realize its merits and the advisability of becoming members of a labor union established for their special protection.

INDIVIDUAL CONTRACT IS NAMED "YELLOW DOG"

The individual contract used by anti-union employers is contemptuously referred to as "yellow dog" by trade unionists.

To secure employment where this contract operates, the worker must pledge not to join a trade union or encourage the formation of same while so employed.

The United States Supreme Court upheld this contract (Hitchman vs. Mine Workers) and sustained an injunction against unionists who were charged by a West Virginia coal company with interferring with one of these "yellow dogs."

The acknowledged basis of a contract is free and voluntary action by both parties.

Courts invariably void contracts when made by duress, pressure or coercion.

What choice has a worker seeking employment with hungry babes in his home when an employer offers him a job if he signs away his lawful right to join a trade union?

How much free will has this worker when his family is threatened with eviction because he is unable to pay the rent?

What self-control has he when he knows that if he stands on his legal right and refuses to accept employment under this agreement, others will suffer because he is alone in his fight for right?

What respect can workers have for courts that defend the "yellow dog" on the ground of "sacredness of contract"?

Contracts are based on freedom of action, but when one of the parties uses his unequal power to force the other to accept, the first principle of contracts is outraged.

It may be said that a worker can seek work elsewhere.

That is no answer to the question. Whether he gets work elsewhere or whether he does not, has nothing to do with courts throwing the power of government in favor of a contract that forces men not to do a thing that they have a legal right to do.

What kind of public policy is it to acknowledge that workers have the legal right to join a trade union and then permit injunction judges to assist employers to annul that right?

A contract should be based on mutuality. The "yellow dog" is based on force by one of the parties and on necessity by the other.

It is unfair, unmoral and unsocial. It does not contain a single element of contract theory and ignores the first essential of contract making.

RAILROAD LABOR BOARD GRANTS HUGE CUTS

Average Reduction Twelve Per Cent; Lowest Paid Suffer Most

The United States Labor Board on June 1 handed down its long-expected decision in the wage controversy between the railroads and their employes.

According to a memorandum issued by the board, the reduction will average 12 per cent of the present wages. The reductions vary from 5 to 13 cents an hour, or from 5 to 18 per cent, and in the case of section laborers and others completely wipes out the increase granted by the wage award of July 20, 1920.

"Because of the fact that all employes in the service of the carriers involved are not included, it is difficult to estimate the actual amount of decrease," says the board's memorandum, "but if applied to all employes of all class one carriers, the aggregate reduction would be approximately $400,000,000 per annum."

Railroad telegraphers are reduced 6 cents per hour.

The representatives of the sixteen associated labor organizations refused to discuss the board's decision. The general chairmen of the various crafts will be called into Chicago before July 1 and a definite policy will be determined upon.

Headquarters

The Prince George Hotel in all probability will be selected as the official headquarters for the convention.

The Convention City

Toronto, the capital city of the Province of Ontario, is located on the northern shore of Lake Ontario. It lies on a plateau, gradually ascending from the lake shore to a height of 220 feet, and covers an area of about thirty-two square miles. The Canadian National Exhibition, which is held in the fall of every year, is the largest permanent exhibition in the world. Toronto is the focus point of all the finest summer resorts in the Dominion. Transportation facilities, both rail and water, are unsurpassed. The Muskoka Lakes are but three and one-half hours' ride and the district is unequaled for scenic beauty. Niagara Falls is only forty miles away by boat. The famous Cobalt silver mines are one night's ride distant, and it is only a few hours' ride from Cobalt to the Porcupine gold fields.

Hotels and Rates

There are ninety-five standard hotels in Toronto, and in the downtown district are located five well equipped hotels. They are the Prince George, having a capacity of 200; Carls-Rite, 400; King Edward, 700; Queens, 400, and the Walker House, 450. Information regarding hotel rates will be furnished each delegate and published in the

COME TO THE CONVENTION

Everyone who can do so should come to the convention. Reports already at hand indicate that Toronto will be the Mecca of many telegraphers this year. The membership anticipates the largest gathering of our Union ever held. Its Committee on Arrangements will soon be hard at work preparing a program which will mix considerable pleasure for the visitors along with the business of the delegates. This committee will make its announcements from time to time through the Journal.

Remember the place—Toronto. The date—October 3rd.

ASSOCIATED PRESS ORGANIZATION FUND

By Paul F. Schnur

THE FIVE HUNDRED DOLLAR MARK HAS BEEN PASSED!

June 1 ends the thirteen weeks' period of the Circuit Club Fund for the organization of Associated Press telegraphers. A goodly number of union telegraphers pledged themselves last February to contribute fifty cents a week for thirteen weeks—a total of $6.50—to build up a fund with which to organize Associated Press men.

Quite a number of those who pledged themselves have not remitted the full amount of $6.50, and it is hoped they will mail in their checks for the unpaid balance as soon as possible. If full payment is made by all men who pledged themselves the fund will grow to a thousand dollars.

To enable these men to get in with their full $6.50, the time is extended thirty days until July 1. A full accounting will be given in the July Journal. Circuit chairmen are requested to jog the memory of the men on their respective circuits and ask them to mail in their balance. Some members have put off mailing any part of it, stating they would wait until June 1 and then mail in the full amount. Now is the time for these men to take their trusty fountain pens in hand.

From present indications we have reason to believe that a large majority of the organized press men will insist on a $45.00 weekly minimum in the new contracts. Associated Press men should not expect us to carry the entire burden. Their moral and financial assistance will be needed. If organized press men benefit, Associated Press men will also benefit. It is up to A. P. men to line up quickly in order that a solid front can be presented. Out of 758 A. P. men employed on Morse circuits, only one-third are organized. There comes a time in every man's life when he must make a decision. The men who comprise the two-thirds must decide now whether or not they want to help themselves. A forty-five dollar minimum is much desired by all press men.

The Associated Press has not dared to take away the five dollar bonus. The men would not stand for it. By the same token, the men can get a $45.00 minimum if they will not stand for less.

Let the press men of all associations take a determined stand for a living wage and they cannot be sidetracked.

Make a real effort to sign up an A. P. man before July 1. It will come back home to you in the end.

SAID THE GROUCH

Grand Total......$523.00

Where are we at?

President Harding has spoken from the rostrum of the House of Representatives. Senators Lodge, Johnson, Knox, McCormick, et al. applauded vociferously. Secretary of State Hughes sat with arms folded, immobile countenance, gazing upon a scene which manifestly commanded none of his sympathies.

President Harding said: "In the existing League of Nations, world governing with its super powers, this republic has no part," and further along in his first message to the Congress, he said: "The wiser course would seem to be the acceptance of the confirmation of our rights and interests already provided"

(in the Versailles treaty!)

Leading newspaper comment on the Harding message throughout the country, irrespective of party label, is about equally divided, one-half says, "Ah!" and the other half ejaculates "Oh!"

The President's message makes no specific statement as to the administration's labor policy. We were informed, however, through newspaper dispatches, that President Harding is heartily in accord with the provisions of the Poindexter bill, re-introduced into the new Congress, which provides for the jailing of railroad workers should they go on strike.

Who is Poindexter? He is a United States Senator from the State of Washington, ambitious politically and socially, poses as an intellectual giant, and can hide his conscience under a miniature thimble. He was an enthusiastic candidate for the nomination for the presidency at the Chicago convention, substantially supported by a $25,000 contribution to his campaign fund by J. S. Bache of the New York stock brokerage firm of J. S. Bache & Co. Mr. Bache was a delegate to the Chicago convention, and got a good run for his $25,000, he having voted for Poindexter from the first ballot until they turned the lights out after sine die adjournment.

Mr. (Senator) Poindexter commands the respect of a large constituency, particularly those citizens of the State of Washington, whose sons sign their names "John Henry Doe II," for whom the Senator thoughtfully applied, by cable, direct to generals commanding the armies of France, for preferential consideration and immediate return to the United States after the armistice became effective. The Senator, of course, was not annoyed by pecuniary considerations in this connection, as the cable charges were paid by the U.S. government.

If, as reported, President Harding approves Poindexter's labor baiting tactics, there can be little doubt as to the administration's labor policy.

A leading paper, in an editorial recently, stated in four words a truth which is becoming more apparent daily. It said: "Our statesmanship has failed."

It has not only failed but to those responsible for the blunders committed is left the task of finding a remedy for the existing evils. A case in point is the Cummins-Esch transportation act, an act devised to bleed the public for a sufficient amount to square accounts as between Wall Street bankers and railroad security holders on the one hand and a dissatisfied clientele of shippers, carrying the burden of increased freight rates, on the other. Before the bleeding process machinery of the transportation act got to running smoothly, the rent profiteers had bled consumers dry. Result: general stagnation of business. Work, work, plenty of work, but no money with which to pay wages. Food! Elevators and warehouses jammed to the doors with foodstuffs, but the landlords have cleaned the tenants to such an extent that consumers can purchase only enough food to keep body and soul together. Senator Cummins and his pals are on the job untangling the mess, so we may expect to attend our own funerals with the cheerful knowledge that the younger generation will, in time, probably, suffer a worse fate.

Meanwhile, A. W. E. enthusiasts are back on the "extra" list, eking out an existence, between times pondering the question, "When is a dollar not a dollar, or how can I earn a day's wages sitting in the coat room fifteen hours hoping to get five hours' work?"

If you dam up the River of Progress, At your peril and cost let it be; That river must seaward despite you, 'Twill break down your dams and be free.

There is a lesson in the above that some of us are slow to learn. You may check the tide for a time, but in the end the flood will o'erwhelm you, and the height and strength of your dam will be the measure of the disaster that will follow as surely as night follows day.

It is a law of nature that when an organism ceases to grow, it dies. This also applies to us. We have reached the limit of our growth in the present form and the wilting has already begun.

To a man up a tree the Canadian Divisions resemble nothing so much as a country fair ground with so many merry-go-rounds. Some of us have been riding on them for about twenty years. I am satisfied that ninety per cent of us want to get off and go straight ahead all together, but we can't get offen the darn things. It's unconstitutional.

However, we have hopes that the International convention in October will provide the machinery for a federation of the Canadian Divisions. The suggestion from Calgary that delegates come to the convention with definite plans for the strengthening and upbuilding of the organization is important.

It has been suggested that the Canadian delegates meet in Torento a few days before the convention in order to prepare their program. This is also important.

The recent meeting of the O. R. T. and C. T. U. A., which negotiated a schedule for the linemen on all the Canadian National lines, should be a lesson for the C. T. U. A. Divisions. Forgetting for the time being the question of jurisdiction and considering only the interests of the linemen, they got together in perfect harmony and they got results.

The Canadian National Division is taking a vote of the membership on the question of revising their schedule. They propose going it alone because they must. No one will go with them.

Almost all unions have equalized the salaries from coast to coast. Recently the steam shovel engineers, cranemen and firemen on the Canadian National lines from Port Arthur to the coast were granted increases of from $15.00 to $25.00, which brings them on a level with the Western lines. They now receive the same rate of wages from coast to coast.

If there is any difference in the cost of living between Toronto and Vancouver it is in favor of the latter city.

Don't believe all you read about the drop in the cost of living. They say figures don't lie. But liars figure, and there are lies, damn lies, and statistics.

In the March issue of the Journal I asked anyone who objected to anything in the Topics to write their objections for publication instead of complaining to the Editor. I repeat, if any member objects for any reason whatever, come out in the open and state those reasons.

We are cursed with secrecy; we are ruled by whisperings. Most of our meetings are conducted with all the secrecy of a fraternal lodge. The C. P. R. and Canadian National in Toronto know nothing of each other, although we hear whispered rumors of each other's doings once in a while. All our meetings should be open to any member with an up-to-date card. We are afraid to visit each other because we feel that we are not welcome.

The joint meeting would eliminate all this. We can never get anywhere while this suspicion and distrust exists. Let us get together and say all we have in our minds.

It is expected that all those laid off in February by the Canadian National will be back at work by May 15th. May the first, last year, they were looking for operators. Next year they will be worse. Realizing this, it is hard to write calmly of those who are preventing a union of our forces. They are fiddling while Rome is burning.

Meeting Days: Second and Fourth Saturdays each Month, except during June, July and August—last Saturday of Month, 2:30 P. M.

EASTERN BROKER DIVISION TO ERECT BUILDING

Eastern Broker Division is to erect a home for themselves in New York City!

President Thomas, of the New York District Council, in addressing a large meeting of E. B. D. men at the World Building, April 23, made the announcement that he and two associates would pledge several thousand dollars as a starter.

Members of the Eastern Broker Division are highly elated over the prospect of owning their own quarters and are deeply grateful to Brother Thomas and his associate members on whose behalf the announcement was made.

Committees are at work on the vast amount of detail and probably will have a report ready for the Executive Committee within a few weeks. Discussion of plans as to the size of the building are now under full swing with enthusiasm gaining momentum as the discussion progresses. Of the financial ability of the Division and its members to finance the erection of a building, there is no doubt whatever.

Everyone knows we have outgrown our present quarters. We need more space for meeting purposes, club-rooms, private offices and a lounging room for the members. In other words, we need an up-to-date club and meeting hall combined. Our attendance averages 100 at each meeting, on many occasions exceeding this figure, and our present quarters are wholly inadequate for our urgent needs.

Brother Thomas and his associates have our sincere thanks and appreciation for the liberal manner in which they started the subscription to stock, or bond, issue. There is no question as to our success in carrying the project to a successful conclusion. The membership is enthusiastic and anxious to begin laying the foundation for our new home, though many things must be considered meanwhile.

As the plan progresses the membership will be kept fully advised through the columns of The Key.

Again, we thank Brother Thomas and his brother associates for their generous offer to help men who are trying to help themselves.

INTERNATIONAL OFFICERS VISIT NEW YORK

Our International officers, President Roscoe Johnson and Secretary Paul F. Schnur, were welcome visitors to New York to attend a big meeting of the Eastern Broker Division, April 23, when President Percy Thomas of the District Council made the announcement that he and two associates would subscribe several thousand dollars to start the E. B. D. on their way to erecting their own building.

The meeting was well attended, taxing the capacity of the large hall in the World Building, rented for the occasion. In addition to President Dunn and Secretary Hickey of the E. B. D., the speakers' rostrum was occupied by our visiting International officers, President Johnson and Secretary Schnur: President Thomas of the District Council, and our oldest living member—Brother Ralph W. Pope, who always has something interesting to tell us of the olden days.

President Johnson outlined the accomplishments of the Union in the Lowitz affair in Chicago and of the signing of the joint wage scale in Canada between the C. T. U. A. and the O. R. T. The Key congratulates our International officers, the W. B. D., and our Canadian brothers on their victories.

Secretary Schnur accused the President of "stealing his thunder," which made it necessary for him to "speak impromptu"—whatever that is. Brother Schnur spoke on the Postal situation and the wearing of the union labels.

All of the speeches were extremely interesting and went home to the members. President Dunn, in his usual impressive style, administered the obligation to several new members.

Editor's Note: Article IV of a very interesting series written by a well known Broker is printed below. Every Union man should read it and take it to heart, bearing in mind that a one-sided arrangement, or agreement, is unsatisfactory to all concerned. Let us carry our end as becomes real Union men and give to our employers the best we have, demanding in return a fair rate of pay. This can be objectionable to mo ome.

MR. BROKER OPERATOR—DO YOU CO-OPERATE WITH YOUR CHIEF?

The writer recalls quite a few years ago, when in charge of a Wall Street Wire Department, having in his employ an elderly operator, who was very slow—so much so that it was apparent to members of the firm, and I was given instructions to dispense with his services. I felt sorry for the old man and ignored the order. I put him on a lighter wire, but despite the change his wire was always piled up. He knew absolutely no code, and I suggested that I give him a list of ten code words. He was given the list daily for a week or so, and one day listening to him send, I noticed that he was spelling out everything in full. I told him he was placing me in an embarrassing position, whereupon he fairly shouted at me:

"I knew how to telegraph before you were born, and you cannot teach me any-ng. You are trying to get me fired!"

thing.

Well, I reluctantly had to discharge him. Here is an instance where his predicament gave me more concern than it did him. That poor old fellow went around the Street denouncing me to other operators. I could relate innumerable other instances where employes under my jurisdiction have refused to co-operate—in fact, I have known of instances where they tried to undermine me, by innuendo, with members of the firm.

Telegraphers should realize that the Chief Operator is held responsible for his Department, and unless he is a tyrant—and I have met some in my time—he should have the unswerving co-operation of every man under him. As stated before, I have had the unpleasant experience of having over me Chiefs who have been arrogant slave-drivers, but when you do meet up with a man in charge who is considerate and humane, although insisting upon strict attention to duty during working hours, sobriety, punctuality, extend him your help. He needs it. Not a day passes that he is not "on the carpet" because of errors, delays, etc. Because he happens to be a member of our Organization, do not take advantage of such association to neglect your work. your work.

There are a few men who endeavor to ingratiate themselves with members of the firm or with the Chief, by spying and fabricating about fellow employes. This will get them nowhere, and where such an individual is detected, he should be shunned as a leper. The writer of an anonymous letter is just as cowardly. Be 100 per cent loyal with one another.

OPEN SHOP IS PROPAGANDA

Bureau of Industrial Research, 289 Fourth Ave., New York, charges the open shop campaign is propaganda to destroy labor unions and hints that all these open shop organizations are following a programme furnished from a central course, and are covering their real purpose by "flying the flags of patriotic war-time propaganda." "It advances," says the report, "in the name of democracy, freedom, human rights, Americanism."

The labor policy of open shop organizations, gathered from their own literature is this:

1. Propaganda declaring the tyranny of the unions under union shop rule, waste in the union shop from the inefficient workers. American ideas of government are against the union shop.

- 3.
- Expulsion of members of unions. Financial aid to employers who are in conflict with unions. Refusal of credit and raw materials to employers who do not adopt anti-union tactics.

4. Refusal of credit and raw materials to employers who do not adopt anti-union tactics.

5. Bribing trade union leaders and then discrediting unionism before the people.

6. Using the blacklist against trade union agitators.

7. Employing under cover men in the plant to spy on those who are agitating for organization of the workers.

8. Under-cover men used in the union to gain confidential information regarding the moves to be made by the unions.

9. Organization of strikebreakers and counter-sluggers.

10. Organization of shop committee to counterbalance the trade union.

11. Organizing of lobbies to influence anti-labor legislation.

12. The use of company-paid public officials.

Continuing, the Bureau of Industrial Research hints that the open shop campaign may have one directive head. After telling of the local campaign of manufacturers and employers in behalf of the open shop principle, covering all such organizations as the Open Shop Association of Dallas, Texas; the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, organizations of St. Louis, Chicago, Seattle, and in various industrial centers, the report names organizations "back of the local organizations, guiding, inspiring, supplying morale, and sometimes funds."

Among these organizations, it is charged, are the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Metal Trades Association, and the American Bankers Association.

Alluring catchwords are paraded for public opinion, such as "like the American plan, the American Idea. Individual Liberty, and Open Shop itself." This veiled bid for public support is not deceiving fair minded and scholarly neutrals.

The Bureau of Industrial Research deserves the thanks of all labor unions for their full investigation and report and for the uncovering of the insidious plan to break labor's back under guise of waving the flag, but fairminded people will not be deceived. The anti-union people have been caught in the act of arrogating to themselves the God-given right they deny others—the right to organize.

THE STEEL OCTOPUS

Following closely the beginning of the marine lockout, that pious old soul of the Steel Trust makes the announcement of 20 percent wage reductions of all steel employes. This move will save the steel trust approximately $150,000,000 per year. While wages are arbitrarily reduced, no way "has been found to eliminate the 12-bour day." year. While was

The New York Globe remarks, editorially:

"Collective bargaining is NOT recognized, and there is no one to speak for the men to the management or the management to the men. Consequently a decision of this character must seem arbitrary to the workers and beget bad memories.

Concerning the 12-hour day which it is necessary for steel employes to work, even under the present wage scale, in order to earn enough on which to live, the alleged Judge says: "we have found no way of eliminating the 12-hour day," but "we HOPE to do so within a year." The near-Judge didn't say anything about HOPING to reduce wages; he said they ARE reduced, instanter.

There's your open shop in full operation. How does it look? Bring these things to your own craft and see how it will work out for you, Mr. Telegrapher. Many things are happening under your very noses which a great many of us do not see, simply from lack of thought on our own affairs. Let us be up and doing! Organize!

JURY GIVES WIDOW $12,500

Mrs. Marie Shea, widow of Brother Christopher A. Shea, who was run down and killed by an automobile at Wall Street and Broadway, was last month awarded a verdict of $12,500 by a jury in the New York, Supermo Court York Supreme Court.

The verdict was rendered against James Reardon, an official of the United States Trucking Corporation, whose car struck Brother Shea November 9 last while he was on his way home from the offices of Thomson. McKinnon & Co., where he was employed.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES

Things are shaping up pretty well around Headquarters these days.

The following were cleared through the Employment Bureau since the last issue of the Journal:

Jack Keefe, to E. W. Wagner & Co.; Sam Schwinger, from Thomson & Mc-Kinnons to Jones & Baker; Jack McCusker filled a three weeks scoop at the Canadian Bank of Commerce; Matty Conaughton, to Friedel & Markelson; Dave Siegel, to Simon Schaeffer & Co.; Matty Sullivan, to Czarnikow Rionda Sugar Co.: Arthur Sullivan, to Moore & Schley; Charley Kaiser, to Potter Bros,; Nick Segrave returned to E. & C. Randolph; Jim Adams, to Franklin, Norton & Co.; M. Markson, to Josephthal & Co.; A. J. Welker to Kardos & Burke: Hugo Band returned to Logan & Bryans; M. Ehrlich, to Shearson Hammills; "Silent" Al Worzel is with Hayden Stone temporarily, while Brother Normington is on the sick list. Harry Cook, to J. H. Braid &Co.; Geo. Gibbee, to Jackson Bros.

During the month of April, the Employment Bureau books show that there were 23 full week jobs handed out amounting to $1,255.00; jobs of less than one week's duration amounted to $932.50, a total of $2,187.50. There were 12 regular jobs obtained.

CLOTHING WORKERS WIN DECISION

Dr. Leierson, sitting as impartial judge between the Amalgamated Clothing Work-ers and employers at Rochester, N. Y., has rendered a decision that wage reductions are not justified in order to reduce the price to the consumer.

The arbiter holds that present wages in the clothing industry will not stand a cut and permit of decent living. Increased output is the remedy advanced by Dr. Leierson to keep wages at their present level and at the same time lower the cost to the consumer.

PAINE WEBBER NOTES

Frank Miller, plus a fine pair of side burns is the latest acquisition to our office. As we stand now, this addition provides the finest collection of "ladies" men" in the Street.

JOSEPHTHAL & CO.

We were all gratified to learn the outcome of the Lowitz affair, and our international officers are to be congratulated for their untiring efforts.

In our last issue we stated that Dick Wismer with Sprague at Ft. Wayne, Ind., was a member of the W. B. D. We regret that this was an error. We hope he will that this was an error. We he with us in the near future.

Andy Turner boasts of having the best police force down at Huntington, L. I., consisting of one man who holds the distinguished position of Magistrate down to the village grocer.

We hear that Andy is not the only operator in this office who owns a car. Jack Lawson is the owner of a large touring car. This accounts for his hair turning gray.

Prohibition officers may come and go, but Bill Russell's cellar is always full. Bill tells us Jersey is the place. That is the reason for so many operators being seen lately across the Hudson.

Our traders have been cleaning up in the market lately due to the timely fore-cast on Stu. and Asphalt by our chief operator Joe Shields.

Business has been improving. We were obliged to increase our force and Brother Markson is the new arrival.

A collection was started here to get an alarm clock for Johnny Neff, so he can get around here earlier.

PITTSBURGH SUB-UNIT NOTES

International President Roscoe Johnson and International Secretary Paul Schnur, were recent visitors, having stopped off on their way from New York to Chicago. Quite a number of the boys were on hand to welcome them and were deeply interested in the excellent oratorical efforts of both officials. Their time was limited, however, and we hope to have them here for a longer stay in the near future.

Brother T. Edward Barrett has been appointed manager for Koontz and Company, new arrivals here. The Colonel has the best wishes of his many friends for his success. His operator is Brother Harry Davis.

Brother Aubrey has left Winkelman and Company and has gone with Woodward and Company and Company.

Brother Hinman, of Howell and Wales, has left for Chicago to accept a position in that city for the same firm.

Brother Harry W. Culver, the genial manager of E. W. Wagner and Company, has severed his connection with that organization and has left for the Big Town. His absence is keenly felt by all his former associates, who wish him the greatest success in his new venture.

"Smiling Bill" Fisher was a recent visitor to the Smoky City.

Brothers Bowman and Robertson, who were so unceremoniously "let out" by Leland and Company. were immediately placed with Winkelman and Company. Eberhardt and Company laid off two men, who, from last accounts, are still unplaced.

However, as this is one of the few 100 per cent "non-union" houses in Pittsburgh, we should worry if they were all laid off. Chairman Patterson is so elated over his visit to New York and the good time he had at the annual ball there that he is bent on having a similar affair in Pittsburgh; one that will equal if not excel the New York production. He already has his committees at work and nothing will be left undone to make the affair a grand success. SUCCESS.

OBITUARY

Brother Chas. C. Youmans, Cert. No. 4142, E. B. D., died at his home, Woodland Ave., Bayside, L. I., on April 27th, 1921.

Brother Youmans was born sixty years ago, in Corning, N. Y., of parents whose lineage in America dates back to 1650.

His Union affiliations began in 1881, when he took a prominent part in the activities of the Telegraphers' Union at Bradford, Pa. His death was a great shock to his many friends in the Financial District.

During his career in the Street, he had been connected with the firms of Wrenn Bros., Trippe & Co., N. L. Carpenter & Co., and Newberger, Henderson & Loeb. He was employed by Noyes & Jackson at the time of his death.

Brother Youmans is survived by his wife and three children.

Brother Morris L. Wescoe, Cert. No. 3203, E. B. D., died at St. Lukes Hospital. New York, on April 4th, 1921. The funeral took place from his late residence, 71 East 95th St., New York.

Brother Wescoe was born forty-five years ago in Machungie, Penna. He learned to telegraph in the railroad office there, and remained in the employ of the railroad company a few years, leaving there to accept the Managership of the Western Union office at Bethlehem, Pa. Coming to New York he went to work for the Western Union at the Cable office and left there in 1906 to accept a position with a brokerage firm and remained in the Street up to the time of his death.

MEMBERS UNITED PRESS. UNIVERSAL AND I. N. S. DIVISIONS:

As the Journal goes to press word is received that all three press divisions will meet the management in New York June 17th. The General Committees have been instructed by the membership and it is certain that these instructions will be carried out to the letter. It is again suggested that members refrain from discussing Union matters on the wires or in the office.

The "Chicago form" of broker house schedule is an accomplished fact. It may not be everything to be desired; at least it is something concrete—a step in the right direction.

Mr. Harding is meeting the fondest hopes of Big Business. Discussing business policies before the District of Columbia Bankers' Association, the President

"The government should put an end to undue interference with business." And again, "The government should cease to be a competitor of business where that business belongs rightfully in the hands of private enterprise.

Right to the point, and no doubt entirely satisfactory to B. B.

Commercial Telegraphers in Canada will welcome the opportunity to go along hand-in-hand with their big brothers, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. Association and co-operation with men of the Mein. Phillips and Trainor type is bound to react favorably on our organization.

"Perhaps we never shall know the old level of wage again."-President Harding in inaugural speech. Let us hope that "perhaps" will become a permanent reality. Nobody should want to see the old wage level again. Workmen, who bear the brunt of war, might at least get something substantial from it. They usually do, and they will from this war.

Before the war of 1812 there was only one workman in the United States making as much as $1 a day regularly. Before the Civil War wage conditions were greatly improved. After the Civil War they got still better.

After the Spanish War they improved again. They ought to and will improve after this war.

Employers always shiver, foolishly, when wages go up, just as workmen shiver, foolishly, when improved machinery is invented. The improved machinery helps the workers always, and the higher wages help the employers always. For all the employers can get is what workers can spend. Increase their pay, they increase their wants, and general prosperity increases.

Not working men alone, but everybody that knows the first letter of the

A B C of industrial history, should fight against lowering wages.

Prices have reached their low level and will now begin to rise, is the prediction of D. R. Crissinger, Comptroller of the Currency. This statement is a contradiction to the claims of those who are urging wage reductions.

LANTZ BILL IS PRACTICALLY DEAD

The last dope from Springfield on the so-called Lantz Bill is that the bill has again been "put off" another week. In the meantime there are hundreds of crusaders in Springfield fighting as they never fought before, to the end that the illadvised legislation be put where it belongs—(We can't very well print the place.)

The Western Broker Division has been unusually active in the fight.

And no one knows this better than our out-of-town members, who in response to circular letters from W. B. D. officials have written their respective senators and representatives in the Illinois Legislature and in both the House and Senate in Washington, where a similar situation exists—the apparent defeat of the Capper-Tincher bills.

The last news we get from Washington is that the Capper-Tincher bills have been amended and are now in such form as not to seriously hamper the present workings of the Board of Trade and like exchanges.

We want our members to know that they have cause to be proud of the way in which the Western Broker Division has taken up and followed out the fight against this destructive legislation. To be terse and explicit, the active heads of this organization have scarcely had a peaceful day since the beginning of the present year. With the aid of enthusiastic members the W. B. D. officials have written hundreds of circular letters to out-of-town members throughout the country, urging them to write a strong protest to their respective senators and representatives.

In the case of the Lantz bill, a veritable flood of protest has been mailed into Springfield. The fight was taken up and carried on by other departments of the brokerage fraternity—others than the telegraphers—and this has resulted, it seems, in stemming the tide.

But don't forget this, boys: The Operators started the fight against the bill. It was this very spirit that put the brakes on. We started the ball rolling. We woke 'em up over at "headquarters," didn't we, Mr. Griffin? And they got busy, didn't they, George Burmeister, you fat old dear! And you being an 'op, too, you didn't need to be told who it was that woke 'em up at "headquarters."

It was the far-reaching arm of the Western Broker Division, a telegraphers' organization, that started the widespread movement of protest against the antifutures bill.

The first volume of circular letters went out of W. B. D. headquarters as far back as three months ago; another in about two months, and another shortly afterward.

We have an organization to be proud of.

WESTERN BROKER DIVISION TO SUPPORT PRESS MEN

At a recent meeting a resolution passed unanimously giving full support of the Western Broker Division to members of the three press units of the C. T. U. A. in event of pending contracts being terminated by the respective press associations.

The United Press, the International News Service, and Universal Service, have notified the chairman of each respective division that contracts now in effect will terminate July 1st. It seems that none of the chairmen of the units in question had notified the three associations that a new contract was desired this year. usual time for such action is sixty days in advance. In view of this fact it may be a mere formality on the part of the three press associations to serve the expira-tion notice. Of course, the three press divisions will each send a committee to New York by July 1st. The resolution follows:

"WHEREAS, notice has been served by the three press associations now under contractual relations with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, that existing agreements expire July 1st, 1921; and

"WHEREAS, this is the first time the press associations have taken the initiative in terminating said agreements (the Union heretofore taking the initiative). we take it for granted that the action means one or two things: Reduction of salaries, or the open shop; be it therefore

"RESOLVED, That the Chicago membership of the Western Broker Division, in meeting assembled, be placed on record as pledging its full and unqualified support to the press divisions in overcoming any non-union principles the said press associations may attempt to apply; and be it further

"RESOLVED, That the Chicago membership of the Western Broker Division recommends to the entire membership of our organization that they concur in this action, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the general chairman of each of the three press divisions in question, and to our International officers for their information and for publication in the Journal."

BETWEEN OURSELVES

President Alcorn goes to Denver as a delegate representing the C. T. U. A. at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. By the way, John, what in thunder did you do with all the "relay" copy for the Journal this month? We can't find it and it is up to somebody to apologize to our generous contributors for the absence in this month's issue of their articles. Let's hope it won't happen again, Mr. President. If it does, then you're fired. You're canned, Mr. President. dent.

And what do you know about our congenial Secretary and Treasurer—R. H. M.? He's got a new job. How could you be so crool, Mickey, as to leave the old home? Did "Old Mother RU" speak with pathos in his hands when he reminded you that the latch string would always be out? Mickey goes with the new firm of Dier & Co., curb and grain specialists. Undoubtedly they know a good thing when they see it.

Aubrey Lyon has also gone with Dier & Co. He was working at E. W. Wagner & Co., and is promoted in his new position.

Look out, Greg. Don't be misled some of those hootch-hitting "n They're all alike. Can't say it here! misled by Former Vice-President O. L. Newcomer has accepted a position with Dier & Co. He has been with E. W. Wagner & Co. for several years. All we can say is that Dier & Co. are mighty lucky to get a man like "New." His new duties will be marking the board, which he says will be a blessing in disguise. Fine for reducing.

And here comes Jack Kelly, the boy wonder from Lamson's. They say he is going with Dier & Co., too. What we want to know is what does Dier & Co. expect to do with all these "Stars"?

This primary movement of the visible supply ought to be a revelation to some of the houses on the Street who claim they have the most wonderful service in the world and are paying their "wonderful" telegraphers' second-class money.

The press announces the retirement from public life of Mr. George M. Cohan, retirement

Mr. Cohan in his "swan song" says he is through with his fellow actors. He says he has been their best friend; has helped them when they were down and out, but that now he is disgusted, he is through with them for all time.

through with them for all time.

The reason for Mr. Cohan's artistic demise is given in the fact that he is opposed to the so-called Actor's Equity Association, otherwise known as the Actors' Union. He claims that art and unionism cannot live together. This remains to be seen, but at all events it is to be regretted that Mr. Cohan should take this view of the situation. Generally playwrights, actors, composers and other geniuses are the situation. Generally playwrights, actors, composers and other geniuses are men of broad mind. He has reached the pinnacle of success and can look down upon those who as yet remain in the thousand-to-one shot class. It's too bad they cannot, too, all of them be a George M. Cohan. Perhaps he then would not be "through with them" as he says he is.

Mr. Cohan has taken the identical stand of some of our wire house heads. They, too, fail to see the reason in their telegraphers becoming affiliated with an organization. But it's the same old story, a thousand times repeated, and as old as time itself. It is simply a wanton lack of consideration for humanity at large.

There is one significant fact, however, and it is, we are glad to say, Mr. Cohan had the good judgment to retire when he realized the great odds that prevailed against him. Had it not been for this one fact no doubt he would have joined one fact no doubt he would have joined his fellow producers and employers in a move to crush the so-called Actors' Equity Association. And this is the coming decree for some of those who have thought of crushing the ever-growing Broker Divisions—eastern or western. They, too, will find that great odds prevail against them, and that we of the Key are at last welded together as one, and by fair and just means will we continue to sweep aside all obstacles in our march of progress. progress.

In the frontier days of the old West, sometimes a misguided cowboy got it into his head he could work a scheme whereby his head he could work a scheme whereby riches would come to him and come thick and fast. If he in all furtiveness was clever with a secret branding iron and succeeded in driving off to some secluded corral a number of his employer's choice steers then all was good and well. If he was caught in the act, however, it was a different story. A limp body dangled from a lone tree. They called him a "cattle rustler" or a "pirate of the prairie."

Times have changed little. In La Saile Street a wire house has unmasked a real live "rustler"—an "order pirate." With furtiveness he had nearly succeeded in slipping a well-executed order into his account, maintained unknown to his firm, in an outside office. But the head of the firm himself an old operator, by chance caught the misguided "rustler" in the act. Previously the firm had been warned against the party. Therefore, it might have otherwise been deemed a reflection on the craft as a whole. The Western Broker Division is on record as not having on its membership rolls anyone capable of employing such methods. We must ble of employing such methods. keep a clean slate boys. # MILWAUKEE SUB-DIVISION NOTES

President John B. Alcorn of Chicago was with us a few days the first week of this month, and we must hereby reiterate that there are no flies on J. B. when it comes to batting in a pinch. The head of the Western Broker Division by a remarkable display of diplomacy was able to smooth out a delicate situation which existed in connection with the Milwaukee sub-division and which had it been alsub-division and which, had it been allowed to run its course, undoubtedly lowed to run its course, undoubtedly would have disrupted our splendid organization here. The membership here is grateful for President Alcorn's achievement and is not going to make any bones about saying so. And we won't forget.

A special meeting of this sub-division was held Friday, June 10, for the purpose of balloting on candidates and other important matters. The attendance was large and the discussion brought out by Bro. Aubrey Lyon, recently of the General Executive Board, proved very constructive and will undoubtedly work to the welfare of this sub-division of this sub-division.

Three new members were admitted to this sub-division at Friday's meeting— Elmer Goethe, Earl Driscoll and Frank Rank, all of E. D. Dier & Company.

E. D. Dier & Company will occupy new quarters on June 20 with a personnel as follows: Charlie Peterson, manager; Autery Lyon, order wire; Bert Callen, recently on the "bode" at Wagner's, stock board; Elmer Goethe, ex-board marker to be made a solicitor; Earl Driscoll, order clerk, and Frank Rank, grain board. Needless to say the house is 100 per cent. And watch that lineup with Aubrey Lyon at the helm. We might add that the two first named men will receive $65 per week. Glad tidings from New York came to the boys at MacMasters' a few days ago in the form of a message telling them to ooys at macmasters a few days ago in the form of a message telling them to pick their dates after a two weeks' vaca-tion. Every man is pluggin' for the firm, and there's a reason.

John F. Konzal, who jogs 'em down on the big "bode" over at Pynchon's, recently took over the secretaryship of Milwaukee Sub-Division, succeeding Bert Callen of Wagner's, who resigned because of ill health. It is reported that "RO" office will soon close its doors. Cheer up, Cal.

Jimmy Pardington, over at MacMaster's, has all the good spots or oasls on his list and ye dry brethren would do well to consult the gentleman—a word to the wise, etc.

Milwaukee is practically 100 per cent organized, there being but one man out of 25 who is still unable to "see the light." We are proud of our outfit here.

These are busy days for our genial, Brother MacMahon. Between the duties of his office as president of Milwaukee Sub-Division and his tri-weekly speeches on behalf of the Irish, life is just one blamed thing after the other. And Bill knows Irish history since the year 1414, or thereabouts.

Brother Chambers has a new "Baby Grand" and doesn't worry about the train service between Milwaukee and Cedar Lake. With 30 miles of concrete roads and perfect Wisconsin weather life is sweet.

We don't get to see much of the boys over at Paine Webber's. 'Sfunny how some fellers will spend their good money and still do nothing to further their interests such as attending the meetings, etc. We can't make progress if we don't get together, boys, and the meetings are held the last Thursday in each month and barring sickness, everybody should be on hand. Those of you who failed to attend the special meeting of June 10 missed a genuine treat.

COMPANY "UNIONS"

In their efforts to establish the open shop and with the hope of beating legitimate trades union organization, several of the larger employers of labor have instituted company unions.

There has been much said in the public press as to the "Industrial Democracy" that was so willingly being dispensed by these employers and the various plans were heralded as something much preferred and far superior to the "autocratic" trade union.

As soon as any indication pointed toward a desire on the part of the workers for organization the employer saw the need of a union and proceeded at once to organize it. Elections were held and representatives (?) of the workers were elected to sit in council with their employer.

Various high sounding but meaningless names were given these councils. at least one concern they have what they are pleased to call "Congress," composed of senators (foremen) and representatives (the ordinary workers). seems, however, that the employer is the "Supreme Court" and has the final say. This quite naturally hampers the enactment of any law or rule that might be passed by "Congress" should it not meet with the employer's idea of government. One thing at least is absolutely unconstitutional, and that is, the right to strike It logically follows, then, that no matter what "Congress" does it is at a loss to enforce its mandates.

CHAPEL SYSTEM ADOPTED

The growth of this organization to a point where we will have to give early consideration to the business of obtaining more commodious quarters, was strikingly emphasized when our capacity was taxed to the limit to take care of the members at the May meeting, which was held on Monday, the 2nd. When these quarters were obtained, only a year ago, we regarded them as sufficient for our needs as permanent headquarters; but now it is not necessary to have a meeting, but only a rainy Saturday afternoon, to set us all thinking seriously in the direction of an establishment which will provide an adequate meeting chamber and committee rooms, as well as every up-to-date facility of a first-class club room, which will be telegraph headquarters in Boston.

As usual, a large part of the meeting was devoted to discussion of the report of the Employment Committee, after which (also as usual) the report was approved.

As a result of the debate, a committee of five was appointed to report on the advisability of amending the by-laws to slightly modify the strict rules of this Division in regard to the duty of members in reporting vacancies to the Employment Committee.

This month saw the inauguration of the Chapel form of organization, which has proven successful in all other Broker Divisions. By-laws covering the system were adopted at a special meeting in April. So far seven chapels have been formed, and where there are an insufficient number of operators employed in one house, two or more houses are grouped to make about ten or twelve men to a chapel.

A special meeting of the officers and chapel chairmen was called for Tuesday, April 26th, to go over the new system, and lay plans for the summer. As it was due to be a long session, it was decided to hire a room at a hotel, where dinner could be served, and the brothers give adequate time to the business on hand without unnecessary inconvenience or fatigue. The Old Colony Club room at the Bellevue was hired, and it developed into a regular man-sized banquet, at which everybody made the usual promises which result from the optimism and good feeling instilled by a regular feed. Chairman Yetman presided, BUT EVERY-BODY HAD A GOOD TIME IN SPITE OF THIS FACT.

Past President Conry, who has been one of the most zealous workers in this year's progress, spoke optimistically of the future, and laid before the brothers some very good suggestions of an original nature.

Vice-President Herbert tinged his serious remarks with his usual humor and wit. He enjoys the happy faculty of arousing interest and amusement at the same time.

Secretary Dan Sullivan edified the boys with his straight talk on our duties and how to accomplish them. Nobody has done more along these lines than Dan himself.

Other very interesting speeches were made by Brothers Lloyd, Feltus, Leonard and Orrin Kinney, Smith, Fishacker, Coveny, Martell, and Coughlin, after which the brothers were entertained very ably by Adonis Jimmy Atkinson.

Everybody left feeling that the new system is sure to prove one of our most successful steps.

CHAPEL NOTES

Chapel No. 1, Wm. E. Conry, Chairman

Business is rushing at Elmer H. Bright's, notwithstanding the fact that Brother Joe Shea was let out there recently. All will be pleased to learn, however, that Joe had no difficulty catching on with Pynchon & Co., New York.

Brother A. J. Niemant is subbing at Haverhill for this house, vice Bob Hines, gone a-fishin'. We hope to see this wire 100% in the near future. George Arris at Augusta has sent in his application and we have more than a "promise" from John Weber at Lewiston and Carroll Pyer at Bath, Me.

Bath, Me.

In these days of making labor the goat for all the ills of the world, who is really better off, the man with the card or the man without? Take telegraphers anywhere you know them and figure it out for yourself. Which are the more prosperous and happy looking when you meet them on the street, the slaves of the Western Union and Postal or the independent men who have been discharged by those companies for union affiliations or left because they couldn't stand the conditions? Isn't every one of the latter whom you know infinitely better off? Who is it that holds his head up and looks everyone square in the eye? And who slinks along hoping not to be seen, envying his more fortunate and independent former fellow-worker? This applies also to many outside of the commercial operators who have not as yet seen the light.

With all the munificent wages the Western Union has been paying, how much better do the slaves look when you meet them? No denying the fact that they are a forlorn, unhappy lot; their worries never cease.

In Boston the older employes got tired of being laid off a day or working short time and protested to the officials that the force should be reduced so that the older ones could have full time. Result: Twenty-one operators with an average record of two years' service or more are to be thrown into the street jobless on May 20. Fine charitable bunch! Moreover, everyone working there confidently expects a general reduction in wages of 20 per cent, following the lead of the Steel Trust.

Wouldn't you like to work for the W. U. or Postal?

MORAL--?

Chapel No. 2, Orrin B, Kinney, Chairman

Brother George Steel has been touring the South on a business trip for Sands McFadden & Co.

Charlie Martell is our organizing star, as well as the Chapel's chief exponent of the two National pastimes.

Ed Kingsley now comes in from New Bedford for all the meetings. Ed. carries it with him from the Western Union dog days.

We expected to see the familiar face of Billy Dillon at the May meeting but were disappointed. Bro. Dillon is one of the old-timers we are glad to see back.

Brother Smith is working at Hornblower's vice Joe Shea, who is absent on sick leave. Chapel No. 3, Wm. E. Coveny, Chairman Smiling Jimmie Atkinson of Cudahy's expects to furnish the hams for the Western Union when they have the next speed contest.

Red Brennan, our little auburn-haired boy, is taking dancing lessons and expects to be able to rival the star performer when we run our Chapel smoker.

Leo Bennet is now a proud father. Congratulations, Leo. Glad to see you with us.

Leonard Kinney, the official printer and Cue Artist, is doing his spring training at Somerville for the coming baseball season.

Glad to see Jack Heffernan still on the job after performing as end man at a minstrel show. Jack's Boston College athletic training stood him in good stead and he escaped among the uninjured.

Chapel No. 4, F. F. Feltus, Chairman

Looked like old times to see Jim Benelisha in the back of the hall. Now that you've got acquainted with some of the crowd, James, we will look for you again.

Umpire George Murphy was on the side lines. He sat across the hall from Howard Smith. Wonder why?

What happened to Bros, Bagley, Lesco and Cataldo? No doubt we will have the pleasure of their company at the next meeting.

The night operato: at Blair & Co. reported early to allow George Holley to attend the meeting.

Bros. Pat Henderson and Mullin, Sr., are taking one week's vacation. Understand no subs have been put on to cover the jobs. On his first day of rest, Pat brought in a couple of applications. Attaboy, Pat!

Glad to see Harry Barron back on the job at Redmond's putting ten (shares) on a line, after being laid up for a few days with a bad cold. "Barrie" claims he could have cured it in a day, less than two years ago.

Wonder where some of the fellers are going to find their vacation subs? The employment committee were unable to furnish a man for one of the houses t'other day. If our guess is any good, there ain't going to be no block this summer. It's going to be tough sleddin to sign up a man from the Western Union or Postal for two weeks. Some of the delinquents on the street in all probability will postpone their vacations.

"We" took a ride with Dario Yetman after the meeting Monday. Fred McKenna claims all the joy was taken out of the spin when Yet tested out his emergency brake on a Huntington Avenue car. Yet claims he has the quickest "emergencier" yet put on a Ford; and to prove it missed bumping into a regular automobile by less than 5 inches. Lipkind, another occupant, said he didn't object to riding in electric cars.

Brother Neiment has issued a challenge to any broker man on the Street to a game of checkers. "Nemo" claims cards are too slow. Yes, Brother.

Dick Fishacker has been working overtime on the "movie title contest." First prize is $1.000, but Dave says he will be satisfied with the second prize. So would

Chapel No. 5, D. J. Sullivan, Chairman

Brother Reidy filled in a couple of days last week at Hayden Stones for Brothers O'Byrne and Wood.

Brother Cloney of Hayden Stones underwent a slight operation at the Quincy Hospital. Joe is now back on the job and is feeling fine. Bro. D. J. Shea relieved him while away.

Brother Burnham of Richardson, Hill & Co. has started a chicken farm in Waltham and will shortly be working overtime with his flivver making deliveries.

Brother Brown, formerly with Richardson, Hill & Co. at Portland, has resigned to accept a position with Wrenn Bros. Good luck, Brownie. We hope you like your new position.

Brothers, when hearing of a position, be sure to turn it over to the Employment Committee first, and they will take care of it. We have had a great deal of debate on this matter in the last month. Now that we are having such great success in gaining new members, we must not have any unpleasantness to hinder our progress. Five new members last month, and if we keep it up at the rate we are going now, we will gain at least 10 new members this month. The NONS are coming in fast, and one of our best assets is our Employment Bureau. It will be only a matter of a short time when we will control the jobs on State Street.

Chapel No. 6, J. F. Coughlin, Chairman

A new rule was recently put into effect in this office. A relief, when announcing his presence, must tap the relievee twice on the shoulder. Two taps are used instead of one, in order that a single tap might not be construed as a touch.

Rolland "Buck" Page of Fitchburg is coming in some day to show Nemo how to play checkers.

Frank Mulvey, the boy with the $myn smile, is marking the board at Springfield.

Clarence Martin was a visitor at headquarters Saturday. He says it (headquarters) contains but the choicest. Clarence is doing the honors at Lowell.

Harry Barron, formerly of New York and Hoboken—arriveat.

"Tall Timbers" Donovan, formerly of E. B. D., puts 'em on at Holyoke.

Fred McKenna is holding on to his excellent batting average as the Division Dark Horse organizer.

Chapel No. 7, Edward A. Herbert, Chairman

Fred Finn, our new member from Fall River, is the best Ford driver (corrected by editor to read second best) in the Division, and has the best car ever finished by that world renowned manufacturer.

Glad to see Brother Thompson of Curtis & Sanger, as another new arrival.

Kit Nevins is one of our most interested members. We hope he will get his ball team going SOON.

Old Timer Eddie Lloyd attended all the meetings in May, and says he won't miss another.

Jack Horgan is doing some quiet organizing, which will soon bear fruit where we may not expect it.

HERE AND THERE

The telephone was a toy in 1876; the typewriter a crude arrangement in 1878; the electric industry a baby in 1879, when Edison invented the incandescent lamp; the phonograph was a curiosity in 1890; the automobile a buggy with a gasoline engine in 1895, and moving pictures a flickering experiment in 1896.

The head of a coal firm, irritated beyond endurance at a driver's blunder, told the man to go to the office and get his pay and not come back.

"You are so confounded thick-headed you can't learn anything," he shouted.

"Begorra," answered the driver, "I learned one thing since I bin with you."

"What's that?" snapped the boss.

"That sivinteen hundred pounds make a ton."

The prosecuting attorney had encountered a rather difficult witness. At length, exasperated, he asked the man if he was acquainted with any of the jury.

"Yes, sir," announced the witness; "more than half of them."

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?" demanded the lawyer.

"Why, if it comes to that." replied the witness easily, "I'm willing to swear that I know more than all of them put together."

Young Jack eyed the new arrival critically for a few moments, then looked up and asked:

"So you're my grandmother, are you?"
"Yes, dear. On your father's side," replied the old lady with a smile.

"Well, you're on the wrong side; you'll find that out quick enough," remarked Jack, without shifting his gaze.

THINK IT OVER

They say there are 200,000,000 lbs. of fat going to waste in the United States—not including Bill Conry.

THE DOUBTER

By NIXON WATERMAN

When the rivers choose to run uphill;
When the sun sets in the East;
When miracle-wise the bread will rise
Without the help of yeast;
When an automobile, minus gas,
Will still keep up its speed,
Why then the man who doubts he can
Will be likely to succeed.

So long as the rivers seek the sea
In their ever onward flow,
And the flowers turn to the light and yearn
For the sun's inspiring ylow;
So long as the valiant heart holds true,
Though a hundred foes assail
And fights on still, shall the man of will Be the one who cannot fail.

The man who "won't" is the man who "can't;"
It's the man who "can't" who "won't."
He's the doubter who, when chance says,
"Do!"

To his faltering self says "Don't!"
If pushing a button would win his store,
Still bare would be his shelf.
For he'd question fate the while he'd wait
For the button to push itself.

MARCONI, QUEBEC AND DISTRICT NOTES

"That I will assist all . . . worthy members . . . when in my power to do so." We wonder how many brother members can give off-hand the source of the part quotation at the head of this column? To relieve your suspense we will tell you that it is a portion of the obligation you signed when joining our Union. We are now going to give you a chance to live up to it.

Our late District Chairman, Bro. P. MacGillevray, as you all know, is going through a long period of domestic trouble in the shape of continued sickness, both of his wife and himself. Sickness at any time is an expensive luxury and the mar-

Our late District Chairman, Bro. P. P. MacGillevray, as you all know, is going through a long period of domestic trouble in the shape of continued sickness, both of his wife and himself. Sickness at any time is an expensive luxury and the margin of the average salaried man is seldom distinguished by over-width. At a meeting of brother members recently held in this vicinity a resolution was unanimously passed to the effect that something should be done to help out Bro. MacGillevray and your Editor was asked to make an appeal in the Journal. It is suggested that every brother member of Local 59 be asked to send say $2.50 or whatever amount each thinks he can pay to Bro. Ross who will, we are sure, be pleased to act as treasurer and who will acknowledge amounts received through these columns. We, therefore, appeal to every man in the Dominion who has ever sat down to do a trick with the old phones on. This is the kind of "bread cast upon the waters" that is sure to return.

The above appeal was written for the May issue, but could not be printed until this month. Thus, through no fault of the publishers, a valuable month has been lost. We would, therefore, ask all brothers to make a special and immediate effort to send in subscriptions as soon as possible, as the need is urgent.

Our General Chairman, Bro. Allen, on April 10th received a letter from Mr. A. L. MacCallum, manager of the Marconi Co., to the effect that an arrangement had been made with the management of the C. G. M. M. for the payment, monthly, of an advance of $50.00 to our operators serving on their vessels. This will be welcome news to all brother members serving on C. G. M. M. vessels and they can thank, respectively, Bro. Soares, late of the "Canadian Planter." E. D. Secretary Bro. Ross, G. C. Bro. Allen and last but by no means least, the Marconi Company's General Manager, Mr. MacCallum, for their concerted efforts in bringing about this much needed reform. May the Company and the Union always work in the same harmony in any matter that affects their mutual welfare. Bro. Soares is entitled to the special thanks of the boat operators for the initiative, zeal and capacity he has shown in handling this matter and we would say to our boat confreres that when they come to decide upon an executive in future elections to represent their interests to remember Bro. Soares' action.

Have a heart, brother. When writing to us keep your personal notes separate from what you desire to be printed in the Journal. We recently received from a most welcome correspondent a seventeen, foolscap size, page letter and we had to sit down and pick it out page by page and type over for the Journal. Head your matter "Journal Notes" and if you wish to write us personal stuff why we are glad to get it, but please don't mix them up.

A correspondent this month mistook our invitation to Cert. 22 of Div. 65 to try and persuade his Eastern brothers to do a Steve Brodie to mean Eastern District of Division 59. We meant the Eastern District of Division 65, and we would be glad to see some items from that section in a future issue.

In the April issue we suggested that it would be a good idea if our new D. C. would come out and give an official announcement of his election and also a line on his policy. In another column you will see that he has done this. His announced policy reads good and as he states, it is only fair to him that brother members should reserve judgment on his qualifications until he has been given reasonable time to prove himself. Well, were never at all backward at pushing forward and we think we can assure Bro. Leslie that he has the solid support of every member of our section. As to the recent controversy over his election, that is all past, but we are really beginning to think that Bro. Leslie's suggestion in his notes that we have Irish blood in our veins may have some foundation as "Sure. 'tis the contrary divil we are" and we still think we were justified in the stand we took on the principle involved in his election.

Now we are going to start something else. There is a lively controversy going on behind the scenes as to just what constitutes a member in good standing. One of our weightlest executives is of the opinion that no hard and fast rule can be laid down on this matter because of the perplexing "Certificate" question. He sums up his argument by saying that to his mind the one and only solution is that of Full Levy paid, then Full Benefits. We agree with our worthy brother: his solution is excellent—for a Lodge or Burial Society—but not for a Union. We cannot have a partial benefit system or a part paid levy. In our Union you are either in or out. One thing or the other and no leaning through the window. To find a true solution of the problem it is necessary to go back to where the difficulty started. It was decided by our executive that when brother members received the increase provided by Schedule A. a fixed sum of $25 be levied on the first month's increase received. This was accepted without protest on the part of those who possessed certificates and who obtained the full benefit of the award. Those who did not possess certificates and who only received the minimum of the award demurred on the ground that they were not getting the full benefit of the award. The counter argument was used that they should have had their certificates and thus been qualified for the full award. Brothers, the mistake that was made was in fixing an arbitrary sum as a levy. We ourselves were no wiser than those who fixed this levy and it is only recently that we have been shown the justice of the kick made by the non-certified member. It is easy to be wise after the event and we think now that what should have been done was to have taken either the whole of the first month's increase obtained, or 50 per cent, as a levy; then everybody would have been treated on an equality. A 50 per cent levy would have, roughly speaking, meant that the minimum salaried brother would have been paying about a $15 levy and the maximum about $30 to $40. We think that if our executive would reconsider this whole matter and fix the levy for the uncertificated man as $15 it would about fill the bill. If some uncertificated men have paid the $25 under protest, return $10 to them. Let us be big enough at all times to acknowledge and rectify a mistake in policy. We think, of course, that if any uncertificated man at the time of the award qualified shortly afterwards for the full benefits that he should, for his conscience's sake, come across with the full benefits that he should, for his conscience's sake, come across with the full evey. In any case, no Full-Benefit-Pull-Levy, Part-Benefit-Par

The B. C. notes by Cert. 22 were read with great interest by us; also the able and interesting article entitled, "Wireless as a Job," by W. T. B. We have no idea as to the identity of the writer but he certainly "said something."

We would ask all brothers to see that their copy of the June Journal circulates wherever the Radio man doth congregate and especially those brothers in the Montreal District. We desire our appeal on behalf of Bro. MacGillevray to have the fullest circulation.

Bro. Duchesne, late of VCF is now O. I. C. at Montreal Station with Brother Abou Hassan and Brother St. Pierre. We are very pleased to note the return of the latter to our service, as it is a case of a grievance rectified. But watch your step, brother, watch your step.

Three Rivers Station has closed down and the staff have been transferred to VCC and VCF, respectively.

At Quebec we have Bros. Bouteillier, Sundstrom, Beauchemin and Clegg; also the Fame Point staff, consisting of Bros. Moore, Chaisson and Soares, who will be at their post by the time these notes appear.

Bro. "Bill" Hickmott with Bros. Desro-siers and Siteman are at Father Pt.

At Clarke City Brothers Percey, Palmer and Smith carry on.

We had intended commenting on the Louisberg debacle but other and better informed correspondents have already done this. Anyhow, it's no good hitting a fallen horse, so we will let it go at that

CAPE SABLE ECHOES

Congratulations are extended Bro. Les-lie on his appointment and acceptance of District Chairman pending regular elec-tion. We are given to understand that the appointment has been endorsed by our General Chairman in accordance with constitutional law.

General Chairman in accordance with constitutional law.

A Grievance Committee is under way and will soon be functioning.

It is our pleasure to endorse the boon conferred on the world by William Marconi. Here we had no S. O. S. but had there not been such a means of communication on tap the crew of our old friend the S. S. "Impoco" may have fared badly when she ran on Blonde Rock about eighteen miles southwest from Cape Sable on April 6th. The absence of an S. O. S. here shows the deep-rooted confidence in the radio apparatus as a means of establishing communication "tout de suit." Bro. Edward Ryall, recently from the Lakes, had the misfortune to injure his hand when abandoning the wreck and is now convalescing in Yarmouth Hospital. Here's wishing him a speedy recovery. We have suspicions that a little lady in Toronto will be axiously looking forward to his homecoming. Our worthy brother on the S. S. "Royalite" also performed yeoman service during the three days' stand by. It is questionable whether we will ever call Z. E. U. (Impoco) again.

Our famous artist, late of Grindstones, will be fearfully missed this year, especially at Fame and Heath Points. He of the Italian handle sported in these regions for a spell. We ken him fine. He is now hibernating at Medicine Hat on the C. P. R.

R. I. P.

At this writing, we have pleasure in recording a slight improvement in the health of our late D. C., Bro. MacGillevray. We wish him a continued and speedy progress on the health grade.

Due to the avalanche at Louisberg, Bro. Simpson left here for that salubrious spot and has been replaced by R. A., otherwise known as "Old Bill" Bent, but he is not remaining long.

Bro. O. I. C. Walsh, who has been released from Sable Island and who is well known as a glutton for punishment, is going to take a fiyer at the matrimonial stakes. We wish him luck. Bro. Cope is temporary O. I. C. at Sable Island.

Although we did not know it before, we now suspect our worthy Editor, Bro. Clegg, of having Irish blood in his veins. In bold black type he admonishes all scribes to "use a typewriter and double space if they have one and if not to write legibly," etc.

Our acting D. C. was hoping to be able to announce in the May number of the Journal the appointment of a Grievance Committee for our District. This matter has had his attention from the date of his appointment and the executives were requested to name the committee. The D. C. suggested the name of one member to the Executive, through the Secretary, and also suggested that the members forming the committee should be located as to be easily accessible to all members in this District. For instance, one in Nova Scotia, one in Newfoundland and one located near the Gulf, for the benefit of the Gulf stations, as well as the River stations. This arrangement would appear to be the best possible for all the membership. The matter is now in the hands of the Executive and the D. C. hopes that they will make a selection without delay, bearing in mind the qualifications necessary for this important body, and requests them to consult all members in their immediate vicinity with satisfactory to the membership at large.

Nomination papers for the positions of District Chairman and District Secretary-Treasurer are being forwarded to all members and it is desired that they be filled out and returned as soon as pos-

The moral is, be sure to be in good standing yourself before nominations and elections come on. Please bear in mind that a Grievance Committee can do nothing for one who has not an up-to-date card in his pocket.

Congrats to Editor Bro. Clegg and contributors on our section of the Journal last month. We were glad to see notes from the Pacific Coast, as well as from the different sections of the East. Keep up the good work, brothers, and make our section one of the most interesting in the

NOTICE:

In thanking the executive and membership of our subdivision for their confidence in appointing myself as acting District Chairman, I regret the fact that it was through the illness of our worthy Brother MacGillevray that it became necessary to make such appointment. The latest report received here was to the effect that Bro. MacGillevray's health was much improved, and we hope that both he and Mrs MacGillevray will speedily speedily Mrs. MacGillevray will recover.

recover.

I am sorry that a controversy arose over the appointment. However, an article appearing in the April issue of the Journal (just received) will clear up all doubts among the membership as to the appointment being constitutional. With regard to qualifications, I would ask all the membership to kindly reserve their judgment until after a fair trial, and I feel sure that this will be done.

In response to a request in the Journal for a statement of policy, I would say that my policy is to put forth my best efforts to work in harmony with the officers and executive of our Union in the best interests of our Union, and my motto is to work for "THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE LARGEST NUMBER."

CAPE BRETON BOOMINGS

Bro. L. R. J. is holding it down; as a matter of fact, sitting on the safety valve at N. Sydney. Reports business exceedingly brisk and keeping all the staff on the jump. Also sees that the married brothers in that vicinity are busy building up families and the single ones always jealous of a monopoly in any shape or form are keeping their weather eye open with a view to doing likewise when a favorable wind veers.

eye open with a view to doing likewise when a favorable wind veers.

Bro. J., having fixed up his aerial after a winter's blizzards, has found time to perfect his little invention, henceforth to be known as the "Anti-hum" (they generally do). Used with the latest "Hypsermeter" this little contrivance works great. The Anti-hum has proved to be a very important attachment to quadruplex and duplex systems; it harmonizes the musical "hum" and also has a great effect on the quenched spark notes, taking out the nasty grind with its grit whilst at the same time the Hypsermeter has a cooling effect and there is no possible chance of it heating when some of the yahoo fraternity sit on the key for five minutes or so. Doesn't it have a soothing effect when after getting the line clear and being all set for some real work and just as you start with a bunch of traffic for a station some boat comes along with a ten-minute program of QST. QRU, etc.? If Briggs only knew the wireless game, he sure would find there was always someone taking the joy out of life and he would be saying, "Won't it be a great and glorious feeling when these QRU fiends are all rounded up and we can then handle business without the QRM? Oh, boy!"

Ed. Note: We have done our best with your invention, brother. Sounds like a new kind of ice-cream freezer to us; any-how we hope it does all you expect. As to the QRU bug, like all insects, he is everywhere and we all get a taste of him. The only thing we can suggest is to carefully read the Book of Job and try to profit thereby.

"Knocked out in the first round" to use a sporting simile. This about fits the situation at Louisberg. These "Round Robins" don't always work out in the way their originators intend and the moreal of the recent happenings is that you can't always throw the Big Bluff and get away with it. It came off once last year engineered by one of the "chronics" who wanted something he was not qualified for, but the pitcher went to the well once too often and when the same game was tried again this year the bluff was called. A few of the previous leaders, wise birds, saw what was coming and took a back A few of the previous leaders, wise birds, saw what was coming and took a back seat; the result is about a dozen "good men and true" now find themselves on the waiting list of Street & Walkers. They were keen enough last year in roping in two or three misguided members of Division 59, knowing at the time they intended throwing down the Union. The result was only to be expected and when the axe dropped it didn't miss. The Company had no objection to the men being Unionized; in fact, they rather welcomed such a move, but the type of agitator who prevailed at Louisberg were not fit to belong to any decent Union, as they were totally devoid of the principles of true Union and the short time they did belong to Division 59 was anything but beneficial to that body. Employing bodies today want men whom they can depend upon, with both ability and toyatty. All the gaps created have been filled by Union men and it is to be hoped that they will profit by the mistakes of their predecessors and look before they leap. We feel sure that the newcomers will make good and wish them Godspeed in their efforts. "Whoop 'er up," boys, and let them see you travel. them see you travel.

All the members in this district are sorry to hear of the run of ill-health that is following our late D. C., Bro. MacGillevray and trust that good news will soon emanate from that quarter.

We are pleased to learn that Bro. Letts has recovered and is now able to be up and around again.

Bro. Thomas, who recently passed through here en route to Cape Ray, is to be congratulated on having successfully passed his examination for a "ticket."

We regret to learn that VCR is temporarily closing down from May 3rd. We have no particulars as to the reasons and we presume that Bro. Myrick and staff will be transferred elsewhere.

Blouin, the Beau Brummel of Dufferin Terrace VCC. The "Manoa" met with a variety of mishaps. She ran short of coal and had to make for the Azores to obtain bunker. En route an incipient mutiny broke out amongst some of the crew, Spanish, and had to be quelled by the ship's officers with drawn swords, nay, pistols. They were duly overpowered, manacled and are now lying in dungeons meditating over the vicissitudes of life. In justice to the regular crew of the "Manoa" we should have said that the mutineers were Spaniards who had been shipped from the S. S. "Iverheath," the latter vessel having also met with misfortune. ## GREAT LAKES DISTRICT

From all sides inquiries are being received relative to the non-appearance of the Seniority List, and wonderment is rife as to when this document will be the Seniority List, and wonderment is rife as to when this document will be available for reference by the membership. The reason for the excessive delay is difficult to understand, when it is remembered that in response to inquiries instituted by our General Chairman advice was received last November that the list might be expected in the course of a week. In reply to further enquiries instituted by Bro. Allen on April 2nd, and filed with Toronto Divisional office, advice was received that Seniority List might be expected in the course of a week. The System Division is still minus this necessary item, and the Executive fear for the impression likely to be made upon the membership as a result of disregarded, or as we prefer to believe, overlooked promises. promises.

It is hoped that this intimation may bring results, and that our respected Managing Director will see to it that his efforts toward conciliation and a thorough good understanding with his men, run no risk of disaster due to neglect on the part of someone to carry out his wishes in our regard.

The congratulations of the Great Lakes District are extended to Bro. and Mrs. West of our Soo Station on the arrival of a baby girl on April 29th. Some people certainly know how to get around the income tax, all right.

Bro. Roy Booth of Port Burwell was a welcome visitor to Toronto, his home town. Roy. as jubilant and as fat as ever, was bursting with data relating to the famous Port, and the membership will presently (if not at once) be treated to the details covering the changes now be-

Our congratulations are also extended to Bro. Clegg and to the contributors who assisted in piling up material for the Radio section of the April issue. Here's hoping that the good work may be long lived, and that those of the membership who have not yet seen themselves in print, will quickly realize that their contributions are most earnestly desjred, and that those who have contributed will continue to favor brother members with their offerings. offerings.

We have had the pleasure of meeting Bro. W. L. Parkin of Division 65, and interesting matter from their division will shortly appear in the Journal, based on the work accomplished by Bros. Parkin and Taylor (the latter representing International) whilst at Ottawa. This and Taylor (the latter representing International) whilst at Ottawa. This matter will be brimful of interest to the membership of Division 59 and will be eagerly awaited.

The pioneers of the Radio section had needs look to their laurels in the matter of Journal space, as indications are not wanting that our government confreres intend to take the fullest advantage of the favor accorded the Radio men of Canada in the gift of a special section, and much as we desire to see them each month, we have no wish to find ourselves swamped.

Unavoidable delay has been experienced in connection with the issuance of Nomination forms covering representation at the forthcoming General Assembly Convention, to be held in Toronto on October 3rd and onwards.

At the present writing these forms are in the press, and it is expected that same will soon be available for distribution. Only those holding 1921 cards will receive forms from their local secretaries, and it has been judged well, in view of the lateness of distribution, to extend the period during which nomination forms will he received. will be received.

will be received.

Under this extension nominations for the office of Delegate to the General Convention in October, 1921, will close on June 15th instead of on May 31st. While it is recognized that this procedure is not in strict keeping with the letter of the by-law covering closing date for nominations, it is felt that no reasonable objections can be lodged, as in view of the isolation of most of the membership and the necessity of everyone being afforded an opportunity of exercising their privilege, plus the unavoidable causes which led to the delay in issuing forms, no other satisfactory course remained to be followed. followed.

The membership are referred to Article 12 of by-laws, and are asked to be prepared to file their nominations for the Executive offices for 1922.

A sufficiency of forms to furnish each member entitled to receive such will be supplied the several subdivision secretaries on or about the 1st of June, and it is hoped that these forms will be at once disposed of to those entitled to

The earnest co-operation of the membership is solicited in this matter, and all are urged to allow only the soundest of common sense and good judgment to direct their choice of nominees.

Personalities and all that it implies should, if they exist, be utterly disregarded, and the genuine worth to the organization and to the service of any individual be carefully considered before a decision is reached, or a final choice decided upon. We want of the very best We want workers, not amongst us. place-hunters or deadwood. We want unselfish, broadminded, and diplomatic Our experience has shown us that the calibre of the membership is of sufficiently high standard to enable us to select not only several answering to one or another of the requisite qualifications, but to choose our officers from the many amongst us who possess in a marked degree all and sundry of those assets which go with the makeup of a really good and honest unionist.

An old saying has it that, "One cannot put a quart into a pint jar." We wonder how many have noticed on page 176 of the April issue the efforts of what appears to be a halo attempting to encircle the Chicago officers of the W. B. D. Its seeming efforts have been attended with varied success in different copies of the picture, but in that before the writer President Alcorn is more or less appropriately draped with it around his neck and resting on his shoulders. If halo it be, we suggest that it disintegrate and rearrange itself in multiple of eight and settle one upon each of the heads of these live looking officers.

The membership of the System Division have been struck with the change of personnel at our Louisberg station. Advices received indicate that twelve of the former staff have been relieved from duty and from the service, and that their places have been filled from amongst the membership holding C. T. U. A. cards. It seems likely that the prediction of our late Brother C. E. Hill, as recorded in a previous issue of the Journal under "Canadian Topics," to the effect that these individuals (the then existing staff) would live to regret their action in seceding from the C. T. U. A., has been or is about to be fulfilled. The stigma attached to Division 59 following the lapse of these unworthy ex-brothers no longer exists, and it is now the duty of our C. T. U. A. brothers manning the big station to show, and show conclusively, to the management that the Company's interests are better served by yourselves as real union telegraphers, than by those whose selfish interests induce them to hold cards and to lightly disregard the pledges which the holding of such cards involves and signifies.

We have, in the present situation, or rather, in the situation as recently found at the Louisberg station, no evidence in support of the unsavory boast of one of their number and, to an extent, an outstanding one of that number, that the Louisberg staff in 1920 "held the Company in the hollow of their palm." The membership are not treated to this line of braggadocio but honest efforts have been, are, and will be, made to have their interests safeguarded, while at the same time equally honest effort will be made, as it always has been made, to safeguard insofar as is possible with us, the interests of our employers, whose interests are virtually our own.

En avant, Louisberg. Your motto, "NULLI SECUNDUS."

In order to have your notes published in the current month's Journal it is necessary to let Bro. Clegg in Quebec have them by the 3rd of the month at the latest.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT WIRELESS DIVISION NO. 65

(British Columbia District)

The first conference that has ever been held between the Radio Branch of the Department of the Naval Service and its employees took place at Ottawa in April. Brother W. L. Parkin, from this coast, presented the case of the radio operators, aided by Brother Thomas Taylor, deputy International president, and their report of the proceedings is already in the hands of members of this division. The report shows that considerable progress has been made in our negotiations for better conditions, of which negotiations this conference constitutes the first chapter. Brother Parkin returned from Ottawa because it would have been useless to remain there longer, at present, but his return does not in any way indicate the completion of our efforts. Brother Taylor is still in charge, and will continue to direct our affairs until an agreement is reached.

affairs until an agreement is reached.
Of our principal objectives, recognition of the C. T. U. A. is clearly established; the forty-eight-hour maximum week is not yet definitely agreed to; and the wage scale is to be reconsidered by the Civil Service Commission at an early date. Our minor requests have been reasonably met.
Both the Civil Service Commission and the Department accepted Brother Taylor as International representative without demur, and this recognition of our union as International representative without demur, and this recognition of our union must to many minds appear in itself sufficient recompense for all our efforts. If no other thing had been gained, we had at least won our self-respect. When workers can go collectively to their employer and discuss as man to man the terms on which they will do business, when they let it be known that "an injury to one is the affair of all," then service discards all vestige of servitude, servility becomes civility, and discipline loses its rigor. But we have gained more than that: exactly how much it is too early to say. Local conferences must be held on each coast, and perhaps a couple of months will elapse before the full results are known. In the meantime it is important to remember that the case is still sub-judice. We shall accept nothing less than the 48-hour week. "We don't want to fight, but by Jingo if we do—!"

want to fight, but by Jingo if we do—!"

There are some points that are necessarily not mentioned in the report of Brothers Taylor and Parkin, though they redound greatly to the credit of the C. T.

U. A. and to the good judgment of International President Johnson in choosing his deputy. Nor could they be mentioned here without danger of arousing rancor in our proceedings, a contingency which it is our earnest desire to avoid. But one fact that is evidenced by the report, and emphasized by what is not in the report, is that if Brother Parkin had gone to Ottawa as representative of a little teaparty organization limited to this service the session would have been a brief one. Without the moral and material backing of an organization of the size and strength of the C. T. U. A. our position would have been hopeless. been hopeless.

The assessment will be light.

The assessment will be light.

We are glad to observe the renewed activity of the Pacific Marconi men. Their energetic district secretary, Brother Mc-Allister, is gathering in new members as every boat arrives. He has a big field to cover, but Mac is built that way. We hope to keep in touch with him and his work, and though the formation of a district council on this coast might present many difficulties he and his brother members are invited to visit our stations to talk things over whenever they have the opportunity. The question of jurisdiction over the privately-owned land stations on this coast should be settled at once between Divisions 59 and 65. There is no room on the long British Columbia coast line for a non-union station. Our Marconi brothers on the boats know that when they work with any of our stations they are working with a union shop, although the Berne List does not give this information. When we get the private stations all tied up with union contracts, and the sea-going operators all organized, then there will be some happy days for radio men. for radio men.

Bros. Emmerson and McTavish een on the sick list. Mac has ret Bros. Emmerson and wattaviou have been on the sick list. Mac has returned from Triangle Island to get a little corned beef out of his system, and Brother Emrsn of Estevan Point has had some prolonged sessions with the dentist. If we said how sick they looked we might be accused of being unsympathetic, but then, we were not present when the quacks presented their bills.

Webster becam au at Vancouver became Brother Corriveau at Vancouver on the 19th of May, and the happy pair are continuing their honeymoon at Estevan, there to escape the maddening crowd, with only the sad sea waves, the foghorn and the spark to break the silence of their serenity. Hearty congratulations from the cellbates; heartfelt commiserations from the benedicts.

Brother H. D. Tee, whose three months' trip to Australia was very considerably lengthened by sickness and shipping strikes down under, is back at Victoria.

At Estevan, and down at Gonzales and Point Grey, they are certainly breaking all the records of this service at getting in ship position reports. Quantity is evidently the main thing; a little difference of a few thousand miles one way or the other is not a matter of concern between friends, and if now and then a boat appears to have proceeded some distance overland no one loses any sleep. For instance, on the 26th of April the steamer "West Mahwah" was 636 miles from Tacoma, bound for Sydney, according to Estevan's report; on the 27th Point Grey reported her on the way from Yokohama to Portland, Ore., 1,370 miles out; next day Gonzales spoke her 1,274 miles out, again bound for Sydney. These reports appear in the newspapers without comment; so far has the science of navigation advanced since the days of the "Flying Dutchman."

The new station at Bull Harbor, Hope Island, which is intended to replace Triangle, is expected to be ready in June, having been under construction six months. Perhaps the delay will be made up for by sturdiness of construction, for we surely have enough jerry-built houses. At Estevan the wind shakes the walls till the pictures hang out a couple of inches; at Cape Lazo the office is in danger of being blown off its foundations; while at Alert Bay, if you eat soup or sneese in one house, the thin partition between it and the next vibrates in resonance and sets up sound waves that penetrate to the remotest corners of the adjoining dwelling. dwelling.

We are grateful to those correspondents of other divisions who have been good enough to give us a kind word on the occasion of our appearance in the Journal. With humility befitting our junior status as a division we reciprocate their greetings and good wishes.

"SOO" NOTES

We were glad to see Opr. Cuming with his telescope, which sure comes in handy up on the hill. Bro. Dick, though, doesn't like coast station duty as well as he likes the ships, so was tickled when he got the S. S. "Agawa" of the A. C. R. fleet.

Slacke relieved Bro. Cuming; both are pill flends.

What has happened to all our ship operators? Are they scared of V.B.B., so they won't give T. R.'s. Some of them better have a look at the P. M. G. again, as it's up to them to let us know where they are.

We hear the tug "Traveller" of Lake Superior Paper Co. is being overhauled and equipped with a new ½ K. W. cabinet, so Bro. Murphy of tug "Reliance" won't find it lonesome later when the "Traveller" arrives from Toronto.

Glad to hear our genial friends, Smallwood of S. S. "Laketon" and Layle of S. S. "Glenesea" are on the job again. It's a treat to work these two.

Who is the operator who gives T. R.'s on the Lakes as if he was out in the middle of the Atlantic. Oh you latitude and longitude on Huron!

We are waiting to see what success our friends across the line will have with the new D. F. stations at Whitefish and Detour. Compasses not yet working, so our boys cannot get a chance to try it out as some of them seem quite anxious to do.

Bro. Clifton was a visitor here the other day. Make your stay longer next time, Bro. Who said Crib?
How's this: You can fix them up for me and send them along, if you please.

THE AMERICAN COTTON AND GRAIN EXCHANGE

So long as commerce continues and civilization controls the thoughts and acts of men. the fabrication of raw materials for general use will of necessity survive. Among these raw materials no one item is of greater importance and necessity than cotton.

than cotton.

Something like twelve million bales of cotton are grown in the Southern states annually and must be marketed through established centers where some stability of price may be assured and speculative fluctuations provided against and kept within reasonable bounds. This has been done in the past by the establishment of Cotton Exchanges in certain centers, for all practical purposes in New York and New Orleans.

The methods and manner of handling all practical purposes in New York and New Orleans.

The methods and manner of handling this business has undergone many changes in the past twenty years, due to advanced ideas and requirements in modern business methods, so that there has been constantly growing a desire and demand from spinners, cotton merchants, growers, brokers and bankers for a better and more efficient plan of buying and selling cotton in both spots and futures. No perfect plan has yet been devised, nor can a perfect plan be devised, but to most perfect plan has yet been devised nor can a perfect plan be devised, but to most perfect possible medium for handling commodities, there has been worked out and established under a New York State Charter an Exchange under the name of the "AMERICAN COTTÓN AND GRAIN EXCHANGE" designed and organized two years ago to supply just what those who deal and trade in cotton desire. This exchange, of which Former U. S. Cotton Futures Attorney Judge A. W. Graham is President, is in active operation at 81 Broad Street, New York, and is rapidly building up a valuable and satisfactory business.

of the federal government.

One of the distinguishing features is that it is the only exchange anywhere presenting the opportunity to buy or sell in ten-bale lots, or any multiple thereof, with the assurance that the ten-bale order will get the same attention that a 1,000-bale lot would get.

The recent installation of a private wire system through the Southern states by Rose and Son, a progressive "Odd-Lot" cotton house, with offices at 26 Stone street. This is the first "Odd-Lot" cotton wire system in the world and gives employment to over forty telegraphers, most of whom are Union members. # O. R. T. TO ESTABLISH BANK

Convention Endorses Pensions; Manior Re-elected; Wage Decrease Denounced

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers has decided to follow the footsteps of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and establish a great Telegraphers' co-operative national bank in St. Louis. This was one of the outstanding results of the triennial international convention which recently concluded its work in Savannah, Ga. The task of working out the details of the enterprise was entrusted to President E. J. Manion, Secretary-Treasurer L. J.

Ross, and the members of the Board of Directors.

A pension plan was also adopted by a substantial vote.

The convention voted down the various suggestions looking to a change in the name of the organization and also decided to keep headquarters in St. Louis.

A strong resolution in opposition to any reduction in wages was adopted by unanimous vote.

The Canadian members of the organization were formally authorized to affiliate with the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

The following officers were elected to hold office for three years, or until the next convention:

LIVING COSTS GOING UP

Washington.—While organized labor is being bludgeoned into accepting wage reductions, on the employers' claim that the cost of living is rapidly going down, the fact is, according to Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, that prices are about to start climbing again, and that in a year they will be much higher than they now are.

Fisher was testifying before the joint Congressional committee on reclassification of salaries of Federal employes. He showed that, because of the shrinkage of purchasing power in the dollar, every member of the United States Senate had actually lost on his salary, in the past six years, some $17.567. Applying it generally, every person whose salary or wages remained stationary—in dollars—during rally, every person whose salary or wages remained stationary—in dollars—during the past six years should now be reimbursed to the extent of $2.34 for every dollar of salary or wage for that period. to keep pace with the advance in the cost of living which actually took place.

The witness showed that on a Congressional salary, which is $7.500, the shrinkage in purchasing power in 1914 was $135; in 1915 it was $382: in 1916 it was $1.417.50; in 1917 it was $3.210; in 1918 it was $5.212.50; in the fiscal year ending June 30. 1919, it was $7.267.50. A government employe receiving $1,200 in 1913 would on a basis of equal purchasing power, now be getting $2,808.

His plea was for readjusted salaries and a sliding scale based on the actual purchasing power of the dollar.

TELEGRAPH LIABILITY

In a tentative report on No. 11524, limitations of liability in connection with transmission of telegraph messages, Examiner Pattison of the Interstate Commerce Commission has recommended to the commission that a limit of $500 be put on unrepeated messages and that on repeated messages the liability should not exceed $5,000. He recommends that provision be made for valued messages at the repeated message rate plus one-tenth of 1 per cent of the stated value in excess of $5,000. He said there was no reason why the telegraph companies should longer be permitted to avoid responsibility for their errors or negligence or to limit it to nominal amounts.

CAN YOU TELL WHY-

Labor laws are always declared unconstitutional?

All workmen cannot see the benefit of organization?

Union men so often fail to demand union goods?

So many members never attend meetings only when out of a job or in trouble?

So many members think unionism consists only of paying dues?

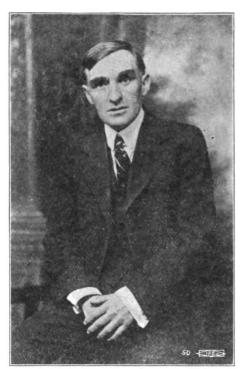

Some members always have important business on meeting nights?

Some unionists never pay their dues until threatened with expulsion?

Some members yell on the street corners, but whisper in the lodge rooms?

We so often forget our own faults, but never fail to detect our neighbor's?

We expect our union to be powerful when we refuse to furnish the ammunition (brains and money)?

H. Johnson, International Commercial Telegraphers' Roscoe Union of America, Chicago. Ill.

Dear Sir and Brother:

At the last regular meeting of the New York District of the Eastern Broker Divi-sion the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, Our International officers have received notice to terminate, June 30, 1921, contracts existing between the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America and the United Press Association, the International News Service and the University versal Service; and

WHEREAS, New York District of the Eastern Broker Division, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, view this action of the press associations as a maneuver either to negotiate a lower wage-scale or to inaugurate the so-called open shop policy, both of which are incompatible with the fundamental principles of unionism. Therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the New York District of the Eastern Broker Division, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, in regular meeting assembled, May 14, 1921, pledge our moral and financial support to our brother telegraphers employed by the three named press associations in their fight to maintain the present wage scale as provided in the now existing contracts. Be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolu-tion be sent to each General Chairman of the three press divisions and a copy sent to the Journal for publication therein.

This is a very forcible illustration of just how fast a gait he goes while at work; but he does not realize the amount of muscular, nerve and brain co-ordination he really puts into his work until he takes a rest and resumes work again.

The greatest skill it is humanly possible to attain is put into his work by a press operator. Therefore, the greatest skill calls for the best pay. Press salaries today are not properly based on the large amount of skill involved in this sort of work. work.

It is a rule, with very few exceptions, that a press operator is scrupulously attentive to his work. He always realtres that he is a representative of a press association on a newspaper or in a relay office and that the accuracy and expedition office and that the accuracy and expedition in moving the report largely rests on him. The success of the various press services has been largely due to the faithful efforts and great skill of their operators.

A comparison of present day press salaries with the salaries paid for other lines of telegraph work, taking the great skill, exceptionally hard and continuous work of press operators into consideration, will show that press operators are not paid as well as operators employed in other lines of telegraph work. This discrepancy in salaries ought to be remedied this year. this year.

The employers really don't think this is a square deal. Most of them would fight if they were accused of doing a similar act with their own associations. # WHAT TELEGRAPHERS NEED

WHAT TELEGRAPHERS NEED

It seems to me, after going carefully through my Journal for several months back and reading the tone of the general communications therein, that the fellows are not laying sufficient emphasis upon the fact that unless the C. T. U. A. becomes a power in the land, and that right speedily, there is but little to hope so far as the ordinary, every-day telegrapher is concerned. concerned as the ordinary, every-day telegrapher is concerned.

Particularly am I interested in the cases of those faithful souls who for years have given of the best that is in them to the Western Union Telegraph Company, and have been given in return a mess of pottage—a card in the A. W. E., that organization of false hopes and broken promises. I speak specifically of the Western Union, for it was to them I was bound for so long with such links in the chain as a thousand dollar policy (for which they took $6 a year out of my pay envelope) and that mockery, the A. W. E. And now, from where I stand on the side lines, it is so easy, so very easy to see what I could not discern before.

It's not a pleasant vision, either. The older you get in the service, the more you are pushed to one side. It's done gently at first—you hardly feel it; then another shove which you do feel. But you are getting on in years, perhaps have a family looking to you and you must not, dare not resent this quiet but persistent effort to unload you before the company finds you will soon be eligible for the pension list.

At last it is done; "fait accompil" as you will soon be eligible for the pension list.

At last it is done; "fait accompli" as they say "over there" and you are through. What matters it the means that are used? The result is the same—you are out, and what is there to look forward to? I don't think I overestimate it when I state it as a fact that not five par cent of telegraph employes are fit to do anything else when their days at the key are over.

Let's get away from this "fascinating business" stuff. There's nothing to it at any stage of the game. Even a motorman can command more consideration than a telegrapher. Not that we should be ashamed of the game, but it's a game in which the cards are marked and stacked. And in this connection it would be as well to remember all the time that JUST AS SOON AS THE WESTERN UNION IS READY TO GET ALONG WITHOUT OPERATORS—and they are working that way every day—THERE WILL BE NO HESITANCY, NO HEART-BREAKING FAREWELL WHEN YOU GET THE "OFFICE" TO WALK OUT. You will go and your places will be taken by the automatics, and where will GET THE "OFFICE" TO WALK OUT.
You will go and your places will be taken by the automatics, and where will you all be?
There is only one way I know of to beat them at their own game. Build up this telegrapher's organization so strong and so high that it can get for its members and for the fraternity generally the wage that rightfully belongs to them. They have said in other labor organizations that operators "haven't the guts" to stand up and make a fight of it. What a wonderful day it will be when this statement can be refuted. Cert. 1493.

PRE-CONVENTION SUBJECTS

We are approaching a convention. There are some important subjects which should be brought up now—before the convention—rather than later, after the convention.

convention—rather than later, after the convention.

There seems to be dissatisfaction among the Canadian membership with the Constitution as it affects them. There is the question, too, of the Russian blockade, which is not purely political but of great importance to the prosperity of both the United States and Canada. Russia may or may not have money with which to trade with America, but whatever trade Russia can produce is mighty welcome. If there is business activity the telegraphers work; if there is not they are not needed. Then there is also the question of increased salares for the International officers. It is not consistent to attempt to establish a wage scale, below which our international officers are now working for us, nor is it consistent for individual divisions to be paying their local officers more than the general assembly pays the International officers.

Therefore, I think that every local and division should obtain an expression of opinion from its membership on the following questions and that delegates to the convention should go pledged to work for the adoption of some such measures as the following:

1. The lifting of the Russian blockade.

2. The increasing of the per capita tax to $10.

The increasing of the per capita tax 3.

4. Amending the Constitution to allow Canada local autonomy. Joseph B. Milgram, New York.

WHEN IS A BOGEY NOT A BOGEY?

It is doubtful if our letter in the April Journal would be read by many, not excepting even old stagers like the writer. The reason? Well, right beside it appeared the smiling face of a very pretty young girl. To read anything certainly one would have to turn over. But never mind; here we go again.

The Resolution of the Toronto Joint Meeting of October 17th, 1920, was published in the Journal for November. In this connection, in the same Journal, the Editor shouted the "unconstitutionality" of the proposition and that it was "illegal." etc. (being sublimely unmindful that he in his ardor was himself somewhat mixed as to what was and what was not constitutional, stating that "Power to call special conventions rests entirely with the General Executive Board," when the constitution really leaves the G. E. B. no option but says it "shall call a special convention." etc.) But the shout was effective. Where it did not blind with a fear, and the committee of the joint meeting looked everywhere but to themselves and their rights and for five months nothing was heard from them; then someone rises in the April Journal to repeat: "Unconstitutional." Amen." Question: When is a bogey not a bogey (A thesis or the bogey question by Brother Mitchell, Toronto, is now in order, please.) Toronto, is now in order, please.)

In this case a bogey was invoked and it appeared and it did its work. Many believed they saw it, and they were duly impressed by what they believed they saw, then they quietly subsided. But the bogey was really no bogey.

The Toronto Joint Meeting was absolutely within its rights according to Section 2, Artcle VI, of the International Constitution. To supplement its proposi-Constitution. To supplement its proposition it elected a committee and instructed at as follows: ". . to take up the above resolution and keep it before other Districts to bring about the convention at the earliest possible date." etc. And this committee was created from all five Divisions represented at the meeting, so that even if the bogey of Section 9, Article XIX, had been invoked, too, and the committee were not frightened blind and deafily that bogey in turn, they would have seen it pointing the way and would have seen it pointing the way and would have of subordinate units addressing their own members' go ahead, and more power to you." But fear still has a withering effect on many of us, particularly the fear of you don't know what.

Result: Six months time gone now and or you don't know what.

Result: Six months time gone now and we are still in the same rut. only perhaps deeper, which lapse of time will conveniently give rise to the subterfuge: "We might as well wait for the regular convention in October." And this delay of one full year will be due to nothing so much as the inherent force of Camp No. 2, to which we drew your attention in the April Journal.

A very well written letter from Toronto in the April Journal on hockey games remarks in a most interesting manner on the support from the two staffs, C. P. R. and G. N. W., at the first game and speculates as to the reason for the difference. Perhaps someone in each office had whispered, "Unconstitutional."

WIRELESS IS TELEGRAPHY

(By W. T. B., Div. 65)

Estimates of the number of amateur radio enthusiasts in North America vary between one hundred thousand and a quarter of a million. Every village has its quota, every town its company, and every city its battalion of them. They support half a dozen magazines devoted exclusively to amateur radio, and several other periodicals cater to some extent to their interests. And scores of manufacturers of apparatus make a comfortable living off them.

iliving off them.

A very small proportion of these "hams," but still a large number in the aggregate, are a menace to professional radiotelegraphers, and it is very necessary for the radio members of the C. T. U. A. to have a clear conception of their own attitude towards the owners of toy sets of apparatus. Schools all over the continent are also turning out embryo wireless men who, though possessing the qualifications required by the government, are still in the amateur class when it comes to operating. What should be our policy in regard to these schools and their product? The constitution of the C. T. U. A. is very clear on the subject of the teaching of telegraphy. The line telegrapher eschews such schools as enemies of his craft organization, but for some reason the radio man's view is not so well defined. The wireless school is not only condoned by some sections of our membership; it is actually encouraged. We find that, even in the Journal, a statement like this creeps into the local notes: "We must congratulate Bro. Mutton being appointed chief instructor in wireless at Simpkin's ham factory; he is continuing his membership." And another like this: "Bro. Jeff, our general secretary, has resigned his professorship at Tompkin's wireless college." Under our like this: "Bro. Jeff, our general sectary, has resigned his professorship Tompkin's wireless college." Under of the control o constitution, these two estimable brothers are less entitled to congratulation than to expulsion. They have forgotten that wireless is telegraphy.

A distinction that is perhaps drawn between teaching wireless and teaching line telegraphy is that for wireless some technical knowledge must be acquired. But no school could pay its way if it confined itself to the technical side. Telegraphy is and must be the main part of the instruction. A youngster may leave high school with a good smattering of electricity, and the average amateur is full to the neck with choke coils and decrements, but it is telegraphy that they go to a special school to learn. It is telegraphy that a wireless school exists to teach. A telegrapher would not go there, even for technical instruction, for he could get that quite well out of a book.

Whether they are graduates of an alleged college or merely dabblers with toy equipment, the existence of hordes of amateurs is detrimental to the interests of the man who makes a living out of wireless, and though we cannot at present hope to eliminate the evil, we may be able to mitigate it by refraining from giving the amateur any encouragement. If, instead of providing him with advice, we treat his ambition to propel the alphabet through space with appropriate contempt, his hopes will languish. The average amateur is tickled all the length of his spine if a real operator has a good word to say about his set. Let us withhold the kind word: let us warn him, instead, of the difficulty of acquiring proficiency in the code, and of the danger of breaking the law in respect to the wave length of his transmitting gear.

To give friendly guidance and instructure

To give friendly guidance and instruc-tion to those who, if successful in their efforts, would swamp the telegraphic la-bor market, on the plea that a difference exists between wireless and line teleg-raphy, is a step well calculated to bring the radio profession into contempt. Wireless is telegraphy.

BY LEONARD F. SOLT Local Secretary-Treasurer W. B. D. Cleveland Sub-Unit

There is a movement on foot to transfer part of the W. B. D. treasury to the local subdivisions, by retaining part of the dues and initiation fees in the subdivision treasuries. I believe this would be a dangerous practice and should be discouraged. In the first place there should be a central distributing point for these funds, because the needs in extreme emergencies could not be met by the treasury of a single subdivision. When much greater amounts are needed for the local, where are they to come from? Surely not from the general headquarters if that fund is to be transferred to the locals. And the various locals would not feel like emptying their treasury to meet the demands of another, leaving themselves in an exhausted condition. If subdivisions cannot raise funds enough to meet their incidental expenses, would it not be better to have the general treasury help them in minor cases than to be left alone on the larger needs?

Would we not be drifting apart with diminishing strength, at a time when unity of purpose and action is a crying Would there not be a tendency toward greater expenditures of funds by the subdivision than were those funds raised through individual effort through the efforts of the subdivision, or even through submission of the bill to general headquarters?

Subdivision No. 10 has found it comparatively easy, thus far, to meet local expenses through various methods, such as dances, etc. If a local subdivision can do this, there is a greater feeling of independence than should they draw their funds from the dues and initiation fees. Of course it takes some work to do this, but if we don't care to do more than pay our dues, we are not good union men. Let's continue the present system of handling the finances, as there is 100 per cent less danger of a local being unprotected in case of need.

Let's hear from some of the brothers who favor the move, and get some arguments from both sides.

THE SATURDAY NIGHT SCOOP

On all press circuits, with the management of which the telegraphers employed on such circuits have contracts, there are usually several "Saturday night scoop" jobs, or jobs quite frequently worked by telegraphers not regularly employed on such circuits. In many, many instances these emergency Saturday night telegraphers are not "card men."

It seems to the writer that it is of almost as much importance to those regu-larly employed on such circuits that these Saturday night men carry cards as it is to see that the "regulars" keep up-todate.

Many of these emergency men are employed by one or the other of the big commercial companies; some by pipe lines, some do railroad work, and some are not working regularly as telegraphers anywhere (except the Saturday night job) but make a living (probably a better living than the telegraphers who help maintain the Union organization) outside of the telegraph business. Even at that, if they work the Saturday night scoop regularly it brings them in from $35 to $40 a month, or around $350 a year. Is there any reason in the world why these men shouldn't be asked to "kick in"?

And this entirely aside from the fact that the writer believes any telegrapher capable of working a press wire should be possessed of enough sense to want in his heart to belong to the Union.

There are other than Saturday night are not working regularly as telegraphers

There are other than Saturday night "scoops" to which this argument will

There are other than Saturday night "scoops" to which this argument will apply, also.

Usually these Saturday night men only come in touch with the telegraphers on those circuits on that one night and seldom get "acquainted" with those on the circuit, and more seldom still does anybody — CIRCUIT CHAIRMEN ESPECIALLY—even invite them to join the Union. Why should they be overlooked? At a rough estimate, the writer would say there are at least a hundred of such men who are not carrying cards. Why should not the various circuit chairmen show enough interest in their organization to go after these men? Some of these "scoop" men are even under the impression they are not wanted in the Union. (Oh, yes, they are. I ran into one myself who was surprised to learn he would even be PERMITTED to join.)

The revenue from these memberships would help the various division treasur-

The revenue from these memberships would help the various division treasuries and would help the International, and, above all. add to the number of men carrying Union cards—and every man carrying a Union card adds (or should add) that one man more on the "outside" boosting for the Union.
And here's another angle. Quite often these Saturday night scoop men, after having been nursed along by the senders when they were "amateurs" become proncient at press work and apply for a job.

when they were "amateurs" become pron-cient at press work and apply for a job. On the strength of having worked at "so and so" on the Saturday night circuit (or other emergency) they are given jobs and GET THEIR CARDS AFTER THEY GET THE JOBS.

GET THE JOBS.

Personally, I'd like to see every one of these jobs so tied up that a man who hadn't held a card for at least six months before applying for a job on an organized circuit wouldn't be considered, or. say, be compelled to pay up at least six months' back dues. We pay our good money to keep up our organization, and I see no reason why these men should not be at keep up our organization and I see no reason why these men should not be at least urged to "get in."

Further, I know of a certain city where the operator on the day circuit, where the operator on the day circuit, where count of a closely allied service furnishing the night service) is not permitted to work the Saturday night job—the night job being a seven-night affair and the night man laying off on Saturday nights—and that Saturday night iob goes to a night man laying off on Saturday nights—and that Saturday night job goes to a man who is not carrying a card. I have no doubt there are other like instances throughout the country: perhaps not identical, but coming under the same head.

Why shouldn't the circuit chairmen give this matter their attention? And if the circuit chairmen WON'T DO IT, why shouldn't some other member who has the interest of his organization at heart, look into it?

PRINTER VS. MORSE

(By S. J. Small)

We hear a great deal about the printer displacing the Morse operators. Men who give little thought to the morrow and dismiss from their mind the doings of yesterday on awakening with the beginning of a new day are natural born pessimists. To take seriously their diagnosis of the printer problem would create a panic in the minds of men and women who have chosen telegraphy as their "line" and cause a stampede to get out of the business before the crash comes. Common sense reasoning, and not hysteria will solve this problem, and let it be said here and now, its complexity and doubtful commercial value gives the employing companies genuine cause uneasiness, when they visualize the future demands for wire communication throughout the country, in keeping with normal increase of population and expansion of industries.

The owners and managers of our telegraph systems do not get the right angle of the communication problem. They class it as an industry, when in fact, it is not an industry at all, except insofar as it has been commercialized under private ownership and opportunity. vate ownership and operation. They sought to keep their facilities abreast with normal increased demands from year with normal increased demands from year to year through makeshift arrangements; fixed tolls at a maximum that held the volume of business offered at a level equal to their capacity to move; encouraged overtime service in order to keep the wires manned; in fact, never have the telegraph executives, in whose keeping was nigged the responsibility of mainthe wires manned; in fact, never have the telegraph executives, in whose keeping was placed the responsibility of maintaining and extending our communication system at a pace corresponding with the growth of the country, given serious thought to the needs of the operating department, until today, the most up-to-date and elaborately equipped telegraph plant in the United States can be compared to a beautifully engrayed and fully piant in the United States can be com-pared to a beautifully engraved and fully jeweled, guaranteed watch with a defec-tive mainspring—they have no telegraph operators to man the wires.

Shortsightedness of officials and antagonism toward associations of telegraph workers was the rock on which efficiency of our telegraph system was wrecked. For thirty years railroad telegraphers have refused to teach students and for a longer period telegraph officials (nontelegraphers) have depended upon telegraph schools to supply the growing demand for workmen to man the wires, notwithstanding it was according to the supply the growing demand for workmen to man the wires, notwithstanding it was according to the supply the growing demand for workmen to man the wires, notwithstanding it was according to the supply the supply the growing demand for workmen to man the wires, notwithstanding it was according to the supply the sup mand for workmen to man the wires, not-withstanding it was demonstrated years ago that a thorough knowledge of telegago ago that a thorough knowledge of telegraphy cannot be acquired outside of the telegraph office any more than can the tricks of the trade of a coal miner or railroad engineer be gained outside the mine or standing on the ground beside a locomotive. The managers have never locomotive. The managers have never sought co-operation or advice from among the rank and file. They spurned conferences with committees of employes, they ridiculed suggestions that the officials of the companies and the telegraphers' association join hands and establish an apprentice system so that the operating department could be rehabilitated and the service improved to a maximum of efficiency. Instead they turned in desperation to the inventors of automatic printers. Ignoring the inevitable result of a combination of an imperfect mechanical device, operated by a human being with a training gained in a kindergarten school in which concentration, copyreading and mechanism is grouped under one heading, they have, at a tremendous outlay of money, kept the communication plants at a point in mechanical efficiency where they can barely keep their heads above water in handling the volume of business offered. business offered.

Starting with the Wheatstone, an automatic which transmitted the Morse characters and reproduced them on tape at a marvelous speed, down to the present day printing apparatus, which reproduces in printed form the matter transmitted over the wire, that element of conflict between unison and harmony of operation of a mechanical device, depending upon human guidance and co-operation and the lapse of the human mind, momentarily: relaxation from concentration; an unintentional yet uncontrollable wrong motion, have not been eliminated, nor can they be.

The mechanism of the printer responds to every touch of the operatives fingers on the keyboard. The intelligence of the human element operating the keyboard and the mechanism of the sending and receiving apparatus must work in harmony—a problem in synchronism.

There is a reason as well as a remedy for all evils, and the printer, an intricate mechanism, requiring electrical power and human physical and intellectual force to operate—the three constituent elements depending on precise symmetry—if not an evil, certainly is not a success from a commercial point of view.

The remedy, it is claimed by practical trunk lines with first class man power. This man power cannot be created in the telegraph service except through co-operation of company officials and employes association representatives in the moulding of character and developing of intellect of the apprentice. It is not brawn Starting with the Wheatstone, an automatic which transmitted the Morse char-association representatives in the moulding of character and developing of intellect of the apprentice. It is not brawn or a mechanical device that is needed. It is a realization on the part of the management that a trained force of telegraphers are an asset—dividend earners—and the last word in perfect service. What then is our duty? Is it to waste all the time gained by daylight saving and lack of employment because of industrial depression in discussing prohibition and lack of employment because of industrial depression in discussing prohibition and other questions already dead on the calendar of progress, or will we profit by the tremendous happenings of the past few years, happenings that have awakened the peoples of the world as never before, to the necessity of the workers shaking themselves free from the habit of expressing their desires and opinions in monosyllables. in monosyllables.

Let us turn the tables JUST THIS ONCE, and give sincere and serious thought to completing the organizing of the commercial telegraphers of the United States and Canada under the banner of the C. T. U. A. with the one big idea that we have a mission to perform:

First, the establishment of contractual relations with the employing companies. Second, the inauguration of an apprentice system operated under direction of company and association representatives, and and through the apprentice system rehabilitate the service of the operating department to the standard of the good old days when service meant accuracy and promptness.

The first thing we would bring to your attention this month, and indeed the most important, is that of attendance at the meetings. Quite recently again the majority of the staff have been very much conspicuous by their absence, much to the disgust and disappointment of our chairman Brother D. J. McKay.

Several give us the following as a reason for their non-attendance:

"There is nothing to draw anyone to these meetings, just the same old stuff over and over again, with the same few members monopolizing the floor and dick-ering at one another." This, in plain Eng-lish is all bunk ering at one another." This, in plain English, is all bunk.

There should be enough importance in the matters dealt with there to interest everybody who cares for their local and organization at all, and every one should feel it one of their first duties to set aside the "one" Sunday afternoon a month for this purpose. It is not much to ask of anyone anyone.

If you think one or two members are "monopolizing the floor and not giving others a chance to voice their opinions," come to the meeting and say so, and I have no doubt but that the offenders, (if there be any such), will only be too glad to cut their remarks a little shorter. "All aboard, then, for the next meeting." The place—Odd Fellows Building, corner Sixth Avenue and Centre Street.

Our regular meeting was held Sunday, April 24th, in the maple leaf parlor at 1530K. It was the largest attendance we have had for some time, twenty-one members being present. Much business was handled and points of interest to all were discussed. Let's make a record for the noxt one and have a full attendance of all members, thereby showing our fofficers that we are behind them.

Those who attended the dance given by the Telegraphers of the C. P. R., had a very good time. Music and refreshments were first class. Tom Masters was the hardest worker of the bunch. He certainly did his best to make the dance a success. There were too many counter attractions that night to get the crowd, and so the atendance was small.

Our genial chairman Brother Brine, has gone to Kamloops for six weeks to rusticate.

Two more men laid off here. Things don't look very good for the summer. We look for a slack season.

Brother MacLean has returned to work. We are all glad to hear that he has fully recovered from his illness.

Brother Sutherland has also returned to work, after a month's illness. We were all glad to see him back again.

To the Linemen, Canadian National Telegraphs:

This Journal is intended to be the medium through which we all may speak to one another. We should make the fullest possible use of it for that purpose. It is of no use at all to many of our French-Canadian brothers because they cannot read English. There are some, however, who can read and write both English and French with equal facility. These brothers could help us very much by writing a short letter to the Journal in French every month on any subject they consider to be of interest. I would surgest that one of them make it his duty to translate for the next month any important notices that appear in any current issue. For example, in the April Journal it was notified that the regular International convention of the Union will be held in Toronto, beginning October 3rd, instead of in Atlanta, Ga. Our French-Canadian brothers have the right to know this. Many of them would not know the because it was published only in English. Now one of our English-French writing brothers ought to translate Article VII of the International constitution into French and send it to the Editor in time for the July Journal, so that the French reading brothers may know upon what basis the delegates to this convention are elected. I would ask Brother J. A. Labonte of Montreal to do this.

Where the Journal is printed, French may be a very strange language.

A. Labonte of Montreal to do this.

Where the Journal is printed. French may be a very strange language. Have your letter written with a typewriter, so that the printer can get the proper spelling of each word. Any operator will be glad to type your letter for you. Get your letter in the mail not later than the 5th of the month. We are all in this battle together; language or nationality makes no difference between us. Let us hear from our good fighters, the French-Canadians.

Yours for the Cause.

One of the most representative and well attended meetings was held Thursday evening. April 21st, in Odd Fellows Temple, assistant district chairman J. E. Grace in the chair account sickness in the family of Chairman Robinson.

Chairman Robinson.

Brother Robinson tendered his resignation and, it was accepted. Nominations for district chairman followed and the following Brothers were nominated: Stanley Ellam. W. J. Davies, Buckley Goldovsky and R. N. MacDougall. All withdrew except Brother Goldovsky and his election was made unanimous. Bucky is a youngster, but is full of pep and we anticipate he will make good. It is up to all members of the Western District to lend him their fullest co-operation and to see that he gets over the rough spots in good shape. shape.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

(Tri-State Circuit)

Our ever-widening circuit was extended on May 1 to include the Evening Telegraph, of Wheeling, W. Va., with Bro. R. C. House officiating. The old Ohio circuit now takes in cities in West Virginia and Kentucky as well-totaling twenty points-with prospects for still greater expansion in the near future.

Undismayed by the recent additions to circuit, Sender-extraordinary Mc-Mahon, Cleveland, continues batting out the highest daily average of any news association operating in the state-and doing it in such a way that none of the receivers are being driven to home-brew for solace.

Bro. Schultheis, of Marietta, one-time Western Union star, is making vacation reliefs on the circuit, relieving Johnson, at Marion, on President Harding's paper, and McMahon, at Cleveland. Reports from the Cleveland front indicate Bro. Schultheis will challenge the winner of the Carpentier-Dempsey bout, having qualified by engagements against the organ-grinder at HN.

The Aurora Borealis made a very timely arrival, knocking out the circuit in ample time and at sufficient intervals to enable Wild Bill Phillips to do justice to certain gifts brought in by admiring Cleveland friends.

Numerous reports of activity in the A. P. organization campaign in Ohio and adjacent states are coming in, indicating that real progress has been made. Some of the boys have developed the habit to such an extent that they are compelled to rip application blanks from the Journal for the use, not only of A. P. men, but of broker, Western Union and Postal operators as well.

Several Ohio towns report that not a single non-union man is telegraphing within the confines of their borders. That means something. The eyes of non-members are being opened by arguments far more forcible than those we are able to furnish—arguments furnished them direct from their amployers from their employers.

There's been little talk about the new "crisis" faced by the press men. Whatever happens, however, the men of all associations in Ohio are READY. We like to have peace, but we examine carefully its cost. The overwhelming sentiment is that there isn't the slighest excuse for any sort of wage reduction.

Owing to the elimination of about half of their file, the Ledger dispensed with their individual wire and went back on the West wire with Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Clincinnati, Detroit and Chicago. About the same time Bill Holland, who had been covering the Ledger end for four or more years, left us, being succeeded by J. M. Clarke. This arrangement resulted in letting out the Junior man, L. B. Kaufman, at New York. "Kauf" is now with the Postal, but we hope it won't be long before he is back in the street again.

Ye correspondent was a little premature in claiming "Mique" Madden, Pittsburgh, for an annual. Mike, under close interrogation, affirms that he is not yet signed up—but soon. Why do they wait? Secretary Patterson should keep after him.

And the Cincinnati local vs. William Geibel.

It was a pleasure to find some Ledger News Service notes. It seems that notes written on the "system" plan—that is each system, it's own notes, regardless of where the cards are held—are more interesting. We have yet to hear from the Tribune bunch, or the Consolidated.

In scouting around among the unatached leased wire we were told that some of these men, who are enjoying salary standards created and maintained by the C. T. U. A. that there is no benefit in it for them to hold a card.

There is no fool so great as he who imagines that HIS job is secure; that he may safely throw the burden of keeping the game going, upon other shoulders. When the job blows up, do they make a dash for a non-union job at NON-UNION wages, or do they come down to the street and try for a job with UNION wages? The average salary on the street is about $40 per month more than the highest rating of the highest-paying commercial company—The Western Union, and is about $60 more per month than the Postal. The price of a card, costing only several pennies per day, is a contribution toward the work of maintaining these ratings, slack times or flush, in addition to which it covers a subscription to the best book for telegraphers ever published—the C. Old "Peggie" Bolton is doing the sending out of Chicago, and he's some "bug artist." He has all the repeater chiefs working overtime trying to figure out some scheme to keep the points from burning up.

Sam Small is holding down the fort at St. Louis, and even Peggie's hottest bombardments with his rapid-fire machine, fail to bring forth any breaks from Sam, so it looks at though he hasn't lost any of his "pep" and "steam."

R. R. They shouldn't have any trouble locating customers for their product, if they can manage to evade the Border Patrol. Patrol.

Dave Blake is also on the string at Dallas, he seems to have a little trouble once in a while locating a cork. What he wants with it is somewhat of a mystery. Pony, don't flirt with Pete's "goat" too much, or he might walk on you.

Peggie says he's having some medicine imported from Omaha to knock the rheumatiz, but he isn't very keen about taking it, as the directions say "refrain from tea, coffee, and booze." I suggested drinking the booze for him; it ought to help him. help him.

DETROIT NOTES

There has been quite a change in the personnel of this office since our last notes, caused primarily by the reduction in wage, some getting as high a reduction as $27.30 per month and others in proportion to their salaries, and the prevailing salaries here now are from $110 to $120 and a few at $130, mostly $110 and there seems to be a lot of men seeking positions at these ratings. Still for all that the "ring list" is in force, laying three men off per day and up to two weeks ago, putting on as fast as they came.

salaries are far above ours "over there."

The high cost of living still prevails here and just how they can figure out their expenses is a mystery.

Most everyone remains quiet, but they are all, to a man, seeking positions elsewhere, and should the business pick up to enable them to go elsewhere, in my opinion, there will be an awful exodus from here; at that should things pick up, as far as this company is concerned, they would be in a most deplorable position to man their first class wires, as mostly all their men, or the majority of them, are in class "D."

This forced idleness enables your correspondent ample time for spreading himself regularly and heralding to the fraternity at large, the exact situation here, and those contemplating a visit to the city where "life is worth living," take a pointer from this and stay away, as the slogan is utterly false. There's absolutely no encouragement to offer anyone to come here as they have the same answer for everyone now, "Nothing to offer" and there is absolutely no extra or waiting list here. There is not a minutes extra to be had by anyone, and things could not be worse. Business is stagnant and as to when it shall pick up is problematic and even then, the expense of living here far exceeds the income, and those that can are leaving daily as they find that it's next to impossible to exist at the present rate of salaries.

The opposition (the W. II.) haven't salaries.

The opposition (the W. U.) haven't touched salaries, as yet, nor are they hiring anyone. They have a surplus force and the management there holds out no encouragement whatever.

There are thousands walking the streets jobless and the city has inaugurated a "free kitchen" for the ex-service men and others. This, in itself, tells the whole story. Whatever you do, discourage every one of the idea of coming here in any pursuit. pursuit.

We are very sorry to chronicle the departure of Messrs "Pete" Casey and Galloway, who were two of the finest. Both have left for parts unknown.

There are a few others that have departed, but names are not available.

Kearney has gone to Saginaw, (To get something good to eat) and is looking for a position, but refuses to work in Detroit, where "life is worth living." We are all looking for the inventor of this slogan that Detroit has published broadcast and if found, well, you know what will happen. I am very sorry that in my last letter I overlooked two of our friends, Messrs. Eddle Orenstein, (Cashier) and Mr. Barl Stein, our assistant manager, who are both endeared to the fraternity, and just for the benefit of those who were members of our force once, we wish to state that Eddle has been recently married, so he's a fixture. Brother Hosey, Mount Carmel, is in the hospital with a broken arm. While details are lacking, it is reported that Hosey was mixed up in an auto accident. It is hoped Brother Hosey will soon be back with us. Brother Quigley, Pottsville, indignantly denies the rumor that the bug he uses is the one with which the news of the signing of the Declaration of Independence was flashed.

Our hats are off to Brother O'Boyle at "ST." He writes reams about the Wall Street explosion suspect, dashes off a story about the usual mine cave-in and at the same time copies the wire with never a break.

Brother Kilpatrick has been working a United News night wire in "NX" since a printer was installed at Pittsburgh. In his spare time he draws cartoons and judging from those we have seen, he will soon rival Bud Fisher.

If Ed Daugherty at "KP" learns to manipulate that "bug" he's playing with in the same manner he wiggles his hand, some of us fellows on the southwest circuit will more than likely be doing the "shimmy."

It seems there should be some way to eliminate the interval of time between a break from the extreme south end of our circuit and the time it reaches "KP." The other day "Pa" tried to break just before lunch. "Red" finished the story he was sending and had his lunch before "Pa's" break reached "KP."

The sentiment on the "KP" Southwest circuit is for a minimum equal to the Canadian Press scale.

"Buck" Hiner and Jack Bradshaw, "WB" and "SA," have something of mutual interest to discuss now whenever the wire isn't "25." They are in the "gump" raising business. Believe Jack's particular variety is "Rock Island Reds."

Brother Dale, at "SI." had a little hard luck in hidding in the proposed "LR" bureau. One of the boys with a little longer "fuz" on his tail outdistanced him. "Tuf luck. Dale."

It's a shame to do this but it has been said that the "wages of sin is death"—so the guilty must suffer the consequences of their iniquitous acts. It all started so quietly that no one quite knew what was underfoot until, with much thought and piecing of seemingly trivial circumstances together, a conclusion was forced. In the first place Tom Kelly wanted to learn telegraphy via the broker route thereby creating an impression amongst his associates that Tommy was fired by a mighty ambition. Of course Thomas already knew the alphabet well enough to hold down the Los Angeles bureau for the United Press, but the paltry remuneration was not such as to be satisfactory to one so young and handsome and—but wait. It seems that said brokers thought better of their offer to give Kelly a better paying position whereupen our red headed hero haughtily took himself back to his six year old job where he has remained quietly ever since—it was five months ago that all this took place.

Now, here is the rest of the plot. Thomas Now, nere is the rest of the plot. Indimas has been unusually jovial; always has a little silly grin on his face throughout the day; is never out of patience; sends fair stuff and—what is most convincing of his guilt—repeats line after line sublimely unconscious that he is of this world.

A New Novel by Upton Sinclair

100% A STORY OF A PATRIOT

Would you like to go behind the scenes and see the "invisible government" of your country saving you from the Bolsheviks and the Reds? Would you like to meet the secret agents and provocateurs of "Big Business," to know what they look like, how they talk and what they are doing to make the world safe for democracy? Several of these gentlemen have been haunting the home of Upton Sinclair during the past three years and he has had the idea of turning the tables and investigating the investigators. He has put one of them, Peter Gudge by name, into a book, together with Peter's ladyloves, and his wife, and his boss, and a whole group of his fellow-agents and their employers.

Peter Gudge is a red-blooded, 100% American, a "he-man" and no mollycoddle. He begins with the Mooney case, and goes through half a dozen big cases of which you have heard. His story is a fact-story of America from 1916 to 1920.

From Louis Untermeyer, Author of "Challenge," etc.:

"Upton Sinclair has done it again. He has loaded his Maxim (no silencer attached), taken careful aim, and—bang!—hit the bell plump in the center.

"First of all, '100%' is a story; a story full of suspense, drama, 'heart interest,' plots, counterplots, high life, low life, humor, hate and other passions—as thrilling as a W. S. Hart movie, as interest-crammed as (and a darned sight more truthful

WORTHY AIMS OF THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS UNION

The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America was organized, and is being maintained, for the promotion of the best social, economic and fraternal interests of commercial telegraphers.

Its membership considers it the only labor union capable of consistently representing the best interests of commercial telegraphers.

So believing, and basing such conviction upon its past achievements and need for future protection, it urges all telegraphers eligible for membership to investigate its record in the hope they will realize its merits and the advisability of becoming members of a labor union established for their special protection.

A FEW DON'TS

Don't condemn the labor movement because you know of "objectionable features." Every man and every human institution has some imperfections.

Don't "wait for others." Others are waiting for you. Some must be among the first—why not you?

Don't forget that the more bitterly the employer opposes labor unions, the more the employe should support them. There's a financial reason. Think it over.

Don't shirk the moral obligation to do all you can to uphold the dignity of our occupation—to elevate the standard of our living.

Don't be blind to your own interests; unionism helps all workingmen, all society, the home and state.

Don't let so-called "independence" prevent you from being unselfish. We are all dependent on someone or something. "No man stands alone." Let's get closer together.

Don't forget that bricklayers, plasterers, tinsmiths, stonecutters and in some places, hodcarriers, receive more pay then telegraphers, and don't forget the reason—strong organization.

Don't say "I got along without a union for 5 (or 55) years it is useless to me; unions can't accomplish their purpose." They do-Over seven million union men say so!

TEN WAYS TO KILL ANY ORGANIZATION

- 1. Don't come to the meetings.
- 2. But if you do-come late.
- 3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
- 4. If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and the members.
- 5. Never accept an office, it is easier to criticise than to do things.
- 6. Nevertheless, GET SORE, if you are not appointed on a committee, but if you are, do not attend the meetings.
- 7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. AFTER the meeting, tell everyone how things should be done.

- 8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary. When other members roll up their sleeves, and willingly and unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, howl that the organization is run by a clique.
- 9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay them at all.
- 10. Don't bother about getting new members. "Let George do it."

Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves far the higher consideration.

-Abraham Lincoln.

The National Transmitter

It's the Ora Machine That Satisfies Both Senders and Receivers.

In addition to our famous triple-spring vibrator, the 1921 model has a worm-spring lever controller that actuates the vibrating member so that no strain is felt in the sender's arm, thus preventing any injury to his nerves.

So confident are we that this model sends better signals and has a greater carrying capacity than any sending machine on the market, we will allow one week's trial before you are asked to buy it. Kindly write to-day for our booklet and free trial coupon.

TELEGRAPHERS SUCCESSFUL IN FIGHT AGAINST WAGE REDUCTIONS

Committees Representing Operators of Four Big Press Associations Victorious in Stiff Fight; Managements Withdrew Proposals Twenty Percent Wage Reductions, Abolition of Vacations. Contracts Signed.

Committees representing United Press, United News, International News Service and Universal Service telegraphers and automatic operators have successfully combated a twenty percent reduction in wages, elimination of vacations and scrapping of vital protective clauses proposed by the press managements.

After three weeks of sizzling negotiations in New York during the month of June, contracts have been signed which ensure press telegraphers the same wages and working conditions which have prevailed during the past year. The new agreements operate for a period of twelve months, expiring on June 30, 1922.

With Big Business waging a bitter campaign for indiscriminate and unjust reductions in wages throughout the country—and getting away with it—it has remained for organized telegraphers to make a last ditch fight. Final results of the battle put up by press committees this year will have a far-reaching effect in stabilizing wages and working conditions of Associated Press, broker operators and telegraphers employed in other branches of the telegraph craft in the United States and Canada who at present are not working under Union agreements. Employer and employe alike had their eyes on New York during the month of June.

The managements' first gun was fired on June seventeenth in the following document:

"The existing contract . . . was cancelled by the management because of economic conditions that have made a readjustment imperative. During the last six years, when the cost of living was constantly mounting,

Digitized by Google

we have at the end of each expiration of the contract period, met with your committees and agreed upon substantial increases in pay of operators. Conditions have now radically changed. A widespread business depression has set in. The most serious economic situation in our national history is now upon us and every business man knows that the worst of this depression has not arrived and that further liquidation must come.

"Statistics of the United States Department of Labor show that the exising contract beween us was agreed to at the very peak of the high living cost. Even before it went into effect, the trend of the cost of living was definitely established the other way. Since that time, the cost of living has rapidly descended and is still decending today.

"Because of these facts, it is now time that our contract with the operators' union meet the situation with a proper reduction in the wage scale.

"The (press organization) has demonstrated in the past years of its relationship with the union, its belief in the principle of collective bargaining through the agency of the Union. We are still of that belief. During this period, we have, against our best business judgment, submitted to demands of the Union, that we were convinced were opposed to the best interests of the men as well as the management. It is our desire to correct these situations in the interests of both. In the midst of this economic crisis, the end of which has not been reached and cannot be measured, the time has come when these matters must be readjusted to square with conditions as they are today and in some degree enable us to meet the situation as it develops during the coming months.

"We are ready to enter into a new contract with the Union under the following terms:

"In view of the certainty that business conditions must, of necessity, continue to grow worse, until the process of economic readjustment is completed, we desire that the new contract be made for an initial period of six months and shall thereafter renew iself for periods of thirty days, unless either party give thirty days written notice of its desire to cancel.

"THE WAGE SCALE NOW IN EFFECT TO BE REDUCED 20 PER CENT WITH CORRESPONDING REDUCTIONS FOR OVER-TIME.

"VACATIONS TO BE ELIMINATED.

"That the Union shall oblige itself to assume direct responsibility for fulfilling the ten day requirement as set forth in Clause five of the existing agreement.

"That the Union assume responsibility for supplying competent operators.
"That Clauses four and seven of the existing contract be eliminated."

In reply the Union presented a document containing some twelve thousand words substantiating its contention that the turning point in the period of business depression and liquidation has been reached and that ultra-pessimism of the managements on the business outlook was unfounded and certainly not agreed to by the country's most eminent authorities on such subjects. The Union also disagreed with the managements' contention that telegraphers were among those whose wages had kept pace with the constantly rising living costs since 1914. Even under existing conditions the standard of living of press telegraphers is much lower than in 1914.

Vacations were classed as a "thankless gratuity" by one of the press managers. The Union contended that vacations are a part of wages earned. For the managements to say that vacations were a thankless gratuity was to say that wages earned are a form of charity.

The new contracts appear in full in another section of this issue of the Journal.

AN AGREEMENT

Made this twenty-ninth day of June, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, at New York, N. any reasonable and necessary expense incident to such transfer, suspension, or discharge.

TENTH—In any difference of interpretation as to the rights of either party to this contract, the question or questions in dispute shall be submitted to arbitration, the decision of the arbitrators to be final and binding upon both parties. Arbitrators shall consist of one person selected by Universal Service, Inc., one person selected by Universal Service, Inc., one person selected by the Union, and a third person to be selected by the first-named two. Should the arbitrators for the contending parties fail to agree on the third arbitrator within three (3) days, the Board of Mediation of the Department of Labor of the Federal Government shall be requested to name the third arbitrator.

ELEVENTH—This agreement shall be in effect for one (1) year from July 1st, 1921, superseding all previous agreements, and shall thereafter renew itself for periods of one year unless either party shall notify the other in writing at least sixty (60) days before the end of said yearly period of its desire to terminate this agreement, except that:

In the event of failure to agree upon a new contract on or before June 30, 1922 (or any succeeding June 30 occurring under a renewal of this contract), this agreement shall continue in full effect for a period of thirty (30) days from July 1st, during which time the points in dispute shall be subjected to arbitration. Arbitrators shall consist of two persons, selected one by the Union and one by Universal Service, Inc. If the two persons thus selected fail to reach an agreement within forty-eight (48) hours, they shall select a third person, the majority to decide the points at issue. Should the representatives of the Union and Universal Service, Inc., fail to select a third arbitrator forty-eight (48) hours after having failed to agree on the points at issue, the third arbitrator shall be selected by the United States Department of Labor. The decision of the arbitrators having been announced, both parties bind themselves to accept or reject the award within five (5) days of its simultaneous announcement to the Union and to the Universal Service, Inc., management.

It is agreed that the award of the arbitrators, when accepted by both parties, shall be retroactive to the original date of expiration of this agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto affixed our hand and seal this 29th day of June, 1921.

STRUGGLES AT DENVER ARE PRECURSORS OF PROGRESS

Lively Contest for Presidency of A. F. L. Will Serve to Inject Some "Pep" Into Organization Affairs, Is Opinion of Returning C. T. U. A. Delegate

By JOHN B. ALCORN, President

Western Broker Division and C. T. U. A. Delegate to A. F. L. Convention.

Labor officials and delegates generally unite in expressing the opinion that considerable progress for the movement in general was made at the Denver convention of the American Federation of Labor, and that the lively contest for the presidency served to inject some needed pep that will be beneficial in the writing into concrete achievements the program adopted.

As is customary at these annual conventions, a number of vexatious jurisdictional disputes were left to the Executive Council for adjudication. The convention declined to concur in a resolution proposing reinstatement of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railroad Shop Laborers, comprising more than 200,000 members. This organization was suspended from the Federation in December, 1919, because it refused to turn over to the Carpenters' Union some 25,000 bridge builders and repair men who were organized for the first time by the railroad brotherhood. The matter was referred to the Executive Council with instructions to take the necessary steps to insure reinstatement of the brotherhood; that is, endeavor to reach a compromise agreement satisfactory to both organizations.

Some of the other principle jurisdictional squabbles referred for future action were those between the movie operators and the carpenters over the repairs to studios; between the Structural Iron Workers and Teamsters as to unloading of iron from wagons and trucks; the Steam and Operating Engineers and Chicago Fire Engineers, and the factional disputes among oil field workers.

Demand for government ownership and democratic control of the railroads and for equal rights for labor with capital in all organized industrial enterprises.

A.F.L. CONVENTION ENDORSES NORTH DAKOTA MOVEMENT

That the American Federation of Labor is solidly behind the government of North Dakota is emphasized by passage at Denver of the following resolution:

Resolution No. 71—By Delegates J. C. Kemp, A. W. Sherman, Jas. E. Root, P. J. Guerin, Brotherhood Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America; Fred Hewitt, H W. Brown, Wm. Schoenberg, C. W. WHEREAS, The State of North Dakota, Boiler Makers and Helpers:

WHEREAS, The State of North Dakota, through its duly elected representatives and by repeated referendum vote of its people, has officially recognized the rights of organized labor by the enactment of a series of labor laws, such as an anti-injunction law, best possible compensation act, union label on all state printing, union labor on all state building, rigid child labor law, excellent mine inspection law, minimum wags scale, eight hours for women, most liberal soldiers' loans of all the states, etc., the adoption of an industrial program which embodies the principles and will advance the interests of organized labor; and,

WHEREAS, In order to carry out these principles and this program, the state has issued its bonds, guaranteed by the faith and credit of the entire state (backed by more than $3,000,000,000 worth of material wealth) and upheld as valid by unanimous decision of the Supreme Court of the United States; and,

WHEREAS, The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor and the Executive Officers of the International Unions affiliated to the Federation and of the Railroad Brotherboods in conference assembled in the City of Washington and the State Federations of Labor of the States of North Dakots, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Missouri and Illinois, and various at long, as well as many central bodies, have endorsed the sale of the bonds of the bodies of organized labor affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to consider the investment of part of their available funds in these bonds, and to appoint committees to canvass the individual members of their respective organizations and to co-operate with other bodies of organized labor and in all ways possible assist organized labor and the organized farmers of North Dakota, through the Bank of North Dakota, in promoting the sale of these bonds; and, be it further RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be published in The Federationist and the American Federation of Labor News letter and sent to the labor press generally throughout the country; and, be it further sider the investment of part of their avail-generally throughout the country; and, be it further RESOLVED. That we urge upon the various affiliated bodies to see to it that this matter be given prominence in their respective journals, that speakers and literature upon the subject are secured for their conventions, to the end that all the forces of organized labor may be mobilized to complete the sale of these bonds promptly, thus demonstrating the unity and solidarity of labor and dealing a crushing rebuke to the financial autocracy that is seeking to defeat the will of the people of a sovereign state and thus destroy American liberties and the institutions of democracy.

Report of Committee

Inasmuch as the American Federation of Labor is not a financial institution your committee recommends that copies of this resolution be sent to all affiliated organizations for their favorable consideration in accordance with their laws.

LABOUR ORGANIZATION IN CANADA, 1920

The tenth annual report on Labour Organization in Canada, covering the year 1920, has been issued by the Department of Labour. In addition to the statistics furnished, the report contains much general information as to the activities of the organized labour bodies operating in Canada, as well as references to important labour events in other countries. The total trades union membership reported at the close of 1920 is 373,842, a slight decrease from the figures of December, 1919, when the total stood at 378,047, as comprised in 2,918 local branches, an increase of 71 over the branches of last year. Of the 2,918 branches in the Dominion, 2,455 are affiliates of International organizations, and between them they comprise 267,247 members, a gain over 1919 in this class of membership of 7,000 and in branches of 146; 259 local branches with 25,406 members are what are termed non-international bodies, these figures showing a loss of 66 branches and 7,966 members; 30 are independent units, a gain of one, the reported membership of 27 being 31,189, an increase of 22,911 for this group; the national and Catholic unions now number 124, a gain of 41, comprising a reported membership of 45,000, an increase of 10,000; the local units of the One Big Union which in 1919 were reported at 101, have decreased to 51, and the estimated membership is 5,000, a drop of 36,150. The membership of all classes of organized labor in Canada, as reported to the department for the past ten years, has been as follows:

A complete Trade Union Directory. As a directory of trade unions, the report is very complete, containing as it does particulars not only of every known local trade union in Canada, but also a list of all central organizations, together with the names and addresses of the chief executive officers for the year 1921.

Some men will not join a union because some union men have made mistakes. It is true that mistakes are made, most people who try to do things do make them; it is only those who do nothing who never make mistakes, or anything else for that matter.

ASSOCIATED PRESS ORGANIZATION FUND

(By Paul F. Schnur)

The total contributions to the A. P. Fund amount to $580.50.

June 1 ended the thirteen weeks originally intended to carry on this drive. As stated in the June Journal this time limit was extended to July 1 to enable those who had overlooked contributing to mail in their money. This additional thirty days brought in $57.50.

Some money is still outstanding and those who have not sent it in may still do so and it will be properly credited.

Now that the drive is officially over, we are confronted with the question: "How are we to organize the A. P. men on $580.50."

A salaried organizer making jumps from town to town would not accomplish much with such a small sum, even though he landed every man approached. It was expected by those who fostered the Circuit Club idea that considerable over a thousand dollars would be obtained. We fell far short of expectations and must necessarily do the best we can with the money on hand.

It is suggested by the writer that a vest pocket pamphlet containing all four Union press schedules be printed and mailed every A. P. and Independent Association telegrapher, together with a strong letter to the nons requesting their support of the movement which has brought up their wages.

After this is done, the writer's idea is to use the money in obtaining the support of various councils and central labor bodies in the different cities and towns and have them assist us materially in organizing these unwilling nons, by appointing committees to call on the A. P. men with a view to obtaining their applications. Union printers on the various papers will also be asked to help. Local pressure by outside influences should help a great deal.

Every man that has contributed to this fund wants to see it spent judiciously and where it will do the most good and the writer suggests that you mail in your ideas. Several heads are always better than one and you may have the solution. Let's try and get $580.50 worth of good out of this money.

UNITED PRESS COMMITTEE RETURNS WITH THE BACON

By T. W. Ingoldsby

(Western Committee van, U. P. Div. 47)

For the second time since negotiations with the press managements began, the three union committees have returned with everything the men instructed them to get. Committees in 1920 also got just what they went after.

I wonder if the rank and file of press operators know just who to thank for these achievements.

As a first-time member of United Press Committee I want to thank our international officers for the splendid work they did in backing up the three committees. Without their invaluable support it would have been impossible for us to gather the immense amount of comprehensive data they were able to furnish us on demand in regard to the cost of living, wages paid in other branches of industry and general economic conditions.

The presence of President Johnson in New York and the advice given by him while we were engaged in the "battle of Park Row" gave us all, I think, the backbone to fight it out to a finish with the management who had determined to slash our wages and take away our vacations.

I. N. S. BOYS EXPERIENCE GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELIN'

By Charles J. Seefred

(General Chairman, I. N. S. Division No. 61)

Among the "grand and glorious feelings" heretofore unrecorded is that experienced by the General Chairman returning home from the East and receiving a large batch of telegrams, letters and newspaper clippings from constituents all over the country expressing appreciation of services rendered in connection with the renewal of the Union Press scale for another year. Equal shares of the aforesaid "grand and glorious feeling" also fall to Brothers Bobby Wise and Tom Everett, committeemen, faithful and conscientious in any cause that squares with justice.

Additional gratification may rightfully be indulged because of the smooth co-operation of the three press committees, as well as the loyal backing of all the members while their explicit instructions were being carried out. A "Union scale," equitable to both workers and employers has been maintained.

But let's not overlook that masterful guiding hand and far-sighted generalissimo, our international president, Roscoe H. Johnson. No less wise in counsel than fearless on the field of battle in a righteous cause, our international president was on the job from start to finish—an inspiration and stimulus at all times—a mighty balance wheel to the joint committee sessions and, at the climax, a veritable savior.

On behalf of the members of Division No. 61 I desire to extend congratulations to the entire membership of the C. T. U. A. on the good fortune of having at the helm a sanely progressive, staunch and resourceful leader, Roscoe Johnson.

"PAT" KERRIGAN SAYS IT WITH FLOWERS

U. P. boys already have expressed their appreciation of the work of their committee—Messrs. Shea, Murchland and Ingoldsby.

Back of them—and of the other successful press committees in New York—stood the C. T. U. A. And we all know how hard you, the international officers, have worked on this job and at other tasks.

This letter, therefore, is to express the feeling I am sure must be entertained by all of us:

That we owe the international officers a vote of thanks for the work you have done and are doing.

Sincerely yours,

PAT KERRIGAN, United Press, St. Louis, Mo.

BROKER DIVISIONS SHOW REAL UNION SPIRIT By Chas. Shea

(General Chairman, United Press Division)

The United Press Committee has received so many telegrams and letters since the recent negotiations with the management that it is found necessary to resort to the columns of the Journal to get "clear" on replies.

Anyone who thinks the trip to New York and being "under the gun" for three weeks is a joy ride may have seven more guesses. I can say for the United Press Committee, as well as the other committees, that none of us even saw a picture show. All our time was taken up at the offices of the management and at the hotel, where midnight oil was burned regularly.

Realizing that the managements had organized against us—which was perfectly within their rights—the committees did likewise and elected President Johnson chairman of all committees. Permit me to say here that our international president, after learning of the instructions received from the individual members of the three divisions, acted throughout in an advisory capacity, and it was his advice to the three committees that enabled us to hold what we now receive. He did not dominate anybody, nor was he a rubber stamp, but he kept uppermost in our minds "last year's contract or nothing." I was never a very good patron of the florist, but had not Roscoe Johnson been in New York with the committees I fear there would have been a different tale to tell.

The Eastern Broker Division, with more than 700 members, and the Western Broker Division, with 600 members, had their hands on their check books and were ready and willing to finance the press divisions for a period of 60 days, in the event of trouble. Press men, I ask you to always remember this. Solidarity can move mountains.

As to the first demand of the United Press management for a 20 percent cut in wages and abolition of vacations, I will say that any employer is within his right in getting labor as cheaply as possible—the various cities and counties conduct charitable institutions, but they are not conducted by business corporations; neither do healthy and intelligent men seek charity. In my humble judgment it is up to the employees to make their services worthy of what they receive for them; it is up to the employees, as a unit, to secure for their labor what they think it is worth. Our labor is all we have to sell, and the only way that we can get anywhere near what we think it is worth is by unity of action.

We can cuss Mr. "Rottenfellow" and Mr. Gary and teach boss hatred till the cows come home, but it will get us nothing. Teach our fellows the strength and power of solidarity and cease losing time calling the boss vile names.

I trust that no member of Division 47 will engender any feeling against the United Press for their "first proposition" in the recent negotiations. I say candidly that I never met a set of officials who were as open and above board, cards-on-the-table gentlemen as the present officials of the United Press Association.

I urge the membership to give 100 percent service, pay your union dues promptly and, when the time comes for another committee to go in, make up your minds what you want, be in a position to show the management why you should get it, and, with Roscoe "holding you by the hand," the rest will be easy.

"LITTLE GENERAL" EXPRESSES SENTIMENTS OF I. N. S. MEMBERSHIP

St. Louis, Mo., July 8, 1921.

Mr. Paul F. Schnur.

The C. T. U. of A.,

113 S. Ashland Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Paul:

Please allow me to thank President Johnson and yourself for the great help extended to the Press Divisions during the last negotiations. I am sure that in sending these thanks I speak the hearts of every man and woman employed by the International News Service both in their Morse and Automatic telegraph departments.

We owe both thanks for the establishment of the $40.00 minimum in 1920 and the holding of it in 1921, to splendid leadership of yourself and President Johnson.

It is impossible for the members "at home" to fully understand and appreciate just what it means for an international officer to map out, advise and carry through plans, advising and conferring as he does, from early morning to late at night with the three divisions. For instance, I dare say that during the recent negotiations President Johnson was on the job from 8:30 a.m. until 1 and 2 o'clock the next morning—not one or two days a week but SEVEN DAYS a week, and for nearly three weeks at that.

All objectives sought in 1920 and 1921 were obtained and their obtainment was due to splendid work, and encouragement given to the committees representing the three divisions, by the international officers.

Again expressing the sincere thanks of the membership of I. N. S. Division 61.

I am.

Sincerely and fraternally,

R. F. WISE, Secy.-Treas., I. N. S. Div. 61, C. T. U. of A.

UPTON SINCLAIR CHALLENGES THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Upton Sinclair has written a letter to the Associated Press, saying that he has waited a month and two days for the publication of the report which the Associated Press at its convention in New York announced that it has prepared refuting charges of news distortion made in "The Brass Check."

Sinclair, in the letter, says:

"Long experience has taught me to be suspicious of the Associated Press, and I am now wondering whether this statement given out at the convention was merely a blind to enable the Associated Press to get by the flood of criticism and questions resulting from its failure to answer the challenge contained in "The Brass Check." My purpose in writing to you is to make clear to the Associated Press that it cannot get by with such a program. I intend to follow up this matter with all the resources of publicity at my command. I intend to advertise this challenge and, if necessary, I intend to file a libel suit against the Associated Press because of the announcement given out at the convention. It is assuredly both your right and your duty to investigate my charges and to answer them as best you can, but it is certainly not your right to advertise that you have collected 'a mass of evidence to refute Sinclair's charges,' and then to fail to produce the evidence. I consider that, in giving out such a statement, you have bound your-self not merely morally, but legally, to publish your answer, and I am in the field to make you do it."

SOLIDARITY OF PRESS DIVISIONS

(By Paul F. Schnur)

The wage scale for press telegraphers remains unchanged. Last year's contracts were renewed after a hard committee-management battle. The proposal of the managements called for a twenty percent reduction in the wage scale and abolition of vacations. Wages were not reduced and the vacations are intact.

The rank and file have sent messages of congratulation to their respective committeemen, feeling that a good fight had been waged and won. It is time the rank and file knew why their committees were able in 1920 to increase the minimum wage $7.50 per week, and in 1921 hold onto it. Divisional jealousy in past years served the purpose of the managements well. The I. N. S. man did not care what the U. P. man wanted or got, and vice versa. It was forgotten that all belonged to the same Union.

The Past two years have done more to weld press men into a common bond than the previous 10 years.

The committees of 1920 and 1921 were co-ordinated. They resolved themselves into a committee of the whole. It was realized that the interests of press men are identical. How much better it worked!

The writer has in mind a deplorable situation in New York several years ago which was in deep contrast with press negotiations of the past two years. This situation was brought about by the above-mentioned factional jealousy and would have been a mirth-provoker had it not been a tragedy.

Two press committees of the C. T. U. A. were in New York to negotiate a new contract. One committee was registered at an up-town hotel, the other downtown. Neither would have anything to do with the other—they claimed they had nothing in common!

Think of the progress in Unionism we have made. Our members in the press divisions are working together now and factional lines are no more. They are all out for the same goal—selling their collective labor for the highest price they can get.

Let the rank and file of the press divisions bear in mind that success is due to co-ordinated effort. The members of the various divisions must ever extend to each other the hand of solidarity.

Divided you get nothing; United—well the last two years have spoken for themselves.

HUMANITY'S SILLY BURDEN

You know that war costs like the dickens, but do you realize how much it costs? Well, out of every dollar of Uncle Sam's income last year, 93 cents went to pay obligations arising from recent and previous wars and for the current expenditures for the army and navy!

Because of wars, our government is costing fourteen times more than it ought to!

In ten years' time the money spent for past and future wars in the United States would build a $5,000 home for every family in America!

Yet, we break the heart of the first man in history who proposed to end wars forever, and we applaud the man who says we are going to have the best damned navy in the world!

GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO MEET

ADVANCE CONVENTION NOTICE

The General Assembly will meet in the city of Toronto, Ontario, commencing at 10 a. m., Monday, October 3rd, and continue in session from day to day thereafter until adjournment.

Composition

Art. V., Sec. 2.—The General Assembly shall be composed of the International Officers, the General Executive Board and duly accredited delegates from the subordinate units elected on a basis of representation as hereinafter provided, each of whom shall be entitled to a vote and voice on all matters coming before the General Assembly.

Representation

Art. VII., Sec. 1.—Each subordinate unit, except District Councils, chartered at least thirty days prior to the session of the General Assembly, shall be entitled to one delegate and to one additional delegate for each one hundred members or major fraction

Sec. 2.—District Councils with fifteen or more members directly attached thereto, and who do not come under the jurisdiction of any other subordinate unit, shall be entitled to representation on such membership on the same basis as other subordinate units.

Sec. 3.—The basis of representation shall be computed on the membership of the subordinate unit in good standing at the end of the dues period immediately preceding the session of the General Assembly.

Sec. 4.—No subordinate unit shall be entitled to representation in the General Assembly which is indebted to the General Assembly or which shall fail to file annual reports; provided, that this section may be suspended and the delegates of any subordinate unit be admitted if two-thirds of the members present vote in favor

Sec. 5.—Delegates to the General Assembly must be members of the Union in good standing and members of the subordinate unit which they represent. No member shall be eligible to election as delegate or as alternate until ninety days after admission to the subordinate unit, except in the organization of a new subordinae unit.

Sec. 6.—The prima facie evidence of the election of a delegate or alternate shall be a certificate or duplicate thereof signed and sealed by the International President and International Secretary-Treasurer of the Union.

Election of Delegates

Art. XXII., Sec. 9.—Delegates to the biennial convention shall be elected at the first regular meeting in August.

Delegates at Large

Art. VI., Sec. 3.—The officers of the General Assembly and member of the General Executive Board shall be delegates at large and it shall be their additional duty to place before the convention for consideration and disposition every proposition referred to them by subordinate units or individual members.

Sec. 4.—Delegates at large shall not be eligible to election as delegates from subordinate units. Matters submitted to the Annual Convention by subordinate units or members either directly or through delegates at large must be addressed to the General Assembly and not to a Committee thereof, and units or members shall supply three copies of all matter so submitted.

Amendments to Constitution

Art. VIII., Sec. 1.—All amendments, resolutions and communications submitted to the General Assembly shall be read, filed with the International Secreary-Treasurer for arrangement according to article and section number, and taken up seriatim by the convention.

Headquarters

The Prince George Hotel in all probability will be selected as the official headquarters for the convention.

The Convention City

Toronto, the capital city of the Province of Ontario, is located on the northern shore of Lake Ontario. It lies on a plateau, gradually ascending from the lake shore to a height of 220 feet, and covers an area of about thirty-two square miles. The Canadian National Exhibition, which is held in the fall of every year, is the largest permanent exhibition in the world. Toronto is the focus point of all the finest summer resorts in the Dominion. Transportation facilities, both rall and water, are unsurpassed. The Muskoka Lakes are but three and one-half hours' ride and the district is unequaled for scenic beauty. Niagara Falls is only forty miles away by boat. The famous Cobalt silver mines are one night's ride distant, and it is only a few hours' ride from Cobalt to the Porcupine gold fields.

Hotels and Rates

There are ninety-five standard hotels in Toronto, and in the downtown district are located five well equipped hotels. They are the Prince George, having a capacity of 200; Carls-Rite, 400; King Edward, 700; Queens, 400, and the Walker House, 450. Information regarding hotel rates will be furnished each delegate and published in the Journal.

COME TO THE CONVENTION

Everyone who can do so should come to the convention. Reports already at hand indicate that Toronto will be the Mecca of many telegraphers this year. The membership anticipates the largest gathering of our Union ever held. Its Committee on Arrangements will soon be hard at work preparing a program which will mix considerable pleasure for the visitors along with the business of the delegates. This committee will make its announcements from time to time through the Journal.

Remember the place—Toronto. The date—October 3rd.

CONSTITUTIONAL INTERPRETATION

International Headquarters has received a number of requests from subordinate units and individual members asking that a broader interpretation be put on Article VII, Sections 2 and 3 of the Constitution. This article deals with "Representation."

Section 2 of Article 7 means that any District Council desiring representation at the convention must have at least 15 members who are directly attached to the District Council and paying dues therein.

Section 3 means that the basis of representation shall be computed on the membership of the subordinate unit in good standing on August 31. For example: A subordinate unit having 751 paid-up members at the end of August would be entitled to nine delegates. Read carefully the excerpt from the Constitution on the preceding page.

VALUE OF BONA FIDE TRADES UNIONS

Under the heading of "Miscellany" in another section of this issue will be found an announcement that radio telegraphers of the United States have had their wages reduced 15 per cent, hours of service lengthened and working standards lowered.

You will pardon us if we call your attention to the fact that these radio men are not members of the C. T. U. A. Had they been members of our Union a different story might be told.

Compare the misery of these telegraphers with the Radio operators in Canada who are working under a C. T. U. A. contract. Compare their acceptance of wage reductions and lowered working standards with the recent resistance of unionized press telegraphers to any reduction in wages and lowering of working standards.

The answer? Why, one group must be in the wrong organization! The United Radio Telegraphers Association, which accepted the decrease is not a bona fide trades Union. In street parlance it is an organization without "guts," in other words, a lollypop "union." The men who were misguided enough to think that an outlaw "association" could help them in any way, now see their mistake. Prominent members of the "Association" are making overtures to the C. T. U. A. Will we take them in? Certainly we will. We have been in business 20 years to promote their interests and are always at their disposal.

Any member of the United Radio "Assassination" has our permission to write Brother F. Cuthbert Allen, General Chairman Marconi Wireless Division No. 59, Address Care City Marine Office, Foot of John St., Toronto, Ont. He will be glad to tell you what the C. T. U. A. did for Radio telegraphers in Canada.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF TRADES AND LABOUR CONGRESS OF CANADA CONVENES IN WINNIPEG AUGUST 22

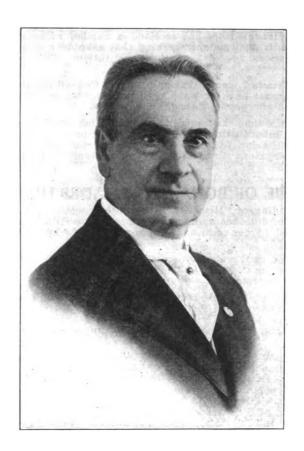

The Thirty-seventh Annual Session of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada will convene in the Convention Hall, Royal Alexandra Hotel, City of Winnipeg. Manitoba, beginning on Monday morning, August 22nd.

At no time has the situation facing the organized workers of Canada demanded closer attention than at present. The struggle of the workers to maintain their standard of living during these strenuous times of unemployment, high living costs, etc., has been taken advantage of by many employers throughout the Dominion to abrogate collective bargaining and introduce the open shop.

The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America and its Canadian membership is materially interested in the advancement of labour's program in the Dominion and we are prepared to fight shoulder to shoulder with our friends in the labour movement to resist any attempt by vicious interests to smother the Dominion's progressive program.

Brother E. J. Young, General Chairman, Canadian National Telegraphs Division 43, is the delegate of the C. T. U. A. and members in Canada, having progressive ideas and suggestions for introduction at Winnipeg may communicate with Brother Young at 2424 St. Urbain St., Montreal, P. Q.

WILL C. LONG

Brother Will C. Long, assistant editor of the O. R. T. Journal and former International President of the C. T. U. A., was paid a high compliment by the convention delegates assembled at Savannah, Ga., May 9 to 21.

Brother Long was praised for his splendid work and, in behalf of the organization, the committee on "Official Organ" in its report had this to say:

"This report would be incomplete without a few words of reference to Assistant Editor 'Daddy' Long, who has given us the benefit of his long years of experience and, in behalf of the Organization, we extend to him our appreciation of his work."

Brother Long is 77 years of age and has been associated with the labor movement for the past 60 years.

Despite his age, "Daddy" Long is a splendid example of health and activity, and the telegraphers of the country will undoubtedly have the benefit of his practical ideas for many years to come.

CHAPEL CHAIRMAN SYSTEM IN OPERATION

Secretary Hickey has completed installation of chapel chairmen as provided by our by-laws. This system is very efficient and your officers request that you carry out in full the duties prescribed on the reverse side of your commission.

Section 2, Article XI of the by-laws read:

"The duties of chapel or office chaplains shall consist of urging members of their units to keep in good standing; collecting dues, gathering news items relating to their units for submission to The Journal correspondent; ADVISING THE DISTRICT OFFICERS OF ACTUAL AND ANTICIPATED VACANCIES within their units, and furnishing the District officers (Secretary) with names, addresses, etc., of the telegraphers and order clerks within their units. In addition, such chapel chaplains shall receive and disseminate to the members within their units information given to them for such purposes by the District officers."

With all chapel chaplains functioning according to our by-laws, the telegraphers in the Street will have one of the most efficient organizations of all time.

Our employment figures reveal a very healthy organization and in order to keep it so it is the duty of every member to keep working. Remember, boys: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

NOTICE!

David Killoch — Communicate with George Killoch, No. 57 Murray street, New York City.

All Members of E. B. D.

Your organization has grown wonderfully, and figures from the Employment Bureau show what can be done with close co-operation. To this end we desire prompt payment of dues and close attention to duty by the various Chapel Chairmen. Observe the chart on the bulletin board at headquarters, showing our growth since January 1. Now all together, boys, for 100 per cent in the Street.

New York Curb Market Association, having erected a building on Greenwich street, has gone inside with the market. The new exchange is well equipped for handling large volumes of business and quick, accurate service. The curb ticker service, an innovation in this market, is proving satisfactory to broker and public with quotations of sales only as compared to the old way of quoting bid and asked prices. Our best wishes to the Curb Market Association.

Denver convention of the A. F. of L. has returned to office the grand old veteran, Samuel Gompers. This is as it should be. No swapping horses in midstream.

Brother B. F. Shrimpton was a welcome visitor at our regular meeting June 25. Welcome, Shrimp. Looks good to have you back again.

International President Johnson, accompanied by Chairmen Powers, Seefred and Shea of Universal, International News Service and United Press, respectively, together with their committeemen, also attended our regular meeting June 25, and made interesting talks to E. B. D. members. Bobby Wise and Norton were busy shaking hands with old friends, while Chairman Shea took advantage of the opportunity to contradict all reports that he is as old as Dick Scales.

The Key and E. B. D. members heartily congratulate the various committees and our tireless International President for their success in the recent negotiations, and we want to reiterate that we were, and are, backing you to the last penny in the bank roll. Well done, gentlemen. We know your brother members of the three press concerns are justly proud of you. We are.

To the Editor of the Key:

By direction of the committee, the following extracts from the minutes of the meetings of the New York District Committee of the E. B. D., held on June 16th and June 30th, are hereby submitted for publication in the Journal for the information of all concerned:

Brother Harry Norton, for conduct unbecoming a member of this organization, was reprimanded and instructed to appear at the next regular meeting of the New York District to offer an apology to the chairman and the members present.

Brother J. P. McCusker was suspended for a period of six months as of July 1st. 1921, and fined $25 for conduct unbecoming a member of this organization.

Brother J. J. Coyne was reprimanded for irregularities prejudicial to the best interests of the organization.

J. A. HICKEY, Secretary.

DEADLY COMPETITION!

Herewith from Young Ambition of Columbus, Ohio.

Chief Operator,

The ———, New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

With the closing of the university in a few weeks (June 10th) I am in a position to offer my services as a telegrapher with your concern. I expect to be in New York permanently.

I am proficient in the line of newspaper work, having a little experience with the same. Last summer I worked for the Postal Telegraph Co. on the New York-Philadelphia wire. However, if I can get a better offer with you I prefer your line of telegraphy.

Kindly let me know your best offer on a day trick.

If satisfactory, I shall let you know in my next communication exact date of going to work. I am,

Very truly yours,

(Poor fool!-Ed.)

Harris, Winthrop & Co.

On Friday, the thirteenth, the gang at Harris, Winthrop & Co. went to the New York Athletic Club at Travers Island, and had a blowout at the expense of the firm.

A ball game preceded the chow and dancing interrupted the courses. A good time was had by all; no scraps. There was a large visible supply of an amber-colored liquid which was encased in bottles. It could have been called by name "B. P.," but is out of order now.

Pynchen & Co.

Among the new arrivals that grace our wire room is Brother O. R. Ackerman, formerly of the United Press, and most recently connected with the engineering department of the New York Edison Co. "Ack" has the distinction of being an electrical engineer, having graduated from the University of Michigan.

Brother Joe Shea, formerly with Elmer H. Bright, our Boston correspondent, is manning our Montreal circuit.

Brother Nat Rosen, who distinguished himself on the Warsaw-Vienna circuit of the Hoover Food Administration, is now working our Hibbs wire.

Brother Jim Kennedy is back to his old love, quoting the market to one of the "powers that be" on our Lorette Penna.

Brother Bert Weir, prominent citizen of Hackensack, is holding down our first Chicago single.

Brother Jack Cronin, of the "Waldorf crowd," is still at the famous uptown hostelry, and has established quite a clientele.

Brothers Ben Rosen and Ora Ackerman are the batteries on the Chicago Duplex.

Gus Morris, our genial C. O., has returned from his vacation, having acquired a healthy coat of tan and looking as fresh as a daisy.

Karl Halley, our corpulent telegrapher, has departed for Cleveland in his powerful Chandler. The boys are laying 2 to 1 that "Hal" has at least two blowouts before he reaches his native soil.

We are informed through our Westchester correspondent that Joe Neubauer fell off the tool house of his country estate; Joe has been exceedingly bearish on "CPT" ever since.

Jones & Baker

"Jim" Campbell is back again, after a month's vacation, during which time he made an extensive automobile tour of the United States and Canada. Jim says he visited some interesting spots in Canada, including a number of cellars and other "pints" of interest.

Clyde Howell is now on vacation, and it is reported that he is utilizing his time on the golf links, putting himself in condtion to challenge the famous Wall Street golfer, Alexander the Great.

Bob King, the irresistible, is working our down-town wire with Brother Snodgrass on the other end. Bob keeps pretty busy, especially during lunch hours, with bulletins and stock gossip. Jack O'Connell, the tourist telegrapher, is with us during his stay "on the beach" for the summer.

Josh Jones is spending his vacation up in Lebanon, N. Y. Don't know whether Lebanon was affected by the prohibition act or not. However, Josh must have some motive.

"Jimmie" Ross starts next week on his vacation, which will be spent in Canada visiting the "old soaks at home."

Owing to the high cost of "bait" it's hard to say whether Duck is going fishing this year. Bait is $12 a quart n. b. here now.

Since the curb market moved into the new building, Brothers Campbell, Mefford and Truitt have been engaged on telephones, telegraph wires to the new building having been prohibited. From all accounts the 'phones are very slow.

Brother J. W. Booth, late of Pynchon's, is filling the vacancy caused by Sam Schwinger's leaving. He is paired off with Jim Ross on the Chicago duplex.

Chief Operator Lester L. Greene and Mrs. Greene spent the triple holiday upstate.

Dick Scales is trying to convince everybody that he is a much younger man than Chairman Shea accused him of being.

Paine, Webber & Co.

Jack McGovern is strutting around with his chest out. Reason: one eight-pound boy. But we all noticed the absence of the cigars. Well, baby clothes come high, eh, Jack?

Ed Campbell, with a lovely marcel wave, is a new arrival. He and Charlie Jennett make up the list of new arrivals.

Jack Woods, subbing for Johnny Moore on the floor, while John is enjoying the breezes of Asbury Park.

Arthur Demers is leaving us to go with Anderson Brown. We're going to miss Arthur, even if it is difficult at times to break him when he gets going on pinochle and checkers.

Jack Handlen returned from his vacation full of "wim and wigor," looks fine, but he's a handsome boy as 'tis.

Louie Scherzinger didn't cultivate his garden this year. He says he has an ungrateful bunch of neighbors.

To hear Charley Jennett tell it, Jesse Livermore and the big traders have nothing on him when it comes to compiling market statistics. Figures give us a headache, so we can't tell whether he's right or not, but he has a nice voice.

Harry Gilman, plus a plam beach suit and a nice pair of white shoes, is making the vacation reliefs. We go on record here as saying that Harry is the finest young old man we know.

Digitized by Google

Al Healey is pining away. He must have met the right lady while on his vacation. He gets that far away "three rooms and bath" look in his eyes, and we have it on excellent authority he has been pricing furniture.

Introducing Frank Miller, saxophone player. He has it very bad; tried to practice on Jack Wood's pipe.

"Ponzi" Considine and Schwartz haven't had a wordy tilt in two days. Either the heat or they must have run out of language.

Potter Bros. & Co.

With five of the boys already enrolled, another definitely committed, and two casual promises, though believe they will finally sign, we are in a fair way toward being solidly organized. However, one of our men is obstinate, but we are working with arguments and diplomacy.

Thomas L. Flood, our congenial chief operator, watches over his flock with consummate skill and care.

Brother Arthur Maudy covers our Wilmington circuit with the agility of a box-fighter.

Brother David Sims performs miracles on the Albany, Syracuse and Rochester string.

Brother George DetVeillers, who has been ill recently, sits patiently in these dull markets on Philadelphia.

Thomas Murphy, awaiting transfer into the E. B. D., makes the boys up Buffalo, Warren, Olean and Sunbury way step around.

Brother Charles Kayser is at present relieving William Elder on the St. Louis-Cincinnati-Pittsburgh wire.

Steve Scanlon makes the boys in Chicago step to the tune of good old Morse hand sending.

Rufus Failing handles Boston, Portland and Hartford.

Joe Mullaly sends and receives on the Wilson wire, Baltimore.

Philadelphia District

After six months' strenuous activities the Philadelphia District decided to held no meetings during July and August, but we shall be on hand in increased numbers and with renewed enthusiasm at our next meeting, the third Saturday in September.

Meanwhile, let those of us who have overlooked remitting our dues for the last semi-annual period do so at once, for we have assurances that Secretary Oeser is always in a receptive mood and will accommodate us with receipts and paid-up cards.

We now have an organization of which we may feel justly proud. Our membership has almost doubled since January 1. Everyone is working, and we are getting the support and co-operation which means even further progress. Let the good work continue!

Sam Long & Company are batting 100 per cent at West & Company, and doing splendid work all along the line of operations.

Brothers Mintzer, Ray and Collins, from Midvale Steel Company, have made recent changes. Mintzer is now with Chandler Brothers & Company; Collins is located with Biddle & Company, while Walter is bureau manager and operator for the I. N. S.

Recent departures from Chandler's include Dan McGarvey, now with Halle & Steiglitz; Herbert McNichol, who is enjoying the cool breeze at Atlantic City while working for H. L. Horton & Company, and George Stroman, who is with William H. McKenna & Company.

Morris Goddis, formerly with Halle & Steiglitz, is now operator, manager et al. for L. A. Gerson & Company. We predict further success for you, Morris, and certainly wish you well.

Brother Harry Kelly has gone to Allentown for Simon-Schaefer & Company, while Cornelius, his brother and our delegate-elect to the Toronto convention, continues to bat 1001 at Isaac J. Starr Jr. & Company.

Thomas Merrick is now located with Koontz & Company in his old home town, Pottsville.

Frank Lauria, the star catcher of Koontz & Company, is temporarily located at Easton for them. He reports the temperature there low, but good spirits high.

Koontz & Company now have offices in New York, Trenton, Wilmington, Easton, Pottsville, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, and every operator has a paid-up card in his wallet, and all willing workers for the cause. One hundred per cent unionism and 100 per cent efficiency. Brother Ruberg, our vice-chairman, is generalissimo in their Philadelphia office.

Brother Herman Lush is acting as bureau manager for the Ledger News Syndicate while Clayton is away. He's little but he's mighty.

Brother MacGrorty of the Ledger force, recognized among his friends as the genuine chess champion, is sojourning for a couple of weeks at the shore.

Robert English is now with Harrison Smith & Company, and from all reports will soon be a real bond broker. Bobby reports wonderful progress with his garden at his summer home in Jersey; but we hope he will have reaped his harvest ere the third Saturday in September.

Seen walking on Chestnut street was none other than Charley Eirich, with his ever-present smile. Nothing can ruffle Charley—not even a fall from the roof.

Some one asked who is the good-looking manager for Anderson Brown & Company.

Why, no less a personage than our good Brother Delaney.

Brother Harry Riskie has joined the sterling squad of Chief Goshorn's at E. D. Dier & Company. We can think of no other firm so fortunate as to have a better staff of hustlers.

Remember the next meeting, brothers the third Saturday in September, and let us start the last lap of our year with unusual interest, enthusiasm and numbers.

Pittsburgh District

R. H. MacMasters & Company, the well-known Consolidated house, are among the new firms to open offices in Pittsburgh. They have the finest office in the city. being located on the ground floor of the Benedum Trees building, next door to the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, on Fourth avenue, in the heart of the financial district. Brother Fred W. Brockschmidt has been appointed manager; Mr. George K. Askin, assistant manager; Brother R. C. Patterson, chief operator; Brother Frank H. Betz, on the floor; Brother Frank Dugan, marking the board; and Brother Ray H. Reichard, late order clerk for E. D. Dier & Company, has been appointed cashier. This should prove to be the correct combination, as this force of experts could hardly be improved upon.

Spaeth-Knight & Company, another well-known New York house, has opened spacious quarters in the Pittsburgh Life building. Brother S. P. Aubrey is the manager and Brother M. J. Dougherty, late of E. W. Wagner & Company, is his operator. Mr. C. L. McKnight, of the above firm, was a recent visitor to the Smoky City.

Brother "Jimmy" Dugan has relieved Brother Harry Davis at Koontz & Company, who in turn has relieved Brother Charles Miller at Winkelman's, the latter having left for New York to accept a position with the same firm.

Brother Brower has left Pittsburgh to accept a position with Howell & Wales in Detroit. Brother W. Thaw Morris just returned from Detroit, where he had been working "vacations."

Brother Moore, late of Jones & Baker, has accepted a position as order clerk with E. D. Dier & Company. Brother D. K. Stevenson is also a new arrival at E. D. Dier & Company, having lately arrived from Nashville, Tenn.

Brother Parker, formely with E. D. Dier & Company, at Butler, Pa., is now marking the board in Pittsburgh for the same firm. He was relieved at Butler by Brother "Bill" Stewart.

Boreau & Evans have installed a grain wire in their offices in the Union Arcade building. Brother "Jimmy" Hill is still connected with that firm as manager, being ably assisted by Brother Howard Miller. Their grain correspondent is Thomson-McKinnon & Co.

From present indications the annual ball and reception to be held at the Hotel Schenley September 23 is going to be the most elaborate affair ever attained by any organization connected with the telegraphic fraternity in the history of Pittsburgh. All members are on their toes and working hard, and if enthusiasm and cooperation amount to anything there can be but one result—a complete success.

Atlantic City Gleanings

The E. E. Delp Grain Company has acquired the old Logan & Bryan office in Atlantic City. Walter E. McNerney, formerly of Logan & Bryan, the A. E. F. and Hentz & Co., is the manager. Walter is making a great record for himself, both as a manager and as a Beau Brummel. Don't vamp all the gals on the boardwalk, Walt. He is ably assisted by Harry A. Leary and Eddie Cook, both Philadelphia boys.

Brother Adam Albert is still at Horton's chalking them up. We miss you, Adam, old boy. Let's hear from you once in a while.

Brother George L. Burt is summering at Miller & Company's, Atlantic City. George sure looks like ready money in his white fiannels. According to a late flash, George is studying astrology under Professor A. F. Seward, the noted Chicago "Zodiacer." George has been seen of late on Young's Pier explaining the effect of a full moon to a young lady. Attaboy, George; we are rooting for you.

PYNCHON & CO, NEW YORK BASEBALL TEAM

The crack team of Pynchon & Co., shown in the above cut, have not suffered a defeat this season and are declared to be one of the best baseball teams in New York's financial district.

Seated-O'Brien, McAfee and Griffith.

A GRAND PICNIC AND ENTERTAINMENT Your Full Support Asked

The Entertainment Committee, of which our eagle-eyed secretary is chairman, announces that, provided a suitable location can be had, a Grand Picnic and entertainment will be held Sunday, September 4th (the day before Labor Day).

Primarily, of course, the object of this outing will be the getting together of our membership for the purpose of enjoying themselves to the utmost in company with their families, but the committee hopes to make enough money to at least partly defray the expenses of our delegates to Toronto in October.

The Eastern Broker Division will hold a similar affair in August and from reports we receive, they already have assurances of making it a grand success, socially and financially. Not long ago the E. B. D. held a dance and entertainment at Hotel Pennsylvania, one of the grandest social functions in the history of telegraph operators, or any other organization, for that matter, and cleared something like $1500.00. We can at least approximate their success, but we need the hearty co-operation of every member in Chicago.

We also make an appeal to the wives of Chicago members to help us make this picnic a success. We know that when the ladies take a hand, failure is impossible. We know the wives of our members must be equally interested in every activity of this organization. It is the benefit wives and children receive from an organization such as ours that makes the struggle worth while, after all. Ladies, please help us! Either write us your willingness to assist, offering any suggestion you may have, or call headquarters, Wabash 1426. President Alcorn will be glad to take your message and turn it over to the Entertainment Committee.

We are also greatly interested in a location. Do you know of a good park we can secure? If so, please flash it to us at once.

The committee will make further announcements as soon as possible. In the meantime do what you can to assist them, by submitting your suggestions. It is requested that your suggestions be in writing, which greatly facilitates their handling.

SO THAT YOU MAY KNOW

We believe that the membership at large should be apprised at this time of a certain condition which threatens to culminate into trouble between a large La Salle Street wire house and their telegraphers in Chicago, as well as in Kansas City and St. Louis.

In keeping with our policy of doing our utmost to avert trouble, your officers have been doing everything possible to adjust all grievances satisfactory to all concerned, but up to the present writing little progress has been made.

The trouble began when the firm's operators at Kansas City were informed, upon making application for vacation relief, that they would be relieved—"AT YOUR EXPENSE." The men immediately took the matter up with President Alcorn, demanding some immediate action. The Chicago men were called for a meeting upon receipt of this grievance and asked their views. Unanimously the sentiment was expressed that steps be taken to protect the interests of their Kansas City brothers. During the course of discussion it also developed that Chicago operators, numbering about 20, were working under rather poor conditions. Long hours, low pay, practically no relief period of any kind, no lunch relief at all and when in cases of absolute necessity, relief was had, the man relieved was always admonished to "make it snappy." The Chicago men at this meeting, demanded that while we were taking up one grievance, we might as well lay all grievances before the head of the firm, whom we felt did not know the true conditions, or at least had not given them serious consideration.

Prior to the alleged refusal to grant vacations at Kansas City, although vacations were at the time being made in Chicago and St. Louis, the Kansas City men were notified that their salaries would be reduced $17.00 per month immediately. The men unanimously agreed that their salaries were low enough and that rents, etc., were still climbing, therefore they could not accept such a reduction. The chief operator was advised that unless this order was rescinded, they would feel free to quit work the following morning. The order was rescinded and a conference was had with the head of the firm a few days later, upon his visit to Kansas City. The refusal to grant vacations followed a short while later.

In compliance with the request of the Kansas City men, coupled with that of the Chicago men, President Alcorn asked for and received an appointment with the head of the firm. Brother Alcorn was courteously received and was assured that there was no intention on the part of the firm to deprive Kansas City men of their vacations, but that, as understood, the men in Kansas City wanted to be relieved sooner than proper arrangements could be made, therefore he instructed the chief operator there to grant their request, provided suitable relief was available, but at their own expense. He was positive in his statement that he intended to make vacation reliefs in Kansas City, as usual. As to the matter of remedying conditions in Chicago, he informed President Alcorn that he would have to take that up at length with his Chicago Chief operator. This statement was reasonable, as we certainly would not expect him to decide then and there to remedy so many grievances without giving it some consideration from a business standpoint.

Shortly after President Alcorn's conference with the head of the firm, a notice was posted in the Kansas City office, informing the men that vacations would be made as soon as arrangements for that purpose could be completed.

as soon as arrangements for that purpose could be completed.

Up to the present writing, vacations have not started in Kansas City, and the head of the firm has not stated what he intends to do with reference to conditions in Chicago. The Kansas City chapel has laid before the chief operator a letter, requesting that vacation reliefs be made within a reasonable time and that, in-as-much as they have been so uncertain about the vacations, no preparation in advance has been possible. It was pointed out that some of them desired to arrange their vacations at least a short while ahead, so that other members of the family could be met in family reunions. etc. It was also pointed out that now during the extreme summer heat was the time they most desired a relief and not in the fall, when their friends and members of their family were through with their vacations, depriving them of much pleasure and satisfaction. They informed the chief operator that a competent man, a former employe in good standing of the Kansas City office, was available to make the reliefs. The chief operator promised to take this up with Chicago, but to that request there has not been any reply either.

We have almost exhausted all patience in dealing with this situation and we are convinced that our stand is just.

In case of trouble, of course it would require a certain amount of money to finance the proposition. Your officers would at this time like very much to know the sentiment of the entire membership. We feel confident that all members want to see the rights of their oppressed brothers protected and will so express themselves in a moral and financial way, but your officers want to know your sentiments first hand.

Please write President Alcorn immediately your sentiment and what your brothers employed by this firm can expect from the entire membership. Their fight would be your fight. The bettering of conditions in one place reflects on the entire division. It is high time broker telegraphers threw off their shackles and proved to the world that they are united in demanding their just rights. We must exert every ounce of energy and every cent of money available to make the broker field safe for the highest skilled workmen in that field—THE BROKER TELEGRAPHERS.

What is your sentiment?

ACQUAINTANCES WORTH WHILE

Some time ago President Alcorn, returning from Kansas City to Chicago made the acquaintance of a grand little union official—Billy Neiman, Secretary-Treasurer of the Chicago Division of the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors. After learning with amazement the wonderful progress made in the last few years by this little organisation and listening with pleasure to the enthusiastic little secretary, he requested to be placed on the mailing list for the Order's Journal, promising to reciprocate with our Journal.

A better trade was never made by Alcorn. We now look forward with keen expectation to the receipt of this splendid little organ. The July copy, just received, is a masterpiece in harmony. Perfect organization, brotherly love, and confidence in the righteousness of their cause is evident in every article. Any union official, or union member would do well to read this splendid publication from beginning to end. Doing so will make him a better and wiser man.

Since meeting Brother Neiman, Alcorn had the pleasure of meeting other members of this organization, in fact he always makes it his business to get acquainted and with one exception, he has found them all of the Neiman kind. The last one he had the pleasure of meeting was President Bourke, of the same division, which made his recent trip to Denver worth while. The exception above referred to was a man attached to the less than 2 per cent "company plan organization." He was one of these natural born crabs; sore at the world.

DO NOT DELAY YOUR MOST SOLEMN DUTY!

The C. T. U. A. press divisions have just returned from New York with the old contracts renewed, although the press managements had announced in no uncertain terms their desire to inflict a severe reduction. We have an organization that we can well look to with pride.

The Western Broker Division has successfully resisted three different attempts to not only reduce salaries, but lower working conditions. We must continue to do so. We have secured employment for many of our members, in many cases bettering their condition. We must continue to function efficiently in this manner.

It takes money to operate the organization. You pay semi-annual and annual dues for this purpose. The time for paying your dues for the half of 1921 is here. Do not postpone this duty one minute. Your obligation to yourself and to your family, as well as to your fellow workers should not be subordinated to other lesser demands upon your earnings, or savings.

The dues are coming in very nicely and we are by no means disappointed, but a reminder to you who have not given this very important matter a thought is in order.

PAY YOUR DUES NOW!

$12.00 for Chicago members and $10.00 for those working outside of Chicago.

ALCORN AT DENVER CONVENTION

International President Johnson, being unable to attend, on account of the press negotiations in New York, I was appointed by him to represent the C. T. U. A. at the 41st annual convention of the American Federation of Labor at Denver.

I attended every session during the two weeks the convention was in progress, except one-half day, which was used in holding a meeting of broker telegraphers for the purpose of forming a sub-division of the Western Broker Division. This was done.

of the Western Broker Division. This was done.

There were two resolutions, introduced by other delegates that I considered might affect us. One was a resolution condemning the Hearst newspapers for an alleged misrepresentation of a meeting on June 5th of the Chicago Federation of Labor, the story of which was carried in the Chicago Herald-Examiner. I appeared before the Resolutions Committee twice. My reason for taking a stand against such a resolution was this: There was no conclusive proof ever offered to show that the Herald-Examiner had misrepresented the above mentioned meeting, in which the newspaper alleges utterances against President Compers such as "throw him out" were made. I contended that even if the newspaper had misrepresented the meeting to that extent, their offense was against President Gompers and not against the American Labor Movement. I contended that if the American Federation of Labor desired to express their contempt for a newspaper, or a chain of newspapers for misrepresenting a meeting, then it was unfair to choose the Hearst chain of newspapers and say nothing about the hundreds of others, who are continually poisoning the minds of the public against Union Labor. Newspapers the country over, especially in the last few months prior to the convention and right up to the day of the convention, have championed the cause of the "open shop" and the "American plan," notably among them the Denver Post—in the city the convention was being field—and which was giving the news of the convention, one of the most important held in the United States, only passing notice. If the American Federation of Labor would express its condemnation for newspapers who misrepresent, not a certain meeting, but the labor movement itself, day after day, the Hearst Newspapers would be only an insignificant part. The fact that we have contracts with the I. N. S. and the Universal Service, both Hearst enterprises, did not prompt me altogether in the stand I took, as I do not consider that a union loses its right to condemn or in any other way assert its rights when attacked, simply because the one attacking has seen fit to do business with us in former years and still continues to. There was simply a sense of fairness involved. I could not see the fairness of taking one bird of the flock and attempt to clothe him in the plumage of a bussard, while the other birds, who are equally and more vicious, go strutting their way.

The next resolution was a slap at the High Coat of Living, which in itself was good, but it wound up in RESOLVE by condemning "future trading." I immediately got busy, both in committee and among the delegates in an effort to have that portion stricken out. The trouble as I found it, is that the minds of most delegates, who as a rule are officials of unions, are prejudiced against "future trading," but do not really know why. As I have contended before, it will take education, which can only be done by presenting the true facts about "future trading" to the public. This must be done by the various exchanges and the Broker Divisions of the C. T. U. A.

In the election of officers, I voted for

C. T. U. A. In the election of officers, I voted for Samuel Gompers and all the former vicepresidents.

JOHN B. ALCORN.

ORGANIZATION
(W. L. Bivin)

Webster defines Organize, as to arrange; formulate, and Organizations, as state of being organized; that which is organized; I sometimes think of the word as a governor, which he defines as a regulator, or contrivance for maintaining uniform velocity with a variation.

cruor, which he delines as a regulator, or contrivance for maintaining uniform velocity with a varying resistance.

When Nature establishes herself in any way she never falls to provide a law to govern that condition, and to warn of approaching danger, for instance, if the elbow is crooked too often where the "Moonshine" flows, nature generally paralyzes the arm before we can lap up enough poison to stop the heart action.

Now nature did not build cities, factories, or any of the big business institutions. There we find an artificial condition and one that has been created by man, therefore it is up to man to find the governor, that controls this artificial condition, so as to keep it regulated and maintaining a uniform velocity with a varying resistance. This governor which man applies to all business is known as organization.

organization.
When the books of a business show they are not getting the proper results, which enables them to take care of overhead, inenables them to take care of overnead, interest on bonded debt, regular dividends, and general expenditures, what happens? Organization is brought about. The Sales force is prodded into greater action; the manager is told to cut down production cost, and so on down the line any method may be adopted, so as to bring desired results, from the boosting of prices to the may be adopted, so as to bring desired the slashing of wages.

No matter what forces are brought to bear, to gain the desired end, forces of all kinds follow the lines of least resistance, just as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, therefore labor, the backbone of these business institutions in order to hold what it gained during the war and the cost 10 per cent plus period, must fight fire with fire and organize. Organization is a wonderful thing, every man has loads and loads of information and data, some of which he is unable to use simply because it is not properly organized. A ball team goes out and wins a flag for no other reason than that they are organized and each is pulling with all his might for that organization. An Ora-tor organizes his data and his facts and information before he sets a foot upon the platform and he is enabled to hold his tor organizes his data and his facts and information before he sets a foot upon the platform and he is enabled to hold his hearers spellbound.

Newspapers every day have been showing pictures of Jack Dempsey clad in heavy sweaters, running on the road, or throwing the medicine ball in the "Gym," he was organising a fighting machine with which he kept the championship in America, where it belongs. Organization is all about us; it is either for or against us, let us throw our life's forces in with that which is for us.

An Army is a highly organized fighting machine, acting under the commands of a leader. Can you imagine a soldier saying to the Captain, "You take the boys over the top, and if I see you are doing your country any good, I'll join you later, I'm for you strong"? I'll say you can't imagine anything like that. Well one of these days we will have to go over the top. Our commander will flash the word to the Captains and when we reach the zero hour, we want no delinquents waiting for a brighter day to make an attack. We want a 100 per cent organization each man equipped with an "up-to-date" and willing to follow our leader through "No man's land" with all its shell holes, entanglements, machine gun nests, entering and capturing the enemy's stronghold.

To do this we must have organization, equipped with "up-to-date" and drilled according to a manual of square dealing. Is the man next to you for or against you' Is the man on the other end of the wire equipped with the pass? Watch him, help him, educate him. Organize!

THE MISSING LINK

It is an interesting fact that most of the leading wire houses of today are congratulating their respective selves upon the splendid and efficient organization they gratulating their respective selves upon the splendid and efficient organization they maintain. To the lay observer all is perfection. To the business partner all is well, the modern equipment, the intricate ticker machines, the comptometers, the maze of private offices, each with its handy push button, and everything seemingly is so complete. And yet there lurks about the inner circles of the house a mystery unsolved. To the business head of the firm it is as a thorn in his side though not openly acknowledged as such. It is the wire room. But let us not give affront to our best friend, the Chief Operator. The Chief Operator in a wire house is a sorely tried man. He is a man of many responsibilities, some of which are not justly his. Like the Operator undernim he goes to his daily task with vague misgivings—a mind burdened with problems—problems that should not exist. It is the uncertainty of policy in action.

When the active head of a firm calls to his private office the manager of the wire room and confides to him a certain plan, whether practical or not, the Chief Opera-his private office the manager of the wire room and confides to him a certain plan, whether practical or not, the Chief Operator in most cases knows within his own mind that the plan must be carried out. It may be the installation of a new circuit, with various drops, all of which perchance may require a different line up. But the Chief Operator has his instructions, and he in turn instructs the Operator under him, often times with such a degree of caution that the policy of the firm is misinterpreted to the man at the key. Matters may be twisted, but the Operator goes blindly at his task.

How many of us at different times have been instructed to start up a wire—to give been instructed to start up a wire—to give 'em everything—and then when something went wrong, something that we knew absolutely nothing about, we were pulled off the wire. Had we been given a congenial tip on the line-up things would have been different. At least we would not suffer the humiliation of having been "lifted" and relegated to some wire of less importance tance. In the average wire house a telegrapher as a rule follows up and does what he is merely instructed to do. At times he does not use the initiative he might use. At other times he is censured for having taken matters "into his own hands." But at all times, the spectre of fear and doubt looms up before him. It is the fear of unintentional affront to his superiors. And right here we can justly coin an old phrase and put it to our own use—It is "The Missing Link!"

The link between the author of the plan and the one who puts the plan into effect.

effect.

The much used word "relativity" can be applied to the present methods of the wire house, notably the managerial attitude to the wire room. It seems that because within a decade there has developed a few remote cases of where an operator has betrayed the confidence of his firm, the others of his craft are to remain forever in suspicion, a subject of doubt and contempt. It has got to the point these days where you can scarcely point out an operator who is not trying with all his might to get out of the business. Is it because he feels that he can better himself? Is it because he feels that he is not treated Is it because he fels that he is not treated

Is it because he fels that he is not treated by his superiors as an intelligent man should be treated? Or is it because he really feels that he is too good to remain in such a degrading line of work?

When the "missing link" is eliminated; when there is more in common between the executive head of the firm and the Operator, with of course the chief operator as a trusting medium, then there will exist within a chain of co-operation that the monster of uncertainty and misunderstanding cannot budge. The operator canot, and will not go on remaining as he standing cannot budge. The operator cannot, and will not go on remaining as he does, though unconscious of the fact, a psychologist—one who analyzes the phenomena of varying states of the human mind. But this is part of his job. And if he happens to "guess" wrong, being "fired" too, is part of his status. This is a condition of affairs that no respectable institution will knowingly tolerate.

The "missing link" is costing our wire houses many a dollar each and every day. It is the invisible enemy of efficiency.

The Western Broker Division has decided to purchase a plot in Arlington Cemetery, just to the west of the city. In this beautiful spot various fraternal organisations, such as the Masons, the Woodmen of the World, and others, have their burial grounds. ### JOTTINGS

Personally, we think it is sad enough to live with the brand of NON or Delin-quent stamped on our forehead, but to think of going to our grave in such a condition, must, in our estimation, be a horrible nightmare.

There is a movement on foot to form "The Non and Delinquent Broker Telegraphers' Sympathy Club." A certain wire house has promised them a "closed shop."

Brothers M. E. Arnold, Arkon, Ohio. and "Cy" Warner, Chicago were the first to pay their last half 1921 dues. That's the spirit that is bound to make us succeed.

Cleveland Sub-Division No. 10 is no longer the "baby." Denver Sub-Division with 18 enthusiastic W. B. D. Champions is the latest arrival into our already substantial family. This youngster has all the earmarks of becoming a robust young man, according to Dr. Alcorn, who brought man, according to Dr. Alcorn, who brought No. 11 into being on his recent Denver trip.

ALL MEMBERS:

ALL MEMBERS:

Please stamp this request indélibly upon your mind: Immediately upon hearing of a job being open, notify your Sub-Division chairman, or chapel chairman. He in turn will try and fill the job with a worthy brother in his district, or having no men available, will wire President Alcora so that he may fill it. Division headquarters has at all times names on file of brothers who are either out of work or desire a change. Headquarters also, in line with our policy of co-operation, always passes the tip on to the Eastern or New England Divisions, if the job open is in or near their territory. In this way we will not only be readering service to our brother members, but unionising the jobs.

ALL MEMBERS:

In order to increase our service to the membership, as well as to employers, a "jobs open" mailing list is being prepared. All members wishing to be placed on this mailing list will please signify their wish at once.

Give the following information:

Present salary (this is essential and will be held in strictest confidence).

Unless you are really desirous of making a change, please do not send your name, as this service will entail a great deal of work to us.

SQUIRREL FOOD

Firms desiring to squirrelize their wire room will receive our whole hearted assistance. We will secure jobs for our men in other houses (generally at better salary) and make room for more "recruits." When the "recruits" learn the "recruits." When the "recruits" learn the business we will organize them and place them in other jobs, this making room for more, so forth and so forth. We take it that a firm who makes working conditions so intolerable for their experienced men, that they are finally driven to the point of quitting on short notice, must derive untold joy in watching a continuous stream of inexperienced men come and derive untold joy in watching a continuous stream of inexperienced men come and go and the extreme delight in reading errors on the tell tale must be the culmination of a perfect day. Therefore, in keeping with our policy of co-operating with the employers, we will do what we can to keep this stream of would-be broker telegraphers flowing freely to firms desiring it.

LABOR-BAITING CHIEF

Strange as it may seem, experience proves to us that the majority of telegraphers whom good fortune has smiled upon to the extent of placing them in positions of authority, are the most ruthless. domineering, malicious. labor baiting employers we have to contend with. A first class broker telegrapher is the most skilled piece of mechanism in a broker office; he is absolutely as vital to a wire house as a nerve system is to a human being and no one knows this better than the employer himself. Broker telegraphers themselves are slowly but surely coming to realize their importance and we here and now predict that the time when a broker telegrapher may be treated like a poodle-dog is rapidly disappearing. They, like their newspaper brothers, have formed and are still perfecting an organization that will ever stand for their just rights.

and writes R-E-D in the original. In any say so.

Annual vacations, as called for in Clause of our agreement, are in full swing, Bro. Carl O'Brien started them, followed by Bro. Benson, who spent his two weeks down-state and around St. Louis. Bro. Browner is now away. Understand Bro. Baldwin goes next, then Bro. Goodale who is planning a trip up into Minnesota. Give us the dope on the Black rust when you get there, "Red." Bro. Gibson probably will spend his two weeks seeing the country in his 4D.

Bro. Benson appealed to the boys in the country and in "X" office, too, to pay up their dues early so that we could all start the second half right with our new cards. The response to that appeal has been most gratifying to your Division as well as International officers. It is proof to them and to the membership at large that the moral and financial aid extended us during the strike was appreciated.

Among the first on hand to pay their dues was Bro. Baldwin. "Baldy" has reached the proverblal "Three Score years" and furnished a striking example of loyality to the cause. Live up to that example, boys, and you'll never go wrong.

Any time any of you want to be away, or are figuring on making a change, or hear of a job that is open, let the man on the Chicago end know and he will get in touch with union headquarters and see that a CAPABLE UNION MAN gets the job. Annual vacations, as called for in Clause

Of course all of you have read over the Lowitz agreement, but did it ever occur to you that Clause 8. reading "IT IS AGREED THAT TELEGRAPHERS WILL NOT BE DISCRIMINATED AGAINST BECAUSE OF THEIR AFFILIATIONS WITH THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION OF AMERICA" was the strongest argument that you could possibly use on the nons and delinquents? "Bob" Buckley has joined the Faithful and Obedient Order of Renedicts. Brother Buckley and Miss Lillian LeBounte, of Chicago, were united in wedlock Saturday, May 21. After the ceremony a big reception was held at the home of the bride and the young couple were the recipients of dozens of gifts. Our heartiest congratulations and best wishes to you, Bob and Mrs. Bob. Kankakee will be the future home of the happy couple, where Brother Buckley is employed by E. W.

Claude Reiter, recently from the Postal, and A. V. Jordan, lately of Bache's, are working on the vacation reliefs.

The stork delivered a fine baby girl to Harry Lynch's home and we all rise to congratulate our worthy chairman of the board.

Brother Thomas D. Smith, employed by E. W. Wagner and Co., at Lexington, Ky., for the past 2 years, was suddenly taken ill Monday, May 9th, and passed away Wednesday, May 11. He was 59 years old and is survived by a widow and daughter.

Tom was a member of long standing in the C. T. U. A. and a splendid union man. To the widow and daughter, we extend our most sincere sympathy.

By the Way

The late Andrew Carnegie, of steel fame, was once asked the question: "Which is the most important, Capital, Brains, or Labor?" He made reply, in his canny manner, with a twinkle in his eye: "Which is the most important leg of a three-legged stool?"

This is about the situation in a nutshell, as applied to us Humans. We are all necessary to one another, and the sooner we eliminate the individual ego that a large percentage of us are unfortunately handicapped with, the quicker we will attain to the receptive quality which permits us to sit back and listen to the other fellow's views with attention, giving them the same consideration that we give our own.

Only in this way, can we ever hope to make better strides in the right direction. Let us all have a due regard for the other fellow's opinion, weigh it from his viewpoint, as well as from our own; and then only, are we in any way safe in coming to conclusions. This would indeed be a better and more cheerful planet if we would all get together and act from this standpoint and I am sure that Capital. Brains and Labor would then realize that each is as necessary to the other, as each leg of the three-legged stool.

Retrospection

Retrospection

Say pal, I was just a thinkin'
Things don't look good, you see,
I've been a hangin' round the block
And the world looks cold to me.
What's happened to the old familiar bunch
That I used to know?
The gang that used to pester me
So much on where to go?
Where are the old familiar fans,
That used to romp and lark;
I mean the gang, that used to hang
At dear old "Mao's" on Clark!
What's happened to the welcome call:
"Come, boys, have one on me";
The call that used to warm the heart,
And make us all agree! "Come, boys, have one on me";
The call that used to warm the heart,
And make us all agree!
Where are they all, and what's the "call!"
Can't some "Op" put me wise!
It seems to me they're minhty scarce.
Those old time regular guys.
I ran across an "OP" and asked
If he could put me wise;
And here, appended down below,
Are some of his replies:
"The boys that you lament,
Of the days that you bewail;
The old time bunch with temperament,
And foot upon the rail;
Ah! me 'its sad and yet 'its true.
They're scattered far and wide.
And few, if any faces,
Are met with on the side.
A few have sines at the Postal,
A few at the W. U.
Some have foined the A. W. E.
And some the C. T. U.
Many have hit the long, long trail
Away from beer and wine.
But its mighty sure, where're they go
They'll always get a "sine."
A few have foined the W. B. D.,
An outfit good and true;
An example, which if followed,
Would mean a lot to you. And so I drew a card, And the boys are mighty good to me; Can't you do likewise, Pard? -A World-Beater.

MILWAUKEE SUB-DIVISION

Regular meeting Milwaukee sub-division scheduled for June 28, was not held account special meeting of June 10.

We regret to chronicle the fact that our worthy Chairman W. J. MacMahon, was overcome by the heat and has been confined to his bed for several days. The boys were out to see Bill today and are keeping him in touch with everything of integest.

Bro. George Wells recently on the order wire at Wagner's Is now on the big "bode" and says they can't come fast enuf for

Some of the boys will be up against it for vacation this year due to the fact that the available supply of relief operators is nil.

MacMasters & Co., the first house to start vacations here was fortunate in se-curing the services of Frank Clark of Chicago. And anyone who knows Frank knows that it is a piece of luck to get him.

Bro. Jim Partington is vacationing at his summer home at Pine Lake, and Oh. boy, how them Black Bass are bitin'.

E. D. Dier & Co. will soon be located in their new quarters with a full lineup of C. T. U. A.

Secretary John Könzal over at Pynchon's recently made a big killing on the market and is now sporting a new Roamer. Might give us a ride, Jawn.

Nic Blau has a permanent marcel wave in his gray dome, but that's what they like Nic. Nic says that all helps his Pinochle. Honorable Brother William Jennings Bryan Delaney on the grain board at Wagner's (silver tongued orator of West Allis) has recently been elected superintendent of schools of West Allis, and is favorably spoken of as next mayor of that "village."

Bro. Tofte and Busse of Paine Webber, are killing their spare moments substituting as life guards at McKinley beach. Oh. you girls!

Jack Murphy, MacMasters, (no relation to big Tim, almost had 20 bucks, but he didn't step hard enough on Chambers' foot.

"Ready Money Pampel," Our genial little cashier over at MacMasters & Co., asks: If you bought a cow for $5 could you call that a good "Moo-V"? (movie). Gvelt. Chambers says he can CEDAR LAKE from his home in Slingerville.

Geo. Wells insists that everything has been reduced but his confounded waist line.

Brother Al Olsen at the Wisconsin Trust is learning the horse-shoeing busi-ness—he's champion horseshoe thrower at White Fish Bay.

Edward Lucifer Lucas says "Buy stocks short."

William John Hugh MacMahon expects to be made Queen of Ireland as soon as the Irish question is settled. More power to Mac.

It's hard scrapin' up notes this hot weather boys and if you have anything at all slip it to the correspondent. Anything will be welcome.

Heard on the Lake front:

Lloyd: "Look at that speed boat go!"

Jim: "Speed boat, Hell!—that's Attie Walsh out for his morning swim.

Miss Sullivan, stenographer at Mac-Masters is loved and respected by all— why not? She's the best in the world—. The Milwaukee office of R. H. leadership and guidance of our genial Manager Frank P. Konzal.

It should be a matter of Union record, and never to be forgotten, that on a former trip this same R. H. MacMasters in February, granted the Milwaukee force a 10% increase in pay. Coming, as it did unsolicited by the force, it was received with even more appreciation and gratitude, and a veteran telegrapher, selected to reply for the force said—"In thanking you for this generous action we wish to assure you of our continued interest in the success of the Company. We would, however, be unworthy if we let you believe that it was for the monetary consideration alone that we thank you; let us emphasize that it is the personal characteristics—the qualities of mind and of heart of J. F. MacMasters; yourself, our own manager here, as well as all others composing your official family, that impress us with confidence, and let us again assure you that we will work steadily to weld into one smoothly working offganisation this portion of your company, so that, eventually the success that every business man desires, may be "attended."

CLEVELAND SUB-DIVISION.

Borton and Borton, formerly dealers in local securities, have branched out to the leased wire service and have moved to elegant quarters in the Hanna Building. Brother R. G. Salisbury is the gunner on the new circuit.

Congratulations are extended to the Chicago boys of E. D. Dier & Co., on having a man of the type of L. L. Larson as their manager. "Lars" spent some time in Cleveland and we can attest to the fact that the operators have no better friend. He's all business and absolutely square.

Brother E. C. Campbell is spending his vacation on the cool shores of Lake Erie. Where is the man who don't envy Ed. a vacation these "humid" days? "Quack" didn't get away with his one week's salary didn't get away with his one did he Ed?

Brother G. A. Wheeler is spending vacation by patronizing the bathing beaches to escape the torrid heat. Wheeler is relieved by Brother Paul Martin, of Findlay.

Cleveland Sub-Division held their annual picnic Sunday July 10, with a trip to Avon Beach on a special car, chartered for the occasion. A program of athletics was indulged in while the kiddles spent the day in the lake. A large crowd turned out and an elegant time was enjoyed by all.

Vacation work is being performed by Brother A. J. Ward, formerly of the Western Union. Brother Nugent is at present enjoying the cooling waters of Lake Erie. Brother Fred Agnew was the center of attraction at the picnic. While negotiating a three-bagger he threw a shoe, necessitating a finish barefoot. In winning the fat men's race it required a fall-away selide, and his 250 pounds made a clean sweep of all before him.

Brother L. F. Soit spent his vacation by an auto trip to Washington, Baltimore, and visiting home folks at Columbus.

DETROIT SUB-DIVISION

Mr. C. F. Brower, tormer chief operator Mr. C. F. Brower, tormer chief operator for the Fostal at Akron, and a brother of no mean ability, is copying the stock quotes at Howell & Wales' on a mill, and it takes a man and two boys to write tnem on the board. Peg Randall helped out for one day and threw out the mill and put them down with a pencil like he used to do years ago. Brother Sherman is in charge of the telegraph department and board boys at Howell & Wales'. Sherm is going to take his vacation soon and tear down the old Stude coupe. We hope he gets it back together again. Howell & Wales are 100 per cent. No non-union man can work for them, Howell says. ell says.

Brother Al Day and Robert Supple have become identified with Twohey & Co. Brother Morse, lately of Pittsburgh, filled the vacancy at Merrill, Lynch & Co. here, and Richard Washburn, who has been copying the dope for the Detroit Financial News Bureau, is working the wire at Twohey & Co. Twohey & Co.

Brother Edward Nadeau has moved his family to Whitmore Lake. Ed is a third partner with Langley, Hilder & Co., a fine little investment and banking house in Ann Arbor, Mich., and reports the rural sections have the cities beat fifty ways.

Business has been very quiet in Detroit for some time, and we are getting nicely rested up in preparation for our vacation. See you all again in the fall, if we survive. "MIKE NADEAU."

KANSAS CITY SUB-DIVISION

Kansas City Sub-Division is slowly but Kansas City Sub-Division is slowly but surely gaining in membership, and we hope to have all the "nons" lined up soon; but we should have a better attendance at our meetings. Our regular meeting dates are the first and third Saturdays of each month, 2:30 p. m., Coates House Let's all arrange our affairs that we may attend these meetings and stir up some 'pep.

The Meinrath Brokerage Co. recently installed a private wire in their offices here, but the position was filled by a "non," who underbid one of our brothers a few dollars. However, he may prove to be more costly in the end. Such a man as this is his own worst enemy; but, fortunately, we have not many of that kind here.

E. F. Leland & Co.

Brother Wilhoit has been promoted to manager of the Stock Yards office. We all wish him all the success in the world, as he is a "live wire" and no doubt will make good.

Brother James Norton is grabbing the quotations, etc.

Arthur Braun, Fred Jacobson and John Boyer are on the job at the Board of Trade office, with L. W. Carnes on the board. We would very much like to have these boys join our ranks, and no doubt will have them with us soon.

Harris Winthrop

Brother L. S. Kirk has recently returned from his vacation looking like a million dollars physically, but no doubt feeling very "flat" financially.

Barney Jones, formerly of Leland's, is holding down the Chicago Dux.

J. E. Bennett & Co. (100%)

The line-up at the Baltimore Avenue office is as follows: B. R. (Babe) Smith, chief operator; R. A. Richardson, E. H. Hooper, Robert Beall, Ben Lamar, Robert

All these boys are up to date and all enthusiastic workers for the cause.

The Board of Trade office is represented by Brother Arthur Fitz, Shorb Schultz and Joe Jackle. We hope to have the two latter named boys with us soon.

J. Rosenbaum Grain Co. (100%)

Brother H. H. Hall has recently returned from his vacation, being relieved by Brother Lee. Understand Brother Hall is eligible for membership in the Carpen-ters' Union, having built a modern, up-to-date chicken house during his vacation.

Brother Fred Wilkerson has also been relieved by Brother Lee for his vacation. Strandberg, McGreevey & Co. (100%)

Brother Cal Ryle, chief operator, while celebrating the glorious Fourth of July, tried to make his "flivver" do a few submarine stunts, and became stuck in the mud. Brother Floyd R. Smith, our President, is still on the job, and is always after the "nons."

Brother W. L. MacAuley starts on his vacation Monday. He is the proud possessor of one of those "tin things made in Detroit." We hope he will be able to stay within the speed limit.

Bartlett, Frasier & Co. (100%)

Brother A. M. Hall, our Secretary, is vacationing, being relieved by Brother Lee. Here's hoping you have a good time. Bert.

Thomson & McKinnon (100%)

Mr. E. W. McClintic, our chief operator, is "flivvering" around these days, and is getting to be a regular "choofer," but Mac says he wishes the "cops" would stay out of his way.

Brother C. A. Pace, relieved by Brother Leon Thomas, has gone to Colorado to try to regain his health. He has been suffering or some time with asthma. We all sincerely hope that he will return feeling much improved.

It is now "Brother" Don Brown on the Omaha wire. Glad to have you with us, Don.

McKenzie, our Vice-President, marking the Chicago grain board, and is always on the job when it comes to fix-ing a brother up for a job. Mac is a strong believer in the slogan, "No cards, no favors.

Brother Benj. Seigle is on the sending side of the Chicago Dux, with Brother C. L. Hougham on the receiving side.

Our mascot, Brother David Grindberg, is marking the Kansas City grain board and the New York stock board. He recently returned from als vacation. Davie says he had two weeks of continuous swimming.

"Half Fare" George Hager, our skinny messenger, has also been vacationing. Understand he came near getting in jall trying to occupy two seats on a one-half fare ticket; hence the name, "Half Fare George."

DENVER SUB-DIVISION

At an enthusiastic meeting held in the St. Regis Hotel and presided over by President John B. Alcorn of the Western Broker Division, the Denver Sub-Division of the W. B. D. of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, was organized here June 21.

Fifteen broker operators, including men from nearly every brokerage firm in Den-ver. comprised the nucleus of the new Denver Sub-Division, and, with numerous other pledges already secured by Chair-man Ted Williams, the Denver Sub-Divi-sion promises to be one of the most active in the West.

Brother Alcorn went over the achievements of the W. B. D. during the past months, explaining thereby the advantages to be derived from membership in the W. B. D.

In addition to the fifteen new members in Denver, Brother Alcorn received ap-plications from operators in Colorado Springs, Sterling, Casper and Cheyenne.

Brother "Tom" Meaney of Scott-George Grain Company, Denver, went over to Sterling to make the transfer of the Benett office there to Scott-George. The traders at Sterling complain that when "Tom" puts up one quotation with the chalk he wipes out four or five with his "aldermanic front."

H. T. McDaniels of Chicago is the new manager for Scott-George at Sterling. McDaniels relieves W. T. Russell, who is now with E. M. Bosworth & Company, in Denver.

Brother John Mullen. with Wilson-Cramner, says he's going to have a vacation in August; going to help his wife clean house.

Will try and give a complete line-up of the Denver sub-unit for the next issue. Bob Davis, from Otis & Co., is taking his vacation on the coast.

Earl Simmons is with Yore & Co., on the Clark wire.

Logan & Bryan operators have failed to make their appearance into the new local up to this time.

Joe Arnest is helping at Scott-George, in the absence of Tom Meaney, at Sterling temporarily.

Brother Alcorn spent a few days at Colorado Springs. This Colorado climate made some hit with him, and he is contemplating.

Brother Clarence Case, Colorado Springs, has a new car. He sure is lucky on the privileges.

SAN FRANCISCO SUB-DIVISION

It's hard to keep in touch with the gang here, as most of the boys come on duty with the milk man. L. & B. have a fine set of union men, but it's only about 60 per cent organized and the other 40 per cent seem to have the incurable variety of nonitis. Of course, there is some hope always, and a few of us plug away every time we get a chance, and pass the Journal around where we think it will do the most good. What I would like to see here is a real live broker local, meeting a couple of times a month. We would promise not to take over an hour from the poker game. I'll donate one room of my two-room "apm" to the cause any Saturday afternoon if they will bring their own chairs. own chairs own chairs.

Paul Smith, who lost out when the I. N. S. cut off one man last year, and drifted around from the A. P. to Hutton's, and finally declined to tear up the little pasteboard he has carried a good many years, has finally landed a permanent trick at the Federal Reserve Bank. Paul is one of the finest, both as to ability and character, and it does us all good to see him safely ensconsed among the bank-ing fraternity which doesn't seem to have him safely ensconsed among the bank-ing fraternity, which doesn't seem to have such a narrow-minded attitude as some people we know, who don't cut near such a figure in the capitalistic world. Logan & Bryan opened to the public in February, and have expanded their wire room a little, as a result employing three more men—Otto Harrelson, from the Posright merital: Parker, from Hutton's, and the justly "fmx" Oakley Marshall. Coast-to-Coast Patterson does the extra stunt, and we understand gets in a full day.

Eddie Denair, our billiardist extraordinaire, shifted to Sutro's when they started their wire service, and Frank Ford is now with McDonnel & Co., in their palatial new stock emporium in the Palace Hotel. Cliff Lawrence and a Mr. Jenkins, formerly at Pasadena for L. & B., are joint managers.

Joint managers.

Mr. Ben Bryan and his son, Ben Jr., were here for about a month getting the new office in running order. The latter seems to be one of the boys and has a queer ambition to learn to telegraph. Bruce Rogers is in charge of the wire room, and sure gives us outsiders fine service and is the most obliging of liaisons imaginable.

(Editor's Note: You may rest assured that your efforts in putting San Francisco on the map were received with great satisfaction. San Francisco did have a splendid set of union men at one time, and we believe they are still there, but negligence and indifference, the most deadly of diseases, has taken deep root. We, too, would like to see semi-monthly meetings there, as in other cities, and President Alcorn says he is almost willing to bring the chairs you refer to, out there on his back, if he thought that would do any good. At any rate, if the boys in 'Frisco' come to life and decide to assist the boys in the East bring about conditions we would all like to have, you can rest assured the necessary chairs will be jurnished. See what you can do. We will lend every assistance possible from this end.)

Three rousin' cheers! The settlement of the Lowitz trouble in The settlement of the Lowitz trouble in our favor demonstrates the fact that the W. B. D. is on its way and beginning to come into its own. It has been a long time since a Journal carried any better news than this. Let us hope this is the beginning of the scheduling of all wire houses. Incidentally, this puts the rollers under some of the alibis we have heard from our "no-card" friends out this way, and we wonder if they won't finally see which way the wind is blowing. Our old friend and brother, William Elijah Brown, has left us for Los Angeles. Logan & Bryan lost a fine operator and a real good fellow. We wish Bill all the success in the world and hope he finds a place where the sun does shine occasionally—he will tell us about it.

Brother Dave Evans, who has been helping out at Manning's, is back with Universal Service. Now that Dave doesn't have to get up at 3:45 to show at 5 a. m. we expect his farm will get lots of "massaging." "Operator" (not brother) Ellison. as formerly stated, is handling the

The writer would very much enjoy having a few of those New York "daylight savers" out here these cold rainy mornings. It would be a pleasure walking them two miles in the rain to catch an owl street car that gets to town at five o'clock in he morning. If there's anything in that old saying about "The early bird, etc.," then I'll say we ought to get a lot of worms.

QUEBEC AND DISTRICT NOTES

Since our last issue the hand of death has been falling heavily amongst the families of brother members. The mother of Brother W. Moore and the father of Brother G. E. Clegg died the same day. Brother Desrosiers of Father Pt. lost his mother under tragic circumstances, she having met with an accident around a stove which resulted in her death from severe burns. Then as recorded in another column, Brother P. P. MacGillivray lost his wife. The sympathies of all brother members, we feel sure will go out to the stricken families in their time of sorrow.

We are pleased to be able to record that there is an improvement shown in the condition of Brother McGillivray himself and we all hope that he will get back into good health again, not only for his own sake but for the motherless little ones he has the care of.

We are pleased to record that the subscription list opened in this column in aid of Brother McGillivray is meeting with a satisfactory response from the membership, which does credit to all concerned. We do not know the returns at the moment from other sections but as far as this place is accorded by approached ship, which does credit to all concerned. We do not know the returns at the moment from other sections but as far as this District is concerned everybody approached helped out willingly. We do not desire to introduce a discordant note in this concerion but we must say that it has been a matter of surprise to us that our leaders, with the facts of Brother McGillivray's case before them for so long, did not start something long ago and it was left for the Quebec District to make a practical suggestion and furthermore to see it was carried into effect. Our District chairman, in a recent memo, whilst in cordial sympathy with the movement stated in effect that he did not wish to see the precedent established of any section of our division starting such a movement apart from the L. C. We agree with him but why didn't he or Sec'y Ross, sense the opinion of the membership in this matter and get busy long ago? Our apparent apathy in the face of the reports of Brother McGillivray's case which were coming in for months back aroused wonderment in other quarters besides our section as to what our Union really meant if we could calmiy lay back and watch a brother in distress without lifting a finger to help him. We ourselves are strongly in favor of establishing a little sinking fund to cover just such cases as this, even if it means increasing our dues two or three dollars extra per year and we feel sure we express the sense of the majority of the membership. We feel that a brother in trouble through continued sickness has a right to expect and repet our leaders to lead in such cases and if they won't then let others who realise the need start the ball rolling. We hope Brother McGillivray gets a bumper subscription.

Our Halifax correspondent raises quite a number of points for discussion in his remarks regarding the treatment of our Newfoundland brothers. He makes certain suggestions though that are utterly impracticable, if he would give the matter more thought. He says that the company should send an examiner to Newfoundland from time to time. This is ridiculous, as the company has nothing whatever to do with the matter of examining their employes. Surely our correspondent must know that it is the law of the Government of Canada that all following the profession of radiotelegraphy must be examined and obtain certificates of proficiency before they can operate, the Government of course setting the examination and providing the providence of the provid following the profession of radiotelegraphy must be examined and obtain certificates of proficiency before they can operate, the Government of course setting the examination and providing the examiner. It is the misfortune of our N. F. brothers that their Government do not have a similar law and provide for the same test. The Company are helpless in the matter. Under the circumstances if a Newfoundland brother desires to become a certified radiotelegraphist he is obliged to come to Canada, to whichever place examinations are held, to take his chance. Neither the Company or the Union are in a position to do anything in the matter. Quite a few of the brothers laid off were on stations at different times within easy range of a Canadian Examiner and if they did not take advantage of the opportunity who is to blame? And if they were not in a position to do so, it is their misfortune. With the best will in the world neither Brother Clarke or our Eastern Executive could do anything altho they might have gone to the little trouble of explaining the situation to all who desired such. We are very sorry for those of our Newfoundland brothers, or any others, who have been laid off but as a Union we must take all facts into consideration. Several stations have been closed down, through no fault of the Company's. Can the Union turn around and say to the Company that they must make two jobs where only one exists in order to provide for those laid off? We trow not. No Union can buck the law of supply and demand and it is generally the one who is lacking the full qualifications necessary for the remaining positions in the opinion of the employer. We must remember that, notwithstanding the appeals of the numerous Wireless Schools" to "Learn the wireless and see the world" and "lots of positions waiting to be filled" for the first time since the profession of radiotelegraphist has been open, the supply of competent, or rather we should say partally competent men greatly exceeds the demands. During the War there was an unprecedent are any amount of partially and quite a number of fully trained men looking for radio positions. The moral should be plain to all. The employing companies, the world over are in a position to pick and choose their men and it is folly to ignore this. The man who holds his job has nothing to fear, just so long as the service he renders is satisfactory, and no longer. If we are wrong in what we have set down we await to be shown. By combining together, added to the manifest justice of our claim, we obtained a satisfactory schedule of remuneration. In return we are morally bound to give the best we are capable of in the way of service. If we do not do this, we undermine our leaders, because we do not come up to what they promised on our behalf. Much of this is old stuff, but judging from some of the correspondence we receive, it will bear repeating.

correspondence we receive, it will bear repeating.

For the benefit of those brothers who do not see a newspaper as regularly as others, we will give a summary of the decision of the Lighthouse Board on the matter of the closing down of some of the Gulf and River stations. The steamship companies protested to the government about the closing down of certain stations, and in presenting their side of the case Mr. Thomas Robb of the Shipping Federation said, vide the Montreal Star, that it was desired to restore the aids to navigation, which had been something of a joke during the war, to their pre-war efficiency. Strong exception to this statement was made by Mr. Alex Johnston. Deputy Minister of Marine, who stated that the government had always kept the navigation aids in the St. Lawrence in the highest state of efficiency. Mr. Thomas Robb, it will be remembered, was, during the war, in charge of the radio service in the River and Gulf. Anyhow, it was decided by the Lighthouse Board that the station at Point Amour would be maintained permanently in that vicinity. Cape Ray is to be closed down, and it was recommended that instead of opening Heath Point, a set be put in operation aboard the lightship at that point, fifteen miles off shore. The station at Point Rich is to be continued in operation, at least for some time. It was also decided that the Three Rivers station was to be continued in operation until such time as the Montreal station is placed in good shape for through communication. This information was culled from the Montreal Daily Star and the Quebec Chronicle.

At the time of writing we are still waiting the official announcement of the long-awaited Grievance Committee. The minority, who, after holding out against its formation as long as possible, finally fell into line and concentrated their efforts on making the committee as innocuous as possible, but a meeting held at Quebec forced matters somewhat, and we can now state that your Grievance Committee will consist of W. J. McBride, Cape Sable, as chairman, with W. J. Moore, on the "Lord Strathcona" at Levis, Quebec, and Bro. Hodder of North Sydney. The latter comes highly recommended because he had the almost unanimous endorsement of the executive. We hope he will come up to the high expectations of his backers. As to the committee as a whole, we think well of it, and we hope it will do all that is required and expected of it in an efficient and satisfactory manner. We are never shy about giving praise where we consider it is due to any brother who accomplishes something meritorious on behalf of all, so we won't be deterred by any mock modesty from handing ourselves a bouquet, and it is this, brothers: You can thank our G. C., Bro. Allen, and your Editor, for your Grievance Committee, because we can assure you it would have been a much longer wait only for our efforts. Thank you.

The following were nominated as delegates to the General Assembly: F. C. Allen, J. Bouteillier, D. Ross, H. G. Leslie, and G. E. Clegg. At the time of writing the ballot, papers are just coming to hand. We would like to draw the attention of those who issued these ballots to a couple of seeming omissions. At the foot of the ballot are these words:

Mark your ballot, place in envelope provided, seal and hand in at nearest coast station or mail direct to Secretary.

We think that it should have been worded like this:

Mark your ballot with an X opposite your choice, etc.

As it is many brothers are liable to write out the name of the one they choose instead of marking a cross opposite. Certainly the instructions as to voting are in the By-Laws, but how many will look them up? The other omission is that ballots were sent out, some, not all, with only the certificate number on and no name in pencil on the back of the form. The result is that men will have moved from some stations. Their number will not be known and thus their ballots will be wasted. We thank those who honored us by putting our name down for nomination, but our own opinion is that both from the point of view of economy and the best man to represent us, Brother Frank Cuthbert Allen should be one to represent us at the forthcoming convention. He is our representative on the Canadian committee, and we owe it to him for the great work he has accomplished for us to see that he obtains as unanimous a vote as possible.

We expected to be able to announce the

We expected to be able to announce the nominations for the complete slate of officers for Division 59, but unfortunately they have not yet come to hand. From appearances it would look as pretty much the old slate would go in, and as far as the General Chairmanship is concerned we think it would be a great mistake to swap horses. The present incumbent has been tried and has not been found wanting, which is more than can be said for some of the other positions.

In the Eastern section it looks as if ing, which is more than can be said for some of the other positions. —

In the Eastern section it looks as if Brother Ross will have no opposition, simply because there has been no one come forward who looks likely as a candidate for the Secretary-Treasurership. As a secretary-treasurer we have no quarrel with Brother Ross, and he has well earned the thanks of all brother members for his efforts and the amount of work he has accomplished as secretary treasurer. It is only where he has stepped beyond the duties of that office and touched upon questions of policy that he has got somewhat beyond his depth and aroused the criticism of brother members. For the district chairmanship it looks like a keen fight with Brother Leslie, the present incumbent, Bouteillier, and your Editor. Brother Clegg. Naturally we are somewhat biased in commenting on the possibilities for this position. We were strongly supported for the Grievance Committee, but our district chairman objected on the ground that no brother should hold two positions in the union because he might not do justice to both. We agree with our pro tem. D. C. to a certain extent only. We can point out instances where even the one position has proved too much for its incumbent. On the other hand, look at your own C. T. U. A., brothers. Isn't Brother Paul Schnur both Editor of the Journal and Secretary-Treasurer of the C. T. U. A.? Not that we put ourselves in his class; there is a limit even to the opinion we hold of ourselves but we merely point this out to show that the only limit to what a man can accomplish is his capacity and willingness to work. In any case, as Brother Allen said in the June Journal, don't take any man's sayso for your officers, but use the best judgment you have and then you will get the kind of union you deserve.

There is "considerable activity" being shown in the way of staff changes these times, but as we like to be dead certain before making announcements we will leave it over until the next issue.

Cape Breton Boomings

Since last reports we have received the sad news announcing the death of Mrs. P. P. MacGillivray, wife of P. P. MacGillivray, our former district chairman. Mrs. MacGillivray passed away at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, on June 17th, after a lingering illness. The deceased lady was well and favorably known, and her passing is deeply deplored by her many friends. She is survived by her husband and three young children, two girls and a boy. She was burled at Ketch Harbour on June 19th. Brother members of Division 59 join in extending deepest sympathy to Brother MacGillivray and relatives. sympathy relatives.

The death occurred at Portuguese Cove of Mrs. S. Bowers. The deceased was well known by many of our brother members and all will regret to hear of her death. She was the mother of Brother Inder's wife, and we are sure all will join in extending deepest sympathy to the sorrowing relatives.

Halifax Jottings

For the benefit of the Union I would suggest that the executive members send notes from time to time for the Journal readers. (Editor's Note—You are sure some optimistic brother.)

I am quite sure that our brothers in the Great Lakes and Quebec districts ignore how our brothers in Newfoundland are treated. I had the opportunity of speaking with several members of the NF District, and I am very sorry to say that lots of them are displeased with the union. About a score have been laid off, mostly men belonging to the union with service ranging from one to five years. These men do not see the advantage of paying their dues to the union when they are not protected by it. Following is a list of men being laid off: Whitemarsh, Lewis, Roberts, Snelgrove, Young, Thomas, Scanlon, Williams, Hynes, Meade, Reid, Stevenson, Sarricks, F. Tasse, Stanley, Lahey, Hiscock, Ryan, and Hutchings.

What have we done for them? The uncertified men have got their increase through the Marconi Company. If they wish to sit for examination to get the full increase they must go to the expense of traveling to Hallfax to sit for same. I would suggest that the union would request the company to send an examiner to Newfoundland from time to time. If we don't do anything for them we cannot expect them to stick to the union. I must say that some of the operators have written both the General Chairman and Secretary of N. F. District, but have not received any satisfactory reply. Brother Clarke, we would like to hear from you.

(Editor's Note—Quite a formidable list of laid-offs, and we are extremely sorry to have to record such a state of affairs, and also for the unfortunates laid off. Your taking up the cudgels in their behalf does you credit, 129, and we must say it is the first word we have had on the matter. At the same time, there are other angles of this matter to be considered, and we have tried to deal with some of the points raised in our own column.)

On April 8th. 1921, wireless was once more put to good use when the C. P. O. S. "Monteagle" went to the assistance of the French steamer "Hsin Tien," a wooden freighter plying the China coast. This vessel was not equipped with wireless, but fortunately the "Monteagle" happened to pass close to her and saw that she had flag signals flying asking for assistance, as they were sinking. The work of rescue occupied seven hours, a total of sixty-six persons being taken off the sinking vessel by the "Monteagle." Four Chinese were drowned when one of the "Hsin Tien's" lifeboats fouled in the davits and its occupants were pitched into the sea. The bulk of the wireless work fell upon the "Monteagle," which was kept busy handling distress messages. Communication was established with Hongkong through VPS (Cape D'Agular), a distance of about two hundred and seventy miles. Many messages were exchanged with that station, and in addition wireless also summoned the French steamer "Amazone" to stand by. VPS sent word that H. M. S. "Cairo" was on her way to relieve the "Monteagle" if necessary. Forty-five minutes after leaving the doomed vessel to her fate, the French s.s. "Yangste" passed close to her fate, the last position and reported that she had sunk. Articles published in several papers did not even mention that the wireless had been used. Had it not been for wireless it would have been at least four days before the world would have known anything about the disaster.

JOTTINGS FROM FAME POINT RADIO

This salubrious and remote little post on the Gaspe Coast opened up its radio station for the navigation season of 1921 at the end of May, with Brother Walter Moore as O. I. C., and Brothers Chaisson and Soares as assistants. Brother Soares, and Soares as assistants. Brother Soares, after over a year's service on the South American and West Indian routes, is now having the heat of the tropics taken out of his system, on the Gulf. Between ourselves, he seems to regret being called away from those tropical scenes, and looks forward to be once more "heading south" to the lands of "Mafiana" and sefioritas.

After a period of working a two-handed team, due to the sudden departure of Brother Moore, Brother Sandstrom arrived at the station from Quebec, and VCG is once more working on a full staff.

Brother Charles Chaisson is now in charge, and a glutton for work in the engine room, nursing the poor old invalid of a Fairbanks-Morse, who now and again gives up the ghost and has to be carefully brought back to life, and coaxed on again.

Brothers Soares and Sandstrom, being great lovers of the wild, in their spare time wander off into the woods on long hikes, and return with tales of lakes and new trails discovered, and of numerous observations of zoological interest.

Light Keeper Ascah drops in from time to time, and has a game of chess with Brother Soares, very often putting the "Scholars Mate" over on him, somewhat to the latter's chagrin, who rather fancied himself at the "scientific game of kings and statesmen." However, he sometimes ave it hock and in a challenge of times pays it back, and in a challenge of radio against light service, Soares had his revenge and put a good one over the light keeper, winning two excellent games out of three over his opponent. Brothers of three over his opponent. Brothers Chaisson and Sandstrom are great cribbage players, and whenever they have a chance indulge in the game. We cannot be said to be unmusical here: the lighthouse station boasts of a rather unique type of gramaphone, of the early Edisonian period, at whose dulcet strains Soares soothes his chastened spirit after a chess defeat at the hands of Light Keeper Ascah. Brother Sandstrom has brought his little ukelele with him from VCC (who said Hawaii?), and he is often to be seen diligently picking at its strings from time to time, with a far-away look in his eyes. (Visions of Waikiki Beach, perhaps.) The 12 midnight to 4:00 a. m. watch is an interesting one at this station. All is quiet in the Gulf with the exception of an occasional chirp from Grindstone, or some odd ship, and at this dead time, when the human system and mind is at its lowest ebb, one is enlivened by the whinings and trillings from the ship and land stations way down off the "Bean City" and "Little oi' New York," which can be most distinctly heard. This is varied from time to time by spirited radio duels between cape Race and recalcitrant radio bugs on divers U. S. S. E. ships, who will not get off the line, but who seem to imagine that the ether is a place where they can mutually exchange all the "home town" topics one with the other. If these "hams" knew into what disrepute they are bringing the U. S. radio service, in which the writer once served, they would surely give their "jamming" ways, and abide by the International Rules. It causes the writer to wonder if in the radio, so-called, "colleges" they ever instruct their pupils in the "Radio Handbook." Judging by some of their "graduates" now running amuck in the radio rooms of different U. S. S. B. ships, these birds are regular radio hogs; but enough said. When "normalcy" is reached they will doubtless subside back from whence they came.

The arrival of the C. T. U. A. Journal is always welcomed here, and its contents read with interest from cover to cover.

The sad intimation was not received by us until some days after the obsequies.

The decision to give united expression to our sympathies was at once taken and a fund was opened and subscriptions asked for with which to purchase a wreath.

A telegram of sympathy was sent to Bro. MacGillivray, in care of the O. I. C., at Camperdown.

The wreath, a beautiful piece of work, some two feet in diameter, with a solid center, is composed chiefly of white and pink carnations with a plentitude of preserved natural fern. A few arum lilles, forget-me-nots, and lily-of-the-valley, and beautiful and the worker with a base neatly distributed, together with a base of everlasting olive leaves, complete the design.

A picture of our tribute was taken before shipment, with the object of having same appear in the July Journal.

Unfortunately it cannot appear until the August Issue.

Below will be found a list of Brothers who contributed, and copies of messages also are printed so that all may see them.

Amended statements, necessitated corrected amounts in three cases, and by the receipt of further subscriptions after list closed have been sent to each contributor.

Those who have not yet remitted are asked to kindly do so at once, as the writer has a keen desire to have all cash transactions over and done with as soon as possible.

Our most earnest hopes are again expressed that health may be the outcome of the present incarceration of Bro. Mac-Gillivray, and that the present issue of our Journal may find him well on the way towards ultimate and complete recovery.

Structural changes of magnitude have taken place at the Port Burwell station. The option of sliding into the lake, or of moving to safer distance from the cliff front was before the Department.

NUMBER 65

General

Brother A. Stocker, late of Barrington Passage, has written to the General Secretary, tendering his resignation as Eastern District Secretary, and at the same time informing him that no other member in the District is prepared to accept office as his successor. The latter statement is surely exaggerated; it cannot be possible that our eastern brothers have attained such a degree of apathy as to be absolutely indifferent to the welfare of their Division. This would certainly be a poor testimonial to the efforts of those who have carried the organization to its present stage, devoting their time and energy to the betterment of financial and working conditions for radio operators generally. Brother Plummer, the pioneer of the Division in the east, showed much enterprise and enthusiasm in the capacity of Eastern District Secretary until his retirement, in such unfortunate circumstances, from the service. Ordered to report for sea duty, he chose to relinquish his position rather than accept a situation which he did not desire. His mode of procedure, however, was contrary both to the constitution of the C. T. U. A. and to the regulations of the service, and in consequence all efforts towards reinstatement were in vain, although every argument that could be advanced was urged very ably by Brother Thomas Taylor at the conference at Ottawa last April.

In the course of this enquiry, a promise was obtained from the Department that,

In the course of this enquiry, a promise was obtained from the Department that, should unmarried operators be available, married operators would not be called upon for sea service, if such service entailed separation from their families. Brother Stocker, who had voluntarily undertaken the duties relinquished by undertaken the duties relinquished by Brother Plummer, recently married, and after but two short weeks of matrimonial bliss, was astounded to receive notice of transfer to a boat. This, of course, was scarcely to his liking, and a vigorous protest was immediately entered. An unmarried operator, who was both willing and anxious to go to sea, was sent to relieve him. The circumstances of Brother Stocker's separation, which at first sight can hardly be claimed to be unavoidable, have been submitted to the proper quarter by the Deputy International President, and assurance is felt that proper action will be taken. During his period at sea, Brother Stocker feels that he is unable to do justice to his duties as Secretary, and Brother Stocker feels that he is unable to do justice to his duties as Secretary, and wishes to hand them over to someone more fortunately placed. We are confident that some eastern brother will communicate with Brother Stocker, and also with the General Secretary, to arrange to carry on the good work. Eastern affairs cannot be managed properly from the west, and when communications from the General Secretary receive such tardy the General Secretary receive such tardy recognition as they do at present, the need is very apparent for an official who is familiar with eastern routine.

It is understood that fear of discrimination is the object of the present leading the object of the present leading to the object of the present leading to the object of the present leading to the object of the present leading the object of the object of the present leading the object of the present leading the object of the present leading the object of the ob tion is the chief cause of the present lack of interest, that acceptance of office in the organization will be immediately followed by signs of disapproval from on high, but surely the spirit of independence is not so easily crushed as this. Let the glorious examples of the pioneers of trade unionism, the spirit shown by our predecessors, to eay nothing of the support given by the International to our own little Division, rekindle the flame of enthusiasm in our east coast membership. Stagnation, the alternative, will only result in the retrogression of the lot of the operators in this service from bad to worse. WOTSE.

British Columbia District

British Columbia District

The first apparent result of the recent Ottawa conference has been the extension, after appropriate delay, of an invitation by the Division Superintendent to the staff, to select representatives from this District to meet him and discuss "matters of mutual interest." This invitation was not forwarded through the Union, despite the definite recognition accorded the C. T. U. A. at headquarters; but we need scarcely say that the only response it elicited came from our General Secretary, who was not backward in announcing himself as our accredited representative. The commendable silence on the part of all others concerned may serve as a valuable reminder that the way to deal with organization. Brother Parkin, in his reply, named those who were chosen by ballot terpresent the staff at the district confecence; they are Brothers W. J. Bowerman, W. T. Burford, and S. E. Meiss. In addition. Brother W. L. Parkin will himself attend as representative of the Union. Brother J. E. Harker was next on the poll should further representation be required. Those of our members who are serving upon vessels operated by the Marine and Fisheries Department and who have grievances which are peculiarly their own, in addition to those general ones for which redress has been sought at Ottawa, have accepted the advice tendered by the delegates, after consultation with the Departmental officials on their behelf and delegates, after consultation with the Departmental officials on their behalf, and started the ball rolling in their own particular corner. Good luck, brothers, we are watching you.

are watching you.

A complaint comes from Point Grey that when Brother G. P. Wakeling recently tore himself away from the charms of Alert Bay, to spend a few days in Vancouver having his shattered portions renovated, the admirers of this eligible Lothario so engrossed his attentions that he had not time to visit his local brethren; but rumors of an impending event may mitigate his offense. His omission to pack about three parts of his personal belongings when his holiday ended adds strength to said rumor. However, on his return to Alert Bay he promptly volunteers to exchange positions with Brother Easson on the good ship "Newington." and thereby short-circuits all our conjectures. By the way, when you do get aboard your tub, Wake, let's have a little news of your doings and wanderings; news from our brothers on the C. G. S. boats is nowadays as the boy said of the core of the apple, "there ain't none."

The hearty congratulations of their less fortunate brothers are extended to Bros. R. Alnslie, W. J. Bowerman, T. Raine, and S. C. Jackson, of this coast, and to Brother E. G. Bennett of the east, on their promotion to the rank of chief operator. We shall still be glad of their membership in tion to the rank of chief operator. We shall still be glad of their membership in our fraternity, and in their new positions they will have added esteem from that membership, in the recognition by their fellow-workers that, though they have reached the top of the tree themselves, they are still active in the common good. The recent declaration by the Department that it was recognized to be advantageous to all concerned to have a medium of mutual understanding, such as the C. T. U. A., and that such understanding would be facilitated by the adoption by all the staff, including the chief operators, of the same means of representation, dissipates all doubt that might otherwise prevail as to retention of their cards. So long as they stand by the rest of the fellows, the bunch will stand by them and help, when necessary, to sustain them in their positions. And if, in the unlikely event of the Department's repenting of its attitude, any suggestion of possible discrimination is made to them, their clear course will be to report the circumstances to the Union and bring the matter to the light of day.

Triangle Island Station kept its last

Triangle Island Station kept its last watch on the 22nd of June. The most outlandish peak of an almost submerged mountain chain, Triangle rises 680 feet sheer out of the sea, and the wireless station was perched on its summit. As a place of residence, St. Helena had much to recommend it in comparison. The sigh of relief emitted by the last three operators to be shanghaied there, Brothers Acton, Crow, and Daniel, as a new and better VAG spluttered into existence burnt out a vacuum tube at Estevan and is said to have caused interference as far away as the Japanese coast. Brother Jim Daniel is taking a well-earned rest in Vancouver, with six months' newspapers to read. Brothers Acton and Crow are helping Brother Bob Ainsile at his new station at Bull Harbor.

We are asked by the General Secretary, Brother Parkin, to remind all members who are not the holders of an "annual" that the dues for the second half of the year are now due, and that early receipt will be appreciated. He also wishes members to attend a little more promptly to correspondence. The forthcoming local conference, and the Civil Service Commission's investigation of the salary question will both entail considerable secretarial work, and if members will permit the local books to be brought up to date, correspondence with delinquents, and subsequent reports to the International, can be avoided, and greater attention given to more important matters. Brother Parkin is devoting every week many hours of his is devoting every week many hours of his lelsure to Union affairs, many duties being required, such as weekly reports to the Labor Department, etc., of which the average member is not aware, and he feels sure that his request for promptitude will not be made in vain.

Two or three nights during June com-munication was effected between Gonzales Hill (Victoria) and the Air Force station at High River, Alta., and greetings were exchanged for the first time between Canadian spark stations separated by such a stretch of land and mountains. We hope they all hold cards up there, Brother Chestnut? Having said all that we can usefully say, we may be pardoned for indulging in what we may call (with ambiguity which we know is lamentably appropriate) a

We have now reached the most critieal time in our existence. Since we organized in Canada there has always been a new schedule in sight; the prospect of an increase in pay to dangle before members and prospective members. Under those conditions collecting dues and getting new members was com-Now it is different. paratively easy. For the present there is no such prospect in sight and many are unable to see the danger of slacking. Of course they will rally when danger threatens. As wage earners our interests are identical with that of every wage earner from the hod carrier to the clerk with the Charlie Chaplin moustache and spats. We move either forward or backward as the whole labor body moves.

Only the other day a member became indignant when in conversation I referred to the steam shovel men's increase. He said, "We have nothing in common with them; telegraphy is a profession."—"Profession," get that? I expect if the good brother were struggling in the water he would not join hands with the hod carrier in order that they might both reach the bank. Of course if he were a professional swimmer he could afford to ignore the other fellow; but we are not professional swimmers and we can't get out to stay without the other fellow.

That is not altruistic I know; it is an appeal to self interest, but that is the only appeal that moves men en masse. It is unite or perish.

Next month we elect the delegates to the International convention. Let us hope that only delegates with a vision will be elected. Don't elect a man because he is a good fellow and the trip is coming to him. This is not a pleasure "exertion," it is the most important convention we ever held. Whether the C. T. U. "A time like this demands strong men; men with a purpose and a will;

Men whom the spoils of office will not buy; men whom the lust for office will not kill.

For while the rabble with their thumbworn creeds; their large professions and their little deeds

Wrangle in selfish strife.".... Oh yes, I know the rest of it but it don't fit in. We don't need Oliver Wendell Holmes to tell us what happens to us when we wrangle in selfish strife; it has happened. It should be our business to see that it shall never happen again.

Here's hoping that before another year has passed the C. T. U. A. will be represented in every Trades Council possible in Canada.

AMERICA AND THE WHITE TERROR

A few years from now historians will be writing the record of post-war America, and the chapter of this history composing the years 1921-22 will be headed: "America and the White Terror."

The vast majority of public men would vigorously deny—at present—the existence and growing ferceity of a "white terror" in America. Most labor leaders even prefer to disregard it. But in the clubs of business men the latest details of this "white terror" are recounted gloatingly; in the majority of editorial rooms the news of it, written by over-energetic reporters, goes to the wastebasket or, rewritten, appears as news of the "readjustment period"; labor leaders continue doggedly their night-and-day effort at organization of the workers, striving to avert the stupid but seemingly inevitable impending reaction of violence against violence and fraud.

The writer—a former telegrapher—has been into the inner camps of both the American and Prussian factions. Knowing the "inside secrets" of both, he brings to the Americans this word:

Hold firm; maintain discipline; strengthen discipline; re-strengthen discipline. Cast out the serpent—Fear. Talk Unity; think Unity; dream Unity. Don't be the "weak link" in the chain—the weak link is fit only to be cast out—it ALWAYS IS cast out, ultimately. United, you are invincible. Divided, the weak-lings go under and retard the strong. Look to the weaklings. Don't let them commit suicide. But whatever befalls, the strong, the manly, the brave STAND and carry on. They are the salt of the earth; the doubters, the dissenters, the dissensionists are but the scum and are skimmed off in the ferment.

Remember this—burn it into your brains while you scan the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution for comfort—

American control of American industry. American finance, American government, American thought—all are being seriously threatened by big business pirates—PIRATES WHO WERE BORN IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES OR WHO SPRING FROM UNASSIMILABLE FOREIGN BLOOD.

All that our heroic forefathers bequeathed us is threatened. All of our institutions, our liberties, our ideals, our aims—all are threatened with engulfment.

Industry, finance, thought—these are already practically under control of FOR-EIGN elements; government, too, trembles on the brink. Having wrecked and destroyed Europe, these influences are in America. As long as the American Federation of Labor continues to exist, these foreign influences sit on an uneasy throne. They are determined on—and their existence depends upon—the crushing of the American labor movement. And so the "white terror" which crushed life from millions of oppressed Europeans is here. It rattles the sword, parades the military and barks sharply, coldly, inhumanly—

"Americanism must go! American institutions must be wiped out! Long live autocracy, industrial and political! To Hell with the Constitution, the American system of government, the American Federation of Labor, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Inter-Church World Movement—to Hell with anything, everything that stands in our way! Hurrah for the open shop—swallow it voluntarily or have it rammed down your throats—but take it you will!"

What shall we say to people who tell us these things?

Oh, for a Lincoln . . . a Jefferson . . . The writer has just returned from an extended vacation trip of several months —spent in Pittsburgh, Homestead, Mingo County and such places. He has seen American white men and women and children around the steel mills and the coal mines being ordered about, locked out, discriminated against, persecuted—by men who scarcely know the English language! Mingo County, West Virginia,—beautiful beyond comparison—a section of the Garden of Eden thrust down into America! A section of the Garden with the spirit of the Serpent hanging over all. A land desolate. A land where honest men fear to travel, even in daylight. A land where New York gunmen may shoot down native Americans without fear. A land where American officials, duly elected, are yanked into court and tried for their lives for attempting to protect American life and property—a land wholly UN-AMERICAN; a land wholly in the power of the element now dominating American industry!

God forgive us for permitting these things—we did not know! We did not know!

Think for a moment of the devilish ingenuity of the men who engineered this crushing reign of terror: first, radicalism in America was wiped out. All things radical—first dubbed "pro-German" and then "pro-Bolshevik"—were wiped out without hearing and without process of law. Labor sat back and watched the more radical elements being wiped away and took comfort; labor took comfort because the eradicators of "Bolshevism—so called—were loud flatterers of "regular organized labor"—so called—shrilling to the firmament the virtues of SAMUEL GOMPERS as a modern Messlah and a 1,000 percent example of "real Americanism.

With the radicals eliminated, the "white terror" turned upon the regular forces of organized labor. The slogan "Americanism" was succeeded by the slogan "Open Shop-ism." With Gompers was suddenly become "un-American." The A. F. of L.—credited by Woodrow Wilson, Josephus Daniels, New-ton D. Baker and others who led America through the war as being a prime factor in conquering Germany—was suddenly be-come "un-American."

come "un-American."

Lo, all these years American industry has been operating with the labor unions and employers' organizations amicably adjusting difficulties, formulating agreements and buttressing each other by dealing, in friendship and freedom, across the table. So many years before the war was dreamed of—so many years before Europe was ruined beyond repair by the evil forces that now operate in America under the banner of "Open Shop" or "Wage Reduction."

Today, and this is FACT-not fiction and propaganda:

During the war the American Declara-on of Independence was OUTLAWED the brother of a United States senator was arrested for quoting from it; during the war the United States Constitution was war the United States Constitution was outlawed—read the record of Palmer as written by law professors from twelve American universities; during the war the Bible was outlawed and Jesus Christ branded as pro-German—ask the Department of Justice why the printing of Christ's "Sermon on the Mount" without comment or editorial interpretation was prohibited during the war!

Here are your three most sacred documents wiped out! Do you think AMER-ICANS did it? Guess twice more. Is the former German Kaiser really in Holland or has he—or his agents—found a new throne? Don't quibble, evade, shrug— ANSWER!

The organizations, the corporations, the societies, the magazines and newspapers we have grown up with and thought of as American—WHO OWNS THEM?

DON'T QUIBBLE-DON'T ANSWER!

FOREIGNERS! RATTLERS OF ABER! WORLD WASTERS THE WORLD DESTROYERS!

Who controls the steel trust?

Who controls the telegraph and telephone?

Who controls-

Don't guess. KNOW!

Tomorrow the OPEN SHOP knocks at YOUR door; day after tomorrow you are homeless again and back in chattel homeless again and back in chattel slavery from which your forefathers of a thousand years ago brought you out with blood and sacrifice!

Is that the route you wish to go? No? Then REMEMBER YOUR UNION VOW! Remember the principle—the invincibility of UNITY in practice.

STICK! Follow orders from your elected leaders. Let the disruptionists and dissensionists mouth away—do you stand by the faith of the fathers! Firmly! Unalterably! With the knowledge that now is the time for YOU to pay your debt to the past and to the future. Today is YOUR Valley Forge! Stand firm!

Look at these fellows who say "wages must be reduced" or "we must have the Open Shop plan in industry"—look them in the face and tell them this—

Tell them this in words of thunder, in words of awful thunder, in unity with your brothers from the Atlantic to the Pacific—tell them this:

"If you don't like AMERICA as you find her, go back. Go back to Europe or Africa or Asia or South America—or even to Hell, we don't care which—but GET OUT OF AMERICA DAMN QUICK!"

And if they don't get ready to get out quickly enough, help them out. Join with AMERICAN labor of every craft and HELP them out. SHOW THEM the way to PRUSSIA and invite them to return to the fate that the Prussian people have in store for them.

Tell them emphatically, unitedly, strongly—they have nowhere else to go but America and Hell—and they MUST get out of AMERICA!

RALEIGH W. THOMAS.

RANDOM COMMENT

There is much walling these days about the priority of the "public" for consideration during disputes between labor and capital. It has become quite the proper thing to applaud speakers before champlers of commerce who ways together. thing to applaud speakers before chambers of commerce, who wax tearful in detailing the manner in which these sacred rights of the public are disregarded—in the main, of course, by Labor. Capital, of course, is very scrupulous about safeguarding the "rights and interests of the public"—VERY.

Now, in America, there are 85,000,000 producers, so-called, including their families. There are 15,000,000 of the "third estate"—that is, men who work and at the same time control their own businesses, farms and professions. Then there are 5,000,000 who do absolutely nothing of a useful nature except to provide employment for valets and golf caddles.

It would be very pertinent, indeed, to discover in which of these categories the beloved and much abused "public" should beloved and much-abused "public" should be catalogued. It is of exceeding importance because upon the reply hinges the answer to the question: Is America a democracy? Since it has become axiomatic that the "interests of the public are paramount" in Capital-Labor disputes, we must know whether "the public" is composed of the vast majority—the producers —or of an insignificant minority. If the "public" is the majority and the rights of the majority are paramount, then this is a democracy. If the "public" is the insignificant minority and its rights are paramount, then America is an autocracy. It must be remembered, however, that

It must be remembered, however, that it is always LABOR to whom the flowery it is always LABOR to whom the flowery languaged orators appeal for consideration of "the paramount rights of the public." It follows, then, that the "public" is not Labor. It cannot be the less significant element—the "middle class" of 15,000,000—because that element is merely used by capital as a great cow to chew up and digest the fruits of Labor, to be later milked into the coffers of Capital. We must infer, therefore, that "the public" consists of the 5,000,000 men, women and children who make up the purely capitalistic class. capitalistic class.

We are told that the interests of this class are "paramount."

In the same breath we are soothingly informed that America is a democracy—meaning a "government of the people, for the people and by the people."

Maybe it's true. Possibly working men, in truth, are nothing but the "cattle" they are regarded as being by "the public." For this reason, in the eyes of the "owning class," workers are regarded as being not a part of the actual population, but in a class with mules, oxen, jackasses, etc.

It is all very queer—but won't they please quit calling America a "democracy" so that the great, submerged, fear-ridden and thoroughly cowed majority may at least delude themselves into the belief that they are at least human—even though chain-laden and enslaved?

Whatever may be our religious belief, or non-belief, we all may unite in giving endorsement to this Biblical sentence:

"Know ye the truth and the truth shall make ye free."

We unionized telegraphers are marching as a unit in the great Labor army of liberation. The one vital difference between OUR army and a uniformed army is that our lead motif is CONSTRUCTION, while the other variety exists to destroy. Destruction is so easy that only brute force, under control of directing destructive genius, is required. Construction is so difficult that intelligence of the very highest order is essential—from the very highest order is essential—from the buck private in the rear ranks to the C. O. at G. H. Q.

C. O. at G. H. Q.

A friend of the writer was, three years ago, a shark at shooting off his lip and playing kelly pool. Lashed into study by marriage to an intelligent woman, he sweated, groaned and toiled in pursuit of knowledge. His eyes grew wider as his back straightened to manly proportions. "First thing I had to do," he said the other day, "was to unlearn everything that the enemies of labor had sweated into me. I studied economics, sociology, and even read Karl Marx and "The Brass Check." And looking back at what I was mentally, before, I quite appreciate the appellation we working men go by 'Cattle.' For the things I used to say with such owlish wisdom would sound to me now like the sleepy, impotent, meaningless lowing of an ox."

Members of the C. T. U. A., especially,

Members of the C. T. U. A., especially, need to study the labor movement, its philosophy, foundation, aims, objects and tactics. Each member must devote time to independent thought as to the solution of the main problems confronting our craft. For, not by discipline and duespaying alone; not by the excellent leadership of Johnson or Gompers, nor by loud shouting and little-doing can we achieve our destiny. Knowledge alone will point the way, stiffen the spine and brings success to our movement. Knowledge, not contained in the brains of leaders, but fermenting in the minds of the rank and file.

We should be ashamed of our plain

We should be ashamed of our plain ignorance. We should be even more ashamed of securing "information" from enemy sources. We must turn to the trades union movement for knowledge, and with added knowledge will come manhood and the power to use our brains.

"Know the truth—and the truth WILL make you free."

make you free."

According to unchallenged statements of Dr. William A. Paul, of the Association to Abolish War, that organization proposed, late in 1917, to print in pamphlet form, without comment or notes, the Sermon on the Mount, the most noteworthy sermon of the Son of God. He was informed by the then Attorney General Gregory that the Department of Justice would regard such action as "pro-German." man.'

This is illuminating indeed. While Wilhelm II was charged with claiming partnership with God, it remained for the American Department of Justice to line up Jesus, the lowly Gallilean, with Prussianism.

And this is a sharp and stinging reminder to us that men are in jail—Eugene V. Debs among them—for alleged progermanism, whose convictions were obtained by just such "intelligent" processes or reasoning as that which stigmatised Jesus Christ, Himself, as being "pro-German."

Evidence keeps piling up that corrupt influences in the dominating "industrial interests" class of America used the glorious folds of Old Glory to cloak their activities in ruthlessly suppressing a movement, together with its leaders, who, whatever we may think of their philosophy of life, were, at least, sincerely preaching and suffering for what they considered the cause of Labor.

Pro-German-Jesus Christ-Eugene Debs.

Debs ought to feel ashamed of himself. They lynched Jesus because "He stirreth up the people." Debs only got himself sent to jail.

Charles Edward Russell has induced Harpers, New York, to print a book called "The Story of the Non-Partisan League." The story is true. Russell is prepared to defend himself in the courts. But there will be no court action and there will be few readers—in this age. This writer challenges any American to read Russell's new book, digest its proofs, and then be able to say, except with a whisper and downcast eyes: "America is a democracy." racy.

An illustration of the truth of the statement that we have permitted our government to fall into the hands of a class is to be seen clearly in the relative positions of the Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Commerce in the President's cabinet. As Secretary of Commerce, a man acceptable to big business is chosen. His duty is to serve business. All the forces of his office are bent toward stimulation of trade and the prosperity of business men. This is accepted as a matter of course.

But the Secretary of Labor? Does he throw the power of his great office into the suppression of peonage in American industry? Is he able to take up a case of the most glaring, manifest injustice to labor and demand that it be corrected? Can he compel the telegraph, telephone and steel corporations to obey that portion of the United States Constitution forbidding the holding of men in involuntary servitude? Who is this "Secretary of Labor" James J. Davis?

Did President Harding consult with the Did President Harding consult with the recognized spokesmen of American labor in making this important appointment? And for that matter did American labor endorse the presence of any man in Wilson's cabinet who could show his face in public and still serve as a cabinet minister beside Burleson and Palmer?

Will American working men and American farmers ever say to the Democratic and Republican parties: "A plague upon both your houses"—and cast their votes with a new party pledged to pure Americanism and pure democracy?

Now there are three courses open to the American producers from this miser-able state of affairs:

We can select a benevolent monarch, giving him supreme power, abolishing our Constitution and present governmental superstructure; we can turn out the predatory capitalist class government and set up a "dictatorship of the proletariat"; or we can demand a complete democracy with the majority population represented in Congress by a majority representation.

Organized labor endorses the latter view—make America a complete democracy.

That would entail no change in the present form of government—no violent revolution, no bloodshed; simply that every producer in America march to the polls on election day and cast his ballot for Americanism.

There is no other way. Today we have no Jesus Christ in person to cleanse our temple of freedom of the money changers. We must perform the task of ourselves and in our own way.

Despite a highly organized campaign of misrepresentation. Canada has decided to take over the Grand Trunk Railway as a government enterprise. Arthur Brisbane, of the New York American, commenting on this decision, says:

on this decision, says:

"Is there nobody there to tell the government that it isn't capable or honest enough to run a railroad? Let Canada write to the management of the New York. New Haven & Hartford that robbed half the widows in New England, or to the Rock Island, that robbed everybody. It will be assured that governments are not fit to manage railroad properties."

Which reminds the writer of an honest, well-intentioned Western Union overator's remark the other day that we had enough government ownership under Burleson.

As if the wires were taken over and placed under Burleson for any other reason than that he could, backed by the United States Treasury, break the union of the telegraph companies and at the same time sicken everybody of government ownership and control. Talk about your sabotage! The I. W. W.'s never understood even the most elementary points of the game!

The British miners' union has contributed $150.000 to the "Save the Children Fund of Europe." Let capital give as much in proportion to its resources as that and we can better swallow the tirades against labor's selfishness!

In reply to a friend who was wailing over the physical collapse of Woodrow Wilson, former Premier Clemenceau said: "What could you expect if a man will talk like Jesus Christ and act worse than Lloyd George?"

When will we learn to judge men by their ACTIONS instead of their words or pretended motives?

The rapid growth of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Bank of Cleveland has astonished the financial world. An earlier established success in labor banking was the British People's Bank, whose turnover in 1920 was over three billions of dollars and whose reserve and assurance funds now total $16,000,000.

Organization of labor power and resources is spreading into every field. Soon we may expect to see labor in politics controlling, by alliance with the farmers, every state and national office. God speed the day!

When President Harding called upon Mrs. Champ Clark following the death of her husband, the former Democratic Speaker of the House, and begged to know what he could do to alleviate her grief, she replied:

"You can do one thing, and that is give amnesty and free Debs."

Debs and others are in jail not because of disloyalty to America but because they dissented from the views (not of the American government) of the un-American administration which held sway at Washington during the greater part of the World War. If Debs' place is in jail, 15.000,000 other Americans who dissented at the polls last year also should be in jail—including Warren G. Harding.

The un-American habit of permitting an administration to send to jail those who disagree with it must stop. America spoke to Woodrow Wilson last November. She may again speak in thunderous tones to Warren G. Harding if he takes no warning from the fate of Wilson.

Profits of British capital, during the World War, exceeded pre-war profits by $1,250,000,000. Labor in Britain received what labor everywhere gets always—a bare existence. Today British capital seeks to drive British labor below the bare existence level. What a funny situation. No farmer would ever become so insane with hatred of his mules and oxen as to try to starve them to death while demanding increased production. Men and mules—God pity the men!

"Your country began with a Declaration of Independence and ends with prohibition," said Gilbert K. Chesterton on his recent visit to America.

And while we plead guilty to giving prohibition a trial, we must inform the eminent Britisher that, since the brother of a United States Senator was arrested during the World War for reading the Declaration of Independence, it is no longer considered good form in this country to mention that seditious document.

A. R. GRAHAM.

SAID THE GROUCH

Slowly but surely the crisis approaches. Will it be a peaceful evolution—a return to Christian teachings and brotherly relationship of men, or violent revolution to force those we send to Washington and the several state capitals to play fair?

For years the Socialists have advocated and worked for a complete reversal of present-day methods of governmental activity.

The followers of I. W. W.-ism agitate the one big union idea.

The Communists unfurl the red banner of revolution and demand a soviet form of government.

Those who have not been completely enmeshed in entangling alliances with the financial powers jump from one party to another for a time and finally align themselves with some new movement bearing a reform label.

Socialists are considered visionary, I. W. W.'s ignorantly radical, Communists revolutionary and dangerous, and those of the reform group, vacillating citizens of sincere desires but lacking the will power to "stay put" long enough to put anything over.

The percentage of men in the United States enjoying the privileges and acknowledging citizenship obligations who would refuse service in defence of the flag and constitution is so small that it is hardly worth considering.

But, brother, get this angle of revolu-tionary thought straight in your mind, and don't confuse it with the "overthrow-the-government" harangue—a revolution is coming, backed and financed (all revois coming, backed and financed (all revo-lutions must be financed) by the irresisti-ble force of public opinion. The people have tired of political intrigue. The men representing constituencies in the Con-gress have been for years and are now permitting Wall Street bankers, the United Steel Corporation and other big interests to rob the people at every turn. War time legislation permitted manufac-turers to levy profits on output of 20 to 100 percent, and peace time administra-tion of our laws allowed big interest to evade payment of taxes on excess profits. Not so with respect to wage earners and evade payment of taxes on excess profits. Not so with respect to wage earners and husiness interests of modern capital. Railroad legislation threw the burden of transportation charges upon the small dealer and consumer, and anything left is being absorbed by rent profiteers. Manufacturing plants closed down or curtailed output to an extent that threw millions out of employment. The textile tailed output to an extent that threw millions out of employment. The textile and shoe manufacturers and others who robbed the government and people during the war have "salted" their boodle and are now lobbying at Washington for tariff protection—and they'll get it.

In the meantime the business man of moderate means is asked to be a sport and take his loss, and the workers are told they must accept a 15 to 50 percent reduction in wages, while the Harding administration is becoming more and more Harveyized and tranquillity in the industrial world more distant.

Where lies the blame? In the Senate of the United States, and that fact is finally sinking into the minds of the people.

Is this a subject that should interest telegraphers? I'll say it is, unless they are willing to relinquish all they have gained through organized effort.

PRESS COMMITTEES SUCCESSFUL

The General Committees of the Universal Service, International News Service, and United Press in their negotiations with the respective managements of these news services in June of this year did something that none of the old-line labor unions have been able to do during the so-called period of reconstruction, with but possibly one exception—the Typographical Union. The Typographical Union so-called period of reconstruction, with but possibly one exception—the Typographical Union. The Typographical Union is, I feel sure, the only old-line union that has not accepted a reduction in wages. On the contrary, the Typographical Union has obtained increases in salaries in nearly every important city in the United States ranging from $5 to $12 per week.

The three press committees made a final proposition to the respective managements which declared that they would not accept anything less than the contracts of 1920 called for. The managements finally agreed to this final proposition and signed contracts for 1921 identical with the contracts of 1920. This, of course, means there was no reduction in wages.

The success of the press committees is another forceful illustration of how important and valuable an organization the C. T. U. A., is.

I congratulate the press committees for their good labors.

It makes no difference whether the cost of living is high or low the work of a telegrapher in any branch of the telegraph service is always the same. So why shouldn't they always be paid good wages? Any kind of telegraph work is highly skilled labor. I think any unprejudiced telegrapher will agree that press work is the highest skilled telegraphy there is. The salaries of press operators compared with the salaries in other branches of the telegraph service are not high enough yet. They will have to be increased later on. Cert. 5.

WILL THEY SEE THE LIGHT?

Contrary to predictions, the A. P. 4s not likely to abolish the $5.00 per week "raise" granted to its employes in the spring of 1920. A month ago one could have wagered any amount without fear of loss that the A. P. would soon knock off $5.00 and probably more from the wage of its operators. The A. P. operators, although few of them realize it, are indebted to a handful of their fellow profesh who though few of them realize it, are indebted to a handful of their fellow profesh, who have dared to stand upon their hind legs like men in a fight for them without cost or risk to those said A. P. Op's. What a revelation it would be if one could procure an x-ray picture of the contents of the ivory that betops the anatomy of a few of those servants of His Majesty, Sir Milton Garges.

Put this question to most any one of the A. P.: "Well, we refused to accept a reduction, what are you fellows going to do in case they reduce you?" and his an-swer will be: "Oh, I'll quit when the cut my pay.

Yes, he'll quit and get a job on the U. P., I. N. S., or Universal. Will he or will he not? He WILL NOT!

A few old timers who went through the struggle of 1907 are still inclined to be somewhat skeptical as to the success of an A. P. organization. I am afraid they do not stop to consider the competition the A. P. has in the field today. The A. P. is smart enough to recognize the C. T. U. A. They have been doing it year after year in advancing their wage scale whenever the C. T. U. A. obtained it for the Union workers. Union Workers.

If the minority as represented by the C. T. U. A., not connected with the A. P., compels them to recognize our organization, what would keep them from recognizing their own employes when solidly organized?

organized?

Today it is not a question as to whether the A. P. would deal with our organization. The question or task at hand is to organize the employes of the A. P. The logical way to realize this aim is to get a few competent organizers out and after the A. P. operators. Get them all in at one time and they can present a solid front which will defy the purpose of those at the head of the traffic department who have been pursuing a policy of "picking off" one at a time here and there of our membership who dare to come out in the open while connected with the A. P.

open while connected with the A. P.

Our worthy members have won a great victory this year. They have stood firm to maintain what we have won but that is only half the battle. We should have a universal press scale and in order to obtain this we need co-operation from ALL press operators. The whole profession should be united as were the few who faced the cannons this year.

Let's not be satisfied to lapse back into indifference now that we have come through a crisis, but let us he up and do-ing. And the best suggestion I can submit is an appeal to all members to assist in the organization fund. It's only 50 cents a week for thirteen weeks—a mere trifle. Do not let the efforts of the few who have taken the initiative in this campaign be a vain sacrifice.

Let us not remain inactive, but go ahead in unity and fearlessness for hu-manity and justice.

Buck Hiner.

LIVE UP TO OUR CONTRACT,

"I'm afraid the boys are going to have a fight on their hands this time," said a representative of one of the union press associations to yours truly shortly before the committee secured their reservations at the Hotel Continental, New York.
"Talk of an increase in wages is ridiculous and it wouldn't surprise me a bit if they didn't finally accept a big reduction and the open shop to boot."

Mast of us expected a fight, few thought

Most of us expected a fight, few thought we would get any increase, but one thing we were determined upon was that we would not stand for any cut nor the open shop. But to get the point of view of my "friend from New York," I casually asked him the reason for the apparent "hard" feeling existing in the business office against their employes. He said:

against their employes. He said:
"There isn't exactly what you might call any 'hard' feeling, but they do feel that under the 'closed shop' many employes are not doing them justice. Many operators are not living up to their contract, but they expect to live up to it and threaten all sorts of dire things if by any accident we (the company) hold the wire a few minutes longer than '30,' and so on—little things which cannot be helped now and then, and cause nobody any inconvenience. convenience.

"Again, I know of cases where the operator is wholly incompetent. If he can do the work, he won't do it. He gets down in the morning any old time he happens to wake up; is continually 'getting left' on important stories, has to be 'filled in'—taking up wire space by so doing; 'stands off' the sender any time he wants to go to the window to look at the latest fashions from Paris—and we can't do anything to him unless we take the chance of starting trouble with the balance of the employes—all because he has a union card.
"We would rather do business with our employes as union men—if they would only live up to their contract and be an asset to us rather than a liability. Otherwise—etc."

Now, fellow telegraphers, leaving all asset to us rather than a liability. Otherwise—etc."

Now, fellow telegraphers, leaving all jokes aside, there is a mountain of truth in what this man says. A union is no stronger than its weakest link, and every good cause has too many weak links if it has but one. Our present international officers, Brothers Roscoe Johnson and Paul Schnur, have adopted as their policy from the very beginning of their taking hold of our destinies, that the C. T. U. A. should be an asset to all who do business with it. If we can establish that fact beyond the shadow of a doubt, what employer is going to refuse to do business with us? What's the first thing you think should be done? If you are one of those who are helping to make the C. T. U. A. a liability, a thing to be shunned, don't you think that in justice to the majority of the boys who are trying to live up to their part of the contract and make of us an asset, something to be desired by every employer and employe, that you should get out and give your place to someone who is willing to play the game of "fifty-fifty"?

NIPS AND TUCKS

(By A. R. G.)

Two Akron, Ohio, men recently committed suicide because they were out of work.

Why did no zealous editor or preacher see to it that these men were given lectures on the gospel of the "dignity of toil" and the "need for greater production"?

Or to be more sensible: When will Labor kick out the incompetent lounge lizards who control our basic industries and establish for all time the right of every man to a job at wages that will spell a decent living? sensible: When Small holders of oil stocks who have been "shaken down" and driven out of the business by the "big fellows" are beginning to express "Bolshevistic" sentiments. Well, they're getting liberal doses of the same stuff they've helped to ram down the throats of the workers and we can hope it has a cleansing effect. Nothing like being slugged and robbed to make a fellow join the movement for abolishing robery.

The original scene of this yarn was in Savannah, Ga., where pickininnies still scratch their heads reflectively before speaking.

Two extremely youthful Jack Johnsons, peering into a barber shop for "white folks" gaped in amazement at the spectacle of a barber passing a lighted match over a patron's head.

"Befo' Gawd," gasped the eldest, "Effen dey ain't a-lookin' foh 'em wid a light!"

Telegraph operators who fear arrest because of their inability to buy sufficient clothing can sympathize with the fellow who advertised in the Oklahoma News:
"Party who took green silk pajamas from closeline at 440 West 12th, please return and no embarrassing exposure will be made on my part."

Funny how some people can get purple in the lace while denouncing bolshevism as a menace to the home and view unnoved the statement from Chicago that because of hard times and house shortage, there were 600 fewer marriages this June than in 1920.

Watch for the A. P. announcement that present salaries of telegraphers will be continued indefinitely, without decreases. Of course the fact that the closed shop association telegraphers put up their hard cash and prepared to back their resistance to wage cuts by use of the final weapon, successfully forcing continuance of the present scale, will have nothing to do with the A. P.'s decision. Oh, no—not at all!

Once again has been proven the old saying that "United we stand—divided we fall." While the Western Union and Postal telegraphers eat bitter fruit and plan to "quit the business" when things get better, the ORGANIZED telegraphers inteligently stand unshaken and maintain conditions of such decency in their world as make "quitting the business" unnecessary. ٠

Now for a general bracing up of American press men: Better service; more intelligent co-operation; boosting for the unionized press associations! If the A. P. won't deal fairly with telegraphers, let the telegraphers reply by putting the A. P. out of business with immeasurably better service from the more humanely managed associations. We can!

Hang out the old sign "No Cards, No Favors" and add to it "No contract, no business." The newspapers don't pay their cash for a frayed and battered "reputation"; what they pay for is NEWS—quantity and quality. YOU tell 'em where to find it!

J. A. HICKEY (General Secretary-Treasurer, Eastern Broker Division.)

Probably no one man has done more during the past year in organizing broker telegraphers of New York than "Jack" Hickey. The membership of the E. B. D. displayed rare judgment in the selection of a full time secretary-treasurer.

"Little talk and big results" is Jack's motto.

SOLIDARITY

Solidarity means unity of the human family. It must be based upon a realization of the ideals of equality, liberty and fraternity. It cannot be achieved by following the promptings of envy, ambition and disregard of the moral conscience. Tyranny, spoilation, intolerance and hatred do not lead humanity toward the goal of brotherly love and social justice. All those who are willing to serve in the cause of humanity should not dwell upon their wrongs or seek to acquire only new rights—they must learn to insist upon the performance of the duties which accompany every right or privilege of any mind to excel others—go as far as it may—but such excellence does not give a right to dominate, only to be of greater service to mankind and to receive in return the appreciation and love of their followers. Solidarity demands from its devotees deeds of forbearance and sacrifice, not the excesses of revolution and force. force.

TELEGRAPHERS CONFER WITH NEW YORK'S MAYOR

In an effort to obtain a square deal for New York's fire telegraph dispatchers, President Percy Thomas of the New York District Council, and International Presi-dent Johnson headed a delegation which conferred with Mayor Hylan of New York on June 30.

Brothers Thomas, Johnson and Martin placed the fire dispatchers' case squarely before the mayor and were assured that an investigation would be made of charges that fire telegraphers were being discriminated against in the matter of receiving the "prevailing rate of wages" paid in their craft.

Under the guiding hand of Percy Thomas it will not be at all surprising to hear that our fire-fighting brothers have been properly classified in the near future. Much progress has already been made along these lines through the tireless efforts of Brothers Thomas, Hickey, Rupple, Martin, Mereches and Enright.

The Eastern Broker Division, ever present when needed, furnished a representative delegation composed of Brothers Towne, Nelson, Worzel, Fletcher and several others who confirmed the wage standard of Wall Street before Mayor Hylan.

Double Wage Standard for U. S. Shipping Board; Radio Operators Get 15% Reduction, Longer Hours.

In discussing reorganization of the U.S. Shipping board, Chairman Lasker is quoted as saying that he "does not expect to hire a $50,000 man for a $5.000 year salary.

In the case of marine engineers, seamen and radio operators, they are cut 15 per cent, hours lengthened and other working standards lowered.

In one case Chairman Lasker bases wages on "what a man is worth." In the other case he bases wages on what it costs to live and disregards ability required by men who operate the ships.

GOMPERS RE-ELECTED: GETS TWO-THIRDS VOTE

Denver, July 2.—Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the A. F. of L., receiving two-thirds of the 37,000 votes. He was opposed by John L Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America. President Gompers was nominated by George W. Perkins, co-delegate from the Cigar Makers' International Union and president of that organisation. The nomination was seconded by William P. ination was seconded by William F. Clarke, president of the Flint Glass Workers' Union. Both speeches were good oratorical efforts and brought the delegates to their feet as the speakers recalled their nominee's life-long service to labor. President Lewis was nominated by William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, and seconded by E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. Secretary Green replied to criticisms of his nominee's acceptance of Federal Judge Anderson's injunction, which ended the miners' nation-wide strike in 1919. "Never accuse a coal miner, who risks his life, every hour, of being afraid." was Green's impassioned conclusion of this subject.

President Gompers was given a wild ovation when the vote was announced. The defeated candidate accepted the verdict in manful fashion.

FROM KEY TO RACE TRACK TO PULPIT

Fortune sometimes bestows her favors doubly and those upon whom she lavishes her gifts are usually characterized as lucky, though oftentimes sound judgment is an element in the achievement of suc-

One of the special pets of fortune in the opinion of some persons in the middle west was C. W. Williams, once a telegraph operator at Independence, Iowa, but of late years an evangelist, who bought for a small sum the standard bred dams Gus-sie Wilkes and Lou. Both were sired by Mambrino Boy 2:26, a son of Mambrino Patchen.

Patchen.

The young telegrapher was a student of pedigrees, and he chose William L., a son of George Wilkes 2:22, for Gussle Wilkes and Jay Bird 2:31, another son of that great pony trotter, as a mate for Lou. Both horses were in Kentucky, and thither the mares were sent. They duly presented their owner with a pair of bay colts. They were broken and taught the rudiments of racing on the country roads near Independence.

pendence.
That some dreams come true is shown in the case of Charlie Williams, for when he asked his colts for speed they responded in a way which gladdened the heart of their owner. The William L colt had been named Axtell and the youngster by Jay Bird, Allerton. Both won races as two-year-olds, but it was in 1889, when a three-year-old, that Axtell electrified the horse world by trotting to a record of 2:12 at Terre Haute, Indiana. Not only was this the world's record for three-year-olds but for stallions of any age. The country boy was hailed as a wonder, and on the evening of the trial, which was against time, he sold Axtell to a syndicate composed of Colonel John W. Conley of Chicago, W. P. Ijams of Terre Haute, and Fred Moran of Detroit for $105,000.

That lightning does sometimes strike twice in the same place was demonstrated in the following season, when Allerton proved himself the equal of Axtell in point of speed, and being a sounder, hardier horse, raced with such speed and courage that Williams might have had a sum in excess of that realized for Axtell had he cared to sell him. All offers were refused cared to sell him. All offers were refused and Allerton won another fortune for Williams and a record of 2:08 % before retiring to the stud.

One of the first things Williams did was to build a race course at Independence. It was kite shapped, and harness horses from all over the western country were sent to take fast records over its resilient surface. Then came a race resilient surface. Then came a race course and other enterprises at Galesburg, Ill., followed by investments in the prairie lands of Saskatchewan when the land boom in the Canadian Northwest was at its height. Much of this land was bought from Harry Hopper of Indianola, Ind., and in the deal Allerton 2:08 ¼ figured, so that at the time of his death the horse was not owned by his breeder.

Charlie Williams is still a figure of prominence in Iowa. While they refer to him as the man upon whom fortune lavished her favors, it is as an evangelist that he is best known today. Like Billy Sunday, another recruit from the field of sport, he declares his association with the outdoors has given him a broad viewpoint of life and a great insight into human nature, qualities he finds of great assistance in his newest field of endeavor.—

FINDS "GOOD" UNION

Seattle, July 9.—Edwin Selvin, editor of Business Chronicle, has at last found a trade union that he favors. The union accepted a wage reduction, and this rabid anti-unionist joyfully declares: "Labor unions conducted on that basis will command public support."

ELECTRICAL WORKERS' WAGES REDUCED

By the terms of a new agreement, electrical workers of Toledo, Ohio, accept a reduction in wages and will lose their annual vacations which were a part of the contract for the past several years.

The contract affects electrical workers employed in the power houses, line department, transformer department, rages, engineering department, and substations.

LACKAWANNA STEEL HAS BRASS

The Lackawanna Steel Company and the Steel Corporation have reduced wages 20 per cent. This latest reduction comes on top of a similar reduction on April 12. Twelve-hour shifts have been inaugurated. Overtime after twelve hours is computed at 38 cents per hour.

KNIGHTS OF THE KEY

You recall the days when the arrival of a telegram frightened a woman so much she was scared to open it, afraid someone was dead.

This fear is rapidly dying out, says a Western Union official. Telegrams are common. Night letters total millions yearly.

The most marvelous or fearful thing grows commonplace through wide usage.

Telegrams have become so ordinary that few of us ever give a thought to the telegraph operator. His seems a hummehanical existence. Yet no trade drum, mechanical existence. Yet no trade or profession ever produced more unique, useful and devoted characters.

You owe a lot to the telegraph operator. For one thing, the telegraph news you read in The Daily Courier.

Often you read about some telegraph operator who has risen to the presidency of a railroad.

Thomas Edison, the inventor, for years was a "knight of the key." So were Frank Munsey, William Gillette, George V. Hobart and Andrew Carnegie.

"My Friend From India," one of the best American comedies, was written by a telegrapher—Harry Desouchet. You know the "Evolution" poem which starts "When you were a tadpole and I was a fish"—written by Langdon Smith, once telegraph operator for the United Press.

So they go, on the roll of fame, into the thousands.

A veteran operator was John M. Carnahan, who began handling a key in 1861. In 1876 he was operator at Bismarck, N. D., then the farthest-west wire station. Stopping for only brief intervals, Carnahan sat at his key for nearly 80 hours and "sent" the story of the Custer Massacre, a time feat that, it is said, has never since heen duplicated. never since been duplicated.

At the time of the great Galveston flood wires were down and there was no way to get relief appeals to the outside world.

Richard Spillane. a former telegraph operator, now a business writer, was managing editor of a Galveston newspaper. In an old steam launch, assisted by a cotton broker, Spillane defied the hurricane. crossed the bay and, reaching land, tramped on through the night into Houston.

There he got to a key and for hours wired appeals for help, followed by news stories.

He had made the trip in carpet slippers. Their dve soaked out and poisoned his feet, which were so swollen that when he finished telegraphing he had to be lifted nnished telegraphing he had to be intereduced files chair.

The details of Spillane's dash for help make the movies seem tame. But it's typical of the men who have given the world its telegraph news and personal wire messages since Samuel Morse invented the telegraph in 1837.

JURORS OPPOSED TO LAW

(By the Federated Press)

PITTSBURG, Kans .- Startling verification of the disrepute into which the Kansas Industrial Court law has fallen is supplied in an affidavit signed by eleven of the twelve jurors who "convicted" Alexander Howat and August Dorchy, president and vice-president of the United Mine Workers, District 14, made public here, and included in a motion for rehearing of the case.

The jurors, following deliberations lasting twelve hours, had declared Howat and Dorchy guilty of a "misdemeanor," not a "felony," as desired by the prosecution. The document contains the explanation:

"The only reason they arrived at a verdict or that any of them favored a conviction, even on the charge of a misdemeanor, was because they had taken an oath, when qualified as jurors, that they would be governed by the law as set forth in the court's instructions."

Nevertheless, "each and every juror expressed himself as absolutely and positively opposed to any such law as the Industrial Court law.

And further on the jurors state: "Had it not been for said law given them by the court in said instructions, not one of said jurors would have made a finding that the defendants had done any wrong; that each and every one of said jurors expressed himself as believing that neither of said defendants had done any wrong."

The affidavit is all the more remarkable in that eleven of the twelve jurors are farmers and the twelfth a retired grocer. The state had striven manfully to exclude workmen from the jury box. It had succeeded. S. J. Cook, the juror who did not sign the affidavit, had previously consented to, but balked later.

NEW YORK .- The American Sugar Refining Company, which has a large plant in Brooklyn, has decided that the $12 a week which it has been paying 450 of its women employes is too much. Therefore it announced it would reduce that munificent wage to $11 a week. The 450 women struck. At the same time 150 men employes, whose wages were reduced 40 cents a day, went on strike.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va .- David S. Robb. international financial agent of the United Mine Workers of America, and eleven other union leaders were arrested here by Maj. Tom Davis, Governor Morgan's personal representative in the coal strike region, on a charge of unlawful assemblage.

the man who deserts under fire is not fit to live and commune with his fellow countrymen, and the firing squad at sunfits emercifully ends an existence that is unfit to contaminate the earth.

Labor unions do not use the firing squad to the end that the life of the deserter is demanded, but we do brand with the mark of shame and infamy those who betray our cause by desertion.

The man or woman who deserts their regular organization whether in time of strike or to form a dual destructive organization deserves the contempt and emity of every decent member of society.

Deserters are welcomed by the boss and used for the present only. He is neither loved nor is he a hero. The employer knows that he is a deserter from his own ranks, and is, therefore, a creature void of dependence and wholly untrustworthy. The deserter not only helps to destroy his own army on the industrial field, but he destroys his own economic life as well.

he destroys his own economic life as well. ne destroys his own economic life as well. He willingly, because of his cowardly, inhuman attitude, destroys the conditions under which he and his fellow workers have a degree of independence. He would throw the entire trade into a position of absolute chaos and would leave all who toll at the mercy of the employers' greed.

money-making character such as jitney-bus driving and bootlegging.

While congratulating the committee for its faithful obedience to the orders of the membership, their efficient handling of wage and working agreement negotiations and their splendid presentation of facts in support of our case, we extend the bulk of congratulations to the A. P. and commercial telegraphers. For them, it was an easy victory and a cheap one. There stood between them and wage cuts—retrogression in living standards—the powerful united, PREPARED body of organized telegraphers composing the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. It is not for the non-union members of our profession to feel the shame and disgrace accorded to little fellows who call on "big brother" when threatened; it is wrong that we should try to shame them. Non-union working men are either extremely ignorant or pitifully weak-minded. Pity for them—yes; but shame for our civilization that allows parents to breed children who will grow up only under the protection and pitying support of the organized, civilized, stronger elements of society!

The correspondent has apparently gone. W. O. L., so I'll try to do a little subbing.

Recent developments have created an air of satisfaction all along the line. The three committees proved by their work in New York that we made no mistake in their selection.

One week after the new contracts were One week after the new contracts were signed we hear that the Universal Service will discontinue the use of automatic machines on August 1, after about six months of experimenting. Is there any better argument that the "printers" cannot compete with skillful telegraphers? A number of big city clients have recently had the machine thrown out.

Art Lyons, the sending artist who performs regularly on this circuit, is as popular as ever. The rhythm in Art's sending is so smooth that we who are so fortunate as to be in the circle scarcely realize that we are working fast. Subs who have sat in during the past two months, though, have disturbed the usual serenity in these parts.

Bob Flowers, Marion, Ind., put in an order for a vacation, but later had it canceled. Says he's going to buy a car in-Words fail us in our effort to express our appreciation of the good work done by our committee in the recent negotia-tions with the management. All the boys on this circuit feel that 'twas the best yet.

When the storm was at its height all the boys sat steady in the boat, knowing that they had a good commander and were willing to "go down" with him if such action was necessary.

There are just two things that I never want to see. One of them is an undertaker, and the other is a strike. But there are time's in a man's life when he has to take something other than what he desires.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE

(Chicago—South)

Three new clients were added to the Chicago-South circuit during the month of May.

The three brothers annexed to this division as a result are Charles K. Tripp, Thomas G. Backus, and W. J. Thompson.

L. R. Small resigned at Oklahoma City in May. He was succeeded by W. C. Mc-Kelvy, from Chicago.

Those who have taken vacations so far are: G. W. C. Purnell, San Antonio, one month; C. H. Oudkirk, Fort Worth, two weeks; A. E. Bates, El Paso, two weeks; Roy McKinney, Saturday night operator, Beaumont, two weeks.

The following star broker operators did the sending while Norton was in New York:

Edward Kowski, of Thomson, McKinnon & Co.; W. A. Jacobus, of the same firm; Franc Davis, of M. S. Wolfe & Co. All three senders hung up records. We congratulate them on their good work.

The recent negotiations for a new contract afforded a substantial demonstration of the wisdom of electing Frank B. Powers general chairman and Moulton B. The vacations are about all over on this circuit as everybody took them early this year for some reason or other.

Now is a good time to begin figuring on that group picture for our circuit. Let the world know what OPERATORS look like. Let it be unanimous like every stunt should be in connection with our pursuits.

Arnie Matthews has done left us and signed up with the I. N. S., owing to the "KA" client quittin' the U. P.

H. L. Clements from Blackwell spent an enjoyable two weeks at our city while working vacation relief and is now at Salina, entertaining the N. P. L'ers. Will someone please lend the Editor of this Kol'm six bucks? He's strapped and can't pay for a card and an auto license both right now. Fine chance "we" would have had to eat if things hadn't turned out just right. Don't worry "we" had a job driving a truck all lined up.

C. S. Sterling is doing the vacation stunt for Dan at K. C. K.; J. N. Blair is at Blackwell and, beg pardon, but forgother's name at Sapulpa. All fine boys and mighty glad to have you with us.

Guess I better leave space for some others. Good-bye, good luck and congratulations—73. Buck.

(Atlanta-Southern)

It's been vacation time in Dixie.

Wm. E. (Bill) Neely has returned to his post at New Orleans after a six weeks' leave of absence. Neely, during his vacation visited several important cities, including Anding, Miss., his home town; Cincinnati and Memphis. The circuit's beef trust reported a very "wet" vacation upon his return.

upon his return.

Chief Operator H. C. Thomas also took his vacation during the sweltering month of June. We haven't learned just where Hip spent it, but as the old hoy is known to possess a wicked thirst, it's a two to one shot that a goodly portion of it was spent up on the hillsides around Atlanta in search of that Georgia jazz fluid better known as "white lightning."

Ernest P. Cox, the Atlanta bird responsible for the fact that every slave on the circuit (including himself) earns every penny the company hands out on that week-end slip—and then some, has returned to the grind, after a two weeks' fishing expedition along the banks of the Chattahoochie. Chattahoochie.

E. G. Russell made the two reliefs in the Atlanta relay.

Jerome (Ike) Cohen, the Mobile cyclist, departed this week for several weeks' sojourn to Meridian, Miss., and vicinity, the scenes of his boyhood days. It is not known definitely whether or not Ike made the trip on his famous imported bicycle. The popular Jewish knight of the key is expected to be away three or four weeks. C. S. Joyner is making the relief.

Leonard T. Harris, the circuit's "ideal husband and father," with his family has deserted the smoky city of Birmingham for parts unknown to spend his two weeks' vacation.

Secretary-Treasurer D. K. Stevenson is still absent from his Nashville post on a leave of absence. Steve is at his home in Pittsburgh. H. G. Penrose, hero of the battle of '07, is protecting Steve's assignment for him.

ment for him.

The circuit welcomes into its fold Bro. J. W. Willis, better known as "Jim of G. B.," who on the first of July opened up the Little Rock office. Willis hails from Galesburg, Ill., a * * office, Square 73, according to the Book.

The circuit extends its congratulations to General Chairman Shea and his two lieutenants upon their accomplishments in New York last month. Their task was admittedly a Herculean one, and they deserve much credit for the masterly manner in which they carried out their instructions. structions Beginning the first of this month, the New Orleans office became a bureau. R. O. Wiker was sent from Milwaukee to New Orleans as bureau manager. Wiker says Milwaukee lost all its charms when Bud Weiser died a victim to Andy Volstead's dirty deal.

CENTRAL NEWS NOTES

The old string still hums in all kinds of weather, and there are two newcomers on the wire.

At Detroit, James C. Stewart, of the Western Union tribe, has replaced Brother Washburn, who resigned.

At Cleveland, Howard Lewton replaced Brother McIntyre, who resigned.

The new man at Detroit is a former card man and the New York end will depend on Detroit to line him up again.

We have not yet given up hope that Madden at Pittsburgh will take out a card, but we admit that the prospects for making a union man of William Geibel at Cincinnati are slim; he's that kind of Lew Kaufman is back here again with the New York News Bureau, after only a short stay at the Postal. Fortune always takes care of a good union man. Besides there's a new arrival in Lew's family.

It is the opinion of this correspondent that a good union never remains stationary, but moves forward. Then how come the lack of notes from the different cities? And where is that old cry, "Schedule the Postal?"

JOS. B. MILGRAM.

CINCINNATI NOTES

Local 17 regular meetings held the first Sunday of every month!

It seems a lot of you boys have forgotten this. Now get together and make up your minds to attend these meetings. There is no excuse for your not doing so.

Come on, boys, let's go! This is July 1st, the time to renew your cards for the last half of 1921. Don't hold back. Those who haven't as yet held a card make up your minds to sign up. We have plenty of application blanks; only take you a minute to fill one out. The cost isn't very much—six dollars will pay your initiation and dues until January 1st, 1922.

Get the idea out of your head that the C. T. U. A. will never accomplish anything. It won't as long as you fellows insist on staying out. A few years ago if anyone told you that the nation would go dry you would say he was a liftle off in his upper story, so don't get fooled a second time. Anything can be accomplished if you just stick together and work together. This can be done by signing up. Don't linger any longer; do it today!

Luther P. O. Martin, N. Y. bone opr., is sporting a new Overland these days. Luther was off a few days and we guess he was taking lessons running it. We think Luther better let his wife handle that new bus; it's a shame to break it up so soon. It's great to have a rich fatherin-law. What you say, Luther?

Our old friend, Pat Slattery, is back on the job with us again. But Pat went and done something before he came. Pat got married. We all are wishing you happi-ness and prosperity, Pat.

Paul Brown (BN) got a note from the 'phone opr. the other day to call Avon 134, that a Mr. Baehr wanted to talk to him. Paul got Avon 134 all right, but we don't know whether they let Mr. Baehr talk to him or not. Avon 134 happens to be the zoological gardens.

We hear our friend, Herb Poodle Giebel is sojourning in Chicago. If this be so, Poodle, don't forget to go down and see Roscoe and Paul. Tell them we all send Kipp, Opr. (Z), working St. Louis these days. Kipp wanted a change; he worked Chicago local so long it got monotonous.

Brandhorst, Pittsburg salve thrower, says he is going to buy a farm. We don't take any stock in this. Every time Brandy gets a drink of brandy he hands us this same old stuff. Think of something new, old boy.

Newcomers: Mr. Hale, he hails from Ludlow; Girton, from Wyoming, and Allmond from New Orleans. This office seems to be only a watering place for some of the boys. They will most likely be moving with the horses in a few days.

Bert Ewald is still exchanging on the great Eastern circuit.

Henry (Red) Tucker is putting 'em over on Detroit.

Beb Morgan, John McClymon, Paul Brown and Heffner are working the night trick.

We would like to hear from our friend, C. G. Copher. If you read this, Coph, which we are sure you will, drop a line to Bob with your address.

These Broker and Associated Press operators in Cincinnati dodge a C. T. U. A. pin like they would a case of small-pex. They haven't any time to talk when it comes to the C. T. U. A. question. I think if they would wake up to the fact that organization would put them in a position where they wouldn't have to go to the telegraph companies and scoop after their regular working hours. regular working hours.

CANADIAN NATIONAL TELEGRAPHS (Toronto)

A great load was lifted from our mind on reading the Toronto notes in the April Journal, to learn that there was really nothing the matter with Hanna after all. Here is a clipping from a write-up in the Toronto Daily Mail of July 5th:

"To meet this condition the exchanges are all equipped with a plentiful supply of electric fans. In addition to ceiling fans the practice has been adopted of putting a battery of oscillating type fans on the floor along the length of the switch-boards to assist in keeping a circulation of air in play over the operators who work placed in close position to each other. This has been found to be a great improvement.

other. This has been found to be a great improvement.

"Care is also taken to see that the switchboard rooms are well supplied with plenty of pure, fresh air for the fans to circulate. It having been found that no battery of fans, however large, can give much relief if they are only stirring up warm, vitiated air.

"Another innovation which finds much favor with the operators is the company's practice of supplying them with cooling drinks at frequent intervals."

No, Mirandy; no. this does not refer to the Canadian National Telegraphs in Toronto; it refers to the Bell Telephone Company. Of all the sweatshops in Toronto the Canadian National operating room takes the bun. How the men's washroom and lavatory escapes the health department is one of the mysteries.

There is not a corporation in Toronto that gives so little consideration to the comfort and health of their employes as the Canadian National Telegraphs. Not only do the officials neglect to provide for the comfort of the employes, but they even go out of their way to show their contempt for them. Recently the whole building was renovated and painted except one room, the men's "rest" room. It is a disgrace to the nation.

is a disgrace to the nation.

It is said that the excuse given is that the men do not take care of a good room when they get it. How do they know, when they never tried them? Of course, there will be a hog or two in any large body of men, and one hog will make a sty of a palace. But even the most refined of men, if forced for any length of time to live in a hog pen, will develop some of the attributes of the hog. Let them give the mon an up-to-date room and ask their co-operation in keeping it in order and see what happens.

In the face of all this they send us at

In the face of all this they send us at intervals a publication called the "Ginger Jar." It appeals for loyal co-operation and all to pull together for the success of the Canadian National Telegraphs. For the good of the concern, we would sugest that certain of our officials take a course in the study of human nature.

Oh, well, as citizens we are part owners of this concern now, so squeeze in and hit the ball. Cheer up; you'll soon be dead.

I don't like to be a kicker; It doesn't make for peace; But the wheel that does the squeaking Is the wheel that gets the grease. CORRESPONDENT.

To Whom it may Concern:

The large majority of the members of Canadian National Telegraphs System Division No. 43 seldom if ever need to be reminded of the date their dues are payable; they know it as naturally as they know when it is time to eat. They have got the habit. But let no one mistake them for a bunch of duespaying dummies. When things don't seem to be going right, or matthe them for a butch of dues-paying dummies. When things don't seem to be going right, or even at times seem to be going quite wrong, they do not drop out and grouch; they stay with the game and fight. Which, of course, is as it should be.

The most interesting topic this month was the big Carpentier-Dempsey fight. The excitement was great and Dempsey was the favorite, but a big majority would have enjoyed seeing Carpentier win. There were numerous clubs opened all over the country to receive the reports. This enabled press and broker operators to scoop a "Five" for the short time which the fight lasted. to scoop a "Five" for the short time which the fight lasted.

"LABOR"

Are you a subscriber for "LABOR"? If not, why not?
What is "LABOR"? It is the official weekly publication of the sixteen standard railroad organizations, published at Washington, D. C.

"LABOR'S" mission is to provide a medium of publicity on all matters of interest to organized labor; expose attempts to trespass on the workers' rights; warn the public against vicious legislation; be of general service to society; and to prevent Big Business from exploiting the public. This being "LABOR'S" mission, quite naturally Big Business is greatly opposed to "LABOR." Therefore, the reason that the workers and public in general should subscribe in order that they may obtain real information on public questions, uninfluenced by the advertising patronage of Big Business. "LABOR" carries no advertising matter and is entirely the property of organized labor.

If you don't read it, you should. Subscribe now and get your friends to join you in a subscription club.

I am conscious of the efforts being made by the enemies of the workers to further enslave them and am anxious to do all in my power to defeat their program. I also realize the need of a press that is friendly to the workers. For these reasons I desire to become a regular reader of LABOR and send herewith $2.00, covering a year's subscription.

WORTHY AIMS OF THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS UNION

The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America was organized, and is being maintained, for the promotion of the best social, economic and fraternal interests of commercial telegraphers.

Its membership considers it the only labor union capable of consistently representing the best interests of commercial telegraphers.

So believing, and basing such conviction upon its past achievements and need for future protection, it urges all telegraphers eligible for membership to investigate its record in the hope they will realize its merits and the advisability of becoming members of a labor union established for their special protection.

A FEW DON'TS

Don't condemn the labor movement because you know of "objectionable features." Every man and every human institution has some imperfections.

Don't "wait for others." Others are waiting for you. Some must be among the first—why not you?

Don't forget that the more bitterly the employer opposes labor unions, the more the employe should support them. There's a financial reason. Think it over.

Don't shirk the moral obligation to do all you can to uphold the dignity of our occupation—to elevate the standard of our living.

Don't be blind to your own interests; unionism helps all workingmen, all society, the home and state.

Don't let so-called "independence" prevent you from being unselfish. We are all dependent on someone or something. "No man stands alone." Let's get closer together.

Don't forget that bricklayers, plasterers, tinsmiths, stonecutters and in some places, hodcarriers, receive more pay then telegraphers, and don't forget the reason—strong organization.

Don't say "I got along without a union for 5 (or 55) years it is useless to me; unions can't accomplish their purpose." They do-Over seven million union men say so!

TEN WAYS TO KILL ANY ORGANIZATION

- 1. Don't come to the meetings.
- 2. But if you do-come late.
- 8. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
- 4. If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and the members.
- 5. Never accept an office, it is easier to criticise than to do things.
- 6. Nevertheless, GET SORE, if you are not appointed on a committee, but if you are, do not attend the meetings.
- 7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. AFTER the meeting, tell everyone how things should be done. 18 57

- 8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary. When other members roll up their sleeves, and willingly and unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, how that the organization is run by a clique.
- 9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay them at all.
- 10. Don't bother about getting new members. "Let George do it."

¶ Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves far the higher consideration.

-Abraham Lincoln.

MEN OF LABOR, ONWARD!

By SAMUEL GOMPERS
IN THE AMERICAN FEDERATIONIST

With the approach of Labor Day it is necessary that there be a stock-taking and a making of plans for the future work of our labor movement.

American labor, on its day of celebration and commemoration this year must give to the world a message of hope, of courage, of determination and of constructive thought.

The forces of destruction and of reaction have made every possible onslaught. They have sought to disrupt, to tear down, to despoil, to imprison, to corrupt, They have sought to injure and destroy by economic might, by the passage of hurtful laws, by the abuse of injunctions, by the manipulation of wealth and by the use of that portion of the public press which customarily lends itself to the uses of the unprincipled.

The trade union movement has stood like a rock through the storm. No assault of reaction at any period of history was ever more successfully withstood. No body of men and women anywhere at any time ever manifested a sterner spirit or stood more unitedly than the American trade union movement in the face of the hostile attitude of aggressive and ruthless organizations of employers, bent upon breaking down the organizations of the wage earners.

Our movement has now reached the point in the struggle where it is not enough to stand firm in resistance. We have resisted at every point until the drive of the labor-hating opposition has been brought to a point where it is without initiative, without enthusiasm, without what may be called driving power. This does not mean that it is not still a menace. It is a menace as long as it exists, and it remains a menace which cannot be lost sight of for a moment. But it has for the present been beaten out of its initial momentum by the tremendous effort of the trade union movement.

The time has come for Labor to assume the aggressive. We have held the line. Our positions are intact. It is the hour for a great forward movement.

With a unity such as our movement has never excelled, with a spirit of determination unequalled, let us face the future prepared to take advantage of every opportunity which the future offers.

The labor movement predicates the success of every effort upon the right-eousness of its position and on the strength of its organization. The principles of our movement have been tried and found true. The great need of the day is organization and more organization—more unity and solidarity. The necessity of trade unionism—always a necessity and hope of deliverance must be carried to the unorganized everywhere.

The organizers of the American Federation of Labor, both those who give their full time to the work and those who serve as volunteers, the officers of national and international unions, of state federations, city central bodies and local unions, have ever been faithful and self-sacrificing, but the movement calls upon them for redoubled effort, for a greater consecration to the work and for a more energetic deliverance of the message of organized labor.

In addition it should be considered the sacred duty of every individual member of the trade union movement, every member of the great rank and file, to constitute himself an untiring organizer of men and women for the great tasks that lie ahead.

Labor Day this year should be made a red-letter day in the history of organization work. Upon that day our movement everywhere should so conduct itself as to compel for its ideals and its practical purposes the attention of all wage earners. The observance of labor's great holiday should be so ordered in every community as to drive home the message of trade unionism and to carry to all hearts and minds the thought that the organized labor movement is the great movement of workers for human freedom and progress.

The trade union movement is dedicated to the proposition that autocratic control of industry must be destroyed in order that there may be a full development of human freedom and in order that all men and women may have a voice in the determination of their destiny.

This is a purpose worthy of the best effort of a great wage-earning population. It is an ideal to fire the souls of men. It is the great task of the labor movement.

This task, this great constructive effort for human freedom, can be accomplished only as the workers organize. Democracy enters into modern industry only through the organization of the workers. Autocratic control with all of its brutality and injustice, remain in full flower where there is no organization of labor.

The greatest contribution which the members of our movement can make today to the cause of human progress is the unrestrained giving of effort in the work of organization.

Set Labor Day as the day upon which our great effort is to begin. Set Labor Day as the day upon which we cease holding the line and begin to move forward in a great resistless wave. Upon that day let there be demonstrations, let there be great gatherings of the workers. Let there be inspiring public addresses and distribution of the literature of our movement. Let there be everywhere enthusiastic celebration of Labor Day. In those communities where lately there has been an abandonment of Labor Day demonstrations, let there be a revival of them. Let there be a full utilization of every proper means of carrying to the great masses of our wage-earners the necessity of trade unionism and from that day on let the work of organization go on with such a vigor, such an intensity and such an inspired purpose as our movement has never known.

It is the hour for action. Rally the forces of labor everywhere for the great forward movement. Bend every energy to the work of organization.

Through organization our movement will achieve every good purpose and through organization will be defeated every selfish, greedy and undemocratic purpose or reaction.

The voices of the defenseless call upon us. The eyes of the downtrodden are turned toward us. The tide of progress waits upon our effort.

Men of Labor, be up and doing. Organize the unorganized. Unite and federate the organized in solid phalanx. Men of Labor, be up and doing! March forward and upward to the goal of justice, freedom and humanity!

VELVET GLOVE CONCEALS IRON ANTI-LABOR FIST

Every advance by labor is marked by three stages—open antagonism, alleged friendship with hostile design, and final acceptance.

These stages are clearly marked as labor develops power and ability to shape a substantial public opinion for the cause it pleads at that especial time.

When cornered, the second stage is greed's favorite device. It may be termed the "velvet glove" period, and now confronts organized labor in the form of company "unions," which their backers call "industrial democracy" and "employes' representation."

Wage earners have forced practically all opponents to outwardly accept the principle of labor organization. Conspiracy laws have been annulled, and the men who no longer dare favor these laws organize company "unions" for employes. In every instance the employer holds the veto power over decisions by these "unions."

It makes no difference to the employers whether they deal with their workers as individuals, or through petty bosses. Whether through agents, or directly, in its last analysis the employer is as much an autocrat as if no company "union" exists.

The company "union" bears no resemblance to trade unionism, either in form, spirit or purpose.

The form of the company "union" is imposed on employes and does not grow out of their experience.

The purpose of this "union" is to retain boss control of wage earners while lulling them into the belief that they have a voice in their working conditions.

The spirit of the company "union" is paternal—the opposite to that which pervades trade unions.

Workers may be temporarily forced into these company "unions," but they will abandon them as truly as water seeks its level. They cannot be a substitute for trade unions because they are uneconomic and dishonest.

Social justice and improved working conditions is the trade union center of gravity, while company "unions" are formed by those who ignore every ideal and instinct in men who would better their lot in life.

Organized labor can shorten the "velvet glove" period of opposition to trade unionism by agitation, education and organization.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES

Delegates' and alternates' credentials to the Eleventh Regular and Eighth Biennial Convention to be held at Toronto, Canada, the week beginning October 3rd, are now available.

You are requested to immediately send to the undersigned the names of delegates and alternates elected by your subordinate unit, so that credentials may be mailed them.

Fraternally,

PAUL F. SCHNUR, International Sec.-Treas.

ON THE EVE OF OUR CONVENTION

CALL ISSUED

The Eleventh Regular and Eighth Biennial Convention of the C. T. U. A. will be held in the city of Toronto beginning Monday, October 3rd. The problems which the General Assembly will be called upon to tackle are vitally important and of immediate concern to every member and division of our organization. The short time intervening between now and October 3rd should be devoted by every division to a review of the more important issues which their delegates should bring before the gathering.

The two years that have passed since our last convention were eventful years in the life of every division of our international. It is essential that delegates should be prepared to place before the convention complete reports of the developments in their organizations, of the difficulties which they have been called upon to face and the methods employed for the solution of their specific problems. It will be a serious mistake if delegates arrive in Toronto with nothing more than a general acquaintance with the activities of the organizations they represent.

The coming convention will face enormous tasks. And the delegates must come prepared to accomplish these tasks in the light of experience and of the mature judgment of the membership. Let every delegate devote the short time left till the convention to serious thought and careful consideration of their divisional affairs, and of the best way by which our international union may meet the serious work ahead.

The Convention Call reads as follows:

CONVENTION CALL COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS UNION OF AMERICA

118 South Ashland Boulevard CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

August 8th, 1921.

TO ALL SUBORDINATE UNITS, COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION OF AMERICA.

Greeting:

You are hereby notified that the Eleventh Regular and Eighth Biennial Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America will be held at Prince George Hotel, Toronto, Canada, beginning at 10 o'clock, Monday morning, October 8, 1921, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the Convention has been completed.

The last Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America named Atlanta, Georgia, as the meeting place of the 1921 General Assembly. Since that time overwhelming sentiment developed both in Canada and the United States indicating that a change in Convention cities was desired by the rank and file. This sentiment culminated early in the present year in the circulation of a petition which expressed almost unanimous voice in favor of Toronto, Canada. One member voted against. In compliance with the dominating thought of the officers and members alike, Toronto was named by the General Executive Board.

It is, of course, unnecessary here to enumerate all the important subjects with which our forthcoming Convention will concern itself, but the reminder is not at all amiss that every effort must be made to broaden the field and means for the organization of the yet unorganized Postal, Western Union, broker, press, wireless and telegraphers employed in the oil fields; to strive to bring about more effectually than ever a better day in the lives and homes of the toilers; to defend and maintain by every honorable means in our power the right to organize for our common defense and advancement, for the exercise of our normal and constitutional activities to promote the rights and interests of telegraph workers; to aid our fellow-workers against the effort to entangle the workers in the meshes of litigation before the courts; to make effective in our every day lives the principles declared in the law of our republic (the Clayton law), "That the labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce"; to emphasize the dominating and determining economic character of our movement and to carry on such political action as the interests of labor will warrant. These and other great questions will, of necessity, occupy the attention of the Toronto Convention.

THEREFORE, THE IMPORTANCE OF OUR MOVEMENT, THE DUTY OF THE HOUR AND FOR THE FUTURE, DEMAND THAT EVERY SUBORDINATE UNIT ENTITLED TO REPRESENTATION SHALL SEND ITS FULL QUOTA OF DELEGATES TO THE TORONTO CONVENTION, OCTOBER 3, 1921.

Composition

Art. V., Sec. 2.—The General Assembly shall be composed of the International Officers, the General Executive Board and duly accredited delegates from the subordinate units elected on a basis of representation as hereinafter provided, each of whom shall be entitled to a vote and voice on all matters coming before the General Assembly.

Representation

- Art. VII., Sec. 1.—Each subordinate unit, except District Councils, chartered at least thirty days prior to the session of the General Assembly, shall be entitled to one delegate and to one additional delegate for each one hundred members or major fraction thereof.
- Sec. 2.—District Councils with fifteen or more members directly attached thereto, and who do not come under the jurisdiction of any other subordinate unit, shall be entitled to representation on such membership on the same basis as other subordinate units.
- Sec. 3.—The basis of representation shall be computed on the membership of the subordinate unit in good standing at the end of the dues period immediately preceding the session of the General Assembly.
- Sec. 4.—No subordinate unit shall be entitled to representation in the General Assembly which is indebted to the General Assembly or which shall fail to file annual reports; provided, that this section may be suspended and the delegates of any subordinate unit be admitted if two-thirds of the members present vote in favor thereof.
- Sec. 5.—Delegates to the General Assembly must be members of the Union in good standing and members of the subordinate unit which they represent. No member shall be eligible to election as delegate or as alternate until ninety days after admission to the subordinate unit, except in the organization of a new subordinate unit.
- Sec. 6.—The prima facie evidence of the election of a delegate or alternate shall be a certificate or duplicate thereof signed and sealed by the International President and International Secretary-Treasurer of the Union.

Election of Delegates

Art. XXII., Sec. 9.—Delegates to the biennial convention shall be elected at the first regular meeting in August.

Delegates at Large

- Art. VI., Sec. 3.—The officers of the General Assembly and members of the General Executive Board shall be delegates at large and it shall be their additional duty to place before the convention for consideration and disposition every proposition referred to them by subordinate units or individual members.
- Sec. 4.—Delegates at large shall not be eligible to election as delegates from subordinate units. Matters submitted to the Biennial Convention by subordinate units or members either directly or through delegates at large must be addressed to the General Assembly and not to a Committee thereof, and units or members shall supply three copies of all matter so submitted.

Amendments to Constitution

Art. VIII., Sec. 1.—All amendments, resolutions and communications submitted to the General Assembly shall be read, filed with the International Secretary-Treasurer for arrangement according to article and section number, and taken up seriatim by the convention.

HOTELS

There are ninety-five standard hotels in Toronto, and in the downtown district are located five well-equipped hotels. They are the Prince George, having a capacity of 200; King Edward, 700; Queens, 400; Walker House, 450, and The Carls-Rite, 400.

Reservations in any of the above hotels may be made by addressing ALEX. S. STRACHAN, Chairman, Committee on Arrangements, 114 Langley Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

C. T. U. A. Headquarters will be located at Prince George Hotel. Fraternally yours, > ROSCOE H. JOHNSON, International President.

Attest:

PAUL F. SCHNUR, International Sec.-Treas.

GENERAL EXECUTIVE BOARD:

Jos. F. Mallon, Chairman, George A. Truitt, J. G. A. Decelles Frank B. Powers, Alex. S. Strachan.

CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS

Our Convention Headquarters will be located at the Prince George Hotel, Toronto. This hostelry is one of the oldest and most comfortable places in the Queen City. For many years it has been used as headquarters while in Toronto by President Johnson, ex-President Konenkamp and practically every Canadian schedule committee having business in that city. Delegates will find the rates reasonable. Sister delegates, wives and children will be well pleased with accommodations, the Prince George enjoying the reputation of being a shelter worthy the patronage of the entire family.

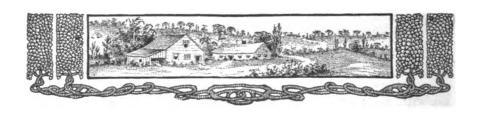

A Committee on Arrangements has already been appointed, and from present indications there are many surprises in the way of entertainment in store for the delegates. Brother Alex S. Strachan, G. E. B. member, 114 Langley Ave., Toronto, is chairman.

The convention itself will be the largest from the point of attendance since 1907. It is expected that every large telegraph center in the United States and Canada will be represented.

Every member of the C. T. U. A. should interest himself immediately in seeing to it that his particular division is fully represented.

Notice to Secretaries:

When letterheads for your division or local are needed be sure your printer gives you Union water-marked paper. Also insist on the printer's Union label.

THETELKEY

Conducted by Eastern Broker Division, Room 504, Number 44 Broad St., New York City

Meeting Days: Second and Fourth Saturdays each Month, except during June, July and August—last Saturday of Month, 2:30 P. M.

OUR ANNUAL OUTING

At the regular meeting of New York District, Eastern Broker Division, held in June at the World Building, New York, it was voted that our District arrange for an annual OUTING during the present summer. The writer was not present at that meeting but was later apprised of having been appointed Chairman of a Committee on Arrangements to carry out such a plan.

Inquiry of Chairman Dunn as to who the other members of the Committee were brought forth the reply that I could choose whom I desired to work with me. This gave me the opportunity I sought to get even, and immediately named as my colleagues on the Committee Brothers Dunn, J. A. Hickey, D. V. Nelson and E. B. Whittlesey, and an impromptu meeting was held at once.

It was decided that the entire Committee journey to POINT PLEASANT, N. J., on Sunday, July 10th, for the purpose of looking over that location for such an outing as we desired to hold. Brother Hickey and Towne were the only ones who could keep the appointment and after a day apent at Point Pleasant we reported back that in our best judgment it would make a suitable place to hold our outing and so, with the approval of the whole Committee, the wheels were put in motion to arrange the details of this affair, and at this writing it gives great pleasure to report that our progress has been very rapid and the main purpose of our labors is about complete, and we hope to work out the minor details between now and the date of our outing, so that all our members and friends will enjoy one of the best affairs of its kind ever held anywhere.

A circular letter was mailed each of our members the latter part of July and in addition it was decided to distribute a copy of this letter to a selected number of our friends throughout the financial district, including operators and order clerks who are eligible to membership in our organization, but who have as yet not seen fit to lend their moral and financial support to our cause. But regardless of their tardiness in coming into our fold, thereby the better enabling them to improve their own and the conditions of others, we extend this invitation to them to join us on this outing, and there is no doubt those who take advantage of the opportunity they are so fortunate to get will return most highly pleased with their day's pleasure, and seek the folds of our membership early thereafter.

A copy of the circular letter follows, and fully explains how we will go and come from Point Pleasant on September 4th, but no words can explain what awaits them on arrival at that beautiful seaside resort. Those who make the journey with us will witness one of nature's most remarkable beauty spots. The Country meets the Sea in historic Monmouth County, N. J.; Rivers, Bays, Lakes, Ocean and land-locked Paradises; surf and still-water bathing; ocean front board walks; deep-sea and lake fishing, sailing and canoeing; motor boating, and a host of other attractions that will interest all hands, including the ladies and the little tots whom we expect to be with us.

It is, as explained in the letter following, optional with each as regards your eating. Bring your basket filled with goodles, or purchase your dinner at one of the hotels or summer boarding houses at Point Pleasant; whichever arrangement you make, you will certainly enjoy a day of recreation. A hearty welcome awaits all who join us.

Our Athletic programme is arranged in such a manner that all who are so disposed will be enabled to contest for one of the prizes and if unsuccessful in one event they may enter another. Each event will be under the direction of a competent committee appointed to work in conjunction with the Committee on Arrangements, and the base-ball game will be a feature of the day's entertainment. Don't miss the opportunity to be with us on this occasion if it is possible for you to be there. Bring all your friends and don't leave the ladies and children out.

The Athletic Programme

Note—A suitable and handsome prize, appropriate to the event, will be given to each winner of the several events.

The winner of any one event is prohibited from competing in any other event.

The Committee in charge of each event will be the judges of their respective event.

NEW YORK DISTRICT, EASTERN BROKER DIVISION

Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, Room 504, 44 Broad Street, New York

Dear Sir and Brother:

The annual OUTING AND GAMES of the New York District of the Eastern Broker Division will be held on SUNDAY, September 4th, 1921, at Clark's Landing, Point Pleasant, N. J .- an ideal location.

Pleasant, N. J.—an ideal location.

By special arrangement, the Central Railroad of New Jersey will furnish us a boat to leave West 42nd Street at 9:00 A. M. and Cedar Street (HUDSON RIVER) at 9:30 A. M. (BOTH DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME), to take us to Atlantic Highlands, where a special train of seven coaches will be waiting to take us to Point Pleasant, arriving about 11:30 A. M. The return trip will be made all the way by rail on our special train, leaving Point Pleasant at 7:00 P. M. (DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME), arriving in New York about 9:00 P. M.

THE CAPACITY OF THE BOAT IS LIMITED AND AS PASSAGE IS GOOD ONLY ON THE BOAT DESIGNATED BY THE TIME PRINTED ON OUR TICKETS, YOU ARE REQUESTED TO BOARD THE BOAT AT WEST 42ND STREET, TO GUARD AGAINST BEING CROWDED OUT AT CEDAR STREET. THIS IS IMPORTANT.

A base-ball game; foot races; swimming races and other events will be held for members and non-members, for which prizes will be awarded. Special events for ladies and children.

Ocean bathing on one of the finest beaches in the country; or bathing in the Manasquan River for those who prefer it. Rowing; sailing; motor boat parties; fishing, etc.

Manasquan River for those who prefer it. Rowing; salling; motor boat parties; fishing, etc.

The charge for bath-houses at the ocean is very reasonable. Thirty-five cents if you bring your own bathing suit or fifty cents for hire, including towels.

No dinner reservations have been made, as it is intended to run the affair to suit the finances of the individual. A large pavilion with tables and seating capacity for five hundred persons will be at our disposal for basket parties who prefer to bring a lunch from home. Coffee, clam-chowder, sandwiches and ice-cream can be purchased on the grounds. Regular dinners can be had at the hotels, restaurants, and summer boarding houses close to the grounds.

Dancing in the Pavilion. A Carousal for the Kiddles

A beautiful daylight sail to the Highlands and a day in the country sixty-five as from Broadway, with the ocean on one side, a beautiful river on the other side and Barnegat Bay near by.

Our special round-trip tickets for adults are only TWO dollars per person and for children from five to twelve years of age only ONE dollar. Children under five years of age free.

Be sure to bring your family and friends.

Remit to Secretary-Treasurer J. A. Hickey as soon as possible for the number of adult and half-rate tickets you will require, so that additional train reservations may be made if necessary. DO NOT WAIT UNTIL THE LAST MOMENT.

The Secretary will have the tickets on sale at Headquarters commencing Saturday, Fratarnally yours.

Fraternally yours,

LIKES UNION TELEGRAPHERS

International News Service, through Superintendent of Telegraph, Brother Con H. McElreath, writes Secretary Hickey of the Eastern Broker Division, expressing satisfaction with Union telegraphers furnished them to handle the famous Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

We thank Brother McElreath for his kind words. The letter follows: July 6, 201.

Mr. J. A. Hickey, Secretary,

E. B. D., C. T. U. A.,

New York City.

Dear Mr. Hickey:

Dear Mr. Hickey:

Please accept our thanks for your efforts in providing extra operators in our office for the handling of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. All the men assigned by the Union reported promptly and did their work in a very satisfactory manner. Your selections were happy ones and the Union shares in the wonderful success scored by the International News Service in handling the fight story, which eclipsed anything ever before attempted or approximated by any other news association.

Thanks casis and these contents of the province of the service o

Thanks again, old timer; we are for you. International News Service.

CON. H. McELREATH, Superintendent of Telegraph.

Chairman Dunn has been vacationing. Just where said vacation was spent he refuses to divulge, but we strongly suspect some "wet" Canadian province as Jack's habitat for two weeks.

Brother J. W. Morris, for many years vice-president of E. B. D., has joined the New York Curb Market Association and is now actively engaged on the floor of the new exchange. Good luck, Jack, in the new exchange. your new venture.

Brother L. L. Greene has been promoted to manager of the General Order Depart-ment of Jones & Baker to succeed Brother Morris. Brother Greene was assistant to the manager for three years.

Brother John P. Duckworth succeeds Brother Greene as C. O. at "JB" with Brother Henry C. Possner as his assistant. Brother J. F. Campbell succeeds Brother Possner on the order boxes.

We commend and congratulate friends on their deserved promotions.

Word reaches us that Pittsburgh sub-unit will attempt to out New York-New York on the annual ball to be held in September. Go to it, boys; we in New York are pulling hard and will do all we can to make the affair the huge success you expect it to be.

Brother George Thiery of E. F. Hutton & Co. announces the arrival of an eightpound stem-winder at 5 a. m., July 24th. Congratulations, Old Man. We're pleased to know that Mrs. Thiery and the "heir apparent" are doing nicely.

Committee appointed by Chairman Dunn to handle our building project is at work and expects to have something definite to report ere long. Get ready, boys; we're going to own our building and it will be somewhere in the financial district trict.

The Key is a little short on copy this month on account of the Editor taking his annual vacation. He didn't say where he would go but we saw a pair of long legs hot-footin' it down at Long Beach.

Editor of the Key:

Brother Ed. J. Cogan, with Jas. E. Bennett & Co., at the Produce Exchange, was married on Sunday, July 17th, to Mrs. Floyd A. Ehnis of Detroit, Mich., at the Baptist parsonage, Eatontown, N. J., the former home of Brother Cogan.

Congratulations are in order, boys.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM (By Jack Martine)

(By Jack Martine)

The two "old war horses," B. Frank Shrimpton and Wesley Russell, have once more graced our fair burg with their presence, after about a year's absence on the Pacific Coast, where they had wended their way in their respective motor cars. They report one continuous round of joy, and their appearance certainly does not belie their story. B. F. S. tells a laughable story about Wes trying to extricate his car from a ditch in a pouring rain, clad in a Palm Beacher, with white shoes and socks, sans everything rainproof. His efforts went for naught and he had clad in a Palm Beacher, with white shoes and socks, sans everything rainproof. His efforts went for naught and he had to be rescued by a passing hydroplane. Wes is noncommittal, but admits having his ardor somewhat dampened. He is considering two or three very flattering business propositions, and has probably come to a conclusion ere this. Wherever he decides to "cast his hat" he sure has the boys of the C. T. U. A. with him. We nover forget. Brother Shrimpton resumed his post as pilot of his old ship (now sailing on the sea of prosperity under the new cognomen of E. D. Dier & Co.) on July 5th, much to the joy of the gang in the fo'castle, all of whom "stuck to the ship." He was surprised to find some of our Western friends had made a change of scene.

"Artie" Morgan, the "young" c. o. at E. D. Dier & Co., met with a painful accident while on a week-ender to Middletown, N. Y., last month. During a visit to the Fair Grounds, HE SAYS, the lighted end of his cigar came in contact with some toy gas balloons, which exploded, indicting severe burns on his right hand and also upon his face. This is, ordinarily, the route taken by another high explosive that "Mickey, the Cave, Man" dispenses, but Middletown being as much of a prohibition town as the Metrop, his story will have to "play as it lays." We missed him for a couple of weeks, but everyone is glad to see him on deck again. Strange to say, it improved his looks.

As an inducement to the boys to attend our grand outing, Ed. Lubkert, one of our worthy members who is summering at Spring Lake, writes Secretary Hickey that he will have innumerable "prescriptions" duly signed, which, he says, will be filled gratis. Atta Boy, Ed.

An old sea-faring man says there are 76 kinds of knots, only one of which is known to everybody. He probably refers to the "what not." The only "not" we are interested in right now is when a member will not do anything to help his Union along except to pay his dues, believing he has then fulfilled all his obligations. Some of them should remember what a hard time we had to make them "come across," and devote a little of their spare time in an effort to convert others who, as yet, have not seen the light.

What's this one I hear about the rendering of "Buy 250/1000 S. C. market" into "Buy 250 UT and 1000 S. C. market"?

Maximum salary in office where this "small break" occurred is $55 per. Nuff Ced.

"Tim Shin's booze emporium forced to close, owing to incessant police persecution."—Headline, Herald.

tion."—Headline, Herald.

This is the bird who refused to give us an ad for our program last March or take any tickets for the affair.

We extend our gleeful sympathy to poor Tim.

"Dick" Coogan was busy this month handing out tomatoes, corn and other truck from his farm to the boys. His elderberry wine will be on tap again this Fall.

We slipped Artie Morgan a hundred tickets for the outing, which will be distributed among the E. D. Dier & Co. clan, thereby insuring a good representation from that house. They never do anything by halves over there.

thereby insuring a good representation from that house. They never do anything by halves over there.

Fred Andrews, of the above firm, is enjoying a well earned vacation in Europe. He cabled to book him for his usual quota of tickets (twenty dollars' worth).

Percy Thomas, our worthy ex-President, has been elected a member of the Consolidated Exchange. He will handle a portion of Dier & Company's business. Congratulations, Percy. This beats the I. N. S. stunt.

Brother Frank McNulty, formerly with Stoneham & Co., has also been admitted to this Exchange. He has a host of friends down the "street." Conversation overheard in Shraft's between two "sweet young things":

"An' I says to him: 'If I'd knowed you wouldda came, I wouldnt a went out."

Sounded like the West Virginia operator, who, testifying in a moonshine case, got the following off his chest:

"Yer Honor, if this doggone shoofly had a came the way he said he came, he couldn't have saw what he said he seen."

Ain't English wonderful?

The Stock Exchange has been so dull recently that the small fire which broke out there was a pleasant diversion, probably as a reminder of the hot times of last year, when the speculative market was at its peak.

O'CONNELL AND PALMER DISCOVER OIL GUSHER

Great was the consternation caused among the peaceful residents of Howard Beach a few nights ago, when Jack O'Connell was seen dashing madly in the direction of Ed. Palmer's bungalow, shouting wildly: "I've discovered oil; our fortunes are made."

Little time was lost in getting Brother Palmer out of bed, and, scantily clad, he accompanied the aforementioned Jack to the spot where the new gusher was alleged to be. Ed, naturally skeptical of these get-rich-quick propositions, was not over-enthusiastic, and was of the opinion that Jack had taken on a little too much "hootch" that night and that he was beginning to see things. Upon reaching the spot, however, Ed's skepticism vanished. There, right in front of his eyes, he saw the oil covering the sandy soil, and glistening brightly in the pallid moonlight.

"You're right, Jack," Ed shouted. "We're on Easy Street now. All we have to do now is to get the certificates printed, get Bob King for a promoter and the rest is easy."

"What's the matter with you birds out there? Don't you know what time it is? Can't you let a guy sleep? G'wan home and go to bed."

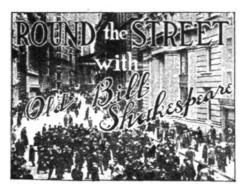

"But we've discovered oil," Ed shouted enthusiastically. "We've discovered oil!"

"Discovered HELL," came the voice from the window. "That long-legged friend of O'Connell's from New York was out here with his flivver, trying to get it started for about an hour and flooded the whole territory with cylinder oil before some guy with a real automobile came along and took compassion on him and towed him home."

Then came the sad awakening The two Wall Street telegraphers looked askance at one another. It just dawned on them that Clyde Bradish had been making another attempt to get back to Brooklyn in his filver, while Percy Bolling slumbered peacefully in the tonneau.

Ed turned slowly and headed for home, murmuring softly: "Yes, there's one born every minute. Barnum had the right dope."

To the Editor of the Key:

That many of the large and influential firms are recognizing the ability and usefulness of their telegraphers is emphasized in the fact that during vacation reliefs on the New York Produce Exchange the managers on the floor are being relieved by their telegraphers.

Brother James Hinnant relieved Manager Charlie Forbes, of Harris Winthrop & Co.

Brother William Ryan, of Thomson McKinnon, relieved the regular floor man. Brother William Kirby of J. S. Bache & Co. relieved Charlie Malette, manager for that firm.

Brother "Dick" Kane, of E. W. Wagner & Co., relieved the floor manager, and these are only a few instances of the recognition which telegraphers have, and are earning from day to day. Keep the good work up, Brothers. Give value for services rendered, and while the reward may be slow to start, it will eventually become a permanent one. Good luck to

F. W. T.

HENRY HENTZ CHAPEL

Brother Chas. Sancinnati, the "Duke" of Henry Hents & Co., is sojourning with the rest of the notables in the Catskills. He says he's away for his health, but we understand there's lots of moonshine up in them parts.

Brother Finster just got back from Canada. Why do they go to Canada? He says they've been running true to expectations lately but if the Good Samaritan's dope fails—"Good Nite, BR."

FLASH

Just as we go to press, a committee composed of Brothers George B. Miller, Dwight Clark and Dave Twitchell, elected by the telegraphers of E. F. Leland and Co., to represent the men in resisting a wage cut of 10 to 25%, report that their negotiations have culminated in a written agreement. Salaries are not reduced. Time does not permit more details, but the agreement covers ALL telegraphers employed by E. F. Leland and Co. and is almost identical with the Lowitz agreement. Full details in September Journal.

Another Chicago house is trying to intimidate its telegraphers and a Schedule will be forthcoming from this arrogant employer in short order. Broker telegraphers are coming into their own.

A large defense fund is necessary to carry out our program. Let all broker telegraphers prepare to help build up such a fund.

MISTER EMPLOYER, PLEASE NOTE TAKE IT FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH

We never place much confidence in rumors. Lately there have been a few rumors that so and so was preparing to reduce salaries. We do not believe it, but if there be such, we have a short message to deliver to him, which might save considerable inconvenience for all concerned.

During the war your telegraphers worked hard and under trying conditions. Business was good. You made good money. Your telegraphers, considering their high skill, were not then, are not now, and never have been, paid their true worth. A good broker telegrapher wears his very vitality away in order that the firm might prosper. He is a highly efficient piece of mechanism. There is as much difference between telegraphers and good telegraphers as there is between salesmen and good salesmen. The members of this organization, in the majority, are the cream of the profession. Their character is good, or they would not be members. No doubt you employ our members, or if you do not, you should—if you want the best.

Business, at present, is not as good as it has been, but your telegraphers were the means of you making what you now have "salted away." The cost of living has not decreased enough to be noticeable; on the contrary, the government is authority for the statement that it increased in July. Landlords in Chicago have already announced a raise this Fall.

Now, then, we think you should know the sentiment of your telegraphers—the true sentiment, not the sentiment they may express when called into your private office—broker telegraphers of this country are having in many cases a hard time living on their salaries and very few are able to save a cent. This is not because they are all spendthrifts, but because it is impossible to live any cheaper and maintain their health and nerves, so essential to the firm's interest. Broker telegraphers will not submit to salary reductions at this time. They want a living wage, at least, and they expect you to pay it or declare yourself as being unable to pay a living wage.

The broker telegraphers have a union. Hundreds belong. They co-operate at all times. They co-operate with the employer at all times and want to continue to do so, but they do not propose to meekly submit to a reduction in salary; see their families want for things they have to have; see themselves lose more of their vitality, which is already heavily taxed by the nature of their work, because of inability to provide the proper nourishment; and last, but not least, see themselves moving to cheaper and unsanitary houses, simply because their employer does not appreciate their worth and claims inability to pay a living wage.

Adverse legislation has been introduced from time to time. The telegraphers, through their splendid organization, have lent their assistance in defeating such legislation. They are not claiming all the credit for the part they played, but they claim their share.

We hope the rumors are unfounded. We want to go along peacefully and co-operate as usual, but in justice to any employer who may have such reactionary ideas, we give him the true sentiment of his telegraphers.

SEPTEMBER 11TH IS THE DAY BRAND'S PARK THE PLACE

You Are Expected

The annual OUTING AND GAMES of the Chicago membership of the Western Broker Division will be held Sunday, September 11th, 1921, at BRAND'S PARK, corner of Elston, Belmont and California Avenues.

The Entertainment Committee, of which Secretary McDaniel is chairman and on which International Secretary Paul Schnur offered his assistance, spent a number of days trying to find a suitable place. Their first idea was to secure some park outside of the city, but either the transportation problem could not be overcome or the park was already engaged, so Brand's Park was finally decided upon. The park is one of the finest in the city. The grounds are large and shade trees are in abundance. Tables and seats for those bringing their own lunch are provided. The dance pavilion is one of the largest and best in Chicago. A first-class orchestra will be engaged. The dance begins promptly at 8 p. m.

While the details have not been worked out, the committee announces that a grand prize of $50.00 will be awarded in the early evening to the one holding the lucky number. You must be there to win. If a number is called and no one claims it, another will be drawn, and so forth. Prizes will also be given for the winners of races and other games. Twelve substantial prizes in all.

The gates open at 10 a.m. and the orchestra will play "Home, Sweet Home" at midnight. Fourteen hours of real enjoyment. The tickets are 75 cents, including the war tax, or 5 cents an nour for what the committee says will be the grandest outdoor affair in our history.

The proceeds will be used towards defraying the expense of sending our delegates to the Toronto convention. We trust that all of you will do your bit and help the committee realize all, or nearly all, of the expense. Tickets will be mailed to all Chicago members and you are urged to remit immediately to Brother R. H. McDaniel, 321 Imperial Bldg. If you have already bought your tickets from one of the salesmen, try and dispose of them among your friends. They will be glad to go along with you to our outing—it will be worth their while. They might win the grand prize, too. Out-of-town members will not receive any tickets, as they will not be able to attend, but if any out-of-town member wants to contribute to the affair and thus help defray the convention expense, his remittance will be gladly accepted.

A prize of an annual card for 1922 will be given everyone selling fifty tickets. Several are working hard to secure their annual for next year free. A number have already disposed of twenty-five tickets and have a month to go.

The committee will be glad to receive any suggestions for the success of our outing. We would like to hear from the wives of members. We want to make it interesting for the ladies and children. Help us do it. A number of the ladies must have good suggestions to offer. Call up President Alcorn, Wabash 1426, and give him your suggestions. He will turn them over to the committee.

LET US ALL BE THERE! BRING YOUR FRIENDS!

BULLISH INDICATIONS

One of the largest houses on the street has begun their yearly reduction of force. This is the most builish sign we know of. For the last three years, to the writer's knowledge, this firm has reduced force about this time of the year and immediately there was a revival of business. The firm found itself very short of men. The men they had let go were very much in demand, therefore could not be re-employed. The men they kept besame disgusted with conditions, not being able to be relieved for lunch or shorts and working extremely long hours, so they resigned to accept better positions. The old-timers, who are afraid to make a move, stayed, Thus, from year to year new men are trained. From year to year they secure other jobs and from year to year this firm establishes itself as a broker telegrapher's school. The man responsible for this state of affairs is considered a good handler of men. Maybe so. Maybe not. The fact that one man is kept busy presiding over the tell-tale may not be of significance, but we rather think the firm could save thousands of dollars and pay better salaries. The Western Broker Division can show this or any other firm similarly situated how to economize and yet pay the best of salaries.

ARE YOU BOOSTING THE OUTING? SELL A TICKET TO THE CLERK. HELP MAKE THE OUTING A SUCCESS. SEPTEMBER 11TH IS THE DATE BRAND'S PARK, BY SURFACE LINES. OUR OWN BARTENDERS WILL SERVE YOU

After the picnic comes our grandest of all social affairs, the annual Dance and Entertainment. It will be without equal this year.

President Alcorn is very enthusiastic over the prospects of Detroit Sub-Division, since his recent visit. He says the boys all got together and decided to pull together in one direction—a 100 per cent sub-division.

Sorry not to be able to announce in this issue the names of our delegates to the Toronto convention, but the polls do not close until August 13th, too late for this issue of The Journal. We trust that whoever is elected will realize the importance of his duty and devote his time from now until convention time in serious thought and deliberation with a view to offering the convention his ideas and suggestions. Much good can be done for the C. T. U. A. The delegates to this convention can do it. Will they? YES!

We don't know why, but it seems queer that Ontario should go dry just as the C. T. U. A. is about to hold its first convention in Canada. Side excursions to Montreal are in order.

Bert Acton has been trying to find a market for "Convention Vote, pfd." No bids are to be found. Evidently the candidates know what a work-out they are facing if elected. There is plenty of night and day work for a conscientious delegate.

The editor of The Relay takes part of the blame for the classification of Art Braun, now in Kansas City, as a "prospect." Brother Braun has long since passed that class and is one of the originals, to whom much credit for the present strength of the W. B. D. is due. We suggest, however, Art, that the next time you anchor among a thoroughly organized sub-division, you make yourself acquainted with the local officers, so that they will know "where you're at."

"MUL" IS DEAD!

News comes from the coast of the death

News comes from the coast of the death in a sanitarium near San Francisco of Mr. E. Mulcahy, for years connected with the firm of E. F. Hutton & Co., in the West. Mr. Mulcahy had been in failing health for more than a year and his death was not unexpected.

To write a true obituary of this notable telegraph operator would be a most difficult task for some fully qualified to do so. In spite of his unsavory attitude to telegraphers as well as other help connected with his extensive wire system, it cannot be denied that "Old Mul" as he was generally known, had really been of great assistance to no few of those whom he considered worthy. Unfortunately his health was his greatest drawback at all times, and no doubt this guided, or misguided him, on his many outbursts.

In the early part of the century he assumed managership of E. F. Hutton & Co. in San Francisco, doing business through the firm of Logan & Bryan, the latter being at that time the only possessor of a coast-to-coast wire. Later he established a private wire from his office in San Francisco to the New York office of E. F. Hutton & Co.

The present manager, Mr. Charles W. Buthman of the San Francisco office, was at the time marking the boards and doing the telegraphing for "Mul" at the rate of $30.00 per week.

$30.00 per week.
In time the system grew, and at the present time it requires two full duplexes to carry on the Hutton business to the

to carry on the Hutton business to the coast.

"Mul" was exacting at all times. It is said he had the wires cut into his bed room at the St. Francis hotel in San Francisco and often times would cut in on the sending side and with his eccentric style of sending "prod up" the operator in Chicago. He had a sharp ear for fast sending and it was not until recently he would permit a "bug" sender to work on any of his wires. The same applies to his attitude in regard to operators being affiliated with the Western Broker Division. He was uncompromisingly bitter against organization, and is known to have caused the dismissal of several men on his wire system for having a card. But from trustworthy sources we learn that the old man softened up considerably as the shadow of the grim reaper crept upon him. him.

In retrospect he might have said to himself, "Why was I so unlovable? Why was not I like other men?"

It is a pity, we must say, that one of his capabilities should have to be so unfriendly, so distrustful of his fellow men, and so vindictive at times. And yet we feel that a change of heart undoubtedly took place as the end seemed inevitable to him. At all events we hope so, and can only say that we hope his spirit shall rest in peace.

Brother L. D. Friedley, chapel chairman of Chicago office, J. E. Bennett & Co., was clected at the last regular meeting to fill the unexpired term of Brother Aubrey Lyon, on the General Executive Board, made vacant on account of Brother Lyon accepting employment in Milwaukee.

"DEADBEATS OF DESTINY!"

Some of the houses around the Street have cut salaries in various departments—the solicitors, bookkeepers, clerks, messengers, and even the colored porters—all have come in for their share of the pruning orgy. The brokers are keen and competent business men. You can't blame them for getting their help as cheaply as possible.

So far the operators have been spared, but it is not for us to boast over the fact. Now that we have things going our way fairly well: we have stemmed the tide, fought well our battles, and stand ready to fight more, may not we ask in all fairness why it is that some few operators working in a few houses around the Street have failed to join us in spite of our special inducements. our special inducements.

It is needless to say that these men are far in the minority. This is a fact that substantiates itself, because, were it not for the majority we hold, and will hold, you may rest assured we would have shared the same fate with the other brokerage help—the "helpless help!"

Everything considered, we of the Division have been very patient with this non-partisan element in our midst. In some cases these fellows may be considered friends, personally, or may have folks who are friends of our folks, nevertheless they are still with us.

Just supposing we had all started out on a fishing party, or some like pleasure excursion. How far would one of these "friends" get on his handy excuse? Just how far could he travel on his "face," and would he expect to make the entire trip as the guest of some patient and uncom-plaining "friends"?

plaining "friends"?

But that is exactly what they are doing to us today. They are going along with us, and enjoying the fruits of our labor, and they are giving us absolutely nothing in return. Happilly they are few and far between, these deadbeats of destiny. Is it not true they are getting a free ride on the good old ship of destiny? Is there any cure for these fellows? Can we make them see the light?

Few cases remain nowadays where a man has put ahead of his duty to himself and his fellow craftsmen the ideal that he contends, or rather pretends, is the light of his little being. But still he is deily reaping the fruits of our labor, and he is giving absolutely nothing in return. Such an attitude beggars our cause, and puts us in the light of the "Poet Who Dled of Want," a verse from which follows:

"Spring with its blossoms made thee blest—blest-

Its bowers were dreams to thee; But autumn's grape another pressed-Another stripped its tree."

That is what the "Non" is doing to us. He is taking all, and giving nothing In return; while we nurse, we husband the vine, he gets the grapes. And now that we have things going our way fairly well; we have stemmed the tide. fought well our battles, and stand ready to fight more, may not we ask, in all fairness, why it is that some few operators working in a few houses around the Street, have failed to join us in this concerted movement? to join us in this concerted movement?

Al Seavey says his baby stands a good chance to win the big honors in the baby contest being put on by a local paper. Hope your kid puts it over, Al.

The Wagner baseball team has won 7 straight games and is a formidable contender for pennant honors. They beat Pynchon in an easy game this week by a score of 13 to 1. Much of the success of the Wagner outfit is attributed to the sterling work and good batting of Lee Brenner, our genial and popular stock clerk clerk.

Charlie Hinman seems to be putting over winners in a regular way now and putting the proceeds into Liberty bonds. Glad to see you do it. Charlie, but let us in on some of the good ones. The writer tried to follow Panama Pete Sullivan's dope and as a result is broke. Sully had one of those "hot ones" that couldn't lose the other day and it ran 7th in a field of 8.

Mr. Henry (Hank) Davis, for years chief operator in this office, and more recently superintendent of wires, has severed his connection with the firm. No details available.

One of the things in this game of ours we have never been able to cope with. It is the utter lack of stability attending us. No matter how safe we may feel about our job. there is always a latent insecurity that is sure to materialize, sooner or later, and at the unexpected time. In all lines of business pursuit it is the same. ness pursuit it is the same.

when a man has served in a special line for a number of years, he, as a matter of course, arrives at a stage of finality and feels there is nothing further for him to accomplish. Disgruntled he turns to his superiors with the complaint that beyond a meager salary, his years of loyalty to them has availed him naught. It is dangerous ground for here he is more than apt to take a leap in the dark, and should he fall short, there is no turning back. And across the span of false ambition no stepping stone availeth. availeth.

DETROIT SUB-DIVISION

. ARTHUR P. MCARDLE

Brother Arthur P. McArdle, 57 years old, well-known Detroit telegrapher, employed at E. H. Clarke & Co., Real Estate Exchange Building, Detroit, suffered fatal injuries, Wednesday morning, August 10 when he was struck by the sidecar of a motorcycle at Woodward and Winder Streets. He died later at Receiving Hospital without regaining consciouness and was buried Saturday morning, August 13, in Windsor, Ontario. Sub-division No. 7, Western Broker Division, Commercial Telegrapher's Union of America at a meeting Thursday afternoon in the Penobscot Building, arranged for the delivery of an appropriate floral wreath and appointed a committee of twenty to be present at the funeral, which was held at the residence of Mrs. John Kelly, sister of Brother McArdle, at 283 Piper Boulevard, Detroit.

Starting his telegraph career 8.8 messenger boy for the Canadian Pacific Railways at Windsor in 1876, Brother McArdle learned telegraphy, coming to Detroit a few years later in the capacity of telegraph operator for the Western Union, later moving to Flint in 1884 where he was identified with the Associated Press for two years. In 1890 he entered the service of the Postal Telegraph Company in Chicago. From Chicago he drifted into the Brokerage business, working Houston, Beaumont, Austin and Los Angeles. Returning East a year later he attended the first Minneapolis convention of the telegraphers union, and soon accepted employment with a brokerage concern in Oklahoma, working with Con McElreath and Barney Jones at Oklahoma City in an excutive capacity until November, when he was transferred to Memphis, Tenn. From Memphis the East soon called and in 1907 he was one of the first to leave his key in New York City when the great Western Union strike broke.

Enduring untold hardships in the winter of 1907 he finally secured employment in Detroit where his Brother, John McArdle, was for many years Chief Operator for the Western Union. In 1920 he entered the employ of Charles A Stoneham in Detroit, switching to E. H. Clarke & Co. a few months later, where he was employed when death ended his telegraph career.

Internationally known from coast to coast, Brother McArdle's death will be felt keenly among the telegraph fraternity. Always first to contribute to brother in need, Artie endeared himself to the profession at large and his loss will be felt keenly, not only in Detroit, but throughout the whole United States and Canada.

Telegrams of condolence were received om Superintendent of Telegraph from from Superintendent of Telegraph McElreath of the International News Service, Lester Greene and J. P. neid at the Cadillac Hotel, Sunday, August 7th.

President Alcorn explained several angles of the program, on which some of the Detroit members were not clear.

After hearing from several enthusiastic members in regard to the betterment of Detroit sub-division and in particular the idea of engaging a permanent headquarters or meeting place. President Alcorn assured the membership that the division treasury was ready at all times to bear the expense of the sub-division's incidental expenses. It developed that quite a number of the Detroit men did not know this and as a result a sentiment had been created in favor of retaining a certain portion of the dues. Brother Alcorn assured the men that the proposition of retaining a portion of the dues was not favored by the Executive Board of the division, or by other sub-divisions; that they realized the bulk of all expenses had to be borne by the division treasury, therefore no chances could be taken in jeopardizing the treasury. ardizing the treasury.

fore no chances could be taken in Jeopardizing the treasury.

The exchange of ideas and offering of constructive suggestions that followed President Alcorn's talk, was all that could be expected and a lively set of workers for the cause in Detroit will be the result. Bro. Neil Kirk at W. A. Hamlin & Co. is the proud daddy of a Ford Sedan.

Bro. Frank Hare, with Anderson Brown & Co., attended Monday's meeting. Joe Wick, John Dugan, Al Day, Artie McArdle, and Ed Williams were a few of the other celebrities at the meetings.

Bro. Don Nadeau, with C. F. Childs & Co., came to both meetings with lots of "pep" as usual—and plenty of good, sound ideas. Don has built a house near Redford on a small farm—says he bought four or five lots so he wouldn't be crowded for room. Because of light attendance President Alcorn was asked to stay over for Monday's meeting which also was held at the Cadillac Hotel. At this meeting, the organization which has been considerably lacking in enthusiasm since January I, came to life, and, after talking over their problems at a well-attended meeting, apparently got a fresh start, which, with proper co-operation among ourselves—and the Western Broker Division—will place the sub-division in a stronger position than ever. A motion by Bro. John Dugan, supported by Bro. Al Day, requesting the appointment of a committee of three to select "a permanent headquarters or meeting place" was carried unanimously, Chairman Blakeley naming Brothers Dugan, Day and McArdle as the committee. Bro. Neil Kirk was unanimously elected Employment Secretary. He will also act as Recording Secretary at all meetings.

Bro. Edward Nadeau, Manager for a local house in Ann Arbor drove his new "Stanley (?) Steamer" in from that vicinity for Sunday's meeting, arriving fifteen minutes late. Ed claims he accidentally knocked the throttle open and drove by the town before he could get the steam shut off. Bro. Nadeau is the father of a new baby girl, born August 5.

Bro. Don Fiedler is spending a two weeks' vacation at Portage Lake. Bro. Harold Nadeau, formerly with Chandler Bros. made the relief at Jones & Baker. "Mike" took a "Soviet vacation" when Chandler Bros. announced their failure, and is first out on our list for a regular job.

Bros. Sherman and Brower, at Howell & Wales, both attended Monday's meeting at the Cadillac helping to work up enthusiasm by getting up and offering bangup ideas several times.

Bro. Bob Shaffert, Merrill Lynch & Co., brought Mr. Turner over to both meetings and helped him fill out an application for membership in the W. B. D.

The regular monthly meeting July 28th was well attended and interesting. The chief features being a friendly contest for representative to the Federated Trades Council, between Brothers Aubrey Lyon and Earl Driscoll, both of E. D. Dier and Co., in which Brother Lyon was the winner. Chairman McMahon was the winner. Chairman McMahon was the unaninee for the convention at Toronto, October 3rd.

The meeting was opened by the administration of the obligation to the new members, Driscoll and Rank, followed by a few remarks by the chairman, pertinent to the fostering of the union spirit.

This led to a proposition by Brother W. J. Delaney for an outing in some nearby park and it was soon decided to assemble at Grant Park, 10 miles south of Milwaukee, on Sunday August 7th, the wives and children of members and their friends being invited.

For a hurried and informal affair, the results were most gratifying, the weather being ideal and the assemblage most agreeable. After gathering about noon in the shade of a monster maple tree, the committee went to the beach and made the coffee in real campers style, returing to the meeting point, all hands fell to and prepared. After playing several hotly contested innings, the wind carried the score sheet out over the lake and so to prevent any hard feelings the game was called a tie.

Features: Murphy to bat—every time he could find a club—Mrs. Delaney's base running—very fast from home to first. Mrs. Lyon's phenomenal covering of 3rd—she picked them out of the air like a professional. Callen's curves—something awful. Johnnie Konzal's playing 2nd—he was all over the field, like a veteran. After the game the party went out to the beach, where several went swimming, while the others gathered round a huge fire, where the committee, under the definition of Mrs. George Wells, made another bucket of coffee and then the mess call was again sounded. After supper the party provided their own entertainment. Brother "Attie" Walsh did a "sand jig" on the beach—you know Attie's clever with his feet, too. Bill Delaney demonstrated how to "wamp" a mermaid. Aubrey Lyon gave us an unconscious imitation of Hercules, in hauling a big log of wood for the fire. Brother Jimmie Norton left last week for Wichita to work for Dilts & Morgan there.

DENVER SUB-DIVISION

In last month's Journal Denver Sub-Division was mentioned as a new sub-division. The Denver unit was merely brought back to life, it having been or ganized two years ago as number four. Cleveland will have to continue as the "baby."

Cleveland will have to continue as the "baby."

The Denver unit is coming along nicely; have several prospects in and around Denver. The boys have begun to see the handwriting on the wall. Any time these fellows come right over with the money of their own "free will," it looks as though they had had something told to them.

Brother "Bobbie" E. J. Carnes is among the new arrivals. He is with Scott-George Grain Co. at Sterling, Colo., always alive to the situation and a hard worker.

Brother M. 'IT. McDaniel (Brother of our wide-awake General Secretary-Treasurer) is the new manager at Sterling for Scott-George Grain Co. An idea of what the firm thinks of him can be drawn from a letter elsewhere in this department.

Brothers Don Sullivan and Paul Woods are holding down the Casper, Wyo. office for Taylor and Clay on the Wilson Cranmer wire.

INSTRUCTIONS TO DELEGATES

At the last regular meeting, July 30th, nominations for delegates to the Toronto convention were received and a lively discussion for the good of the organization followed.

Brother Ed. Boole, after being nom-inated took the floor and in a brief way told where he stood and what he would do between now and convention time, if elected. He promised to go over the constitution carefully and endeavor to bring about changes that would not only benefit the W. B. D. but the C. T. U. A. as a whole as a whole.

After all had had an opportunity to express themselves, President Alcorn made a short talk, as follows:

"I would be remiss in my duties, if I did not at this time point out to the membership of the Western Broker Division a constructive idea for the good of the C. T. U. A., which can be brought about at this convention.

"To send delegates to a convention fully instructed on practically everything that can be thought of, has always been against my ideas, but I would like very much to

"For the past 15 years our parent body has been struggling along on a pro-rata of $5.00 per member per year. Out of this revenue all expenses of the International office must be met. The Journal, and by the way it is second to no labor journal, costs about $7,000 a year; the rent of headquarters; printing, postage, clerical help and the salaries and necessary traveling expenses of our two International officers, must be met. There is a continual clamor from all sections of the country for an organizer. These clamors have grown into bitter criticisms for the International's failure to have an organizer in the field. To those not conversant with the true conditions, the criticism seems justified, but those who know, can tell you the real reason—lack of funds."

"There is nothing better that we, the members of the Western Broker Division, could do for the parent body at this time than to go on record as instructing our entire delegation to introduce and support a resolution to increase the International pro-rata to at least $8.00 per year, per member. The idea in doing this is to enable the placing in the field of two International vice-presidents in the United States and one in Canada to devote their time to organizing. There may be some of you who think Canada is solidly organized, but such is not the fact. They are better organized than we are in the United better organized than we are in the United States, but there is much good work to be done. There are many reaping the benefits brought about by the union telegraphers free of charge in Canada.

"If you men agree with me, I would be glad to entertain a motion to the effect that the Chicago membership goes on record as instructing the delegation to introduce and support an increase in the International pro-rata to at least $8.00. This motion can then be included on the ballot and put to referendum vote of the entire membership. The entire membership of the W. B. D. is entitled to vote on such a proposition."

Brother Newcomer introduced a resolution as suggested by Brother Alcorn, which was seconded by Brother Ed. Boole, with some further appropriate comment on the proposition. The resolution was unanimously carried by the Chicago membership and is now being voted upon by the entire membership. We feel that we have done the C. T. U. A. much good in having our delegates go to Toronto expressing the almost unanimous desire of our membership to raise the pro-rata.

The writer just returned from several days in the Western part of the State and during my absence glad to note of your efforts in our behalf in securing Mr. McDaniels' services for us at Sterling.

our behalf in securing Mr. McDaniels services for us at Sterling.

While the writer has not had a chance to meet Mr. McDaniels, the boys in the office speak most highly of him and are certainly highly satisfied with your selection.

An taking this opportunity to thank you for securing such a competent man for us and want you to know that we appreciate this action on your part. Rest assured if this is one of your "samples," you can depend on some "repeat orders." We trust that the time is not far distant when we will have the pleasure of seeing you again in Denver and would be very glad to meet other officers of the Western Broker Division whenever they happen out in this territory.

We trust that this spirit of co-operation will continue to prevail between your organization and this firm, for we believe that the secret of all business partners lies today in the business.

Broker telegraphers, who hesitate to join this organization, under the impression that they will better please the employer, thereby satisfying their own selfish motives, are doing the employers harm, rather than good. If they were allied with this organization they would be in a position to offer their services through our employment to the best advantage for all concerned. But, we are not dissatisfied by any means with our progress. We are steadily growing and gaining many employer friends.

We thank Mr. George for permitting his letter to be published and we again want to assure the firm of Scott-George and Cothat we will spare no effort to co-operate with them at any and all times. #### ORGANIZATION GROWS APACE

This being vacation period, the Division has been content to take things a little easy, with the annual outing the chief topic of interest for July and August, but with the stimulating effect of the Autumn breezes it is up to us to reawaken to the fact that there is work to be done; that there is seed to be sown in the Autumn, so that—contrary to the usual order of crops—we can reap our harvest in the Winter.

To say the very least, the annual outing, held on Sunday, July 10th, was an emphatic improvement over last year's event, and showed what progress we have made in the past twelve months.

This is encouraging, and shows that ultimately our object of 100-percentorganized will be achieved, if we continue our present gait, but the big question mark remains "WHEN?"

The answer is in the effort each and every member makes during the Fall months.

At the August meeting, our by-laws must be further amended to completely comply with the Constitution in regard to Broker Divisions. This step was taken several months ago in the organization of the Chapel System, but we must go farther and replace the Board of Directors with the General Committee, and the President, Vice-President, etc., with the General Chairman, etc.

The end of the year must see us a perfect working machine, without any prospect of further changes in our system or our practices, except such minor improvements as may become necessary with changing conditions.

The Outing

We left the pier as near on time as could reasonably be expected, considering the fact that many were coming from out of town, and train service was hampered by the preceding storm. The good ship "Idle Hour" looked natural to those who attended last year's event, and gave everybody a feeling of assurance of another good time.

The brothers immediately proceeded to obtain points of vantage all over the boat—some to talk shop and swap lies, some to watch the scenes along the beautiful Massachusetts Bay, and some to reimburse their pockets the price of their tickets at the expense of their less astute Poker Fiends.

In spite of the fact that there happened to be an outing of a big yacht club at Paddock's Island the same day, we managed to get the start and corral the diamond before any of the other two hundred boats could make a landing, and the ball game was on in a jiffy.

After the first three innings, dinner was served by Caterer P. L. Burns, and it ought to be sufficient to say that Mike Reidy and Freddy Heron held a meeting of the two of them—both veteran "outing feed" judges and voted unanimously that it was "pretty good." It was.

After the completion of the ball game, the races were run off in excellent order, and the Silver cups awarded the Winners.

The only regret the crowd felt when the order was given for the return trip was that the sun sets somewhere around eight o'clock in spite of daylight saving time, and everybody, without exception, left the boat at Boston feeling that they had spent one of the finest days anybody could possibly wish for.

THE CHAMPIONS

Leonard Kinney, who was the star of the 1920 outing, was there strong again this year, starting the baserunning event with a clocking which the Division's best was unable to better or tie. Our brilliant Corresponding Secretary is as fast with his feet as he is with his fingers, and so sure was he of carrying home that Silver Cup to his two weeks' bride that he just galloped around as the first starter, and then sat down and watched the other sprinters come within one, two and three-fifths of a second of tying his time. Joe Coughlin was the only man to clip Leonard's lead to a fifth.

Billie Lesco of the Guarantee Trust was another repeater from the 1920 winners. Last year Bill carried the honors in the forty yards, and his victory by a few inches in the 100 yards shows that he is getting better all the time. As with Kinney, Billie's trouble-maker was Coughlin, who fought him step for step from the start to the tape, losing on the last step.

Mister Coughlin, boss of the Redmond gang, was the first new running champ, winning his heat in the 40 yards by two yards, and beating out Leonard Kinney by a foot in the final heat.

Almost at the start of this event, Dan Sullivan sent out one which looked like a bid for the cup, but a few minutes later McNuity poked one a foot farther and it looked like the Silverware may go outside the Division, but Redmonds again came to the rescue when Brother J. Smith beat it by a full yard. Smith's hit stood against all aspirants until his colleague, Meyer Lipkind, caught one which would make Babe Ruth's New York rooters throw away their new straw lids.

The baseball game was a challenge affair between the G. F. Redmond chapel and a team picked from the Division. The final score was a seven to seven tie, the chairman being forced to call the game in order to complete the schedule before dark. Mike Reidy and Dick Fisher rendered the big decisions, after each and every one of which Captain Coughlin thought he was Johnny Evers on a Chautauqua circuit. The best stars in the game were seen by a nosy lady spectator who got in front of a wild throw to third base. third base.

PAINE, WEBBER AND CO. NOTES
In the sea serpent season extraordinary and sensational items of news may be looked for, but the only excitement we have experienced all summer was a visit from Harry Schwartz of the New York office. Harry is a likable and breezy bird and withal quite modest for a man whom everyone admits is the best operator in Wall Street.

Jack Horgan still carries a fine tan which he gathered while on his vacation. He reports the best time ever. It seems he was sojourning at Atlantic City and early one morning, just to get up an appetite for breakfast, swam out beyond the three-mile limit where he was captured by a rakish looking barque engaged in rum running. When the captain learned that Jack was an operator he made him welcome and insisted that Horgan remain aboard until they reached Providence, to which city the ship was bound. The captain broached some of the best of his cargo and it is said that Jack was ashore three days before he knew he had landed. Jack was always a lucky guy.

Does the warm weather bother you? A young man in our wire department wears winter underwear all summer. He is the ice-water kid. The following rhyme is by himself. It's supposed to be a song and goes with the music of "Over There."

Underwear, underwear; it is made out of wool and goat hair; The Winter's over, we have fields of clover, But Reg Hixon still wears his Winter underwear.

Ed Herbert reports a fine vacation in his favorite haunt, the Berkshire Hills. He is just as fond of the rugged peaks now as when he and Jerome Kiley and Sam Schwinger of New York spent two years prospecting for gold. The boys walked 5,000 miles and covered every inch between Goldfield and Death Valley but failed to bring back a single nugget or a speck of dust. The only "Gold Dust" they encountered was the two packages used in taking a bath upon their return. Eddie Lloyd leaves today for a canoe trip to Hudson Bay. G. F. REDMOND & CO. NOTES

Nearly all of the operators who have been here the required length of time have enjoyed their annual vacations. Freddle Hearon visited Provincetown. Fred McKenna spent his time at Old Orchard Beach, Maine. Mattie Atkinson vacationed at Marthas Vineyard. Jack Barry rusticated at home. Joe Coughlin was the guest of Jack Heffernan at his beautiful little cottage at Scituate Beach.

Saturday, July 24th, sixty of the employes of G. F. Redmond & Co. left in a dozen big touring cars for Rye Beach. N. H., to see the firm's baseball team play the Bedford, Mass., town team. The trip was made without mishap, the entire squad arriving safely at Rye Beach shortly after 2:30 p. m. The Redmond team added another scalp to its fast-growing belt. The score at the finish of nine hard-fought innings stood 7 to 6 in favor of our team. Whine the dinner was at its height the Silver Cup.

Following the ball game, the entire force were the guests of J. S. Lamont at the Hotel Farragut at dinner.

While the dinner was at its height the Silver Cup offered the winner of the ball game was on exhibition, and every one was given the opportunity of drinking from it, the cup having been filled with Beverage.

Richardson, Hill & Co. cut the salary of their operators to $36 per week causing the resignation of three of their men. Chief Operator D. J. Sullivan felt that he could not do justice to the job, and maintain the efficiency required with a disgruntled force, and accepted a position with S. S. Ruskay & Co. All the other men found positions waiting for them at a much better salary than they were receiving at Richardson, Hill & Co. before the cut. Thanks to our Employment Committee, who handled the matter very nicely. The above firm immediately got in touch with the Western Union and got a couple of "AWE" men, Coughlin and Madigan to fill the places of their former employes. This is the only firm to our knowledge in Boston who has taken this step. When you take into consideration that laborers are being paid $5.00 per day, and a skilled broker telegrapher is expected to hit the ball for this firm for $6.00 per day, and quote two markets on the quotation wire, a laborer's job has something on the telegraphers.

Brother Bill Conry is spending his vacation at Old Orchard Beach, Brother Mullen relieving him.

Albee & Co. have put in a New York wire, Brother Burnham being assigned to the position.

Brother Finucane formerly of Richardson, Hill & Co. is now with Jarvis & Co. Brother Fred Mullen of the Boston News Bureau spent his vacation at Old Orchard Fred came back so tanned up, it will be pretty hard to make any one believe his name is Mullen.

No Longer the Man With the Hoe

BY COURTERY OF THE AMERICAN PEDERATIONIST

THE TOILER, TODAY AND YESTERDAY

By Samuel Gompers

American labor is no longer typified by the figure in that painting, "The Man With the Hoe," with bent back and receding forehead and all the wrongs, sorrow and resentment of the ages writ upon his brow.

The men and the women of labor of today have learned the dignity of honest, productive toil and have come to realize their importance as the wealth producers of the world, without which toil and production society and civilization itself would shrivel and perish.

The wage-earners of today stand erect as sovereign citizens of our Republic and look the whole world in the face, demanding no special rights or privileges, but insisting that justice, freedom and democracy shall guide our industrial as well as our political destinies.—American Federationist.

CANADIAN MARCONI DIVISION NO. 59
(Quebec and District Notes)

As matters seem to be very quiet at present, probably the lull before the elections, we will deal this month with matters of general interest.

Before the October C. T. U. A. convention comes off we would like to have some notes from our General Chairman and representative on the Canadian C. T. U. Committee as to just what policies he is going to stand for at the Convention as regards Division 59. Being a member of the Committee we assume that he is in favor of the proposed federation of Canadian Telegraphists into one body. We are right behind him on that point but we would make a suggestion to him that we would like taken up in the Convention and it is this: Is there any way of getting some kind of a pension scheme in operation for Canadian Telegraphists? It should be possible to obtain expert actuarial advice as to its feasibility. The writer met an old G. N. W. worker who has grown too old for the key but he was optimistically expecting that the G. N. W. would grant him a pension for the rest of his days. Poor old man, he was surely some optimist. At the same time it is not fair to expect our employers to assume the burden of pensioning off their old employes. All that we can demand of them is a living remuneration which should give a sufficient margin to lay a little aside for the ill times. No one local can run such a scheme successfully but it certainly ought to be possible with an amalgamation of all the telegraphists in Canada. It is said the Lord helps those who helps themselves. Let us get together, brother telegraphists of Canada, and help ourselves in this connection.

Our forecasts in the July issue came so close in accuracy as to the personnel of the candidates for Executive and the E. D. Grievance Committee that there is little to add this month. Before this the ballots and the fate of the contestants will be in your hands. The only contest is that for the Chairmanship of the Eastern District between Brother Leslie and ourselves.

That press manager who, vide the July Journal, classed vacations as a "thankless gratuity" must be blessed with a "brainless vacuity" somewhere around his system. It is a safe bet that there would be quite a squawk from the same individual if his own "thankless gratuity" were to be suddenly cut off. Vacations are not charity, they are sound business. Anybody with a glimmer of reason must know that vacations are necessary for automobiles, horses, mules and mankind if the highest state of efficiency is desired.

A General Order signed by the Traffic Manager was recently issued in which the co-operation of the whole service was asked in helping to keep down operating expenses to the minimum. It is up to every Union member especially, to do their utmost in this regard. Helping to keep down the overhead is sound Union sense and greatly strengthens your Executive when they go to do business on your behalf with your employers.

Brother members will join us, we are sure, in our expression of sympathy to Brother Duchesne and wife in the loss they have sustained by the death of their baby.

We recently heard from Brother Mc-Gillivray. He is making slow progress towards recovery. He would be much obliged if some brother members would forward him their copy of the August Journal when finished with as he would like to have the copies with picture of the wreath recently subscribed for by our Great Lakes brothers. His address is the Sanitarium, Wilmot, Nova Scotia. We trust that in the September issue Brother Ross will have the complete returns of the subscription to Brother McGillivray for general information.

We welcome to our columns a new subscriber, W. W. Cert. 232. This brother appears to "wax somewhat sarcastic" in his Operating Hints. We ourselves are much obliged to him for saving us the trouble of trying to penetrate ivory. Come again brother.

Come again brother.

We would ask our readers and particularly the N. F. members and non-members who may read these lines to read, mark, learn, etc., what G. C. & Brother Allen has to say about your problems in connection with our remarks of last issue. It seems to be a habit of ours to take up a fellow op's grievance and then find out that he is either an out and out non or worse, one who ostensibly joins our ranks and then refuses to pay his levy. Perhaps it is that being always in good standing ourselves, we cannot conceive of anyone having the cast iron nerve to ask a Union to which they will not pay their just dues to fight their grievances whenever they get into trouble. We were under the impression, as we had not been otherwise advised, that all the names published last month were of men in good standing. As they were not we cordially endorse what our G. C. says this month. It is regrettable to have to say it but there appear to be a few radio men whose attitude towards the Union when things are running smoothly is "To Hell with the Union," but when the going gets a leetle rough where do they head for? We know. We hereby promise not to transgress in future and who wants us to look with a sympathetic eye upon his trouble must show his Cert number in good plain figures with the current year plainly shown. Many brothers seem to look upon their Union as just a vehicle for squeezing out the highest possible wages for the least possible work. We don't. We consider the Union can be made of immense use to us as fellow craftsman in the way of providing help when we are in sickness and also of being the only means to hand whereby we can provide for the day which comes to us all when we can no longer meet the daily demands of our employment. These are the lines upon which we would like to see our Union progressing and if all Telegraphers would do their honest share towards these ideals they would soon cease to be only ideals and become concrete facts. their Union as just a vehicle for squeezing

Here's a special paragraph, brothers, you have read it before but it will bear plenty of repetition. "A MAN WHO WILL NOT BESTIR HIMSELF TO BETTER HIS OWN INTERESTS OR THOSE OF HIS FELLOW WORKERS IS NOT LIKELY TO HUSTLE WHEN HIS EMPLOYER'S INTERESTS ARE AT STAKE."

There have been quite a few staff changes in this vicinity since our last notes. Brother Chevron stepped on a banana at Grosse Isle after being there a number of years and is, so we are informed, going to Father Pt station for duty. He informs us he intends to lay off bananas in the future. He is succeeded at Grosse Isle by Brother Cloutier from Grindstone. Grindstone.

Brother Beauchemin left us, amidst universal regrets, for Three Rivers where he is again O. I. C. for a time. There may not be many bells on Old Beauch as a member of the Radio Institute of Engineers, but when it comes to getting that old X traffic out of a jam he is right there with the berries. He wasn't over pleased at leaving VCC but when we whispered in his ear that he had one fine chance again to show how he could star he saw it the same way. Brother Barr is teaming with Brother B at VCB.

We had with us for a week Brother Graham, late of the "Manoa." You remember him brothers, combination of Fatty Arbuckle and G. K. Chesterton rolled into one. He's some boy and has come along great since he was last at VCC. He has now transferred to the s.s. "Canadian Adventurer" and we wish him all kinds of good luck. Keep in the middle of the boat boy if you don't want her to list either to port or starboard.

S. O. S. The s. s. "Volunda" from North Sydney with coal went ashore at Nells Hbr. C. B. at two a. m. on July 29th. Her call for assistance was promptly attended to and a tug was rushed to her ald whilst the "Coban" and "Aspy" stood by. Her fires had to be drawn owing to the inroads of the water and Brother Frost who was in charge of the radio set was unable to communicate with us afterwards, his dynamo being put out of business. The Captain and crew were all brought ashore safely but latest reports give little hope of salving the vessel.

Operators Do You Know

That we never heard anything more about the "War Recognition Medal" yet those WT Naval men who never got beyond Quebec, Sydney or Halifax, and whose principal qualification was being able to trip the light fantastic, in many cases, managed to draw a good gratuity and obtained their recognition. That a lady passenger once asked a Captain how long he had to serve before he got an operator's job.

That some operators smoke cigarettes ashore and butts afloat.

That some operators leave the tool chest like Secretary Ross' farm on "VCV" two ducks and a nanny-goat.

That a certain operator was once taken for the Prince of Wales (on a Broadway car) and he wouldn't talk to me much then, till one day "aboard" I told him princes didn't wash their other shirt.

That operators should not unnecessarily QRU, even if you know who's on—there's no sentiment in business.

If VCC's telephones, suspended from roof—a la fire station, has anything to do with the H. C. of L., or is it to prevent frothing at the mouth?

Congratulations to Brothers P. M. Stewart of Port Burwell, and G. W. Blackburn of Midland. The former welcomed a son on July 6th, the latter was made happy by the arrival of a daughter at 4 p. m. on July 26th.

The improvement in Bro. McGillivray's condition as reported in Quebec Notes of July issue, was welcome news to the Great Lakes membership, and we trust that said improvement may be maintained. The situation in Newfoundland, as regards the holding of certificates cannot but be known to all, and to none more than to the Newfoundland membership, and the non-membership themselves.

In April, 1920, telegrams were exchanged between the General Chairman and the Colonial Secretary of the Newfoundland government

A full report was furnished the New-foundland executive, while the May issue (1920) of the Journal put the situation before everyone. The matter was again taken up at the November, 1920, conference, and the outcome duly reported by circular, and in the Journal.

If the Newfoundland government has decreed that the holding of certificates is not to be compulsory, and if that government has decided not to furnish examiners and if, as is the case, certified men are given preferential treatment by the Company, who have likewise agreed to facilitate insofar as is possible with them, the securing of certificates by Newfoundland operators; it follows that those concerned should see the need of going out of their way to secure same, and having seen the need, have acted promptly.

Surely from November, 1919, to April 20, 1921, must be regarded as eminently fair.

"Halifax Jottings" can surely stand analysis. The "quite sure" statement that the Newfoundland membership are being ignored is unfounded.

All that could be done was, and still is, being done, but the impossible cannot be done by us or by anyone else.

We wonder "how many" are included in the "several" mentioned.

We are told that "about a score are being laid off, mostly men belonging to the Union."

A list of nineteen names is furnished, and the inference is that the majority of these are Union men.

Seven of the nineteen hold 1921 cards. They are Bros. Lewis, Snelgrove, Thomas, Scanlon, Stanley, Hiscock and Read. The balance of twelve are NOT Union men.

They do not hold up-to-date cards, and of the seven mentioned as holding 1921 cards, but two are in actual good standing. They are Bros. Lewis and Scanlon, both 1921 men.

Mossrs. Lahey, Roberts, Young, Williams, Hynes, Meade, are delinquent.

Hutchings, 1911, Stevenson, 1919; Ryan, 1920, never were in the Union. Whitemarsh, Sarricks, and Tasse are new men, presumably 1921, and are not members of our organization.

Mine is that the same apathy that is so palpably evident in regard to the organization that was instrumental in getting them the seventy per (with due and grateful regard to the company's acquiescence in our wishes in regard to uncertified men) has likewise been evident to the Company and its executive in Newfoundland in respect to their other duties. Refer to a back issue of the Journal, December, 1919, and read the Marconi Notes therein. Refer also to the November issue wherein it is stated by the General Chairman in an open letter, that "a man who will not bestir himself to better his own interests or those of his brethren, IS NOT LIKELY TO HUSTLE AND SWEAT WHEN HIS EMPLOYER'S INTERESTS ARE AT STAKE."

Since his grievance (if grievance it be) was filed, he has been laid off, as he ranks as a junior a junior. I have

I have no data on either Bros. Lewis or Scanlon, but it is quite possible that both have been laid off in keeping with Article 3 of Award, as both are men but What treatment can men expect, and what treatment do they deserve at the hands of an organization whose records give us the following?

A stated seven hold 1921 cards. Bros. Lewis and Scanlon are new men and absolute juniors, but in actual good standing, and worthy of the utmost that we can do to help them.

Bros. Thomas, 1916; Hiscock, 1916; Stanley, 1919; held 1920 cards and hold 1921. None have paid levy of $25.00. Bro. Snelgrove paid $11.00 in 1921, held no card during 1920, has not paid levy of $25.00. Bro. C. A. Read, 1919; holds 1921 card. Did not hold card for 1920, and has not paid levy of $25.00. paid levy of $25.00.

As a result of the fire in which most of the secretarial records were lost. I am omitting entirely from this summary the standing of these brothers in 1919. Complete records for this period are not readily available.

Messrs. Lahey, Roberts, Young, Williams, Hynes, and Meade are, as has been stated, delinquent. Whitemarsh, Sarricks, and Tasse, all new men, did not join up. Stevenson, 1919. and Ryan, 1920, are both in the same boat. To cap the unworthy bunch, Hutchings, a 1911 man, evidently considered himself as above the ordinary led by a string unionist and held aloof. There should not have been space given in our section to the printing of most of the names that appeared.

Derating Hints

Before calling a station, be sure and make a test by holding key down for a minute or two. Follow this by a set of Vs. TEST, etc. This will also serve to wake up everybody in your range.

Call should be made as follows:—Send the other fellow's call about twenty times. DE once and then your own call at least fifty times. This is very important, as otherwise he might never hear you.

This should be followed by a complete set of QRV's, QTC's, etc., and if possible use a "bug," as everybody likes to hear these.

If possible start an argument about the check, as this will pass the time away for the fellows who are waiting on you.

The signal CQ, QTC, etc., should be sent out frequently, as no one will ever call you if they have anything for you. The above procedure for calling a station can be applied to this.

Never miss a chance to send or receive a TR. These should be given to coast stations about once every hour, as otherwise they might forget you are around. On hearing or seeing a boat of your line or one that you have the least interest in, be sure and exchange TR's with him.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT DIVISION NO. 65

Cape Race, N. F.

Cape Race, N. F.

We of the Eastern District, Division No. 65, have held our cards for over a year, and not one peep from us in these columns 'til now! We are a baby district of a baby division—but the infantile class generally can make itself heard! What about it, fellows? Why not get busy and keep our end up with our brothers on the west coast? We have given them our support in any move our Division has made, and have benefited by the results; now isn't it time we appointed an editor for our eastern district—say at Barrington, St. John, or Halifax, for the best mail service—and take full advantage of our cards by sending in to him all the interesting bits of news, etc., that are going to waste, from each of the stations every month?

And what about nominating our permanent district officials,—district chairman and district secretary treasurer? Couldn't we do it NOW as well as "later on"? We have REAL WORK ahead of us in our Division, and we can't do Union work unless we are Unionized. If we would liven up the Union spirit among our membership we would be able to put more "pep" into the cause—and consequently benefit as we should from being members of such a valuable institution and asset to our welfare. Let's get busy!

The above independent little "spoke" from one who is just a common ordinary every day member like yourself may sound a bit out of place, but the writer trusts that it will be read in the spirit that it is written—with the interest of all concerned at heart. We are a long way "out-of-the-way" here at VAZ, but we are all right ready to jump in and help along any good move towards the progress of our Division. We have plenty of real live men here in the East, and if some would just take the initiative and swing the membership into line we would soon have things going right proper! A circular letter to the different staffs to arrange for the appointment of a district editor would be a good beginning. Let's DO!

CERT. 54.

I am of the opinion that we should back up Cert. 54 in his suggestion of an "Editor" for this District. It is a scheme worth adopting, and some one of us should be appointed to do the work. At the same time we don't want our brothers of the West Coast to feel "peeved." It isn't independence we are after, but cooperation, and we will never get it until we do something to link up the two Districts through the columns of the Journal. On these grounds I think we are quite within our rights, when we consider the geographical position of the two Districts. At least, we want "dope" on the subject, and then a little more "action."

We are sorry to hear of Bro. Beattle's accident, but glad to know he is rapidly recovering from his numerous injuries. There is something in the law of gravitation after all, eh, Edgar!

Bros. Davidson, Johnstone and Miller at VAZ are trying to break last year's record in QTE's. QRM from that direction seems to prove the fact that they have done it already. How about it, Pete?

Brother Horan has been recently transferred to VAX from VAZ. He says he wishes he was back at Cape Race again, where he could get that white collar off. CERT. 51.

We hear with much pleasure of the recent marriage of Bro. "George" Harris to Miss Helena Irish of Mulgrave, N. S. The young couple are "homing" at St. John, N. B., where Bro. George is in charge. We understand that "everything is lovely" at VAR—our latest D. F. Stn. "Here's to you." O. M.,—with the best from the ol' gravity tank!" gravity tank!

Congratulations also to Bro. Corriveau, at Estevan. How you gettin' 'long with them "'sad' sea waves," Corri? Cape Race still remembers you; also one who remembers grafts and hydrophones. "Best of luck, O. M.!"

Brother Johnstone pulls his weary bones out of this forlorn spot the latter part of August, and then takes his annual leave. Oh Boy! Won't Toronto and good after more than a year out here! Bill's musical talent, good looks, etc., will be much missed by us all. And now we're wondering who's going to be the next victim to leave the home soil and come to Old Cape Race! I'll bet a few are shaking in their shoes! Come right along, O. M., the water's fine! Ask J. M.!

Bros. G. N. McTavish, L. B. Crow and J. Daniel. Station shown in background.

The promise was made by the Civil Service Commission in April that an inquiry into conditions prevailing in this service would be made shortly, with a view to settling the salary grievance. The Commission has now found it convenient to set aside this promise in the following terms:

"With respect to the action contemplated by the Commission in connection with the compensation attached to the various Radio Operator classes, I may say that it was hoped that the commission would be in a position to utilize the services of the investigators working on personal appeals to gather all information bearing on this matter, but unfortunately, owing to unavoidable delays in undertaking the work or investigating appeals outside of Ottawa, the time has become too limited, with the result that I have to regretfully inform you (sie) that no action can be taken on the question of compensation at the present time, and would suggest that, as the Department at Headquarters is in close touch with the Commission, the matter be taken up through that channel."

The investigators referred to are a handful of highly paid ex-army officers who are making a summer tour of the country to inquire into individual cemplaints made as a result of the re-classification of the service. Like the above-quoted sentence, the whole affair is a study in circumlocution and must be highly diverting to those whose bread and butter are not involved. A re-classification took place in 1919, and was announced in 1920. Then time was given for appeals to be submitted. These had to be in by the end of October, last year. Having been pigeon-holed since then, they are now dug out, nearly a year later, and

"investigated." Those concerned may interview the investigator and repeat verbally what they said on paper. In some cases he tells them offiand that their bally what they said on paper. In some cases he tells them offinand that their complaint is quite outside the scope of his inquiry; in others he makes voluminous notes and leads the appellant to hope that next year, or maybe the year after that, if all goes well, the matter shall be given most earnest consideration.

The whole piece of make-believe is designed to kill time, to delay improve-ments for the "small fry" and at the same ments for the "small fry" and at the same time to provide sinecures for a favored few. If the government was sincere in its talk of economy, this inquiry would be carried out by mail and the unem-ployed military martinets would be given the privilege of lining up with the rest of the gang.

The Civil Service Commission finds itself in a position to dictate largely through the misguided efforts of the majority of some of its employees, who belong to various organizations of a "superior" kind. The largest of these, in its official journal, actually lays down the principle that public servants have not the right to withdraw their labor as a means of securing fair treatment! They feel that they are a notch above the labor movement, these eighty-dollar clerks; theirs is a company's union. Thanks to their lack of spirit, the government has now the effrontery to hold back five per cent of all salaries as a compulsory superannuation fund. The Civil Service Commission finds itself fund.

salaries as a compulsory superannuation fund.

But the handicap of being in the same employ as such non-union unionists would be negligible if the radio field were fully organized. Our real handicap lies in the fact that the majority of United States radio operators belong either to outlaw unions or to no union at all—which is much the same thing. Their outlook has been both circumscribed and sectional. Like the civil servants, and like certain sections of land-line operators in the past, they have considered themselves a class apart. If the deduction of twenty dollars from their monthly salary helps thom to realize the impotence of their present organization, they will have cause to be thankful in the long run. Brother Clegg, in the July Journal, does the right thing (as he generally does) when he invites the U. S. operators to join a real union. This Division will also be glad to help them, and operators on the Pacific side might write to our General Secretary-Treasurer. Brother W. L. Parkin (Point Grey Radio, Langarra P. O., B. C.), who will put them in touch with each other and co-operate in the formation of a Radio Corporation Division. C. T. U. A. members in 'Frisco and Seattle are requested to bring this suggestion to the attention of their radio friends.

Brothers Harker and Raine have swapped stations, going to Cape Lazo and Brothers Harker and Raine have swapped stations, going to Cape Lazo and Alert Bay respectively. Brother "Jock" Easson is now at Alert Bay, having grown tired of joy-riding around in the "Newington." We are proud of Jock; on St. Georges' Day three years ago he stood on the Mole at Zeebrugge. Brother Marwick is now at Point Grey, camping out in the woods. Brother Colpman has taken a three weeks' holiday; what a nerve he's got. got.

We should be glad to know which way Brother Alcorn voted at the Denver convention on the Sinn Feiners' resolutions, namely, those on Irish independence and on Admiral Sims. Such matters appear to us to be beyond the proper purview of a non-political Federation of Labor, but as they were brought up and voted upon the members of this Division have an interest in knowing how they were represented.

Up here at Ikeda the flies are pretty bad. The visit of the Deputy Minister of the Naval Service has necessitated much cleaning of windows, and has delayed the local conference.

We are glad to know that one of the private radio stations on this coast has responded to our recent suggestion and sent in an application for membership. The question is still undecided whether such stations belong to this Division or to No. 59, but in any case we cannot refuse to take them in. We must gather in all the floating non-members. At the Merchants' Exchange station in Vancouver, Brother Newberg should find two or three recruits for 59.

MISCELLANY

NIPS AND TUCKS (By A. R. G.)

Ninety three cents out of every dollar collected from the mouths of hungry women and children and jobless men by your Uncle Sam goes to pay for wars, present, past and future. From every breathing human being, the federal government takes these sums annually: for the navy $3.20; army, $3.70; pensions, $2.40; interest and war bonds $11.00; total $20.30 for war purposes alone.

From a family of five, that means $101.50 annually must be paid into the hideous maws of Mars. Whether they get it from you directly or indirectly, YOU PAY! Which goes to prove conclusively the statement of George Bernard Shaw that more civilized planets use the Earth as a storage place for their insane.

Maybe YOU hate the Jap, the Mexican, the Englishman, the Russian, the Frenchman or the German—but do you hate him enough to wreck all civilization in order to vent your spleen? Enough to starve your babies, drive your sons to the penitentiary as felons or to their death on foreign soil as heroes and your daughters to worse than death?

These are pertinent questions. They are being asked by people—the people WHO PAY—of all nationalities. The people at the top who live by setting the—what they call "cannon fodder"—commoners at each others throats, are hearing the rumble. They shout the old "patriotic" slogans and dub those who would end war as "reds." But the cry of the people—with America's glorious womanhood at last free and articulate—is swelling into a thundering roar! thundering roar!

We do not care by what means—"League," "Association," or whatnot—the "ruling class" of the existing order bring peace about. Enough that they have the people's commands. It may soon be necessary to demonstrate whether government of the people, by the people and for the people—instead of the profiteers—is to perish or re-assume its rightful place in human affairs. Let us know our facts and act as Americans should! and act as Americans should!

Sometimes an "old maid"—so-called—gets riled and speaks out. One recently was asked why she never married.
"What's the use?" she countered. "I have a cat that stays out all night, a parrot that swears and a dog that growls at everybody and everything. What more could a HUSBAND do?

"I kissed you over the wire when you gave me 'GN' last night," said the pretty branch office telegraph manager to the main office man, "but you didn't seem to understand."

understand."

'Oh, I understood, all right," replied the city ligger man, "but these kisses by wire always remind me of straw hats."

"Straw hats?" queried the sweet young thing doubtfully.

"Yes", replied the sweet young aren't pure always are the sweet young thing doubtfully.

"Yes", replied the smart one "-they aren't FELT."

New York state alone last year because of their inability to secure proper assistance or treatment from the government, according to Dr. Salmon, of the hospitalization committee of the American Legion, who is urging Congress to provide adequate facilities for caring for shocked and wounded soldiers.

Four hundred ex-service men suicided in Men are serving from 10 to 25 years in federal and state prisons today for pre-dicting during the war, much better treat-ment for Uncle Sam's brave doughboys ment for than this.

Somebody page witchell Palmer and Albert Sidney Burleson. These 400 New York state ex-service men who suicided are plainly guilty of "propaganda against the government." Again: George Bernard Shaw was right. Let the government take the other seven percent of its income and spend that on war too, so that some of our disgustingly greedy pie-counter "saviors" of the nation may have a taste of the hunger, sickness and despair that drove 400 men who did their bit in France to the awful necessity of taking their own lives!

In apology for America's disgraceful ingratitude to her ex-service men, the Ohio State Journal (Columbus), delivers itself of this smelly rot:

"***Cherishing them and their glorious sacrifices in loving and grateful remem-brance and holding their noble sacrifices FAR ABOVE TANGIBLE RECOMPENSE" -capitals mine.

How sweet is Capital's experience with the open shop plan—called the "American plan" by the same logic that would dub Kaiser Wilhelm a true believer in democracy! The samen struck. Their jobs were "filled." The ships on which they sailed —a number of them—disappeared from the ken of man. One of them reported in a Russian port. More proof of the assertion frequently made in high place that American employers have their choice of the A, F. of L. and Americanism or the Open Shop and Bolshevism.

"The American Plan!"—The Wenatchee, a Pacific Steamship Company vessel, is reported to have dumped its American seamen in Hong Kong and signed on a Chinese crew as an alternative to dealing with the Seamen's Union. All hail the American plan!—which means the men on top wallow in wealth and keep scores of wives and concubines while the toil that gives them their stolen wealth is done by coolies and American workmen tramp the streets in search of employment.

Never before in the history of our craft have telegraphers read so widely and from such a choice selection of books. A tip: tackle the novels of David Graham Phillips and Upton Sinclair. Read 'em all. There's a liberal education, for instance, in "The Fall and Rise of Susan Lenox." by Phillips. It is the American "Les Miserables."

Not more than 10 percent of Franco-American marriages contracted during the war proved successful. Marriages based purely on the sex appeal never are. There could be little else as basis of attraction between peoples of widely different customs, thoughts, language and traditions.

Gold is being panned daily in the heart of Los Angeles. The commercial telegraph companies pan it 24 hours a day out of the blood and bone of the telegraphers.

Seventy percent of America's anthracite coal supply is owned by seven companies. There are those in our insane asylums (or headed in that direction) who still believe in "competition as a reality" and in private ownership of our basic industries.

An I. W. W. local was organized in a Pennsylvania prison recently. It is rumored that they have even penetrated into certain commercial telegraph offices.

Eric Railroad engineers who pass certain tests are made members of the Order of the Red Spot and given a red spot on their engines. Commercial telegraphers who rise to intelligent levels and manlike proportions are given the double cross.

A successful New York burglar recently tore up a burglary insurance policy found on his victim's premises. And Western Union officials have been known to demand the surrender of union cards—also known as economic insurance policies—by their telegraphers. The waste basket got those not assigned to pimps.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, has loaned a hundred thousand for raising pigs. But the poor devil trying to raise children gets the frozen shoulder wherever he may ask for loans.

An A. P. man who formerly worked for the I. N. S. and held a card, asked for the job in his home town the other day. His most modern pasteboard was a year old. He's still with the A. P.

The man who gives the "boss" a square deal has the right to demand the same treatment—and vice versa. But there must be written agreements, rigidly adhered to by both sides. It's poor business to "call" the other side for violation of these agreements when you've already violated them yourself. Be honest yourself and then be man enough to compel the other fellow to be.

Expulsion with little formality should be dealt out to any who failed to remit their special assessment until after the result of the recent press scale negotiations in New York had been announced.

See to it that your delegate to the international convention this year votes for an increase in dues. We want a real union and that's the only way to have it.

While the anti-labor elements of the country are howling their heads off in protest against "high wages", black news comes from the marriage license bureaus throughout the country. The number of licenses issued during this June fell far below previous records. The invariably assigned reason was "unemployment" and "high rent".

Here is a condition in American industry that threatens to utterly destroy the American home. The home in the upper strata of American life has long ago passed —witness the Stillman, Kaber, Hamon and thousands of similar cases. The last stronghold of the "home" is occupied by WORKING PEOPLE. They are now being pushed back by ANARCHY IN INDUSTRY.

It is laughable to see people seriously concerning themselves over indigent statements claiming Bolshevism has destroyed the "home" in Russia. And tragic too. When we take the mote out of our eyes, we shall be able to see, oh so much more clearly, the beam in Russia's eye.

Honolulu, Hawaii. He was a splendid America is a big, splendid, rich country, devoid of musty, progress-destroying traditions and prejudices. We are free to make great, daring experiments. In a country organised and supposedly managed "in the interest of the majority" it should be very easy to give every willing worker the unabridgeable right to work at decent, living wages, under liveable conditions, at all times. We have wealth incalculable; we have NEED that is heartbreaking. Let us forget Old World formulas, shibboleths and traditions and create our own—Hail America, Republic of Humanity!

Meanwhile, with workmen tramping the streets, railways crying "Help!", steamship companies weeping at the passing of the American merchant marine and all the "big fellows" wallowing in tears of misery, steamship companies continue to pay dividends as high as 1,000 percent; railway pirates continue to cut "melons" of collosal proportions and the well-ordered existence of the "upper strata" continues to be marred only by the ever-present cloud of "discontent among the lower clawsses."

A glass company at Sistersville, W. Va., on July 15 declared a stock dividend of 100 percent.

The answer: Agitate! Educate! Organ-

Our task is to begin with the telegraph systems. The A. P. organization drive rolls on. Put YOUR shoulder to the wheel. There must be a tremendous amount of this sort of work between now and next spring. Individual, personal work. Work performed by YOU!

ASSOCIATED PRESS ORGANIZATION FUND

The July Journal credited the A. P. Fund with a total contribution of $580.50. Since then additional contributions have augmented the grand total to $612.00.

No suggestions have been received at International Headquarters regarding the disposition of this fund, which leads us to believe that contributors are perfectly willing to let the International Officers disburse this fund in any manner that is deemed wise.

We have therefore, as a starter, printed a 40 page booklet containing the union schedules of the four organized press associations. A copy of this booklet is being mailed to every press telegrapher whose name and address we have. is suggested that all members reading this article send to International Head-quarters the names and address of A. P. and independent press telegraphers so that the press booklet can be given wide circulation. We have enough to go Send in as many names as nossible hrunas

AUTOMATIOS AT DETROIT

The United Press has installed automatic machines at the Times and the News in Detroit.

Two brothers were replaced by machines. One of the brothers was offered a trans-fer which he accepted. The other brother did not care to accept the transfer offered him.

THE LION AND THE BULLS (Or When Friends Quarrel, Their Enemies Profit)

Three Bulls, bound by friendship, were peacefully living in a large field. A Lion had been watching them for a long time in the hope of making them his prey; but saw that he did not have much chance against the three of them. Consequently, he excited them against each other by false reports, so that jealousy and loss of confidence slipped in between them.

The Lion had no sooner realized that they were avoiding each other, and were pasturing in different parts of the field, than he fell upon them separately and devoured them.

84-YEAR-OLD OPERATOR DEAD

Houston, Texas.—Col. Lee S. Daniel, 84, said to be the oldest telegrapher in the United States, died in this city July 23rd. He operated a key during the Civil War for the Confederate Army. He has two daughters living at San Antonio, Mrs. Emily Dodson and Mrs. Russell Upson.

May he rest in peace.

OBITUARY

Howard Allen Ezell, 38 years old, a well known commercial and railroad telegrapher, was found dead in bed at his rooming house in Alice, Texas, early Saturday morning, July 23rd, where he had been employed by the San Antonio and Aransas Pass Railroad the past two months. Mr. Ezell had been suffering from heart disease for some time. Deceased was a native of Beeville, Texas, where the remains were taken for interment. He is survived by his widow, parents, four brothers and a sister.

Mr. Ezell formerly worked at San Antonio, Dallas and other points for the Western Union. He formerly worked the Western Union. He formerly worked the San Antonio end of the Dallas-San Antonio bonus wire when that circuit was in the Morse.

During the world war the deceased was a lieutenant in command of one of the signal corps units and was stationed at man and was well liked by all who knew him. He was a member of a San Antonio Masonic lodge.

He was a member of the O. R. T., and formerly a member of the C. T. U. A. Peace be unto the departed.

INFORMATION WANTED

Members who do not pay their current half dues by September 1, are delinquent and will be dropped from the rolls and taken from the Journal mailing list.

LOCAL NOTES

Is your home town represented here? If not, send in an article before the tenth of each month. A bit of news from the Home town may keep some straggler in the ranks.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NOTES (Pacific Coast)

The bluff has been called!
The results speak for themselves.
AND we find the old C. T. U. A. stronger than ever. Better still, stronger in the confidence of the A. P. men, the broker and other press operators. Watch for the A. P. enrollment. This is the needed impatus.

With this convincing proof staring them in the face, what say the A. P. moguls? Only this: The five-dollar bonus, men, is a FIXTURE.

a FIXTURE.

"And to whom is credit due?" The C.
T. U. A., of course. Render that credit, too, to that group of representatives that faced the "bloc" of ultimatum-servers in New York last month. Each and every one of them are worthy of their positions, and a general vote of thanks is tendered them by the A. P. boys on the Coast.

Slowly, but surely, the A. P. campaign fund is mounting to a respectable figure. In step with its progress the "Poor Old A. P." is increasing its efforts to keep careful tab on the Union activities. The cld bunk handed out repeatedly by the A. P. chiefs that "What care we for the Union?" is being torn to shreds. The A. P. boy is not always fooled. On the coast the underground "back-handed" style finds itself thwarted at every step and turn. We know "who's who." At the right moment an awakening and a reckoning will come—and the first step will find a ready response among the rank and file, ready response among the rank and file, thanks to the ever-growing organization fund.

The latest divorce on the Coast from A. P. circles, a veteran of many years' service, is Paul Onan. Paul has hooked up with the Chicago Tribune lease in the Angel City, where he enjoys being with a real gang, and away from the rulings of the small fry chief at FX.

That's an even half dozen of first class men who have left the A. P. for other and better jobs. Look at this bunch: Johnny Mislove, Holland, Walter Collins, Paul Joyner, Harold Brown, Charley Emery and others. A fine array of telegraph talent, finding better going with a fair and square employer. Who's next, boys? Stepright up—the Ole A. P. can't make the grade, and never did unless compelled to.

Comment has been fast and furious a long time for a plausible answer in connection with the reasons for so many old-timers with the A. P. leaving the MES clan. Out here there can be but one REAL answer: Since the E. F. Wilson-Young combination launched the school boy system of mismangement of their young combination launched the school-boy system of mismanagement of their operators, complaints and bitter protests have constantly poured into the EX office —mainly against the day chief, Young. Round-robins have been sent in, ball-outs have been given him on all wires, roastletters written him, personal abuse thrust at him, and every means of common resentment applied, with no remedy thus far. What's the answer to this: Can there be a more convincing proof that the time is at hand for a landslide to the ranks of the C. T. U. A.—who have proven their worth, and that very recently? Boys, you have tried everything else, why not try the good old C. T. U. A.? GIVE THEM A CHANCE!

Ex-Night Chief Frazer is back in the Northwest, where the harpings of a straw-chief are not heard. Good luck, Fraz; 'tis a grand old country. We are from B. C.,

A tribute to the old timers on the South is in order. There's Kid Trickle, 25 years in harness—a finer gent. never existed. Hepburn, the tried side-swiper at Santa Barbara; Johnny Essiinger at GO; the old reliable Edelin-Null combine; "Billion Dollar Bill" Maycock-Thomas pair, and Ray Hanners-Red Stringer gold-dusters at L. A.—every man of 'em a credit to any outfit. What a cracker-jack bunch to have in the fold with the Card brigade. We know they feel responsive with just a little urging.

The organization fund is merrily mounting the ladder, boys!

ing the ladder, boys!

Results of Chief Young's antics: Results of Chief Young's antics: Ferris, Spokane, services no longer needed—benefit of service! Seven years for the A. P. Rare judgment, Wilson! Has mother another one at home for you to pick for your "fall guy" stuff?

Bill Goodwin at Salem plays the harp and says nothing. So says "Zim" Zimmerman.

Tom Tilley, Georges Frazier and Branin play the old game without a whimper these rainy days. Portland harbors a certain Irish gink, by name Kelly, who one of these bright (Oregon) days will line the first three up in short order. Jim's on the way—look out! A big stick is Jim's big weapon—yep, right from the wilds of Moose Factory. Hurry up, James, good company awaits thee!

Heard on the North:
Young: "G. M. sign up you birds."
String: "What for? So you can pussyfoot to Thou Master EFW for 'signing'?"

Johnny Derville, citizen of Boise, wields his Martin in great style these days. John's Irish all through, shows it, feels it, and let's you know it when occasion arises. Should have more of Johnny's type with us.

Abraham Simon, Oakland landmark, says Mel's four-dollar secret bonus ain't so much. No, Abe, not for the years of slav-ery with this outfit you've put in. They relegated George Allen; you are due next, Abie. Incidentally, most of us yearn for GRA, instead of the present ruling forces

In Frisco what brings the cynic smile quickest from the press operators? Y-O-U-N-G, why certainly! So say the Union boys over the wires to the Northern

That old warrior George Neece is taking em at the San Fran. Bulletin for the Public-Ledger, with Hughle Evans doing a similar turn at Los Angeles for the same P.-L. Good luck to you, George and Hughle. Fine company to be in. Ever work for the A. P.?

(Kansas City District)

Watch us grow!
Who said us A. P. men are not getting wise? Of course we are not mentioning any names at present for various reasons. One of these is that we have amongst us one or two anti's for whom there is no hope. No hope of converting and no hope for them to further impede our progress. Thanks to those who have gone before, we are wise to these birds and all keeping are wise to these birds and all keeping quiet lest we have our plans interfered with by these renegades of the telegraph profession.

Quite a few of our brothers were interested enough to do their bit toward the organization fund. Why shouldn't they be? It's for our own benefit and we sincerely appreciate the efforts on the part of those who were foremost in this cam-

We are continually taking on new faces at various points due to the old heads here and there passing out of service. This makes it difficult to keep a line on the status quo of our co-workers but at the same time eliminating some difficulty in that so many of the older ones are so "sot in their ways" that no amount of reasoning will induce them to "take up their yoke."

One of our greatest obstacles is the apparent fact that our traffic authorities are so closely connected with the Western Union that they are enabled to maintain a continuous string of prospective recruits from the Western Union—men who have been educated in that "open shop" institution; men who have served as scabs for that same abominable rendezvous of corruption and degeneracy—. Our traffic officials pick out their prospective recruit from Karlton's "chain gang" and instruct their operator at whatever point he may be obtained to break him in; coach him along and assist in preparing him for service with the A. P. To openly refuse to do this would result in discharge to our brother or co-worker. Thus we are compelled to admit that it is our system, through our insufficient organized state that keeps the flow of would-be press operators coming along to compete with men who desire to cleanse the profession but are unable to accomplish much through lack of unanimous co-operation. but are unable to accomplish much through lack of unanimous co-operation.

So we welcome the journeying organizers! Bring them on and we who are right can give them splendid tips as to where good timber is located and who to avoid. A few of us are doing all we can to get the boys lined up, but we got to exercise discretion while these stool pigeons are with us.

The day leased wire service has been extended to Havana, Cuba. On June 1st Havana papers began receiving the full day leased wire service. El Diario de la Marina and Discusion, which had been receiving the afternoon cable "pony" report transferred to leased wire with operators at both papers. The day leased wire service was made possible through the inauguration of day leased wire service of the A. T. & T., on the completion of their cable. cable.

The Havana morning papers have had a leased wire for a number of years, but no wire was available in the day time until the A. T. & T. went into Cuba.

Wireless Service

The A. P. Service Bulletin for July prints the following interesting article on the A. P's Far Eastern radio service, written by Welland R. Gordon, correspondent of the Honolulu Bureau:

spondent of the Honolulu Bureau:

"Java and Annapolis, Panama and Vladivostok, Sitka and the Fijis receive daily radio messages from Honolulu and send them to that faraway point.

"Ships lying in the harbors of Sydney, Australia, and Stockholm, Sweden, hear the powerful naval radio station at Pearl Harbor, six miles from Honolulu, relaying The Associated Press report from San Francisco to Manila. Guam copies it as it goes by; Pagopago in American Samoa picks it up for the benefit of the navy personnel there. Like the wheel of fortune, where it stops nobody knows, but all points in the Pacific hear it.

"Taking Honolulu as a center, there are "Taking Honolulu as a center, there are fourteen other radio plants in and around the fringe of the Pacific ocean with which the naval radio works regularly, or is in a position to do so. The closest of these is the navy station at Unalaska, Aleutian Islands, 2,016 miles away. The farthest is the Dutch station in Java, approximately 6,000 miles 6,000 miles.

"From San Francisco, 2,100 miles distant, a steady stream of Associated Press dispatches flows to Honolulu and through this center by relay to Cavite, near Manila, 4,778 miles from Hawaii. Formerly Guam, 3,337 miles from Honolulu, acted regularly as the relay point between Honolulu and Cavite.

"On this Pacific air lane the United States naval radio holds complete sway.

The law of the Philippines prevents privately-owned wireless operating there, so that the aerial channel running from San Francisco through Honolulu to Manila, a total distance of 6,878 miles, is a naval reserve in which The Associated Press is accorded the best of treatment. This constitutes the main press artery to the Far East, since Guam relays dispatches to Japan by cable. The navy does not operate direct to Japan. That field is covered, together with Kores and all Japanese possessions, by the Radio Corporation of America. of America.

"Three Alexanderson alternators, valued at $750,000, are being installed at its Kahuku power station near Honolulu by the Radio Corporation, which will enable it to handle a greatly increased volume of traffic to Japan. The two large Japanese stations are said to be fairly well manned and can copy straight matter practically as fast as Honolulu can send it.

"Recently the naval towers at Pearl Harbor and Wailupe near Honolulu have been doing business with China coast stations and with the Dutch station in Java, and it is reported they soon will be working regularly with the French station at Saigon, Indo-China.

Saigon, Indo-China.

"Two great and promising fields in the South and Southeast Pacific still are closed to transpacific wireless traffic, Australia and South America, respectively. Both are within Honolulu's radio range, but neither as yet has been opened up.

"Until a few weeks ago the aerial arm of the navy reached no farther South than Pagopago on the Island of Tutuila, American Samoa. But since then the navy has commenced relaying to Suva, Fiji Islands. "Between Honolulu and the continental United States there is no lack of aerial lanes. That to San Francisco now is the main highway, but others to Seattle, Los Angeles and San Diego guarantee ample room for expansion."

PUBLIC LEDGER NOTES (Chicago-West)

The Philadelphia Ledger Service was extended to the Pacific coast about a month ago, first to The Times, Seattle, and The Ledger, Tacoma; later to The Bulletin, San Francisco, and shortly afterward to The Express, Bos Angeles.

Hughie Evans, for years with the I. N. S. and Universal along the coast, opened the Seattle office, but when Frisco was hooked on, moved his tent to that city. He wanted to be near his home—Los Angeles. After week, Los working in San Francisco a week, Los Angeles was added to the circuit, and Hughie found a berth in his home town.

Bro. Evans was relieved at Seattle by "Big Jim" O'Brien, who left the A. P. for that purpose. Jim has been in and around Seattle for twenty years serving with the various Press associations.

U. S. Lodge, another eld-timer, fills in the space at Tacoma. "Loj" is a sort of father to the circuit. He's the official fixer." He doesn't worry about catching the last car, either, because his benzine buggy has just been painted red and he can "make the farm" in just 14 minutes after "20."

George Neece, who has been with the I. N. S. and Universal for a year, and more recently with Hutton & Co., is at the San Francisco Bulletin.

Owing to the newness of the service and a different man on the Chicago end most every night, we had a rather hard time getting off right, but when K. S. Risner, formerly of the Chicago U. P. staff, lit in the chair, things assumed a different aspect. Now all the receivers have to do is work their typewriters with all the aspect. Now all the receivers have to do is work their typewriters with all the fingers at their command, and wish for an extra pair of "mitts" at times. "Ris" is a perfect sender, plenty speed and an experienced man who knows how to use his head. We hope he stays with us.

(Chicago-South)

How kum—we got such a lazy aggregation on this circuit. There wont nobody do no writing but me, and I don't know how. However, seein' as how I didn't get any protests on my last effort, I'll try it again; so here goes.

Brownie, down Santone way, says he got his flivvah all polished up (and rebuilt) in anticipation of his much-needed rebuilt) in anticipation of his much-needed vacation, and was counting on Joey Handford doing his buck for him a week, while he drank a little corn, and fed his flivval lots of gas. Then Joe and the boss had to agree to disagree, result was, Joe took, his hat, packed his other shirt in his turkey and beat it for Dallas, leaving poor old Brownie "SOL" for his vacation.

However, Brown says he's got a bird in site from the Western Union who ses he needs a little rest, and thinks he can get it by relieving him for a week. He evidently hasn't been around the office while Brad was warmin' up, or he'd hunt some other means of obtaining his rest, such as choppin' cotton, hoein' corn, splitting wood, or some of those other easy tasks.

Speaking about Bro. Bradford, he's got Johnnie Murphy, and Barney Oldfield backed clean off the board when it comes to speed. When he gets a coupla sheets behind, he shore does shake a wicked bug, and what I mean, if we didn't have a key on our end of the string, there's no telling where that boy would be before we caught him him.

Sam Small is about due back from his vacation. Guess he'll have a few fish stories to tell us, or maybe a bear story, anyway, we know he had a darn good time, 'cause look where he went.

I'll say Brother Smith has been holding down Sam's job in fine shape. He came in on the wire the first night and ses, being as this is his first shot at a press job he might be a bit shaky, however, we've failed to get any "shakes" out of him, so he was either spoofin' us or he's a Wampus-Kat, one. We sure hate to see you leave us, Smith. Let's hear from you once in a while when you get away.

Brother R. L. Bradford relieved E. M. Moore as Chief Operator in "JN" Chicago Moore as Chief Operator in "JN" Chicago a short time ago, and has things running very smoothly, with the assistance of Brother Fisher on the east, and Brother Risner on the West, and last but not least, "Dynamite" Mills as general utility man. man.

Risner bought an "automobile" and he Risner bought an "automobile" and he says if he lives over this he thinks he'll take a chance and get married. It's hard to tell which is the most expensive nowadays, an automobile or a wife, but I saw a fellow that said he knew a man that had both. Gee!

I think it would be a good idea for the Public Ledger Syndicate to make some arrangement whereby they furnish all the operators, instead of some of their clients furnishing their own men. This has resulted in quite a bit of dissatisfaction on the part of the operators hired by the individual clients, not receiving as much as the Public Ledger operators, for the same work.

We think the Public Ledger would find that an arrangement of this kind would redound to their benefit in more ways than one.

When is a BIRD a FISH? When he works free bonus eight hours a day at a $130.00 rating.

The Postal is still slashing wages. Seems as though they never know when to quit when they start in that direction. But it takes a lot of pushing to move them a notch in the other.

The renewal of the old contracts with the Press Associations should show the doubtful ones what it means to be organized.

How about bringing over a few of those Wine-Trees Professor Whoozit discovered in Paraguay and planting 'em in a home for broken-down operators? I think this plan would open up enough jobs for the unemplayed. unemployed.

When I break down at the key just lead me stop.

Don't take me to no palace, in Fort Worth or Dallas.

I'll take a cot out in the woods for mine; But when you pick out the tree, puncture it and see That it is filled to overflowing with good wine.

We had Frank Darby with us for a while the other night. Said he'd been airing Risner's car out, and had to come back for gas. Better be careful, Ris; Frank only has one speed, and that's "high."

See you all next month, 73.

I. N. S. NOTES (Ohio State)

"We report progress."

The International's banner circuit is living up to its record in every way. Increased activity is being shewn all along the line. With the I. N. S. scale out of the way, the boys are hitting the A. P. organization drive hard and extending their activities to other states.

Vacation days have brought about a number of changes.

Bro. E. W. Schultheis, of Marietta, before being permanently assigned to the Wheeling post, made vacation reliefs at Youngstown and Mansfield.

Bill Cruse, Middletown, exchanged with harlie Hawkins. Pittsburgh, "Hawk" Charlie Hawkins, Pittsburgh, "Hawk" was an old member of the Onio state family who had strayed away, searching fruitlessly for better pastures.

Bro. Thorne, Wheeling, resigned, due to illness.

B. Reardon, Columbus, made vacation relief at Mansfield and Dayton. Huske, Cleveland bureau manager, relieved Had-dox, staff correspondent at Columbus dox, staff correspondent at Columbus bureau, Floyd MacGriff holding down the Cleveland job. Note: The "notes" are abbreviated this month because the correspondent, Rickes Graham, is canoeing up the Ohio on an extended sick leave. Nervous prostration. Paddling up stream in a bathing suit 15 miles a day will take that out. Summers of N. Y. and Moundsville is relieving at Marietta. Marietta.

Breaking a painful silence, here are some notes of the above circuit, which, though silent as to "notes," is a hummer with quality and quantity. Paul Joyner at New Orleans gives the States the "real news," some of the others being Hughes at Mobile, James at Pensacola, Apperson at Meridian, Turner II at Memphis, McGrew at Nashville, and Mays at Birmingham. With Charley Allison manning the machine gun in Atlanta and Artie Shields wielding a fatherly influence as chief operator, this is one of the best and fastest circuits in the country.

ROCHESTER NOTES

Edward O. Kelly, for a number of years United Press Operator at the Union-Times office, and for the past several months salesman for an Automobile Concern, died at the General hospital here July 16th, following an operation.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, a young son and his father, to whom sympathy of friends is extended.

The funeral was held from his late home, 463 Congress Ave. Interment in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

The Democrat and Chronicle, like the big Metropolitan dailies, is building up its telegraph department by adding special features carried over leased wires.

The Herald which has been a mail client of the David Lawrence (Consol Press) dispatches, will soon be connected up by wire, it is rumored, and we hope a man with a spine strong enough to carry continuous membership in the C. T. U. A. will get the job—be it long or short wire trick.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE (CMoage-South)

Nothing but the highest praise has been heard for the manner in which the three Union press committees conducted the recent negotiations for new scales. The three committees are composed of men of great sterling worth and strong character.

President Roscoe Johnson, in a letter to the writer referring to the negotiations, said:

"The rank and file are to be congratuinted upon their selection of committeemen during the past two years. Without strong characters in these positions an entirely different story would have resulted."

The committees were backed up by a determined and unwavering membership. At all times during the negotiations the committeemen expressed the will and determination of the membership. That will and determination was that we would accept no reduction in wages.

accept me reduction in wages.

Press salaries today are what they should have been on the very day that the code and leased wires were introduced. So why should we have accepted a reduction in wages? What we have we are going to hold and we expect to add to it later on. The Canadian minimum salary for day work (six days) is now $45 per week, just 50 cents per week less than the night minimum scale, which is $45.50 for six nights' work. Night work, even with the two big telegraph companies, has always commanded higher salaries than day work. Night press work ought to be correspondingly higher and the exceptional skill of a press telegrapher must always be taken into consideration when his rate of pay is fixed. The Canadians are still ahead of us and we must catch up with them.

The statements in July Journal, of

The statements in July Journal, of Messrs. Ingoldsby, Seefred, Kerrigan, Shea, Wise, and Secretary-Treasurer Schnur, relative to the negotiations, were read with deep interest and appreciation by the operators on the Chicago-South circuit. We heartly commend and congratulate them.

The editorial in July Journal entitled, "Telegraphers Successful in Fight Against Wage Reductions" was read with deep and absorbing interest. We thank and congratulate the author of that contribution.

J. W. Whalen, of the I. N. S., wrote a very valuable article in July Journal on the subject of living up to our contracts. Where operators working under Union contracts fail to fulfill their responsibility and obligation they should be properly disciplined by circuit chairmen. Members of the C. T. U. A. should at all times make our organization an asset to all who do business with it.

Universal Service telegraphers on the Chicago-South wire highly appreciate the offer of financial assistance made by the Eastern Broker Division and Western Broker Division to Universal Service Division in case of serious trouble as a result of the recent negotiations of the three general committees of the unionized news services. We extend to the two broker divisions our sincere thanks. In the event that any of the broker divisions should ever need our assistance in any way they know where we stand.

With Roy Newcomb on the mound pitching pennant winning Morse, the Southeastern circuit turned from the "Morks" to Morse again August 1, and the smile on the faces of the editors who handle the copy seems to indicate they are pleased with the change. "Newky," as he is known to his friends (which includes all the telegraph fraternity), only sat in a few hours, and we understand the regular "sit" has not been filled, but those filling in have given us good "stuff."

Most of the already is new to the weiter

Most of the circuit is new to the writer of this epistle, but we note Landers at Jacksonville, Puller, late of Memphis, I. N. S., at Charleston, Rice at Washington, and Pinson at Atlanta.

To Members of Div. No. 97:

The work of your committee in the negotiations just completed may be summarized by stating that we carried out your instructions to accept no reductions, with one exception. That was the loss of 5c an hour in the overtime rate. The rate is now equal to that of the United Press night overtime scale.

The tendency for some years has been to eliminate discriminatory rates between competing press associations. Your committee took another step in this direction, unfortunately causing a slight loss to two or three of our members, but more firmly establishing the principle of no discrimination by either the union or by any management. This principle should return good dividends in the future on the investment of 5 cents.

An important addition to the contract this year is an arbitration clause. We spent nearly two days studying and discussing this clause before the management and the committee was agreed. The management desired that the acceptance of the award be made mandatory, which we could not even consider.

As it stands there will be three stages in future negotiations, any one of which is quite sure to result in an equitable agreement. If the final award should prove unacceptable, however, the strike weapon can still be exercised.

waapon can still be exercised.

While the tendency of future negotiations will be towards closer co-operation between the committees representing press divisions than ever before, it will be all the more important to see that our division is represented by a committee that will guard our membership. The managements will be as one unit—as they have been in the past—and will concentrate their strongest efforts on the weakest front of the three committees. In the last analysis, your committee became convinced within 24 hours after arriving in New York, a blow struck at one committee was a blow struck at the other committees. If one committee had been forced to take a reduction, the task of the other committees would have been well nigh impossible.

Danger of rupture in the relationship of the press associations and the operators is minimized by the arbitration clause, but the necessity of adequate representation by each division is as important if not more so than ever.

We want you all to know that the wise and courageous leadership of our international president. Roscoe Johnson, was the biggest and probably the only reason for our success this year. He not only knows the trials and needs of press operators, but he has vision and courage far beyond that of the ordinary leader. The C. T. U. A. needs his services another term; but the press divisions can hardly get along without him.

Thanking you for your splendid support and good wishes,
Sincerely and fraternally yours,
FRANK B. POWERS,

General Chairman. MOULTON B. NORTON, Committeeman.

Journalistic field and herald a few happenings broadcast, but very few.

The changes that have taken place recently are too numerous to mention, or rather to keep track of. The force as it stands now is practically all new. They come and go in bunches. Some merely working a week, while others remain a triffe over. The primary cause is the salary. Why operators should come here to work for a hundred, at the most a $110 per month is a mystery as they cannot meet work for a hundred, at the most a $110 per month is a mystery as they cannot meet their living expenses at this proratio as living has rather increased than decreased. Room rent remains high and living is in unision. Every commodity has recorded a 9 per cent jump skyward during the month of June and July, so the daily press says, and a close scrutiny of the daily market reports show a small percentage advance weekly, and why? Well, what's the use of confirmation? That wouldn't stop the migration; let 'em all come and be convinced. be convinced.

Bro. Janecki and Miss Eva Ranger have "done gone and done it." They were married August 1st and, of course, congratulations were necessarily forthcoming. They were both well and favorably known and as a consequence they have the best wishes of all.

You must bear in mind that Bro. Janecki is from the Lone Star State (Texas) and of course it was quite appropriate that he select a "Ranger."

"Boomer" Bill, also of Texas, looked us over just one day and he's gone.

Miss Derby has left us to cast her lot with the Detroit United Ry. Co., working their leased wire, a very desirable position and a new creation for a street railway company. She is greatly missed, as she was a prime favorite, but what the Postal misses the D. U. R. shall gain—a very fine telegrapher.

Everyone has had their vacation and has settled down to another year's work.

Things look very poorly for this winter as far as work is concerned, and those who contemplate coming here had better thing twice before so doing.

If the fraternity at large can't see the necessity of organizing, and solidly, too, they will be taught a lesson, if I am not mistaken, and that before the holidays are over. #### CINCINNATI NOTES

Extremely inactive with increasing quietness, reads the Cincinnati office barometer. We have lost Brother Copher to the Press game, and he is now with the U. P. on the Ohio State circuit. Brother Bob Morgan continues to work the New York night wire with commendable punctuality, believing sincerely that hard times will strike this country some day if we lose the hay-making weather.

We need a revival of the spirit that atones chronic pessimists and sanctifies that freak of humanity known as "nons" around this joint. Why it is that our fellow-workers are so indifferent to the matter of solidarity, after just seeing the press operators gain a marked victory in the renewal of their schedules for the ensuing year, is more than we can understand. stand.

Had the press operators been as lax and as ridiculously unfortified as the middle of the year 1921 finds the commercial operators throughout the country, that big twenty per cent cut so boldly hurled at the I. N. S. and the U. P. men a short time ago would now be in effect. Happily and fortunately, though, we are pleased to comment, the press operators were solid and met the proposal with a flat denial and a unanimous ultimatum, which shook the earth. That gilded arena wherein Dempsey scalped Carpentier at Jersey virtually reeled and rocked in fear of a press tie-up until the wiseacres of the East could perambulate the necessary attestations and cause telegraphic word to go over the press wires as a "flash" that go over the press wires as a "flash" that recantation at the eleventh hour had registered a C. T. U. A. victory in the form of holding what we've got, even though new concessions seem at this moment to be hanging in the balances of time.

We cannot forecast the outcome of this industrial situation, but brothers, let's play wise like the press men and have our forces mobilised 100 per cent solid in anticipation of any way, or how, that she may swing.

may swing. may swing.

Come on you fellows that haven't renewed your cards. It's getting late. Don't take the full count. This lagging back don't show the right pep and spirit. Come across; if you are up against it and can't get the amount together, come and have a little talk with us. If your heart is in the right place and your meaning is all right, we will see you through for a card. Now let's go. let's go.

CANADIAN BROKER DIVISION NO. 21

Greetings—Holiday reliefs are almost over by now, and let me tell you it was not very easy to get competent reliefs. There were no broker men out of work, and a little doubling up had to be done. This was unavoidable, and if not done, many a broker man would have had to do without his vacation. There are a few holiday reliefs to be made yet, but most of these will be for the fall shoot, such brothers as Jules Scriver going duck hunting in the fall and some others doing the fall meets at the local tracks.

The dues for the second half are over-hunting in the fall and some others doing the fall meets at the local tracks.

The dues for the second half are overdue and the Secretary-Treasurer will be glad to hear from all who have not paid as yet. Come across! Things are going a lot better now, and quite a few of the old timers have joined our ranks once more, and we would certainly like to see the new ones come in, also the old reliables who have always paid, surely they are not now going to drop behind, and set the ones just in a bad example.

A good word for the Union these days from those holding a card does a lot, don't just keep your card, help the Secretary and YOUR UNION by getting others interested, either over the wire or in your walks about town. If things are not going right, don't blame someone on the job, or trying to be on the job. Help get a non and then propose some of your ideas. They are what is wanted, don't have it a one-man affair. By the way, while talking about interest in the Union, what about the Convention? Don't you all think, as Brother Schnur does, that the Canadian Broker Division should be represented in Toronto? If not represented, I fear we will be the only telegraphers not there. Our funds are quite large enough to spend for this purpose, and if not willing to spend the money, why, we can save some by appointing a delegate from a Toronto broker office who will be on the spot, and save railway fare. It would only cost relief money, or a little more

There are several good broker men in Toronto. Brother Clarke, who is transferring to our Division from Canadian Press, would probably be willing to represent us at Convention. I have approached him on this matter, but have not received a reply. I am taking the liberty of proposing this, only as a suggestion, and as a means of conserving funds, but insist we should have a representative at the Convention.

A meeting will be called towards the end of this month (August) to which it is hoped all broker operators will respond and lend a hand in getting the Convention matter straightened out, and also formulate ideas as to getting the delinquents lined up. I am sure it is only forgetfulness on the part of many, as their ideas are wholly union when talking the matter over, but they should show it in a more practical way.

Bro. Lawson, we regret to say, suffered a severe loss in the death of his father a severe loss in the death of his father in an accident, just east of his home town, Campbellton, N. B. The sincere sympathy of the entire Canadian Broker Division goes out to Bro. Lawson and family in their sad bereavement. Bro. Lawson's sister, we hope, has by this time fully recovered from her attack of typhoid fever. Bro. Hines spent his vacation with Mrs. Hines at Ste. Agather Des Monts, but was called back before the full time was up, due to Bro. Lawson being called home on receipt of the news of his father's sudden death. Bro. Lawson whilst at Campbellton on this sad errand, asked to have his holideath. Bro. Lawson whilst at Campbellton on this sad errand, asked to have his holidays granted him then, but there being no broker men around, this request was not granted, and he had to return, which goes to show that good broker men are in demand, and we should not lose what little we have, by breaking away from the Union, but get together and hold what we got, and go after more, anl only protect the man with a card.

Brotter Long spent, part of his holidays the man with a card.

Brother Long spent part of his holidays at Frasers Point, Que., Fort Covington, and St. Faustin. While at Frasers Point, Shorty caught a four and a half pound black bass. We can vouch for this as we saw the picture, in fact the writer took the picture. Will publish it in the journal shortly. I'll bet there will be a holler from Shorty, he's so darned modest about his achievements.

Bill Hartley was married on the 26th of July. We wish you best of luck Bill, but this bunch. Bill WAS a good union man, but has forgotten us lately.

Bro. Williams did not tell us where he

Bro. Williams did not tell us where he was going on his holidays, but guess Over The Top. Williams is enjoying himself.

hearts they broke at the beaches this summer.

Have just received good news that Bro. Cole is working hard to line up the whole gang, and we are glad to state that Bros. Andrews. Purcell. Alexander and Peebles are with the boys. That's right, they may cut the bookkeepers' PAY, but not the operators'. We spent a little time learning, and are not going to lose what we have, boys. A little more spirit like this and we could get together with quite a degree of fight in us.

Wish we could hear from the membership re the Convention. I think a good idea would be to send out a questionnaire. Have just received a flash that Bro. Clarke would be willing to act for us. He is taking it under advisement. This would save our funds and still get good results. What are your ideas? Don't forget the meeting to be called this month. All ideas will be thankfully received. And another thing, please help your Treasurer by handing the money in to him, he don't like to have to go after it. It's up to you to come across to him. You are either with the boys or against them. Money talks in this case.

How about the solid east and solid west? Let's hear a little more. Get after your men on the wire, see if you can't stir 'em up. Those who start to pay up their back dues and then stop, why not continue? You get nearly paid up, then drop back again. Let's make a big fight to get all again. Let's make a nig right to get all the boys in, and then hold regular meet-ings and get our officers installed. Sher-brooke and several points still to be heard from.

CANADIAN PACIFIC SYSTEM (Vancouver District)

Matrimony has claimed two of our popular young lady members, Sisters Cora Buss, Clerical Dept., and Isobel Wyness of the Printer Staff. Miss Buss, who acts as secretary for the Clerical Dept. in very efficient manner, becomes the wife of Alex. Grant, formerly cashier at this point, now with Bradstreet Company, Vancouver, Miss Wyness becomes the wife of W. Wilson, principal of Cranbrook High School. Both young ladies possessed the genuine Union spirit and took an active part in the welfare of our organization. The local C. T. U. A. members presented Sister Buss with a silver tea service and Sister Wyness with a mahogany mantle clock, which accompanied our very best clock, which accompanied our very best wishes "that the newly formed union would result in an unbroken period of happiness throughout their future lives."

Holiday reliefs are in full swing, and the weather could not be improved if "made to order." Three or four men are away at a time, their places being filled by those laid off last fall, each one or whom had two to four years seniority in "VR" office. Married men with permanent homes are yet unable to secure steady work throughout the year. Mighty discouraging, eh, what?

No new additions to staff this summer. Brother Fletcher from Hotel Vancouver is getting little main line practice in "VR." He is here temporarily until Sister Sproat returns from Glacier Hotel.

Bro. Harry Booth (Calgary) paid us a flying visit last month, but was here long enough to indulge in a few hours' chat with the local committee. Harry is bred of the right stuff. Although he may ap-pear ready to criticize at times, his heart

We are glad to have Sister Chenette of the Morkrums back again. She was one of the unfortunates who got caught in the maelstrom of reductions last fall. Legitimate unemployment presents a serious problem in this city. There are officially 650 married men with families unable to secure work. We are not Bolshevists, but it's a pathetic condition, when women and children are going hungry and sparsely clothed, yet the world nations continue to squander thousands, yes, millions upon millions of dollars on huge armies and navies.

Sister McDaniels has gone to English Bay for her holidays, where she will give lessons in fancy diving and the Australian crawl.

Nite C. O. Decou is sure some globe trotter. He just returned from Toronto, where he spent his vacation, calling at Fort Norman Oil Field on his return, which, by the way, Bill says, is not in a class with Boundary Bay.

Evan Goodfellow, formerly wire chief at this office, was here recently relieving Supt. R. N. Young for vacation.

The failure of Grant, Whyte & Co. (brokers) gave us a considerable joit last week. Their closing up leaves Brothers Wheelhouse and Binnie on the curb.

Chief Operator J. W. Baker is absent on holidays; also Brother Gauvreau. Joe and Cookie are our two leading sports. Any day this week, if wanted, they will be found at the races looking for the pony that will repeat "Snowcap's" performance, which came across 120 for 2.

The Linemen, Canadian National Telegraphs

Telegraphs

A copy of the current schedule of Rules and Wages was mailed to each stationed lineman some time ago. This schedule was also published in the Journal for April. It appears, however, that some of our men received neither the schedule itself nor the Journal for April. In consequence of this there have been inquiries for information, particularly with regard to the provisions covering hours for work and overtime. There is also complaint that some have difficulty in getting the proper interpretation of the overtime clauses from the English copy. Therefore, in order that the linemen receiving this Journal may have accurate information on the subject, we translate from the official printed schedule the clauses therein which govern hours of work and over-time:

ARTICLE VI

ARTICLE VI
1. Eight consecutive hours, exclusive of the meal hour, shall constitute a day's work.

2. The hours of duty of all linemen will commence between six and nine a.m., and will be the same on all days of the week.

3. Except in cases of emergency, linemen will have eight consecutive hours' rest within each twenty-four hour period.
4. Linemen required for service outside the regular hours of duty will be given an official order as authority, and will be released in the same manner. This rule is not to apply in cases of emergency. emergency.

emergency.

5. Linemen required to work on Sundays, or outside of regular assigned hours on any day, will be paid overtime for such service at the rate of time and one half. For work within regular hours of duty on New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day (or King's Birthday), Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day, linemen will be paid overtime at pro rata rates per hour. In the event of any of the above holidays falling on Sunday, the day substituted by the Government will be observed.

6. If a lineman is called before or after his assigned hours, or within regular hours on Sundays or holidays mentioned in clause "5" he will be paid a minimum allowance of two hours at time and one half, for which two hours, service may be required.

one half, for which two hours, service may be required.
7. To arrive at pro rata per hour for overtime, the monthly salary shall be multiplied by twelve, divided by three hundred and six, and then divided by eight.

THE CENTRAL TYPEWRITER

EXCHANGE, NEW YORK

The attention of the Journal readers is called to the advertisement of the Central Typewriter Exchange, New York City, published in another column.

The Central Typewriter Exchange—one of the oldest in the city—was established in 1896—twenty-five years since—and the proprietor, James H. Keesey, occupies a unique position in the typewriter industry. Having started in the business 32 years ago, he has filled important and responsible positions in the mechanical departments of both the Underwood and Remington Typewriter Companies.

It is perhaps not generally known to the thousands of users of the Underwood machine, that it was, originally, called the "Wagner" and was manufactured, at first, in a small shop on West Broadway, New York City: later the factory was moved to Bayonne, N. J.

The output at that time was THREE MACHINES PER DAY of ten hours, now, the Underwood factory is turning out 600 per eight-hour day, considerably more than an average of ONE A MINUTE.

Mr. Keesey has been closely identified with the Underwood "mill" since its inception and, owing to his experience and ability, has been called repeatedly in with the Underwood "mill" since its inception and, owing to his experience and ability, has been called repeatedly in court actions as an expert to testify in typewriter litigation.

The Central Typewriter Exchange is widely known for the superior quality of its product, and every typewriter, before it leaves the Central factory, undergoes the personal inspection of Mr. Keesey, whose aim is quality not quantity, and is guaranteed perfect in every particular. There are no "come backs" for any "mill" that "Jim" Keesey passes on.

WORTHY AIMS OF THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS UNION

The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America was organized, and is being maintained, for the promotion of the best social, economic and fraternal interests of commercial telegraphers.

Its membership considers it the only labor union capable of consistently representing the best interests of commercial telegraphers.

So believing, and basing such conviction upon its past achievements and need for future protection, it urges all telegraphers eligible for membership to investigate its record in the hope they will realize its merits and the advisability of becoming members of a labor union established for their special protection.

A FEW DON'TS

Don't condemn the labor movement because you know of "objectionable features." Every man and every human institution has some imperfections.

Don't "wait for others." Others are waiting for you. Some must be among the first—why not you?

Don't forget that the more bitterly the employer opposes labor unions, the more the employe should support them. There's a financial reason. Think it over.

Don't shirk the moral obligation to do all you can to uphold the dignity of our occupation—to elevate the standard of our living.

Don't be blind to your own interests; unionism helps all workingmen, all society, the home and state.

Don't let so-called "independence" prevent you from being unselfish. We are all dependent on someone or something. "No man stands alone." Let's get closer together.

Don't forget that bricklayers, plasterers, tinsmiths, stonecutters and in some places, hodcarriers, receive more pay than telegraphers, and don't forget the reason—strong organization.

Don't say "I got along without a union for 5 (or 55) years—it is useless to me; unions can't accomplish their purpose." They do-Over seven million union men say so!

TEN WAYS TO KILL ANY ORGANIZATION

1. Don't come to the meetings.

2. But if you do-come late.

3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.

4. If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and the members.

5. Never accept an office, it is easier to criticise than to do things.

6. Nevertheless, GET SORE, if you are not appointed on a committee, but if you are, do not attend the meetings.

7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. AFTER the meeting, tell everyone how things should be done.

8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary. When other members roll up their sleeves, and willingly and unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, how that the organization is run by a clique.

9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay them at all.

10. Don't bother about getting new members. "Let George do it."

¶ Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves far the higher consideration.

-Abraham Lincoln.

The National Transmitter It's the One Machine That Satisfies Both Senders and Receivers.

In addition to our famous triplespring vibrator, the 1921 model has a worm-spring lever controller that actuates the vibrating member so that no strain is felt in the sender's arm, thus preventing any injury to his nerves.

So confident are we that this model sends better signals and has a greater carrying capacity than any sending machine on the market, we will allow one week's trial before you are asked to buy it. Kindly write to-day for our booklet and free trial coupon.

ANOTHER ACHIEVEMENT

For many years telegraphers have resorted to many schemes to find a way to increase and decrease the space between the finger knobs in order to relieve their cramped fingers after a few hours' work on the wig-wag type of machines. Some substituted thinner knobs; others glued pieces of flat cork on the side of the knobs to increase the thickness, but they never got a width that brought the comfort and ease they sought.

A single turn of a set nut on the National transmitter gives you as narrow or as wide a grip as you want. This is only one of the many comforts our new speed marvel offers.

Try one for a week before you buy it. Be your own judge of its merits.

Eleventh Regular and Eighth Biennial Convention

Toronto, Ontario, October 3rd to 8th

Proceedings and Reports of Officers

The Eleventh Regular and Eighth Biennial (Maple Leaf) Convention of the C. T. U. A. held in the Prince George Hotel, Toronto, will live long in the memories of Canadians and Yanks as one of the liveliest as well as constructive sessions of the General Assembly in history. Called to order at 9 a. m., Monday, Oct. 8, by temporary chairman, W. C. Storey, C. P. R., Toronto, delegates from practically every section of the North American continent toiled harmoniously until the last order of business had been disposed of at 1 a. m., Saturday, Oct. 8.

The following officers were elected:

International President-Roscoe H. Johnson, Chicago (re-elected).

Vice President (Canada)—Paul F. Schnur, Chicago.

Vice President-O. L. Newcomer, Western Broker Division, Chicago, Ill.

Vice President-W. E. Conry, New England Broker Division, Boston, Mass.

International Secretary-Treasurer—Frank B. Powers, Universal Service, Minneapolis, Minn.

Next Convention City-Montreal, Que.

A feature of the convention was the entertainment provided for the delegates by the various Canadian divisions. Old timers agree that Canada's brand of welcome and hospitality has never been surpassed. A sixty-mile auto drive around the city occupied the time of the delegates on Tuesday afternoon, during which time a group picture was taken with Ontario's parliament buildings as a background. The evening was given over to an informal dance at Forresters' Hall. A banquet in the Empire Room of the Prince George Hotel on Thursday night with more than 300 couples present, wound up the week's entertainment. These features were under the guidance of Alex. S. Strachan, chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, Tom J. Clarke, and other local officers of the C. T. U. A, in Toronto.

Harmony and co-operation prevailed throughout the deliberations. Being the first convention of the C. T. U. A. held on Canadian soil, our brothers and sisters to the north sent their full quota of delegates to Toronto. With few exceptions the United States units were fully represented. Many differences, mostly imaginary, were ironed out when Canuck and Yank got together under the same roof.

The selection by Canadian delegates of Paul F. Schnur to act as vice president for Canada, was one of the outstanding features of the convention. The naming and election of a candidate for this important office was left entirely to Canadians, the American delegations taking no part, other than to vote unanimously for Canada's choice. Brother Schnur's experience at international head-quarters during the past two years is bound to be of great assistance in the new field.

While a definite location for Canada's vice president has not yet been decided upon, it is believed that Montreal will serve as Brother Schnur's temporary headquarters.

Among the more important propositions ratified by the General Assembly are the following:

Election of three vice presidents—one to devote all of his time to Canadian affairs; two in the United States to be subject to call by the General Executive Board.

Assessment of one dollar ($1) per member per week, beginning Oct. 15, to be levied on all leased wire divisions for the purpose of successfully combating insidious efforts to disrupt the organizations of telegraphers in this field which includes broker and press operators.

Abolition of the Mutual Benefit Department and substitution of a Funeral Benefit Fund. The details of the Funeral Benefit Fund to be worked out by the international officers together with a permanent "insurance committee" appointed by the general assembly. The Funeral Fund plan will be submitted to the entire membership for ratification before its adoption.

Semi-annual international per capita increased from  $$2.50^{\circ}$  to $4 (except C. N.T. and C. P. R. clerks, unchanged).

Endorsed and recommends the sale of the bonds of the state of North Dakota in order to enable the state to carry out the will of the people of that sovereign state as expressed in their industrial program.

Directed international officers to use their utmost endeavors to defeat any measures that may be now before congress or that may be hereafter introduced for the purpose of weakening or destroying the various bureaus of the United States Department of Labor or the department itself and to use every proper effort to bring about the strengthening of the department, to the end that its great services may be broadened and increased in the interests of the welfare of our working people.

CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS

MORNING SESSION-MONDAY, OCT. 8.

The convention met in the Empire Room of the Prince George Hotel.

Temporary Chairman W. C. Storey of Toronto welcomed the delegates to the first convention held on Canadian soil. He referred to the assembly as the "Maple Leaf Convention.

Mayor "Tom" Church of Toronto was then introduced and gave an interesting talk on early Canadian life and the growth of Toronto. He wound up his talk by informing the delegates that Toronto was theirs.

The last speaker introduced was Bert Merson, president of the Toronto Central Trades' Council. Brother Merson spoke on international trades unionism and the value of such affiliation to Canadian unionists.

The temporary chairman then introduced International President Johnson and the convertion was officially called to order at 11:15 a. m.

The first order of business was the reading of the temporary roll. The secretary read the temporary roll of delegates and alternates entitled to a seat in the convention as follows: Toronto, Ont., Oct. 1, 1921.

To the Officers and Members of the Eleventh Regular and Eighth Biennial Convention: Ĝrectina :

Moved by J. F. Campbell, seconded by Wise, that time limit for introduction of bills and resolutions shall expire at 9 A. M., Wednesday, and no bills shall thereafter be introduced without the unanimous consent of the Convention.

Discussion by Powers, Konenkamp, Carrothers, J. W. Dunn, Wise, Coyle, J. F. Campbell, Mitchell, Lefebvre, Decelles and Kelleher. The motion carried.

Moved by Alcorn, seconded by McMahon, that the Convention now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

Discussion by Conry, Strachan and F. C. Allen. The motion carried.

The Convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole at 11:05 A. M.

At 12 noon the Committee of the Whole reported back to the Convention and announced progress, asking permission to sit again. The report of the Committee of the Whole was adopted.

Moved by Decelles, seconded by Newcomer, that the Convention adjourn until 9 A. M., Wednesday. Carried.

MORNING SESSION—WEDNESDAY, OCT. 5.

Convention called to order at 9 A. M. Johnson in the chair.

Roll Call.

Telegrams of greeting were read from J. J. Trainor and W. H. Phillips, division chairmen of the O. R. T., Montreal.

Telegram of greeting from A. H. Morse, managing director of the Canadian Marconi Company.

The minutes of the previous session were read and approved.

The next order of business was the report of committees.

The Committee on Rules reported and the report was adopted.

The Committee on Resolutions and Greetings made a partial report as follows:

Proposition No. 34.

Resolution by Western Broker Division.

Whereas, the Western Broker Division is in the throes of a strike brought against the stock and grain commission firm of James E. Bennett and Co., of Chicago, and, now in the seventh week of its duration, and

Whereas, said strike was precipitated by unwarranted discriminations against so-called union ringleaders, or chapel chairmen, which eventuated in the summary discharge of these men, together with threats of the abandonment of vacations and lunch reliefs and the perpetration of other reprehensible and coercive measures, tending to dumbfound the firm's telegraph force to the end that it might become a pliant and submissive instrument in the hands of an arrogant master, and,

Whereas, the opposing lines having become so tensive as to seriously threaten the morale of the division's rank and file, the lowering of its financial and physical strength, if not its utter annihilation as an active functioning unit of this body, it is imperative that instantaneous financial relief be given our struggling brothers in the west in order that there may be no diminution in the splendid determination to score a victory redounding to the inestimable benefit of our parent body; therefore, be it

Resolved, that this General Assembly, realizing the gravity of the Chicago situation, does hereby instruct the International President to forthwith levy a special assessment of One Dollar ($1.00) per member to be used in effectually checkmating the enemy in his imperious procedure, laying special stress on the fact that this monetary assistance could not be better expended than in this gallant struggle for the perpetuation of union principles.

Committee recommended adoption.

After considerable discussion it was decided to refer the resolution to the Committee on Subordinate Units for a further report.

Moved by Alcorn, seconded by McMahon, that the Committee on Subordinate Units be increased to seven members, to include a delegate from the Western Broker Division and another Canadian, and that the resolution be referred to that committee. Carried.

The second secon

The chair, with the consent of the body, appointed Boole and Clarke as the additional members of the Committee on Subordinate Units.

Thomas in the chair.

Proposition No. 17.

Resolution by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly.

Whereas, the issue of today emanating as it does from the Chambers of Commerce and the Manufacturing Association, and other enemies of organized labor, is the so-called "American Plan," advocating the nonunion shop in all industry and supported by all classes opposed to organized labor. The trade union movement has within its grasp the real American Plan in solving this problem, through its purchasing power—and demonstrating to the general public, and our opponents, that we are determined, from now on, to patronise only such friends who make and handle union labeled products; and

Whereas, there are indications of a movement on the part of manufacturers, in the tobacco industry, to discontinue the use of the union label on their products. There is also an effort on the part of the jobbers and retailers to discourage the purchaser from buying union labeled tobaccos, cigarettes and snuff, using the statement that union labeled products are inferior to the nonunion brands, manufactured under nonunion conditions, with cheap labor; and

Whereas, the brands of tobacco, cigarettes and snuff bearing the label of the Tobacco Workers' International Union are not receiving the patronage to which they are entitled, when a greater demand would be the means of inducing unfair firms to adopt the union label, whereby many thousands of tobacco workers could be organized in the United States and Canada; and

Whereas, certain so-called reform organizations are advocating the prohibition of the growing, manufacture and use of tobacco in all forms, depriving the workers of another of their means of pleasure and recreation, and the living of thousands of people; therefore, be it

Resolved, that we, the delegates to the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, in convention assembled in Toronto, Canada, Öctober, 1921, pledge our united efforts in creating a greater demand for tobaccos, cigarettes and snuff bearing the union label; and, be it further

Resolved, that we disapprove of, and resent the efforts of these certain reform organisations who are attempting to deprive the workers of their rights and pleasures and self-determination in the use of tobacco, in any form, the people may desire.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 33.

Resolution by Western Broker Division:

Whereas, the National Chamber of Commerce, Manufacturers' Association, the National Foundrymen's Association and others have banded themselves together for the purpose of establishing the open shop, or "American Plan," which in its true sense means nonunion shop; and

Whereas, the public is being misinformed by the propaganda being circulated broadcast by these interests, as to the aims and purposes of organized labor; and

Whereas, the members of these organizations are supporting one another to a man in purchasing products that are not made by union labor, under union conditions; therefore, be it

Resolved, that realizing that every cent spent by a union man in the purchase of nonunion goods is used against him and his by the capitalistic class and that this organization, by determined action, can in a measure offset the onslaughts being made on the labor movement, we urge all delegates to all future conventions to come thereto with union labels on all wearing apparel; and, be it further

Resolved, that the delegates to this convention overlook no opportunity to impress upon the membership of their respective units to conserve their purchasing power by withholding their patronage from hostile manufacturers of nonunion goods the money earned under union conditions, and to at all times give preference when making purchases to goods bearing the union label and to patronize only such shops or stores which display a union shop card or employes wear a union button.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 16.

Resolution by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Whereas, there is growing recognition in all quarters of the need for more complete medical care for wage-earners, more adequate provision for financial relief during sickness, and increased effort for the prevention of disease; and

Whereas, one of the duties of the American organized labor movement is to stand guard over the lives and health of the wage-earners of the country, without whose co-operation national progress is impossible; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, that we endorse the principle of universal workmen's health insurance, and call attention to the need of includfrancial pressure for the prevention of illness, and a democratic method of management which shall give proper representation to labor and shall not allow commercial insurance companies to reap profits from the illness of the toilers.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 15.

Resolution by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Whereas, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America are united by a common bond, and

Whereas, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have worked hand in hand with our organization, signing joint contracts with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, and

Whereas, it is the opinion of this convention that close relationship between the two organizations is vital and essential, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America elect a fraternal delegate to the next convention of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, and that the Order of Railroad Telegraphers be requested to exchange fraternal delegates with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Committee recommends the resolution be referred to the Committee of the Whole. The report of the committee was adopted.

Proposition No. 22. Resolution by New York District, Eastern Broker Division:

Whereas, headquarters and home offices of all telegraph companies, press associations and a major proportion of all brokerage concerns are located in New York City, and

Whereas, New York City is properly known as the telegraph center of the American continent; therefore, be it

Resolved, that our international headquarters shall be located in New York City.

A majority of the committee concurred in the resolution.

Moved by Kelleher, seconded by Conry, that the report of the committee be referred to the Committee of the Whole. Carried.

At 12:30 it was moved and seconded that the convention adjourn. Carried.

AFTERNOON SESSION—WEDNESDAY, OCT. 5.

Convention called to order at 2 P. M. Johnson in the chair.

Roll call.

The chair called for committee reports and the Committee on Finance and Salaries reported as follows:

We, your Committee on Finance and Salaries, submit the following:

We find that after estimated expenses of one thousand dollars for the present convention have been paid there will be cash on hand of about three hundred dollars and an anticipated income of approximately $350.00 between now and December 31, 1921, or a total of $650.00, to offset expenses between now and December 31, 1921, of twenty-seven hundred dollars, leaving a deficit of about $2,050.00.

We also find indebtedness of approximately $5,360.00, which includes one thousand dollars due for printing and two long-standing balances due former International President Konenkamp ($3,800) and former President Thomas ($566.35).

We recommend that legislation be enacted to liquidate these liabilities and carry on the business of the organization on a more satisfactory basis.

We further find that improvement of our financial condition cannot be brought about on the present per capita of $5.00.

We therefore urgently recommend the adoption of a per capita of at least $8.00, which would give the international an anticipated income of about $59,200 during the next two years.

We further recommend that whereas, two divisions in Canada (the C. P. R. and Canadian National) for several years have retained the entire initiation fees for organiza-tion purposes, and whereas such organization work is now well under way, that in future these two divisions be required to remit the international proportion of initiation fees in accordance with the constitution.

We recommend that the international president's salary be $4,000 per annum, as at present.

We recommend that the international secretary-treasurer's salary be $5,500 per annum, which is practically the amount paid secretary-treasurers of the Eastern and Western Broker divisions, and likewise the salaries paid expert telegraphers.

We also recommend that vice presidents and members of the General Executive Board while serving on assignments for the union be paid on a basis of the respective salaries of the positions from which they have been called, together with reasonable allowance for expenses.

(Signed) Committee on Finance and Salaries.

Charles J. Seefred, Chairman,

J. F. Mallon, T. Carrothers,

J. G. A. DeCelles, R. F. Wise.

Moved by Powers, seconded by Newcomer, that the report of the Committee on Finance and Salaries be referred to the Committee of the Whole. Carried.

The Committee on Constitution then made the following partial report:

Proposition No. 1.

Amendment to Article 33, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Section 3-To read: Proposed amendments to the Constitution to be submitted to the General Assembly may be filed with the International Secretary-Treasurer 60 days prior to biennial convention sessions, by subordinate units for publication in the official organ.

Committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 2.

Amendment to Article 25, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Section 1—Fifth line—To read: "On payment of Ten dollars fee," etc.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 4. Amendment to Article 23, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Section 11-Fifth line-To read: Delegates to the biennial convention shall be elected not less than thirty days prior to the convention.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 7.

Amendment to Article 14, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Section 8-To read: He shall employ the clerical help necessary to conduct the business of his department and shall pay such salaries as will not conflict with the union scale for such employees.

After adding the prefixed words, "Upon approval of the General Executive Board," the committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 8.

Amendment to Article 14, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Section 16-To read: When absent from his headquarters in the interest of the Union he shall receive reasonable traveling and living expenses, and shall submit a statement of such expenses to the General Executive Board every three months, which shall be subject to approval by the General Executive Board.

The committee recommended adoption.

An amendment was moved by Thomas, seconded by Ingoldsby, that the section be made to read 30 instead of 90 days.

Discussion by Schnur, Thomas and Konenkamp.

Schnur withdrew the proposition.

Proposition No. 9.

Amendment to Article 12, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Section 12-To read: He shall employ the clerical help necessary to conduct the business of his office, and shall pay such salaries as will not conflict with the union scale

After adding the prefixed words, "Upon approval of the General Executive Board," the committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 12.

Amendment to Article 15, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly:

Section 1-To read: The General Executive Board shall consist of seven members. no two of whom shall be located in the same state or province.

The committee recommended adoption.

397

Moved by Whittlesey, seconded by Kelleher, that the report of the committee be tabled. Carried.

Proposition No. 20.

Amendment to Article 22, by New York District, Eastern Broker Division:

Section 9 to read: Delegates to the biennial convention shall be elected not less than thirty days prior to the convention.

The committee non-concurred and recommended it be not adopted. The report of the committee was adopted.

Proposition No. 21.

Amendment to Article 26, by New York District, Eastern Broker Division:

Section 1—A member neglecting or refusing to pay dues six months in advance in full is not in good standing after a time limit set by the subordinate unit of which he is a member, in no case to be more than sixty days after the expiration of the previous semi-annual period.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Coyle in the chair.

Proposition No. 25.

Amendment to Article 19, by New York District, Eastern Broker Division:

Section 4—Any person not a member of the union may subscribe for the Journal, and it shall be mailed regularly to him, provided that the subscription price of Two Dollars per annum is paid in advance.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 27.

Amendment to Article 3, by Western Broker Division: Section 1:

(a) First line: Strike out word "white," making it read, "Any person of good moral character,'' etc.

(b) Ninth line: Strike out words 'of three years' experience,'' making it read, 'Provided, any Commercial Telegrapher, although not actually so temployed,'' etc.

The committee nonconcurs with (a) and concurs with (b).

Discussion by Schnur, Macaulay, F. C. Allen, Carrothers, Kelleher, Wallace, Shea, Towne, Boole, Konenkamp.

Thomas asked that he be quoted in the minutes as having spoken against striking out the word "white."

Moved by Wise, seconded by McAuley, that the report of the committee be adopted. Carried.

Proposition No. 28.

Amendment to Article 6, by Western Broker Division:

Section 4:

Third line: Substitute word "biennial" for "annual," making it read, "Matters submitted to the biennial convention," etc.

Section 6:

Make first and second lines read, "Only members of the Union in good standing for one year or more shall be eligible to office in the General Assembly, provided," etc.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 31.

Amendment to Article 31, by Western Broker Division.

Strike out entire article and substitute the following:

Section 1—"Supplies shall be furnished by the International Secretary-Treasurer upon requisition of the subordinate unit."

The committee non-concurred and recommended it be not adopted. Carried.

Carrothers in the chair.

Proposition No. 32.

Amendment to Article 32, by Western Broker Division:

Add:

Section 1a—A member who has held continuous membership in the organization for two or more years, shall be eligible to transfer into any subordinate unit without the payment of any difference in initiation fee.

The committee non-concurred and recommended that it be not adopted.

Discussion by Alcorn, Schnur, J. F. Campbell and Stevenson.

The report of the committee was adopted.

At 4:10 P. M. it was moved by Goldovsky, seconded by Shea, that the convention now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole. Carried.

The balance of the afternoon and an evening session were spent in the Committee of the Whole, the deliberations being on the question of higher dues and increased international per capita tax.

MORNING SESSION-THURSDAY, OCT. 6.

Convention called to order at 9 o'clock. Johnson in the chair.

Roll call.

Minutes of previous session were read and approved.

The chair asked for further committee reports.

The Committee on Resolutions and Greetings made a further report as follows:

Proposition No. 45.

Resolution by E. C. Campbell, Western Broker Division:

Whereas, it is the aim of broker telegraphers to achieve closer cooperation between members of their branch of the telegraph profession in all sections of the United States; and

Whereas, we desire to co-ordinate and unify the efforts, policies and purposes of broker telegraphers everywhere to make for concerted action by all; and

Whereas, equality and justice demand that all broker telegraphers share equally the burden of expense in the common cause; therefore, be it

Resolved, that this convention instruct the three American broker divisions to take the necessary steps to amalgamate these three divisions into one broker division by January 1, 1922.

The committee non-concurred and recommended that, the resolution be not adopted.

Moved by Towne, seconded by J. W. Dunn, Conry, Newcomer, McMahon, Alcorn, McAuley, Boole, Patterson and Shea, that the report of the committee be adopted.

Discussion by E. C. Campbell, Macaulay and Johnson.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Alcorn in the chair.

Proposition No. 46.

Resolution by Canadian Broker Division No. 21:

Whereas, in Canadian cities there exists a number of loose ends such as banks, packing houses, press wires, etc., not taken care of by regular system divisions; and, believing that even though some of these men may belong to some other division, it is impossible to keep them lined up when they never see or work with their fellow members;

Resolved, that the name of Division No. 21 be changed to Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division No. 21, with authority to take care of all operators outside regular system divisions.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 48.

Resolution by Roscoe H. Johnson, General Assembly:

Whereas, capital, knowing that all its strength is vested in money, has amassed huge funds with which to fight labor; and

Whereas, the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America is a progressive and militant organization, striving to better the working conditions of telegraphers and allied workers; and

Whereas, for the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America to successfully combat with capital in any cessation of work that may arise as a result of demands made in behalf of the members of this organization it will be necessary to create a protective or defense fund; therefore, be it

Resolved, that on January 1, 1922, an assessment of $1.00 be levied on each member of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America and an additional assessment of twenty-five cents per month per member thereafter to be paid annually or semi-annually, for a period of two years (1922-1923) for the purpose of creating aforesaid protective or defense fund; and, be it further

Resolved, that this protective or defense fund be placed in the treasury of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America under the direct supervision of the General Executive Board of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America; and, be it further

Resolved, that this fund be used only for the benefit of members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

The committee recommended adoption.

Moved by McMahon, seconded by Patterson, F. C. Allen, Newcomer and Boole, that the report of the committee be adopted.

Discussion by Conry and Patterson.

Johnson, as author of the resolution, asks consent of body to withdraw the resolution. Objection to its withdrawal was voiced by McMahon.

Discussion by J. F. Campbell, Powers, Kelleher and McMahon.

As a point of privileged motion it was moved by J. W. Dunn, seconded by Johnson, that the resolution be referred back to the Committee on Resolutions and Greetings for re-consideration. Carried.

Proposition No. 49.

Resolution by Roscoe H. Johnson, General Assembly:

Whereas, the State of North Dakota, through its duly elected representatives and by repeated referendum vote of its people, has officially recognized the rights of organized labor by the enactment of a series of labor laws, such as anti-injunction law, best possible compensation act, union label on all state printing, union labor on all state building, rigid child labor law, excellent mine inspection law, minimum wage scale, eight hours for women, most liberal soldiers' loans of all states, etc., the adoption of an industrial program which embodies the principles and will advance the interests of organized labor; and

Whereas, in order to carry out these principles and this program, the state has issued its bonds, guaranteed by the faith and credit of the entire state (backed by more than $3,000,000,000 worth of material wealth) and upheld as valid by unanimous decision of the Supreme Court of the United States; and

Whereas, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor and the executive officers of the international unions affiliated to the Federation and of the railroad brotherhoods in conference assembled in the City of Washington and the State Federations of Labor of the States of North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Missouri and Illinois, and various national and international labor unions, as well as many central bodies, have endorsed the sale of the bonds of the State of North Dakota in order to enable the people of that State to carry out their industrial program; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America in convention assembled, that we endorse and recommend the sale of the bonds of the State of North Dakota in order to enable the State to carry out the will of the people of that sovereign state as expressed in their industrial program; and, be it further

Resolved, that we urge upon all subordinate units of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America to consider the investment of part of their available funds in these bonds, and to appoint committees to canvass the individual members of their respective organizations and to co-operate with other bodies of organized labor and in all ways possible assist organized labor and the organized farmers of North Dakota, through the Bank of North Dakota, in promoting the sale of these bonds; and, be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be published in the official publication of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America; and, be it further

Resolved, that we urge upon the various subordinate units to see to it that this matter is given prominence in their respective meetings, to the end that all the forces of organized labor may be mobilised to complete the sale of these bonds promptly, thus demonstrating the unity and solidarity of labor and dealing a crushing rebuke to the financial autocracy that is seeking to defeat the will of the people of a sovereign state and thus destroy American liberties and the institutions of democracy.

The committee recommended adoption.

Discussion by Kelleher, Johnson, J. W. Dunn, McAuley and Newcomer.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Proposition No. 52.

Resolution by A. S. Strachan, General Assembly:

Whereas, it has been found that entertainment programs for convention delegates is highly beneficial, both from a standpoint of promoting interest in the organization and contributing to the success of a convention; therefore, be it

Resolved, that at future conventions the delegates each contribute the sum of Ten Dollars ($10) for an entertainment fund, this fund to be placed at the disposal of the local convention city entertainment committee; and, be it further

Resolved, that the international treasury also contribute the sum of One Hundred Dollars ($100) for the same purpose, which should create a desire on the part of different cities to ask for conventions.

The committee recommended adoption.

Discussion by Strachan, J. F. Campbell, Clarke, Macaulay, Towne, Lefebvre, F. C. Allen, Pawson and Boole.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The following wished to be recorded as voting against adoption of the resolution:

Whittlesey, J. W. Dunn, Lefebvre, Thomas, J. F. Campbell, Decelles, Patterson, Johnson and Stevenson.

Moved by Schnur, seconded by J. F. Campbell, that the convention reconsider action taken on the resolution. Carried.

The resolution to tax delegates and the international for convention entertainment purposes was again before the body.

An amendment was then moved by Schnur, seconded by Newcomer, that the resolution be tabled. Carried.

Proposition No. 50.

Resolution by Roscoe H. Johnson, General Assembly:

Whereas, for eight years, unfair employers throughout the country, backed by financial sympathizers, have persistently endeavored to destroy the United States Department of Labor, the purpose of which the organic law sets out as follows:

The purpose of the Department of Labor shall be to foster, promote and develop the welfare of the wage-earners of the United States, to improve their working conditions, and to advance their opportunities for profitable employment; and

Whereas, the method of refusing sufficient appropriations, having failed to accomplish the object sought by the enemies of labor, it is now proposed to establish a department to be known as the Department of Public Welfare; and

Whereas, it is proposed to empower the transfer to this new department any educational, health or social welfare bureau or service now operating under any other department of the government; and

Whereas, it is openly stated that it is proposed to abolish the Department of Labor; and Whereas, it was proposed in a bill introduced in the Sixty-sixth Congress to create such a new department to be known as the Department of Social Welfare, and in the bill at present before Congress, provision is made for a Department of Public Welfare in order that it may be more difficult to deal with questions of wages and hours of labor and other matters of benefit to the working people; and

Whereas, in another bill before the present Congress, it is provided that all the duties and powers now held by the Department of Labor, by virtue of the immigration laws, shall be transferred to a Board of Immigration of five members, one of whom shall be the Secretary of Labor, the object being clearly to deprive the Department of Labor of all authority over immigration and to place that authority in the hands of another board; and

Whereas, the United States Employment Service, which was of the greatest benefit and assistance during the war and which in the present condition of unemployment would be of equal value in bringing the job to the man and the man to the job if it were allowed to function, was practically eliminated by the refusal of Congress to appropriate money for that service: and

Whereas, the Department of Labor, with its various helpful and beneficial services, was established as the result of an agitation and an educational effort on the part of the American Federation of Labor covering a period of nearly forty years, during, which the department grew from an original Bureau of Labor Statistics to its present proportions, proving year by year through countless services to the working people its great value to the workers and the people of the country; and

Whereas, it is our firm conviction that the function of the Department of Labor should be increased and generously supported instead of diminished or destroyed; therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, in convention assembled, emphatically condemns all efforts to weaken or destroy the Department of Labor, and condemns with equal emphasis those efforts which have been made, and which are being made, to take from the Department of Labor one by one its various bureaus and services; and, be it further

Resolved, that this convention call upon the Congress of the United States to withstand all efforts to bring about the destruction of the Department of Labor, either through a restriction of financial support, through giving the power to transfer bureaus to other departments or to a new department or through the creation of a new department to be substituted for the Department of Labor; and, be it further

Resolved, that the international officers are hereby directed to use their utmost endeavors to defeat any measure that may be now before Congress or that may be hereafter introduced for the purpose of weakening or destroying the various bureaus of the Department of Labor or the department itself, and that the international officers be, and are hereby instructed to use every proper effort to bring about the strengthening of the department, to the end that its great service may be broadened and increased in the interests of the welfare of our working people; and, be it further

Resolved, that the president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America be, and hereby is, directed to transmit copies of these resolutions to the President of the United States, to the Secretary of Labor, the President of the United States Senate, the chairmen of the committees on Education and Labor of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the chairman of the Committee on Labor of the House.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 53.

Resolution by R. F. Wise, Division 61:

Whereas, the wire test which in former years proved of much value in organizing work; and

Whereas, it is now believed that the re-establishment of this wire test will again prove its worth in our efforts to organize the telegraph companies, it is hereby

Resolved, that we resume the use of the wire test effective January 1, 1922, the same to be changed at the beginning of each dues paying period.

The committee recommended adoption.

Discussion by Schnur, Konenkamp, Wise, Kelleher, Conry.

The resolution was withdrawn with the consent of the body.

The Committee on Subordinate Units was the next to report and made the following recommendations:

Report of Committee on Subordinate Units.

We, your Committee on Subordinate Units, to which was referred the matter of assessment for the benefit of the Western Broker Division, beg to submit the following report:

Delegates J. W. Dunn, Alcorn, J. F. Campbell, Bailey, Boole, Clark and Conry went into session, with Conry as chairman.

Shea of the United Press; Towne, E. B. D.; Powers, Universal; Stevenson, United Press; Whittlesey, E. B. D.; Seefred, I. N. S.; Patterson, E. B. D., and Newcomer, W. B. D., were invited to attend the committee hearings. President Johnson was also called in the hearings.

After much discussion and careful deliberation, your committee recommends the following amendment to Resolution No. 34:

After whereas paragraphs, amend to read:

"Resolved, by the General Assembly that an assessment of one dollar per week, effective October 15, 1921, shall be levied against all leased wire members. The assessment to be collected weekly by subordinate units affected, and remitted to the International Secretary-Treasurer. The funds derived from this assessment shall be used for strike purposes in the subordinate units contributing.

"This assessment shall run from week to week, and may be discontinued at the discretion of the International President."

(Signed) Committee on Subordinate Units.

W. E. Conry, Chairman.

J. W. Dunn,

J. B. Alcorn,

J. F. Campbell, E. F. Bailey,

Edw. L. Boole,

T. J. Clarke.

After the committee had made its report, discussion was indulged in by Towne, Wise, Schnur, Powers, Coyle, Patterson, Stevenson, Pawson, J. W. Dunn, Macaulay, Johnson, Shea, Newcomer, Ingoldsby.

Moved by Powers, seconded by Newcomer, that the recommendations of the committee be adopted. Carried.

Resolution No. 34 stood adopted as amended by the Committee on Subordinate Units. Carrothers in the chair.

The Committee on General Officers' Reports then made its report.

The report was as follows:

Report of the Committee on General Officers' Reports.

Your Committee on General Officers' Reports have given careful consideration to the reports of the International President, the International Secretary Treasurer and the General Executive Board. We believe the Union and its officers are to be congratulated on the progress shown in the reports of our officers. They constitute a record of achievement notwithstanding that opposition was met with in various ways from those opposed to the aims and purposes of our organization.

We particularly commend the action taken in the Oklahoma-Wyoming indictments. Our officers showed judgment and ability in handling so difficult a matter and the freeing of our members in spite of the machinations of the Western Union Company was a dis-

We coincide with the President's views in regard to organization and with the growing discontent in the commercial field and the providing of additional funds for organizing purposes your committee believes considerable progress-will be made during the next two years. This committee believes that the providing of such funds is the most important duty of this convention.

We commend the action of the International President in his handling of the Postal walkout in 1920 as a step in the direction of maintaining order in our ranks.

The joint O. R. T.-C. T. U. A. agreement which was negotiated in March, 1921, is another step in the right direction between two unions which have much in common.

We endorse the action of the President in the Bennett strike. It was undoubtedly intended as the entering wedge for the destruction of the Broker Divisions. The resistance made by the Union will have a tendency to check such steps in the future.

As the recommendations of the President have either been already discussed in convention or referred to other committees, we pass on the recommendations to the convention for its action.

Your committee endorses the report of the International Secretary-Treasurer and accepts it in full, with the exception of the last two lines.

The Secretary's work in the Oklahoma affair, in the reduction of the Union's indebtedness and in the general work of the Union, merits our warmest commendation.

The subject matters of the Secretary's recommendations come under the duties of various committees, and we pass them on to the convention.

The report of the General Executive Board is a resume of the work of that body during the past two years. We recommend its adoption, especially that part referring to the increase in the salary of the Secretary by $500.

(Signed) Wesley Russell, Chairman. W. C. Storey, C. P. McCutcheon, W. J. McMahon, Thos. J. Clarke.

The report of the committee was adopted.

At 12:30 it was moved and seconded that we adjourn until 2 P. M. Carried.

AFTERNOON SESSION-THURSDAY, OCT. 6.

2 P. M.—Convention called to order. Johnson in the chair.

Roll call. Absentees, Mills. A telegram from G. D. Robertson, Canadian Minister of Labour, was read and referred to the Committee on Resolutions and Greetings.

The Committee on Constitution made a further report as follows:

Proposition No. 23.

Amendment to Article 22, New York District, Eastern Broker Division:

Section 1—Unchanged.

Section 2-A member employed in the jurisdiction of a subordinate unit shall be transferred to that subordinate unit not later than the expiration of the current dues period by the International Secretary-Treasurer upon request of the member or local secretary, President or General Chairman. The transferring member shall be subject to by-laws governing the Division to which transferred.

The committee non-concurred and recommended it be not adopted. Carried.

Proposition No. 38.

New article to Constitution (out-of-work) by Western Broker Division:

OUT OF WORK BENEFIT

To become effective Sept. 1, 1922.

Section 1-Any member in good standing for one year or more immediately preceding his application for benefit, shall be entitled to an out-of-work benefit of $5.00 per week. No benefit shall be paid for the first week after a member is thrown out of work.

Section 2—Any member receiving benefits for six weeks shall not be entitled to any benefit for six weeks thereafter, and no member shall receive more than $50.00 during the period of one year, commencing from July 1 of each year.

Section 3—Any member obtaining employment before receiving six weeks' benefits, who shall be thrown out of work before eight weeks have elapsed, shall be entitled to the balance of the benefit.

Section 4—Any member thrown out of work on account of strike and receiving a strike benefit shall not be entitled to an out-of-work benefit.

Section 5—In case of a subordinate unit being involved in strike and paying strike benefits, the treasury, or strike committee, shall be paid the weekly out-of-work benefit for the men on strike, to be used in assisting the subordinate unit to pay strike benefits.

Section 6—Any member losing his employment through intoxication, or courting his discharge through bad workmanship, shall not be entitled to any benefit for eight weeks thereafter.

Section 7—Members receiving out-of-work benefit located in vities where one or more subordinate unit officers are located, shall be required to register with the official designated by the International Secretary daily (except Sundays and holidays) between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p. m.

Section 8—Any member engaging in any other occupation shall not be entitled to out-of-work benefits. Any member failing to register for two consecutive days shall forfeit the benefit of previous registration. Any member obtaining employment for two days or longer shall forfeit the benefit of previous registration, providing that such registration was for less than one week, for which no benefit was allowed.

Section 9—Any member obtaining or endeavoring to obtain any benefit under false pretenses shall be suspended, and be subject to a fine of from $5.00 to $25.00, as the union may deem proper, before being reinstated.

Section 10—Any member refusing work offered him or who neglects to apply for work if directed by a union official, shall not be entitled to any benefit until he has secured employment for at least one week.

Section 11—The secretary of a local union shall report at every meeting the names of members having obtained out-of-work benefit, including the cause why each member lost his employment.

Section 12—Any member quitting a job shall not be entitled to the benefit provided for until said member shall have again obtained employment for at least two weeks.

Section 13—It shall be the duty of every General Chairman to report to the International Secretary such jobs as are open in his territory the same day he receives notice thereof. Should this be neglected he shall be subject to a fine of not less than one dollar.

Section 14—The International Secretary shall have printed suitable application blanks, which will enable him to be convinced that the applicant is entitled to an out-of-work benefit, as provided for in this constitution.

Section 15—Any member being refused the benefit by the International Secretary shall have the right of appeal to the General Executive Board.

The committee non-concurred and recommended it be not adopted. Carried.

Proposition No. 39.

Amendment to Article 15, by Western Broker Division:

Section 1—Second line: Substitute the word "seven" for "five."

The committee non-concurred and recommended it be not adopted. Carried.

Proposition No. 42.

Amendment to Article 22, by Western Broker Division.

Add to Section 9: Delegates to the biennial convention shall have at least four (4) union labels on their persons, when possible to obtain them, before being seated in such convention.

The committee concurred and recommended adoption. Carried.

Proposition No. 44.

Amendment to Article 34, by Thomas Carrothers.

Add a new section to be known as Section 2, reading as follows:

"Any member who fails to properly account for union funds entrusted to his care, or who misappropriates funds belonging to the union, shall not be eligible to any office within the union or to represent it in any capacity."

The committee concurred and recommended adoption. Carried.

The Committee on Constitution then reported that it would have a further report to make later on.

The Committee on Official Organ was the next to report, and made the following recommendations:

Report of Committee on Official Organ.

Your Committee on Official Organ finds that during the two years ended June 30, 1921, the expense of publishing the Commercial Telegraphers' Journal exceeded by $3,500 the per capita allotted to the fund for that purpose.

We also find that this deficit was caused by the increased cost of labor, printing and print paper, and we feel that the editor of the Journal is to be commended for the excellent publication with which he has provided us.

We further find that our organization is printing a bigger and better labor journal than many labor organizations with a membership many times larger than ours.

Therefore, your committee suggests to this convention that the following recommendations be made to the incoming editor of the Journal:

That one issue, averaging twenty-four pages, be published monthly.

That he eliminate all personal and local notes of non-interest to the rank and file in general, which on account of the limited space of the Journal would then permit the increase in the number of articles pertaining to labor in general and those affecting the telegraph profession in particular.

Your committee also recommends that the proportion of dues set aside for the publishing of the Journal be increased to seventy-five cents of each members' semi-annual dues.

(Signed) E. B. Whittlesey, Chairman, O. L. Newcomer, W. D. Brine, E. C. Campbell.

B. Goldovsky.

Moved by Alcorn, seconded by McMahon, that that part of the committee's report not referring to the Journal proportion of per capita tax be adopted.

Discussion by Wallace, Newcomer, Lefebvre, Russell and Thomas.

An amendment was moved by Pawson, seconded by Russell, that the size of the Journal be determined by the incoming editor and manager, and that he be governed by Article 19, Section 7, of the Constitution. Carried.

A substitute for the second subject was moved by Pawson and seconded by Clay, that all personal and local notes prepared by the district correspondents shall be first submitted to the district president or chairman or regularly appointed editor, and must receive his approval before being submitted to the Journal editor. Carried.

Discussion by Goldovsky, Newcomer, F. C. Allen and Alcorn.

The committee's report as amended was then adopted.

3:25 P. M.—There being no objections, the convention resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole.

At 5:30 Chairman Konenkamp of the Committee of the Whole made the following report to the convention:

"Your Committee of the Whole discussed Propositions Nos. 15 and 22, the first proposition being a resolution to exchange fraternal delegates with the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, and the second to move international headquarters to New York City. These two important questions were discussed from all angles and your committee begs to report that Resolution No. 15 was amended and adopted while Resolution No. 22 was withdrawn.

"The resolutions follow:

Proposition No. 15.

Resolution, by Paul F. Schnur, General Assembly (as amended):

Whereas, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America are united by a common bond; and

Whereas, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have worked hand in hand with our organization, signing joint contracts with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America; and

Whereas, it is the opinion of this convention that close relationship between the two organizations is vital and essential; therefore, be it

Resolved, that the incoming International Officers be and are hereby instructed to communicate with the officers of the O. R. T. with a view to exchanging fraternal delegates.

Proposition No. 22.

Resolution, by New York District, Eastern Broker Division.

Whereas, headquarters and home offices of all telegraph companies, press associations and a major proportion of all brokerage concerns are located in New York City; and

Whereas, New York City is properly known as the telegraph center of the American Continent; therefore, be it

Resolved, that our International Headquarters shall be located in New York City.

"Your Committee of the Whole now requests that its report be adopted and that it be permitted to sit again." Carried.

The Committee on Constitution then made a further report as follows:

Proposition No. 47.

Amendments to Articles 4, 7, 11, 15, 22, submitted by A. Clay for committee of the subordinate units of Canada.

Article 4, Section 1—Amend Art. 4, Sec. 1 to read: After "District Councils" insert "And where considered advantageous to do so, system divisions may federate."

Article 7, Section 1—Strike out the entire section, and substitute the following:

Sec. 1—Excepting district councils and federations, each subordinate unit chartered at least thirty days prior to the session of the General Assembly, shall be entitled to one delegate and to one additional delegate for each one hundred members or major fraction thereof.

Article 11, Section 2—Amend it to read: "The officers of the General Assembly (excepting the Canadian Vice President) shall be amenable only," etc.

Article 11, Section 3—Insert in paragraph after the words, "Officers of the General Assembly" (excepting the office of Canadian Vice President).

Article 15, Section 2—Amend Art. 15, Sec. 2, to read as follows: "It shall fill any vacancies of General Officers (except the offices of the International President, International Secretary-Treasurer, and Canadian Vice President) until the next session of the General Assembly."

Article 22, By-Laws, Section 14—Insert after "subordinate units" the following, "and federations thereof."

A majority report of the committee non-concurred. A minority report was rendered.

Moved by Powers, seconded by Alcorn that the majority report of the committee be adopted.

Discussion by J. F. Campbell, Pawson, Conry, Lefebvre, Goldovsky, Coyle, Clarke, Wallace, Mitchell, F. C. Allen, and Clay.

Moved by McMahon, seconded by Patterson, that we adjourn. Carried.

Adjourned at 6 p. m.

MORNING SESSION—FRIDAY, OCT. 7.

Convention called to order at 9 a. m. Johnson in the chair. Roll call.

Minutes of previous session were read and approved.

Konenkamp in the chair.

Under the head of unfinished business, debate was resumed on Proposition No. 47.

Moved by Mitchell, seconded by Powers that Delegate Konenkamp be asked to confer with the Canadian delegates with a view to presenting the proposition of Federation in better shape.

Discussion by Alcorn, Carrothers, Powers, and F. C. Allen.

Boole in the chair.

An amendment to the motion was moved by Johnson and seconded by Coyle, that the motion be tabled. Carried.

Further discussion on Canadian Federation was indulged in by Young, Clay, Carrothers, Mitchell, Coyle, Pawson, Lefebvre, Goldovsky, F. C. Allen, Konenkamp, McNaughten, Clarke and Wallace.

Johnson in the chair.

Moved by Clay, seconded by Pawson, that unanimous consent be given for introduction of two resolutions prepared by Konenkamp, which would clear the atmosphere and bring the same results as were desired by Proposition No. 47. Carried and unanimous consent granted.

The two resolutions were read again and it was moved by Pawson, seconded by Young, that the two resolutions submitted by Konenkamp be accepted as a substitute for Proposition No. 47. Carried.

Proposition No. 47 was therefore again before the assembly in the form of two resolutions, called (a) and (b).

The resolutions were as follows:

(a) Whereas, it is the sense of this convention that one International Vice President should be assigned to Canadian territory; and

Whereas, it is the desire of the delegates assembled to permit the Canadian delegates to select their own candidate for presentation to the convention; therefore, be it

Resolved, that the General Assembly hereby requests that the delegates who are members of the Canadian divisions make their recommendations of nominee who in turn will be accepted and elected by this convention.

(b) Whereas, there is an expressed desire on the part of a number of divisions within the Union to establish closer affiliations for offensive and defensive purposes along co-operative lines; and

Whereas, the need for such co-operation is apparent to meet the changes in economic conditions now confronting us; therefore, be it

Resolved, that this General Assembly in regular convention hereby endorse the principle of co-operation and instructs the incoming International Officers to encourage and assist in the formation of co-operative plans where they are deemed necessary or where they are desired. They are also hereby authorized to prepare by-laws to govern same.

Both resolutions were adopted unanimously.

The chair then introduced Brother Henry Lynch of the O. R. T. who spoke for fifteen minutes on the economic struggle of the working classes. The speaker was well received and generously applauded.

The Committee on Constitution then made it known that they were prepared to make a further report.

The report was as follows:

Proposition No. 26.

Amendment to Article 24, by New York District, Eastern Broker Division.

Strike out the entire article and substitute the following:

Section 1—Charges may be preferred against any member of the Union by any person having a cause. All charges must be in writing and in the following form:

When the charge is for a continued time the specifications may read, "and habitually since that time." Otherwise there must be a separate specification for each action.

The charge must be certified to, if preferred by a member, as follows: "I do hereby declare upon my honor as a member of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, that the charges are not made out of malice or prejudice on my part, but with a desire to see the best interests of the Union subserved." If preferred by a non-member, they must be sworn to before a notary public or some other officer authorized to administer oaths.

Section 2—When such charges are preferred against any member the President of the District Council or General Chairman of the Division shall delegate either the General Committee, District Committee or a Commissioner, to take testimony that either party may offer in relation to the case. The committee shall immediately summon the accused to appear for trial, giving him reasonable time, not to exceed ten days, to prepare his defense.

The plaintiff and the defendant may be represented by counsel, but counsel representing either party must be members of the Union in good standing.

Section 3—After taking all testimony offered the committee shall determine the guilt or innocence of the accused and fix the penalty. Such penalty shall be subject to ratification at the first meeting of the division or district of which the defendant is a member.

Section 4—No expelled member shall be eligible for re-admission in less than one year from date of his expulsion.

The decision of the committee when ratified in open meeting shall be subject to appeal to the International President or the next convention, but shall be final in the interim.

The committee recommended adoption. Carried.

At 12:30 the convention recessed until 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION—FRIDAY, OCT. 7.

Convention called to order at 2 p. m. Johnson in the chair.

Roll call.

The Committee on Constitution proceeded with its report.

Proposition No. 29.

Amendment to Article 7, by Western Broker Division:

Section 1—Each subordinate unit, except District Councils, chartered at least ninety days prior to the session of the General Assembly shall be entitled to one delegate and to one additional delegate for each one hundred members or major fraction thereof. Each delegate or alternate must be a member of the Union in good standing for at least one year directly previous to the convening of the General Assembly.

Section 3—The basis of representation shall be computed on the membership of the subordinate unit in good standing at the end of the dues period, immediately preceding the session of the General Assembly. The end of dues paying periods are June 30 and Dec. 31.

Section 5—Delegates to the General Assembly must be members of the Union in good standing for at least one year directly previous to the convening of the General Assembly and must be members of the subordinate unit which they represent, provided that any member shall be eligible as a delegate or as an alternate from a newly organized subordinate unit ninety days after admission to the subordinate unit.

The committee recommended adoption.

Discussion by Alcorn, J. W. Dunn, Newcomer, McMahon, and McAuley.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Proposition No. 43.

Amendment to Article 22, by Western Broker Division.

Section 2-In second line eliminate the words "Broker Divisions."

Section 2a—The chief executive of a broker division may be called "President," if so desired by such division.

Section 3—Second line, add after the word, "chairman," the words, "or President."

Section 5—Nineteenth line, add after the word, "chairman," the words, "or President."

Section 6-First line, add after the word, "chairman," the words, "or President."

Tenth line, add after the word, "chairman," the words, "or President,"

The committee concurred and recommended adoption. Carried.

The committee recommended that Proposition No. 11, dealing with proposed Funeral Benefit Laws, be referred to the Committee on Insurance.

There being no objection, the chair so ordered.

The chair then stated there being no objection the balance of the committee's report would be received and referred to the Committee of the Whole. It was so ordered.

The Committee on Resolutions and Greetings announced it had a further report to make. The report was as follows:

Proposition No. 51.

Resolution on Recognition of Ireland, by W. J. McMahon.

Since it is an established fact that the American Federation of Labor has twice gone on record most emphatically in favor of the Government of the United States recognizing the Republic of Ireland, it would seem our plain duty to again strongly urge the American Government to act in accordance with those resolutions.

From whatever point of view we consider this question, we find abundant and convincing proof that the aspirations of the Celtic people for free and untrammeled national existence, are firmly grounded in truth and right.

Eminent British authorities, such as Macaulay, Gladstone, Asquith and many others, acknowledge Ireland is a nation, and history attests that no other nation has bled so long, nor furnished so many who willingly made the supreme sacrifice, for the cause of liberty, not only on her own soil, but also in many other lands.

Let us remember that America is definitely committed to the fulfillment of her promise that "Justice shall be done to all nations, whether great or small," and that "Self determination shall be carried out."

We, as citizens of the U.S.A. in this convention, therefore demand that the HONOR OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA BE VINDICATED, by a speedy recognition of the Irish Republic, not alone because of the inherent justice involved, but also that the citizens of the Western World may at last know that their dear ones, who gave the last full measure of devotion to the cause of liberty FOR ALL, may not have died in vain.

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the President and Congress of the United States of America, and that a copy be incorporated in the proceedings of this convention.

The committee recommended this resolution be referred to the General Executive Board for disposition without any discussion on the convention floor.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The Insurance Committee was then called upon and made the following report:

Your Committee on Insurance approves of the recommendation to abolish the Mutual Benefit Department. This department at the time of its inauguration in 1906 gave every promise of being a movement that would serve as a permanent anchor for our membership and guarantee a permanent foundation for the entire organization.

If the vast majority of Commercial Telegraphers within our jurisdiction were free to organize into Labor Unions or if they were permitted to exercise the normal rights of American citizens we firmly believe that this Department would have met all expectation. But the anti-American attitude of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies have made it difficult to maintain this fund.

The fund itself is, and always has been, regarded by the officers and membership of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America as a trust fund that must be carefully conserved and now that the sentiment is practically unanimous among the members of the Department to have it abolished, your committee recommends that the incoming International Secretary-Treasurer by and with the consent of the General Executive Board shall be authorised to abolish the department as of Nov. 1, 1921, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and that all moneys be refunded in accordance with the plan and made a part of this report.

Your Committee doubts the wisdom of this convention assuming the responsibility for establishing a death benefit fund without having further information upon the subject, both as to what could be done and how the membership at large would take to such a fund.

We, therefore recommend that this convention appoint a special committee of three members to be known as the Insurance Committee whose duty it shall be to prepare a plan for death benefits for submission to the membership, the same to be reported to the general executive board as soon as practical and not later than March 1, 1922.

Upon receiving such report the General Executive Board shall submit the same to a referendum vote of the membership for acceptance or rejection as an amendment to the Constitution.

(Signed) THE INSURANCE COMMITTEE,

S. J. Konenkamp, Chairman, R. F. Wise, Frank B. Powers, J. G. A. Decelles.

Moved by Konenkamp, seconded by Alcorn, that the report of the committee be adopted. Carried.

The Committee on Committees having been instructed to select a permanent Insurance Committee, then reported as follows:

We, your Committee on Committees, have selected the following to be permanent members of the Insurance Committee:

S. J. Konenkamp and the incoming International President, and incoming International Secretary-Treasurer.

The report of the committee was adopted.

At 2:45 p. m. it was moved by Conry, seconded by J. F. Campbell, that the convention now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

The balance of the afternoon and early evening were spent in the Committee of the Whole.

- At 8:45 p. m. Chairman Konenkamp of the Committee of the Whole made the following report to the convention:
- "Your Committee of the Whole begs to report that a full and thorough discussion relative to higher dues and increased per capita tax was indulged in, the results of our deliberations being that we recommend rejection of all propositions in connection with increased per capita tax and offer the following substitute in lieu thereof:
- "'Article 17, Section 1, clause b of the Constitution be amended to read $4.00 from members employed as Morse, Radio, Automatic employes and linemen; and $2.50 from clerks, payable semi-annually."
- "Your committee took up propositions Nos. 3, 5, 6, 18, 19, 24, 30, 35, 36, 37, 40 and 41, which were disposed of as follows:
  - "No. 3-Nonconcurs, covered by No. 30.
  - "No. 5-Amend Article 17, Section 1, clause b. Nonconcurs.
  - "No. 6-Nonconcurs, covered by No. 18.
  - "No. 18-After amended was concurred in. It read as follows:
- "Amendment to Article 17, Section 1, clause b, two dollars and fifty cents of semi-annual dues from each clerk member, and four dollars of semi-annual dues from Morse, Automatic, Radio and linemen members. Section 2—The General Assembly proportion of semi-annual dues from Morse, Automatic, Radio and linemen members shall be apportioned as follows: Two dollars and fifty cents to General Fund, 75 cents to the Reserve Fund, and 75 cents to the Journal Fund. The General Assembly proportion of semi-annual dues from clerk members shall be apportioned as follows: One dollar and fifty cents to the General Fund, 50 cents to the Reserve Fund, and 50 cents to the Journal Fund.

- "Article 22, Section 12, Paragraph 2—Dues of not less than $6.00 per year for clerk members and dues of not less than $11.00 per year for Morse, Automatic, Radio and linemen members. All dues to be paid either semi-annually or annually in advance.
  - "No. 19-Nonconcura.
  - "No. 24-Nonconcurs. Covered by No. 30.
  - "No. 30-Concurs. Article 18 to be amended as follows:
- "'Section 1 to read—The salaries of the International President, International Vice Presidents and International Secretary-Treasurer shall be fixed by resolution at the biennial convention."
  - " Section 2-Strike out entire section."
  - " Section 3—Fourth line, substitute word (ten) for (six)."
- "No. 35—Article 11, Section 1, third line, to read: 'three International Vice Presidents'; Section 5, twelfth line, substitute word 'vacancies' for 'vacancy'; thirteenth line, substitute words 'Vice Presidents' for 'Vice President.' Committee concurs.
- "No. 36—Article 13, Section 1, to read: Three International Vice Presidents shall be nominated and elected as provided in this Constitution, and shall hold office until their successors are duly selected and qualified. The ranking Vice President shall in all respects perform the duties of the International President in his absence or when incapacitated.
- "Section 2—One Vice President shall devote his entire time, under the direction of the International President, to the interests of the Union within the Dominion of Canada. The other two shall at all times render such assistance to the Union as the International President may direct. Committee concurs.
  - "No. 37-Committee non-concurs.
  - "No. 40-Committee non-concurs.
  - "No. 41-Committee non-concurs.
  - "No. 10-Withdrawn by author.
  - "Nos. 11, 13 and 14 referred to permanent Insurance Committee.
- "The Committee of the Whole has completed its work and moves that the entire report be adopted."

The report of the Committee of the Whole was then adopted.

The chair asked for any further committee reports.

The Committee on Subordinate Units made a further report with reference to organization work among the wireless operators in the United States. The report was adopted.

The Committee on Finance and Splaries then made a further and revised report, as follows:

The Finance and Salaries Committee begs to submit the following additional and revised report:

We find that, based on the newly adopted per capita system, the reasonably anticipated income for the next two years will be approximately $52,000, instead of the sum anticipated in our original report.

In addition to recommendations heretofore submitted covering the subject of officers' salaries, we recommend that the salary of the Vice President for Canada be the same as that of the position held by him prior to his election as Vice President, together with reasonable expenses. Other Vice Presidents and Board members when serving on temporary assignments for the Union be on the basis of the salaries of the positions from which they have been called, together with reasonable allowances for expenses.

We further recommend that the indebtedness to Past President Konenkamp be liquidated at the rate of $100 per month.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The Committee on Rules reported that no business was referred to it.

Moved by McNaughten, seconded by Boole, that any vacancy occurring in the office of International President shall be filled by the General Executive Board and that the Constitution be amended accordingly. Carried.

Thomas in the chair.

Under the head of unfinished business a partial report of the Committee on Credentials was read which recommended an audit of the accounts of Canadian National Telegraphs Division No. 43.

Moved by Mitchell, seconded by Wise, that Brother Schnur be deputized to go to Ottawa and arrange for an audit of the division's books.

An amendment was moved by Pawson, seconded by Macaulay that the incoming International Secretary-Treasurer be instructed to go to Ottawa and make the audit.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

Moved by Powers, seconded by Johnson, that this convention give a vote of thanks and an expression of sincere appreciation to Past President Konenkamp for his untiring efforts and unselfish work during this convention. Carried unanimously.

Kelleher delivered an address of thanks to the Canadian delegates for their splendid co-operation during the convention.

The next order of business was the election of officers.

Nominations for office of International President were in order.

Wallace nominated Johnson.

Moved by Kelleher, seconded by Alcorn, that nominations be closed. The motion was carried and Roscoe H. Johnson was unanimously re-elected.

The chair recognized President Johnson, who made a brief speech of acceptance.

Nominations for Canadian Vice President were in order.

Pawson nominated Schnur, stating that the entire Canadian delegation was unanimous in their choice of Schnur.

The nominations were closed and Paul F. Schnur was unanimously elected Vice President for Canada.

Two Vice Presidents were to be elected from the States and nominations were in order.

Alcorn nominated Boole, seconded by Johnson and Powers.

Wise nominated Newcomer, seconded by Conry.

Moved by Wallace, seconded by Clay that the nominations be closed. Carried.

A roll call vote was taken and resulted as follows:

Newcomer, 26; Boole, 21; not voting, 3; absent, 3.

Newcomer declared elected International Vice President.

Newcomer made a speech of acceptance.

Boole made a talk, congratulating the convention on its choice of Newcomer.

Nominations were in order for the last Vice President to be elected.

Kelleher nominated Conry. Seconded by Russell.

The nominations were closed and Wm, E. Conry was declared elected unanimously.

Conry made a speech of acceptance.

Nominations were in order for International Secretary-Treasurer.

Schnur nominated Powers. Seconded by Stevenson.

McMahon nominated Alcorn. Seconded by Newcomer.

Alcorn declined.

The nominations were closed and Frank B. Powers was unanimously elected International Secretary-Treasurer.

Powers made a speech of acceptance.

Nominations were in order for five General Executive Board members.

Kelleher nominated Mallon. Seconded by Russell, Thomas and Boole.

Seefred nominated Mary J. Macaulay. Seconded by Powers, Johnson and Alcorn.

Wallace nominated E. J. Young. Seconded by C. Kelley.

Newcomer nominated Alcorn. Seconded by Boole and McMahon.

McNaughten nominated F. C. Allen. Seconded by E. C. Williams.

Carrothers nominated Strachan. Seconded by Pawson.

Ingoldsby nominated Stevenson. Seconded by Shea and R. E. Allen.

J. W. Dunn nominated Seefred. Seconded by Mary J. Macaulay.

J. F. Campbell nominated Decelles. Seconded by Carrothers.

McAuley nominated Kelleher.

Alcorn nominated McMahon. Seconded by McAuley.

Shea nominated F. A. Coyle. Seconded by J. F. Campbell.

McMahon nominated W. L. McAuley. Seconded by Newcomer.

Towne nominated Konenkamp. Seconded by Schnur.

Goldovsky nominated E. J. Kelley.

McNaughten nominated Boole.

Kelleher nominated Wise.

Johnson nominated Thomas. Seconded by Schnur.

McCutcheon nominated Patterson. Seconded by E. C. Campbell.

Alcorn nominated M. R. Dwyer of Dallas. Seconded by Wise.

Alcorn nominated M. F. Dacey of Denver. Seconded by Ingoldsby.

Moved by Alcorn, seconded by Towne, that nominations be closed. Carried.

The following nominees declined:

Alcorn, F. C. Allen, Kelleher, Carrothers, Stevenson, Macaulay, McAuley, Konenkamp, E. J. Kelley, Boole, Young, Coyle and Thomas.

The chair appointed Carrothers, Stevenson and Whittlesey as tellers. A vote by ballot was taken which resulted as follows:

Mallon, 45; Strachan, 43; Decelles, 46; Wise, 31; Seefred, 26; McAuley, 16; Patterson, 13; Alcorn, 10; M. R. Dwyer, 12; M. F. Dacey, 4; Stevenson, 2; McMahon, 2.

Mallon, Decelles, Strachan, Wise and Seefred declared elected as General Executive Board members.

Nominations were in order for alternate delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention.

Russell nominated Thomas. Seconded by Schnur.

The nominations were closed and Thomas was elected unanimously.

Nominations for the next convention city were in order.

Wallace nominated Montreal; J. W. Dunn nominated New York; Clarke nominated Boston; E. C. Campbell nominated Cleveland; Brine nominated Vancouver; Shea nominated Oshkosh, Wis.; Alcorn nominated Detroit; Goldovsky nominated Winnipeg; Boole nominated Indianapolis.

Moved and seconded the nominations be closed. Carried.

Carrothers, Stevenson and Whittlesey appointed tellers.

A ballot was taken and resulted as follows:

Montreal, 27; New York, 10; Detroit, 10; Boston, 2; Cleveland, 2; Indianapolis, 1; Oshkosh, 1.

Moved by Carrothers, seconded by Whittlesey, that Montreal be named as the unanimous choice for the 1923 convention. Carried.

Moved by Konenkamp, seconded by Russell, that the new Constitution except that part dealing with dues and per capita go into effect immediately and that the portion affecting dues and per capita go into effect Jan. 1, 1922. Carried.

Moved by Konenkamp, seconded by Russell, that the International President and International Secretary-Treasurer be appointed a committee of two for the purpose of preparing and editing minutes of this convention for publication in The Journal and that the International Secretary-Treasurer be empowered to respond to any communications that might have been overlooked and not referred to the Committee on Resolutions and Greetings. Carried.

Moved by Konenkamp, seconded by J. F. Campbell, that the General Executive Board elect its own chairman. Carried.

Towne of New York was recognized and on behalf of the delegates presented Brother Schnur, the retiring International Secretary-Treasurer, with a beautiful casket of Community silver.

Moved by Thomas, seconded by Pawson that the convention adjourn. Carried.

The convention adjourned sine die at 1 a. m., Saturday, Oct. 8, to convene again at Montreal, Quebec, at 10 a. m., Monday, Oct. 1, 1923.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This issue of the Journal is given over almost entirely to the Toronto convention. Your editor believes that the membership will be vitally interested in every detail of the General Assembly deliberations. Reams of copy have accumulated during the past three weeks which we find it impossible to find space for in this issue.

We feel, however, the general membership will bear with us under these circumstances. The Journal will be on a normal basis commencing with the November issue.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT

To the Officers and Delegates of the Eleventh Regular and Eighth Biennial Convention of The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. Greeting:

In accordance with the Constitution, I am submitting herewith for your information and guidance a report of my official acts as International President, together with recommendations for such changes as will, in my judgment, benefit our organization.

I do not believe that a long, detailed report is expected or desired by the delegates. Due to the efficiency of our Journal editor, the membership at large has been kept fully posted from time to time on every event of importance to our organization during the past two years.

It is gratifying to be able to report that in many respects our Union is in better condition today than at any time since the memorable days of 1907. Certainly not one inch of ground has been lost since August, 1919, when the present International officers were inducted into office. Progress has been made both in the United States and Canada. The Broker divisions particularly have made great strides. Two new wireless divisions have been chartered. Schedules have been revised upward without exception. Three new agreements have been negotiated. Indebtedness of the International amounting to $14,365.19 when the present officers took hold has been reduced to $4,890.18 during the past two years. Joint O. R. T.-C. T. U. A. schedule with the Canadian National Telegraphs signed. Successful fight waged in behalf of our Oklahoma and Wyoming members who were indicted by United States courts. C. T. U. A. voting strength at last A. F. of L. convention highest since 1907.

Indictment of Oklahoma-Wyoming Members

Immediately after adjourning of the last convention your internations officers put all their energy into the fight for release of our indicted Oklahoms Wyomins members.

Eighteen striking telegraphers were arrested in Oklahoma City on June 2:, 1919, by agents of United States Attorney John A. Fain, charged with conspiracy to interfere with the telegraph system of the United States government. Federal agents directed by A. L. James of Dallas, employe of the Western Union, swooped down on the pickets about the telegraph office, rushed them in automobiles to the office of United States Commissioner E. G. Chambers, where bonds ranging from $1,000 to $1,500 were ordered.

Those arrested were: P. L. Collins, J. E. Bucklew, E. E. Crowley, I. W. Bruner, S. E. Wilson, D. M. Cole, V. B. Cleveland, Mrs. A. Paine, Ethel Osborne, E. A. Ruhrup, J. L. Moore, R. S. Grissom, F. H. Eddinger, R. H. Finney, Paul Drawer, F. M. Hale and C. E. Flanagan.

The fraud charge resulted from alleged efforts of pickets to prevent the public from patronizing the Western Union Telegraph office.

Burleson and the telegraph interests pulled every possible string to keep the telegraphers behind the bars. After several days had elapsed the strikers were liberated on bonds of $1,000,000 put up by Mr. A. A. Davis.

On Wednesday, October 1, federal indictments were returned against eighteen members in the federal court at Oklahoma City. Secretary Schnur went to that city to take active charge of the situation there, your international president going on to Washington. Through the efforts of Brother Schnur, the Oklahoma Federation of Labor was enlisted in the fight. Particular praise and thanks are due to Edgar Fenton, president, and George B. Johnson, secretary-treasurer of that splendid organization who, more than anybody else, were responsible for securing the bonds necessary to temporary liberation of the strikers.

The case took on a satirical twist when our attorney, E. J. Giddings, was himself indicted for conspirary against the government for giving his clients a written opinion—quoting the law—stating in fact that our people had the right to peaceably picket anywhere and upon any occasion; that this right was guaranteed us as American citizens under the laws of the city, state and country.

After a long, costly fight to preserve the constitutional rights of our members, all indictments were finally dismissed in February, 1920.

The C. T. U. A. had again demonstrated its willingness and ability to successfully protect its members.

Our movement stands for the preservation and enlargement of fundamental rights and its first demand must be always in behalf of those rights.

Combined autocratic powers are making every effort to destroy the freedom of telegraph workers to join together in defense of their interests. There may be conflicts that are more spectacular, but there is none upon which, in the long run, human progress will turn with greater effect.

When mankind emerged from a state of serfdom and particularly when human energy came to leave the land for the place of industry, the vital thing in human relations was the firm establishment of individual freedom. The right of the individual to comport himself as a free man was paramount and upon that freedom, won by tremendous effort, our present social order rests.

But industry developed. Individual industry gave way, with the discovery of the power of steam and with the invention of machinery and the application of electricity, to an industrial order in which the unit of effort was the group. This change in industry made group action necessary for the protection of individual rights.

Today in industry there are few rights of fundamental value to men and women unless those rights are as available to men in groups and associations as to individuals. The right of an individual to quit his work is firmly established. Employers of reactionary character aided by legislators who either do not or will not understand, seek today to make it unlawful for groups of workers to quit their work in unison. The purpose of quitting work is to satisfy some desire on the part of the worker, or to attempt to secure such satisfaction. Modern industry grants no satisfaction to the worker who quits alone.

Anti-conspiracy laws as applied to industrial life are a miserable heritage from a miserable page of the early efforts to crush the aspirations and liberties of working people. They must be removed from the body of the law under which we live.

The whole issue of freedom today turns upon the question of group rights. Today the rights of the individual, the relations between workers and employers, can be safeguarded and guaranteed only as the rights of the group are safeguarded and guaranteed. Those who seek to crush and oppress the workers see this clearly. Through old and new laws they seek to destroy the movement of the workers and destroy the freedom for the workers.

The workers everywhere must resist with every proper activity this new slavery. Our freedom must be complete and all-abounding. Restriction of freedom is abolition of freedom. This convention and the workers everywhere are called upon to dedicate themselves to the struggle for freedom. The aspirations of human life must not be jeopardized by the pressure of an industrial system that has not yet learned how to give its best service or how best to accommodate itself to the growing needs of human life. Freedom must not perish on the altar of either greed or cupidity.

Organization Work in the Commercial Field

Except in spots, little progress can be reported in the work of organizing the workers of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies. This potential field numbering well over fifty thousand members has hardly been scratched owing to the antiquated and absurd provisions made at previous conventions for deriving money in sufficient quantities to successfully operate in this great field. It is true that voluntary organizers have rallied to the cause and, as in the past, made sincere efforts to educate the workers to a point where our membership might be swelled. In some few telegraphic centers success has crowned their endeavors. More often than not, however, these voluntary organizers, working without fear or thought of financial remuneration, have been discharged and blacklisted by Western Union and Postal officials for their trouble.

It is also true that a great deal of printers ink has been spread within the ranks of unorganized Postal and Western Union workers.

These two methods of organizing the workers have been used to a frazzle during the many years of our existence. The time is at hand when other and newer methods should be substituted.

If we are to advance materially in the work of educating and organizing the commercial telegraphers, the C. T. U. A. must first overcome the fact that ours is one of the lowest dues-paying organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. We must remove ourselves from the piker class. Our opponents are not pikers when it comes to fighting our every attempt to guide the workers to a more lofty plane in modern civilization.

Arrayed against the telegraph workers are the same Wall Street interests which have fought every attempt to educate and organize the steel workers.

The Wall Street owned and controlled Western Union Telegraph Company goes into battle against trades unionism equipped with million dollar fighting implements while we go on year after year making no intelligent effort to arm our crusaders with more than financial toothpicks.

The unfair employer has far more respect for a labor organization with ample funds in its treasury than he has for a union that practically has no reserve fund. This is natural. What battleships are to a nation, a good treasury is to a union. While battleships do not render a nation immune from attack or invasion, their presence certainly does not invite acts of hostility.

A poorly financed union such as ours has been for many years, is like a poorly financed business. Its future is clouded with uncertainty.

Every business concern and every organization requires working capital and a reserve fund. What would be thought of a business man who did not make proper provision to finance his business or who did not set aside a certain percentage of his earnings each year to protect his business against unforeseen reverses? In fact, he would be no business man. Our union should be conducted upon strictly business principles.

Delegates to this convention must face the truth. It is unfair to those members who look to their officers for guidance and leadership to continue our present obsolete system of providing the financial nucleus with which to fight the workers battles. The rank and file are willing and anxious to foot the bill matter not what the cost. The telegraphers of the United States and Canada want to build up a machine which will test the mettle of high caliber guns. They are tired of going down year after year from desultory sniper attack.

The issue is clear cut. It must be met by this convention if the C. T. U. A. is to get anywhere in the work of improving conditions in the commercial telegraph field:

Postal Walkout

On October 18, 1920, the Postal Telegraph Company caused to be posted on bulletin boards throughout the country an order peremptorily doing away with "excess bonus" for long messages. Immediately upon posting of this notice, telegraphers working the fast wires from coast to coast refused to do more than the "hourly limit" on their circuits, no effort being made to work bonus. Chicago telegraphers walked out, while other telegraph centers threatened similar action.

The Chicago walkout was directly precipitated by the discharge of two men who had refused to work "bonus" under the new system. The night force, with two exceptions, quit their keys, being followed by a large number of the day force on the following morning. The Chicago office remained crippled until-October 25' at which time, upon the advice of Federal Conciliator Hawley, the men returned to work in a body, pending adjustment of grievances.

The concerted plan adopted as a protest by bonus operators throughout the Postal system, coupled with the more vigorous action of Chicago telegraphers, forced the management to recede somewhat from original plans. Concessions were made. To be sure, the management did not give back everything it had taken away but considering the feeble line of defense presented by the telegraphers at that time, it is little short of remarkable that the management could be forced to back water an inch. What would the result have been had the telegraphers' ranks been solidified into a formidable fighting machine! Postal telegraphers needed organization, leadership and money at that time as never before in history. They were lacking in practically all of these necessary qualities. It was for this reason alone that C. T. U. A. leaders absolutely refused to permit the organization to be trapped or stampeded into an unequal test of strength.

Immediately upon being informed of the walkout of Postal operators the following statement was given to the newspapers by your international president, then in New York:

"I have known for some months that Postal telegraphers were working under inhuman conditions and receiving the lowest wages in the profession. Competing companies are paying $40 per month more than the Postal and in addition furnish their employes with typewriters. Postal operators must furnish their own typewriters. The union has not called a strike. To the contrary, we have endeavored to hold the men in until such time as an organized attempt might be made to adjust miserable conditions existing in the Postal.

"The present outbreak is not authorized or condoned by the union. The telegraphers have stood it as long as they could. The breaking point has been reached. While the protest is entirely unauthorized and ill-advised from the union standpoint, the men certainly have our sympathy."

While the Chicago "strike" was on, International headquarters was besieged from all parts of the country requesting, and in some instances demanding, that the C. T. U. A. authorize a general strike in the Postal. To these demands there was but one answer:

"Postal System Division No. 55, aside from its strength in Chicago and the South, is not strong enough to call a ration-wide strike against the Postal Telegraph Company. Easterners and far Westerners have not seen fit to join their co-workers in Central and Southern sections to better conditions. International officers absolutely refuse to be trapped or stampeded into waging a fight until Postal System Division No. 55 has the members and financial strength to win. This has been tried before and proven foolhardy. Sit tight. The day is not far distant when all Postal telegraphers will weld themselves into an organization capable numerically and financially to adjust their working conditions with equity to employee and employer alike."

Joint O. R. T.-C. T. U. A. Agreement

Commercial telegraphers have been accorded every possible assistance by our O. R. T. brothers during the past two years. As a practical demonstration of real co-operation and help from this source, the Canadian National linemen's agreement negotiated in March, 1921, and signed jointly by representatives of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and C. T. U. A., is cited. Following the amalgamation of the Great Northwestern Telegraphs, Canadian National Railway Telegraphs and Grand Trunk Pacific Telegraphs which were taken over by the Canadian government and reorganized under the name of the Canadian National Telegraphs, the question developed as to which organization, C. T. U. A. or O. R. T. would act for the linemen of the reorganized company. Mr. George D. Perry, general manager of the C. N. T., expressed himself as neutral. His only concern was in placing all linemen under one schedule. Naturally there were factions in both the O. R. T. and C. T. U. A. who felt that their particular organization could best represent the linemen. A conference between O. R. T. and C. T. U. A. representatives in Winnipeg resulted in agreement to act jointly.

International President Johnson and Third Vice-President J. M. Mein, O. R. T. deputy president for Canada, arrived in Toronto on March 24. In conjunction with W. H. Phillips, general chairman, Western Lines, O. R. T.; J. J. Trainor, general chairman, Eastern Lines, O. R. T., and E. J. Young, general chairman, Canadian National Telegraphs, C. T. U. A., the two international organizations made short work of drafting up an agreement acceptable to both unions. As a matter of fact the proposed agreement as originally drawn up by Brother W. H. Phillips, O. R. T., was accepted almost in its entirety by the joint O. R. T.-C. T. U. A. committees and eventually was agreed to by the general manager of the Canadian National Telegraphs.

The full significance of the dual agreement will immediately be apparent to commercial and railroad telegraphers alike. To those far-seeing union executives representing linemen and cable splicers employed by the telegraphs of Canada goes much of the credit for blazing the trail toward a better understanding and closer working agreement between the two great organizations of telegraph workers—the O. R. T. and C. T. U. A.

At different times, movements have been started in Canada, having for their objectives amalgamation of the O. R. T. and C. T. U. A. Much has been said on this subject in reports to previous conventions. I do not believe it necessary to go further into the subject at this time. The present Grand Officers of the O.

R. T. have demonstrated in no uncertain terms their earnest desire  $t_{(n)}$  help the C. T. U. A. organize in the commercial field. E. J| Manion, grand preside int; J. M. Mein, deputy president for Canada; L. J. Ross, grand secretary-treasurer; Will C. Long and many other officers have given substantial assistance or various occasions and I desire to take advantage of this opportunity to thank them on behalf of the C. T. U. A.

Co-ordinate the Action of Scheduled Divisions—Close Ranks!

One of the most momentous problems with which this convention must concern itself is the working out of a comprehensive plan having for its purpose the co-ordination of activities of various subordinate units of our organization, particularly during schedule negotiations. No doubt several plans will be submitted for consideration by Canadian delegates.

Our International Secretary-Treasurer has drawn up a tentative plan applicable to the press divisions in the United States. Brother Schnur's plan in no way interferes with divisional autonomy. It provides the foundation for machinery whereby all press divisions may maintain 100 per cent liaison and work in unison.

Something along this line should be inaugurated in Canada. The fallacy of the present system is undisputed. Several divisional committees start out year after year with identical objectives. Instead of getting together and working out their common problems together these separate units hold themselves aloof one from the other. Due to this inconsistency final results greatly favor the managements who profit just so long as the ranks of labor are kept split.

The convention should give deep thought to any and every plan which may be presented upon the floor bearing on this subject. Co-operation, co-ordination and the fullest possible liaison are necessary elements to our success today as at no time in history.

Dues and International Per Capita

The C. T. U. A. ranks with the lowest dues paying organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The per capita tax paid into the international treasury—$5.00 per member per year—has not been increased since 1910. Yet the expenses incident to carrying on the work at headquarters have increased in proportion to the constantly rising cost of maintenance of every other business since that time. Transportation, rent and print paper have more than trebled in price with indications pointing to no relief for some time to come.

During the past two years several divisions have found it necessary to raise their dues in order to carry on. The broker divisions in particular. The Western Broker Division now receives $24.00 per year from its membership as against $12.00 one year ago. The expenses of the international have increased in proportion to those of the Western Broker Division, yet the general fund is expected to get by in some way on $5.00.

The purchasing power paid in dues is no greater than the purchasing power of a dollar the worker receives for his work. International officers cannot be expected to work financial miracles. Through the efforts of the Union the salaries of its members have been increased from sixty to one hundred and fifty per cent since 1910. The $5.00 paid then as international per capita are worth about two dollars today in comparison.

Office rent is higher, clerk hire has increased, stationery, office supplies, printing, railroad fares, hotel accommodations are all paid out of the per capita tax of $5.00 per year. Has any material reduction come to your attention in any of these items of expense during the past five years?

Many have contended that "telegraphers will not stand higher dues." The fallacy of this argument has been proven by several divisions, since the 1919 Chicago convention. Divisions that have raised the dues have increased their membership in great numbers. Cheapness begets cheapness. Just so long as an organization remains in the piker class just that long will it function in a piker manner. This convention must not pass the time worn buck to the membership. The Eastern and Western broker divisions have demonstrated conclusively that an increase in dues means an increase in membership and stabilization of that membership.

The following tabulation should prove of interest. All of the organizations enumerated below receives more than five dollars per year as international per capita. It is suggested that this compilation be carefully perused.

Our minimum dues should not be lower than $12.00 per year; international per capita should not be less than $8.00 per member per year.

Broker Divisions

The broker divisions have made very good progress under the capable leadership of Presidents Dunn, E. B. D.; Davis and Alcorn, W. B. D.; Yetman, N. E. B. D., and Gorman and Lawson, Canadian Broker Division. I believe the statement may be made without fear of contradiction that the brokerage telegraphers today are in better condition from an organization standpoint than at any time in history. The Eastern Broker Division has steadily increased its membership during the past two years. The inauguration of paid secretaries in the E. B. D. and W. B. D. has worked wonders. Both organizations have assisted each other in all problems with which they have been confronted.

New England broker telegraphers petitioned the international and Eastern Broker Division for a separate charter early in October, 1920. The proposition was placed before President Dunn and members of the E. B. D. These broad thinking brothers voted unanimously to cede the New England states. A charter was issued in November. As a result of this action the New Englanders have worked like trojans to demonstrate that the E. B. D. made no mistake in relinquishing that territory.

To the W. B. D. goes the honor of negotiating the first brokerage house schedules since 1907. The initial agreement was signed in April of this year with E. Lowitz & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange and Chicago Board of Trade with headquarters in Chicago, being the direct result of the breaking of several verbal promises to employes of E. Lowitz & Company to remedy certain intolerable conditions. Finally the firm announced its intention to take away lunch reliefs and vacations. The men decided differently, and, in view of the fact that the firm had in the period of three months made and broken two verbal agreements, the telegraphers involved voted to cease work until such time as the management would agree in writing to accord them the sam treatment existing in other brokerage wire houses. This stand was approved by the international. A strike was authorized and called on April 6, every operator responding. The strike lasted just one week, the men returning to work with a written The document in full appeared in the April number of the Journal.

Another agreement with the stock exchange firm of E. F. Leland & Company was signed during the month of August, 1921. The circumstances surrounding the Leland agreement were very similar to those in the Lowitz controversy except that no strike was precipitated. Lunch reliefs taken away, abolition of vacations, reduction in wages, etc. Verbal promises made and broken.

It is a commendable fact that both of these brokerage firms after working under agreements with their telegraphers, have expressed themselves as highly satisfied with the amicable relations which have been brought about. raphers feel a keen sense of responsibility in living up to the letter of their con-The wire rooms of the firms of Lowitz and Leland are running like welloiled machines.

Bennett Strike

At the time of writing this report an authorized strike of telegraphers employed by the firm of James E. Bennett & Company, Chicago grain house, is in Because of the possibility that this convention may desire to take some action in the premises. I believe that all details leading up to and finally culminating in the strike of Bennett telegraphers should be placed before the General Assembly. The following communications reproduced in full contain this information:

Chicago, August 22, 1921.

James E. Bennett and Company, Chicago, Illinois:

Dear Sir:

Dear sir:

Telegraphers in the employ of James E. Bennett and Co. desire to call your attention to a series of discriminatory and unjust acts directed at them, dating from April 6th, and culminating in the discharge of Mr. L. D. Friedley, Chicago, and Mr. R. A. Richardson, Kansas City, on August 13th and 20th, respectively. An equitable adjustment in the premises is sought by your staff of telegraph operators who believe that two of their co-workers, having been summarily discharged without just cause by J. E. Bennett and Company, every man in your employ is subject to the same intolerable tactics which certainly are not conducive to good service to your firm, your clients, or to the peace of mind of your employes.

Engly in April of this way your Kansas City telegraphers where most active that Early in April of this year your Kansas City telegraphers were notified that retroactive to April 1st, their salaries would be reduced, in some instances the cut amounting to $17.00 per month. A protest was registered. Increased brokerage commissions in stocks, grain and cotton, doubled in some cases since the war; cost of living, constantly mounting rental costs, etc., were cited as in no way justifying a wage reduction to your meagerly paid telegraphers.

Your Kansas City chief operator held a wire conference with Mr. Sparkman, Chicago, immediately following the rescinding of the order to reduce wages. Either through inadvertance or design and (and we have reason to believe the latter to be the case) a portion of this wire conference was left remaining in the typewriter, being found the next morning. It follows:

Mr. Sparkman talking: "Well, I guess about the only thing to do is to still under you can unload and have something to back you up. I would not do anything until this (wage reduction!) blows over. Sit still and steady until you have a chance to unload (discharge present staff operators!). We have mostly young fellows up here. There is one leader, but he is not much for confidence. I don't feel afraid the way it stands now."

The inference in this wire talk is obvious. Leaving a portion of the document in the typewriter where your Kansas City chief operator knew it would be found by telegraphers the following morning is an illustration of the crude and unfair methods used by your officials to intimidate employes. The statement made by Mr. Sparkman to the Kansas City chief operator on April 6th, "sit still until you have a chance to unload," proves conclusively that the dismissals of Friedley and Richardson were contemplated months ago—the "chance to unload" coming with the period of market depression last week.

On or about April 10th your Kansas City telegraphers requested that you meet with them during your stay in that city. A conference was arranged at the Dixon Hotèl. Mr. Richardson, who had been elected by your Kansas City telegraphers to act as spokesman, said in substance:

"Mr. Bennett, our purpose in requesting this conference with you is to ask you whether or not you meant what you said when you rescinded the order to reduce wages, or whether it is merely temporarily rescinded and you intend to replace us when you find conditions more favorable?"

You made no direct reply to this question, but when preparing to leav, you said: "Well, if you boys have an idea that I am going to issue a sweeping order to discharge everybody in the office, you are wrong."

Your telegraphers do not now and at no time have they contested the right of J. E. Bennett and Company to employ whomsoever they may desire. But we do contend that the use of sabotage and tyranny as a code for dealing with employes is not within the bounds of American justice. Your colleagues in La Salle and Wall streets have never found it necessary to use such tactics. James E. Bennett and Company stands out alone as not only the lowest wage-paying brokerage firm in the country, but one that believes that slave driving and intimidation of employes is the best way to insure service to correspondents and clients.

Pollowing closely upon the notice of wage reduction, your Kansas City telegraphers were notified in writing that vacations had been ordered abolished unless substitutes were furnished and paid for by telegraphers themselves. The formal notice under date of May 27, 1921, follows:

"I have been instructed to advise relative to vacations, that any wishing to do so, may take two weeks' vacation, providing, however, an operator may be obtained who can satisfactorily substitute in your absence, at your own expense. (Signed) James B. Bennett and Company, by R. R. Smith."

Last summer you made it known that those of your Kansas City operators who had been in the service for one year would be given two weeks' vacation with pay. One man benefited under that ruling. Five were entitled to vacations this year and all were turned down under the order dated May 27th. Which is just one more example of usfair, discriminatory treatment accorded telegraphers in your employ. Can you name one other brokerage house who has denied their employes of one year's service a short period of recreation during the summer

Your Kansas City telegraphers protested and were totally ignored. Falling of adjustment of this grievance, the Western Broker Division, a mutual organization of broker telegraphers, of which your operators are members in good standing, was requested to take the matter before you with a view to conciliation.

On June 10th Mr. John Alcorn, President, Western Broker Division, asked for and was accorded a conference with you. You assured Mr. Alcorn that the Kansas City vacation problem would be cleared up. You also said that you would take up with you chief operator, Mr. Sparkman, other matters brought to your attention affecting the Chicago telegraphers. Your telegraphers waited patiently until the latter part of July for the promised action. Mr. Alcorn wrote you again, respectfully calling your attention to the fact that nothing had been done. This letter was not accorded the courtesy of a reply. Vacations, however, were started in Kasas City on August 1st.

Kasas City on August 1st.

On August 1sth, Mr. Friedley was discharged. He entered your employ in October, 1950. Six additional men have been employed in your Chicago office since that time. Requested for a reason for dismissal in preference to some six other men employed at later dates, Mr. Sparkman said: "I do not care to discuss that matter, as I have not been considered in some discussions in the past, and I do not see why I should discuss this. However, I do not wish you to take the matter as a personal issue between you and I. Your work has been all right, and you are a good man; there is no doubt about that, and if you wish to refer any future employer to this office, you can rest assured that I will tell them that your ability and work have been perfectly satisfactory. Further than that I cannot go."

Is comment necessary on this piece of work!

Mr. R. A. Richardson, one of the older Kansas City men in point of service, was discharged without notice on August 20. Apparently the only objection to retaining him in the service was the fact that Mr. Richardson's co-workers (as in the case of Friedley) chose Mr. Richardson to act as their spokesman.

Above are recorded but a few of the instances of unfair treatment accorded your telegraph operators. There are many other grievances which must be adjusted. The telegraph room is a very vital cog in the mechanism of every brokerage house. Best results cannot accrue unless loyalty and co-operation obtain. Your telegraphers are in no way accorded treatment such as prevails in other brokerage houses—your competitors. Conditions in James E. Bennett and Company's wire system have become intolerable.

To the end that an amicable settlement may be reached in the premises and that better relations may be established, your telegraphers have instructed the undersigned to endeavor to meet with you and use every effort to bring about such settlement as shall prove equitable and fair to employe and employer alike.

Should a satisfactory settlement not be forthcoming in the interim, your telegraphers, having exhausted every means to effect an honorable adjustment of their grievances, shall feel free to cease work at eight (8) oclock (Chicago time) Wednesday morning, August 24th.

Respectfully yours,

(Signed) JOHN B. ALCORN, President, Western Broker Division.

ALL BENNETT TELEGRAPHERS:

The attached copy of a document delivered to Mr. James E. Bennett today is self-explanatory, and is sent you for the purpose of giving you first-hand information.

The small percentage who are not members of the W.B.D. will at once recognize the fact that this controversy is not only one wherein the rights of Bennett telegraphers, as American citizens, is attacked, but one which shows conclusively the firm's inclination to slash the already meager wages paid.

Whether you are a member of this organization or not (95 per cent of Bennett telegraphers are), the stand that an overwhelming majority of their telegraphers have taken, in notifying Mr. Bennett that they will no longer stand for such unfair methods, is one which will, I am sure, receive the support of every telegrapher in the employ of J. E. Bennett and Company, especially when it is considered that your trages and rights are in jeopardy at any time this unfair firm believes the time opportune.

Information has reached me that a number of you (outside of Chicago) have already been reduced to pre-war wages. Do you think the cost of living justified it? Do you think your wages should fluctuate with the volume of business done, regardless of your ability and years of experience? Brokerage commissions were more than doubled in some cases during the war. And now, because there is a slight depression in business they would saddle the burden off on to you—the operator, the props on which wire houses stand.

Bennett telegraphers, having exhausted every means to settle this matter themselves, have asked their Union to try and adjust it. It is impossible to say at this time just what the outcome will be, but should it become enecessary to strike, you will be notified by telegraph. In case of strike, benefits will be paid to all.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN B. ALCORN, President, Western Broker Division.

We want it explicitly understood that this matter affects ONLY J. E. Bennett and Company telegraphers, and in no way, shape or manner are correspondent telegraphers to be involved. We want to impress upon you that, regardless of Union affiliation, you are to handle your firm's business with whatever talent J. E. Bennett and Company is able to secure.

We want to also assure you of our desire to co-operate with your firm in handling their business through channels in case Bennett is unable to maintain satisfactory service.

Please do not underestimate the extreme importance of not becoming involved in this controversy. We have no quarrel with Bennett correspondents; in fact, many of them are very good friends to our cause, and we want to co-operate with them. I also want to call your attention to Article XXIX, Sec. 5, of the Constitution, which provides that "Any member, or members, inciting a sirike or participating therein, except as previded in the laws of the Union, shall, upon conviction thereof, be expelled."

Sincerely yours,

JOHN B. ALCORN, President, Western Broker Division.

Mr. Bennett totally ignored the above communications. Accordingly the telegraphers stopped work at eight o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, August 24, and are still out. After the strike had been in progress for two weeks, the committee representing strikers was invited by a representative of the United States Department of Labor (Mr. Oscar Nelson) to meet with Mr. James E. Bennett. Several conferences were held. Telegraphers finally offered to return to work providing Mr. Bennett would agree to give Brothers Friedley and Richardson a fair hearing before an umpire to be agreed upon jointly by the committee representing employes and Mr. Bennett. Telegraphers expressed willingness to be bound by the decision of the umpire. This fair and square method of reaching an honorable basis for solution of the question did not appeal to the The proposition was turned down flat. autocratic Mr. Bennett.

The strikers, approximately forty in numbers, will continue the protest until such time as the firm of James E. Bennett & Company express willingness to accord telegraphers their constitutional rights as American citizens.

United Press, I. N. S. and Universal Service

The United Press, International News Service and Universal Service are grouped under one heading because during the years of 1920-1921 committees representing press telegraphers of the United States have acted practically as a unit in conducting schedule negotiations with the three press managements. practicability of this co-ordinated form of action has been demonstrated and no doubt the results are still fresh in the minds of delegates to this convention.

June, 1920 negotiations increased wages from a minimum of $32.00 to $40.00 for day operators; night minimum from $39.50 to $45.50. A maximum of $57.50 was established for Universal Service; $52.50 for United Press and I. N. S.

During May, 1921, committees still acting in unison, were able to fight off an attempted 20 per cent reduction in wages, abolition of vacations and striking out of practically all protective clauses that the committees had been able to obtain during the past fifteen years.

With the exception of an arbitration clause, press telegraphers of the United States will work another year under the same wage scales and conditions which prevailed in 1920.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the committeemen selected by press telegraphers to represent them during the past two years. Such high caliber men as Brothers Powers, Shea, Norton, Ingoldsby, Murchland, Seefred, Wise, Everett, Lewis, Faller and Cooley are bound to do good work.

Brother Schnur has worked out a plan which has been submitted to officers of the various press divisions having for its object the perpetuation of the ideas which have borne such bountiful fruit in the past. It is suggested that the press delegates go into Brother Schnur's proposition in detail during the time they are gathered together in Toronto.

Attempts of U. S. Wireless Secessionists to Obtain A. F. of L. Charter

An organization of wireless telegraphers in the United States, known as the "National United Radio Telegraphers' Association," and incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, has made repeated overtures to obtain for itself a charter from the American Federation of Labor. These endeavors date back to July, 1919, and have continued from time to time until very recently.

Every effort has been made to bring radio telegraphers of the United States into the legitimate trades union fold. So far, officials of this outlaw organization have refused to be influenced in the right direction. It is a well-established fact that the "U. R. T. A." was born of and sponsored by Western Union and Postal officials—a "company union."

It would be the heighth of cupidity and hypocrisy if the C. T. U. A., a bonafide labor organization, were to stand aside and permit a company inspired and controlled organization of radio telegraphers to obtain a charter from the American Federation of Labor.

Correspondence bearing upon this subject, better than anything else, will give the delegates to this convention a clear understanding of the situation.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5, 1919.

Mr. J. F. Campbell, Secretary-Treasurer,

The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, 689 Transportation Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Attached find a copy of a communication I received on the 4th instant from the United Radio Telegraphers Association, New York City. This is the Association in regard to which we communicated with you a short time ago and you wired under date of July 23 that the "Radio Telegraphers should affiliate with us. Our Executive Board opposed to Federation issuing separate charter." Immediately on receipt of your telegram I returned the fee to the above organization with the information contained in your telegram and under date of July 31 they immedately re-applied for charter.

I am sending this to you for your information with request for a further reply from you.

Yours fraternally, FRANK MORRISON,

Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

UNITED RADIO TELEGRAPHERS' ASSOCIATION, 44 Broad Street, New York City.

July 31, 1919.

Mr. Frank Morrison, Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

Washington, D. C.

Your letter received this morning. I wish to inform you that this organization will not be affiliated with the Commercial Telegraphers Union, further that the United Radio Telegraphers' Association never had any connection with this Commercial Telegraphers' Union. That we have nothing in common with the Commercial land telegraphers. That their grievances are not or could not be ours, nor our grievances theirs, and that we most emphatically wish to impress upon the American Federation of Labor officials that this organization is entirely independent and any claims to the contrary are false.

Without the assistance of any outsiders this organization today succeeded, without taking drastic measures, in obtaining an increase of wages and better living condition for the radio telegraphers at sea. We want it strictly understood that this Association is comprised entirely of radio men in the Mercantile Marine.

Therefore we once more take the liberty of enclosing five dollars as charter fee for our charter with the American Federation of Labor. This, our second endeavor to obtain a charter, we sincerely hope will meet with success.

Thanking you in advance for your courtesy I remain,

Very truly yours, (Signed) JAMES A. MOORE, Secretary-Treasurer.
